Anti-CAA stir: Anxious wait for Friday

SHEKHAR SINGH NEW DELHI

Delhi remained relatively peaceful on Wednesday amid heightened tension and with the police and Central forces staging flag march in Northeast Delhi's Seelampur and Jafrabad to maintain law and order in the areas.

Jamia Millia Islamia witnessed protests against the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) and the proposed National Register of Citizens (NRC) but they remained peaceful with the Delhi Police keeping a strict vigil.

The main worry of police is upcoming Friday. Police, along with elders of the community, in Jamia and Seelampur areas interacted with heads of mosques and madrasas in city and urged them to appeal to locals to maintain "peace and harmony".

Police interacted with Shahi Imam Ahmed Bukhari of Jama Masjid and Mufti Muqarram, the Shahi Imam of Fatehpuri mosque, to ensure peace. Sources said police officers have impressed upon the Shahi Imams and Imams of other mosques in the Capital not to deliver fiery Friday sermons that may further vitiate the atmosphere.

Apex court refuses to stay CAA, issues notice to Centre

The battle to decide the Constitutional validity of Act (CAA) will now be fought in the Supreme Court. The SC on Wednesday issued notice to the Centre but refused to stay the operation of the Act.

The court sought response of the Centre by the second week of January next year on a batch of pleas challenging the CAA. The court also said the arguments on granting stay can be advanced on January 22, the next date of hearing.

A Bench comprising Chief Justice SA Bobde and Justices BR Gavai and Surya Kant fixed 59 petitions, including those filed by the Indian Union Muslim League and Congress leader Jairam Ramesh, for hearing on January 22, next year. Several petitions have been filed challenging the Act. The petitioners, including by RJD leader Manoj Jha, Trinamool Congress MP Mahua Moitra, AIMIM leader Asaduddin Owaisi, Jamiat Ulama-i-Hind, All Assam Students' Union (AASU), Peace Party, CPI, NGOs 'Rihai Manch' and Citizens Against Hate.

Continuing her tirade Against the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday tar-geted Home Minister Amit Shah for converting the much bandied catchphrase of the BJP — "Sabka Saath Sabka Vikas (development for all together with all)" into "Sabka Saath Sabka Sarvnas (debacle

SC rejects convict Akshay's review plea in Nirbhaya case

The Supreme Court on Wednesday rejected the review petition of Akshay Kumar Singh, one of the four convicts in the brutal Nirbhaya gangrape-and-murder case and confirmed the death sentence awarded to him in 2017. With this, the SC has dismissed review petitions of all the four death row convicts in the case.

A juvenile, who was coaccused, was convicted by a juvenile justice board, and released from a reformation home after serving a 3-year term. Another accused Ram Singh reportedly committed suicide in Tihar jail.

The convicts are left with the last option of filing curative petitions, which are rarely entertained by the court. To get a relief from curative petition, the petitioners are required to prove that the principle of natural justice was violated in the court's order, which was adversely affected by the bias of the judges.

The SC had first introduced the concept of curative petition in 2002. After the Sc dismissed Akhsay's review petition, his counsel sought three weeks to file mercy petition before the President. Solicitor General Tushar Mehta said that one week is prescribed under the law for filing the mercy petition.

"We are not expressing our view in this regard. If as per the law any time is available to the petitioner, it is for the petitioner to avail the remedy of filing mercy petition within that stip-ulated time," the Bench said.

Cyrus Mistry, a company law appeals court on Wednesday restored him as executive chair man of Tata Sons and ruled that appointment Chandrasekaran as head of the holding company of over USD 110 billion salt-to-software conglomerate was illegal. The National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) held that the group's chairman emeritus Ratan Tata's actions against Mistry were oppressive and the appoint of the new chairman illegal. It, however, stayed the operation of the order with respect to reinstatement for four weeks to allow Tatas to appeal.

Setting aside a lower court order, the NCLAT also quashed the conversion of Tata Sons into a private company from a public firm. It also directed Tata Sons not to take any action against Mistry, whose family

4 convicts' reply on filing of mercy petition awaited

A Delhi court directed Tihar jail authorities on Wednesday to seek within a week response from the four death row convicts in the sen-sational 2012 Nirbhaya gangrape and murder case as to whether they are filing mercy pleas against their executions with the President of India.

The development assumes significance as the Supreme Court on Wednesday dismissed the plea of Akshay Kumar Singh, one of the four convicts, saying review petition is not "re-hearing of appeal over and over again" and it had already considered the mitigating and aggravating circumstances while upholding the death penalty.

The 23-year-old paramedic student was gangraped and brutally assaulted on the intervening night of December 16-17, 2012 inside a moving bus in south Delhi by six persons before being thrown out on the road. She died on December 29, 2012 at Mount Elizabeth Hospital in Singapore.

Additional Sessions Judge
Satish Kumar Arora commenced the hearing on Delhi Government's plea seeking issuance of death warrants for executing the convicts just after the apex court verdict, and said that it will wait for the copy of Consoling Nirbhaya's crying mother, the judge said, "I have full sympathy with you. I know someone has died but there are their rights too. We are here to listen to you but are also bound by the law."Crying, she said: "Everywhere we go they (the convicts) say they have legal remedies. What do we have?"

On prosecution's repeated request that the court should pass death warrants, the court said, "The 'law of natural justice' says that the convicts are heard, till the time their remedies are available." After hearing the arguments, the court directed the Tihar authorities to issue fresh notice to the convicts.

The Delhi Government, meanwhile, filed a fresh application seeking issuance of death warrant against all the four convicts in the case.

After the 30-minute hearing, the court, via video conference, informed the convicts about Wednesday's court pro-

During the march, more than 500 teachers and research scholars carried placards reading "I stand with Jamia", "I am expressing gratitude to all supporting universities.

The marchers also carried a large map of India showing sites of campus protests across the country. JTA secretary Majid Jamil said, "Our protest on December 13 against CAA was peaceful. After two hours, another protest was called."

"They wanted to proceed to Parliament peacefully. Police didn't allow. They fired teargas shells at Jamia students when they were writing their exams, he said. The JTA said such incidents have been happening repeatedly in Jawaharlal Nehru University, Delhi University and other universities in the past few years. "We are going through a critical phase," it said.

Addressing the mass of protesters outside the gate number 7, Kumar said people should be more worried about the National Register of Citizens (NRC), which he said was much more dangerous than the controversial Citizenship Act (CAA).

The crowd erupted in cheers when Kumar said the

"If the NRC is imple-

those who are trying to protect the Constitution were being termed "anti-nationals" and those who are destroying it are calling themselves "patriots".

150 ad-hoc teachers removed

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Hundreds of Delhi University (DU) teachers thronged the roads against the Vice-Chancellor (VC) Yogesh Tyagi for removing about 150 ad-hoc teachers who joined after July 20, 2019.

The teachers said that the V-C is not taking any action on the agreement passed on December 6 between DUTA and Ministry of Human Resources (MHRD) and has not send any communication to colleges.

The teachers held rally called 'Khali Thali' from Feroz Shah Kotla stadium to University Grants Commission (UGC)on Wednesday demanding absorption of adhoc and temporary teachers, immediate promotions and various other

"Till now about 150 teachers has been given termination letter by the colleges. Earlier, the University said they will convert all the adhoc teachers into guest teachers. Now after the teachers protest against the notification, the VC is now removing ad-hoc teachers who joined after 20th July.

If the VC will not communicate with the college, they will remove the remaining 700 adhoc teachers who joined after 20th July this year," said the protesting teachers.

Sisodia to Sitharaman: Raise Delhi's share in Central taxes

Deputy CM Manish Sisodia has written to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman demanding increase in Delhi's share in Central taxes and complete funding of Centrally-sponsored schemes.

In his letter to Sitharaman, Sisodia who also holds the portfolio of Delhi's Finance minister mentioned that in order to tackle issues of air pollution in the national capital, the centre needs to escalate financial assistance to neighbouring States and requested the minister to allocate to the Delhi Government its legitimate share of about ₹3,202 crore in ad hoc settlement of unsettled Integrated Goods and Service Tax (IGST) in the current year itself.

The deputy chief minister said the normal central assistance was ₹370 crore in 2000-01, and after 18 years it was still ₹472 crore, as allocated in the 2019-20 Union Budget even expenditure on various schemes has increased by over eight

About the share in central taxes, Sisodia said, "The Government of NCT of Delhi is only getting grants in lieu of share in central taxes and that too has been kept stagnant at ₹325 crore since 2001-02 while all other states get an enhanced share in central taxes years."

He also demanded financial support to local bodies. He said the local bodies of Delhi should be given their proper dues and financial support.

The Delhi Government has recently accepted recommendations of fifth Delhi Finance Commission, the deputy chief minister said, adding that accordingly ₹4,179 crore devolved in the year 2018-19 and ₹4,575 crore has been kept for the local bodies in the 2019-20 Budget Estimates. "Hence, the local bodies of Delhi should be given adequate grants as in the case of other states," Sisodia

BJP seeks treason charges against Priyanka, Hemant

Complains against Cong, JMM leaders for calling saffron leaders rapists

MRITUANJAY KUMAR

The State unit of Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) today sharply reacted and complained against Congress General Secretary Privanka Gandhi Vadra and Iharkhand Mukti Morcha (IMM) Executive president Hemant Soren at the Chief Electoral Officer, Jharkhand's office seeking treason charges against the duo for Hemant's statement against BJP leaders in a poll

Hemant Soren, taking a jibe at Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Aditynath and other BJP leaders who wear saf-

leaders, who wear saffron clothes usually, avoid marriages, but rape women. Addressing a rally in Pakur, he also said that there is no respect for women in BJP rule and incidents of rape are occurring reg-

The BJP has alleged in its complaint letter to ECI that Hemant Soren tried to hurt Hindu sentiments by passing such a "derogatory" remark and the INC General Secretary, Priyanka Gandhi, who was also present on the stage did not stop him doing the same, neither did she condemn it. The BJP stated that it appeared that Priyanka also subscribed to the statement.

Objecting sharply to Soren's remark a delegation of the State BJP met officials at CEO office in Ranchi in the evening and filed a complaint against him.

State BJP president Laxman Gilua said that this is catastrophic statement and Soren has badly insulted all Hindu followers and priests.

"It is unfortunate that even Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi was on the same stage, but she did not stop Soren from passing such an obscene statement. Gandhi came to Pakur to address the election meeting.

Soren, but it does not mean that Soren insults the saints and priests," he added.

Speaking on the issue State BJP chief said that Hindus are tolerant, but if someone will try to abuse saints and priests, they will not tolerate it. "Soren's eyes are covered with glasses of appeasement. He has given the statement for getting votes of a particular community. The people of Jharkhand will avenge this insult to Hinduism," he added.

JMM General Secretary Supriyo Bhattacharya said that BJP has conceded its defeat and that is why it is fuelling such controversies.

Modi, Boris discuss India-UK trade, climate change in phone call

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday congratulated British counterpart Boris Johnson on his re-election in a phone call during which they resolved to continue working closely on issues such as trade, security and defence and climate change.

Johnson won a big majority for his Conservative Party in last week's election. The PM (Johnson) spoke to Prime Minister Modi of India, who congratulated him on the result of the General Election," a Downing Street spokesperson said.

The two leaders resolved together on issues such as trade, security and defence, and to step up our cooperation on climate change ahead of next year's COP26 climate summit in Glasgow," the spokesperson said.

The call with Modi is among the first few Johnson has had since the 55-year-old Conservative Party leader returned to 10 Downing Street as Prime Minister with a strong 80-seat majority last Friday.

US President Donald Trump and Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau were the world leaders ahead of the Indian Prime Minister to call Johnson, reflecting the British post-Brexit trade agreements once the UK has left the European Union (EU) next year.

During the election campaign trail, Johnson had made repeated references to his commitment to stronger India-UK ties and has committed to making India one of his first destinations for an overseas visit as a newly re-elected PM

"I know PM Modi is building a new India. And, we in the UK Government will support him fully in his endeavour," he said during a visit to the famous Swaminarayan Mandir in Neasden, north-west London, days before the election last

Priyanka dares Modi to speak on starvation deaths, rapes Asks if he is Prime Minister of country or divisive force

ongress General Secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Wednesday challenged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to speak about tribal tenancy laws, starvation deaths, rapes unemployment in Jharkhand – a statement that comes close on the heels of Modi's challenge to the Congress party to give Indian citizenship to all Pakistanis.

"From this podium in Pakur, I challenge Prime Minister Narendra Modi on behalf of the people of Jharkhand to speak about Santhal Pargana Tenancy (SPT) Act, starvation deaths, growing number of rapes and unemployment in the State," Priyanka said addressing an election rally in favour of Congress party's Pakur candidate Alamgir Alam.

Wednesday's rally was Priyanka's first ever election rally for Assembly election in any Indian State. She has been one of the vocal protestors of the recently passed Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA). On Wednesday too she took jibes at the Prime Minister over CAA, and asked if he was the Prime Minister of the country or the Prime Minister of divisive forces. "Aap Desh ke Pradhan Mantri Hain Ya Batware Ke (Are you the Prime Minister of the country or divisive forces?)," she asked.

Addressing a rally in Barhait on Tuesday, Modi had dared the Congress party to allow Indian citizenship to all Pakistanis if they had the guts

His statement came as a figurative reaction to the Congress party's growing criticism of the CAA and allegation of communal barb on the ruling Government.

Mistry had contended that he was removed because of his "efforts to remedy past acts of mismanagement", for resist-ing interference of Ratan Tata and for instituting a formal governance framework to regulate the role of the Tata Trusts. The "legacy hotspots" included shutting down the small car Nano project; cutting losses with expensive decisions in firms such as Indian Hotels Company Ltd (IHCL) and Tata Teleservices Ltd; and Air Asia

While Mistry termed the NCLAT judgment as "victory for the principles of good governance and minority shareholder rights", Tata Sons said the NCLAT order appears to have gone beyond the specific reliefs sought by Mistry and it was not clear as to how the NCLAT order seeks to overrule the decisions taken by shareholders of Tata Sons and listed Tata operating companies at validly constituted shareholder meetings.

