Will restore glory of bhagwa: Pragya

PNS ■ NEW DELHI/ BHOPAL

Sadhvi Pragya Thakur, who has been nominated by BJP against Congress' Digvijay Singh in Bhopal, here on Wednesday announced that she would work to restore the glory of 'bhagwa' and would expose those who framed her fraudulently in terror cases.

Thakur, who has received BJP membership a couple of hours before being nabbed as party candidate, said about charges in 2008 Malegaon blasts case that she had obtained a clean chit in the case. She stated that whatever conspiracy was hatched has failed and whatever remains would continue.

On being told Digvijay Singh's tweet in which the former has welcomed Thakur in the picturesque city, the BJP candidate said its good as both the candidates remain fighters in the electoral battle adding the dharma would win and adhama would lose.

Asked how strong she deems Singh, Thakur retorted saying the one who remains on the path of adhama is never strong as he possess no morality, no truth and no dharma. "He is no challenge for me."

She accepted whatever he (Singh) did for maligning the Hindutva and linking Bhagwa with terrorism would be an issue for her and she would restore the glory back to bhagwa.

"I will expose the manner in which he violated the constitutional provisions to frame me and also harass me unlawfully. I would expose the amount of respect he (Singh) has and how much respect the Congress party has for women."

Thakur also claimed she would also expose the manner she was harassed despite being a sanyasi.

I will work for making country safe and for restoring the glory of bhagwa, said Thakur warning those who speak against the interests of the country. Accepting that she has little experience in direct politics, Thakur said she hoped the 15 years of experience and works of Shivraj Singh Chouhan would help her. She also exuded confidence of a win.

The BJP accuses Digvijay Singh of using 'Hindu terror'

Digvijay Singh participates in a religious procession on the occasion of Mahavir Jayanti in Bhopal on Wednesday phrase repeatedly, an accusation Singh has refuted several times especially after returning to active politics last year.

Setting the stage for an epic battle in Bhopal, the BJP on Wednesday fielded Sadhvi Pragya Singh Thakur, facing trial in Malegaon blast case, in Lok Sabha elections, against Congress heavyweight and former Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Digvijay Singh.

Out on bail, Sadhvi joined the BJP only hours before the party announced her name as its candidate from Bhopal. This is being seen as a clear attempt by the BJP to bring the Hindutva plank at the centre stage of polls in the State, where the BJP had won 27 out of 29 seats in 2014 LS polls. "I will contest the election from Bhopal and win. Former Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan is with me," Sadhvi said after emerging out of the BJP office at Bhopal.

In a way, the face-off between Digvijay and Sadhvi will also be seen as a battle between the hardcore Hindutva represented by the likes of Sadhvi and equally dyed-in-the-wool "secularism" propagated by the likes of Digvijay.

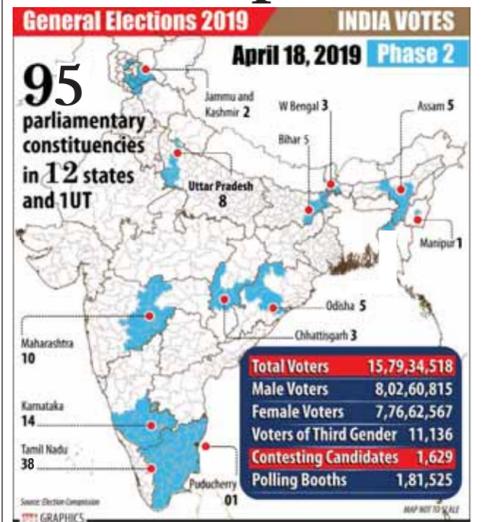

At a rally in Odisha, BJP president Amit Shah on Wednesday described Digvijay as the "creator" of "saffron terror" phrase.

The BJP has decided to take the matter to the people's court by fielding Sadhvi against Digvijay, he said, accusing the Congress of defaming India by coining terms like "Hindu terror" and "saffron terror".

Referring to the acquittal of several accused, including Swami Aseemanand, in Samjhauta Express blast case, Shah attacked the Congress and said people of Bhopal will punish Digvijay and Congress president Rahul Gandhi. A senior BJP leader said the party decided to field Sadhvi, who joined the party hours before her candidature was announced, against Digvijay as the latter has been one of the most visible "anti-Hindutva" faces of the Congress. Also being a high-profile seat as the Madhya Pradesh capital, it can help rally support for the BJP across the State and even outside, he added.

ADMK, BJP stakes high in 2nd phase

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The second phase of Lok Sabha polls for 95 seats will decide the fate of several stalwarts, including Union Ministers Jitendra Singh, Jugal Oram, Sadananda Gowda and Pon Radhakrishnan, former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda and DMK's Dayanidhi Maran, A Raja and Kanimozhi. Altogether 1,600-odd contestants are in the fray from 11 States and the Union Territory of Puducherry.

Thirty eight of the 39 Lok Sabha seats in Tamil Nadu will go to polls and bypolls will be held in 18 Assembly constituencies. The Election Commission cancelled the polling in Vellore Lok Sabha seat, which is currently represented by the AIADMK, following recovery of huge amount of cash allegedly from an associate of a DMK leader.

The EC also announced postponement of polling in Tripura (East) Lok Sabha seat to the third phase on April 23, saying the prevailing law and order situation there is not conducive for free and fair polls.

The stake is high for the AIADMK which had swept the polls in 2014 and has gone from one internal crisis to another after the death of its supreme leader J Jayalalithaa. The party has formed a strong alliance with PMK and DMDK to take on the might of DMK-Cong-Left alliance, which is expected to win at least two third of the 39 seats, as per various opinion polls.

50 killed as rain lashes Raj, MP, Guj

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As many as 50 people died and several others injured due to unseasonal rain, dust storm and lightning in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra and Gujarat. It has caused damage to property, wheat crops, mango, and potatoes and vegetables in north, central parts of the country.

It is estimated that properties and crops worth several hundred crores have been damaged. Several cattle were also killed in rain-related incidents.

According to the India Meteorological Department (IMD), unseasonal rain, thunderstorm, lightning and high speed wind were caused by active Western Disturbance (WD) over eastern Iran that is moving towards east-north-eastwards across Afghanistan, Pakistan and northwest India.

According to IMD, Uttarakhand, Punjab, Haryana, Chandigarh, Bihar, Gangetic West Bengal and Delhi-NCR on Wednesday witnessed squall (wind speed reaching 60-70 kilometres per hour) accompanied with hail and lightning.

The IMD has issued an amber-coloured warning for parts of Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Uttarakhand, Rajasthan, Haryana, Punjab and Bihar. An amber colour warning indicates that authorities have to remain alert for any weather-related exigency. The situation is expected to remain the same in the next two-three days in North-East and southern parts of the country.

As per IMD, Kerala, Telangana, Sikkim, Karnataka, Assam, Jharkhand, Meghalaya, West Bengal, Arunachal Pradesh and Puducherry may witness rain, thunderstorm with gusty wind on Thursday, while West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Nagaland, Manipur, Mizoram and Tripura, and Odisha are likely to get rain and thunderstorm on Friday.

Several parts of north and central India have been witnessing thunderstorms, dust storms, lightning and heavy rain since Sunday.

According to reports, Rajasthan witnessed the maximum casualties with 21 people killed in overnight rain-related incidents followed by Madhya Pradesh where 15 were killed. 10 people were killed in Gujarat, three were killed in Maharashtra.

Prime Minister Narendra

Modi took to twitter in the morning to express anguish over the loss of lives in the rain in Gujarat and announced relief. Soon afterwards Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Kamal Nath hit out at the Prime Minister, accusing him of being concerned only about his home State Gujarat.

The PMO in a tweet later said, "PM @narendramodi has expressed grief at loss of lives due to unseasonal rain and storms in MP, Rajasthan, Manipur & various parts of the country".

"An ex gratia of ₹2 lakh each for the next of kin of those who lost their lives due to unseasonal rain & storms in MP, Rajasthan, Manipur & various parts of the country has been approved from the PM's National Relief Fund. ₹50,000 each for the injured has also been approved," the PMO said.

Union Home Minister Rajnath Singh said the Government is closely monitoring the situation in rain-hit areas and is ready to provide all possible assistance to States affected by rain and thunderstorm. Officials of the Agriculture Ministry said the assessment of loss of crops is being carried out.

Joy of Flying grounded

In red, Jet Airways suspends all ops as banks refuse to grant bailout fund

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Teetering for over four months due to cash-drought, Jet Airways, flying for over 25 years, on Wednesday said its last flight will takeoff on Wednesday night, after its lenders refused to offer a ₹400-crore lifeline.

"With immediate effect, we are compelled to cancel all our international and domestic flights. The last flight will operate today," Jet Airways informed the exchanges.

The airline said the decision follows the lenders refusing to offer a lifeline. "Since no emergency funding from the lenders or any other source is forthcoming, the airline will not be able to pay for fuel or other critical services to keep the operations going... And has decided to go ahead with temporary suspension of operations," it said.

The last flight of the airline, left the Amritsar airport at 10.30pm for New Delhi.

After a board meeting on Tuesday, the management had authorised chief executive Vinay Dube to make one last appeal to the lenders for an emergency ₹400 crore funding, and if not the demand is not met, take a final call on the future of the airline on Wednesday.

On Tuesday night, Jet Airways — which carries the slogan "the joy of flying" — was informed by SBI, on behalf of the consortium of lenders, that they were unable to consider its request for critical interim funding, the airline said in the statement.

AAP rejects 'only Delhi' offer as Cong refuses to share Haryana

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

After a fresh round of discussion for the Congress-AAP alliance in Delhi and neighbouring States of Haryana and Punjab, the Aam Admi Party (AAP) on Wednesday said the Congress has refused to form an alliance in Haryana and thus the party does "not want a tie-up only in Delhi".

While AAP leader and Rajya Sabha member Sanjay Singh said alliance talks between the AAP and the Congress was called off following disagreement over tie-up in Haryana and Delhi, senior Congress leader Ghulam Nabi Azad, who was part of the discussion on Wednesday, presented a defensive statement and said as parliamentarians they keep meeting and declined to state anything about the meeting.

Alliance talks between AAP and Congress has been called off following disagreement over tie-up in Haryana and Delhi. The Congress has refused to form an alliance in Haryana, and we do not want a tie-up only in Delhi," said Sanjay Singh, who earlier held a meeting with Azad following the fresh rounds of expression by party chiefs — Rahul Gandhi of the Congress and Arvind Kejriwal of the AAP.

On his part, Azad said he was not aware of any alliances, particularly in Haryana of which he is also incharge. "Who is doing the alliance? As for Haryana there no such talks," said Azad.

When asked about AAP leader Sanjay Singh meeting him, Azad said as Member of Parliament we keep meeting each other so nothing new should be read about. Both Azad and Singh are members of the Rajya Sabha.

When specifically asked in the Press conference about the Congress-AAP alliance for Delhi Lok Sabha seats, Azad said he is not aware as he is not the AICC incharge of Delhi.

In very defensive answer about alliances, Azad said the Congress is always open to alliances as the party has done it in Bihar, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra and Jammu & Kashmir.

According to the sources, Singh proposed 6:3:1 seat sharing in Haryana in which 'Alliance talks between AAP and Congress has been called off following disagreement'

Congress would fight from six seats, while the Jannayak Janata Party (JJP) would field its candidates for three seats and one candidate would be fielded by the AAP.

Religious leaders should avoid politics: Archbishop

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Archbishop Leo Cornelio said that religious leaders should stay away from politics. He appealed to all the citizens of the country to exercise right to vote to strengthen the democracy. He was replying to a query during a press conference.

He wished the new Government to lead the country towards fear-free environment. The people and the Government should work together to abolish the corruption from grass root, he added.

Talking about today's younger generation, he said that today's youths are the future of tomorrow and addiction to drugs is a matter of concern. Today's youth need proper guidance to take the leadership to solve various issues faced by the country, he added.

Regarding fake news, he said that it is a source of concern as lies are made truth that systematically destroy the fabric of our country. He asked the media world to watch and stop the fake news spreading negativism in the country. While expressing views on the politics of the country, Archbishop said that politicians should exercise restraint in their speech. They should avoid commenting unnecessary remarks on religion and caste.

There have been some cases that have given rise to many controversies.

Besides, Archbishop expressed his concern on mob lynching and asked the people not to take laws into their hands but save the lives of people in order to protect the constitutional right of each individual. He also expressed his concern on road accidents, and crime

Heavy downpours, storm make life miserable in Gwalior

PNS ■ GWALIOR

Life was thrown into disarray as heavy rains, accompanied by strong winds, lashed the city on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The city has been almost paralysed for two days by heavy downpours, accompanied with winds, and trees falling at many places, damaging vehicles and other properties.

There are also reports of heavy damage to distribution cables and electric poles, causing great inconveniences to the citizens. The heavy rains and thunderstorms have also caused power outages in several areas.

The sudden and unforeseen rains that lashed the Gwalior-Chambal Division for the past two days have also brought doom to the farmers as reports of extensive damages to crops are pouring in from various parts of the Division. At many places, the standing wheat and mustard crop have been damaged with some reports saying the rainwater has flooded the storage areas.

There are also reports of damages to soyabean and corn crops. Taking a serious view of the situation in the rural areas, the Gwalior Collector has asked SDM Amit Bamrouloia, SDM Jayanti Singh and SDM Ashok Chauhan to immediately proceed to Ghatigaon, Bhitwarwar and Dabra to make on-the-spot assessment of the damages to crops in these areas.

The immediate effect of the heavy rains is felt in the vegetable and fruit markets of the city. Vegetable and fruit prices have gone up by almost 30 % due to short supply.

FIR AGAINST MCNUJC EX-VC, TEACHERS

Academicians write to Vice-President to interfere

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Opposing the FIR against teachers and former VC of Makhnalal Chaturvedi National University of Journalism, over 300 professors including more than 15 Vice-Chancellors and former Vice-Chancellors have written to the Vice-President urging to intervene in the matter.

In the letter, they said, "We, hereby, request the honorable Visitor of the University, the Vice President of India, to kindly immediately intervene in the matter and advice the Chairman, General Council of MCNUJC, to withdraw the FIR forthwith and stop harassment of the academicians."

They stated that they are surprised and shocked at the Chairman, Governing Council, Makhnalal Chaturvedi National University of Journalism and Communication, Bhopal, instructing the Registrar of the University to lodge an FIR against the former Vice Chancellor and twenty existing faculty members on various un-investigated and unproved charges.

Extreme steps, such as lodging an FIR against University teachers, can and must logically follow an adequate enquiry and a notice seeking explanation. Even after that, as good practice, a full fledged impartial enquiry must be held because the concerned people are University teachers and highly responsible citizen as such.

They added, "We are afraid that this hasty action of the Chairman, Governing Council, MCNUJC would be seen as smacking of political vendetta. Since the required procedures have not been followed, the action is clearly untenable and will necessarily lead to prolonged litigation to the detriment of the academicians of the University. This may mean nothing to the Government, but this will amount to extremely uncalled for harassment of the teachers and their families. We are also not sure that, given the context, any Enquiry Committee that has been or may be set up by the University to provide a post facto rationale of its action, shall be sufficiently unbiased or objective. This will further undermine the credibility of the University and the Government."

Therefore, we must submit that the FIR against teachers should be withdrawn immediately. While enquiring into the running of an institution is the privilege of the Government, it is equally incumbent on the Government to be fair and impartial to ensure justice is done to the teachers, they added.

Dance buffs enjoy essence of 'Belly dancing'

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

The dance lovers of the city are experiencing the essence of Belly dancing in a dance workshop. A 26-day long workshop is being conducted for the dance lovers of the city. The workshop is being organised at Naach Dance Studio.

The students are learning the basics of Belly dance. Belly dance form is innovative and enjoyable. Little things are explained through movements and expressions. The workshop is being organised by Naach Dance Studio, Bhopal.

At the workshop, the students are able to explore the exquisiteness of belly dance. The students are also exploring the different themes of belly, plays and other cultural items and are learning the actual concept of staging them. The artists are preparing with great emphasis on creative style of dance and music.

At the workshop the participants were about Belly dance form. It is to be noted that is an Arabic expressive dance which originated in Egypt and that emphasizes complex movements of the torso. It has evolved to take many different forms depending on the country and region, both in costume and dance style. Belly dance is primarily a torso-driven dance, with an emphasis on articulations of the hips.

Unlike many Western dance forms, the focus of the dance is on isolations of the torso muscles, rather than on movements of the limbs through space.

Although some of these isolations appear similar to the isolations used in jazz ballet, they are sometimes driven differently and have a different feeling or emphasis.

The participants are learning contemporary dance moves. Notably, a 26-day long belly workshop is being organized for the aspirants to learn the belly form properly.

The dance lovers of the city are enjoying the workshop as they are able to explore different style of dance.

CEO holds meet with parties' delegations

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

Chief Electoral Officer VL Kantha Rao held meeting with delegates of the recognised political parties in connection to the Lok Sabha Election-2019 in Ujjain on Wednesday. During the discussions, he informed them about the preparations of the election and also resolved their apprehensions. Rao informed that all the basic facilities like clean drinking water, sheds, ramps, toilets, election information related flex, help-desk, primary medical etc. are being made available at polling booths on the day of voting. Priority will be given to handicapped, elderly persons, pregnant and lactating women in voting.

Rao further informed that no political party/ candidate can put flag and write of any kind on the property without written permission of the property owner. He said that there is no prohibition to carry out works related to basic facilities to the common people like water, electricity etc. These works could be done by the district administration.

Rao mentioned that while going to the office of the Election officer for filing nomination in the form of procession causes inconvenience. For this procession is stopped at a distance of 100 meter from the nomination place according to the directives of the Election Commission. Only five people are allowed to reach the nomination place. Rao said that this provision will be followed strictly in the state.

Rao got his picture clicked at the selfie point made in the campus of Brahaspati Bahvan, Ujjain and administered oath for casting vote. He also put his signature on the signature board kept at the point.

It may be mentioned that voter awareness activities are being conducted constantly in the state to increase voting percentage during the Lok Sabha Election-2019. Selfie points have been made at various places, where voters take their selfies and oath to cast votes.

According to Rajasthan Relief Secretary Ashutosh AT Pednekar, 21 people died due to unseasonal rain. 4 deaths were reported in Jhalawar, Udaipur and Jaipur each, two each in Jalore and Bundi and one each in Baran, Rajsamand, Bhilwara, Alwar and Hanumangarh, Pednekar said. Compensation of Rs 4 lakh each has been announced to the families of victims. Rain claimed three lives each in Indore, Dhar and Shajapur, two in Ratlam and one each in Alirajpur, Rajgarh, Sehore and Chhindwara districts in Madhya Pradesh.

In Ahmedabad, Gujarat Government's director of relief G B Manglpara, told PTI that at least 10 people have died in the rain and dust storm reported from various areas including districts in North Gujarat and Saurashtra region.

Also, a portion of a tent erected for Prime Minister Modi's rally in Himmatnagar town of North Gujarat was also damaged in the dust storm, an official earlier said. Farmers of these States have suffered a lot due to unseasonal rain and thunderstorm and high wind speed that damaged their crops wheat, mango, potatoes and other vegetables.

"Due to thunderstorm and gusty wind, the mango crop which at this time of year is about 80 gm to 150 gm in size, have been dropped.

This will mean a loss of crop. Moreover, cloudy weather and unseasonal rain also increase the risk of the crop getting pest infested and diseased," said a farmer.

But the Congress proposed a 7:2:1 seat-sharing formula in which seven Congress candidates, two JJP candidates and one AAP candidate would contest the polls, the sources added.

A day earlier a meeting was also held at Kejriwal's residence during which senior AAP leaders Manish Sisodia, Gopal Rai, Sanjay Singh and Satyendra Kumar Jain were present.

Following the meeting, the party said it is ready to have further discussion with the Congress and had appointed a representative to take the matter forward. The AAP has appointed Singh to hold the alliance talks.

AAP sources said if the Congress wants alliance only in Delhi then it has to be in the 5:2 ratio and if an alliance is sealed for Delhi and Haryana then the ratio can be 4:3 in the national Capital and 6:3:1 in Haryana.

"Party president Rahul has made it pretty clear that an alliance can be formed just in Delhi in a ratio of 4:3," said a senior Congress leader of Delhi unit in response to a question on alliance.

"People have expressed their doubts to us over the AAP, despite that we have shown a big heart and for a common objective we have agreed to form an alliance in Delhi," the leader said.

Maoists kill poll official, torch vehicle

PTI ■ PHULBANI (ODISHA)

The Maoists struck on the eve of second phase election in Odisha, gunning down a woman poll official and setting ablaze two poll vehicles and a motorbike on way to booths on Wednesday, police said. Both the incidents occurred at separate places of Maoist affected Kandhamal district where the red rebels have asked the people to boycott the elections.

Following the incidents, the police have set up a Command Centre here for smooth conduct of voting on Thursday.

The ultras gunned down the officer when she was taking a team of poll personnel to a booth, police said.

Sector Officer Sanjukta Digal was shot dead when she got down from the vehicle to check a suspicious object lying on the road while passing through a jungle near Gochhapada police station limits, DGP BK Sharma told PTI. Other four polling personnel were in the vehicle and they were unhurt.

There were also reports of an explosion at the spot but the police are yet to confirm it.

under Kandhamal Lok Sabha seat where polling is scheduled to begin at 7 am on Thursday. "The Maoists fired and a bullet hit her on the head killing her on the spot," DGP B K Sharma said. A Police Command Centre has started operating at the district headquarter of Phulbani and a comprehensive plan has been put in place, he said. "Senior police officers have rushed to Kandhamal. They will operate from there to ensure an incident-free polling tomorrow. Additional armed force units have also been mobilised to Kandhamal," Sharma said. Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik expressed grief over the killing of the officer.

"Deeply anguished by the sad demise of polling supervisor Sanjukta Digal in Maoist attack in Kandhamal district of Odisha on her way to a polling station. Heartfelt condolences to the bereaved family and prayer for the departed soul," Patnaik tweeted. She was an officer of the state panchayat department.

In the other incident, the red rebels set ablaze two vehicles and a motorbike carrying election officials to a polling station in a village in remote Phiringia police station area.

Kandhamal district collector cum returning officer D Brunda said armed Maoists in uniform asked the officials to get down from the vehicles and the motorbike before they set those ablaze. Police said the officials are safe but all poll materials like EVMs were destroyed in the fire.

"Alternative arrangements are being made for smooth conduct of polling. But the polling officials are intensely terrified by the incidents and reluctant to perform their duties unless they are provided with adequate security," Brunda said.

Police suspect that the KKBN (Kalahandi-Kandhamal-Boudh-Nayagarh) division of the CPI(Maoist) was involved in both the incidents.

A few days ago, the Maoists have put up posters and banners in the district asking the people to boycott the polls.

Digvijay has been a bitter critic of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), the ideological guide of the BJP, and had allegedly linked it to the 2008 Mumbai terror attack carried out by Pakistani terrorists.

The BJP also decided to field KP Yadav from Guna, a seat held by senior Congress leader Jyotiraditya Scindia who is contesting from there. The BJP has named Raj Bahadur Singh and Ramakant Bhargava as its nominees from Sagar and Vidisha respectively.

