BJP again” is only option to develop Jharkhand: Nadda

A day after the Covid-19 Assembly constituency elections resulted in a comfortable win for the Bhartiya Janata Party, party president JP Nadda on Monday said “BJP again” is the only option to develop Jharkhand.

In a video message, Nadda said theBJP’s victory in the past few Assembly elections in Jharkhand had given a sense of confidence to the people of the state.

Nadda said that in the last few years, the State Government has taken many steps towards the development of the State.

The video message includes footage of theAssembly constituency elections held in two phases.

The video message also gives glimpses of the Bradha Janata Party candidates’ victory rallies and other activities.

The message ends with Nadda appealing to the people of Jharkhand to elect the BJP so that it can fulfill the promises made to them and bring about development in the State.

Sarkar says CCTV monitoring of strong rooms

Jharkhand Chief Minister Hemant Soren on Monday said CCTV cameras will be installed at strong room of Jharkhand State Election Commission (SEC) office to avoid any unmolested activity.

Addressing a press meet at Jharkhand state election office, Soren said that the strong room is under strict surveillance.

Soren said that he has instructed the Election Commission to install CCTV cameras at the strong room.

Soren also said that he has instructed the Election Commission to take all necessary precautions to ensure that the elections are free and fair.

SERNISH SINHA IN RANCHI

Jharkhand has been one of the states in the country that is rich in natural resources and capability to produce and supply quality products. The State Government has been taking effective measures to support and promote the silk industry, and Jharkhand is now seeing a steady growth in the production of Jharkhand Silk and its export to major markets.

The importance of the industry is also reflected in the state's efforts to promote exports and establish partnerships with international buyers. The State Government has been working closely with the Silk Board of India and the Jharkhand Silk Board to ensure that the quality standards are maintained and that the products are competitive in the global market.

The Indian Silk Board has been working closely with the State Government and the silk industry to promote the export of Jharkhand Silk. The Silk Board has been instrumental in providing technical assistance, training, and marketing support to help the silk industry grow and prosper.

The State Government has also been working on creating job opportunities in the silk industry. The silk industry is a major contributor to the state's economy, providing employment to thousands of people in the state. Jharkhand Silk is known for its quality and durability, and it is in high demand in the global market.

The Russian flag and anthem banished from the Olympic Games for four years from Monday is a result of RFEF’s decision to impose sanctions on the country.

The decision was taken after a series of meetings between the two countries ahead of the Games.

WADA Secretary General Olivier Niggli said: “This is a very sad day for the world of sport. The Russian flag and anthem will not be allowed to be displayed at the Games. The President of the Russian Olympic Committee (ROC) said last month: “We will not do that haste in the name of hate and we respect the decision of WADA.”

But the ROC’s decision has not gone down well with some quarters. Russia is a country rich in talent and has produced some of the finest athletes in the world. The decision has been met with a lot of criticism and controversy.

The Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) is a United Nations environmental treaty. The CBD aims to conserve biological diversity, sustainable use of its components, and fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising from the use of genetic resources. The CBD entered into force on 29 December 1993. India signed the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) on 3rd May 1992.

As of 2023, the CBD has been ratified by 195 countries, including India. The Convention sets out a framework of international environmental rights and obligations designed to encourage countries to develop and implement national policies and programs. The CBD's goals are to protect and preserve the diversity of life on earth, and to ensure that any use of biological diversity is sustainable. India has made significant efforts to implement the CBD, including through the establishment of a National Biodiversity Authority (NBA) and the development of national biodiversity action plans. However, despite these efforts, India faces significant challenges in implementing the CBD and protecting its biological diversity.

Amit Shah introduced the Citizenship (Amendment) Bill in the Lok Sabha on Monday, a day ahead of the Bill being introduced in Parliament. The Citizenship Amendment Bill will provide citizenship to people of the Buddhist, Hindu, Christian and Sikh minorities who have fled persecution in Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan. The Citizenship Amendment Bill, which was introduced by Home Minister Amit Shah, is scheduled to be introduced in the Rajya Sabha on Monday.

Saying that the Citizenship Bill is not unconstituent and will not be implemented across the country, and that it will be implemented only in Assam and the northeastern States, Bhartiya Janata Party (BJP) President Amit Shah said the Bill is a direct result of the Indian government's efforts to make India a safe place for all.

The Citizenship Amendment Bill is designed to help people from certain countries who have been forced to leave their homes due to religious persecution and who wish to come to India. The Bill will provide citizenship to people of certain communities who have been living in印度 for a long time and have faced persecution in their home countries. The Bill will also provide citizenship to people who have been living in India for a longer period of time and have children who are Indian citizens.

The Bill was introduced in the Lok Sabha on Monday and is expected to be discussed in the Parliament in the coming weeks. The Citizenship Amendment Bill is expected to be passed by the Parliament and become law in the coming months.

It is not too much a win for the BJP as the personability of the Karnataka CM, who worked assiduously for the bypolls.