"The proceedings of the sixth meeting of the Board of Directors of Tata Sons Ltd held on Monday, October 24 2016 so far as it relates to removal and other actions taken against Cyrus Pallonji Mistry is declared illegal and is set aside. In the result, Cyrus Pallonji Mistry is restored to his original position as Executive Chairman of Tata

Sons Ltd and consequently as Director of the Tata companies for rest of the tenure," the NCLAT said in its order.As a sequel thereto, the appointment of Chandrasekaran, who replaced Mistry, "is declared illegal," it said. The NCLAT ordered Ratan N Tata and the nominee of the Tata Trusts to "desist from taking any decision in advance which requires majority decision of the Board of Directors or in the Annual General Meeting". Also, the company, its Board of Directors and shareholders were ordered not to exercise power under Article 75 against Mistry.

Powers under Article 75 had not been exercised since inception and "can be exercised only in exceptional circumstances and in the interest of the company, but before exercising such power, reasons should be recorded in writing and intimated to the concerned shareholders whose right will be affected, it said.

Mistry was the sixth chairman of Tata Sons and had a tenure up to March 2017. The NCLAT order gives him five more months at the helm of Tata Sons if the said order is not stayed or overturned by the Supreme Court.

Declaring the decision of the Registrar of Companies to change character of Tata Sons from public company to private one as "illegal", NCLAT asked the RoC to correct records to show the company as public company. The court also stated that some observations in the July 9, 2018 judgment passed by the NCLT were "inappropriate and avoidable".

These included appreciating activities of Tata Sons and highlighting its products, which had no bearing on merits of the case, it said, adding certain observations against Mistry were "undesirable and based on extraneously sourced material not on record".

Stating that such observations cast "impact on the reputation" of Mistry, the NCLAT expunged those remarks while setting aside the July 9, 2018 Judgment of NCLT, Mumbai.

After the judgment was pronounced, Tata Sons counsel rayed for suspension of part of the judgment reinstating

'With a view to ensure smooth functioning of the company, while we are not inclined to suspend the Judgment pronounced today in its totality, but suspend the part of the Judgment so far as it relates to replacement of the present Executive Chairman and reinstatement of Mistry for a period of four weeks," the NCLAT said. for the review. Akshay's lawyer AP singh made some quirky arguments in his desperate bid to convince the judge to spare the life of his client. He went on to argue against the "futility" of awarding death sentence by saying that life span of people was already decreasing due to pollution in Delhi-NCR.

Singh also argued that that in 'Kalyug' there was no need of awarding death sentence as a person is "no better than a dead body". "We find it unfortunate that such grounds have been raised in the matter as serious as the present case," the bench, also comprising Justices Ashok Bhushan and A S Bopanna, said in its verdict on Akshay's plea seeking a review of its 2017 penalty awarded to him.

"The review petition is not for re-hearing of the appeal on reappreciation of the evidence over and over again. A party is not entitled to seek review of the judgment merely for the purpose of rehearing of the appeal and a fresh decision," said the bench, also comprising Justices Ashok Bhushan and A S Bopanna. edly".

The bench also dealt with Singh's submissions regarding a book titled 'Black Warrant' written by former law officer of Tihar jail Sunil Gupta.

Singh argued that the officer had expressed his opinion in the book that accused Ram Singh, who had allegedly committed suicide in the jail, was "murdered" in prison on March 11, 2013. "Here again, the opinion of the said former law officer Sunil Gupta is only his opinion which is not supported by any material," the bench said.

"The opinion of the said officer...Which is not supported by any material, cannot be a ground for reviewing our judgment," it added.

It also dealt with Singh's allegations that the sole eyewitness, present in the bus along with the victim, had taken "heavy amount as bribe' for giving statements in the media when the trial was on at Saket district court.

"In a criminal case, culpability or otherwise of the accused are based upon appre-

Mod Mulls Closure of Officers Training Academy in Gaya ———

Peeved Nitish writes to Rajnath

Peeved over the Defence Ministry mulling over the closure of the Officers Training Academy (OTA) in Gaya, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar has written a letter to Defence Minister Rajnath Singh strongly protesting against the move as the OTA provided employment opportunities in the region and contributed to the economy.

However, sources in the Ministry said in New Delhi, Sikh Light Infantry Regimental Centre will be shifted once the OTA is shifted to Indian Military Academy(IMA), Dehradun. They said the army had proposed to the Defence Ministry to close down OTA due to underutilization of resources and the institute had become unviable.

In the letter written on Wednesday, Kumar said he came across the news of proposed closure of the OTA, Gaya, in some newspapers and digital media.

The Chief Minister, whose JD(U) is an alliance partner of the BJP, termed the development as "shocking and very dis-

The OTA, Gaya, which was set up in 2011, "not only provided employment opportunities in the region but also contributed towards economy and sense of security in the area", he added.

"It would be very inappropriate to close the Officers Training Academy at Gaya. This wrong decision by Ministry of Defence is against the state's interest and it would be a gross injustice to the people of Bihar," Kumar

Sources in New Delhi said the cadets training at OTA in Gaya, functional since 2011, are likely to be shifted to IMA, cadets are currently undergoagainst the institute's capacity

As of now there are three centres training cadets to become officers and they are namely IMA, Dehradun, Training Officers Academy(OTA), Chennai and Gaya OŤÀ.

The decision to open the Gaya OTA was taken after the Kargil conflict in 1999 as it was anticipated that more youths will opt for a career in the army. Hence, the Army needed infrastructure for training and the Gaya institute was started.

However, the number of people who could qualify to become officers to join the Army did not take place, they said adding the youth were now more inclined to go in for jobs in the private sector and other

They also said even the OTA Chennai was able to fill 50 per cent of its seats as Short Service Commission obviously was not an attractive option for the aspiring youths to have a career in the armed forces.

Same is the case with IMA Dehradun which is training about 300 cadets less than its strength adding the academy has a capacity of 1,650.

Cong's flag march in all capitals on Dec 28

To register strong protest against policies of Modi, Shah-led Govt PNS NEW DELHI

fter the "success" of the A Bharat Bachao Rally last week in the national Capital, the Congress has decided to conduct a 'Save India, Save Constitution' flag march in all the State capitals on December 28, its foundation day.

Congress president Sonia Gandhi would hoist the Congress flag at party head-quarters in New Delhi while all senior State leaders and heads of frontal organisations would participate in the march the State capitals, which would be organised by the respective Pradesh Congress Committees

The decision was taken in a meeting of AICC general secretaries and in-charges on late Tuesday night.

AIĆC general secretary K C Venugopal said that a series of flag marches is being organised in continuation of the success and the momentum generated by the massive Bharat Bachao Rally'.

"The flag march is aimed at registering a strong protest against the anti-people policies of the Narendra Modi-Amit Shah led BJP Government which has resulted in massive unemployment, economic slowdown, unprecedented price rise and atrocities against women," Venugopal said.

The divisive policies of the Government like Citizenship Amendment Act and brutal police crackdown on protesting students and citizens will also be taken up, which are aimed at diverting the attention from the burning issues affecting the common people, the party said in a statement.

Congress also said the party did not seek an interim stay by the Supreme Court on the amended Citizenship Act and alleged "misinformation" was being spread about it, while asserting that the legislation goes against India"s global obligations.

The reaction came after the Supreme Court earlier in the day decided to examine the constitutional validity of the CAA, but refused to stay its implementation.

Party leaders Abhishek Singhyi and Jairam Ramesh said at AiCC press briefing that in its petition against the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), the Congress did not seek an interim stay on the legislation. They alleged that the law is "unconstitutional" and

With Pakistan continuing to violate ceasefire on the 750-km-long Line of Control (LoC), Army Chief General Bipin Rawat said here on Wednesday situation can escalate at any time. He, however, said "we are prepared for a response along the retaliatory matrix."

His observation came in the backdrop of increase in ceasefire violations in the last couple of days with the Army even foiling a Border Action Team(BAT)raid by Pakistan in Sunderbani in Jammu region on Monday. An Indian soldier died after getting hit by a rocket and two Pakistani commandos also reportedly died in retaliatory fire. Another Indian soldier died a day earlier in Gurez in North Kashmir in ceasefire violation by Pakistan.

Moreover, Rawat's statement came amid reports of ceasefire violations and increased firing at the LOC

Ever since the abrogation Jammu and Kashmir's special status under Article 370, as many as 190 stone pelting incidents have been reported in Kashmir Valley with 250 people involved in them being currently in jails.

The seriousness of the situation can be gauged from the fact that more than 950 incidents of ceasefire violations were reported along the LOC between August and October. The overall figure for the entire last year was 1,700. The current figure for the entire year as regards ceasefire violation has already crossed the 2,000 mark.

There have been a total 171 attempts of infiltration from across the border to Jammu and Kashmir this year till October and 114 of them were successful, a senior home ministry official said. Of the total "successful" infiltration bids, 59 were since August -- seven in October, 20 in September and 32 in August. There had been 143 successful infiltrations in 2018, 136 in 2017 and 119 in 2016.

Also, there were a total of 544 incidents of stone pelting so far in 2019 and 190 of them have taken place since August 5 when Article 370 provisions were abrogated.

Till December 8, altogether 356 people from Jammu and Kashmir were in jail and 250 of them were stonepelters, the official said adding there were 802 incidents of stone pelting in the Valley in 2018.

The official said the National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India (NAFED) has so far procured 15.49 lakh MT of apples from the valley and is targeted to procure a total of 22.5 lakh MT by

ARCHANA JYOTI - NEW DELHI

The National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) has held the Odisha Government guilty of failing to ensure safe habitat to the two translocated big cats in Satkosia Tiger Reserve (STR) - one of them was lost to poaching while other had to be 'caged' because of protests from the locals in the State. The tigers, Mahaveer and Sundari ,were shifted from the wilds of Madhya Pradesh last year.

While the top tiger conservation body has suspended the re-introduction programme in the STR till the habitat is made conducive again for the predators, it has also decided to withdraw the tigress T-2, also called Sundari, kept in the enclosure in Satkosia habitat for the last one year. It was the country's first

NTCA to assess the tiger augmentation programme in the STR had found that the State Government had failed to adhere to the protocol as well as the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972 while implementing the ₹18 crore-reintroduction plan

For instance, said the panel, while translocating and after translocation, both the animals were not monitored and managed as per the NTCA protocol. "The tigress T-2 brought from Bandhavgarh Tiger Reserve to STR was captured without following due process laid down by the NTCA and relevant provision of the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972.

"Further the tigress has been kept in a small enclosure for more than one year without any effort to re-wild the same as per protocol," said the panel.

Not only SOPs were violated but funds meant for the safety of the translocated tigers too were diverted from specified activities without authorisation from the NTCA. Further even after substantial fund release, the project has not shown any significant input.

Environment protection, development possible at same time: Javadekar

PNS NEW DELHI

 $U_{\rm Minister}^{\rm nion}$ Environment Prakash Javadekar on Tuesday criticised his predecessor in the UPA regime, Jairam Ramesh, saying that the latter created a false notion that "environment protection and country's development are each other's enemy". The Minister also said that under the leadership of Narendra Modi, India led from the front on the issues of environment protection and climate change.

"We have to ensure growth and environment protection together. In the last few years,

According to the team of researchers at McMaster University, the plastic can be shrink-wrapped onto door handles, railings, IV stands and other surfaces that can be magnets for bacteria such as MRSA and C. difficile. The study is published in the international journal ACS Nano.

The treated material is also ideal for food packaging, where it could stop the accidental transfer of bacteria such as E. coli, Salmonella and listeria from raw chicken, meat and other foods, said the researchers led by engineers

The Centre has offered 3.2 lakh tonne of tur (arhar), 2 lakh tonne of urad, 1.2 lakh tonne of chana, 1.5 lakh tonne of moong and 57,000 tonne of masoor. The country's pulses production stood at 234 lakh tonne in the 2018-19 crop year, down from the record level of 254 lakh tonne in 2017-18

According to the Ministry Consumer Affairs, retail prices of 20 out of the 22 essential food items, tracked by the Government increased continuously during the curhas been significant increase in the prices of three major pulses -arhar, urad and moong while gram prices have largely remained stable.

The decision in this regard was taken during a meeting chaired by Consumer Affairs Secretary Avinash Srivastava to review prices and availability of pulses across the nation. According to the Ministry data, the average price of chana is ruling at ₹65 per kg, tur ₹85 per kg, urad ₹95 per kg, moong ₹85 per kg and masoor ₹60 per kg across major cities. However, the maximum rate of chana is ₹88, tur ₹110, urad ₹140, moong ₹

120 and masoor ₹100 per kg. The Department of Consumer Affairs that maintains buffer stock of pulses for the Union Government under the Price Stabilisation Mechanism has offered about 8.5 lakh tonne of pulses to state governments at average market rates," an official statement in Sep-Oct floods said. "The purpose is to ensure an increased overall availabilrent calendar year. There here ity of pulses in the market across India and also to ensure that prices remain stable," it said.

Also, the rabi (winter) crop may fall, given that prolonged monsoon and resultant floods have delayed the sowing activity - on a year-on-year basis, the winter-sowing of pulses is now down a fifth. According to trade sources, the pulses crop in 11 lakh hectare out of a total kharif pulses area of 130 lakh hectare have been damaged in the September-October floods. Since India's pulses production just meets the annual domestic demand of about 240 lakh tonne, any production shortfall could impact prices rather directly, although the buffer stocks could give some cushion.

Hindu-Muslim no answer to students' concerns: Cong

Amid raging protests against the new citizenship law, the Congress on Wednesday warned Narendra Modi Government against attempting a "Hindu-Muslim" (divide) or raising a India-Pakistan rhetoric, which it said cannot be the solution to the concerns of jobless youth and to other issues.

Speaking to reporters, Congress chief spokesperson Randeep Singh Surjewala also said that the ongoing protests by the students community will "grow stronger" if the Centre Government fails to hold talks with Surjewala was in Ahmedabad to attend a court hearing in connection with a criminal defamation case. He was granted bail after he pleaded not guilty.

"While students and youth of the country are holding demonstrations, the Modi Government is responding with batons, tear gas and bullets, instead of talking to Hindu-Muslim or India-Pakistan is no reply to the youth's questions on unemployment, rising cost of education, and trampling of Constitution," Surjewala said.

He was referring to the violent protests against the new citizenship law in Delhi and the resultant police action on students of the Ĵamia Millia Islamia University (JMI) and the Aligarh Muslim University (AMU).

Taunting the Prime Minister, Surjewala said such police crackdown was unprecedented in the last 72 years, because "Modi hai toh mumkin hai" (anything is possible under PM Narendra Modi)". "I would like to ask PM What his Government is trying to prove by baton-charging, firing bullets and teargas shells on youth and stu-dents inside a girls' hostel and libraries (of JMI varsity)," he said.