External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj had won from Vidisha in 2014 but she is not fighting polls this time due to health reasons. Born in Bhand district of Madhya Pradesh, Sadvi has had a long association with the Sangh Parivar. A post-graduate in history, she worked with the RSS student wing Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad and Durga Vahini, women's wing of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad. Arrested in the 2008 Malegaon blast case, she was given a clean chit by the National Investigation Agency (NIA), but the trial court refused to discharge her from the case.

The court dropped the charges under the Maharashtra Control of Organised Crime Act (MCOCA) against her, and she is now being tried under the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act. She was granted bail by the Bombay High Court in 2017.

Six people were killed and over 100 injured when a bomb went off near a mosque in Malegaon in north Maharashtra, on September 29, 2008. According to the prosecution, it was the handiwork of a Hindu extremist group.

The BJP has been holding Bhopal Lok Sabha seat, where about 4.5 lakh of the 18 lakh voters are Muslim, since 1989. In the 2018 Assembly elections, the Congress won three out of the eight Assembly segments in the Bhopal Lok Sabha constituency, and in the remaining segments the BJP's victory margin decreased.

ADMK, BJP stakes high...

The presence of TTV Dinakaran's AAMK could hurt the AIADMK prospects on many seats as he is fighting for the legacy of Jayalalithaa. These Lok Sabha elections in Tamil Nadu are the first ever after the demise of Dravidian stalwarts J Jayalalithaa of AIADMK and M Karunanidhi of the DMK.

The fledgling Makkal Needhi Maiaam of actor-politician Kamal Hassan will make its debut in the polls.

The BJP had 27 of the 94 seats at stake in the second phase in the last Lok Sabha polls.

The Congress had won 12 of these seats in 2014, the Shiv Sena and the BJD 4 each, the JD(S) and the RJD two each and the AIUDF, the NCP, the JD(U), the PDP, the AINRC, the PMK, the CPI(M) and the TMC one seat each.

Besides Tamil Nadu, polling will also be held in 14 seats in Karnataka, 10 in Maharashtra, eight in Uttar Pradesh, five each in Assam, Bihar and Odisha, three each in Chhattisgarh and West Bengal, two in Jammu & Kashmir and one seat each in Manipur and Puducherry. Elections will also be held in 35 Assembly constituencies in Odisha.

Other prominent candidates in fray include Congress leaders Verappa Moily and Raj Babbar, National Conference president Farooq Abdullah and BJP's Hema Malini.

In Odisha, Chief Minister and BJD president Naveen Patnaik is contesting from his home turf Hinjili in Ganjam district and Bijepur in Bargarh. Among others, Union Tribal Affairs Minister Oram of the BJP, BJD's Rajya Sabha MPs Prasanna Acharya and Achyut Samant, BJP nominee and three-time MP Kharabela Swain are in the fray this time.

Even though security was heightened, Maoists gunned down a polling officer in Kandhamal district of Odisha on Wednesday when she was leading a team of poll personnel to a booth in Phulbani Assembly segment.

Gehlot in soup over comment on Prez

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Congress on Wednesday landed in a huge controversy after its senior leader and Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot made the President of India because of caste considerations.

While the BJP called the comment "anti-Dalit, anti-poor and anti-constitutional" and demanded an apology and strong action, Gehlot said it was unfortunate that his comments during a Press conference have been misquoted by a few media houses. Gehlot told reporters that ahead of the 2017 Assembly elections in Gujarat, the BJP was worried about its chances of forming the Government and the choice of Presidential candidate was made with votes in mind.

"People even say that Ram Nath Kovind was made President considering the Gujarat assembly elections in 2017. I was reading an article. He (Prime Minister Narendra Modi) was afraid that he was not going to form the government in Gujarat. BJP chief Amit Shah might have given him suggestion after which it was decided to make Ram Nath Kovind the President," Gehlot had said.

"(Lal Krishna) Advani was left out though he had to become the President. People of the country had expectation that he (Advani) will get the honour which he deserved but was deprived. Though it is BJP's internal issue, I am discussing it because I read an article," the Rajasthan chief minister added.

Besides demanding an apology from Gehlot, the BJP urged the Election Commission to take cognisance of the matter and take action against him. "It is very unfortunate that Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, a senior Congress leader who himself is on a constitutional post made casteist remark against the President, who is the custodian of the Constitution," BJP spokesperson GVL Narasimha Rao said.

"A very low attack by the Congress against the highest constitutional functionary in this country," the BJP said at a press conference held in Delhi within hours of Gehlot's self goal.

"Is the Congress against a person who comes from a poor background and belongs to the Dalit community? President Kovind is a highly accomplished individual. This is a condemnable statement. We expect apology and strong action," the BJP's GVL Narasimha Rao said. Rao said the remark showed "anti-Dalit" mindset of the Congress.

Seeking to damage control following an outrage, Gehlot said: "I have the greatest regards for the President of India, and personally for Ramnathji whom I have met in person and highly impressed with his simplicity and humbleness," Gehlot said in his clarification after the outrage.

The Chief Minister's Office said it was not Gehlot's personal opinion, he was quoting from an article he had read.

EC forms high-level committee to review biopic on PM Modi

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Following the directions of the Supreme Court, the Election Commission (EC) on Wednesday set up a high-level committee to review the biopic on Prime Minister Narendra Modi and furnish its recommendation by April 18. For its part, the BJP wrote a letter to the EC over a biopic allegedly being made on West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee and demanded the Commission to review the movie before its release in a similar way the biopic of Modi was reviewed.

"This is to draw your attention to the news in the media that a biopic allegedly of Mamata Banerjee will be released on May 3, 2019 [named Baghini]," the BJP said in the letter.

According to EC, senior Deputy Election Commissioner Umesh Sinha, Deputy Election Commissioners Sandeep Saxena and Chandra Bhushan Kumar, Senior Principal Secretary KF Wilfred, Director General Dharendra Ojha and Delhi Chief Electoral Officer Ranbir Singh will be the member of the committee which will review the Modi biopic. The EC has asked the producers of the film to arrange for a screening for a committee set up for the purpose.

The Supreme Court on Monday directed the Commission to watch the full biopic on Modi and take an informed decision on banning its pan India release by April 19. A bench headed by Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi also directed the poll panel to submit its decision to the court in a sealed cover and said it will consider the matter on April 22.

2019 Elections Battle ground LOK SABHA

The Modi biopic, starring Vivek Oberoi and directed by Omung Kumar, tells the story of PM Modi's rise to power from his humble beginnings. Acting on the complaints of political parties, including the Congress, the poll panel had asserted that any biopic material with the potential to disturb the level playing field should not be displayed in areas where Model Code of Conduct was in force.

On the other hand, the biopic on West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee "Baaghini" is being released on May 3. The EC has asked for a report from West Bengal Chief Electoral Officer over the biopic. "BJP requests the Election Commission of India and its representative in West Bengal the CEO to review the said biopic before release, on similar lines that was done by the EC in the case of another biopic depicting Narendra Modi," the letter read.

NaMo TV will have to follow silence period as per model code: EC

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Election Commission (EC) has made it clear that the NaMo TV will have to comply with the 48-hour 'election silence period' ahead of every phase of voting. "Live coverage

Section 126 of the Representation of the People Act "prohibits" display of any "election matter" by means of "cinematograph, television or other similar apparatus", 48 hours before the hour fixed for conclusion of poll in a particular constituency.

This phase is called the 'silence period' as it allows a voter to make up his or her mind on whom to vote without being influenced by political campaigning. Section 126 is not applicable on the print media.

The direction, sources said, was issued to bring clarity on the applicability of 'silence period' on NaMo TV.

On Thursday last week, the EC had concluded that since NaMo TV is sponsored by the BJP, all recorded programmes displayed on the platform should be pre-certified by media certification and monitoring committee of Delhi and all political publicity contents being displayed without pre-certification should be removed immediately.

After the Congress filed a complaint with the poll panel about the channel disturbing the level playing field, the EC had asked the Delhi CEO to file a report on the issue.

Earlier, the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting told the poll panel that it was an advertising platform that did not require a license from the ministry. The Delhi CEO had approved the logo of NaMo TV, which the BJP said is part of the NaMo App that it owns, but did not "certify" the content as it contained the old speeches of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Bhim Army chief's U-turn, says will support gathbandhan

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Having asserted to contest against Prime Minister Narendra Modi from Varanasi, Bhim Army chief Chandrashekhar Azad on Wednesday made a U turn saying his outfit will support the SP-BSP alliance so that the Dalit votes remain intact to defeat the BJP.

Chandrashekhar's remarks come a few days after Bahujan Samaj Party chief Mayawati termed him a BJP agent and accused him of dividing Dalit votes.

The Dalit group's founder also said the Bhim Army will support the SP-BSP alliance if it fields Satish Chandra Mishra, Mayawati's general secretary and Brahmin face of the BSP, from the Varanasi seat.

Earlier, the Bhim Army chief had accused Mishra of misleading Mayawati and conspiring against the Dalit group. "I have decided not to contest from Varanasi because I do not want that my decision should strengthen the BJP or Modi in anyway. We all want to defeat the BJP," he said.

On Mayawati's criticism of him, he said, "Our own people are calling us agents of the BJP, but I still want her to become prime minister."

At an event to mark BR Ambedkar Jayanti in Madhya

on April 14, he had said that the Bhim Army and not Mayawati was the "real well-wisher" of Dalits.

Chandrashekhar said that if the SP-BSP alliance fielded Mishra from Varanasi, they will also be able to get some upper caste votes.

He had earlier attacked Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav "for giving promotion to officers who inflicted atrocities on dalits".

"His (Akhilesh) father says in Parliament that he wants Modi to become prime minister again. They are agents of the BJP, not me. They call me an agent for questioning them. Yes, I am an agent of B R Ambedkar... If my own people were not in my way, I would have shown you (Akhilesh) that if we can vote you down too," he had said.

Cong: Modi Govt protecting those involved in DeMo scam

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Congress on Wednesday accused the Modi Government of "protecting" those involved in illegal exchange of money post-demonetisation by not ordering a probe into video tapes released by the party even as it put forth another set of clips showing people involved in the "loot" claiming proximity to the powers-that-be.

Simultaneously, the party also accused the Centre of targeting opposition leaders by using agencies like the Income Tax department and Enforcement Directorate. It said the people of India will give a befitting reply to the BJP in these elections.

Senior party leader Kapil Sibal asked why the "chowkidar" (the watchman) was "asleep" when all this happened. He alleged the absence of any investigation into the videos given as "proof" indicated that "those involved in this loot are being protected". Prime Minister often refers to himself as "chowkidar" (the watchman) emphasising his tough stand on corruption.

"It now appears that the decision to demonetise may have helped criminals to monetise by looting the treasury and the poor," Sibal claimed. Those who have collaborated with corruption cannot pretend to be clean, he told a press conference, where he played the fresh videos purportedly showing how huge amount of money was exchanged in connivance with bank officials and some others close to the people in power.

He, however, did not authenticate the videos and there was no immediate comment available from the BJP or the government. The party released similar videos on March 26 and April 9.

Sibal alleged that in the April 9 "expose", the party had indicated the alleged involvement of one Rahul Ratharekar, a field assistant, and sought to prove his identity through his identity card, which was seen in the videos released that day.

He claimed that soon after the videos were released on April 9, the Cabinet Secretariat issued a statement claiming that "Rahul Ratharekar had been a Constable level employee of the Cabinet Secretariat but was dismissed in June, 2017 (after 5 years of service) on suspicion of his role in exchange of old currency notes, postdemonetisation".

"This statement clearly demonstrates that the expose made on the scam, as reflected in the videos shown on March 26, 2019 and April 9, 2019, is genuine and the events seen in the video reflect the manner in which these exchanges took place. "The involvement of government functionaries, bankers and state authorities clearly demonstrate a conspiracy to loot the treasury in a manner never seen before," he alleged.

When asked about the IT and ED raids, Sibal claimed that BJP is "flooded" with money and yet authorities are targeting the Opposition which is facing a cash "drought". "We all know that if any party is flooded with money, it is the BJP. The opposition is going through a drought period. And who is being targeted, those who are suffering from drought and those who are flooded are not being targeted. That's the beauty of Indian democracy and this government," Sibal said.

Election officials had Tuesday held searches at the residence of DMK leader Kanimozhi in Tuticorin in south Tamil Nadu from where she is contesting. Congress chief spokesperson Randeep Surjewala alleged that motivated I-T raids is the only tool left with Prime Minister Narendra Modi, and said the people can see through this.

LS elections: 41K para forces will be deployed in Bengal

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

A contingent of 41 battalions (41,000 personnel) of Central paramilitary forces will be deployed in West Bengal for the conduct of the Parliamentary polls in West Bengal for the remaining 40 seats in six phases.

The polls for two seats were held in the first phase on April 11. For three seats, it will be held on Thursday in the second phase. The significant deployment comes in the backdrop of reports of violence in the past elections, officials said, adding the number of the forces is the maximum to have been deployed in the State.

The State has a total of 42 Parliamentary constituencies and elections are being held in a staggered manner in seven phases.

Elections to two constituencies was held in phase one on April 11 with 8,400 paramilitary men on the ground for conduct of the polls in Coochbehar and Alipurduar, while three seats will go to polls on Thursday in the second phase. The state will have seven-phased polls with the elections ending on May 19.

For polls in three seats of Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling and Raiganj on Thursday, as many as 19,400 personnel are deployed for the conduct of free and fair polls.

The idea behind significant deployment of Central forces is 85 to 90 per cent of the polling booths in the State are covered by the paramilitary forces to check any incident of voter intimidation, booth attack or looting of EVMs as was witnessed the panchayat polls held in the State last year and the Assembly polls in 2016.

In view of the past trends, a number of polling booths have been declared sensitive from the standpoint of possible violence and suspicion of distribution of poll inducements, officials said.

About 2.7 lakh Central paramilitary forces are being mobilized for the conduct of Lok Sabha polls that began on April 11 and will end on May 19. The counting of votes is scheduled for May 23.

Congress leader Chaturvedi miffed over reinstating 'lumpens' in party

New Delhi: A day before the second phase of elections, Congress faced an embarrassment from within as a senior spokesperson took to social media to criticise the party leadership. Congress national spokesperson Priyanka Chaturvedi on Wednesday expressed her displeasure after her party decided to reinstate eight leaders who had allegedly "threatened" her at a press conference in Mathura recently.

"Deeply saddened that lumpen goons get preference in the party over those who have given their sweat and blood," Chaturvedi said while retweeting the Uttar Pradesh Congress Committee letter suspending action against the accused. The leaders, who reportedly made a ruckus out of the press briefing, were reinstated by Congress General Secretary incharge of Western UP Jyotiraditya Scindia on the grounds of apology tendered. "Having faced brickbats and abuse across board for the party but yet those who threatened me within the party getting away with not even a rap on their knuckles is unfortunate," she said.

The UPCC letter, mentioned Chaturvedi's complaint about "undignified behaviour" by eight leaders at press conference regarding Rafale deal. In the letter, the eight leaders were told not to do anything in the near future that will tarnish the party's image.

Twitter takes down Yogi's controversial tweet on EC's request

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Two tweets by Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath with communal overtones have been taken down by Twitter following a directive from the Election Commission. The tweets posted on April 5 had referred to the Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) as a "green virus".

The IUML had moved the commission against the tweets and had urged it to block Adityanath's twitter account.

"The tweets have been removed from the timeline of the Twitter account of the UP CM," an official said.

A message in place of the tweets reads, "This Tweet from @myogiadityanath has been withheld in India in response to a legal demand."

The development comes after the EC Monday imposed a 72-hour campaigning ban on the chief minister for making communal remarks at a recent election meeting in Meerut.

The ban came into force from Tuesday morning.

"If the Congress, the SP and the BSP have faith in Ali, then we too have faith in Bajrang Bali," Adityanath had said at the rally, attracting the ire of the EC.

He had also been making the "green virus" remark at election rallies across Uttar Pradesh.

Social networking platforms Twitter, WhatsApp and Facebook had removed more than 500 posts, advertisements, accounts and other objectionable content found to be violating the model code of conduct (MCC), following directions from the EC, between April 10 and 11.

"Facebook - 468 posts were reported and removed. The posts included violations of MCC and voter misinformation. One post from Karnataka, two posts from Assam and the remaining from Telangana. 32 ads active in Telangana were removed," the EC had said on April 11.

Experts brainstorm outcome of Sea Vigil exercise

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

All the stakeholders in maritime security including the Indian Navy and several other agencies conducted a brainstorming exercise over the outcome of the 'Sea Vigil' exercise — the first-of-its-kind multi-agency drill covering the entire 7,516 km-long Indian coastline and Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ).

The debriefing was held on Tuesday after the Sea Vigil drill was conducted on January 22 and 23 in which 13 coastal States and Union Territories along with all maritime agencies participated to check the efficacy of maritime security and surveillance in the seas.

Nearly 150 ships, 40 aircraft and a number of other strategic assets of the Navy and Coast Guard were part of the exercise which, according to the Navy, was "unprecedented" in its scale and size. Navy officials said here on Wednesday the debriefing on the exercise was held on Tuesday during which significant results achieved in the course of the two-day drill were deliberated upon.

The debriefing was chaired by Deputy Chief of the Naval Staff Vice Admiral Murlidhar Sadashiv Pawar, and was attended by top functionaries of the Navy, Indian Coast Guard and concerned union ministries, agencies and representatives of the coastal states.

"He complimented the strong inter-agency coordination and interoperability achieved during the exercise and reiterated the need for flexibility and agility to deal with security challenges," Navy Spokesperson Captain DK Sharma said here.

Ex-Kolkata CP: I was targeted by CBI in chit fund scam

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Former Kolkata Police Commissioner Rajeev Kumar alleged in the Supreme Court that he was targeted by CBI in the Saradha Chit fund case due to "mala fide intent" and "conflict of interest" of former interim CBI director M Nageshwara Rao as his family members were under the scanner post-demonetisation.

Kumar alleged that post demonetisation in November 2016, investigation was initiated into some shell companies that prima facie were involved in receiving huge deposits and a FIR was registered.

During the probe of shell companies, role of one firm Agela Mercantiles Pvt Ltd came under the scanner for collecting money from public unauthorisedly, he said, alleging that during further investigation of the case names of wife and daughter of Rao have come to light and the matter is being further probed. "The mala fide intent of the petitioner/CBI herein especially in light of the fact that February 3, 2019, a Sunday, was the last day in office of the interim CBI Director, is writ large on account of the conflict of interest, in the instant matter," Kumar said in his 89-page affidavit.

It said that after the demonetisation, on receipt of information, the West Bengal Police initiated investigation into some shell companies that prima facie appeared to be actively involved in a scam, wherein these companies were receiving huge sums of deposits.

"Taking due cognizance, a FIR was registered in this regard, being Bowbazar...Dated January 27, 2017. That, during the investigation into the said case, role of one company, namely Agela Mercantiles Pvt Ltd (AMPL) came under the scanner in connection with various dubious transactions and also for collecting money deposits from the public unauthorisedly," it said.

Women's right to pray

SC admits plea on allowing women inside all mosques, citing its Sabarimala ruling on gender parity at faith shrines

All religions are free of gender bias except that rituals and customs associated with their practice have been set by patriarchal orders that have now acquired the solidity of established tradition. And much as shrine trusts try to legitimise the male monopoly as ordained by divinity, fact is seclusionist practices, probably necessitated by their context in the historical timeline, need to change as dynamism is at the core of all religions. For if god created woman to equalise Creation itself, there's no reason why she should be denied the right to worship and pray. Of course, it is tricky business, especially when it comes to jurisprudence on cultural practices related to religion. This is one of the reasons why the Supreme Court used the precedent of its ruling on Sabarimala to hear a plea seeking the unhindered access of Muslim women to all mosques across the country. The petitioners argued that the Quran "does not differentiate between man and woman. It speaks only about the faithful. But Islam has become a religion in which women are being oppressed." When it comes to Islam, its own theologians insist that the Prophet believed in the equality of women and allowed them in mosques. Both genders have the equal right to offer prayers at the Kaabah in Mecca. At the time of the Prophet Mohammed, Muslim women participated in wars, worked as nurses and doctors, owned and operated businesses and were actively involved in public religious life, according to Muslim women's rights activist Naish Hasan. Yet it is the Muslim leadership's misogynist interpretations of the Quran and Hadith that have a hegemonic hold on authenticity. Any confinement in later years may have been necessitated to protect women from abuse of war and crusades but has now been conveniently codified by radical sects and self-proclaimed groups to stifle reform detrimental to their interests. But women are a valid constituency in the socio-political matrix of our times and are now claiming their religious rights in the public space. So though the apex court argued that a mosque is a non-State entity and the fundamental right to equality could, therefore, be invoked against the State, not against individuals, the petitioners argued mosques do get substantial grants from States. By that logic they are subject to the jurisdictions of courts as they are maintained with public money. And worshippers are as much entitled to personal and religious freedoms as enshrined in the Constitution for citizens. At present, women are allowed to offer prayers at mosques under the Jamaat-e-Islami and Mujahid denominations but are barred from others.

Though the top court took up the public interest plea against the backdrop of Sabarimala, fact is that the Bombay High Court had ruled much earlier in favour of women that let them enter the mosque at Haji Ali. This happened after sustained campaigns. Sadly, the real purpose of these rulings, to ensure that divinity is gender-neutral and equally accessible, has got lost in the sea of rampant politicking and votebank politics. Be it the shrines of Shani Shingnapur, Sabarimala or Haji Ali, women have always had to negotiate their divine right through the legal route. And such battles will end up messy till we effect a mindset change, one where we see the man-woman balance or the prakriti-purush narrative as part of a universal natural order than as part of the limited human domain. The Supreme Court knows this best when it allowed women of all ages to enter the shrine of the celibate Lord Ayappa. A clutch of women devotees and the powerful Nair community claimed that Kerala has one of the highest development indices for women and those of reproductive age stay away to honour the "eternal celibate" status of Lord Ayappa and his asceticism. Though they may have no rationale to explain why their god should not be universal and be selective instead, fact is this cultural marker is now a rallying point, strong enough to gather political traction. What then is most important? A gender-neutral and informed approach to scholarship of texts as well as unity of all affected women's groups, be it Hindu, Muslim or others, to challenge the obnoxious.

The cuckoo clock

Banning Tik Tok won't stop the spread of pornography, frankly nothing may

When the first camera-enabled phones came out, the Nokia 7650 in fact, a senior journalist mentioned that we have opened a Pandora's Box by giving easy access to photography and videography devices in the hands of everyone. Without the slight control of a film processing shop, the world changed. Today mobile phones sell on the basis of how good and powerful their selfie cameras are. And smartphone cameras have changed the way we communicate with each other and even consume media. Many media houses are talking about a pivot to 'Mo-Jo' meaning mobile journalism.

