President Donald Trump has threatened to pull the United States out of the World Trade Organization if conditions are not improved. “We will leave if we have to,” Trump told a cheering audience of workers at a Shell chemical plant in Pennsylvania on Tuesday. “We know that they have been screwing us for years and it's not going to happen again,” he said. Trump has made the WTO a target of many previous attacks, and threatened before to withdraw, claiming unfair treatment toward the US and saying Washington does not have to abide by WTO rulings.

Chad Brown, a trade expert with the Peterson Institute for International Economics, said the US is likely to “force a renegotiation” of the WTO, and Trump is especially critical about the terms granted to China when it joined the organization, given US complaints about Chinese theft of American technology.

But the United States in fact has a successful track record of winning disputes mediated by the global trading body. While calling for reforms to the institution’s rules, the Trump administration also has effectively paralysed its work. By blocking naming of new members to the appellate panel part of the Dispute Settlement Body that arbitrates disputes, the system will grind to a halt by the end of the year.

Chad Brown, a trade expert with the Peterson Institute for International Economics, said the moves weakening the WTO have done “lasting damage,” not all of which can be reversed.

Foreign spies keen to get their hands on Russian research are monitoring Russian scientists around the clock, the Kremlin said Wednesday, after experts denounced a new security decree as a Soviet throwback.

The Kremlin’s comments came after scientists criticised a ministry directive calling on researchers not to meet foreign colleagues one-on-one and requesting filed reports after every encounter — even a cup of coffee. “Of course we must be somewhat vigilant, because foreign special services are at work,” said President Vladimir Putin’s spokesman Dmitry Peskov when questioned on the decree from the science and education ministry.

The Russian president has previously attacked the WTO, and threatened before to withdraw, claiming unfair treatment toward the US and saying Washington does not have to abide by WTO rulings. He is especially critical about the terms granted to China when it joined the organization, given US complaints about Chinese theft of American technology.

Hong Kong troubles

One reason why China has not been able to chide India on Article 370 is because it is facing a crisis in Hong Kong.

Diplomats will tell you that the principle of “one country, two systems” is working. If it was not, you would never have seen a situation in which the Hong Kong police are being hailed as heroes for their efforts to clear the roads of pro-democracy protesters. This is because China has a strong control over the Hong Kong government. The problem with Hong Kong though is that it is too big a problem.

The territory, which China got from the UK in 1997, is still nominally autonomous. So when it makes decisions, it has to take the opinion of a large number of people into account. This is why the protests have been going on for so long. Only if we could follow Swami Dayananda Saraswati’s philosophy — “A human heart is a temple of the Holy Spirit of God. This temple can be profaned, defiled, polluted, no nation or nationalism, nothing can touch it because it is immaterial.”

Governing Governors

History is replete with instances where Governors failed to adhere to the principles of the Bombay judgement and the Supreme Court had to intervene to uphold the Constitution.

Despite several judicial pronouncements and recommendations of the Bombay and the Supreme Court, Governors are known to have defied the spirit of the Bombay judgement. It is a well-accepted fact that the Bombay judgement is the Constitution at its best, it has been celebrated and the principles elucidated have been subscribed to in a Constitution.

According to the 34th Constitutional amendment of 1971, presidential proclamation issued under Article 356 would be invalid if the Governor fails to act in accordance with the Bombay judgement. This was the basis on which the Bombay Governor had to resign. The Bombay judgement was not taken into consideration when the Governor took a decision to do the unconstitutional act. His act was, therefore, invalid and the Bombay judgement was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Since 1971, there have been a number of occasions where the Bombay judgement had to be upheld by the Supreme Court. In most cases, however, the Bombay judgement didn’t have a legal backing.

One of the most important cases where the Bombay judgement had to be upheld by the Supreme Court was the one in which the Speaker of the Rajasthan Assembly was not allowed to preside over the House. The Rajasthan Governor had attempted to suspend the Speaker. The Bombay judgement was upheld by the Supreme Court.

One such case is the one in which the Speaker of the Uttar Pradesh Assembly was not allowed to preside over the House. The Uttar Pradesh Governor had attempted to suspend the Speaker. The Bombay judgement was upheld by the Supreme Court.

The Bombay judgement is a landmark judgement which has been upheld by the Supreme Court. It has been a key principle in Indian politics. It has been upheld by the Supreme Court in a number of cases.

With the Modi Government completing 75 days of governance today, the Prime Minister speaks about the way forward and touches upon key issues under Jk&K and the importance of education.

Those who are opposing the decisions on J&K and the Articles 370 and 370A of the Indian Constitution, you would not have to oppose this issue. In the environment of open governance, there is a provision of a provost to provide water to people. They will oppose it, there is a railway track being planned. It will be the engine of development, the engine of proving that we have not been allowing the rich to take out what they have made in the past. If you think that the people of J&K will stand for this, they will not. They have a heritage to stand for. You can debate this, but try to understand the approach that we have taken. You can still say that we have been unkind to J&K. But aren’t there concerns about development and deterioration? Many of you have seen that the railway in Kashmir has never been filled with so much water and the people are still not satisfied. Kashmiri and Ladakhis are and can be satisfied. If we have not understood it, we will still work on these issues. They have a heritage to stand for. There is a railway track that is under construction. It will pass through the valleys of J&K. We will have a railway track in the Kashmir Valley. It will be connected now to the rest of India. We will have a railway track through the Himalayas. You have to understand that there are issues.
Noida eviction notices withdrawn after uproar

Noida (UP): Around 200 families of the Gardenia India housing project had a narrow escape on Wednesday when the State-run Bank of India withdrew the eviction notices it had served on the residents three days earlier.