Surjewala said the student community and youth are agitated over the lack of employment and rising cost of education. "Parents do not have money for education of their wards. They have no opportunity. They are agitated that the Constitution is being trampled upon...You (Modi) must understand, and also consider it as warning, that they stand against you, they can even change the government," he Surjewala further said that if the Centre doesn't hold talks with the agitated students "the protests will only grow stronger, and you cannot suppress them".

'Mamata should avoid making unconstitutional statements'

Guv: Citizenship law is not against any citizen

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE KOLKATA

Even as Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee publicly expressed her contempt for the Citizenship Amendment Act saying she would never let it come to Bengal, State Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar slammed her saying the people who were on constitutional posts should avoid making unconstitutional statements

Speaking at a press conference almost at the same time when Banerjee was leading a massive protest march against CAA and NRC on Wednesday the Governor who is also a noted jurist said: "According to the Constitution, the State Government is bound to follow the law. And those who are on Government posts are fully bound by the law of the land. The Chief Minister took the oath to act according to the Constitution, and this law is part of the Constitution."

He said "as the Constitutional head of the State I will appeal to the people with folded hands and say Citizenship the Amendment Act is not against any citizen of India and it does not deprive any citizen of this country in any manner whatsoever. If any impression is being given that it affects the citizen of the country, it is erroneous, mischievous and misinterpretation," adding the Act on the contrary to the perception being fanned by the politicians was "giving a healing touch to those who have no other place to go and India is their natural home?

The Governor who had earlier summoned the Chief Minister, Chief Secretary, Home Secretary and the Director General of Police on different days — though none of them responded to his summons for consultations on the present turmoil in the State, said, "I have no doubt that the Honourable Chief Minister would also enter into a dialogue with me. That dialogue will be beneficial for both of us and it will be in the interest of West Bengal. And it will serve a large constitutional purpose."

Guwahati: With internet shut, city walls & 'gamochas' become scrolls of protests

The traditional Assamese 'gamocha' is a veritable symbol of pride for the State, but of late this sartorial heritage has also become a scroll of protest for people agitating against the amended citizenship law.

With the mobile internet suspended here for the past eight days, protesters have been spilling their anger and resentment against the highly emotive Citizenship Amendment Bill (CAB), now an Act, on public walls and 'gamochas'.

Rajya Sabha had passed the contentious bill on December 11 completing the legislative process for giving Indian citizenship to non-Muslim migrants from Pakistan, Afghanistan and Bangladesh, plunging Assam into a huge chaos, as violent protests had erupted across the State. Guwahati, being the epicentre of the agitation, witnessed protests marches and countless bonfires lit up in the streets across the city till December 12 night, bringing the bustling town to a stand-

Seeking to check spread of rumour and maintain law and order, authorities had clamped indefinite curfew in Guwahati and suspended internet connection in 10 districts, including Kamrup (Metro) on December 11 evening. Guwahati falls in Kamrup (Metro) district.

As people could not take to social media to vent their ire, many people who opposed the bill spray-painted 'anti-CAB' and 'anti-BJP' messages on walls in prominent places and inner areas to register their protest, locals said. While the curfew was lifted on Tuesday morning, mobile internet services are still suspended, even as peaceful protests against CAA, led by All Assam Students' Union (AASU) continues at various public squares.

On prominent Md Tyabullah Road skirting the famous Dighali Pukhuri, an entire stretch of walls of private homes, commercial ventures or quarters of Cotton University Professors' Colony, seems like a giant protest scroll with 'No CAB' splattered all over it. "We Assamese totally opposed the bill, and now want the Act to be revoked. Mobile internet has been shut since December 11 evening. People also express their sentiments and resentment on social media.

But, I guess, these public walls are symbols of protest now," said

"The BJP's objective is to cre-

The law maker also disclosed that though he had reservations about the Citizens Amendment Bill 2019 (CAB 2019) , a Deputy Secretary from the Secretariat called him over phone and instructed him to vote in favour of the Government.

The AIADMK has reportedly asked its spokesmen not to react to media queries about the comments and observations made by the octogenarian Rajya Sabha member.

"Questions are being raised about the denial of citizenship to Sri Lankan Tamils. All Sri Lankan Tamils who sought citizenship in this country have been granted citizenship by the Government of India," said Palaniswami.

He was responding to queries about the allegations by M K Stalin, president, DMK, that the CAA was discriminatory in nature and gross injustice was being done to the Sri Lankan Tamils.

"It was Stalin, his father Late M Karunanidhi, the then chief minister, whjo offered all help to the Sri Lankan Government in the liquidation of Tamils in Sri Lanka during the civil war in 2009. This was revealed by Stalin who addressed the media after the one hour long meeting which was attended by all constituents of the DMK-led front.

MID-SEA SHIVAJI MEMORIAL PROJECT

NCP seeks probe into 'irregularities'

The Opposition BJP found itself in the dock on Wednesday, as the ruling NCP leader Dhananjay Munde demanded an enquiry into the alleged irregularities into the ₹3,700 crore mid-sea Chhatrapati Shivaji memorial Participating in a debate on the Governor's address to the joint session of Maharashtra Legislature at the ongoing winter session in Napgur, Munde alleged, "The previous BJP Government that came to power invoking Maratha warrior Chhatrapati Shivaji's name had the project had launched the mid-sea Shivaji memorial through a Jal Puja at the hands of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The Devendra Fadnavis Government committed irregularities in the tendering process of the project".

"Since its Government committed sin, the BJP has now been kept out of power. We demand a full-fledged inquiry into the alleged irregularities in the tendering process of mid-sea Shivaji Memorial project," Munde

Munde rooted for an inquiry into the alleged irregularities in the tendering process of the Shivaji memorial project, when he was responding to the remarks made by former chief minister and the current leader of the Opposition

Fadnavis compared that the Shiv Sena-led Maha Vikas Aghadi (AVA) Government to a three-wheeled autorichskaw and said that it would not last long. On his part, Munde hit back, saying that the MVA government would not last for one full term, but it would last for three full three terms. "You will have to wait for not just five but at least 15 years before you can hope to return to the power in the Munde's demand for an inquiry into the alleged irregularities in the tendering process of the Chhatrapati Shivaji memorial project should be seen in the context of the fact that the Devendra Fadnavis Government had on March 1, 2018 handed over the "Letter of Acceptance" (LoA) to the infrastructure major L & T and gave a go-ahead to the latter for the start of construction.

At that time, Fadnavis had made the announcement through a tweet: "Historic day it is! 15 long years' wait is over!! We handed over the 'Letter of Acceptance' to L&T for the grand memorial of our Great King Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj in the Arabian Sea, at Vidhan Bhavan, Mumbai". "Maharashtra and our Nation have waited for 15 long years for this monument of pride for every Indian. Gave directions to start the actual work before monsoon. It is our Government that took every memorial in a record time," the then Chief Minister had said in another tweet.

The proposed Shivaji memorial — 212 metres in height which includes a 123.2m statue standing atop an 88.8m pedestal — was a flagship project of the previous BJP-led Government.

The equestrian statue of the great Maratha warrior king will come up on a rocky islet around 3.5 km from the Marine Drive in south Mumbai.

The memorial will — apart from the statue of Shivaji nouse an open-air theatre, a library and a museum showcasing the Maratha warrior's life. Besides, the memorial will have a viewing gallery akin to the one at Statue of Liberty in New York harbour. It will have a landscaped garden that can accommodate 3,000 people at

In 2017, L&T was shortlisted for ₹ 3,826 crore after the consortium of Reliance Infrastructure and Afcons quoted an estimate of ₹ 4,779 crore for the project. The project was estimated to cost around ₹3,826 crore, but now official sources said there has been "a further revision in the cost".

Prime Minister Narendra Modi had performed Jal Puja for the mid-sea Shivaji memorial project on December 24, 2016, ahead of the crucial February 2017 Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC)

J&K authorities decide to open MA Cricket Stadium for forces on R-Day

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Even before allowing international cricket players to take guard, at the newly laid 'grassy' cricket pitch of Maulana Azad Stadium, the I&K administration has decided to throw open the gates of the stadium to the marching contigents of the Indian Army, J&K Police and paramilitary forces on the occasion of 71st Republic day function in January 2020.

Maulana Azad stadium, originally opened on January 25, 1962 by the then Prime Minister of Jammu & Kashmir, Bakshi Ghulam Mohammad, was recently upgraded and renovated at a whopping cost of 42 crores, under Prime Ministers' Development Package, with world class facilities on the guidelines of International

The objective was to provide world class facilities in the region to host international cricket matches and IPL league matches and boost local talent.

Though local players,initially opposed the decision of the divisional authorities and made passionate appeals to save the newly laid cricketing field, the administration ignored them and went ahead with their 'unilateral' decision.

In the beginning of this week, the local authorities even handed over the custody of the stadium to security personnel to ensure incident free Republic day celebrations.

Ever since, venue of the state function, was targeted by the terrorists in 1995, elaborate security arrangements are made to ensure incident free celebrations.

On January 26, 1995 when former Governor General (Retd) KV Krishna Rao was taking salute after unfurling the tricolor, three bombs were set off by the terrorists resulting in eight deaths fifty four injuries. Governor himself had narrowly escaped

On ground zero, the project executing agency National Project Construction Project Corporation Limited (NPCC) is racing against time to complete the pending works inside the stadium.

The ambitious project has already missed several deadlines after renovation work started in February 2018.

Renovation work included extension of main pavilion and up-gradation as per Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) norms, up-gradation of seating area, installation of chairs, provision of public toilets, food plaza, flood lights for stadium, cricket ground with natural surface, practice pitch, proper drainage and other additional facilities.

Large number of players staged demonstrations to pressurise officials of J&K Sports Council from preventing misuse of newly upgraded stadium but in vain.

Speaking to this correspondent, local players alleged besides march past drill, heavy artillery guns are displayed during the Republic Day parade along with tableau of different departments.

We have genuine fears, if all these activities were permitted to take place chances are that the newly laid green turf will suffer damages, leading to further delay in completion of

They claimed, daredevil motorcyclists perform gravity defying stunts in the main ground and thousands of people throng the venue to witness the state function. They may converge at the ground during the state function leading to irreparable losses.

Cabinet expansion likely in January, hints Yediyurappa

Signalling that the much awaited expasion of his Ministry was likely in January, Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa on Wednesday said he will be going to New Delhi by month end to discuss it with the BJP high command.

He had recently indicated that the Ministry expansion was likely to take place after December 20 or 22. "By this month end I will go to Delhi to meet our national president (Amit Shah) and Prime Minister (Narendra Modi), after coming backthose who supported our party and contested and won the polls- will be made Ministers as promised Yediyurappa told reporters at Hubballi in north Karnataka. However, there are talks within BJP circles that the ministry expansion may get delayed further 'Dhanurmasa' (considered an inauspicious month among Hindus) was on since December 16 and will end with 'Makara Sankranti' in January third week.

Expressing confidence that his Government was stable and will complete its term, Yediyurappa said "As we have won 12 seats in the recent elections, we have got an opportunity to do good work for the remaining three and half years without any disturbance.We will bring in visible changes in six to eight months

The ruling BJP had swept the by-elections winning 12 of the total 15 seats, helping the four-month-old Yediyurappa Government to retain majority in the Assembly.

Cabinet expansion will not be an easy task as the Chief Minister will have to strike a balance by accommodating the victorious disqualified legisla-tors as he had promised and also make place for the old guard, upset at being "neglected" in the first round of the induction exercise.

With Yediyurappa making clear that 11 disqualified MLAs of the 13 fielded by BJP, who successfully contested the bypolls on party tickets, will be made Ministers, several senior party legislators have been lobbying hard for their induction.

The Chief Minister will also have to deal with the demand for induction of two disqualified MLAs into the ministrywho had contested the bypolls on the BJP ticket but lost besides allocation of key portfolios. He also has to give adequate representation to various castes and regions in his cabinet, that currently has 18 ministers including the Chief Minister, and the sanctioned strength is 34.

MAHADAYI PROJECT

BSY: Will take up with Centre MoEF move

Bengaluru: Karnataka Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Wednesday said he would make all efforts to get justice for the state on the Kalasa Banduri project related to inter-state Mahadayi river as the Centre kept in abyeance its earlier communication regarding environment clearance to it.

In a reprive to Goa, with which Karnataka has a dispute over sharing the Mahadayi river water, the Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEF) on Wednesday kept in abeyance its October 17 letter

Global chorus

The brutalisation of students has unnerved academic communities in Ivy League institutions and Oxford here is reverse classism in the current establishment, negating the educated as prejudiced, damning liberalism as an elite obsession, diagnosing inquiry as a compulsive disorder and trusting the apparent as the only explanation. While humanism by itself wants an equitable society, it doesn't come with dominance and subversion, it comes with a healthy respect for each other, dialogue and engagement. So though Home Minister Amit Shah may insist upon our Indic responsibility to save our people persecuted elsewhere, as promised by the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), he doesn't want us to make much of the mindset behind the religion-based approach to asylum seekers. Or think that once linked with the National Register of Citizens (NRC), which relies on a complex process of documentation and could push out existing citizens as it has in Assam, it demonises the minority. Or that the majoritarian nationalism could swamp ethnicities as it has in Assam and Tripura. And if civilisational memory is what we need to revive, then exclusion was never our credo, something that students are reminding us because we ourselves have failed them in upholding what we preach. It is this failure to listen to the full story that is having a ripple effect on civil society. Now the protests in campuses over CAA have found echoes in top global institutions, including Oxford, Harvard, Yale and MIT. Over 400 students from different US universities have issued a joint statement expressing solidarity with Jamia and AMU students and condemned the brutal police violence as a gross violation of human rights. Students and scholars at Oxford University even staged a protest march to India House in London over a "direct attack on foundations of a democratic society." Protests are also being planned in Zurich and Berlin, the last a crucible of how a polarised world could crumble under the weight of rigid lines. The Government would probably dismiss these as disruptive voices from the extended family of "urban Naxals" and consider them inconsequential to its larger purpose of Hindu revival. By that logic then, the entire community of academics and premium centres of learning are irrelevant to the Hindu cause simply because they don't translate into votes. If the bull-headed short-sightedness of the Government is to be believed, then students everywhere have been delusional enough to be fooled by a country-specific agenda of India's fragile Opposition. The establishment must realise that this is a collective conscience call of a democratic society that has come under the sharpest attack in recent memory. It is, perhaps, the first non-political hitback of the fear and distrust of the Modi Government in its current Hindu-only overdrive.