But like with any technology, the ability to misuse also arose very quickly. A famous video of a Delhi schoolgirl involved in a sex act made headlines across the country back in 2002, and that was just the start of the garbage heap. The advent of the hand-held computers that we call smartphones today made matters worse. Because while they enabled the rise of applications that allow people to share anything and everything, people literally shared anything and everything. In the Philippines and to an extent across South Asia, young girls and boys are exploited and made to perform using such apps, which keep the identities of the abusers completely secret. It is alleged that the Tik Tok application was one of those apps that allowed sexual exploitation to take place very openly and instances have emerged of young women and clearly underage girls performing using this application. But banning this is not the solution, many other messaging and sharing applications have similar privacy issues and short of banning smartphones, nobody can really control such content from spreading. So stopping Tik Tok is like lighting a coil to prevent mosquito bites, it might temporarily solve the problem but is not a long-term solution. Once the Pandora's Box had been opened, it could not be shut again, and this is the same here. What we can do is better educate young children to raise their voices if they are being abused. And also have far better vigil of the digital environment. Policing is inadequate in the physical world but that is no excuse to not be better prepared online. Banning is not the only solution.

The Easter question

Determining Easter's placement has been a subject of major controversy in the past. Ironically, it was this row that triggered the reform of the Julian calendar in 1582

PRIYADARSHI DUTTA

This time, Easter has tested the patience of its believers, almost to the limit. It usually happens exactly one month after the Spring Equinox. The festival shifts irregularly in the compass of 35 days, ranging from March 22 to April 25. But this shift is not akin to that of a Hindu festival, say Holi or Ram Navami. All Hindu festivals follow a pendulum-like trajectory while shifting as per the lunar tithi year-on-year.

The Easter is reckoned according to three factors — Spring Equinox (March 21), full moon and day of the week (Sunday). It is the principal movable feast in the Christian liturgical calendar. Notwithstanding its irregularity, future Easter dates could be predicted hundreds of years in advance, algorithmically. However, determining its placement has been subject to major controversy in the past. Ironically, it was this controversy that triggered the reform of the Julian calendar in 1582 by Pope Gregory XIII.

Easter celebrates the supernatural Resurrection of Jesus Christ after his mortal death on the Cross. While the Resurrection is in the domain of belief, his death may be a historical event. There must have been a date for it as per the Julian solar calendar, applicable throughout the Roman world then. The Romans were the masters of Israel-Judea during the lifetime of Christ. Though Jesus was crucified according to the orders of a Roman Governor viz, Pontius Pilate, the date of his crucifixion was either not recorded as per the Julian calendar or at any rate not available to us. In fact, it was never available to the Church, which led to a lot of kite-flying.

But evidence in the Gospel shows that Jesus was crucified around the Passover feast of the Jews. The Jews celebrate the Passover feast — in remembrance of their deliverance from Egyptian captivity by Moses — on the 14th day of the month of Nisan of the Hebrew calendar. Each month of the Hebrew calendar begins on the morrow of the new moon (which is actually no-moon or amavasya), the 14th day would be full moon. On that day, every Jewish family eats the ritually slaughtered and roasted Passover lamb. Jesus had occasionally likened himself to a lamb in the Gospel. His martyrdom coinciding with the Passover feast carries a religious analogy. His last supper is believed to be the Passover feast meal.

The Jewish calendar is lunisolar, which means an intercalary month is added (as in the case of Vikram Samvat in India) to keep it abreast of seasons. The Nisan is a spring month. But in ancient times, intercalation was not done through any algorithm but by an arbitrary decision taken by the Jewish grand assembly viz, Sanhedrin, based in Jerusalem. Sanhedrin was in existence till the destruction of ancient Israel in 70 AD. Thus, a day cannot be transposed from the old Jewish calendar to Julian Calendar with reliability.

One good way of determining Easter for the Church was to consult the Hebrew calendar itself. This was exactly what the early Eastern churches, which were in closer communication with the Jews, did. Thus, they celebrated the Easter feast on full moon on the month of Nisan, regardless of other factors. But for the Western churches, headquartered in Rome, the day of the week was equally important. The concept of the week, as a grid of seven days, was incorporated into the Julian calendar by the Church. The week is astronomically an arbitrary concept and ancient Romans were ignorant of it. The Roman Church emphasised the fact that Jesus rose from the dead on a Sunday, which is celebrated every week in the form of a Sunday mass. Thus, Easter must be held on no other day except Sunday. Since the Gospel says he rose from the day on the third day he was crucified, Friday became his day of crucifixion. This is called "Good Friday".

During the first century AD, the churches in the East and the West mutually tolerated, celebrating Easter on different days. But towards the end of the century, there was a heated exchange among correspondences on the subject between Polycrates, the bishop of Ephesus and Victory, the bishop of Rome (equivalent to Pope). Victor sternly severed the whole Eastern Church from being in communion with the

“ONE GOOD WAY OF DETERMINING THE EASTER FOR THE CHURCH WAS TO CONSULT THE HEBREW CALENDAR ITSELF. THIS WAS EXACTLY WHAT THE EARLY EASTERN CHURCHES, WHICH WERE IN CLOSER COMMUNICATION WITH THE JEWS, DID. THUS, THEY CELEBRATED THE EASTER FEAST ON FULL MOON ON THE MONTH OF NISAN, REGARDLESS OF OTHER FACTORS”

Roman Church. This was indeed the beginning of a split in the Church into Western and Eastern domains, which was completed a thousand years later in 1054 AD. The Ecumenical Council of Nicaea in 325 AD ruled that Easter should be celebrated on Sunday, following the full moon, following the Equinox.

If the full moon happens to coincide with the Equinox as it happened this year or previously in 1981, one will have to wait for the ensuing full moon to apply the formula. But if the full moon occurred even a day later (provided it is not as late in the week as of Saturday) the Easter could be marked on that very Sunday. But in the latter case, the full moon should occur latest by Friday. This because Good Friday has to precede the Easter.

The Equinoxes and Solstices together form the four pillars of the tropical calendar inaugurated by Julius Caesar in 44 BC. These astronomical phenomena were known to the ancient Greek astronomers long before. But Caesar made it an integral part of the Western calendar, though it was not necessary that the year or month should begin from those points. In innovating quadruple leap year, Caesar had assumed the length of a tropical year to be 365 days and six hours; whereas in reality, it was 11 minutes shorter (365 days five hours 48 minutes and 46 seconds). The surplus 11¼ minutes remaining unadjusted led to the Julian year overshooting the natural year by three days in the course of four centuries. Thus, by the time of the Nicaean Council in 325 AD, the Spring Equinox had shifted from original March 24 to March 21.

But in the absence of a corrective mechanism, the Equinox shifted to March 11 over the next 12 centuries. The Church might not have bothered itself with Equinox but for determining the Easter. How Equinoxes and Solstices had shifted over age is pithily described in a letter written by French theologian and astronomer Cardinal Pierre d'Ailly (1350-1425) to Pope (now regarded as Anti-Pope) John XXIII Baldassare Cossa in 1411.

Pierre d'Ailly's ambitious plan to reform the Julian calendar could not be taken up at the Ecumenical Council at Rome in 1412 nor at the Council of Constance in 1414-18. But it created a tempo which culminated in the Gregorian reform of the calendar in 1582. By cancelling 10 days from the calendar in 1582, the Spring Equinox was restored to March 21 as in days in Nicaean Council in 325 AD. Pope Gregory XIII wanted a fixed date for Easter, like Christmas, a demand that continued to be echoed till the 20th century by various stalwarts. This, however, has not come about.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Find the truth

Sir — The Supreme Court has been just in allowing the use of the three leaked "classified" documents as evidence in the Rafale review case, dismissing the Government's objections. The monumental efforts put forth by Yashwant Sinha, Arun Shourie, Prashant Bhusan and N Ram to expose the murky Rafale deal deserve accolades.

One hopes that the Supreme Court will soon bring the case to its logical end after the recently procured evidence, shedding light on the wilful defaults in the surreptitious deal, is examined. Culprits must be brought to book.

EC must be uniform, not impose selective curbs

This refers to the editorial, "EC's test of faith" (April 17). Thankfully, the Election Commission (EC) "woke up to its powers", to borrow the Supreme Court's phrase. Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath had called the Indian Army "Modi's sena", referred to Muslims as a "green virus" and bragged "If they have Ali, we have Bajrangbali". Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) chief Mayawati had appealed to the Muslims to vote for the SP-BSP alliance and not allow the Congress to split their votes. Samajwadi Party leader Azam Khan had referred to "khaki underwear" to emphasise Jaya Prada's allegiance to the RSS. And Maneka Gandhi had threatened the Muslims to either vote for her or risk losing their rights to benefits.

While the EC acted against all the above mentioned leaders for their remarks, it found nothing wrong with Prime Minister Narendra Modi's "majority, minority" comment in context of Rahul Gandhi contesting from Wayanad and his "impassioned plea" to first-time voters to vote for the Pulwama martyrs. As a constitutional body entrusted with the task of conducting free and fair polls, the EC must outgrow its awe of the Prime Minister and stop its selective and differential treatment of leaders. It must consider all leaders impartially and without bias.

Constitution and reprimanded it severely for failing to discharge its duties.

Some leaders have regularly been violating the model code of conduct and were also on a spree of spitting hate speeches. Sadly, the EC failed to act and remained a mute spectator to such incidents. Now, the Supreme Court has done well to strengthen the EC to ensure just and fair election.

The general election in our country is touted to be the largest democratic process in the world and every citizen must feel proud that he/she is somebody who has played a role in deciding who should head the new Government at the Centre. In this process, the EC is the custodian to oversee that "just and fair election" takes place. The country does not need a semblance of just and fair election, but a real "just and fair" election in every sense must take place and a real Government out of the will of the people must come to take the country forward. In this regard, the role of the EC is greater than what it playing now.

Complimenting EC

Sir — This refers to the editorial, "EC's test of faith" (April 17). It is shameful that the Supreme Court had to step in to remind the Election Commission (EC) about its constitutional powers. But it is encouraging that after being pulled up by the top court, the EC did take action against four errant political leaders who had made some shocking and divisive statements. The EC may be a toothless tiger but it deserves credit for having taken swift action against these leaders.

In Dante's footsteps

A new book chronicles a hi-tech Hell, which is very different from what one finds in the sacred texts, and echoes our times

HIRANMAY KARLEKAR

Charles Patterson's recently published novel, In Dante's Footsteps: My Journey to Hell: A Modern Divine Comedy, unfolds at two levels. At one, it is a set of intertwined narratives about the life of a young man, Thomas Aaron Reed III, who becomes a priest, leaves priesthood, journeys to Hell and returns. At another, it is an exploration of human conduct, values, emotions and aspects of morality.

The narratives unfold, smoothly and elegantly, around several themes. One of them is Thomas's relationship with his parents and another with Father Edward Tyler, who taught him Latin in school and accounted for his deep and abiding interest in Dante Alighieri's The Divine Comedy, became his adviser and conveyed to him the invitation to travel to Hell under a newly-launched visitor's programme. The third is his reluctant entry into priesthood in deference to the expectations of his family; his father was a clergyman, his maternal grandfather a Bishop and paternal grandfather the dean of a theological seminary. An account of his life as a parish priest in north Connecticut and his departure from there on leave of absence to study theology in New York follows. Next comes the narrative about his life in the Big Apple, renunciation of priesthood and return to lay life as the writer of publicity material for an insurance company. Intermittently throughout, there are references to his relationship with Beatrice, his college girlfriend, who goes off his life and marries someone else, but is re-united with him on his return from Hell.

The most striking subject, of course, is his visit to Hell and back. Thomas does not get to see the "pure" Hell, the terrible place where doers of evil spend their days in suffering, and which is covered in thick mist. His tour is confined to what is called the administrative area, the tech room and the purgatories. There are besides visits to his father, conversations with Edward, meetings with God, referred to as the "Chief" by the spirits administering Hell and Satan, and his trial by the Crusaders, a bigoted lot to whom almost everybody else is a heretic, and escape therefrom.

Thomas's description of the parts of Hell he sees is very different from what one finds in the sacred texts of various religions, myths and epics. It is a happening place. A conference of tall eminences from all ages — from Socrates to Karl Marx — was going on during Thomas's visit. It is computer-age Hell. The Tech Room, the hub for communications within Hell and without, has an array of computers and electronic surveillance and communication equipment, and every visitor has to be "logged-in." The Crusaders can photograph and record everything happening on earth on video and have an "electronic sub-verbal monitor that picks up both thoughts and voices."

There are helicopters (called Beetles) for travel and the Satan appears "wearing jeans, boots, a lavender shirt and a brown felt cowboy hat." Nor is he the discernably fork-tongued evil described by the biblical texts. He argues persuasively and says that the difference between him and God is that while he is a realist, God is an idealist. The essence of realism, he holds, lies in the saying, "might is right." It is might that, while causing wars, crimes and violence, has also triggered the massive material progress that civilisation made through the exercise of power, which is at the core of might.

Here we are at the heartland of morality which, in turn, is at the core of the other issues the novel explores — human conduct, values, emotions and divine judgement. Can progress justify the wars that have devastated lives and lands, the Holocaust, the sustained subjugation of women and the savage treatment of all non-human living beings throughout the ages? There is doubtless punishment in the hereafter. Child and animal abusers, for example, go to "Pure Hell" "Wall-to-Wall" as do bystanders who watch and do nothing. Nevertheless, the world as it is, is moving more in the direction of material progress rather than frowning upon greed, crime, violence, celebrating power and turning its face against compassion.

In this sense, Satan is right in claiming before Thomas and Rachel, another visitor from earth, that he is winning and God is losing out. God himself recognises this and tells Thomas that he is sad and depressed. He, along with his companion Naomi, has left Heaven, which has become a very lonely place for dearth of people making it and come to live in a cave in the region of the purgatories. Yet, he tells Thomas, he has not given up hope as there are still many good, courageous and caring people doing their best to make the world more just and compassionate.

Compassion is at the heart of Patterson's concerns and an important part of it encompasses all non-human living beings. This has been most tellingly underlined in his landmark work Eternal Treblinka: Our Treatment of Animals and The Holocausts. It is very clearly manifest in the book under review. To cite just one example, on a hoarding in the purgatories is written, "As long as men kill animals, they will kill each other." (Hippocrates). Rarely have truer words been written.

History speaks for itself

It's time for the voters to inform themselves of the INC's past and realise that it never really came around to re-modelling itself from being colonised subjects of the British, says B DEEPANJALI

By now, it's common knowledge that Mahatma Gandhi, without whom the call for independence from British rule would never have reached the Indian masses, had wanted the Indian National Congress (INC) to be disbanded after independence. That it was a party of the British and the Indian English-educated elite was clear to him and he knew that this was not what "freedom" truly meant. The purpose of INC as envisaged was to achieve independence from British Raj and to hand over the country to them on a platter. Gandhiji was clear that the INC needed to be disbanded after the British left India. But what he wanted did not happen. He increasingly became disillusioned after independence. After his assassination, pressure to have a truly representational democracy took a backseat and the corrupt cronyism of the INC held sway.

Gandhiji was indeed right about INC. It did not quite truly understand what nationalism was. It still does not and does not even seem to care about it. As the 2019 election campaign is in full swing right now, we can see how the grand old party relentlessly disparages the nation, fails to stand by our brave armed forces and even scoffs the country's phenomenal achievements — Mission Shakti and the testing of the first anti-satellite missile system that made us the fourth nation in the world to have this critical defence capability are a few examples. With 70 years of independence, we are now a witness to some of the most negative statements against the nation by INC members. So much so that today, even those Indians, who were supportive of the Congress, are stunned at the lows the party has taken.

In no other democratic country does the Opposition party ridicule the nation's achievements or take sides with the enemy country — when its soldiers have been massacred by terrorists like in Pulwama — as in India. For, their opposition is to the ruling party and never to their nation. The INC's behaviour as an Opposition party will be unthinkable say in Britain or the US where leaders' loyalty to their country remains unquestioned — it defines who they are as a people.

So, why is it that in India we have a party like INC, whose statements, like the one doubting the Balakot strikes, sound like they are the same as the ones made by politicians in Pakistan? Why is it that the leading Opposition party is unable to distinguish between the nation and the ruling party and spares no opportunity to belittle the country? It's, therefore, worth asking: Does this disconnect with the country have much deeper roots, going back to the formation of the INC itself?

INC still not rooted in India: The party was founded in 1885 by AO Hume, a British imperial civil service officer. But did the party ask for complete independence soon after it was formed? No. It was only after 44 years of its formation that the INC demanded poorna swarajya for India in December 1929. Until then, all that it meekly asked the British was a dominion status for the country. And who were the party's members? They were a part of the British elite — those Indians who were educated in England and who held wealth and social standing. The formation of the INC can itself be seen as a smart move by the British to maintain a sense of stability, badly shaken as they were by the First War of Independence or what they called the Mutiny of 1857. It is an undeniable fact that early members of the INC looked up to British education and governance as means to achieving a "stable India." There are documented references to past Indian presidents of INC eulogising the British Raj and one of its presidents, Pandit Bishan Narayan Dar, even said that British rule in India was the "greatest gift of providence to his race."

Point to be noted here is that nowhere does the INC website mention about Hume. History of this party is one that was never actually rooted in India's cultural identity as a basis for nationhood. This is a deeper theme in itself.

In the historical context, recent public pronouncements by INC members, who have alarmed many Indians and provided fodder dangerously enough to Pakistan, bears reference to the party's history. The INC was indeed so cosy with the British that its prominent members failed to create a national identity that could resonate in its being — either before or after independence. The ones, who stood for a stronger and more assertive tone in demanding legitimate rights for the people, were staunch nationalists but were deemed as "extremists." And this is well-known viz, the divisions between the "moderates" and the "extremists" in the INC.

The firebrand, who gave the first clarion call for swarajya before Gandhiji, was Lokmanya Bal Gangadhar Tilak, who said, "Swarajya is my birthright and I shall have it" in 1906. This call came at a time when the INC was led by the moderates (which was true for its first 20 years of existence, working only on policy changes through administrative means). INC's top leaders didn't really want to let go off the British rule as they thought of it as being beneficial to the nation. This can be seen in the stated position of several INC presidents of the early days.

What is INC's position on nationalism? The party has never come to terms with what its position on India as a nation is and what it means to be an Indian. This could be because like many Indians believe, there was no armed struggle by its members to achieve independence, no suffering and no pain. It was, in fact, the armed resistance by the Indian National Army (INA), led by Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose, that pushed the British to the wall and raised the daunting prospect of an outright mutiny — the INAs contribution to India's independence is undeniable. The sacrifices made by INA soldiers are, however, not what we think about in the common narrative of India's independence.

Unlike other nations, India did not really win a war and defeat foreign forces to reclaim its sovereignty. So, post-independence, the INC captured national consciousness by means of educational propaganda that highlighted the party's role in the freedom struggle when the fact remains that none of the prominent leaders from INC lost their lives to gain independence. The great sons of India, who sacrificed their lives like Shaheed Bhagat Singh, Rajguru, Chandrashekhar Azad and Khudiram Bose, were not talked about in the public domain. Instead, India's freedom from the British was and is still showcased as being an INC affair, failing to highlight the internal struggles within the party in its early days with the "moderates" toeing the British line of administrative reform and discussions and "extremists" demanding freedom from foreign rule before Gandhiji came to India and led the struggle. Needless to say, these "extremists," or assertive nationalists, didn't really make it big in INC as time went on after independence.

This then is the problem with INC. It never believed in the main pillars that define a country — a unified core cultural identity and military strength that builds a nation. This is why when quite naturally all Indians would feel a swell of pride on the achievements of the military, Congressmen don't. The INC's disparaging stand on the brave and impactful Balakot strike by the Indian Air Force even disturbed former party leaders like Tom Vadakkam, who spoke about it later when he was asked as to why he decided to join the BJP.

policy except for mentions like secularism, the party members' lack of national pride remained obfuscated from public knowledge all these decades except for the occasional mention of 1971 and Bangladesh (of course, it didn't explain why 90,000 PoWs had to be returned to Pakistan to keep aflame the fire of hatred against India in them as free Pakistanis and go on to spawn anti-India terrorism). The truth of the INC — as a party still comprising the English-speaking elite, scoffing at all that is anti-theoretical to its understanding — is being exposed now. All of this reveals a well-entrenched disconnect with Indian ethos and pride of the people.

In the 10 years of UPA rule, there was nothing much to feel proud about but much to be disheartened about, including the cowardly silence by the Congress' powers-that-be in Delhi after the horrendous Mumbai 26/11 attacks. But after losing power in 2014, party leaders have maintained a unified stance to run down India's significant achievements.

Since the last five years, India has touched significant highs on defence and technology fronts, something it had not pursued in its years in governance. So its principal strategy is to attack Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Given its origin, it is difficult for the INC to internalise the idea of India, the nation, its pride, its spirit and its civilisational sanctity. For it, poll time means reviving divisive agenda and let's not forget that the divide and rule policy worked well for the British, who inspired and founded the INC anyway. And so this saga endures. It is time for the voters to inform themselves of the history of the INC and realise that it never really came around to re-modelling itself from its British past as colonised subjects. And any party, which chooses to ally with the INC now, is also standing by the same credo of perpetuating that legacy.

Gradual death of a geological marvel

It is baffling that the Aravallis, which were once a contiguous range, had to pay a heavy price due to human activities like mining. The range today has blunted, desertified and needs protection. The judiciary must intervene

KOTA SRIRAJ

The might of the mountain ranges is almost mythical. These natural formations have not only shaped history and topography but have also played a pivotal role in conserving the ecology. These once formidable ranges — be it the Western Ghats along the south-western coast of India or the Aravallis in the North — have existed unchallenged throughout the history of time. But the reign of supremacy for these colossal wonders seems to be waning thanks to deteriorating environmental and worsening climate conditions. The negative role played by mankind is unfortunately expediting the end of these marvels of nature.

The Aravalli mountain range is one of the oldest in the world. It extends across more than 693 kms from Gujarat to Delhi (through Rajasthan and Haryana). The Aravallis, with their vast landscape and biological diversity, have shaped India's northern landscape in more ways than one.

They guide the monsoon clouds and act as a groundwater recharge zone. Thus, they are important for long-term ecological security of Indian cities. The Aravallis also help in preventing long-term desertification. They act as a barrier against the wind, carrying sand from the Thar Desert and prevent it from entering the Delhi-NCR region.

Greenery associated with this mountain range has been replaced with dry and dusty shrub-like environment. This is due to the mountain range being subjected to decades of abuse and threats from mining activities and large-scale real estate developments. The degradation of the Aravallis has led to a decline in wildlife habitat, thus adding to the animal-human conflict. The revival of the Aravallis has become almost an uphill task, thanks to the many problems associated with it and the continuous intervention of humans. The situation has been exacerbated due to a decline in rainfall in the past few decades, which has led to the depletion of the groundwater table.

As the Aravallis paid the price of being close to human habitations, human intervention sadly did not stop at deforestation of the mountains. The real estate lobby and the mining mafia started eyeing the geological wealth of the mountain ranges. Political protection and apathy of the authorities further compromised the already delicate condition of the range. And it's not that only the terrain has been affected. People and communities, who were dependent on the Aravallis, are now faced with an uncertain future. Further, large-scale mining with dynamites blowing up huge tracts of granite rocks caused relentless vibrations and tremors that led to the permanent displacement of many bird species that were native to the area.

