The 11-year-old accused of murdering an elderly woman in Bikaner, has confessed to killing the victim and throwing her body into the river. The victim, a 72-year-old woman, was last seen alive on July 20. The police have registered a case under Section 201 (punishment for murder) of the Indian Penal Code. The accused, who is in police custody, is scheduled to be produced in court on Monday. The police are investigating the motive behind the crime, which appears to be a fit of violence.

India becoming global plastic dumping hub, even for Pak!

Throughout the world, the increasing reliance on single-use plastics is driving up the demand for recycling and recycling locally produced plastic waste. The Government had banned the import of plastic waste in 2018, but had since allowed import of plastic waste to continue under the grant of permission for recycling and reprocessing. The ban on plastic waste import was imposed by the government in 2018, following reports of illegal plastic waste dumping in Pakistan. The ban was lifted in December 2019, allowing imports of plastic waste for recycling and reprocessing.

The growing import is a cause for concern, as it threatens the environment and human health. The import of plastic waste is a major source of pollution, contributing to the contamination of rivers, lakes, and oceans. The plastic waste is often not properly treated or disposed of, leading to negative impacts on the environment and human health. The import of plastic waste also poses a threat to the jobs and livelihoods of those who work in the recycling industry.

However, the government has taken steps to address this issue. In 2018, the government imposed a ban on the import of plastic waste, and later relaxed it in December 2019. The government has also taken steps to promote the recycling of plastic waste, including the setting up of recycling plants and the provision of financial assistance to recycling companies.

In recent years, the government has also been promoting the use of biodegradable plastics, which are made from renewable resources and can be easily broken down by microorganisms. This reduces the amount of plastic waste that ends up in the environment, and helps to reduce the demand for the import of plastic waste.

Despite these efforts, the import of plastic waste for recycling remains a concern. The government needs to continue to monitor the situation closely, and take further steps to address this issue. This includes the implementation of stricter regulations on the import of plastic waste, as well as the promotion of alternative sources of energy and the recycling of plastic waste.
A day after the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Maintenance) Bill, 2016, was introduced in Lok Sabha, the Government on Wednesday charged the Congress with being responsible for sending some bills, including the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Maintenance) Bill, 2016, to the Select Committee. The Opposition was against sending six bills as a category to be sent to the Select Committee.

The Government said that the Opposition had raised an issue of raising it to another category only to stall the bills in the Select Committee.

The Opposition said the Government was not serious in taking the legislation forward. It said the Government, which is in power, had the responsibility to get the bills passed. It contended that the Select Committee would take a long time to send reports to the Lok Sabha, thereby putting a damper on the passage of the legislation.

Pak evacuates 50 Chinese nationals in PoK due to continuous firing near LoC

O utgoing U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said Wednesday that China is working on a dam being constructed along its portion of the Line of Control (LoC) in Kashmir, adding to tensions between India and Pakistan.

Kashmir was evacuated after India and Pakistan announced earlier this week that China had started work on a dam, as relations between the two countries have deteriorated in recent months. Pompeo said that China had been building the dam for years, but that it had not been a major source of concern until recently.

The dam is being constructed in the Kashmir region, which has been a source of dispute between India and Pakistan for decades. The dam is reportedly being built to control the flow of water from the Neelam and Ravi rivers, which flow through the region.

Pompeo said that the construction of the dam was a serious concern and that it could have implications for the future of the region. He added that the United States was closely monitoring the situation and would continue to work with India and Pakistan to find a peaceful resolution to the dispute.

China has denied reports that it is building the dam and has said that it is a matter of internal affairs. However, Pompeo said that the United States was not able to verify the reports and that it was important to keep a close eye on the situation.

Pompeo’s comments came as tensions between India and Pakistan have been rising in recent weeks. The two countries have been engaged in a diplomatic row over the construction of the dam, and there have been reports of border clashes and police action.

India and Pakistan are nuclear powers and have frequently come close to war over the disputed region of Kashmir.

Pompeo very hopeful US-N. Korea talks will resume in Afghanistan, 32 killed

U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said Wednesday that he is “very hopeful” that North Korea and the United States can resume talks in Afghanistan, and that there could be “significant progress” in negotiations.