The brutalisation of students has clearly cost us our global perception as a tolerant society and though it would be easy enough to draw comparisons with crackdowns elsewhere, do we really want to be in the company of autocracies? Whether the Government admits it or not, it has had trouble explaining itself on lockdowns in foreign capitals, even in nations which had respected its right to abrogate Article 370 within its Constitutional space. Perhaps, more questions are being raised about India's societal churn as we are blitzed with conquestlike images of a Howdy Modi event. But crushing students, who are the firstline protectors of a democratic legacy everywhere in the world, has been our undoing. Apologists would argue that Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, someone whom Prime Minister Narendra Modi considers a personal friend, had to postpone the proposed summit meeting here because Guwahati was supposed to be the venue. Couldn't that be shifted? Two Bangladesh Ministers called off their visits although their Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina is "friendly" towards India. Anti-India travel advisories and positions taken in Western capitals against our sectarian approach have impacted our international image. The Government has clearly overreached itself in pushing both NRC and CAA down our throats. For a while, there has been no big bang talk of reforms or projects that fires the national imagination. What we forget though is that we do not have the heft of China yet to live down the war of perception. That's precisely because the world respects us as a different Asian power and expects us to keep democracy alive.

Inflationary pressure

It's ironic that an economy on the verge of meltdown is now witnessing a spike in food prices. A solution has to be found ike every year, food inflation is back in the news but this time it has reached a 71month high. It would be anybody's guess as to what accounted for the increase: A steep rise in prices of vegetables battered by the monsoon deluge is the main reason. Given the dramatic price rise of onion and milk across the country, the spike in wholesale and retail food prices isn't surprising. Onion imports and a gradual increase in domestic supplies have arrested the spiral. The seemingly tone-deaf response to the crisis, particularly by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, was like pouring fuel into the fire, at least on social media. Clearly, long-term solutions have to be found. The Narendra Modi-led administration has shown that it can act on commodity prices. Its actions on the pulses crisis a few years ago saw the country move from being a net importer to that of a net exporter. Better management of the onion crop and an investigation into whether the crisis was manufactured have to be undertaken.

Nevertheless, food inflation has now become a reality of life. Controlling prices too much may eventually lead to farmers facing the brunt. And this wouldn't be politically sound, too. Plugging gaps in procurement and managing the supply chain system can help mitigate the price increases and enhance efficiency. However, what has worsened the problem this time is the economic slowdown. With jobs growth at a standstill and people's wallets facing more competitive pressures, even a small rise in the prices of essential food item tends to hurt the people more. For example, the repercussion of the milk crisis will be felt in a few weeks when prices of not just packaged pouches but dairy products like cheese and paneer will rise. This, coupled with increasing fuel rates, will likely pinch the common man even more in the coming weeks. What then should be done? Can a Reserve Bank of India cut help? Previous rate cuts have not spurred spending, nor have they encouraged banks to increase lending. Given the state of the financial sector, a reduction in interest rates will hardly help. The Government has also managed to tie itself up in knots, desperate as it is to increase taxes without realising the impact it will have on discretionary spending. The only way out is to splurge in the next wave of reforms, increase agricultural productivity and strengthen cold storage and distribution networks. With year-long restrictions imposed on retail traders and wholesalers on volumes they can trade, farmers are unable to sell their produce when they have a bumper crop. During shortages, distributors make money by hoarding. If the Government increases its own stocks and based on predictive analysis, grades export restrictions, it can arrest sharp price fluctuations.

End the culture of silence

It is surprising that successive Indian Governments preferred to remain mum even as China kept on making advances towards the border. If this continues, a new disaster may unfold ecently, Sun Weidong, the Chinese Ambassador to India, declared that the positive effects of the second informal summit between Chinese President Xi Jinping and Prime Minister Narendra Modi were gradually showing. He further said that China was keen to promote defence and security cooperation with India for regional peace and stability. This declaration, however, does not tally with the facts. Though he asserted that China's position on Kashmir was "consistent and clear", Beijing is planning to raise the Kashmir issue when the Special Representatives (SRs) of India and China meet to discuss the boundary issue on December 21.

It is doubtful if any progress can be made during these talks between Ajit Doval, the Indian SR and Wang Yi, his Chinese counterpart, especially after China requested the UN Security Council (UNSC) to discuss the situation in the Valley again. According to Reuters, Pakistan's Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi said, "Čhina would like to echo the request of Pakistan and request a briefing of the Council ...on the situation of Jammu & Kashmir." (On France's insistence, the move was, however, dropped later).

In these circumstances, it is not only difficult to believe that the effects of the Chennai Connect are positive but to trust its hurtful actions such as internationalising an internal issue of India. Unfortunately, successive Indian Governments have not articulated a proper response to this doublespeak.

Take Tibet with its centuries-old relationship with the Himalayan belt, which faded away at the end of 1950s for no fault of India. It brought unbelievable hardship to the local Indian frontier population. In the years preceding the arrival of the Dalai Lama in March 1959, traditional trade as well as cultural and religious contacts between Tibet and India gradually collapsed due to the harsh Chinese occupation of Tibet. By early 1962, the situation was so bad that India had to refuse to prolong the "Agreement on Trade and Intercourse between Tibet Region of China and India", infamously known as the Panchsheel Agreement. The principles of the lofty Preamble have never been respected by China. Recently, I came across a telling "Monthly Report from Tibet for October 1960" sent by Apa Pant, the Political Officer (PO) in Sikkim to the Ministry of External Chinese were fast consolidating their presence on the plateau and Indian interests were dismissed. The report says, "The programme of mass settlement of Chinese in Tibet has started. There are rumours in Lhasa that about two-and-a-half lakh Chinese civilians will be brought in and settled in Tibet in the near future. At the moment, the Chinese population, both in Lhasa and Gyantse, has increased considerably."

While traditional trade with India was progressively stopped, infrastructure along the Indian borders was built on a war-footing (probably to prepare for the border war, which erupted two years later). Though New Delhi pretended to have been taken "by surprise", reading Pant's report, one realises that the Indian Government had all the necessary information to see the writing on the wall.

In the report, Pant notes that Chinese cadres continued to pour into Tibet in increasing numbers. Slowly, the demography of the plateau changed and put India and the world in front of a fait accompli. Tibet was Chinese.

Women cadres were also brought in from the main-land: "Lhasa now looks like a Chinese city where Tibetans form only an insignificant minority. The lamas have been taken out of the monasteries and put to work as labourers and the monasteries are being

If this was the situation in October 1960, one can imagine how the Tibetan capital resembles today. The report continues, "The Ramoche Monastery in Lhasa is now the headquarters of the traffic police, while

IN A REPORT.

PANT NOTES THAT CHINESE CADRES CONTINUED TO POUR INTO TIBET IN INCREASING NUMBERS. SLOWLY, THE DEMOGRAPHY OF THE PLATEAU CHANGED AND PUT INDIA AND THE WORLD IN FRONT OF A FAIT ACCOMPLI. TIBET WAS CHINESE

the Kundeling Monastery, which had been damaged in the March 1959 struggle (at the time of the uprising against the Chinese occupation), is being utilised to house the Chinese cadres after repairs. The houses vacated by the Kashmiri Muslims have also been occupied by the Chinese cadres."

Pant asserts that the Chinese "now appear to be in complete control of the administration." The members of the former Tibetan nobility "are in concentration camps, except for those who had cast their lot with the Chinese Communists prior to the March 1959 conflagration. The latter have been given official positions and can be seen moving about in motor vehicles in Lhasa." It was a luxury at that time.

What is surprising is that New Delhi kept quiet all these years, trying to negotiate with China an elusive agreement on the border, (still elusive 59 years later). In 1960, the Tibetans in Lhasa were made to adopt the Chinese dress, "the close collar coat and trousers, while the traditional Baku is reforms were being ushered on grounds that they are more economical on clothing material."

age of 12 were sent "in large numbers for education and training to China, which is to last for a period between three and five years... these Tibetan children would be systematically indoctrinated."

The border trade, formercarried out by Indian and Nepalese traders, was gradually taken over by the Chinese through restrictive policies and heavy taxation. The Kashmiri Muslims were particularly targetted: "A large number of Kashmiri Muslims have already left Tibet or are on the way out to India," writes Pant but New Delhi remained silent. At the same time, troops kept arriving from China: "About 60 vehicles ply each way daily between Lhasa and the Chinese mainland. There are reports of considerable movement of troops on the new Lhasa-Gyantse road. All these troops appear to be fresh arrivals from the mainland. About 10,000 of them have passed through Gyantse during the course of a few days. It is suspected that this movement is towards Bhutan." Many of the new roads led to Tawang in the North-East Frontier Agency (today Arunachal), says Pant. China was advancing towards hurt the Chinese feelings, India was keeping mum. When today China continues to hurt Indian interests and feelings, should it continue to keep silent? It can only lead to a new disaster.

Diverting attention

Sir — This refers to the editori-"Jackboots vs Ahimsa' (December 17). The Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA) has stirred up a hornet's nest, triggering protests across the country. Instead of dousing the flames and addressing the concerns of the protesters, the Centre has set the deadline for the construction of a sky-high Ram Temple in Ayodhya within the next four months. It's unfortunate that Union Home Minister Amit Shah did not speak a word on the alleged police brutality on students of Jamia Millia Islamia. A comforting statement from him could have assuaged the anger and anxiety among the students.

What is the tearing hurry to build a temple in Ayodhya? At a time when the twin projects of the CAA and National Register of Citizens (NRC) have put lakhs of people in trouble, should India be worrying about finishing the Ram temple hastily? What people want is peace. Dousing the fire will be a tall task for the Government now.

his refers to the editorial, "Jackboots vs Ahimsa" (December 17). It needs to be understood that the Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA), read with the proposed pan-India National Register of Citizens (NRC), is not such an innocuous piece of legislation as is being portrayed by saffron leaders. Caught in an endless struggle to exist, illiterate masses — both the Hindus and Muslims — had never ever imagined a threat to their citizenship in independent India. The CAA can incapacitate and disenfranchise the poor and illiterate Muslim, who has no documents to support his/her birth here. Assurances that no Indian citizen will become Stateless are diabolically dishonest suggestions intended only to mollify. And in the Hindu Rashtra, now being thought about, with the ancient Indo-Aryan India as its blueprint, the "other" and "non-Vedic" people are destined to be outsiders. Naturally, the South Indians, who are deemed or known as the descendants of the pre-Vedic Dravidian civilisation, could well become aliens in their homeland eventually

The mindless assault on the students inside the Jamia Millia Islamia university confirmed the subtext that protests from the student community in such universities should be quelled instantly to prevent the spread of dissent. Prime Minister Narendra Modi's unrefined words, the people "creating violence" could be "identified by their clothes," jelled well with the ideological essence of the CAA. As the Israeli political philosopher, Joseph Raz, said, "It contains norms, the purpose of which is to give binding force within the system to norms which do not belong to it.

The political clout of the accused gave him immunity from being charged for the heinous crime for a long time. Such is the fate and struggle of rape victims. Things have certainly changed after the horrific Nirbhaya gang-rape case in 2012 but there are loopholes in ensuring the registration of such crimes, witness protection and above all, fast-tracking processes and convictions.

Had the Government ensured a healthy debate and accepted the Opposition's suggestion to send the Citizenship Amendment Bill to the Select Committee, the confusion, violence and destruction could have been avoided. It is now up to the Government to ensure peace and dialogue.

Sir — The conviction of former BJP legislator Kuldeep Singh Sengar for the abduction and rape of a minor girl in Unnao took care of national anxieties. a case to trial remains a horrifying ordeal. FIRSTCOLUMN Save the precious sound of nature

We pay for the rising decibels not just with our health but also with the loss of urban wildlife. Sound pollution is preventable

The one thing that strikes people the most when they visit Western nations is the systematic functioning of the civic infrastructure that is clean and not overburdened with a huge population. Another aspect in which these countries score over developing nations is the efficiency, punctuality and superior connectivity of public transit. Besides all these factors, one particular feature that becomes instantly evident on stepping out into public spaces is the relative reduction in ambient noises as compared to any of the Indian metropolises.

This relative calm is even more overwhelming as you proceed towards the city's outskirts. This low level of urban noise is not incidental to these nations; they worked for it and got it through strict regulations and even stricter execution of the same. These efforts are increasingly helping these nations to co-exist in harmony with nature.

Urban tranquillity in the case of India is virtually unheard of and so is noise control. Multiple sources of noise exist in the form of vehicular, commercial and industrial activities, noisy weddings and religious functions — the list is endless. These discordant noises result in a nightmarish situation where neither can one take a deep breath freely thanks to the ambient air pollution in megapolises, nor can one keep the nerves calm amid the cacophony. However, the focus has always been on air pollution because it is visible and, therefore, immediately concerning. But noise pollution is not treated with the same seriousness, even though it is just as harmful as air pollution.

In simple terms, noise or sound pollution is the generation of sound waves that harm humans and animals. If one starts observing how much of unwanted noises one is subjected to in a day, it will be a shocking discovery.

The Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) has specified that noise levels in residential areas cannot be more than 55 decibels during the day and 45 at night. However, these levels are breaching 100 decibels at most locations across Delhi-NCR. These conditions exist not because we have inept laws but because we have a lax implementation regime. Implementation of existent laws has always been the Achilles' heel as we have a great set of rules and regulations but they are mostly circumvented or "managed."

The worst part of noise pollution in India is that it can easily be reined in and controlled, yet, it is allowed to proliferate. Be it loud weddings or religious processions or the carefree usage of diesel generators, there is virtually no control on volumes. This has severe health repercussions in the form of rising cognitive and hearing disabilities, stress and high blood pressure levels besides heart diseases and sleeping disorders. Owing to these conditions, we now have an urban fabric comprising sleepdeprived and unhealthy citizens, who are unable to lead a quality life which happens to be their fundamental right as well.

Besides, due to these loud environs in urban India, nature too, has been slowly withdrawing from our lives. Many bird species, such as the common house sparrow, have already become absent in cities thanks to the worsening air quality and rising decibel levels. Additionally, the exponentially increasing numbers of cell phone towers have made matters worse. The rising radiation levels, which are increasing the disease burden of humans, are exceedingly detrimental for urban wildlife. The fact that compared to a decade ago we don't hear much of either bird calls or squirrels chattering in the trees, is a clear indication of how much the cityscape has changed.