Prosperity of a region is directly proportionate to the concern and care shown by the local people towards their natural assets and resources. This is exactly the problem with conservation initiatives for the Aravallis as the people as also the officials have not realised the potential of natural marvel that they have at their disposal. They could only decipher the economic value of the range. As a result, this amazing creation of nature with all its unique flora and fauna was taken for granted and exploitation started to finish off large stretches.

To make matters worse, the Haryana Government recently passed an amendment in the Punjab Land and Preservation Act, a law that was drafted by the British in 1900. With a change in the law, it is now being feared that large areas of the Aravalli forest area, that were earlier protected, will now face the risk of being used for development purposes. But the Haryana Government defended the Act by stating that even though the protection of forests was its priority, the present scenario also required changes to be done, especially at a time when the State has to progress ahead.

This is shocking as the authorities admit that the State's progress must happen at the cost of ecology and the environment.

There is no way to undo the damage done to the Aravalli range. Humans have exacted a terrible price from nature. The sad thing is that all of this is happening under the supervision of State authorities. Mining mafia trucks ply day-in and day-out, carrying loads of stone extracted from the quarries deep within the Aravallis.

In the midst of these dreary and grim conditions, all hope is not lost. The judiciary of India is playing a vanguard role by taking up critical issues pertaining to the well-being of the country and environment is certainly one of them. The National Green Tribunal (NGT) has intervened many times to ensure that the environment is safe. In matters pertaining to the Aravallis, too, the judiciary must intervene. This alone can stop the otherwise certain doom and death for the much-fabled Aravalli ranges.

NOTRE DAME MUST BE A WARNING

The pain of witnessing the destruction of Notre Dame must be a goad to us all and a reminder of our obligation to protect what we have inherited and to pass it on in good condition to those who come after us. The estate is a known fire risk, and it is now high time our legislators decanted to temporary premises to allow the buildings to be made safe. (The Independent editorial)

FARM DISTRESS, DEVELOPMENT, NATIONALISM TAKE LEAD

Western Uttar Pradesh will be a test case in the second phase of the general elections on April 18 when polling will be held for 95 Lok Sabha seats. There are serious farmers issues at stake there, yet they could be subsumed by the discourse on nationalism. Across the country, there are other constituencies where farm distress will be a factor, like the Marathwada region, or backward Raiganj in West Bengal, where agrarian crisis is a reality. The question in Srinagar will be about keeping the separatists at bay. In the 2017 by-elections, which former Jammu & Kashmir Chief Minister Farooq Abdullah won, the voting percentage was an abysmal 7.2 per cent, the lowest ever recorded till then for a Lok Sabha election. The big story will be in Tamil Nadu – polls to all Lok Sabha seats will be held in a single phase. Right now, it is a bipolar election – between the AIADMK and DMK. The subtext will be provided by the election results – to see whether either the UPA or the NDA has been able to get a toehold in the State

FOLLOWING ARE SOME OF THE KEY CONSTITUENCIES THAT WILL GO TO POLLS TODAY

MAHARASHTRA	UTTAR PRADESH	TAMIL NADU	KARNATAKA	BIHAR
NANDED SITTING MP: Ashok Shankarrao Chavan, Congress KEY CANDIDATES: Ashok Chavan (Congress), Chikhalkar Pratap Govindrao (BJP), Abdul Samad (Samajwadi Party) MAIN ISSUES: This is an economically backward portion in the Marathwada region, where farm distress and water scarcity are main issues. Even though this is not a reserved constituency, the Scheduled Castes population has a significant vote base AMRAVATI SITTING MP: Anandrao Adsul, Shiv Sena KEY CANDIDATES: Anandrao Adsul (Shiv Sena) and Navneet Kaur Rana (Yuva Swabhimani Party), supported by the Congress-NCP alliance MAIN ISSUES: Farm distress, farmers' suicides and water scarcity. This is a reserved constituency in which Buddhist Dalits wield significant influence	BULANDSHAHR SITTING MP: Bhola Singh, BJP KEY CANDIDATES: Bhola Singh (BJP) and Yogesh Verma (BSP), candidate for the SP-BSP-RLD, and Bansil Lal Pahadia (Congress) MAIN ISSUES: This is a reserved constituency for the SCs. Farm-related issues have a major role here. Bulandshahr is also a communally sensitive area and a campaign that focuses on this could find takers among voters MATHURA SITTING MP: Hema Malini, BJP KEY CANDIDATES: Hema Malini (BJP), Narendra Singh (RLD) candidate for the SP-BSP-RLD and Mahesh Pathak (Congress) MAIN ISSUES: The strong nationalistic narrative associated with the Government of PM Narendra Modi finds resonance in this constituency. It got a fillip following the Balakot air strike. However, that does not overshadow issues related to farmers – the problems of the sugar mills are well known	KARUR SITTING MP: M Thambi Durai, AIADMK KEY CANDIDATES: M Thambi Durai (AIADMK) and S Jothamani (Congress) MAIN ISSUES: This is a textile hub but suffers from poor industrial development and an absence of good road connectivity. Industrial pollution is caused by textile dyeing units. Problems are added by water scarcity JAMMU &amp; KASHMIR SRINAGAR SITTING MP: Farooq Abdullah, National Conference KEY CANDIDATES: Farooq Abdullah (National Conference), Sheikh Khalid Jehangir (BJP) and Agha Syed Mohsin (PDP) MAIN ISSUES: The issue on test here will be democracy and India. A bypoll in 2017 had registered a mere 7.2% voter turnout to elect Farooq Abdullah, lowest ever for an election	BANGALORE NORTH SITTING MP: DV Sadananda Gowda, BJP KEY CANDIDATES: DV Sadananda Gowda (BJP) and Krishna Byre Gowda (Congress) MAIN ISSUES: Development issues take centre stage in this constituency with a large number of electors – infrastructure, public transport, sanitation and drinking water. The issue of job opportunities is also likely to play a part in the election HASSAN SITTING MP: HD Deve Gowda, JD(S) KEY CANDIDATES: Prajwal Revanna (JDS) and A Manju (BJP) MAIN ISSUES: BJP candidate A Manju joined the BJP from the Congress party recently which makes the contest interesting. The constituency is dominated by Vokkaligas, who will be looking for support from other communities. Hassan is located along the Cauvery basin and is rich in cash crops. Naturally, the politics of the region is also determined by water availability	PURNEA SITTING MP: Santosh Kumar Kushwaha, JD(U) KEY CANDIDATES: Santosh Kumar Kushwaha JD(U) and Uday Singh alias Pappu Singh (Congress), who is the candidate for the Congress-RJD combine in Bihar MAIN ISSUES: Issues of development could be overshadowed by caste and nationalism issues. The contest could see clash between Hindutva politics of BJP and Muslim-Yadav vote bank of the Congress-RJD candidate, who is a Rajput
				WEST BENGAL RAIGANJ SITTING MP: Mohammad Salim, CPI(M) KEY CANDIDATES: Mohammad Salim (CPI(M)), Deboshree Chaudhury (BJP), Deepa Dasmunshi (Congress) and Kanaiyal Agarwal (TMC) MAIN ISSUES: It has nearly 50% Muslim population and there is possibility of communal polarisation. However, Salim is keen to keep political discourse on development and agrarian issues

Drought trouble for BJP-Sena

TN RAGHUNTHWA ■ MUMBAI

With absolutely no wave in the air and severe drought conditions spelling trouble for the ruling Sena-BJP alliance, the Opposition Congress-NCP alliance smells a real opportunity to improve vastly upon its miserable 2014 tally of two in the second phase of polls for 10 Lok Sabha seats in Maharashtra scheduled for Thursday.

Like in the case of seven constituencies of eastern Maharashtra that went to polls a week ago, the ten poll-bound constituencies – six of which fall in Marathwada, three in Vidarbha region and one in western Maharashtra – have been reeling under one of worst agrarian crises that the state has witnessed in recent decades, a situation that has made matters very difficult for the ruling saffron alliance.

Though it attempted to ease the farmers' distress through its Rs 34,022 crore loan waiver scheme, the BJP-led saffron alliance has lost the perception battle against the Opposition which has made agrarian crisis a major issue in the polls. No wonder that there are not many takers for chief minister Devendra Fadnis' claim that the saffron alliance government has waived farm loans amounting to nearly Rs 24,000 crore and benefitting 51 lakh farmers (out of the total 89 lakh beneficiaries).

Notwithstanding the claims that the Maharashtra government has extended relief to the affected farmers, the suicides by farmers are continuing unabated in Vidarbha and Marathwada regions. More than 300 debt-ridden farmers have committed ted suicide during the three months of the current year. With the Modi magic not working on ground and anti-incumbency factor weighing it down, the BJP and Shiv Sena – which had collectively won eight out of ten seats in the 2014 Lok Sabha polls – are struggling to retain its hold in more than half the poll-bound constituencies.

On the contrary, the Congress – which had picked up the only two seats it had won in the 2014 polls in Maharashtra from Marathwada – and the NCP – which had bagged all its four seats from western Maharashtra in the previous polls – are showing signs of making a recovery this time around.

The constituencies that are going to polls on Thursday are: Hingoli, Nanded, Parbhani, Beed, Osmanabad, Latur (SC), all from Marathwada, Buldhana, Akola, Amravati (SC), all from Vidarbha and Solapur (SC), which is in western Maharashtra.

The main contests are between the BJP-Sena combine and Opposition Congress-NCP in a majority of the constituencies. In a few of the constituencies like Akola, Osmanabad and Solapur, the Dalit-Muslim front of Vanchit Bahujan Aghadi (VBA) are threatening to cut into the traditional Congress-NCP votes. At stake are the reputations of senior leader and former Union Home Minister Sushil Kumar Shinde (Solapur), former chief minister Asho Chavan of the Congress Ashok Chavan (Nanded) and late BJP leader Gopinath Munde's daughter Pritam Munde (Beed).

Shinde, who suffered a humiliating defeat at the hands of Sharad Bansode of the BJP by a massive margin of 1,49,784 votes, is taking on BJP's Mahaswami Jaisiddheshwar Shivacharya and Bharip Bahujan Mahasangh leader Prakash Ambedkar, who is also contesting from his home constituency of Akola.

Chavan, who was incidentally one of the two Congress candidates (out of its 26 candidates) elected to Lok Sabha in 2014 polls from Maharashtra in the face of a fierce Modi wave, is seeking re-election against BJP's Pratap Patil-Chikhalkar in his home constituency of Nanded in Marathwada region.

Barring four terms, Nanded has been under the control of the Congress since 1952. While late S B Chavan represented the constituency twice (1980 and 1984), Ashok Chavan himself was elected to Lok Sabha once in a bye-election in 1987, following the resignation of his father. Late S

B Chavan's son-in-law and Ashokrao's brother-in-law Bhaskarrao Khatgaonkar has represented the constituency thrice (1998, 1999 and 2009). In 2014 LS polls, Chavan romped home comfortably.

Pritam Munde, daughter of late senior BJP leader Gopinath Munde, is re-contesting the polls on a BJP ticket from Munde's home constituency of Beed against the NCP's Bajrang Sonawane.

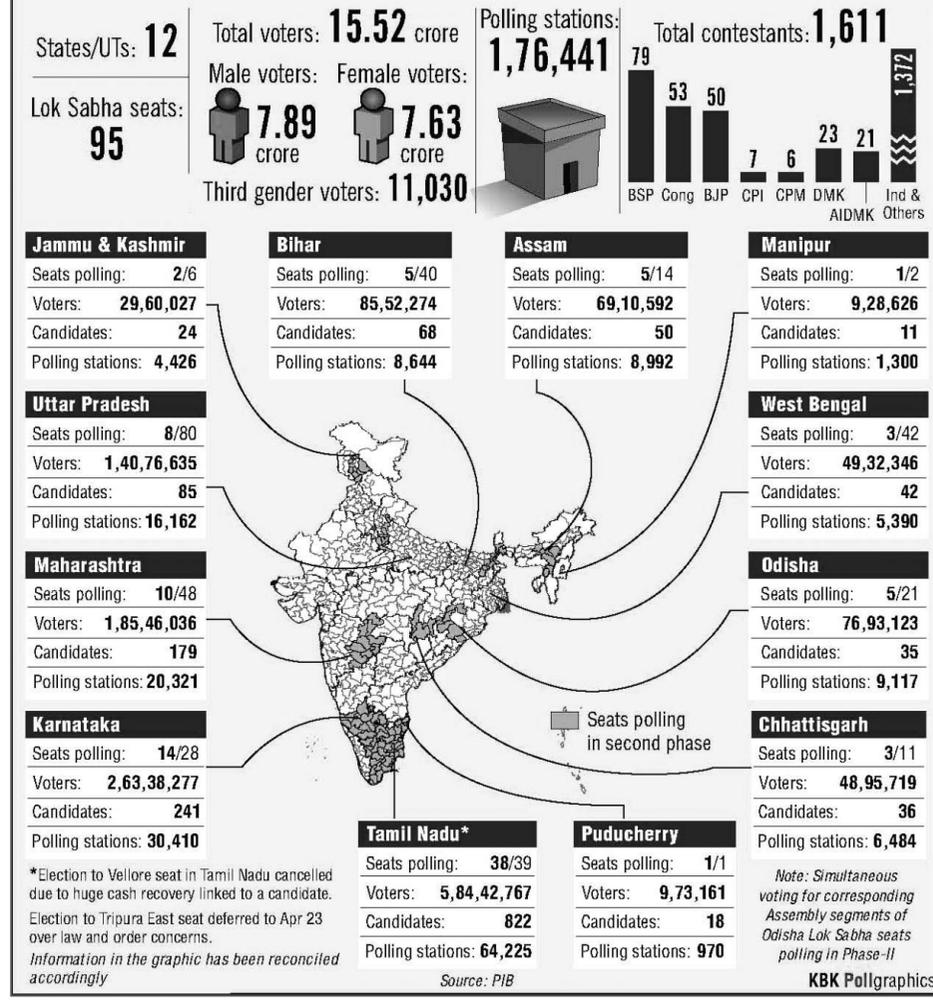

The contest in Beed has become a prestigious battle between Pritam's sister and a minister in Maharashtra Cabinet Pankaja Munde and her cousin and leader of the Maharashtra Legislative Council Dhananjay Munde of the NCP. Dhananjay had rebelled against his late uncle Gopinath Munde and joined the NCP when the latter was still alive.

In the politically significant constituency of Osmanabad in Marathwada, NCP's Ranajagjit Singh P Patil is taking on his cousin and Shiv Sena nominee Omraje Nimbalkar.

Ranajagjit Singh is the son of Maharashtra's senior former minister and Sharad Pawar's close confidant Padamsinh Patil. Padamsinh is one of the nine accused others in the much-discussed murder case of 2006 in which Congress leader Pawanraje Nimbalkar and his driver Samad Abdul Wahid Kazi at Kalamboli, near Panvel, were shot dead on February 3, 2006.

In Amravati, four-time Sena MP Anandrao V. Adsul is pitted against South Indian actress Navneet Kaur Rana of the Yuva Swabhimani Party (YSP), supported by the Congress-NCP led Mahagathbandhan.

CAPF IN 80% BOOTHS, BUT WB VOTERS WANT MORE

PNS ■ KOLKATA

Voters on Wednesday asked for 80 per cent CAPF coverage of polling booths even as Bengal prepared for second phase of elections for three parliamentary constituencies of Darjeeling, Jalpaiguri and Raiganj on Thursday amid tight security bandobast.

In an apparent bid to avoid electoral violence like in the first phase the Commission has appointed senior IAS officer

Ajay V Nayak as the Special Observer. He will work in tandem with Special Police Observer Vivek Dubey.

The ECI has requisitioned 195 companies of Central forces for the three constituencies out of which 64 companies will alone be used for Raiganj witnessing a four-cornered contest featuring outgoing MP of CPI(M) Md Salim, Congress' Deepa Dasmunshi, TMC KL Agarwal and BJP's Supriyo Sarkar.

Darjeeling which also has a history of political violence will be manned by 69 companies of CAPF whereas Jalpaiguri will get 52 companies of central forces, EC sources said. Out of 69 companies for Darjeeling seat 31 companies will be deployed at Darjeeling, 29 companies at Siliguri and 9 company at Kalimpong.

Police Observer said about 80 per cent of the booths would be manned by the CAPF while the armed State police will handle the remaining booths.

TAMIL NADU VOTERS TO DECIDE PALANISWAMY'S FATE TODAY

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

More than 5.86 crore voters spread across 38 Lok Sabha constituencies in Tamil Nadu will march to the polling booths on Thursday to cast their votes to elect 38 law makers who would represent them for the next five years.

Though there are 39 Lok Sabha constituencies in the State, the President of India heading the request of the Election Commission of India rescinded the election from Vellore following large scale seizure of cash from the residence and business premises of the DMK candidate Kathir Anand. The date for the new election from Vellore would be announced afterwards.

Along with the 38 Members of Parliament, electorate in 18 Assembly constituencies will elect their legislators to fill the vacancy caused by disqualification of some of the AIADMK MLAs by the Speaker. Though there are 22 vacancies in the Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly, election for the remaining four seats would be held on May 29. The results of all the elections would be announced on May 23.

The high decibel campaign for the Lok Sabha and 18 Assembly by-election came to an end on Tuesday evening. Four more Assembly constituencies in the State would elect their representatives on May 19 as the Election Commission could declare the schedule to these constituencies only after getting clearance from the Madras High Court which was hearing petitions with respect to these constituencies.

Hence a total of 22 by-elections are being held in Tamil

Nadu. What is unique about the bye-election is that if the DMK manages to win 21 of the 22 seats, then there would be a change of Government in Tamil Nadu. The DMK alliance has 97 members as of now and requires 21 seats to unseat the AIADMK Government which has only 113 members (excluding the Speaker). M K Stalin, the DMK chief has been claiming from day one onwards that his party would win all the 22 seats.

If Edappadi Palaniswamy's AIADMK wins five seats, he would get the absolute majority but it would be advisable if he has at least 130 MLAs for smooth sailing in the House.

The April 18 election in Tamil Nadu would go down in history as the most fiercely fought poll. By Tuesday evening, when it was time for switching off microphones and loud speakers, Stalin raked up the refusal by Edappadi Palaniswamy administration to intern his father M Karunanidhi at the Marina Beach. It was at the instance of the Madras High Court which overruled the Opposition from the AIADMK-led Government that Karunanidhi could be buried in Marina Beach though there are no rules which mandate that a former chief minister should be buried at Marina Beach.

While the DMK-led Secular Progressive Alliance began the campaign much earlier and with a clear advantage over the AIADMK-led front, the latter picked up momentum and caught up with the rivals. Though two more parties, AMMK of TV Dhinakaran and MNM of film star Kamal Haasan are also in race, it is widely believed that they would end up as 'also rans'.

Vellore election: HC upholds ECI's decision

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

The Madras High Court in Wednesday upheld the decision of the Election Commission rescinding the Lok Sabha election from the Vellore parliamentary constituency in Tamil Nadu. A Division Bench consisting of Justices S Manikumar and Subramaniam Prasad dismissed the petitions filed by AC Shanmugham, the AIADMK candidate and an independent candidate seeking an order from the court for quashing the Election Commission's decision. President Ram Nath Kovind rescinded the Vellore Lok Sabha election on Tuesday. The judges said the EC which has the power to issue notification for conducting elections, also has the power to recommend for cancellation if it has arrived at the view that it is necessary to halt the election.

Didn't fall prey to Pak: Modi

PTI ■ SURENDRANAGAR/HIMMATNAGAR/ANAND

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday said he did not fall prey to Pakistan's nuclear blackmail, because India has the "mother of nuclear bombs". Addressing three poll rallies in his home State, Modi also claimed that the then UPA Government arrested BJP president Amit Shah and some police officers in Gujarat to topple the State Government then headed by him.

At a campaign rally at Surendranagar, Modi referred to the surgical strikes and air strikes by India inside Pakistan in response to terrorist attacks in Uri and Pulwama.

"Earlier, terrorists from Pakistan would come here and go back after conducting an attack. Pakistan would threaten us, saying it has the nuclear bomb and will press the button (if India retaliated).

"We have nuclear of nuclear bombs (the mother of nuclear bombs). I decided to tell them, do whatever you want to do (but we will retaliate)," the Prime Minister said.

"In the past our people would weep, go around the world saying Pakistan did this, did that...It is now Pakistan's turn to weep. "Didn't our jawans kill them by entering their houses? Shall we not kill them by entering their houses? Shall we not take revenge for our martyred soldiers?" he asked the large crowd which replied in the positive. "Today is Mahavir Jayanti, the day to observe peace. But when shall we have peace? Will anyone listen to a weak man making an appeal for peace or to the warning of a strong man who can flex his muscles? Only the peace appeal of a strong man will be respected, not that of a weak person," Modi said.

He also alleged that the Congress spoke ill of the armed forces. "You must have seen how the character of the Congress party has changed in this election. The way the Congress spreads lies, and questions the country's military, saying its seniors are street goons, the Air Force chief is a liar...If you say something like this, will it not make Pakistan happy?" he said.

Modi also slammed the Congress for seeking proof of action against terrorists. "When we conducted surgical strike, Congress questioned us. When we conducted air strike, it asked for proof. Do you (Congress) trust your own sons or Pakistan's rhetoric?" the PM said.

Earlier, speaking at a poll rally in Himmatnagar, Modi said the then UPA Government arrested BJP president Amit Shah and some police officers in Gujarat to topple the state Government then headed by him. Modi also said this election will decide if nationalist forces will rule the country or those who want to help the "tukde tukde gang" by scrapping sedition law. "From 2004 to 2014, there was a 'remote control government' and you know who was in control. In those 10 years, those sitting in Delhi tried to damage the interest of Gujarat and acted as if the state is not in India," Modi said.

All PM does is tell lies: RaGa

Congress president Rahul Gandhi offers prayers at Thirunellai Temple in Wayanad district on Wednesday

Wayanad/Alathur: Launching a blistering attack on Narendra Modi, Congress Chief Rahul Gandhi said all that the Prime Minister "does is tell lies and steal from the poor people."

Rahul, who addressed three election rallies in his Wayanad Lok Sabha constituency, spread over the districts of Wayanad, Malappuram and Kozhikode and campaigned in Thirithala in Palakkad district, attacked Modi and RSS and touched on corruption.

"All the PM does is tell lies and steal from the poor people. Six airports were given to his friend Adani on the day the Pulwama attack took place. And he (Modi) says they were fighting black money. Modi said demonetisation was to fight black money, but it destroyed the Indian economy. Fifty lakh people lost their jobs after demonetisation," the Congress chief said while winding off his campaign at Thirithala on Wednesday.

All praise for Wayanad, the second constituency from where Rahul is contesting for which he was attacked by Modi and BJP, Gandhi said he wanted to represent the remote district as the "beautiful place" symbolises different ideas and cultures.

Addressing a rally in Naggur last week, BJP president Amit Shah had chided Rahul for selecting his second seat in north Kerala, saying "when a procession is taken out there, it is difficult to make out whether it is India or Pakistan."

Shah was referring to the IUMLs green flags during Rahul Gandhi's roadshow in Wayanad on April 4 after filing his papers. Rahul also said the saffron party was arrogant and believed that they can re-define Indian history.

