The apparatus will be used to deactivate fungal infection in rice plants after spraying. It will provide a cheaper and more cost-effective solution for rice farmers, said Ravi Kumar, scientist and head of the Plasma Research Institute.

The plasma spray can prevent blood loss and can help in reducing the clotting time of blood in wounds. The natural time taken to blood clotting is a second, whereas treatment with plasma spray reduces clotting time to around 20-30 seconds. This study is only in very preliminary stages and once this technology is clinically approved, it can be used in emergency situations, where quick clotting of blood can make a big difference in saving the life of the injured, said Ravi Kumar.

The other potential applications of plasma jet include the possibility of surface sterilisation, desorption of organic tools and bleaching of teeth.

The nation turns 73 today, ripe-old in considering its resilience that has mapped a path of possibilities to calm and gradually to the going moon. Young, considering its evolutionary experiments as a post-agricultural society, has the democratic promise of choosers choosing with intelligences to find its feet. Yet, new. A turn where the old is away and a new one is filling the vacuum, desperate to shake off the shadow of the past and throw away the present moment in the sea. Also, in this transitional moment that we must stop and how do we proceed to value every moment to mean the course in the first place, and understand that time and context decide our human responses, that everything is relative and history is a timeline of phrases and considered action taken, not comparative records. And spot is that the nation is on the threshold of a time where the conflict world is over patri- cially the 20th Anniversary of Chhabra’s death — a time of your own people comes first and the latter “when hate for other people’s own comes first.”

Imports also slipped by 0.37% to $107.41 billion, taking the trade deficit to $48.02 billion, as compared to $49.98 billion in June.

The drop in exports came on the back of a 0.26% decline in the value of exports in the first 10 days of July as against a 0.51% increase during the same period in June. On a year-on-year basis, exports also dropped 7.12% to $59.39 billion from $64.61 billion.

At home, the wholesale price index (WPI) rose 0.8% in July from a 1.08% increase in June. In both months, the data showed, the main factor behind the increase was food prices, which were 4.04% higher in July from 3.77% in June.

India's trade deficit stood at $46.47 billion in May, and its current account deficit (CAD) narrowed to $13.43 billion in the April-June period from $17.3 billion in the previous quarter, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) data showed.

“Further, the key sectors recorded negative growth in the last month. The metals sector slipped by 5.92 per cent to $7.39 billion, while the non metals sector contracted by 14.99 per cent to $9.91 billion. The oil sector also posted a decline of 13.7 per cent to $5.69 billion, and the petroleum products sector also witnessed a fall of 10.41 per cent to $4.87 billion. However, gold and jewellery sector recorded a growth of 2.16 per cent, and the Gems and Jewellery (GJ) sector grew at 1.46 per cent,” said RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das.

The World Bank in its 2020 Global Economic Prospects said India's trade deficit was 5.69 per cent lower in the first quarter of fiscal 2020, while imports contracted by 0.37 per cent to $107.41 billion, and exports dipped 5.92 per cent to $59.39 billion as compared to $61.375 billion in April-July 2019, exports dipped to $61.375 billion in July 2018.

For July, it is expected that exports and imports have slowed down due to the global slowdown and the US-China trade war. The government has also announced a series of measures to boost exports, including the reduction of customs duties on a number of items, the launch of the Atmanirbhar Bharat scheme, and the introduction of the Goods and Services Tax (GST).

India’s exports were virtually flat in June, while imports had declined 5.8% in May. The April-June trade deficit was $46.47 billion, down from $49.98 billion in the previous quarter, the Reserve Bank of India said.

India’s gross domestic product (GDP) is predicted to grow at 5% in 2019-20, down from 6.8% in 2018-19, according to the International Monetary Fund (IMF). The country’s central bank has lowered its growth forecast for 2020-21 to 6.1% from 6.5%.

PTI in NEW DELHI
President Donald Trump has threatened to pull the United States out of the World Trade Organization if conditions are not improved. "We will leave if we have to," Trump told a cheering audience of workers at a Shell chemical plant in Pennsylvania on Tuesday. "We know that they have been screwing us for years and it's not going to happen again," he said.

Trump has made the WTO the target of many previous attacks, and threatened before to withdraw, claiming unfair treatment toward the US and saying Washington does not have to abide by WTO rulings. He is especially critical about the terms granted to China when it joined the organization, given US complaints about Chinese theft of American technology.

But the United States in fact has a successful track record of winning disputes mediated by the global trading body. While calling for reforms to the institution's rules, the Trump administration also has effectively paralysed its work. By blocking naming of new members to the appellate panel part of the Dispute Settlement Body that arbitrates disputes, the system will grind to a halt by the end of the year.

Chad Bown, a trade expert with the Peterson Institute for International Economics, said the moves weakening the WTO have done "lasting damage," not all of which can be reversed.

Female suicide bomber kills six in Chad: Army officer

A female suicide bomber killed six people after blowing herself up outside a military building in Chad on Sunday, an attack on the capital N'Djamena, said two sources, citing a police source and the military.

"Ten people dead, including five foreign soldiers," one source said. "Four guards as well as a soldier were among the dead and the people were wounded," the other source said.

The blast was the third attack in the capital in a month, and came on the heels of a similar bombing in a market in the ancient city of Agadez.

Kremlin says spies watching Russian scientists '24/7'

Foreign spies keen to get their hands on Russian secrets are monitoring Russian scientists around the clock, the Kremlin said Wednesday, after experts denounced a new security decree as a Soviet throwback.

"Of course we must be somewhat vigilant, because foreign special services are on alert," said President Vladimir Putin's spokesman Dmitry Peskov when questioned on the decree from the science and education ministry. "There is such a thing as scientific and industrial espionage," Peskov said. "It exists 24/7 and is targeting our scientists, especially young scientists."

He noted however that some of the decree's provisions "sound excessive" adding that Russia "should not be bound by some rules that won't lead to anything good." The decree recommending new rules on contacting foreign scientists - or Russian scientists working for foreign institutions - was made public by Alexander Fradkov from a mechanical engineering institute.

He called the rules "absurd" and urged authorities to retreat them.