Smart cities that are replete with the latest technology and infrastructure facilities are the dream of every citizen but this cannot come at the cost of the urban flora and fauna. The Indian Government must take a page out of Singapore's urban development plan that is in sync with nature.

Singapore is one of the few city-States that had been able to balance lush green urban spaces full of teeming species of natural life forms with soaring skyscrapers. This model of coexistence can ensure that the very flora and fauna that is conserved and protected will, in turn, negate to some extent the impact of air and noise pollution.

Urban India must also strive to bring down noise pollution actively, re-introduce itself to nature, be one with it and bring back the rhythm of life as it is meant to be.

or long, widespread use of black or unaccounted money in elections has been the fountainhead of corruption. Fighting elections - be it a Member of Parliament (MP) or Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) or any other elected body — costs huge sums which a candidate/political party is unable to garner. Businessmen and industrialists (even other entities engaged in undesirable activities) exploit this vulnerability of candidates and political parties to give contributions, expecting good returns, either by way of favourable policies or support in other forms such as award of contracts and so on. On getting elected, the latter returns the favour. The grant of such benefit results in the generation of more black money which gets funnelled into the system, resulting in a vicious cycle of political funding on an increasing scale and intensification of ing on an increasing scale and intensification of corruption. The subsisting fairly liberal threshold of permitting contribution per person up to ₹20,000 in cash has paved the way for crores to be given to political parties in cash even while keeping the identity of donors anonymous. To rein in use of unaccounted money and bring "transparency" in election funding, in its first term, the Modi Government took two major initiatives. First, based on the recommendation of the Election Commission (EC), it lowered the limit for anonymous cash donations from ₹20,000 to ₹2,000. Second, in the Union Budget for 2017-18, it announced an Electoral Bond Scheme (EBS) as part of the Finance Bill. The scheme was implemented from January 2, 2018. Both the initiatives have come under strident criticism. In particular, critics have targetted the EBS saying, "this has legitimised the role of black cash in elections and kept the identity of donors anonymous, even as an overwhelming share of this money has gone to the rul-wheming share of this money has gone to the ruling party (BJP) at the Centre."

The issue was raised in the ongoing Winter Session of the Parliament even as the Supreme Court (SC) has posted a writ petition challenging the constitutional validity of the scheme for hear ing in Language 2000. Moreoverhile countries of the ing in January 2020. Meanwhile, scrutiny of the initiatives is in order. The first measure won't make any dent. If, both the giver and receiver are determined to engage in exchange of cash, they will do so even with a lower threshold. To escape being seen as a violator, all that the receiver needs to do is to show in records 10 times more entries than receives ₹1 crore from a single donor, will show it as receipt from 5,000, donors, each giving ₹2,000 instead of the earlier 500 entries of ₹20,000 each.

That apart, given the circulation of currency on a mammoth scale (in the aftermath of demonetisation, though bulk of it was sucked out of the system, it is now back with vengeance) and absence of any credible mechanism to check its movement, even if the Government were to completely bar contributions in cash and insist that every single rupee has to be paid by cheque or electronic mode, even then, it won't be possible to make any dent on use of cash. Coming to the EBS, the bond is a bearer instrument like a Promissory Note that is payable to the bearer on demand and is interestfree. The bond can be purchased by any citizen — authorised banks, currently only the SBI. accounts of receipts and expenditure and submit them to the EC. The sale of the first batch of electoral bonds took place in March 2018. For six months during 2018, SBI sold bonds worth ₹1,056 crore. During January-March, 2019, the value of bonds sold increased to ₹1,716 crore. The charge against the scheme is three-fold. First, it legitimises the use of black cash. Second, it lacks transparency and keeps the identity of the donor anonymous. Third, an overwhelming share of such contribution is cornered by the ruling party. The first charge is untenable. This is because a person or an entity keen to buy bonds can pay for it only by cheque or electronic transfer, implying that the amount used for the purpose has an address. It is visible to the authorities who can ask, if need be, further questions on its source and ascertain whether tax has been paid on it. When the donation is made from a known source of income through banking channels and the money is fully accounted for and legitimate, the question of legitimising it (allegedly through EBS) does not arise. The second charge, too, is without any valid basis. The authorised bank from where the donor purchased the bonds has all the particulars viz. citizenship, KYC of the latter. Though the information is not in the public domain, this can always be accessed, if need be, by authorised agencies viz. Income Tax Department, Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), Enforcement Directorate (ED) and so on, in criminal cases under directions of the court. Notwithstanding the above, the allegaraised by Urjit Patel, then Governor, Reserve Bank of India (RBI) vide his correspondence with the then Finance Minister, Arun Jaitley (September 14, 2017) wherein he had insisted on issuing bonds in "Demat" form only and the RBI to be the only issuing authority whereas, the Ministry wanted these to be in physical form and issued by the SBI

The RBI also wanted a unique identifier and an additional security featurebased ID to be incorporated in the bond. Patel's proposal could be a shade better as issuing a bond in Demat form ensures that the information on the buyer/donor is indestructible, unlike a physical document which can be destroyed. Besides, making RBI the issuing authority would ensure that the Government of the day would not enjoy the sole discretion regarding the use of the information something which is possible under the present arrangement of the SBI (wholly owned by GOI) being the issuing author-

However, just because a better option was on the table, it can't be inferred that the dispensation put in place in any way compromises on the fundamental requirement of knowing the identity of the donor. The only safeguard is that this is not disclosed to the public, on which even the RBI did not disagree. In any case, the information can always be accessed under directions of the court. As regards the third charge, this is inconsequential as to whom a particular entity wants to donate and how much is entirely its prerogative.

Merely because one party gets a lion's for lambasting the scheme. There is thus no valid reason to doubt the credibility of EBS. It helps in increasing the role of 'legitimate" sources in funding elections even as authorities know who such

However, the real hard nut to crack donation in cash which can't be reined in by a simple act of reduction in threshold or even making it zero. It could be cracked only when people themselves minimise use of cash in their day-to-day activities. For now, that appears to be a pipe dream.

Animals are born free, let them live free

Elephants have a high emotional quotient and a very specific, inherent sense of self. They are highly complex social and sentient beings and their experience of captivity is no less than a loss of free will, autonomy and freedom comparable to humans to begin an arduous journey of over 2 000 km. over 2,000 km from Assam to Gujarat. Separated from their families, confined in cages and loaded on trucks, they will be bumped and jolted for days until they reach their destination at the Lord Jagannath Temple in Ahmedabad.

Earlier this year, the Guwahati High Court, based on the heatwave conditions in north-west India, had mercifully put this journey on hold. The temperature may have changed but the basic trauma of what these young elephants will be put through has not — and the bleak prospects of the life for which they are destined.

This is illustrated by another elephant, very far apart in age and location. Padmanabhan is one of the venerated temple elephants of the famed Guruvayoor Devaswom, part of a large anakotta of over 50 captive elephants in the temple compound. At the age of 80, Padmanabhan has spent an entire human lifetime in captivity. As per the recommended Kerala Captive Elephant Management Rules, temple elephants should be retired at 65 years of age. Padmanabhan is 15 years above this age limit but with the onset of the winter Pooram season, in breach of every Government and forest department guideline, he was allegedly paraded on December 8 and 9 through the crowds and chaos of the Ekadasi rituals.

All animals are sentient beings with real feelings and emotions. Opposed to popular belief, it can be stated with conviction that just because animals cannot express their pain as well as human beings can, that does not in any way entail that they cannot feel pain. For example, their sense of smell and their heightened hearing is so strong that the same noise that may not bother the average human being will bellow and echo in their ears with a greater impact.

Elephants are advanced cognitive species that communicate in the wild through songs, by thumping on the ground, by leaving and tracing smells across kilometres things that we humans cannot even Elephants also have a very high emotional quotient, a deeply sensitive understanding of things and a very specific, inherent sense of self. They are highly complex social and sentient beings, and their experience of captivity is no less than a loss of free will, autonomy and freedom comparable to humans. And like humans, they need the support of families.

Elephant herds are well-defined social structures whose interactions impact the growth and well-being of each elephant, just as living in a family shapes human lives. Captivity in any form is a denial of living free, in the wild, in a herd core and essential elements of being an elephant.

Once devoid of a sense of self, any creature would find themselves lost and rootless and turn into mere "living things" and not "living beings." We recognise that elephants have a traditional religious significance in India and that the wealthy devotees who "gift" them to environment. temples like Guruvayoor might feel they are acting in a benevolent way, especially compared to the even greater cruelties that elephants are subjected to in circuses or tourist locations or used for begging on the hot, dusty streets of Indian cities. Yet even if we assume for the sake of argument that temple elephants are comparatively well-kept" we have to ask how wellbeing can truly flow from denying elephants the natural, communitydriven lives they were born to live free in the wild? "Transfer of young elephants from their homeland to an alien location is always a bad idea," says Suparna Ganguly of Bengaluru-based animal rights organisation Compassion Unlimited Plus Action (CUPA).

Years of working on issues of captive elephants have convinced her that elephants cannot be looked upon as toys to be played with by brokers and end-users under the garb of commerce, livelihood and culture. Ganguly also points to the particular harm caused by removing elephants from the habitats that have wider significance for Indian traditions that revere nature and

"Without elephants — forests, rivers and wilderness spaces will gradually disappear to mankind's destruction. To enslave such animals in intensive confinement for man's petty uses is cruel and illogical." India has the highest number of Asian elephants and the secondhighest captive elephants at 2,650 (approximately) after Myanmar. Despite a clear national policy against further captivity of wild elephants and numerous regulations to protect them from cruelty, young wild calves continue to come under captivity and private ownership.

Assam is known to be a hotbed for the illegal capture and taming of wild elephants especially when they are calves. There are numerous illegalities reported on how elephants from Assam are "given" to other States for short periods, never to return. Most captive elephants found across Indian temples or private possession trace a single ownership certificate to Assam, but somehow their possession is always in the hands of someone else in another State.

MN Jayachandran of the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) states emphatically that, "There is no such thing such as ownership of an elephant now. The elephants that are 'owned' are only illegally transferred. In its 2015 court order, the Supreme Court of India clearly states that the transfer of private ownership of elephants is illegal." Moreover, the certificate of ownership must be renewed every five years.

"In Kerala, not a single certificate has been renewed," says Jayachandran. "Hence any elephant that is being privately held captive here is illegal and undocumented. In spite of a statement given by the forest department stating that the elephants shall not be transferred to another custodian, they are being transferred," he says.

Under the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972 the forest departments are custodians of all thing wild. No private individual or body can own a wild animal — but somehow we tolerate an exception for elephants to be owned while also treating them as a national heritage and worshipping them as quasi-gods. The four baby elephants that are about to start their journey to Gujarat are hence also on a path which goes against their natural interests, which is morally dubious and which may be inviting illegality, if not just this case, but the general way in which the idea of "private" ownership is being perpetuated.

It goes against the core belief of FIAPO (Federation of Indian Animal Protection Organisations) that animals have an inherent intrinsic value and deserve to be treated with dignity.

FIAPO is committed to a change in people's perception of animals from commodity to sentient beings who are subjects of equal rights. Thereby, FIAPO strongly affirms that all animals must be entitled to a range of legal and constitutional rights, namely bodily integrity, autonomy, liberty and dignity. These core rights will pro-hibit ownership of animals as things, prevent their commercial exploitation, torture, cruel and degrading treatment and ensure their right to physical and mental well-being. At the very least, these

Indian pharma sector expected to grow at 10-12 pc during FY19-22: lcra

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Ratings agency Icra on Wednesday said the Indian pharmaceutical industry is expected to grow around 10-12 per cent between FY2019 and FY2022 while maintaining a stable outlook on the sector.

Icra cited abating head winds from pricing pressure in the US (which is the largest regulated market), stable growth for the Indian market driven by increasing healthcare spending and better accessibility as likely key growth drivers for the Indian pharma companies, coupled with comfortable balance sheet structure.

ICRA CITED ABATING HEADWINDS FROM PRICING PRESSURE IN THE US

It, however, said increased cost related to regulatory compliances, especially for the US market, price controls across markets and mandatory genericisation for Indian market remained key risks.

"The domestic pharmaceutical industry has gained adequate scale and generic drug development capabilities over a decade of growth which will keep them in good stead to capture bigger opportunities, especially in the specialty/niche segments in the regulated market," Icra said in a statement.

The FY2019-2022 com pound annual growth rate (CAGR) is expected to be around 10-12 per cent for domestic pharmaceutical com-

Voting at GST Council to decide on tax on lottery

AGST Council - the highest decision making body of the new indirect tax regime - on Wednesday witnessed firstever voting on the issue of levying tax on lotteries as states expressed divergent opinions.

Decisions in the previous 37 meetings of the GST Council, headed by Union Finance Minister and comstates and UTs, had been taken unanimously. These included fixing of tax rates on dozens of goods and services but never had voting done to decide on However, when the issue of levy of GST on lottery came up at the 38th meeting of the Council, consensus eluded, sources said. This led to a vote being taken to decide on the issue by a majority.

Sources said a uniform rate of 28 per cent GST rate will now be applicable on lotteries from March 1.

Currently, dual GST rates are imposed on lotteries.

As many as 21 states voted in favour of 28 per cent GST rates as opposed to 7 against it,

The lottery industry has Tn an unprecedented move, been pressing for a uniform GST rate of 12 per cent and removal of tax on the prize money, saying the existing dual rate is hampering the growth of the business. Currently, a GST of 12 per

GST Council had earlier constituted an eight-member group of ministers under the chairmanship of Maharashtra Finance Minister Sudhir Mungantiwar. The Council in its July Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, All India Federation of Lottery Trade & Allied Industries suggested that the GST Council could consider imposing GST on lotteries after abating the prize money component of the lottery ticket since the said amount never forms part of the income in the lottery trade.

Fiat Chrysler, Peugeot sign deal for merger

AP ■ MILAN

Takeover) norms.

The boards of Fiat Chrysler Automobiles and PSA Peugeot on Wednesday signed a binding merger deal creating the world's fourth-largest auto company with the scale to confront the challenges of stricter emissions regulations and the transition to new driving technologies.

The companies said in a joint statement that the new group will be led by PSA's cost-cutting CEO Carlo Tavares, with Fiat Chrysler's chairman John Elkann as chairman of the merged company. Fiat Chrysler CEO Mike announced in what capacity.