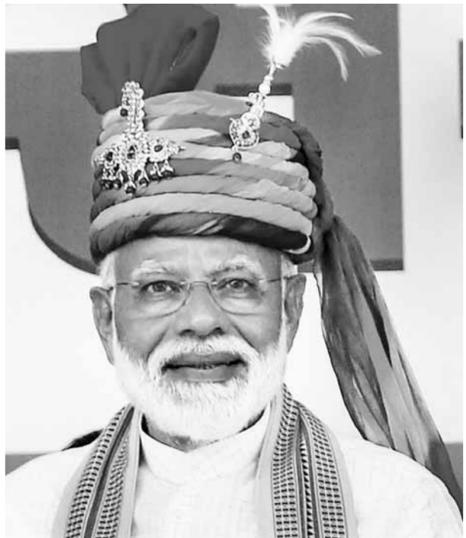

"Only the Indian people can define, decide about the country. It does not matter that Uttar Pradesh is much bigger than Nagaland. The voice of all Indians matter. This is the fight that is taking place. Why do these people want to define India? The entire goal to re-define India is to steal from India. The entire idea is to create two Indias. One India for the Ambanis, Adanis, Nirav Modis, Mehul Chokisies, Vijay Mallays and one for others," Rahul said lashing out at the PM.

He also said poor farmers who took meagre loans of around Rs 20,000 were behind bars for non-repayment while the rich who availed loans over Rs 35,000 crore were walking free. Continuing his tirade against Modi and the RSS, the Congress president said issues of Kerala should be decided by the people and not by Modi or the RSS chief.

In three rallies in Wayanad, he tore into BJP-led NDA Government and said the saffron party was only interested in imposing its ideology on people of the country. "Who is Mohan Bhagwat to teach us about culture and history? Kerala should be run by the people of Kerala. This is same sentiment in State after State," he said, addressing a rally in Wayanad.

Taking a jibe at Modi, Rahul said he was not here to tell his 'Mann Ki Baat', but understand the various difficulties, including the night travel ban, man-animal conflicts and lack of medical facilities being faced by the people here. "I understand there are complex problems here. There are man-animal conflicts. There is a conflict between development and environment. I want to see a solution. I don't believe in imposing a solution. I believe in the wisdom and intellectual of our people in resolving such issues," Rahul said. "I am not like the Prime Minister. I am not going to make false promises and tell you I will give you two crore jobs or Rs 15 lakh in bank accounts or I will give farmers whatever they want. I am not going to lie to you. Because I respect your intelligence, your wisdom," he added.

Defeat Gabbar Singh PM: Didi

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Asking the voters to shun the Congress and the Left for their RSS links Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday appealed to the voters to send maximum number of Trinamool Congress MPs to Parliament "so that Bengal takes the lead in forming a Government in Delhi" by removing the "Gabbar Singh of a Prime Minister."

Attacking Narendra Modi for disturbing the peace of the country in his bid to divide votes, Banerjee said "Modi Babu thinks that he is the most powerful person in the country. In his lust for power he has set one community against the other and has divided India as never before. If he is not defeated this time then he will demolish the democratic set up of the country once and for all."

Equating the Prime Minister with as dreaded a person as Gabbar Singh of Sholay fame Banerjee said "today whenever the people hear of his name they think that Gabbar Singh has come. He scares everybody into submission like the Bargis (the Maratha invaders of Bengal of early 17th century) used to do." Banerjee was addressing a huge rally at Kandi in Murshidabad which has three parliamentary constituencies traditionally dominated by the Congress and the Left.

Attacking the Prime Minister for trying to suppress voice of Opposition she said "whenever anyone raises his voice against the Prime Minister officers of Income Tax and Enforcement Directorate are sent to his house... See what they are doing against Chandrababu Naidu in Andhra Pradesh, Kumarswamy in Karnataka and MK Stalin in Tamil Nadu."

It was this habit of clubbing the opposition to silence with the help of central agencies that the people would not take kindly. "The BJP will be defeated for this haughtiness of theirs." Attacking the Congress for having been a "stooge of the CPI(M) all these years," she said.

Modi: Pawar serves only one family

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Slamming NCP chief Sharad Pawar for raising questions about his family, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday took a vicious dig at Pawar for "serving" only one special (Nehru-Gandhi) family from Delhi for some many decades.

"You (Pawar) are elder to me. You have a right to say whatever you want to. Pawar can say anything as per his understanding and values. But, let me tell you that the life that Modi is leading is based on the inspirations of various families. I have been inspired by the family traditions of the greats like Mahatma Jyotiba Phule, Bhagat Singh, Sukhdev Rajguru, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Veer Savarkar and others," Modi said.

Modi said the NCP chief would have learned more about family traditions if the latter had taken inspiration from late Y B Chavan whom Pawar considered his "mentor." "I know it is beyond your capacity to lead the life of Modi. But, please learn from the families of those who sacrificed their lives to the country,"

"But your model is a special family (Nehru-Gandhi) from Delhi. You have learned things only from them and you have been serving only that family," Modi said.

Addressing a public rally in Solapur, Modi said he had been at the receiving end of abuses from Opposition leaders. "Despite that, I have been sincerely working for progress of nation and empowerment of poor people.

Exhorting the people to vote for a "stable" and "strong" government, Modi said: "In 2014, you gave me a full majority and I could work with full strength to take firm decisions and work for public welfare. You have witnessed how I ran the country past five years."

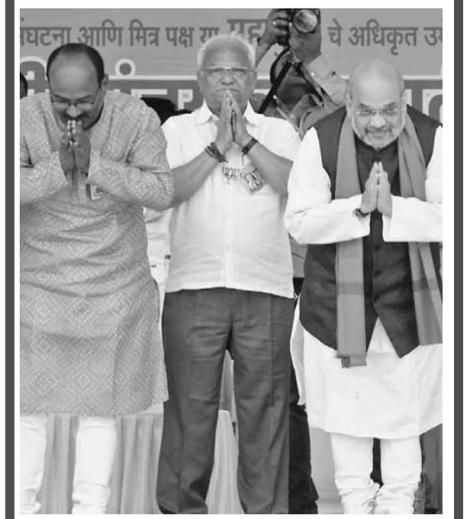

"The country needs a strong Government, not a 'major' (helpless) one. Only the BJP can provide a strong government not the Congress-NCP alliance... Even in your villages, you want a tough cop, not a 'dheela-dhaala' (weak and loose) policeman. The same is required for running such a vast country, we need a strong leader," Modi said.

OLA TO OFFER FREE RIDES FOR DISABLED VOTERS
Bengaluru: Cab aggregator Ola on Wednesday said it would provide free rides to persons with disabilities (PWD) to the polling booths in association with the Election authorities in a bid to increase voter participation in the Lok Sabha Elections in Karnataka. The company said it has partnered with the office of the Karnataka Chief Electoral Officer and others, including the civic bodies in various cities in this regard. As a part of the free service, Ola has assigned 270 cabs to the election commission which will be made available to ferry PWD voters to polling booths, a release said Wednesday.

PM TO ADDRESS 2 RALLIES TODAY IN KARNATAKA
Bengaluru: As 14 Lok Sabha constituencies in Karnataka go to polls Thursday, the focus has shifted to the second phase next week with leaders hitting the campaign trail in the northern belt of the state. Of the 28 Lok Sabha seats in the state, fourteen in the northern parts will go to polls on April 23 in the second phase. Prime Minister Narendra Modi will address rallies in Bagalkot and Chikkodi Lok Sabha constituencies on Thursday. Congress President Rahul Gandhi is set to campaign in Raichur and Chikkodi segments a day later.

SP CHIEF TO FILE PAPERS TODAY
Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav will file his nomination papers from Azamgarh Lok Sabha constituency on Thursday. Before filing his papers, Akhilesh Yadav will hold a roadshow along with some senior leaders of the alliance partners in Azamgarh. SP spokesperson Rajendra Chaudhary said in Lucknow on Wednesday that after filing of the nomination papers, the alliance partners would address a rally at Bithauli. Polling in Azamgarh will be held in the sixth phase on May 12. By choosing to contest from Azamgarh, Akhilesh has changed his constituency for a third time. Earlier, he had won the parliamentary elections from Kannauj and Firozabad.

BJP wants TMC leaders to be jailed for Bangla actor in rally

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Not happy with mere cancellation of the business visa of Bangladesh cine star Firdaus for taking part in an election rally favouring Raiganj TMC candidate Kanhaia Lal Agarwal, the BJP on Wednesday upped the ante against the facilitators of the incident demanding "exemplary punishment — if possible incarceration and even cancellation of the candidature — against those who flouted the visa rules and used the foreign actor for electoral purpose."

Bengal BJP vice president JP Majumdar said "it is not enough to send it back or cancelling his visa. The BJP also wants the people who used him by flouting the visa rules to be jailed and if possible the candidature of the candidate concerned cancelled." The saffron leadership had launched a formal complaint with the Election Commission even as its leaders from Delhi questioned Mamata Banerjee's secular credentials. "This is the way she is trying to send communal signal to the electorate by bringing Bangladesh stars to influence a particular community in the elections," said BJP leader GVL Narsimha Rao.

TMC leader and outgoing Serampore MP Kalyan Banerjee however said he had "no information of any electoral law that debars foreign citizens in taking part in election rallies."

Elsewhere, the BJP and the CPI(M) launched another complaint against a TMC MLA from Chakdaha, Jharna Ghosh for "inciting her party men to chase away the CRPF with broom sticks."

JP Majumdar quoted Ghosh citing a video footage "telling her party women to chase away the CRPF with brooms as 'during a battle no rule but only victory matters'

Yogi visits Dalit's house for lunch

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath continued to send out subtle political messages on the second day of his three-day curb on campaigning in the ongoing Lok Sabha election by visiting a Dalit's home for lunch and meeting triple talaq victims in Ayodhya on Wednesday.

Yogi offered prayers at Hanumanagarhi temple and recited Hanuman Chalisa. In the evening, he went for darshan of Ram Lalla and then took part in aarti on the banks of the Sarayu river.

The Chief Minister started his Ayodhya sojourn by visiting the house of Mahavir, a Dalit, at Suthati Malin Basti and had food with the family members.

Mahavir's wife Savitri said that the visit of the Chief Minister to their house was like god paying them a visit. "We did not have enough to offer. The Chief Minister had roti and sabzi and later took gur (jaggery) and water," she said.

Savitri told reporters that the Chief Minister was pained at the condition of her house and offered help to get it repaired.

Before lunch, Yogi met a six-year-old girl, Neha Soni, and took her on his lap after which the girl came up with several innocent questions.

When the Chief Minister asked whether she was afraid of coming there, the girl said where was the fear when Yogiji was there. She even sang a song, much to the amusement of the Chief Minister.

Later, Yogi went to nearby Ashrafi Bhawan on foot and spoke to the people standing in the by-lanes. He also spoke to students and enquired about their studies.

DGCA issues IndiGo show-cause notice

Aviation regulator issues notice over P&W engines woes, orders safety audit

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Cracking the whip on budget carrier IndiGo over the issue of faulty Pratt & Whitney engines, aviation regulator DGCA has served show-cause notices to its chief operating officer and engineering head, sources close to the development said on Wednesday.

The Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) is also carrying out a special safety audit of the carrier as it has found issues in "operations and engineering of the country's largest airline," an official source said.

While IndiGo confirmed the receipt of show-cause notices and the safety audit, DGCA chief BS Bhullar said the regulator carries out detailed audit of all airlines at least once a year.

He, however, did not comment on the show-cause notice saying, "we conduct detailed audits of all airlines at least once a year. IndiGo's audit is this month, and another airline's is in June. Every audit involves some action."

"The DGCA has issued a show-cause notice last week to IndiGo's chief operating officer these engines, manufactured by the US firm, since their induction three years ago.

"We confirm that there is currently a DGCA audit on IndiGo which is combined with the annual main base audit. We have received a limited number of show cause notices," IndiGo said in a statement to PTI.

The airline also said it has Wolfgang Prock-Schauer and engineering head SC Gupta over the Pratt & Whitney engines issues," the source said.

"The regulator is also conducting a special safety audit of the airline after coming across issues in its operations and engineering," he said.

IndiGo and GoAir, which have Pratt & Whitney-powered Airbus A320 Neo planes, have been facing problems with responded accordingly and it can only comment on this matter after it has discussions with the regulator on the matter but refused to comment on the reasons for the audit.

"We can confirm that our operations are run in more stringent ways as prescribed by regulatory framework. As this is an ongoing audit we can only comment after the process is over," the airline added.

FMCG growth to slow down at 11-12% in 2019: Nielsen

PTI ■ MUMBAI

India's fast moving consumer goods (FMCG) industry is likely to grow at a slower pace at 11-12 percent in 2019, almost 2 percent lower than that in 2018, says a report.

The industry is also expected to grow at 12-13 percent during the April to June quarter of the calendar year 2019, according to Nielsen.

"In line with the FMCG growth forecast for Q1 2019 at 13-14 percent, this sector grew at 13.6 percent. We are witnessing a softening of growth by 1-2 percent sequentially every quarter leading to healthy double digit growth in the first half of the year followed by a high single digit growth in the second half of the year," Nielsen said.

Nielsen maintained that the FMCG industry growth outlook will be in the range of 11-12 percent in 2019, almost 2 percent lower than that in 2018.

The volume growth which peaked in 2018 to 11 percent is expected to be healthy but lower at 8.5- 9.5 percent in FY19, it added.

It noted that the 13.6 percent growth in first quarter is slightly lower than the last quarter of 2018 (-2.3 percent from the previous quarter).

"Similar sentiments are witnessed in the economy with a 6.6 percent GDP growth in the December quarter of 2018 against an expected 6.8 percent. Inflationary pressure is also seen mounting in recent months from 2 percent in January 2019 to 2.9 percent in March 2019," it added.

"While slight drop is witnessed in urban growth, there is a significant softening of growth trends in rural which is dampening the overall FMCG industry growth from third quarter of 2018 to first quarter of 2019.

Historically, rural has grown 3-5 percent points faster than urban and the recent slowdown in rural growth has brought the growth closer to the urban growth.

"The overall drop witnessed in rural growth is majorly driven by slow down in packaged food category," it noted.

NCLAT seeks Anil Ambani's reply on HSBC Daisy's contempt plea

Non-payment of dues

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The NCLAT has sought a response from Reliance Group Chairman Anil Ambani within 10 days over a contempt plea filed against him and other officials by the minority shareholders alleging non-payment of dues by one of its group firms.

An NCLAT bench headed by Chairman Justice S J Mukhopadhyaya said he would like to hear Ambani and other respondents over the contempt petition filed by HSBC Daisy Investments (Mauritius) and some other minority shareholders of the company over alleged breach of undertaking for payment by group firm Reliance Infratel.

"We intend to hear the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the contemnor-respondents (Anil Ambani and others)," the bench said.

"They may file short reply within ten days. Rejoinder, if any, may be filed by the appellants within a week thereof," it added.

The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) has directed that the matter be listed on May 20, 2019 for admission.

HSBC Daisy moved the appellate tribunal over alleged default of payment of ₹230 crore by Reliance Infratel.

During the proceedings, counsel appearing for HSBC Daisy submitted that the order passed by NCLAT on June 29, 2018 amounts to an undertaking given by the parties in a consent decree over payment of ₹230 crore and a breach of such undertaking amounts to Contempt of Court.

As per the consent terms of the agreement between Reliance Infratel, HSBC Daisy and others, recorded by the NCLAT in its order dated June 26, 2018, the Anil Ambani-owned firm was to pay the amount in the next six months.

The six-month period has come to an end following which HSBC Daisy and other nine minority shareholders holding 4.26 per cent stake in Reliance Infratel filed the contempt plea.

Earlier, on January 2, NCLAT had disposed of the contempt plea filed by HSBC Daisy on technical grounds.

However, the tribunal had given it the liberty to withdraw its plea to approach again with its contempt plea against the officials of Reliance Infratel.

HSBC Daisy and other minority investors of Reliance Infratel had moved National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) Mumbai alleging oppression and mismanagement after the company had allegedly not taken their consent for selling the tower and fiber assets.

NCLT in March 2018 halted the sales process, following which Reliance Infratel moved NCLAT challenging the order.

Later, on June 29, Reliance Infratel and its minority shareholder, HSBC Daisy submitted final consent terms of their settlement before NCLAT over the sale of tower and fibre assets.

Following this, the appellate tribunal had disposed of the appeal filed by Reliance Infratel.

India travel spend expected to grow by 13% to $136

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Indian traveller has come of age, spending approximately $94 billion in 2018, on approximately 2 billion domestic and international trips, helping the Indian travel and tourism industry achieve unprecedented scale. The momentum is expected to continue and the industry will grow at a 13 percent CAGR to $136 billion by 2021, according to a new report titled, 'How Does India Travel', released by Bain & Company and Google India today.

The report outlines, how India as a market spends on travel, the influence of online channels in their purchasing journey and potential growth opportunities for travel businesses up until 2021.

Deep diving into the $136 billion spending, the report cites a 12 percent growth in transportation ($50 billion), as well as a 13 percent growth in lodging ($21 billion) and consumption. This includes spending on shopping, recreation and food, which are set to grow at 13 percent ($65 billion) over the next three years. Additionally, as more people come online, smartphone penetration will continue to improve and the use of digital payments goes up, with the report estimating that Indian travellers will spend an additional $24 billion on online travel bookings over the next three years, a growth from 25 percent in 2018 to 35 percent in 2021.

Sebi bars Siyaram Development and Construction, 8 directors from securities markets

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Markets regulator Sebi has barred Bengaluru-based Siyaram Development and Construction Ltd and its eight directors for at least four years from the securities market for illegally raising funds.

Besides, the regulator directed the entities to refund the money collected by the company along with 15 per cent interest.

Based on a complaint by an investor regarding non-payment of maturity amount of his investment, Sebi conducted a probe to ascertain whether the firm had made any public issue without complying with the relevant provisions of Sebi and the Companies Act.

During the probe, the firm had allotted secured redeemable debentures (SRDs) between financial years 2010-11 and 2012-13 and raised at least ₹4.22 crore from more than 49 allottees.

The number of allottees and the amount of money raised during the said period could be more, Sebi said.

Moreover, the firm created a charge for an amount of ₹70 crore and appointed Kalpana Guha as its debenture trustee.

As the number of allottees was more than 49, it was deemed to be a public issue and required a compulsory listing on a recognised stock exchange.

Further, the company was required to file a prospectus, among others, which it failed to do, Sebi said in an order on Tuesday.

Protectionism doesn't really help preserve jobs: Rajan

PTI ■ UNITED NATIONS

Protectionism does not really help preserve jobs and offers little defence against the job-destroying effects of automation and Artificial Intelligence, Former Reserve Bank of India Governor Raghuram Rajan has said, asserting that industrial and developing nations cannot afford to ignore the democratic reaction from those left behind by globalisation and technological change.

Delivering the keynote address at the 2019 ECOSOC Forum on Financing for Development at the UN Headquarters on Monday, Rajan said the open liberal democratic market system that brought the world enormous prosperity in the six decades or so after the second World War is now under attack.

"Interestingly the critics are not the usual radical academics or leftist leaders, instead they come from some of the most prosperous nations in the world. These are nations that have benefited tremendously from the open world order," he said.

Rajan, the Katherine Dusak Miller Distinguished Service Professor of Finance at the University of Chicago Booth School of Business, said, "We know that protectionism does not really help preserve jobs. In this competitive world, jobs gained by a country in the protected sector are often lost in other sectors that are now rendered uncompetitive because they pay higher prices for inputs.

He added that protectionism offers "little defence" against the job destroying effects of automation and Artificial Intelligence, which often are the larger source of job losses.

"The only guarantee against redundancy is to help the workforce stay ahead through constant retraining. As populations age in industrial countries, more of them will become reliant on foreign demand from younger countries outside, especially developing countries and emerging markets to boost growth," he said.

"Is it wise to block imports today from the very countries you will have to export to in the future? Probably not," he said.

Rajan said that while nations recognise the cost of protectionism, it is true that "we cannot afford to ignore the democratic reaction from those left behind by globalisation and technological change. This should be true both of industrial, countries and developing countries. We have to pay more attention to those left behind."

He added that if concerns of these people are to be addressed while preserving an open world, "we should start by recognising that the globalisation of trade and investment flows has disempowered people and their communities."

The ECOSOC Forum on Financing for Development

follow-up (FfD Forum) is an annual platform to promote consensus among key stakeholders on financing for sustainable development. Ministers, senior UN officials, high-level finance officials, civil society, business representatives and local authorities, are meeting at UN Headquarters for the four-day FfD Forum, which will run from April 15 to 18.

Rajan told the audience at the forum that there is a need to preserve a world open to trade and investment but "we need to keep democratic support in order to do it"

"I would argue that we must follow the principle of subsidiarity much more strictly going forward. Decisions should be taken at the lowest level consistent with effective governance. These decisions must be taken with an idea of cooperation, they must be taken responsibly given the spillovers both to the country as well as to the rest of the world," he said.

25 WTO members may come out with declaration on critical issues in May

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The meeting of 25 WTO member countries on May 13-14 here is expected to come out with a declaration on critical issues including 'special and differential treatment' for developing nations and impasse over the appointment of members to the appellate body of dispute settlement, sources said.

The other issues that could figure in the meeting include fishery subsidies and public stockholding in agriculture, they said.

India has convened a meeting of 25 developing member nations of the World Trade Organisation (WTO) on May 13-14 here.

The meet assumes significance as several countries are raising questions over the relevance of the Geneva-based global trade body. Many countries are also taking protectionist measures, impacting global trade.

Govt invites initial bids for strategic sale of IMPCL

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Government has invited initial bids for selling its entire stake in Indian Medicines Pharmaceutical Corporation Ltd (IMPCL). IMPCL is engaged in manufacture and supply of 'ayurvedic' and 'unani' medicines and is under the Ministry of AYUSH.

The Government holds 98.11 per cent stake in IMPCL and the rest 1.89 per cent is held by Uttarakhand Government PSU Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd.

The Government has come out with a "global invitation" for Expression of Interest for the proposed strategic disinvestment of its entire stake in IMPCL.

Mallya laments 'airline karma' in message for Jet Airways

UNESCO experts offer help to reconstruct Notre Dame

PTI ■ UNITED NATIONS

Two-thirds of the largely medieval roof of the famed Notre Dame cathedral in Paris have "gone" after the devastating fire, but UN cultural experts are standing by to offer help in rebuilding the iconic structure, UNESCO World Heritage Centre Director Mechthild Rosler said.

Rosler, who visited the site Tuesday, told UN News that the cathedral is a universal symbol and the centre of France and its devastation has left people across nations shocked.

She described seeing people praying outside the stricken symbol of the city and the nation, still trying to take in the scale of the disaster.

"I saw many, many people going from the Metro, to the site of Notre Dame, and I have to say many are still in a state of shock, because it's not only the Christian community, it's a building for all of us," she said. "Really, it's a universal symbol and it's the centre of France... I think this is really shocking people profoundly and they lost something that is part of their identity."

Rosler said that a team of UNESCO experts is on hand to investigate the stability of the stonework and potential damage to stained glass windows, echoing a statement by the UNESCO Director-General, Audrey Azoulay, in which she announced that a "rapid damage assessment" would be carried out as soon as possible with the authorities.