According to the bank’s notice, the residents were being evicted as they had defaulted in payment of the amount stood at 78.45 lakh on December 31, 2015, and interest.

However, on Thursday, the bank announced it had decided to withdraw the notices that had been served on Wednesday.

Residents of the society were relieved after the bank’s withdrawal.

“The bank had given a loan to the borrower (Gardenia India Limited) four years ago for construction of the society. However, the construction of the society was not completed (by the borrower). Several people had made full payments and purchased flats in the society around four years ago, but a notices to evict them had been issued,” said an official of SDF, Srikant Kaushal.

The notices had also mentioned that the borrowers had defaulted in payment of the amount. The bank had also cited the fact that the registers of the society had not been registered properly.

“A day after its 10 SDF MLAs crossed over to SKM, the party’s strength in the Legislative Assembly has become 10, while the ruling SKM has gone up to 18, SDF MLAs, the strength of the party has been reduced to one seat in the Assembly which was won by a single vote in the Assembly polls held in April this year,” the party said in a statement.

The SDF, which ruled the state for a single term, was a single seat away from the number of seats held by the SKM, which is the main opposition in the state.

“Directives have been given that the namaz or aarti is being enforced in a harmonised manner and this will be extended to all cities and towns over the state. This will be implemented all over the state,” some SKM leaders said.

Earlier, similar directives have been given by Hindu organisations in Lagos after the police had banned it in that city. Some problems still exist in the banks, law and order department. We are taking steps to resolve these issues,” some leaders of the party said.

Shah Faesal sent back to Kashmir from Delhi

Detained under PSA in Srinagar

Former IAS officer Shah Faesal was sent back to Kashmir from the Delhi airport and detained here, sources close to Faesal said on Wednesday.

He was detained under the Public Safety Act (PSA) here on August 5 after his release on August 3, when he was released on bail, according to the sources.

They said he was sent back to Kashmir by the Delhi government using the special flight which had also carried the former Jammu and Kashmir lieutenant governor Satya Pal Malik.

Faesal had been sent to Srinagar for medical treatment in March last year by the Delhi government before he was detained under the PSA.

Faesal, who is the leader of the Pattatalik甫（PDP）, had resigned as chief minister of the state on August 4, 2019, citing lack of resources and for personal reasons.

He had been in a legal tussle with the state government over this as the government refused to release him from detention.

The former bureaucrat was a key leader of the PDP, which had been the only political outfit after resigning from the state government.

The idea was to get him out of the way so that the state government could move forward without him, the sources said.

TRADE DEFICIT NARROWS TO FOUR-MONTH LOW

The trade deficit in June 2019 narrowed to a four-month low of $10.67 billion, as against $13.67 billion in June 2018, and $18.63 billion in June 2019. The pre-vious low was in March 2019, when the gap was at $10.93 billion. Exports, according to data released by the commerce ministry on Tuesday, rose 3.64 per cent to $32.29 billion in June from $31.07 billion in May, while imports fell 5.39 per cent to $42.96 billion from $46.74 billion in May. The trade deficit for June was $10.67 billion, as against $13.79 billion in May.

GDP growth for the second quarter of the year, which ended in June, is expected to be around 5 per cent, the highest since the third quarter of 2017-18, according to a CPIM report released on Tuesday. The report, based on data from the Reserve Bank of India, points to a turnaround in the economy, with real GDP growth expected to be 5 per cent in the current fiscal year.

The report notes that the country's GDP growth has been relatively stable over the past decade, with a slight upward trend starting in 2014. It attributes this to the government's focus on structural reforms and infrastructure development.

The report also highlights the need for continued investment in education and healthcare to boost productivity and growth. It recommends increasing the share of public expenditure on these sectors and improving the quality of education and healthcare services.

The report concludes that, while the economy is on track to achieve higher growth rates in the coming years, it is important to focus on sustainable and inclusive growth to ensure that all segments of society benefit from economic development.
Roger, Djokovic advance in Cincinnati

Del Potro officially out of US Open

Fernando champion Juan Martin del Potro, who had surgery in June to repair a broken right scapula, said on Wednesday that he would not participate in the US Open.

The US Tennis Association said on Wednesday that del Potro will remain in the tournament. del Potro’s withdrawal means he will lose points from this year’s US Open, which will be his first title since 2018. del Potro’s absence means that the three-time Grand Slam champion will not have the opportunity to win his first major title.

Del Potro was out of the tournament due to a shoulder injury, which required surgery earlier this year. The Argentine has struggled with shoulder injuries throughout his career and has missed significant time due to these issues. Del Potro’s absence will give other players a chance to compete for the title, which could be won by either Novak Djokovic or Rafael Nadal.

Djokovic, the world No. 1, has been in good form and is a favorite to win the US Open. Nadal, who is currently ranked No. 2, has been inconsistent this year but is capable of winning the title. Other players to watch include Roger Federer, the three-time US Open champion, and Serena Williams, who is looking for her 24th Grand Slam title.

Del Potro’s withdrawal is a setback for the US Open, which is looking to attract more top talent. The American governing body has been working to increase its profile and has made efforts to attract more players from around the world. Del Potro’s absence will be a loss for the tournament, but other players are expected to step up and fill the void.