No name for the new company has been decided, executives said in a conference call, but both Tavares and Manley insisted that it was not a "touchy subject".

The deal, which was unveiled in October, was announced as a 50-50 merger, but PSA has one extra seat at the board and Tavares at the helm, giving the French carmaker the upper hand in daily management.

The executives said they expect the deal to take 12-15 months to close. It will give birth to a group with revenues of nearly 170 billion euros and producing 8.7 million cars a year — just behind Toyota, Volkswagen and the RenaultNissan alliance.

The merger is expected to create 3.7 billion euros in annual savings, which will be invested in "the new era of sustainable mobility" and to meet strict new emissions regulations, particularly in Europe.

"The merged entity will maneuver with speed and efficiency in an automotive industry undergoing rapid and fundamental changes," the carmakers said in the joint statement. New technologies includes electrified engines, autonomous driving and connectivity, part of what Tavares described as "the transition to tainable mobility". No plants will be closed under the deal, the companies said. Savings will be achieved by sharing investments in vehicle platforms, engines and new technology, while leveraging scale on purchasing. But the executives also said there would be cuts. Decisions on where those will come will be made after the deal closes. There is room for sharing

(a) significant amount of existing platforms and avoiding excess investments for the future," Tavares said.

Both the Peugeot and Fiat brands are strong on small-car technology, with significant overlap in Europe. Manley said that the convergence of platforms would be "an early target" that will likely take two years to achieve. The company will be legally based in the Netherlands, and traded in Paris, Milan and New York. The executives played down the significance of the new entity's name and headquarters location, but both are symbolic choices that go a long way to signalling who is in the driver's seat, where engineering and management brains will be based, and the relative importance of each entity in the new company.

The French and Italian will be on the look-out for the responses, given the national significance of the auto industries to both economies.

The French government helped bail out PSA Peugeot in 2014 and owns 12 per cent stake in the French company through the state investment bank. While the merger of Fiat and Chrysler has been a success, with the Italian-American automaker thriving on the strength of the US market and the executive prowess of longtime CEO Sergio Marchionne, the history of car mergers is littered with failed tie-ups.

Most famous among those is the Daimler-Chrysler merger, which foundered on cultural differences between the Manley said the new name

German and US entities.

'is an exercise we're embarking on now. We have two very historied companies coming together...I don't think it will be a touchy subject, just an interesting process".

The new company will start with a strong base in Europe, where PSA is the second-largest carmaker, and while Fiat makes most of its profits in North America and has a strong presence in Latin America. It will be looking to strengthen its position in China, where both PSA and FCA lag.

"That is part of the oppornot happy with our performance there. We think we should be doing better in China." Tavares said the deal has the support of its Chinese partner and investor Dongfeng, which "understood what needed to be done".

As part of the deal, Dongfeng's stake in the new company will be diluted from 6.2 per cent to 4.5 per cent, through the sale of 30.7 million shares.

FCA will pay its shareholders a 5.5 billion-euro (USD 6.1 billion) premium, raising questions about whether the new company will be saddled with too much debt. Analysts estimate that Peugeot is paying a hefty 32 per cent premium to take control of Fiat Chrysler.

Report: Average wealth expectancy of affluent Indians is just ₹3.6 cr

New Delhi: The average wealth expectancy of those in India with enough disposable income to save and invest is just Rs 3.6 crore and this would give them Rs 93,000 per month to live during retirement, a report said on Wednesday.

The report used a proprietary economic model that considered other macroeconomic factors such as GDP growth and interest rates to calculate how much the wealth creators are set to be worth at the age of 60. This wealth expectancy figure is then used to calculate how much individuals can live off each month throughout their retirement.

According to Standard Chartered's new Wealth Expectancy Report 2019, the average wealth expectancy with enough disposable income to save and invest is Rs 3.6 crore, or Rs 1.3 crore for the emerging affluent, Rs 2.6 crore for the affluent and Rs 6.9 crore for high-net-worth individuals (HNWIs).

On an average, this would give the affluent class Rs 93,000 to live on per month during retirement, which is less than both their current income and wealth aspirations.

"If they were to spend at the average monthly rate to which they aspire, their wealth expectancy would last the emerging affluent 6 years of retirement, and the affluent 9 years, while HNWIs would be able to fund 5 years," it added.

The report further noted that already, almost one-third (32 per cent) are on track to achieving more than half of their wealth goal at age 60. For the 68 per cent that are further away, it is still possible to narrow the gap with welldefined goals and a considered wealth management approach.

"For those who want to avoid disappointment with their wealth in retirement, the time to take action is now," said Nakul Jain, MD, Head, Priority, Deposits and Branch Banking, Standard Chartered Bank.PTI

m ndia's}$ sugar production stood at 4.58 million tonne till December 15 of the ongoing marketing year, down 35 per cent from the year-ago period, owing to sharp fall in output in Maharashtra and Karnataka, industry body ISMA said on Wednesday. Sugar marketing year runs from October to September. Mills had manufactured 7.05 million tonne of sugar in the same period of the 2018-19 marketing year.

According to the Indian Sugar Mills Association (ISMA), 406 sugar mills were crushing sugarcane as on December 15, as against 473 mills on the year-ago same day. Mills in Uttar Pradesh, the country's largest sugar producing state, have manufactured 2.12 million tonne of the sweetener till December 15, up from 1.89 million tonne in the year-ago period. The UP mills had begun crushing operations a week earlier in the current season.

However, there has been a sharp fall in production in Maharashtra, the country's second largest sugar producer. Mills were able to manufacture 7,66,000 tonne as against 2.9 million tonnes in the same period a year ago, ISMA said. Similarly in Karnataka, the third largest sugar producing state, the production declined to 1.06 million tonne till December 15 of this year from 1.39 million tonne in the same period a year ago. "The production in Maharashtra and Karnataka is lower than last vear due to the fact that mills in these states started late by one month and one week, respectively," ISMA said in a statement. Apart from this, sugar recovery so far is reported to be lower as compared to last year, mainly because mills are crushing damaged sugarcane due to floods, along with the fresh cane as also other climatic factors, it added.

Sugar output reached 1,52,000 tonne in Gujarat, 1,35,000 tonne in Bihar, 75,000 tonne in Punjab, 73,000 tonne in Tamil Nadu, 65,000 tonne in Haryana, 35,000 tonne in Madhya Pradesh and 30,000 tonne in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana combined, in the said period. ISMA, which represents private millers, has pegged total sugar output to decline 21.5 per cent to 26 million tonne in the 2019-20 marketing year.

On ethanol supply to oil marketing companies (OMCs), the industry body said sugar mills and standalone distilleries have offered to supply 163 crore litres of ethanol in the year starting December 2019. Of the total ethanol, 10.38 crore litres will be made from sugarcane juice, 62.58 crore litres from 'B' heavy molasses, 86.39 crore litres from 'C' heavy molasses and 3.78 crore litres from damaged foodgrains, it said. The supply of 73 crore litres of ethanol from sugarcane juice and 'B' heavy molasses is almost double than what was supplied in 2018-19 and, therefore, the diversion of sugar into ethanol this season is higher, it added. ISMA also said another tender is expected shortly from OMCs, against which more quantities of ethanol including ethanol made from 'B' heavy molasses and sugarcane juice, is expected to be offered for 2019-20.

Markets maintain record run; Tata stocks tumble post NCLAT order

PTI MUMBAI

Equity benchmarks closed at record highs for the second straight on Wednesday, propelled by gains in index heavyweights HDFC Bank, RIL and ITC amid supporting global cues. After rallying to its record intra-day peak of 41,614.77, the 30-share BSE Sensex settled 206.40 points, or 0.50 per cent, up at its all-time closing high of 41,558.57. Similarly, the broader NSE Nifty advanced 56.65 points, or 0.47 per cent, to its record closing high of 12,221.65. M&M was the top gainer in the Sensex pack, surging 3.37 per cent, followed by Sun Pharma 2.53 per cent, Asian Paints 1.88 per cent, ITC 1.70 per cent, HDFC Bank 1.58 per cent and HCL Tech 1.46 per cent.

On the other hand, Tata Motors was the biggest loser, dropping 3.05 per cent after the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (ŃCLAT) on Wednesday ordered restoration of Cyrus Mistry as the Executive Chairman of Tata Sons. The NCLAT also held appointment of N Chandrasekaran as Executive Chairman illegal. Other Tata group stocks including Tata Power, Tata Chemicals and Tata Global Beverages too shed up to 4.14 per cent. HUL, SBI and Yes Bank fell 1.79 per cent each. NTPC, PowerGrid and Bajaj Finance also ended in the red. "Market hit record highs on expectations of measures from the Centre to support ongoing economic weakness. Metals & IT stocks traded higher on hopes that easing trade tensions could ensure global growth and increase the order intakes.

"With the Budget around the corner, the government is planning to steer the ship by bringing measures to boost consumption. Investors are keenly watching the on-going GST Council meet, a rate hike is looking unlikely due to a surge in inflation while the focus will be more on revenue realisation," said Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services.

BSE metal, healthcare, realty, energy, auto and IT indices rose up to 0.84 per cent. On the other hand, BSE utilities, power and telecom indices slipped up to 0.84 per cent. Broader BSE midcap and smallcap indices under-performed the benchmarks, shedding up to 0.19 per cent. Besides stock-specific action, sustained foreign fund inflows boosted market mood here, traders said.

New Delhi (PTI): Italian auto major Piaggio on Wednesday made its foray into the electric vehicle segment in India with the launch of a three-wheeler model in the country. The electric three-wheeler, Ape E-City, is priced at Rs 1.97 lakh (exshowroom Delhi) and comes with a swappable lithium-ion battery. The company has tied up with Chetan Maini-led Sun Mobility for battery and charging infrastructure. The company has developed both swappable and fixed battery technology solutions to serve various needs of customers, he added. "We plan to introduce a three-wheeler with fixed battery as well in the second quarter of the next year. There would also be electric versions in passenger and goods carriage space," Graffi said. The company will launch the Ape E-City in Chandigarh, Mohali and Gurugram in the first phase in partnership with Sun Mobility. The partners plan to have 50 quick charging stations spread across 10 cities by March next year.

Pharma sector expected to grow at 10-12 pc during FY19-22: Icra

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

 $R^{ ext{atings agency Icra on}}_{ ext{Wednesday said the Indian}}$ pharmaceutical industry is expected to grow around 10-12 per cent between FY2019 and FY2022 while maintaining a stable outlook on the sector.

Icra cited abating headwinds from pricing pressure in the US (which is the largest regulated market), stable growth for the Indian market driven by increasing healthcare spending and better accessibility as likely key growth drivers for the Indian pharma companies, coupled with comfortable balance sheet structure.

It, however, said increased cost related to regulatory compliances, especially for the US market, price controls across markets and mandatory genericisation for Indian market remained key risks.

"The domestic pharmaceutical industry has gained adequate scale and generic drug development capabilities over a decade of growth which will keep them in good stead to capture bigger opportunities, especially in the specialty/niche segments in the regulated market," Icra said in a statement. The FY2019-2022 compound annual growth rate (CAGR) is expected to be around 10-12 per cent for domestic pharmaceutical companies, it added. Icra said growth from the US picked up in FY2019 to 12.1 per cent after seeing a decline of 13.1 per cent in FY2018. "The growth was supported by higher market share for Indian players as several generic MNC players optimised product portfolios along with new product launches," it added. The pricing pressure led by consolidation of supply chain in the US market and faster abbreviated new drug application approvals is abating and is expected to remain in mid-single digit in FY2020 compared to low teens in FY2018. Icra, however, warned that while the US growth is expected to remain at high single digit to low double digit, it will face headwinds given the relatively moderate proportion of large size drugs going off patent, generic adoption reaching saturation levels in the US market and increased regulatory scrutiny as reflected in increased issuance of warning letters/import alerts. It further said productivity of research and development expenditure, operational risk related to increased level of due diligence by regulatory agencies

US House of Representatives meet to impeach Trump

PTI WASHINGTON

Donald Trump, set to become the third US President to be impeached, has attacked House Speaker Nancy Pelosi and accused the Democrats of an "unprecedented and unconstitutional" abuse of power as he described himself as a victim of an "illegal, partisan attempted coup."

Lawmakers opened debate on Wednesday and were poised to approve two impeachment charges against Trump, the Republican president later in the day, according to US media outlets. Ahead of a lengthy debate in the House and the vote on the articles of impeachment against the 45th US president, Trump wrote to Pelosi that the Democrats would regret their efforts when voters cast ballots next year.

After hours of acrimonious debate, the House Judiciary Committee approved two charges against Trump last week. The first is abuse of power. It accuses Trump of trying to pressure Ukraine to smear Joe Biden, his likely Democratic political rival in the 2020 General Elections. The second charge is obstructing Congress.

impeachment investigation. Trump, 73, is scheduled to face a trial in the Senate next month, but the lower chamber is controlled by the Republicans. Thus, Trump is sure that the Democrats will not have the support from two-thirds of senators to vote that he should be removed from office.

In a series of tweets on Wednesday, Trump said, "They just wanted to get at the President. They had no intention of having a proper investigation. They couldn't find any crimes so they did a vague abuse of power and abuse of Congress, which every administration from the beginning has done." He also asserted that he did nothing wrong and the radical left wanted to impeach him. He said, "This should never happen to another President again. Say a prayer!" "My hope is that impeachment will never become this trivial again," he added. Earlier on Tuesday, Trump in a scathing six-page letter to Speaker Pelosi sought to halt impeachment proceedings against him. 'This impeachment repre-

"You have cheapened the importance of the very ugly word, impeachment," said Trump, who is the third American president to be impeached. "By proceeding with your invalid impeachment, you are violating your oaths of office, you are breaking your allegiance to the Constitution and you are declaring an open war on American democracy," he said.

Trump said he had been deprived of basic constitutional due process from the beginning of this "impeachment scam" right up until the present. "I have been denied the most fundamental rights afforded by the constitution, including the right to present evidence..." Trump said Pelosi and her people on committees have long said impeachment must be bipartisan but it is not.

"You said it was very divisive - it certainly is, even far more than you ever thought possible and it will only get worse," he said. "This is nothing more than an illegal, partisan attempted coup that will, based on recent sentiment, badly fail at the voting booth. You are not just after me, as president, you are after the entire Republican Party," he said.

"But because of this colossal injustice, our party is more united than it has ever been before. History will judge you harshly as you proceed with this impeachment charade,"

Trump warned. Responding to Trump's letter, Pelosi said she had been working and only saw the "essence" of the president's letter. "It's really sick," she said.