After visiting the site of Notre Dame on Monday night, Azoulay said "we are all heartbroken."

The Cathedral is part of the World Heritage site officially known as "Paris, Banks of the Seine", inscribed on the World

Heritage List, in 1991. "Notre Dame represents a historically, architecturally, and spiritually, outstanding universal heritage. It is also a monument of literary heritage, a place that is unique in our collective imagination," said the UNESCO chief, adding that the inferno which engulfed the cathedral, but appears to have left the medieval stonework intact, "reminds us of the power of heritage that connects us to one another."

We are receiving messages of support from all over the world.

Indonesia's 'everyman' leader on track to beat firebrand ex-general

AFF ■ JAKARTA

Indonesia's Joko Widodo was on track to be re-elected leader of the world's third-biggest democracy with pollsters giving him a wide lead over rival Prabowo Subianto, a firebrand ex-general, hours after voting closed Wednesday across the 17,000-island archipelago.

While official results are not due until next month, a series of so-called "quick counts" by pollsters showed Widodo holding a strong lead with around 55 per cent of the vote to Subianto's 44 per cent.

The vote officially ended at 1:00 pm (0600 GMT) in Sumatra, although some of the 800,000 polling stations across the volcano-dotted nation remained open late due to delays and long queues.

From the jungles of Borneo to the slums of Jakarta, Wednesday saw millions of Indonesians cast their ballots in one of the world's biggest exercises in democracy. Horses, elephants, motorbikes, boats and planes were pressed into service to get ballot boxes out across the vast country that is home to hundreds of ethnic groups and languages.

More than 190 million voters were asked to choose between the incumbent Widodo, lauded for his infrastructure driven economic push, and his fiery nationalist rival, who has strong ties to the country's three-decade Suharto dictatorship.

The call to prayer had rang out as voting began at first light in restive Papua province in the east.

Almost 90 per cent of the population of the 4,800 kilometre-long country are Muslim.

The campaign was punctuated by bitter mudslinging and a slew of fake news online -- much directed at the presidential contenders.

Leading in pre-vote polls, President Joko Widodo, 57, pointed to his ambitious drive to build much-needed roads, airports and other infrastructure across Southeast Asia's largest economy.

China claims Azhar issue at UNSC headed for settlement; says no Apr 23 deadline

PTI ■ BEIJING

China Wednesday dismissed reports that the US, the UK and France have served an ultimatum to Beijing to lift its "technical hold" by April 23 on branding Pakistan-based JeM chief Masood Azhar as a global terrorist by the UN but claimed the vexed issue was "moving towards settlement".

After the Pulwama attack, a fresh proposal to designate Azhar under the 1267 Al Qaeda Sanctions Committee of the UN Security Council was moved by France, the US and the UK.

However, China, a close ally of Pakistan, blocked the bid by putting a "technical hold" on the proposal. Following this, the US backed by the UK and France moved directly to UN Security Council (UNSC) to blacklist Azhar. China, a veto-wielding member of the UNSC, opposed the move, saying the issue should be resolved at the 1267 Committee itself which also functioned under the top UN body.

Reacting to reports that the three countries have fixed April 23 as a deadline for China to lift its technical hold in the 1267

Committee or else they would press for a discussion on the issue at the UNSC itself, Foreign Ministry spokesman Lu Kang said, "I don't know where you get such information."

He said both the UNSC and its subsidiary body 1267 Committee have clear rules and procedures.

"You need to get clarification from the sources about where you get such information. China's position is very clear. This issue should be resolved through cooperation. We don't believe that any efforts without the consensus of members will achieve a satisfying results," he said.

"On the issue of listing Azhar, China's position remains unchanged. We also stay in communication with relevant parties. The matter is moving towards the direction of settlement," he said.

"The relevant parties are forcing new resolution through the UN Security Council. We firmly oppose that. In fact, the relevant discussion in UNSC, most member expressed wish that this issue should be discussed within the 1267 Committee and they don't hope to bypass it to handle the issue," he said.

Sudan's Bashir moved to prison as protesters rally

AFF ■ KHARTOUM

Sudan's military rulers have transferred ousted president Omar al-Bashir to prison, a family source said Wednesday, as demonstrators keep up their sit-in outside the army complex calling for a swift transfer to civilian government.

Following the dramatic end to Bashir's rule of three decades last week, he was moved late Tuesday "to Kober prison in Khartoum", the source said without revealing his name for security reasons. Witnesses near the prison in north Khartoum said there was a heavy deployment of soldiers and members of a paramilitary group outside.

The 75-year-old's whereabouts have been unknown since a military takeover on Thursday, when the country's new rulers said he was being held "in a secure place".

The detention of Bashir has failed to pacify protesters, who launched anti-government demonstrations in December and have for days been camped out in front of Khartoum's army headquarters.

Sudan's military rulers have made some concessions to protesters, including the sacking Tuesday of prosecutor general Omer Ahmed Mohamed, but demonstrators fear their uprising could be hijacked.

"We faced tear gas, many of us were jailed. We have been shot and many have died. All this because we said what we wanted to," protester Fadia Khalaf told AFP.

Officials say at least 65 people have been killed in protest-related violence since December, with some of those killed immortalised in a Khartoum mural.

While there have been scenes of celebration -- with demonstrators singing and waving their national flag -- the protest site has grown more tense amid concerns the army will try to clear the sit-in with force.

"Now we fear that our revolution could be stolen, which is why we are keeping our ground here. We are staying here until our demands are met," said Khalaf.

Earlier this week witnesses said several army vehicles had surrounded the area and that troops were removing the barricades which demonstrators had put up as a security measure.

On taking power on Thursday the army said a military council would run the country for two years, sparking an immediate backlash from protest leaders who have issued a series of demands.

Just a day later former defence minister General Awad Ibn Ouf stepped down as council chief, sparking jubilation on the streets of Khartoum.

His successor General Abdel Fattah al-Burhan oversaw weekend talks with political parties, which failed to make headway.

Sudan's foreign minister has said Burhan is "committed to having a complete civilian government" and has called on other nations to back the council. The military rulers dispatched an envoy to the African Union's headquarters in the Ethiopian capital Addis Ababa, but the regional bloc threatened to suspend Sudan over the coup.

UN finds torture, ill-treatment in Afghan prisons

AP ■ KABUL

A UN report says around a third of all conflict-related detainees in Afghanistan report being subjected to torture or ill-treatment.

UN officials interviewed a total of 618 detainees held in 77 facilities across the country between January 2017 and December 2018. The alleged torture included suffocation, electric shocks, pulling of genitals and suspension from ceilings.

The UN mission to Afghanistan and the U.N. Human Rights Office released the joint report on Wednesday.

The US-backed Afghan government is holding thousands of detainees, many of them captured as part of the ongoing war with the Taliban.

Trump vetoes bill to end US support for Saudi-led Yemen war

AFF ■ WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump on Tuesday vetoed a resolution from Congress directing him to end US support for the Saudi-led war in Yemen, the second such move of his presidency.

The resolution was a harsh bipartisan rebuke to Trump that took the historic step of curtailing a president's war-making powers -- a step he condemned in a statement announcing his veto.

"This resolution is an unnecessary, dangerous attempt to weaken my constitutional authorities, endangering the lives of American citizens and brave service members, both today and in the future," Trump said.

The veto was the second of his presidency, after he overrode a congressional resolution that aimed to reverse the border emergency he declared in order to secure more funding for his wall between the United States and Mexico in March.

Vetoing the measure is an "effective green light for the war strategy that has created the world's worst humanitarian crisis to continue," said International Rescue Committee president and CEO David Miliband.

"Yemen is at a breaking point with 10 million people on the brink of famine. There are as many as 100 civilian casualties per week, and Yemenis are more likely to be killed at home than in any other structure," Trump argued that US support for the bloody war between the Saudi-backed Yemeni government and Iran-aligned Huthi rebels was necessary for a variety of reasons,

"first and foremost" to "protect the safety of the more than 80,000 Americans who reside in certain coalition countries." These countries "have been subject to Huthi attacks from Yemen," he said, referring to drone and missile strikes the Saudi-led coalition has either claimed were intercepted or denied altogether.

The president also said the resolution would "harm the foreign policy of the United States" and "harm our bilateral relationships."

And it would "negatively affect our ongoing efforts to prevent civilian casualties and prevent the spread of terrorist organizations such as Al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula and ISIS, and embolden Iran's malign activities in Yemen," Trump said, referring to two Sunni Muslim militant groups and his Shiite bete noire.

'US seeks to extend detention of some asylum seekers'

AFF ■ WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump's administration has issued an order that could keep some asylum seekers in jail for months or years as they wait for their cases to be heard. The New York Times reported Tuesday.

The order from Attorney General Bill Barr directs immigration judges to no longer allow asylum seekers who are apprehended after entering the country illegally to post bail, the newspaper said. The order -- which will not go into effect for 90 days -- does not affect those who apply for asylum at a legal port of entry, the Times reported. The move was quickly condemned by the American Civil Liberties Union rights organization, which vowed to challenge it in court.

"Our Constitution does not allow the government to lock up asylum seekers without basic due process. We'll see the administration in court. Again," the ACLU tweeted.

Trump has staked his presidency on his insistence that the United States is being overrun by migrants and asylum seekers.

But opponents, mostly in the Democratic Party, say his push for building more walls on the Mexican border and his almost daily denunciations of migrants as dangerous criminals incites racial hatred.

The president declared an emergency to bypass Congress and unlock funds for his controversial wall project, and has also deployed troops to the border with Mexico.

Iran Minister briefs Erdogan on Assad meeting

AFF ■ ISTANBUL

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan on Wednesday met with Iran's foreign minister, who arrived in Ankara to brief him on his meeting with Syria's President Bashar al-Assad.

Turkey supports Syrian opposition rebels and Iran backs Assad in Syria's long war, but the two sides have been expanding contacts amid international efforts to end the fighting.

Kazakhstan will host a fresh round of Syria talks on April 25-26 in its capital, recently renamed from Astana to Nur-Sultan.

"I had a long interview with Bashar al-Assad. I will be giving details of these discussions to Mr. Erdogan," Iran's Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif told reporters in translated comments.

Ankara broke ties with Damascus in 2011 after the start of the Syrian war, and Erdogan has in the past described Assad as an "assassin".

But Erdogan acknowledged in February that low-level contacts have been taking place and his rhetoric has also softened in tone in recent months.

Facing arrest, Peru ex-president Garcia shoots himself

AFF ■ LIMA

Peru's former president Alan Garcia shot himself in the head at his home on Wednesday as police were about to arrest him in a sprawling corruption case, his lawyer and hospital officials said.

The 69-year-old Garcia was undergoing emergency surgery for "a bullet wound to his head" at the Casimiro Ulloa Emergency Hospital in Lima, the hospital said. Peru's Health Minister Zulema Tomas said Garcia was in "very serious and critical" condition.

"We've had to resuscitate him three times. He's had three cardiac arrests," said Tomas.

"He is in a delicate condition and the prognosis is reserved," added the health ministry, which said the bullet went straight through Garcia's head.

The attempted arrest took place at 6:30 a.m. (1130 GMT) at Garcia's home in the posh Miraflores neighborhood of Lima. "This morning there was a regrettable accident: the president took the decision to shoot himself," Erasmo Reyna, Garcia's lawyer, told reporters outside the hospital.

Garcia, who was president from 1985-90 and again from 2006-11, is suspected of having taken bribes from Brazilian construction giant Odebrecht in return for large-scale public works contracts.

In November he sought refuge in the Uruguayan Embassy and applied for asylum but he left the next month after it was denied.

14 members of an Afghan family killed in Pakistan

PTI ■ KARACHI

14 Members of an Afghan family, including women and children, were killed in a road accident when the vehicle they were travelling in collided head on with a truck on the Karachi-Quetta highway here.

Six family members were injured in the accident that took place on Tuesday after the driver of the truck coming from the opposite direction lost control of the vehicle near Mastung on the highway.

The final rites of the deceased were held on Wednesday.

An official of the Edhi Welfare Trust said the deceased belonged to an extended family that resided in Karachi and were Afghans who were going to Qila Abdullah in Baluchistan for the funeral of a relative when they met with the accident.

"Nine people had died on the spot after the accident while five others passed away later in hospital," he said.

Earlier in July last year, 20 people including women had lost their lives after their vehicle fell down off the road near Mastung on the highway.

NASA's new way to defend Earth from asteroids

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

NASA scientists have found a simple yet ingenious way to spot tiny near-Earth objects (NEOs) early as they hurtle towards the planet, an advance that may aid the efforts to prevent dangerous impacts.

The Chelyabinsk meteor, which was a mere 17-20 metres across, caused extensive ground damage and numerous injuries when it exploded on impact with Earth's atmosphere in February 2013.

"If we find an object only a few days from impact, it greatly limits our choices, so in our search efforts we have focused on finding NEOs when they are away from Earth, providing the maximum amount of time and opening up a wider range of mitigation possibilities," said Amy Mainzer from NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL).

However, it is a difficult task -- like spotting a lump of coal in the night's sky, Mainzer said.

"NEOs are intrinsically faint because they are mostly really small and far away from us in space," she said in a statement.

"Add to this the fact that some of them are as dark as printer toner, and trying to spot them against the black of space is very hard," Mainzer said.

Instead of using visible light to spot incoming objects, Mainzer's team at JPL/Caltech has leveraged a characteristic signature of NEOs -- their heat.

Asteroids and comets are warmed by the sun and so glow brightly at thermal wavelengths (infrared), making them easier to spot with the Near-Earth Object Wide-field Infrared Survey Explorer (NEOWISE) telescope.

"With the NEOWISE mission we can spot objects regardless of their surface colour, and use it to measure their sizes and other surface properties," Mainzer said.

Discovering NEO surface properties provides an insight into how big the objects are and what they are made of, both critical details in mounting a defensive strategy against an Earth-threatening NEO, researchers said.

For instance, one defensive strategy is to physically "nudge" an NEO away from an Earth impact trajectory, they said.

However, to calculate the energy required for that nudge, details of NEO mass, and therefore size and composition, are necessary. Astronomers also think that examining the composition of asteroids will help to understand how the solar system was formed.

"These objects are intrinsically interesting because some are thought to be as old as the original material that made up the solar system," Mainzer said.

She is now keen to leverage advances in camera technology to aid in the search for NEOs.

"We are proposing to NASA a new telescope, the Near-Earth Object Camera (NEOCam), to do a much more comprehensive job of mapping asteroid locations and measuring their sizes," Mainzer said.

Ponting surprised at 'X-factor' Pant's exclusion

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Australian great Ricky Ponting on Wednesday expressed surprise at Rishabh Pant's exclusion from India's World Cup squad, saying he could have been the X factor in the playing eleven.

Ponting met Pant on Monday night, hours after the India squad was announced with Dinesh Karthik being preferred over the 21-year-old for the reserve wicketkeeper's slot.

"Yes I was surprised when he was left out of the Indian squad. I thought he would be in and he would be in the starting eleven. I thought someone like him batting at four or five could have been that X factor and the difference between India and the other teams," said the Delhi Capitals head coach.

Ponting had nothing but words of encouragement for the star Delhi Capitals player.

"One thing we know about Indian cricket that there is a lot of depth around in batting and this time Rishabh has missed out. Knowing what he is like and the talent he has, I would be surprised if he doesn't play in at least three world cups before his career is over.

"I had a quick chat with him. He seems to have taken it pretty well. There is no doubt that he is disappointed, he would have loved to be in that squad but the thing he still has to remember is, potentially he will get the opportunity to play in three to four World Cups.

"What is negative thing for the Indian team is positive for Delhi capitals. Really happy that the decision has been made and he can focus on the back half of the tournament."

Pant at times has been criticised for throwing away a good start. Asked if that could be the reason selectors did not pick Pant, Ponting said: "I don't know the selection criteria. Don't know why he is not being picked. I don't know why the other guys have been picked ahead of him. To be honest it is none of my business.

"Though I don't think he is impatient, he is a very smart player. I think he sums up situations and conditions really well. But they obviously have their reasons for not picking him and I am not going to comment on that.

"I actually think he missing out you will see a different player in the IPL. His determination will shine through and I am sure he will score heavily in the back half of the tournament," he said.

Sunrisers restrict Mahi-less Chennai to 132-5

CSK batsmen fail to find boundaries and score just 52 runs in last 10 overs

PTI ■ HYDERABAD

Sunrisers Hyderabad bowled a nagging line and length to restrict Chennai Super Kings to 132 for five in their Indian Premier League match here on Wednesday.

Leading the side in the absence of Mahendra Singh Dhoni, who was rested for the game because of back spasm, Suresh Raina opted to bat after the coin landed in his favour. But the decision did not work wonders for the visitors as the Sunrisers bowlers produced a disciplined effort to pick up five wickets for 22 runs.

Opener Faf du Plessis top-scored with a 31-ball 45 and added 79 runs for the opening wicket with Shane Watson (31). CSK did not have much to cheer about after that as the hosts made a remarkable comeback. Ignored for the World Cup, Ambati Rayudu remained not out on 25 off 21 balls.

While leg-spinner Rashid Khan was the most successful bowler with economical figures of 2/17 in four overs, seamers Bhuvneshwar Kumar (0/21) and Khaleel Ahmed (1/22) were also miserly.

It was a quite beginning for CSK as Bhuvneshwar conceded just one run in the opening over. Complementing his senior pace partner, Khaleel also bowled a tight first over, giving away only three runs. In a manner least convincing, CSK found their first boundary when Watson's thick edge went flying over the slip cordon.

Du Plessis drove Khaleel over his head for a boundary in the fourth over, a proper cricketing shot this time around, and CSK followed that with a flurry of fours and sixes.

While Watson found the fence four times, Du Plessis hit two maximums to up the ante at the Rajiv Gandhi International Stadium.

Having added 79 runs in just under 10 overs, Watson was bowled by left-arm spinner Shahbaz Nadeem, giving the home fans something to cheer about after a prolonged wait.

The Australia's dismissal triggered a collapse, from which the Super Kings struggled to recover.

BACK SPASM RULES OUT MS

Struggling with back spasm, Chennai Super Kings skipper Mahendra Singh Dhoni was on Wednesday rested for their IPL clash against Sunrisers Hyderabad, the first time he is not leading the yellow brigade since 2010.

Suresh Raina was handed over the captaincy for the away game at the Rajiv Gandhi International Stadium.

"Dhoni wanted to take some rest, he'll be back in the next game," Raina said at the toss.

The decision to rest the veteran was a precautionary measure.

The two-time World Cup winning captain had suffered the injury against Kolkata Knight Riders and after that game, Dhoni had said, "It's a little tight right now but hopefully, it will get better."

Ahead of the match, Dhoni was seen warming up by playing some football before Raina walked out for the toss.

This is only the fourth time Dhoni is not playing for Chennai Super Kings in the cash-rich league.

Dhoni has been in good form for Chennai Super Kings in the 2019 IPL, leading the team's run chart with 230 runs from eight matches, including two fifties.

CSK, who have won seven out of their eight matches in this Indian Premier League so far, need another win to secure a play-off berth.

Capitals eye home gains against MI

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Rishabh Pant will be in focus after his fiercely-debated World Cup exclusion when a buoyant Delhi Capitals aim to replicate its stellar away form at home against the Mumbai Indians here at Feroz Shah Kotla on Thursday.

Pant has been mum on being ignored for the World Cup in favour of Dinesh Karthik and it would be interesting to see how the 21-year-old's bat responds to the disappointment.

With 10 points from eight games, both teams are on course to make the play-offs. While that counts as familiar territory for three-time IPL champions Mumbai Indians, Capitals are in the middle of a remarkable resurgence, having not finished in the top-four since 2012.

The celebrated duo of head coach Ricky Ponting and mentor Sourav Ganguly has managed to instill belief in the team members and that is visible on the field. The team now seems to believe that it can win the title after a long spell as the perennial underachiever of the competition.

The South African pace combine of Kagiso Rabada and Chris Morris have delivered for the team. Even in the previous game against Sunrisers Hyderabad, the two pacers shared seven wickets to fashion an unlikely win for Capitals who successfully defended 155 by bowling out the hosts for 116.

West Indies pacer Keemo Paul too has come to the party in the last two games by picking up five wickets. The batting unit, led by captain Shreyas Iyer, is also hitting its strides with Dhawan back among the runs following a few quiet games.

His opening partner is due for a big knock after making little impact in the last five games.

But the centre of attention will be Pant, who will be playing his first game after missing out on a World Cup spot, a decision that has divided opinions.

The focus will also be on the Kotla pitch which has already copped criticism for its slowish nature. Ponting had described it as the "worst possible" track for the home team after a loss earlier in the tournament.

Apart from the super over game against KKR, the other two matches here have been low-scoring affairs with the home team ending on the wrong side of the result on both occasions.

Like Capitals, Mumbai is also getting better with each game and look a more potent outfit with the return of Lasith Malinga. Hardik Pandya is also firing on all cylinders.

Capitals got the better of Mumbai Indians at Wankhede earlier in the competition, so expect the Rohit Sharma-led squad to come back harder at Kotla.

Karunaratne to lead SL

AFP ■ COLOMBO

Veteran pacer Lasith Malinga was sacked as ODI skipper with Sri Lanka Cricket (SLC) on Wednesday naming Test captain Dimuth Karunaratne to lead the country at the 50 over World cup in England beginning May 30.

The World cup squad will be announced on Thursday, SLC said.

"Karunaratne's appointment was ratified by the Minister of Telecommunications, Foreign Employment and Sports Honorable Harin Fernando," Sri Lanka Cricket said in a release.

31-year-old Karunaratne, who didn't play a single ODI since the 2015 World Cup, has only featured in 17 ODIs and averages 15.83 with a high score of 60.

He will replace Malinga, who had captained the team during the 0-5 loss to South Africa in the ODI series.

Malinga, who led Sri Lanka to a World T20 trophy in 2014, had personal disagreements with the team management and certain senior players, which also soured his stint as captain.

Karunaratne, a Test opener, forced himself into the ODI captaincy following his success in the Test arena. He led Sri Lanka to a historic 2-0 Test triumph in South Africa and made Sri Lanka the only Asian side to win a Test series in South Africa.

The other option was Angelo Mathews, who has been Sri Lanka's ODI captain in two separate stints before. But Mathews is said to have declined the offer to captain citing his disagreements with coach Chandika Hathurusinghe.

The news will come as a blow for Malinga, who had played a domestic match in Kandy, only 14 hours after playing an IPL match for his franchise Mumbai Indians in Mumbai, earlier this month.

Apart from Malinga and Mathews, Sri Lanka had also tried Dinesh Chandimal and Thisara Perera to lead the side at various stages over the past two years since the retirement of Kumar Sangakkara and Mahela Jayawardene in 2014.

Pant, Rayudu named India's standbys for WC

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Young wicket-keeper Rishabh Pant and veteran batsman Ambati Rayudu were on Wednesday named among the standbys for India's World Cup squad, reigniting their dashed hopes of making the trip to the UK in case an injury setback hits the side.

Speedster Navdeep Saini also found a place in the list of three back-ups for the mega-event starting on May 30.