The statement came after Pompeo met with Afghan President Ashraf Ghani and his high-level delegation in Washington D.C. during a three-day visit to the United States.

While in the U.S., Pompeo also met with Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi, who earlier this week said that he had discussed with the U.S. about the possibility of resuming talks with North Korea.

Pompeo said during his meeting with Ghani that the U.S. is committed to working with the Afghan government to bring about a lasting peace in the country.

In Afghan, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia (KSA) and the Islamic Republic of Iran (IRI) have welcomed the decision of the United States to withdraw from the Iran nuclear deal, which led to the reinstatement of sanctions against Iran.

Pompeo’s remarks come as the U.S. has been trying to negotiate a peace deal between the U.S. and Afghanistan, following the collapse of the 19-year-old U.S.-Taliban war.

The U.S. has been pushing for a political solution to the conflict, including a ceasefire, the release of prisoners and the withdrawal of foreign troops from the country.

The government of the Islamic Republic of Iran has also called for a political solution to the conflict, and has praised the U.S. for its efforts to bring about peace.

Dr. — It is a matter of pride that India’s first ayurvedic treatment is a success. However, the treatment is still in its infancy and more research is needed to establish its efficacy. The ayurvedic system is a complex one and many of its concepts are still not well understood by the scientific community. More research is needed to determine the exact mechanisms by which ayurvedic treatments work.

Sir — This refers to the article “India’s failed policy” (July 31). The author highlights the failures of the Indian government in implementing its policies consistently. The government has failed to follow through on its promises, which has led to a loss of trust among the public. The government needs to take steps to address these failures and implement its policies effectively.

A clarification
Sir — I refer to the article “India’s failed policy” (July 31). The author has mentioned a few examples of policies that have failed, such as the land acquisition law and the demonetization move. However, I would like to clarify that the demonetization move was aimed at curbing black money and unaccounted wealth, which is a serious issue in India. It is important to address this issue in order to build a more transparent and accountable society.

Bug-eyed monster issue
We need to have an international discussion about whether we should make our existence known should the SETI research yield a positive result.

OHTA SRIRAJ

There are many reasons for which the mind- bending idea of the extraterrestrial life may have a certain appeal. Webradio and television stations have given us an endless stream of Hogarthian images of the potential benefits of co-existence with the otherworldly. Millions of people in India and abroad get involved with the process of sending their Tribhuvan and other similar beings to the distant stars. This is one of the signs of our anxiety and fear of the unknown. The desire for knowledge and understanding is a human trait. We have always been interested in the unknown, in the things we cannot see or know. This has led to a number of scientific and technological advancements. But the question is whether the pursuit of knowledge is always a good thing.

Climate change hits the oceans
Failure to mitigate and adapt to climate change will lead to dramatic falls in fish productivity, with negative consequences for both people and the environment. Societies must be able to cope with the impacts of a warming world.

AFGHANISTAN

It is not uncommon to hear that climate change can lead to catastrophic events. However, such events are not always inevitable. We have seen in recent years that the impact of climate change on the oceans is not limited to the direct effects of rising temperatures and ocean acidification. Changes in the ocean's temperature, salinity, and currents can also affect the distribution of marine species and their abundance, as well as the ecological balance of the marine ecosystem.

The sociology of banking
With a few simple tweaks, rural banking can be made both viable and result-oriented. But for this, political will is needed.

For a summary of the main findings of this report, please see the end of the report.

The government is planning a mega bouquet of the regional rural banks (RRBs) and is allocating funds for the rehabilitation of the RRBs in order to make them viable. If this is not done, it may lead to a serious loss of public money. The role of RRBs in rural development is crucial. They are the lifeline of rural Africa. They provide credit to small and medium-sized enterprises, help farmers access insurance and other financial services, and support the development of local economies. The government should ensure that RRBs are not allowed to fail. Otherwise, it will be a waste of public money.

The program will be implemented in phases. The first phase will be to assess the situation in the RRBs and to identify the problems. The second phase will be to develop a plan to address these problems. The third phase will be to implement the plan and to monitor the progress. The government should also ensure that the RRBs are not allowed to fail. Otherwise, it will be a waste of public money.