Trump, in his letter attacked the 79-year-old top Democrat, saying, "You apparently have so little respect for the American people that you expect them to believe that you are approaching this impeachment somberly, reservedly, and reluctantly," he said.

Trump said since the moment he won the elections, the Democrat Party has been possessed by "impeachment fever". "There is no reticence. This is not a somber affair. You are making a mockery of impeachment and you are scarcely concealing your hatred of me, of the Republican Party and tens of millions of patriotic Americans," he said.

said. "I have no doubt the American people will hold you and the Democrats fully responsible in the upcoming 2020 elections. They will not soon forgive your perversion of justice and abuse of power," he said. "It is time for you and the highly partisan Democrats in the Congress to immediately cease this impeachment fantasy and get back to work for the American people," he said. While I have no expectation that you will do so, I write this letter to you for the purpose of history and to put my thoughts on a permanent and indelible record," Trump said. Two US Presidents have been impeached — Andrew Johnson in 1868 and Bill Clinton in 1998 — but in both cases the Senate did not vote to oust them from office.

CAN REDUCE DIABETES

London: In a good news for coffee lovers, researchers have found that coffee can help reduce the risk of developing type 2 diabetes —but only filtered coffee, rather than boiled coffee. The study, published in the Journal of Internal Medicine, shows that the choice of preparation method influences the health effects of coffee. The findings from Chalmers University of Technology and Umea University in Sweden, offer new insight into this connection, using a novel method to help differentiate between the effects of filtered coffee and boiled coffee. AT 41°C, OZ RECORDS HOTTEST DAY IN 6 YRS

Comedy is serious business: Kriti

Actor KRITI SANON says doing comedy is not a laughing matter but a serious business.

Kriti has featured in comedies such as Bareilly Ki Barfi, Arjun Patiala and the recent Diwali release, Housefull 4. "Comedy is, indeed, serious business but thanks to the amazing mentors I found in Akshay Kumar, Riteish Deshmukh and Bobby Deol. They made it seamless for me to pull off certain scenes. People can now enjoy the film on the streaming platform and hopefully it'll add a bit to their holiday cheer," Kriti said.

'Ranbaaz Phirse is inspired by people who weren't likely to become criminals but the system made them criminals. It is about a topper, a gold medalist. He cleared the UPSC exam and he could have joined the force as an IPS (Indian Police Service) officer. He wanted to do something for the country. Our story is about what happens and how, when such a man becomes a criminal.'

Actor AYUSHMANN KHURRANA is on a career high and so his brother

Aparshakti. While Ayushmann has become immensely popular and has also won a National Award thanks to his starring roles, RJ-turned-actor Aparshakti has carved a niche with his effortless comic timing in character roles in films such as Dangal, Stree and Lukka Chuppi.

Ayushmann, who has been enjoying a lot of the limelight as a leading man lately, feels his younger brother deserves to be a lead actor.

ost people insist that their pets are like their children or even buddies. So how often do you take your pet out for amusement and dedicate a day only to them? Pet Fed allows you to give your best bud the per-fect day out which is filled with fun, games and activities ranging from fashion shows, security dog acrobatics and temptation alley to curated arenas like offleash play area, cat zone, alongside music, food and pet care stalls.

The fest was started in 2014 and is

The fest was started in 2014 and is now in its sixth edition. Akshay Gupta, founder of Pet Fed, shares that in India, there is an event of every kind of human interest be it comics, arts, fashion, music or food. These mean that we have a common platform where we can meet likeminded people and have fun. But despite the fact that there are legions of animal lovers, there was nothing for them or their pets. That is what set him thinking and from it emerged this idea. The festival is not just a social gathering but also a source of infotainment which offers a flurry of activities and competitions for pets and their parents.

By its very name, the fest is dedicated to the ones at home which means that we are neglecting the stray animals. Akshay clarifies that the organisers are doing a lot of things for stray animals as well. For example, they have about nine or 10 NGOs who get free space to put up a stall at the festival. They run their adoption camps, where people can adopt the stray dogs and cats. They also run camps to create awareness about being more humane towards animals. "Plus, if you come to the event with an adopted indie breed or you have rescued a particular animal, your entry is free. When adopting a pet, one takes him for vaccinations. The veterinary doctor always mentions the name of the breed on the card along with details of whether it was rescued or adopted. So we ask people to send us that screenshot and give them entry on that basis," says he.

Akshay shares that they always try to work with all the reputated NGOs in the city like Friendicos and People for Animals. And if some smaller NGO wants to take part, they have to go through a rigorous process of background checks to know the years of experience in the industry and that their paperwork is complete. It is only after all this has been verified that stalls are allotted to them. "We also have Federation of Indian Animals Protection Organisation (FIAPO) on board. It's India's most comprehensive NGO network of animal rights, workers, activists, supporters, advocates, campaigners for the rights of animals in the country," says he.

Akshay feels that people usually think dogs are nothing more than furry creatures to play with but at the Pet Fed they wanted to demonstrate that they are beyond that. So, for the very first time, the fest has collaborated with Delhi Police Crime Branch for a 30-minute demonstration about the manner in which the dogs should perform in a situation of unrest. There will be 12 serving dogs and 20 police officers.

He says, "People complain that we are neglecting the cats and that the fest is centred around dogs only. This time we have partnered with the world's largest body for cats — World Cat Federation. We have got on board international cats behaviouralist from Russia and Italy. They'll be conducting a full cat show, where these professionals will be conducting workshops, seminars and they'll be judging the cats on the basis of their breed and upbringing so that people can understand these feline creatures better. This will be done in a 10,000 sq feet cat proof area, where 200 of them would participate."

Apart from dogs and cats, people do get rabbits, hamsters and guinea pigs to the festival. That's always a fun sight, shares the founder. "These creatures like to be in confined spaces. They are not very interactive in themselves so we don't have any activities for them. They just like human companionship and like being in their own space. Forcing them to do any activity would be cruel to them. They can go for basic things like, grooming and health care check ups. We have an ambulance, too, on standby in case any emergency comes up," says he.

One of the precautions, Akshay says they keep in mind, which visitors also find very cool, is that, "Every pet has to go through a small behavior check. There are professionals who check the temperament of the pet. For instance, if the dog is very aggressive, a red flag with a cool quote will be given. So that the rest of people can know that this pet is a little aggressive, 'I should be cautious while going near him.' If it's a friendly pet, write going near nim. If it's a friendly pet, we give a green tag. And if it's a moderate pet, they get a yellow one. It's like a traffic signal. Red-Yellow-Green. So if you see red, you stop, if you see green you can go. Even if somebody wants to adopt a pet, people know this beforehand that this pet friendly or not." pet friendly or not."

But going beyond the festival, there is always the question about the fetish behind buying accessories for pets. So what are the current trends in the same? Akshay tells us about bag packs with airholes and glass covering the top which are not just trendy but have utility as well. "You can keep your cat and small animals in your bagpacks because they like to be in confined spaces. That's a pleasant environment for them. They can see through the glass and you can carry them wherever you go," says he and adds, "A lot of fashion elements come in - jackets, collars, pants for the dogs. A lot of jewel studded collars are in trend right now. People are indulging in Swarovski collars because they are fancy and give you a feel that you have bought something special for your dog."

It is time that you took your best bud on a date.

(The pet festival is on December 28 and 29 at NSIC Ground, Okhla.)

AJAY DEVGN, KAJOL and SAIF ALI KHAN's latest outing Tanhaji turns yet another page of history. By TEAM VIVA

Indian cinema certainly knows how to teleport one back in time. How else can you explain the unending list of period dramas being made in Bollywood? Films, it seems, have become a primary source for people to know about certain chapters of history that were not included in textbooks.

Actor and producer Ajay Devgn, whose Tanhaji: The Unsung Warrior is the next one in queue, said, "I think it is good if they get to know more about history through cinema. The young generation knows the subject only partially and mostly about the events which took place overseas. They know what the Britishers or Americans did but people are forgetting our history. We have had such great warriors, so why shouldn't we tell people about them? I think they can become an inspiration for the audience if their stories are told vividly." The actor added that, as actors, educating masses wasn't really their job but most of them really appreciate if there is something that is worth telling and "would definitely love to do."

His wife, actor and co-producer Kajol explained, "We make films so that we can tell the audience something unexpected and surprise them. We want to bring you something which you have never heard before or seen. And at the end of the day, we only want to entertain the public. We want you to love it, to laugh at it, to cry with it and that's ultimately why we make Ajay completes his 100th film with Tanhaji. He said, "When we started shooting the film, I didn't even realise that it was my 100th. Om (director) told me this during the shoot. But that's a different thing altogether because it doesn't matter whether it's your 99th or 100th film. At the end of the day, your work matters the most and it shouldn't be your last film. That's what should keep you going."

Talking about what was his approach while preparing for the role of Maratha warrior Tanhaji, he said, "History is never complete or told properly. So while making a film you have to imagine certain things. When you portray the character of such a strong historical figure, you have to try your best to justify it because you are in a way recreating an image of the hero in front of the people who haven't known him at all. And that's what I have tried to do as well - show him in the best and the most honest way possible."

Actor Saif Ali Khan, who will be seen playing the antagonist and a negative character in the film, talked about his preparation. He said, "I didn't actually have too much of a preparation but we just spent a lot of time on set and in costume. It was very clear in Om and Ajay's head about how they wanted the antagonist to be and they explained it to me. That's all. So I give a lot of credit to them."

When asked about working with his wife, Kajol, Ajay replied, "I don't know what the feeling is because it seemed as if we were at home and not on a film set. We behaved in the same manner that we do at home. So, I won't be able to differentiate."

(The film releases on January 10, 2020.)

The list goes on From seed to sip

SHINJI FUKUYO, Chief Blender of Beam Suntory, makes his mark in the Indian whisky segment and combines the finest Scotch malts and American bourbon using Japanese blending craft

The world-renowned blender, Shinji Fukuyo, Chief Blender of Beam Suntory, crafted two variants of Indian whisky — Oaksmith and Oaksmith Gold — using traditional Japanese craftsmanship blended with the finest Scotch malt whiskies and American bourbons to make it unique and authentic as per the Indian taste. The global premium spirits company launched a range of four premium spirits in India, signaling its commitment and strategy to grow in the country with its ambition to reach USD 1 billion in revenue by 2030. In addition, the iconic Japanese whiskies Yamazaki Distiller's Reserve and Hibiki Japanese Harmony along with Roku Japanese Craft gin have also been launched from The House of Suntory portfolio.

The launch event of was graced by Shinji Fukuyo, the creator of the luxury and iconic blends of Hibiki and Yamazaki whiskies and Neeraj Kumar, MD of Beam Suntory India along with George Kumekawa, Representative,

The House of Suntory.
"We are thrilled by the appreciation that Hibiki and Yamazaki have received from consumers worldwide and their popularity among spirits aficionados in India. The growing premiumisation of the Indian market and the appreciation for finely crafted spirits made this the right time to launch these brands, along with Roku gin. Indians today are well-travelled and exposed to global trends, which inspired the creation of Oaksmith for whisky lovers in India," said Neeraj

Talking about Oaksmith and Oaksmith Gold, he said, "The beautiful blend incorporates years of tradition that the Beam Suntory family upholds while showcasing Shinjisan's award-winning blending capabilities making it a whisky that, quite simply, no one else could possibly cre-

tery and global collaboration, combining the best of East and West in a bottle. It's a harmonious blend of matured Scotch malts that adds a strong flavour profile and American bourbon whisky aged for at least four years in American Oak barrels, which lends it an unmatched smoothness. That gives the brand its unique name and also inspires the round bottle labels celebrating its distinctive craftsmanship. Befitting the distinct flavour palate, the six-sided bottle with beveled edges and a tall neck has an ergonomic design that is an ode to the finest Japanese craftsmanship and makes it stand tall in this category.

A relentless quest for perfection and commitment to using only the highest quality ingredients encapsulates Suntory's philosophy to create the finest spirit possible. Shinji Fukuyo, Chief Blender at Suntory, said, "My travels across the world have helped me understand and appreciate sophisticated flavour profiles. Blending spirits is about creating a harmonious flavour by weaving culture and tradition along with one's own form of self-expression. This is an art in itself and I am very grateful that people globally have appreciated the quality and artistry of Hibiki and Yamazaki, and hopefully now Yamazaki, and hopefully now, Oaksmith." He added, "While making this blend, I wanted to ensure that it resonates well with the Indian audience while being truly international in its spirit. I travelled across the country to understand the different food cultures and flavours. Eventually what I saw, heard and tasted, helped me explore a variety of flavour profiles and finalise this harmonious blend which has the best of America, Scotland and Japanese craftsmanship. I am extremely proud as the final product completely reimagines what ne future of Indian whisky can be."

Much like The House of Suntory, Oaksmith blend is made using the finest ingredients and sincerity of process that is a hallmark of Beam Suntory's Japanese heritage. From seed to sip, the whisky is meticulously crafted to achieve a blend like no other resulting in a bold spirit that is rich on the nose yet approachable and well-balanced on one's palate with a bright, smooth and unexpectedly long finish. The unique offering will be available at the price of an Indian whisky and the flavourful palate will be well suited to both beginners and connoisseurs alike.

On the rising popularity of gin in India, George Kumekawa, Representative, The House of Suntory, said, "In recent years, we have noticed a strong trend among Indians to opt for premium and craft gin as their spirit of choice as it has a softer flavour profile which is easier on the throat and refreshing in its appeal — perfect for brunches and refreshment occasions. With the introduction of Roku gin in India, we are looking to further build the market for both gin as well as craft spirits to help enthusiasts discover new tastes and experiences."

one are the days when vacation Imeant staying at luxury hotels, spending tons of money and still coming back disappointed, after having done all that, because you couldn't get the right comfort and peace of mind you had hoped for. The reason for this discomfort is also the fact that untill a few years ago, there weren't too many options available for travellers.

Today, however, things are a lot different. Thanks to digitisation and exposure, which made people familiar with the concept of staying at a hostel as opposed to a hotel. People now look for more than just going to a clichéd place, taking a few pictures, eating some local cuisine and coming back home. They've started looking for wholesome experiences like going to offbeat places, interacting with people they otherwise wouldn't have had they stayed in a hotel. And hostels give youngsters precisely that a perfect balance between privacy and a sense of comfort.