With the ICC doing away with the practice of letting countries announce a 'probables' list before the final squad, the BCCI also has the option of including anyone apart from these three but it is unlikely to happen.

"Just like ICC Champions Trophy, we have three standbys. Rishabh Pant and Ambati Rayudu are the first and second standbys while Saini is the bowler in the list. So if anyone gets injured, as per requirement, one of the three will be going," a senior BCCI official said on Wednesday.

While Khaleel Ahmed, Avesh Khan and Deepak Chahar will be travelling with the team purely as net bowlers, they can also be drafted in if the management feels so.

"Khaleel, Avesh and Deepak are not designated standbys. In case of bowlers, that possibility is there but when it comes purely to batsmen, it will be either Rishabh or Rayudu," the official said.

In other developments, there will be no Yo-Yo Test for the World Cup-bound players as the IPL is going to end only on May 12, just a few days before India head to the UK.

"The players are already in the middle of a gruelling T20 season. Once the IPL ends, they will need recovery time.

"It's not like that there is a gap between two series and you are having a test. If you are tired, the results may vary," the official explained.

Pak to name WC squad with two reserves

PTI ■ KARACHI

Battling concerns over the form and fitness of some of their players, the Pakistan selection committee headed by Inzamam-ul-Haq has decided to announce the World Cup squad on Thursday with two reserves.

The selection committee has decided to utilise the five-match one-day series against England and some side matches as the barometer for making changes in the 15-member World Cup squad, if required, by the deadline of 23rd May.

"The selectors after consulting head coach, Mickey Arthur have more or less decided on the 15-member World Cup squad and two reserves who will be on the flight to England for the World Cup and before that play at the one-day series against England and some side matches," said a source close to the selectors on Wednesday.

"The concerns are over the fitness of left arm spin allrounder, Imad Wasim, the present form of experienced left arm pacer, Muhammad Aamir and a debate on who will be the reserve opener in the World Cup.

The source said Imad would be picked in the squad with the other left-arm spin allrounder Muhammad Nawaz among the reserves so that if Imad is unable to be 100 percent fit before the World Cup he can be replaced.

Muhammad Aamir managed to snap just five wickets in his last 14 ODIs and the source said selectors and team management have some reservations over the form of the experienced pacer.

"Fakhar, Imam, Haris, Babar Azam, Shoaib Malik, Muhammad Hafeez, Muhammad Rizwan, Sarfaraz Ahmed (Capt), Shadab Khan, Faheem Ashraf, Junaid Khan, Emdad Wasim, Shaheen Shah Afridi and Muhammad Aamir are certain selections while for the one slot the toss up is between Abid Ali and hard-hitting middle order batsman, Asif Ali.

"The reserve players will include Muhammad Nawaz and Muhammad Hasnain."

Archer given chance to stake WC claim

AFP ■ LONDON

England chief selector Ed Smith is confident the call-up of uncapped all-rounder Jofra Archer will have no adverse affect on team morale in the run-up to the World Cup.

Rising star Archer was included on Wednesday in a 17-man squad for next month's one-day internationals against Ireland and Pakistan.

The dynamic Barbados-born Archer was left out of the 15-man preliminary World Cup squad also announced by tournament hosts England.

But he could have as many as six one-day internationals — one against Ireland and five against Pakistan — to stake his claim before England confirm their final World Cup squad on May 23.

Sussex pacer Archer, 24, has an English father and holds a British passport.

He completed a three-year qualification period on March 17 after the England and Wales Cricket Board changed its residency rules.

Under the previous system, he would not have been eligible until the winter of 2022 after a seven-year residency.

Archer and another Barbados-born Sussex player Chris Jordan were both added to the 15-man squad that played a one-day series in the West Indies earlier this year.

They were also included in the 14-strong party for a one-off Twenty20 against Pakistan. Archer has been impressing in the Indian Premier League, where he took three for 15 for the Rajasthan Royals against Kings XI Punjab on Tuesday.

"The selection panel has been impressed with Jofra Archer's performances in domestic and franchise cricket," said Smith. "He is a very talented and exciting cricketer."

"In line with ICC regulations, we have to name a preliminary squad of 15 for the ICC Men's Cricket World Cup before April 23.

"However, all 17 players named in the Royal London ODIs against Pakistan can stake a claim to be in the final 15-man squad, finalised at the end of that series."

SHASTRI TELLS EXCLUDED BUNCH NOT TO LOSE HEART

PTI ■ DUBAI

India coach Ravi Shastri on Wednesday said he would have preferred a 16-member World Cup squad instead of the mandated 15 and urged those who missed out to "not lose heart".

India on Monday announced a 15-strong squad for the mega-event, starting May 30, and the omissions of young keeper-batsman Rishabh Pant and veteran Ambati Rayudu triggered a debate on the choices made by the selectors.

Shastri steered clear of commenting on the furore.

"I don't get involved in selection. If we have any opinion, we let the captain know," Shastri was quoted as saying by the Sport360 website.

"When you only have 15 to pick, there is bound to be someone or the other who misses out, which is very unfortunate. I would have preferred 16 players. We had mentioned to the ICC that in a tournament that long, 16 players makes sense. But the diktat was 15," he added.

Shastri said those who missed the final 15 should look ahead as opportunity can knock anytime.

"They (who missed out) shouldn't lose heart. It's a funny game. There could be injuries. So you never know when you could be called up," he said.

When pressed on Vijay Shankar's selection for the No 4 slot months after captain Virat Kohli declared Rayudu as the front-runner for the position, Shastri said the spot remains a flexible one.

"Total flexibility (on No 4 position) depending on conditions, opposition. I would say the top three... but after that you can be very flexible," he said.

MAINTAIN FOOD SAFELY

Contaminated and adulterated foods are major causes for food-borne illnesses. Safe and good-quality foods are essential for good health. Naturally-occurring toxins, environmental contaminants and adulterants in foods constitute a health hazard, says TEAM VIVA

To maintain food safety is important as it could harm to extreme levels. Food safety is about handling, storing and preparing food to prevent infection and help to make sure that our food keeps enough nutrients for us to have a healthy diet. Unsafe food and water means that it has been exposed to dirt and germs, or may even be rotten, which can cause infections or diseases such as diarrhoea, meningitis, etc.

These diseases can make people very sick or even be life threatening. When people are sick, they are weak and would have difficulty working or concentrating at school. Some of these infections also make it difficult for our bodies to absorb the nutrients they need to get healthy. Unsafe or stale foods also deteriorate and be of poor quality, which means they lose nutrients and so, we do not get enough of what we need for a healthy diet. So unsafe food can also lead to poor nutrition.

Contaminated and adulterated foods are major causes for several food-borne illnesses safe and good-quality foods are essential for maintaining good health. Naturally-occurring toxins, environmental contaminants and adulterants in foods constitute a health hazard.

Consumption of unsafe foods can lead to food-borne diseases. Buy food items from reliable sources after careful examination. Wash vegetables and fruits thoroughly before use.

Store the raw and cooked foods properly and prevent microbial, rodent and insect invasion.

Refrigerate perishable food items. Maintain good personal hygiene and keep the cooking and food storage areas clean and safe. Always use thoroughly cleaned utensils for cooking/eating.

Microbes (bacteria and moulds) and their products are responsible for food spoilage. Natural enzymes present in food also lead to its deterioration. Besides, insects, rodents, adulterants, natural toxins and various chemical residues beyond permissible levels, make the food unwholesome. In addition to moisture and environmental conditions like temperature, storage time also influence the quality of the food.

Selection of the right food is the first step to ensure safe and good quality diet. Food items purchased from reliable sources having a high turnover ensure their freshness. Some foods carry certification mark assuring good quality. For example AGMARK for honey and ghee; FPO (Fruit Products Order) for fruit and vegetable products (jams, squashes, etc); ISI (Bureau of Indian Standards) for food colours and essences. While purchasing packaged food always look for 'best before' or 'date of expiry'.

Food grains purchased should be free from infestation and foreign matter (rodent excreta and insect remains). They should be of uniform size and should not be shrivelled, shrunken or mouldy. Foodstuffs should be free from artificial colors. There is a risk of adulteration when fats/oils are purchased loose from unsealed containers. Therefore, it is always safer to purchase reputed brand products in sealed sachets/containers. It is necessary to buy pasteurized milk in sachets from a reputed dairy or a reliable vendor to avoid the risk of adulteration and contamination. Milk products such as butter, ghee and khoa should also be purchased from reliable sources. Whole spices, uniform in color, size and shape should be preferred. Since powdered spices are more likely to be adulterated, always buy certified products. Fruits and vegetables that show patches, physical damage with bruises or wilted and decayed with visible evidence of insects and moulds, should be avoided. Eggs should be fresh and free from cracks. Meat or poultry must be examined for characteristic color, odor and texture and should be purchased fresh or frozen. Freshness of fresh-water fish is indicated by a stiff body, bright, clear and bulging eyes, reddish gills, tight scales and absence of stale odor or discoloration. Fresh fish will not show any pitting on finger pressure.

Agricultural commodities should be dried and adequately in a safe storage structure, to protect them from moisture and to prevent the damage from microbes like bacteria and mould producing toxins (eg. aflatoxins). Rodent attacks, and the presence of insects and microbes, not only reduce the availability of nutrients but render the foods harmful. Frequent and careful disinfection of the storage premises using rodenticides like aluminium phosphide is essential. Some traditional household practices such as application of edible oils to grains, placing dried neem leaves in storage bins etc., are known to prevent infestations.

Foodborne infections and toxicities are common particularly with consumption of susceptible foods such as milk products like khoa, meat, poultry and even cooked foods like rice. Improper processing, handling and cooking, and keeping cooked foods in warm conditions for several hours before eating, promote bacterial growth and toxin production.

Perishable foods like milk, meat, vegetables and cooked foods, are prone to spoilage due to microbes. These foods should be stored under refrigeration, preferably at a temperature of 10oc or less, which retards multiplication of microorganisms. However, even refrigerated foods, if stored for long, can get spoilt. Cross contamination can be avoided by keeping cooked and raw foods separately.

In case of food which is cooked, if not consumed immediately has to be stored for some time, it should be kept either hot (more than 60oc) or be cooled quickly (below 10oc). Most micro-organisms multiply at temperatures between 10 and 60oc. Refrigerated cooked food should be heated before consumption.

Use of spoons and ladles should be encouraged to avoid contamination. Hands should be washed thoroughly with soap before starting the preparation of food and after every interruption.

Household pets like cats and dogs often harbour dangerous pathogens. They should be kept away from places where food is cooked, stored or served.

Foods may be adulterated with non-food material or inferior quality product. Spoilt, stale or poor quality food is made attractive and fresh by adding harmful colors or other chemicals. Frequently adulterated food items are milk and milk products, cereals, pulses and their products, edible oils and spices. The different classes of adulterants include non-permitted colors like metanil yellow; non-edible oils like castor oil; cheaper agricultural produce like various starches in milk powder; extraneous matter like husk, sand and sawdust; and metal contaminants like aluminum or iron filings. Consumption of adulterated foods could lead to disease outbreaks of epidemic proportions. Buying from a reliable and reputed source, careful checking of foods before purchase and insisting on certified brands will all minimize the risk of food adulteration.

Sidharth's next on forced marriages

Actor SIDHARTH MALHOTRA, who has wrapped up shooting his upcoming film Jabriya Jodi, said the romantic comedy film is based on Pakadwa Vivah (forced marriage), which is rampant in Bihar.

Sidharth said, "We have been shooting since last year. We created a lot of things of Patna in Lucknow. I think I haven't played this kind of role earlier in my career and for Parineeti also, it's a different world and role. We are really excited for the film."

He is glad to have collaborated with Parineeti Chopra again after Hasee Toh Phasee.

'For me, it is not about nationality or colour, but about identity. Is there something which you can put in your character that is uniquely you and that your people will identify with? It is less about roles and more about characteristics.'

After nearly three years, EMRAAN HASHMI has signed a horror film Ezra, which is the Hindi remake of a Malayalam horror film.

Emraan said, "Horror is a genre with immense potential. A well-made horror film will always draw audiences in huge numbers to cinema halls. With Ezra, we hope to push the boundaries further and give the audience an experience that they will never forget. I'm happy to be associating with Kumarji (Mangat Pathak) and Abhishek (Pathak) on this film and with Jay (Krishnan) at the helm of things all I can say is be prepared for one hell of a spooky ride."

Turner thought about suicide

Game of Thrones star SOPHIE TURNER said that she used to think about suicide a lot after being branded fat and a bad actress.

Turner, who is in therapy and medication, also credited her fiancé Joe Jonas with helping her through depression, admitting "when someone tells you they love you every day it makes you love yourself."

She said that she first began having mental health issues when she was 17, explaining that living at her parents' home while she worked and her friends and brothers were away at university, was a triggering factor.

"I've suffered with depression for six years now. The toughest part for me is getting out of bed and the house. Learning to love yourself is the biggest challenge," she said.

AMAZING GRACE

While comparisons with Chandramukhi are inevitable, actor MADHURI DIXIT tells SAIMI SATTAR that it is the treatment of Bahaar Begum in Kalank which sets it apart

As soon as the teasers of Kalank came out, the comparisons between Madhuri Dixit's portrayal of Chandramukhi in Devdas and Bahaar Begum in the new film became inevitable. However, Madhuri feels that while the appearance might be similar, in grain, they are different women. "Bahaar Begum is a very reticent person. She is an introvert and is emotionally scarred because of a past tragedy which has made her what she is. She is silent, yet conveys a lot through her eyes. As compared to her, Chandramukhi wore her heart on her sleeve. Her love for Devdas was there for everyone to see. She could go all out and sing Maar Daala," says the actor, who critics say, "lit up the screen in every frame" in her newest outing.

Madhuri, known for her dancing prowess, reunites with Sanjay Dutt in Kalank, to whom she was rumoured to be romantically linked in her younger days. But she values the co-star bit. Besides, she stepped into the shoes of Sridevi who was supposed to essay the role before her tragic death. She says, "There was an emotional context to taking up the role. They were about to start and then things went haywire. Karan (Johar) is a friend and I decided to help them."

The film talks about 'Eternal Love' and Madhuri believes that it does exist. "I am a romantic person and I do believe it exists as whether you find it or not is your journey. There was a dialogue in Dil To Pagal Hai where I said Kahin na kahin, koi na koi mere liye banaya gaya hai... aur kabhi na kabhi main usse zaroor milungi. And I used to believe in that and I did meet Ram (Shriram Madhav Nene). He is my soulmate," she says.

The film also stars younger actors Varun Dhawan, Alia Bhatt, Sonakshi Sinha and Aditya Roy Kapur and she says, "The characters are complicated as their lives are not straight and each of their paths is interwoven with the others. All characters have a lot of angst and regrets. They are all grey and that is what makes the story interesting."

She is all praise for the four with whom she has worked this time around. "They are very professional. They are always on time. They learn their lines and work hard."

While the youngsters often imbibe the nuances of acting from her, there are tricks that they have taught her. "You see a new side to everything with them. It is wonderful to see this generation which is not only acting in movies but has a presence on the social media. There are so many different things that they do. You get to learn from them and they get to learn from us. So we inspire each other. It is a symbiotic relationship. There is a lot of synergy," she says and as someone, who too has signed up on various platforms, goes on to add, "I enjoy social media as it is a great tool to connect directly to fans. One can voice anything that has happened or if you have been misquoted, you can reach out to your fans directly through Twitter. You can share things whenever you want to."

Not just the stars, but even the way that the film industry functions has changed drastically since the time she made her debut in Aabhi in 1984 and ruled the silver screen during the greater part of the nineties. Madhuri saw both commercial and critical success and received six Filmfare Awards, which she topped up with a Padma Shri in 2008. She says, "Films are made professionally now. When I was doing a film like Tezaab, the only women that we saw on the sets were the co-stars, hairdressers and me. There were only two women directors, Sai Paranjpye and Aparna Sen. Women could only be hair dressers and not make-up artists as men blocked their entry and made sure that they were confined to one role. However, when I walk on to the sets today, there seem to be women everywhere. There is no concept of you can do this and you can't. Every department has women."

This is also reflected in the kind of stories that are now being told. With more women writers, there are characters with more flesh and blood. "Men perceive women in a different way. Earlier, it was very patriarchal, male-dominated view that was put out in the films. Women are no longer caricatures. They are not victims or avengers, they are roles and characters. The thought process of this generation is very different and this is reflected in the scripts. Otherwise, you wouldn't have a Badhaai Ho, Gulaab Gang or Deedh Ishqiya," says the actor who proved her acting chops with a film like Mrittyudand (1997) by Prakash Jha. She also famously served as a muse for painter MF Husain who made Gaja Gaminii (2000) starring her.

War of words

KANGANA RANAUT's tirade against ALIA BHATT wasn't enough. Her sister RANGOLI CHANDEL joined in as did actors SONI RAZDAN and RANDEEP HOODA

Actress Kangana Ranaut's tirade against Alia Bhatt wasn't enough, the former's sister Rangoli Chandel entered the 'war of words' zone, as did the Raazi actress' mother Soni Razdan and co-actor Randeep Hooda.

Kangana has been calling out Alia since earlier this year for not supporting her film Manikarnika: The Queen of Jhansi, and had claimed this was all a part of a "strange sort of racket" in a section of the film industry. She had also called Alia a product of Karan Johar's "nepotistic gang."

Ever since, Kangana has made several references regarding Alia, the latest being over her "mediocre" performance in the otherwise widely lauded Gully Boy.

But Alia said, "I respect Kangana's work a lot and I respect her opinion. If she feels a particular way she must have reason to feel that way. I would rather remember how much she had praised me after watching Raazi. And I'd just like to focus on my work. Maybe she will appreciate me again if I work hard enough."

The controversy took a different turn with Kangana's sister hitting out at Alia and her mother Soni Razdan, calling them "non Indians who are living off this land, using and abusing its people and its resources, lying about intolerance and spreading hatred."

"Time to think about their agenda and not to get carried away with their provocations," Rangoli had written on social media recently, referring to an article about the mother-daughter duo's British passports.

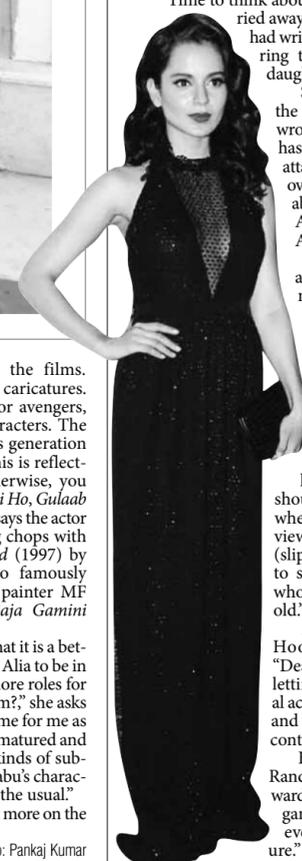

Soni finally broke her silence over the issue. In a now-deleted tweet, she wrote, "Mahesh Bhatt is the man who has given her a break... She goes on to attack his wife and daughter over and over again. What is left to be said then about abusing and hatred I wonder. Apart from character of course. Agenda. What's hers?"

Rangoli had a response soon after. "Dear Soniji, Mahesh Bhatt never gave her a break. Anurag Basu did. Mahesh Bhattji works as a creative director in his brother's production house. Please note that he doesn't own that production house. After Woh Lamhe, when Kangana refused to do a film written by him called Dhokha, where he wanted her to play a suicide bomber, he got so upset that he not only shouted at her in his office, but later when she went for Woh Lamhe preview to a theatre, he threw a chappal (slipper) on her. He didn't allow her to see her own film. She cried the whole night, and she was just 19 years old."

Alia's Highway co-star Randeep Hooda also stepped in, saying, "Dearest Alia, I'm so glad you are not letting the opinions of very occasional actors and chronic victims affect you and your work. Kudos to you for your continued efforts to outdo yourself."

But Rangoli retorted saying Randeep has been pushed to come forward in Alia's support as the "nepotism gang" didn't have the courage. She even called him a "permanent failure."

WORLD HERITAGE DAY

Preserve the past

The dictionary defines heritage as 'features belonging to the culture of a particular society, such as traditions, languages, or buildings, that were created in the past and still have historical importance'. So when one talks in terms of places, the United Nations has selected some which can be considered as humanity's most significant locations. These cover patches which range from historical icons like Venetian Lagoon to the Imperial Palace in Beijing and the Chartres Cathedral. This World Heritage Day, here is a list of some of mankind's highest achievements as well as natural wonders which should feature on every traveller's wishlist.

CHINA
With 52 noteworthy sites, China ranks second in UNESCO's World Heritage List. The Imperial Palace of the Qing Dynasty consists of 114 buildings constructed between the years 1625-26 and 1783. It contains an important library and testifies to the foundation of the last dynasty that ruled China before it expanded its power to the center of the country and moved the capital to Beijing. This palace then became auxiliary to the Imperial Palace in Beijing. This architectural edifice offers important historical testimony to the history of the Qing Dynasty and to the cultural traditions of the Manchu and other tribes in the north of China.

ITALY
Italy is home to 53 UNESCO world heritage sites, which is more than any other country. Apart from these must-sees, it also has the largest number of cultural sites that one must experience. Celebrated throughout the world for its singular beauty, Venice and its lagoon were added to the list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites in 1987.

INDIA
World Heritage sites aren't simply ancient stones. UNESCO's list also includes natural wonders — the Kaziranga National Park, situated in Assam. It is one of the last areas in eastern India which is undisturbed by a human presence. It is inhabited by more than 2,000 rhinos and is home to a large breeding population of elephants, wild water buffaloes and swamp deer.

FRANCE
France boasts of 41 heritage sites preserved under the UNESCO. Though it had more than 1.3 million visitors each year, after the devastating fire, Chartres Cathedral or Notre Dame is now off the list of visitors for six years — the time that it will take to rebuild. Admire it from afar or better still take part in the process of rebuilding by contributing to the national fund set up by the French government for the purpose.

SPAIN
Spain is home to a staggering 45 UNESCO sites, third in number only to Italy and China. Mérida, a model Roman city was established in 25 BC and according to UNESCO is a "remarkable example of a Roman city built according to all the Roman urban design rules." From an Amphitheatre to an intricate water supply system, the city offers a glimpse into the ancient past. Apart from this, another must-visit place is the Toledo — situated in central Spain. This city of three cultures was added to the UNESCO list for its extensive history spanning 2,000 years, as well as for its many years of co-existence among Jewish, Christian and Muslim groups, earning it the nickname City of three cultures. Synagogues, mosques and churches are some of the popular sites.

TEE OFF IN THAILAND

The Tourism Authority of the country has introduced the Thai Golf Passport as a travel loyalty programme to create a seamless experience for Indian golfers

From pristine sandy beaches to lush jungles, bustling busy cities and traditional villages, Michelin-starred menus to roadside noodle stalls, historic Buddhist temples to 21st century skyscrapers, Thailand could be truly amazing. The country also has world-class golf facilities.

The Tourism Authority of Thailand, New Delhi, has introduced a FAM trip to Thailand to explore the various possible ways to make 'Thai Golf Passport' a success and an exciting golf travel loyalty programme for those who [pursue the sport avidly]. The highlight of the event would be the Thai New Year — The Songkran Festival.

