Maha Cabinet expansion on Dec 30

Mumbai: The Maharashtra cabinet expansion on Friday that will make the ruling three-front Cabinet stronger by at least seven ministers will be finalised today, sources said.

A senior party leader said most of the ministers allocated to the party do not have “direct connections” with posts.

Ministers such as animal husbandry and fisheries, whose nodes are yet to be merged with agriculture and rural development,” he said.

The issue is likely to be discussed with Congress general secretary Ashok Kharge who will be in Mumbai on December 28. A meeting of the latter’s party is to be held here on December 29.

A cabinet expansion is due in December for the state parliament elections.

A source close to the decision makers said the Cabinet expansion will be finalised only after the three parties, the Shiv Sena, NCP and Congress, agree to it.

NRC required in Bengal: Dilip Ghosh

Kolkata: West Bengal chief Dilip Ghosh on Sunday announced that the state government will undertake a NRC-like exercise in the state because militias and the local NRC machinery are not working effectively.

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, who was present on the occasion, welcomed the announcement. “If you cannot defeat the NRC, National Register of People, in Assam, how can you do it in the state?” she demanded.

On Saturday, Assam Chief Minister Sarbananda Sonowal had announced that the state government will conduct a fresh NRC and a CAA (Citizenship Amendment Act) review in Assam, where the recent violent anti-CAA protests have left thirteen people dead.

Mr. Sonowal also announced a fresh NRC in Assam will be done in 2023 to cover the people who were left out in the 2018 NRC.

Mr. Sonowal, who was participating in the 73rd Independence Day celebrations with other leaders in the state capital Guwahati, also announced that the Army would be deployed in Assam to maintain peace and秩序.

A crashing economy

2019 will be remembered for a lot of things, but the state of Indian economy should be front and centre.

Writing signs have been on the cards for quite some time. Ever since demonetisation, the shadow of the war in Afghanistan and plunge in the black money, consumer confidence has taken a hit. Thus, economic growth was almost certain to take a hit in the last few months of 2019. However, when GDP numbers in Government or Indian business were warned about was the complete and utter collapse in the manufacturing and consumption landscape——a fall in car and motorcycle sales becoming the most telling proof of the slowdown in growth. Several economy watch- ddogs had been warning the Centre about the signs of a slowdown in the collapse of the real estate market, much of which was propped up by black money. Of course, cheap property is not a bad thing for consumers but the real estate market was a killer earning machine for the government, and if those who had invested in it were losing their investments, there was no way the economy would recover.

There are a couple of things about the economic slowdown that are a bit depressing. The fact that this slowdown has occurred at a time when the global economy has been on a very strong run (or because of Trump) is trade wars is still growing at a decent pace, is one. The second consideration to note is the impact on India’s two largest industries: real estate and automobiles. The government has taken several steps to shore up these sectors, but it has been a struggle to attract funding. The real estate sector has been hit hard by the lack of buyers, and the automobile sector has been hit by the slowdown in the economy. The government’s pump money into the economy meant the patient did not get much needed medicine to fight for a recovery.

With urban lifestyle affecting everything, including our eating habits, one pot dishes and clean meals are surely the next big thing in 2020, predicts PREM G POGAKULA, executive chef at the Imperial

When it comes to new trends in dining out, there is one very clear trend the new millennials have made: they are yearning for more than just tasty food. They are crunched for time one way or another and are always looking for convenience. That is where the one pot dishes come in. Whether it is buying instant noodles for the first time is a memory of digging into instant noodles, the olden days are embedded deep inside my mind and are hard to forget. That is also the memoir way of cooking with cannabis. It’s perhaps the most integrative thing that we can do. It has so many benefits and it is a choice. I will not talk about its taste, but instant noodles is what I used to eat as a kid and I find it interesting. "

There was a time when eating food from Western countries was fashionable. The new millennium is all about health and fitness. The new trend is headed towards East. South East Asian foods are getting very popular and are being adapted to suit the taste of the young millenials. The trend does not just stop there. Indian food is being adapted with cocktails and beverages using food waste, husk and ingredients like apple peels, orange peels and mango peels."

"Looking at the world today, we have a whole new generation of chefs who are creating new dishes and styles. The new trends are a complete revamp of the way we eat and cook our food. They are pesticide free. Whatever scientific research imposes a lot of restrictions because the new FSSAI regulations has been framed to provide a healthy and sustainable lifestyle. This is a huge rise of “dining in”. Food delivery is a booming business. Restaurants are run by home chefs. This is especially popular when working in combination with health trends. Even though the customers have it on easy food from Western countries was fashionable. The new millennium is all about health and fitness. The new trend is headed towards East. South East Asian foods are getting very popular and are being adapted to suit the taste of the young millenials."

Leander wants to finish on a high at Olympics, Davis Cup: Father

Idiot guess if you're out from Olympic qualifiers' trial

New Delhi: Former World Champions Bromo-maderha-under-19 team Gasper Billa has challenged the Indian 50-over National Team Olympic Qualifiers and Sports Ministry to organize a round robin league instead of single matches.

Billa, who is the selector of the Indian team, said in a letter to Sports Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, "The team needs a round robin league to get the best players and the best team, to be able to compete in the Olympics."

Billa, who represented India in the Under-19 World Cup, said that the Indian team has been struggling to find the best players for the Olympics for the past few years.

"The team has not been able to perform well in the past few years," he said. "We need a round robin league to find the best players and the best team for the Olympics."

Billa also said that the Indian team has not been able to find a strong coach for the past few years, which has affected their performance.

"We need a strong coach to guide the team," he said. "We need a round robin league to find the best players and the best team for the Olympics."
In the last decade, the country has seen a surge in cricket's popularity, with the game being played in smaller towns and villages. The number of cricket academies and coaching centers has also increased, with young players being identified at a young age and provided with the necessary training to excel in the sport. The Indian Cricket Board (ICB) has taken several initiatives to promote cricket in India, including the launch of the Women's Premier League (WPL), which has helped to increase the visibility of women's cricket in the country. The ICB has also launched the Khelo India program, which aims to identify and develop young talent in the country. The T20 World Cup in India is expected to further boost the popularity of cricket in the country, with millions of spectators expected to attend the matches and millions more watching on television.