People in a co-living space are complete strangers but stay in harmony with each other, also helping one another in various things. Most travellers are usually of the same agegroup, experience and mindset, which is great, because once they come back from a day full of adventure, they can just kick back and unwind with strangers who quickly become friends. Hostels organise a bunch of fun stuff like game and karaoke nights that help break the ice.

Hostels also serve as a fertile hub for social networking. People meet, share, connect and sometimes, even collaborate. You could say hostel travellers are like social butterflies they fly from one place to the another, collecting experiences and memories, and then fly off to another place to create more. Teams look to plug gaps, players eager to 'cash' in ith the Indian Premier League (IPL) auction all set to take place to describe a look at where the eight franchises stand in terms of their needs and financial position.

CHENNAI SUPER KINGS (CSK) Purse left: ₹14.60 crore

No of open players slot: Five (three domestic, two overseas)

Strength: Heavyweights Chennai Super Kings have more or less a settled squad with a good blend of experienced foreign recruits and Indian players. Those in the mix have been with the MS Dhoni-led franchise for a long time and going by history, this has been the men in yellow's strength.

Weakness: They don't have a big purse to go for many players and if the management feels they need more backups, this could be a road-

Opportunity: CSK have enough in their kitty to rope in one or two big fishes they might be looking for. Going by their squad and historically, the Chennai-based franchise could go for another seasoned campaign-

Threat: CSK veteran Dwayne Bravo is injury-prone and not having a back-up could hurt them if they don't address the issue in the auction. They also need a cover for Lungi Ngidi who has been ruled out of South Africa's Boxing Day Test against England due to hamstring injury and is also prone to picking up

MUMBAI INDIANS

Purse left: ₹13.05 crore No of open players slot: Seven

(five domestic, two overseas) Strength: Like CSK, reigning champions Mumbai Indians have a settled look about their squad and only need back-ups for improving bench strength. Having the same set of players help and that is their biggest Weakness: In the pace department, Mumbai Indians are heavily dependent on Lasith Malinga and Jasprit Bumrah. With Malinga not getting younger, Bumrah is coming back from an injury so they could require a cover and for that, they need to shell out from their purse which Kings XI Punjab, all of whom have a is not that great. This could mean they do not get to shore up other areas if they feel it is needed, especially with the team not having a game-changing spin option.

Opportunity: The team is blessed with a squad that has been playing together for some time and are defending champions. The team released 12 players and now has the chance to bring in new young players to add depth.

Threat: İnjuries. Bumrah and Malinga are match-winners and in the bowling front, injuries to either of them could suddenly give them a depleted look with Trent Boult also injury prone.

DELHI CAPITALS

Purse left: ₹27.85 crore No of open players slot: 11 (six domestic, five overseas)

Strength: Delhi Capitals have more or less a settled look as far as their domestic players are concerned. They have the likes of Rishabh Pant and Shikhar Dhawan for firepower and in new recruit Ajinkya Rahane the solidity needed. They do not have to worry too much on the Indian players' front.

Weakness: Delhi Capitals need foreign recruitments and will have to compete with Kolkata Knight Riders, Royals Challengers Bangalore and bigger purse than them.

Opportunity: The Delhi-based franchise have the chance to lap up some exciting talent from the pool and might look to go for some players who do not have a steep base price but add teeth to their arsenal, like Shimron Hetmyer.

Threat: Teams like KKR, Kings XI and RCB are threats owing to their bigger purse remaining and in bidding wars they can get the better of

KOLKATA KNIGHT RIDERS Purse left: ₹35.65 crore

No of open players slot: 11 (seven domestic, four overseas)

Strength: KKR need reinforcements having released the likes of dashing opener Chris Lynn and veteran Robin Uthappa. They have also let go off seasoned leg-spinner Piyush Chawla and a mini overhaul of the squad could become their strength.

Weakness: KKR haven't bought too smartly in recent times and they need to bring their A game to the table in terms of reinforcements as there will be other teams in the prowl wanting to outwit the men in purple.

Opportunity: This is a chance to overhaul a team which has blown hot and cold for a few seasons. They have been consistent but have not realised their potential owing to not striking the right balance in the playing XI.

West Indies' Shimron Hetmyer prepares to bat during team's they have to spend. They can

Threat: KKR will face competition from teams like Delhi Capitals, Royals Challengers Bangalore and Kings XI Punjab and have to be on their toes and sure about what they

KINGS XI PUNJAB

Purse left: ₹42.70 crore No of open players slot: Nine (five domestic, four overseas)

Strength: Anil Kumble is a shrewd cricketing brain and the former India captain, who is their new head coach, has the biggest purse among other teams to play with as KXIP look for a skipper and other foreign_players.

Weakness: Besides maybe a Mohammed Shami, KL Rahul and Mayank Agarwal, KXIP don't boast of a great Indian set of players and in the auction they might end up going for too many and not getting what Opportunity: This is KXIP's chance to set the tempo of the auction owing to the maximum money hike up the prices of players other franchises would be keen to buy and get the better of the bargain.

Threat: KXIP can get players at a price which might be too much in the end, as it can happen during auctions.

ROYAL CHALLENGERS BANGA-

Purse left: ₹27.90 crore No of open players slot: 12 (six domestic, six overseas)

Strengths: Virat Kohli's RCB have their domestic players sorted and can go all out in search for good overseas buys.

Weakness: RCB need to fill up six slots and they do not have too much money for it. It will be interesting to see how they go about their business.

Opportunity: The chance to cash in on one-two big names might work for the franchise who are yet to taste a lot of success in the IPL.

Threat: Other franchises with bigger remaining purse can steal their targets as RCB need more than one foreign recruits.

RAJASTHAN ROYALS Purse left: ₹28.90 crore

No of open players slot: 11 (Seven domestic, four overseas)

Strength: They have enough firepower as far as foreign recruits are concerned and don't need to think too much on that front.

Weakness: Their focus will be to fill the domestic slots, which is not very easy in a small auction.

Opportunity: New coach Andrew McDonald will have the chance to buy role-specific players which fit the bill.

Threat: Other teams with more money power going into the auction can take away domestic players they have in

No of open players slot: Seven (five domestic, two

Strength: SRH have specific gaps to fill to complete the squad which might help given the room they have to operate with as far as the purse left is concerned. Weakness: SRH need powerpacked Indian players to fill in their need of a finisher and with limited purse, it could be a hard bargain Opportunities: The fact that they know, more or less, what they need could help in their cause and lay the platform for right picks. Threat: SRH have been dependent on the top three and will be looking to get some strong finishers in their line-up but with other teams also in fray with bigger purse, they might have to settle for less.

 $P^{\text{atrik Schick snatched a draw}}_{\text{for RB Leipzig in a pulsating}}$ 3-3 draw at title rivals Borussia Dortmund on Tuesday that moved them three points clear at the top of the Bundesliga.

Timo Werner also struck twice as Leipzig twice came from behind twice in the second half in a fiery encounter played out in torrential rain at Signal Iduna Park.

The draw means thirdplaced Dortmund missed the chance to move second ahead of Borussia Moechengladbach, who can join Leipzig on 34 points with a win over bottom side Paderborn.

"The game opened up after the break and we played with more courage and emotion," said Leipzig coach Julian Nagelsmann.

But they only needed seven minutes after half-time to bring the score back to 2-2, with Timo Werner gifted two goals through unforgivable errors from keeper Roman Burki and Brandt respectively. Dortmund were back ahead just two minutes later when Marco Reus found Jadon Sancho unmarked in the penalty box, and the England international shoved his shot past iverpool's youngest Lever team suffered a harsh lesson on Tuesday as Aston Villa ran out 5-0 winners to reach the League Cup semi-finals, with Jonathan Kodjia scoring twice.

An unrecognisable Liverpool line-up contained five debutants and an average age of 19 years, six months and three days with the European champions' first team and coaching staff, including manager Jurgen Klopp, in Qatar for their Club World

Cup semi-final against

Monterrey. That inexperience showed defensively despite a much better performance from the visitors than the scoreline suggests.

"I thought we were magnificent," said said Liverpool's stand-in manager Neil Critchley.

"It was an incredible night and no-one wanted it to end."

Villa made 10 changes themselves with Premier League survival their priority and could have had a much tougher night had Liverpool taken advantage of a bright start.

"It was a bit of a weird game, probably the weirdest one I've been involved in for a quarter-final of a major competition," said Villa boss Dean Smith.

"I came through coaching those sorts of age groups. It was great to see them on that stage tonight, so we had to be very professional.

India level series with massive win

Rohit, Rahul struck tons while Kuldeep picked up a hat-trick to seal 107-run win

ohit Sharma captivat-Robit Sharma captivated with his languid brilliance in company of an equally graceful KL Rahul before Kuldeep Yadav topped it up with a hat-trick in India's series-levelling 107-run victory against the Windies in the second onedayer here on Wednesday.

The Indian vice-captain hit his 28th ODI hundred -159 off 138 balls — and added 227 for the opening stand with fellow centurion Rahul (102 off 104 balls) as India put up an imposing 387 for 5 in 50 overs.

Rishabh Pant (39 off 16 balls) and Shreyas Iyer's (53 off 32 balls) thoroughly entertaining 72-run stand in only four overs also provided the impetus required during a final flourish.

In reply, the West Indies, who looked good at 192 for 3 in the 30th over, were bowled out for 280 in 43.3 overs.

It was Mohammed Shami (3/39 in 7.3 overs), who removed the dangerous Nicholas Pooran (75 off 47 balls) and skipper Keiron Pollard (0) off successive deliveries to spark a West Indies collapse.

Kuldeep (3/52 in 10 overs) then removed the dogged Shai Hope (78 off 85 balls), Jason Holder (11) and Alzarri Joseph (0) off successive deliveries to seal the issue in favour of India. This was his second hattrick in ODIs. He became the first Indian player to claim two hat-tricks in international cricket.

On a shirtfront of a track, West Indies was never going to make a comeback after losing five wickets for 18 runs and it was only a matter of time before India ended their four-match losing streak at home. The Rohit, as usual, batted at his own pace and looked like the bandmaster of an orchestra, who made the Caribbean bowlers dance to his tune.

Sheldon Cottrell (2/83 in 9 overs) was punished with such ferocity that he didn't have energy to do a customary 'Cottrell Salute' once Iyer was out and it was more or less similar for all others like Alzarri Joseph (0/68 in 9 overs) and Keemo Paul (0/62 in 9 overs).

It was also a perfect demonstration on how to press the accelerator in this format — first 50 off 67, the next off 40 balls and the last off only 25.

The innings had 17 boundaries and five sixes and Rohit played the same shot again and again.

The West Indies bowlers were wary of pitching it up to him fearing his drives but ended up bowling short on the hips and the Indian gleefully played the shot again and again.

At times, they did realise the mistake and pitched it up but then 'Retro Rohit' came out from nowhere playing 1980s slog shots, shuffling towards legstump and making room to hit over cover boundary.

Incidentally, Rohit was much behind Rahul in the race for half-century but reached the three-figure mark before the Karnataka

When Rahul reached his hundred, he made a gesture which was something like shutting his ears from all the humdrum surrounding him. Whatever he meant, it seemed to have worked well for him.

Virat Kohli celebrates the dismissal of Shimron Hetmyer

We are not over reliant on toss: Kohli

PTI VISAKHAPATNAM

▼ndian captain Virat Kohli on Wednesday said the I way his side have been posting big totals after being put in to bat in the last few one-dayers showed that the team was not over reliant on toss.

"In the last three games, including the one at Wankhede and first two ODIs (of this series), we've batted well in first half. Batting second isn't an issue, we're one of the top sides, if not the best, while chasing. As a captain, nice to see the way we've batted first after losing the toss. It shows we're not reliant on the toss," Kohi said after the match.

"It's always good to get 40-50 extra and we want to bat the opposition out of the game. Rohit and KL were outstanding, the opening partnership set it up. Shreyas and Rishabh, the way they played, was outstanding," he added.

Asked about the 34 boundaries and 16 sixes

India hit during the innings in view of the T20 World Cup next year, he said, "The more we get confident in T20s while batting first, the better. There's no major 50-over cricket now, so we need to just play fearlessly, which is the need of the hour."

Kohli, however, made his displeasure known about the poor fielding in the last two matches, saying the team will need to maintain high standards in all the departments of the game.

"Reviews are always left upon the keeper and the bowler. Wasn't really pleased with how we took the review. Catching has been disappointing. We need to field better, we can't afford to drop catches like we have. It is important to maintain standards. We are one of the best fielding sides in the world," the Indian captain said.

Asked what was the reason for the poor fielding, he said, "Fielding is all about wanting the ball. As long as we are enjoying that, we will be right up there on the field as well."

Kohli said that the issue of the number 4 batting slot prior to the 50-over World Cup was blown out of proportions. "If the number 4 doesn't get to bat consistently, then it doesn't help. We are just happy that a youngster (Shreyas Iyer) has come in and is playing freely."

 $S^{\text{weden outplayed his side 0-3 in the}}_{\text{league match but head coach Thomas}}$ Dennerby on Wednesday said that India will push for a win in the summit clash of U-17 women's international football tournament at the Mumbai Football Arena today.

"We will go for the win against Sweden. No matter who we play, we always strive to win, not for a draw or to lose by just one or two goals. We can change tactics for different games and that is to win and not to let in lesser goals. We are going for it," Dennerby said at the pre-match press conference.

India sealed their spot in the final with a 1-0 win against Thailand on Tuesday, which Dennerby termed as "crucial".

"It was a crucial win and means a lot for the team's self-confidence. You can win by luck or by deserving it and in this case, we deserved it. We played well, created many chances and should have scored at least three more goals,"

The former Sweden and Nigeria head coach also reserved a special word for goalkeeper Manju Ganjhu, say-

Talking about the challenge at hand, Dennerby said that the previous match was much closer than what the scoreline suggests and that his players will be better prepared this time around.

'Sweden will come out strong but the difference will be that our girls have the first game in mind. Now, they know better how to handle the pressure. In the first 10 minutes versus Sweden, we were a little bit anxious. Now, I hope we can manage them better. We were closer than the result — 2-1 instead of 3-0 would have been better.

Sweden coach Par Lagerstrom shared his reading of India's game as well over the last two matches and said that he was "impressed" by their game-

"It is difficult to compare the Indian team over the two games. I was impressed by India - they have a great keeper, left-winger and centre-backs. We have a lot of respect for them and I'm sure they will play a good game tomor-