There are more than 200 golf courses around the country, by the sea, mountains, lakes, in the cities and even besides its airports. From Phuket to Bangkok and Pattaya, there are golf courses to suit different preferences.

Anil Dev, managing director, Golf Plus Monthly said, "When it comes to golf tourism, there is no destination which comes close to Thailand. The Thai Golf Pass is a unique programme that pushes players to experience the sport in this paradise. The programme has been appreciated by the golfing community in India as well as the various partners of the programme."

Besides networking with the golf suppliers, the delegates can experience the hospitality of the Zign Hotel in Pattaya and Centre Point Sukhumvit 10; the teeing off at the Chee Chan Golf Resort and Pattana Golf Club freezing tour of ice sculptures at the frost magical ice of Siam.

Rishi Tomar, chief operating officer, SLW Golf Management said, "The initiative was launched in India to offer Indian golfers a seamless experience in Thailand."

He added, "A number of quality service providers like Thai Airways, Cox & Kings, Callaway and other golf courses, resorts and hotels have come together to partner this initiative."

Isra Stapanaseth, director, Tourism Authority of Thailand, said, "I would like to congratulate all the partners of Thai Golf Pass, Anil Dev and his team for the success of the project. With 'Amazing Thailand', golf paradise with more than 250 international standard golf courses, professional caddies, warm hospitality, wellness, food and entertainment, we look forward to Indian golfers being a part of this loyalty programme and experience services."

Commenting on the initiative's success, Chitraranjan Bakhshi, business head, Golf Holidays, Cox & Kings said, "We believe in providing quality service to our customers and this initiative will also help in validating this claim. We are proud to be associated with Tourism Authority of Thailand and this first-ever golf travel loyalty program."

Rajan Sehgal, president, Indian Golf Travel Association, said that golfing in Thailand is memorable. He said, "The programme is unique to India. While hotels and airlines have loyalty programmes, this will be a first of its kind where a country will be executing something like this. With well-maintained courses, professionalism, high connectivity and great hospitality, golfing in Thailand has always been a great experience for me." Adding to that, Meraj Shah, writer and producer, Wion Traveller, said, "I have been to Thailand for golfing many a times. I've played in Hua Hin, Pattaya, Phuket, Khao Yai, Chiang Mai, to name a few places. I couldn't be happier heading back to the same places. It's my favourite country to visit — for the golf, its food and beaches and its nightlife."

With NokScoot Airlines providing direct flights from Delhi to Bangkok, travel has become smooth and hassle-free. Yodchai Sudhidhanakul, chief executive officer, NokScoot Airlines, said, "NokScoot has recently launched direct flights from Delhi to Bangkok, offering high service standards at affordable prices. We hope to welcome more golfers from India to enjoy the world-class courses which the country has to offer, along with the famous Thai hospitality."

The programme will also give 'Amazing' rewards on redemption of loyalty points. With the fully-automatic and user-friendly online programme, it aims to bring all the suppliers under one platform.

The activities that began from December 2018 has the following focus points — To integrate their website with their travel partner websites; To host promotional events in India with three of them in Thailand; To increase the number of loyalty partners to 200; To increase membership base to cover 5,000 golfers.

Women must be revered

India has inherited a rich Vedic cultural legacy from its glorious past. It is also a well-known fact that all the rishi-munis and yogis accept Vedas as their soul. Rishi Kashyap after studying Vedas continuously for 300 years expressed his views that their knowledge is endless and eternal. So, it shall not be out of place to mention that women have always enjoyed high respect from the society in the Vedic period.

We must not forget the invaluable lesson from Atharvaved mantra — Stree Hee Brahma Babhuvith — which means that women have been given the title of Brahma. Even Yajyen considered woman as Brahma as she always gives Vedic advice to everyone.

If we delve deep into our history, especially of Vedic age, we discover various names like Sita, Ansuuya, Madalsa, Savitri, Bhamati, Katyayani, Lopamudra, King Janak's acharya Gargi and Kunti, who through their devotion, dedication and deep knowledge of Vedas enlightened mankind. There are numerous quotes in our scriptures including that the Devta always experiences divine pleasure and gives blessings to those who respect women.

A child owes a lot to his/her mother because she is the one who nurtures him/her from the beginning. Her teachings hold much more importance than even the teacher in the school. She is the moral builder, that is why we eulogise her by saying, "Matri Devo Bhava" i.e. serve the mother because she gives birth and nurses the child and "Mata Nirmatri Bhavati" i.e. mother constitutes the bright future of the child.

The veteran warrior and wise man of Mahabharat, Bhisma Pitamah is respected even today because his mother Ganga, gave him the right kind of education from the beginning. It was she who persuaded Guru Parshuram, the greatest teacher in weaponry and warfare at that time to teach him the skills of fighting. For the knowledge of scriptures, she sent Bhisma Pitamah to Brihaspati, the biggest scholar of Vedas at that time. Thus he became not only a good warrior but also a great scholar and spiritualist. The credit goes to none else but to his mother.

Women, after the Mahabharat period, due to the lack of knowledge of Vedas, have been mistreated and abused. By not educating them in the Vedas, we are depriving the country of the ability to be stronger.

There is the story of extreme sacrifice by a wife for her ascetic husband. Once, there lived a philosopher, Vachaspati Mishr, who was married in his childhood. He forgot his wife as he was meditating intensely. After the death of her parents, the girl attained puberty and went to his ashram in the hope of a happy married life. Finding Vachaspati deeply engrossed in meditation, she decided not to disturb him. She started managing the affairs of the ashram and serving the rishi day in and day out. With the passage of time, she crossed the age of 75. One day when Vachaspati was busy writing a book in the light of an oil lamp, the flame started flickering. Seeing that the oil was finished, she tried to pour in some to replenish it. It was a moonlit night and the gleam fell on her face. He was surprised to see her and asked her who she was. The woman tried to make him remember their marriage during their childhood. When he came to know this, he felt ashamed that he could not look after his wife rather she was left to manage the affairs of his ashram. The aged rishi slowly started moving towards his wife to embrace her. Immediately she moved back and said that by serving him for several years, she had experienced the divine pleasure of maintaining Brahmacharya, so she should be allowed to remain so. The rishi stopped and went towards his seat. He asked her name. She replied that it was Bhamati. By then the rishi had completed his spiritual book based on Vedas but he was yet to give it a title and named it Bhamati.

Sometimes I wonder why the birth of a girl is not welcomed. Whereas Vedas preach that a daughter is a lamp and enlightens two houses — one of her parents' and the second of her husband's like maa Sita.

So, a family must rejoice at the birth of a daughter considering her as a pure blessing, harbinger of good fortune and glory to the family. As quoted above, woman is "Brahma", so a creator must be revered.

(The author, Swami Ram Swarup Yogacharya is the chief editor of Ved Ishvareeya Vani, a bi-annual magazine.)

Seven Indians in the 100 most reputable people list

Himalayan Heights Motorcycle Expedition reaches Karakoram Pass

The 11-member 'Himalayan Heights' Motorcycle Expedition, flagged off from Karu in Leh on April 7, traversed the challenging terrain of eastern Ladakh, across the Chang La pass. The expedition reached the mighty Karakoram pass situated at an altitude of 18,176 feet on the Karakoram range on Tuesday.

The joint expedition comprises six Indian Army personnel from the Army Service Corps, four from Royal Enfield and one from the Himalayan Motorsports Association. The Fire & Fury Corps and the expedition is celebrating the 20th Anniversary of Kargil Vijay Diwas, that marked the victory of the Indian armed forces over Pakistan in 1999.

With temperatures as low as -40 degrees Celsius, the feat is unprecedented over hazardous and unforgiving terrains. In freezing winds, it is a remarkable tribute to the immortal courage and bravery of the Indian army. In a rare gesture of encouragement for the expedition members, Lt Gen YK Joshi, general officer commanding, Fire & Fury Corps reached the Karakoram pass to meet and motivate the riders.

Speaking on the occasion, Lt Gen YK Joshi lauded the efforts of the team, especially the two women officers from the army service corps and the woman member of the Royal Enfield team who "proved equal in strength, skill and spirit to the other members."

The expedition salutes the victory of the Indian army during the Kargil war of 1999. They aim to "remember, rejoice and renew" their spirit of fortitude, bravery and adventure.

NHPC follows Ambedkar vision

Hydroelectric power generation company, NHPC celebrated the 128th birth anniversary of Bharat Ratna Dr B R Ambedkar, the principal architect of the Indian Constitution and social reformer.

Balraj Joshi, chairman and managing director of NHPC along with N K Jain, director (personnel), and Janardan Choudhary, director (Technical), graced the occasion.

Joshi described the life of Dr Ambedkar as a "shining example for others to follow." He highlighted his role in the country's development and in laying down one of the most descriptive Constitutions in the world. A special highlight of evenings was a talk on Manavta ka Uthan by Bodhisattva Bhante Dr Karunashil Rahulji.

A documentary highlighting the life and contributions of Dr Ambedkar was also screened during the event. Other attendants of the event were office-bearers of NHPC, SC/ST employee welfare association and OBC association.

CLW commemorates Ambedkar's birth anniversary

Ajax captain scores via header to help young Amsterdam side beat Juventus 2-1 (3-2) and enter Champions League semis

Matthijs de Ligt celebrates past Juve goalkeeper Wojciech Szczesny after scoring his side's second goal AP

AFP ■ TURIN

Ajax stunned Juventus to reach the Champions League semi-finals for the first time since 1997 as Matthijs de Ligt's thumping second-half header secured a 2-1 second-leg victory in the last eight in Turin on Tuesday.

Cristiano Ronaldo, bidding for his sixth Champions League title, scored a 28th-minute header to put Juve ahead after a 1-1 first-leg draw, but Donny van de Beek levelled for Ajax before half-time.

Teenage centre-back De Ligt struck midway through the second period, though, to seal a 3-2 aggregate win and set up a last-four clash with either Manchester City or Tottenham.

The young Dutch side had already eliminated three-time defending champions Real Madrid en route to the quarters, overturning a 2-1 home defeat against the Spanish side with a memorable 4-1 victory at the Santiago Bernabeu.

Juventus had been looking to reach the Champions League semi-finals for the third time in the past five seasons.

But Ronaldo, who scored an away goal last week with a diving header in Amsterdam, was Juve's only weapon against the impressive Dutch side.

The 34-year-old was signed for 100 million euros ($117 million) last summer from Real Madrid in a bid to win the European trophy for the first time since 1996, when they beat Ajax in the final.

"Ajax deserved to qualify," said Juventus coach Massimiliano Allegri.

JUVE FORCED TO RESHUFFLE

Allegri had been forced to reshuffle his side because of injuries, with Paulo Dybala returning in place of the injured Mario Mandzukic, while captain Giorgio Chiellini was also sidelined.

Ajax's defence took a hit when Noussair Mazraoui, who had replaced the suspended Nicolas Tagliafico, limped off on 11 minutes with an ankle injury, with Daley Sinkgraven coming on.

Ajax goalkeeper Andre Onana dived to keep out a scorching Dybala half-volley in the 20th minute.

But Ronaldo latched onto a Miralem Pjanic corner with a downward header that left Onana with no chance.

It was the Portugal star's 126th Champions League goal and sixth of this campaign, having now scored in his past six European games against Ajax, netting nine goals in total.

But Van de Beek soon silenced the cheers of the home crowd when he controlled a wayward Hakim Ziyech shot six minutes later, rolling the ball past Szczesny to cancel out Juventus' away goal and make it 2-2 on aggregate.

Teenage striker Moise Kean replaced Dybala after the break, but it was the Dutch who turned on the style, with only Szczesny's reflexes keeping Juventus in the tie.

The Polish keeper denied Ziyech from close range with one hand, and minutes later tipped Van de Beek's curling effort

TUESDAY'S VICTORY MEANS AJAX HAVE PLAYED 16 GAMES IN THIS SEASON'S COMPETITION, LOSING ONLY ONCE, AT HOME TO DEFENDING CHAMPIONS REAL MADRID IN THE LAST ROUND. THEY RESPONDED WITH A MEMORABLE 4-1 SECOND-LEG VICTORY AT THE SANTIAGO BERNABEU

Ajax players celebrate after quarter final win AP

"It's an incredible evening for Ajax and its players and also for Dutch football. Once again we eliminated the favourites."

—ERIK TEN HAG

"It's bizarre, it's not normal. I have no words for it. We have shown once again that we are very strong and that we can make it difficult for large teams."

—MATTHIJS DE LIGT

"In the first half they were slightly better and deserved to take the lead. But apart from the first five minutes of the second half, we dominated after the break and were well worth our victory. In fact, we probably should have won by more."

—FRENKIE DE JONG

over the bar. The Juventus back-line struggled with the pace of the Dutch team with Pjanic doing well to deny Ziyech a tap-in.

But Ten Hag's side's incessant pressure paid off with 19-year-old skipper De Ligt towering above Alex Sandro and Daniele Rugani to head home Lasse Schone's corner on 67 minutes.

Ziyech looked as if he had fired a third past Szczesny, but his goal was ruled offside after a VAR check.

And the Dutch visitors held on, with Ronaldo unable to make a difference after his incredible hat-trick had pulled Juventus into the quarter-finals in the last-16 win over Atletico Madrid.

Four-time winners Ajax won their third consecutive title in 1973 at the expense of Juventus, and last lifted the trophy in 1995, with their last semi-final appearance ending in defeat by Juve 22 years ago.

Juventus now turn their focus back to Serie A where they can win an eighth consecutive title on Saturday.

Lionel Messi celebrates with teammate Philippe Coutinho after scoring his second goal against Man Utd UCL/Twitter

Mess(i)merised

AFP ■ BARCELONA

Lionel Messi pounced on two Manchester United mistakes to score twice and end their hopes of another comeback at Camp Nou as Barcelona breezed into the Champions League semi-finals on Tuesday.

After an excellent start, United were undone twice in four minutes by Messi, who first nicked the ball off the careless Ashley Young and then watched as a weak shot from distance squirmed underneath David de Gea.

Philippe Coutinho, in perhaps his best performance of the season, added a third with a curling effort into the top corner and by the end, an out-classed United might have been relieved the score was not more traumatic than 3-0, 4-0 on aggregate.

A dizzying opening spell, in which Marcus Rashford had hit the crossbar, was long-forgotten, even if it could offer Barca's next opponents some encouragement.

Liverpool, who take a 2-0 lead to Porto on Wednesday, are now the most likely obstacle between them and their first Champions League final since they last won this tournament in 2015.

Instead, United's pair of early errors made this another night about Messi and ensured any faint hopes of repeating the comeback against Paris Saint-Germain, or even the famous 1999 rescue act against Bayern Munich, on this same pitch, were dashed.

Messi now has his 109th and 110th Champions League goals and, potentially, three extra matches to reduce the gap on Cristiano Ronaldo's 126, after Juventus were dumped out by Ajax. Barcelona's fans celebrated that too.

They could have hardly have asked for a better start.

"We put on a spectacle. But we came out cold and looked nervous in the first five minutes. We cannot come out like that in a Champions League match. Five bad minutes can knock you out."

—LIONEL MESSI

"You can plan as many tactics as you like. But if you give him (Messi) time and space, he will score."

—OLE GUNNAR SOLSKJAER

"We have had five difficult minutes because they started strong. But then there were another 85 minutes where we were not too bad."

—ERNESTO VALVERDE

United were brilliant for eight minutes and could have been ahead within 30 seconds as Rashford raced onto a curving Paul Pogba pass and toed away a shot, which Marc-Andre ter Stegen bravely left to graze his own crossbar.

MAGIC MESSI

Barca were flustered, so much so the crowd even cheered with relief when Arthur Melo played his team's first convincing pass.

Then, Barcelona had their own eight-minute flurry as United almost conceded a penalty, ruled out after Fred took the ball before bringing down Ivan Rakitic, and then did concede, twice, to Messi.

Both could have been avoided, even if Young's turn on the edge of his own box was punished in devastating fashion. Young lunged in to atone for his mistake but Messi skipped away from him, poked it through Fred's legs and then whipped the ball into corner. The second was simpler.

Fred and Scott McTominay closed in on Coutinho and the ball spilled out to Messi, whose dribbling shot with his right foot should have drawn a routine save. Instead, De Gea let it squirm under his body for 2-0.

Pogba lashed out at the increasingly influential Arthur and Barca could have had a third before half-time, De Gea scrambling across to save on the line when Sergi Roberto should have finished.

Messi could have had his hat-trick too after Suarez found him with a superb cutback and there was an almost comical sequence in the second half when Leo played with his United chasers before finally being bundled over by McTominay.

Rashford might have made it interesting if he had controlled Pogba's ball over the top but Barcelona were in exhibition mode, helped by a vintage Coutinho curler after he had cut inside from the left.

Messi even attempted a bicycle kick and there were celebrations from the home fans when news went round that Ajax had taken the lead in Turin. They believe this is their year.

Bancroft hits 151 on Durham ODI debut

AFP ■ LONDON

Cameron Bancroft hit an unbeaten 151 on his one-day debut for Durham as the disgraced Australia batsman started to repay the English county's faith in him.

Bancroft was banned for nine months after being caught in the Australia ball-tampering scandal during their tour to South Africa last year.

The 'sandpaper-gate' incident during the Newlands Test against South Africa also led to Bancroft's Australia team-mates Steve Smith and David Warner receiving year-long suspensions.

After returning in Australia's Big Bash League in December, and playing a role in the back end of Western Australia's current Sheffield Shield campaign, Bancroft has joined up with Durham with a view to making Australia's Ashes squad.

Durham, now under a new Australian director of cricket in Marcus North, attracted criticism in some quarters when they recruited Bancroft.

But the 26-year-old was controversially appointed Durham captain and, making his maiden limited overs appearance, Bancroft piled up the runs in their One-Day Cup clash with Northamptonshire at Chester-le-Street on Wednesday.

Bancroft, who played in the 2017-18 Ashes, plundered five sixes and eight fours in a 188-minute stay at the crease.

He and Michael Richardson put on 208 for the fourth-wicket before the latter was ousted in the final over.

Durham went on to score 342 for five from their 50 overs.

Nadal steamrolls to opening Monte Carlo win

AFP ■ MONTE CARLO

Rafael Nadal charged out of the blocks on Wednesday to hammer Roberto Bautista Agut 6-1, 6-1 in his opening match at the Monte Carlo Masters.

The 11-time champion showed no sign of the knee problems which forced him to quit ahead of an Indian Wells semi-final against Roger Federer a month ago.

The 32-year-old had expressed pre-tournament caution regarding the health of his knee — a worry which appeared to be groundless after a 76-minute masterclass.

Nadal collected the opening five games of the afternoon in 17 minutes as he set the tone for another dominant display in the principality.

He was equally in control during the second set, where he saved three break points in the fourth game and two more in the sixth.

"It was a great start, it's good to be back here," the 17-time Grand Slam winner said.

"I've had some great moments on this court, I really enjoy playing here."

"It's not easy to come back from injury, I had to do a lot of mental work as well to be prepared."

"I tried to play solid, dominate with my forehand when I had the chance."

Rafael Nadal returns a shot during his first round clash against Bautista Agut ATP/Twitter

Nadal improved his incredible record here to 69-4 as he takes aim at a fourth consecutive title at the event.

Third seed Alexander Zverev rediscovered traces of his best form with a 6-1, 6-4 defeat of Felix Auger-Aliassime.

The German, locally based, reached the third round as he tamed the 18-year-old who broke through for a Miami semi-final last month.

UPBEAT ZVEREV

The 21-year-old Zverev played the semi-finals in Monte Carlo a year ago but has yet to hit his stride this season.

That may be starting to change. Canadian Auger-Aliassime has made a fast rise in the rankings from 175 a year ago to his current position of 33rd. Zverev swept the opening set in 30 minutes but had to get through a series of three straight breaks of serve between him and his opponent before finally advancing in 78 minutes.

The third seed broke six times and will next face Italy's Fabio Fognini, who reached the third round when French opponent Gilles Simon was unable to play their match due to back problems.

Greek sixth seed Stefanos Tsitsipas moved ahead, defeating Mikhail Kukushkin 6-3, 7-5.

Britain's Cameron Norrie defeated Marton Fucsovics of Hungary 7-6 (7/3), 6-3, while Pierre-Hugues Herbert stunned 2018 finalist and fifth seed Kei Nishikori 7-5, 6-4.

OBLAK SIGNS NEW ATLETICO CONTRACT

AFP ■ MADRID

Jan Oblak trains during practice session ATM

Atletico Madrid goalkeeper Jan Oblak has signed a new contract until 2023, the club announced on Wednesday.

Oblak's commitment comes as a boost to Atletico, with the 26-year-old establishing himself as one of the world's finest goalkeepers since joining the club in 2014.

"Jan Oblak has extended his contract with Atletico Madrid until June 30, 2023," a club statement read.

"The Slovenian player has signed his new contract that commits him to our club for four more seasons."

Oblak's previous contract contained a release clause of 100 million euros, which is likely to have been increased, rather than removed, in his new deal. According to reports in the Spanish press, the adjusted release clause will be 120 million euros.

Injured Neuer dismisses retirement rumours, eyes return

AFP ■ MUNICH

Manuel Neuer in a Bayern Munich kit

Injured Bayern Munich goalkeeper Manuel Neuer on Wednesday quashed rumours of his imminent retirement and says he wants to return in time to face RB Leipzig in the penultimate day of the Bundesliga season.

"It is difficult to say when I will be back but I think Leipzig is a realistic target," he said at a press conference, with league leaders Bayern away to third-placed Leipzig on May 5.

Neuer, 33, was substituted off during Bayern's 4-1 win over Fortuna Dusseldorf last Sunday after aggravating a recurring calf injury. The knock sees him sidelined at a crucial phase of the season, with Bayern seeking to stay a point ahead of Borussia Dortmund in the Bundesliga title race and bidding to reach the German Cup final.

Neuer was substituted off during Bayern's 4-1 win over Dusseldorf on Sunday after aggravating a recurring calf injury.

Neuer had a relentless struggle with injury in recent years, and after the club announced that he would give a press conference on Wednesday, there was some speculation that he might be about to end his career. "We smiled about that," Neuer admitted when asked about the rumours.

The Bayern shot-stopper insists he is taking this latest setback in his stride after twice breaking a bone in his foot in 2017.

"I was out for a whole year last season when I broke my metatarsal and I was on crutches for a long time," he said.

"When you are out for that long, your body has to adapt so you expect to have smaller muscle injuries afterwards."

"I actually expected to have a muscle injury earlier this season."

Neuer said he knew instinctively that he had suffered a muscle fibre tear when he pulled up during the Dusseldorf game.

The Bayern goalkeeper praised his understudy Sven Ulreich and wants to support the team in the coming weeks.

"Even if I can't play I want to be around the team," he said.

Bayern face back-to-back games against in-form Werder Bremen in the next week.

They host Bremen in the league on Saturday before travelling north for a German Cup semi-final tie on Tuesday.

Neuer described both games as "finals" and warned his teammates not to underestimate Bremen, who currently sit seventh in the Bundesliga.
