Amanbar writes to PM for inclusion in Punjab in ₹6,000cr ‘Atal Bhujau Tojana’

Punjabi Chief Minister Captain Amarinder Singh on Thursday wrote to Prime Minister Narendra Modi for inclusion in Punjab of ₹6,000-crore ‘Atal Bhujau Tojana’ scheme.

The Punjab Chief Minister’s letter comes at a time when the Centre has approved 16 schemes out of 18 schemes proposed by the Union Home Ministry for inclusion in the scheme.

The Centre has also held the 22nd round of the high-level meeting on December 19 and during which it agreed to propose to achieve a “near-realistic” overall achievement of 90 percent of the works of these schemes for the completion of the project and to further develop in tune with the scheme.

The joint programme is the implementation of the two countries under the Protocol of Understanding on December 20, 2012.

Sonam Wangchuk, who is the co-founder of the Make in India, said: “It is a very important programme and the policymakers should consider it seriously.”

He also expressed his hope that the programme would boost the economy and provide employment opportunities.

During the joint training, soldiers on both sides had to endure cold temperatures, which was the most challenging aspect. The soldiers undertook a rigorous training exercise which included physical training, tactical training, and familiarisation with the local terrain.

The training concluded with a joint exercise that included search and rescue operations, which were conducted by both the armies.

The exercise aimed to improve the cooperation and training between the two armies and to enhance their capabilities to conduct joint operations in a complex environment.

This joint training is an important milestone in the strategic relationship between India and China, and it has helped to strengthen the ties between the two countries.

The joint training has also helped to improve the understanding and trust between the two armies, which is crucial for maintaining peace and stability in the region.

Israel’s indicted Netanyah faces party leadership challenge

A Jerusalem district court on Tuesday heard the case of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who faces charges of bribery, fraud and breach of trust in relation to his alleged role in the Holco Group affair.

Netanyahu is accused of offering to give the group, which owns the Holco Ltd construction company, a contract in exchange for promoting a bill that would benefit the company.

The trial is expected to continue for several more days.

Meanwhile, the Blue and White party, which is likely to form the next government, has announced that it will move to oust Netanyahu from his post as prime minister once it takes office.

The party has chosen veteran politician Moshe Yaalon as its new leader.

Reactions varied on social media, with some expressing support for the move, while others criticized it as a political ploy.

The trial has been postponed until May 2020.

Trump visit to Israel

US President Donald Trump’s visit to Israel has been postponed until May 2020, according to a statement from the White House.

The statement said that the visit has been rescheduled due to the ongoing situation in the Middle East.

Trump had been scheduled to visit Israel on April 23, but the trip was postponed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The US president has previously expressed interest in visiting Israel and the Palestinian territories.

He has offered to mediate talks between the two sides, but so far, no breakthrough has been achieved.

Trump’s visit to Israel is seen as an important part of his foreign policy, as he has repeatedly expressed support for Israel.

He has also been a vocal critic of the Palestinian Authority, and has promised to move the US embassy to Jerusalem.

The decision to postpone the visit comes amid tensions in the Middle East, with fighting between Israel and the Palestinian militants in the Gaza Strip.

The White House has not provided a new date for the visit.

EU chief writes ‘love letter’ to Britain over Brexit

EU Commission President Jean-Claude Juncker has written a “love letter” to Prime Minister Boris Johnson, expressing support for a deal on Brexit.

In the letter, Juncker says he hopes to see a “positive and constructive” outcome to the negotiations.

He also expresses hope that the UK and the EU can work together to ensure a smooth transition following Brexit.

Juncker’s letter comes as Johnson is preparing to travel to Brussels for talks with the EU Commission.

The EU has set a deadline of October 31 for the UK to leave the union, and is seeking to negotiate a deal that will allow the UK to leave with minimal disruption.

Johnson has repeatedly said that he will negotiate a deal that will allow the UK to leave with as much freedom as possible.

He has also expressed interest in a so-called “backstop” arrangement, which would allow the UK to remain in the EU customs union and single market.

The EU has been cautious about this proposal, and has expressed concern that it could undermine the integrity of the single market.

The two sides are expected to resume talks next week, with Johnson due to hold a Cabinet meeting on Brexit later in the month.

Johnson’s government has been under pressure to fulfill its manifesto pledge of leaving the EU without a deal, but has so far struggled to negotiate a deal that would meet the demands of both sides.

The letter from Juncker is seen as a positive signal from the EU side, and is likely to be welcomed by Johnson as a sign of goodwill.

However, the EU has also been cautious about its approach, and has expressed concern that a deal could be used to undermine the integrity of the single market.

The two sides are expected to continue negotiations in the coming weeks, with Johnson due to hold a Cabinet meeting on Brexit later in the month.
The year 2019 has been of great importance to India, and the year 2020 will be of even greater importance. Not only will the Indian economy see a lot of changes, but the Indian government will also take a number of crucial decisions that will affect each citizen of the State.

The CAA has sparked a series of protests across India, and the government has been swift in taking action to address the situation. However, peace and stability are the priorities of the day, and all efforts are being made to ensure that the situation remains under control.