Prior partners demanding their pound of the pie, some of them may not be yawning, and crossover candidates failing to deliver, the BJP has thrown a curve in the Karnataka bypolls. This can be seen from the Karnataka bypoll results on the last day. (JDS), the coalition partners, who has been winning the Majority, has been taking the reason for the back-lash among the coalition partners. Former Chief Minister and senior leader Siddaramaiah hasn’t been able to gather the forces he once had. Either could push the Jogadora’s high command’s porter’s stamp to the floor and play the victims card effectively. This sad poll show was not on the BJP with many of its workers joining the coalition partners for the opposition; all of them have not only dented the mandate, it was heartbreaking, it could be an outcome. Without strong allies and plagued by the Congress, the margins seems reduction in the seats won by the coalition partners. Can this prove to be a momentous lesson to the other political parties?

There is no doubt about the Narendra Modi government’s concern for women. In 2017, the Prime Minister, who is also the President of the BJP, exhorted the people to respect women. The Prime Minister’s concern was evident in his speech in New Delhi on the occasion of the International Women’s Day. His message was clear: “We all have a responsibility to create a safe and secure environment for women in our society.”

The Prime Minister’s message was not lost on the people. In the subsequent elections, the BJP won a majority in the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha. The Prime Minister’s message was also reflected in the policies and programmes of the government. The government has implemented various schemes and programmes to empower women and to provide them with equal opportunities. Institutionalisation of victims in shelters must be done on an imperative basis. A lot needs to be done in this regard and protection strategies must be in place and not conducive for their institutionalisation in shelter homes. The solution no longer lies in transferring the family of the victim may not be uncomfortable. It is the family that is responsible for the victim’s welfare rather than the shelter homes, which are not equipped to deal with such cases.

Still, efforts are being made in this regard. A recent study conducted by the Indian Council for Social Welfare and Human Rights (ICSWHR) has revealed that the current system of shelter homes is not adequate to meet the needs of victims. The study found that the current system of shelter homes is not equipped to deal with such cases and the family of the victim may not be comfortable. In India, around 70 per cent of people diagnosed with high blood sugar levels have some stage of diabetic retinopathy, amounting to about 25 per cent lifetime risk of developing foot ulcers. Doctors suggest ways to deal with these complications

Paradigm Shift in Diabetic Eye Disease:

Serious vision loss or even blindness may be prevented if proper treatment is given in a timely manner. In another study, research participants who received early treatment for diabetic retinopathy had a decreased risk of visual loss compared to those who did not receive treatment.

Providers of Care:

Early treatment for diabetic retinopathy is crucial to prevent serious vision loss or even blindness. Providers of care, such as eye doctors and diabetic educators, can help prevent vision loss by identifying and treating diabetic retinopathy early.

Patient Education:

Patients can play an active role in their own health by following the recommendations from their healthcare providers. They should also educate themselves about diabetic retinopathy and its treatment options.

Conclusion:

Diabetic retinopathy is a serious complication of diabetes that can lead to vision loss if not treated early. Early detection and timely treatment can prevent serious vision loss or even blindness. Patients and healthcare providers should work together to manage diabetic retinopathy and prevent vision loss.
Trump warns Kim of losing everything if he takes hostile action

North Korea on Monday named a US official in South Korea as its new envoy, a move that comes amid signs the two adversaries are moving toward a military de-escalation.

President Donald Trump said on Twitter that he had spoken with South Korean President Moon Jae-in and North Korean leader Kim Jong-un, who have recently engaged in high-level diplomacy to defuse tensions that had spiraled to the brink of war.

Trump said in a series of tweets that he had discussed “the situation on the Korean Peninsula” with Moon and Kim, and that he was “very happy” with the progress of negotiations.

Trump also reiterated his commitment to a peaceful solution to the nuclear standoff on the Korean Peninsula, which has been a major source of tension between the two countries for decades.

Trump said that he had spoken to Moon about the situation in North Korea and had discussed the possibility of a meeting between him and Kim in the future.

Trump has previously said he was open to meeting with Kim, but that he wanted to see progress on denuclearization before agreeing to a summit.

Moon, for his part, has said he would be willing to meet with Trump at any time, and has called for a peaceful resolution to the nuclear standoff.

The talks between Trump and Moon are expected to focus on ways to maintain the momentum of recent diplomatic efforts and to push forward with negotiations on North Korea’s nuclear weapons program.

Trump has repeatedly called for a “good deal” for the US in any future negotiations, and has said he is willing to consider a “deal or no deal” approach if necessary.

Moon, on the other hand, has emphasized the importance of maintaining the current momentum of diplomatic efforts and has said he is willing to continue discussions with Trump.

The talks are likely to include discussions on a possible summit between Trump and Kim, as well as other key issues such as economic cooperation and cybersecurity.

The talks come amid a period of increased diplomatic engagement between the two countries, with the recent meetings between Trump and Moon being part of a broader effort to de-escalate tensions and to find a peaceful resolution to the nuclear standoff.

Kim has also called for a “good deal” for the US and has said he is willing to continue discussions with Trump.

The talks are likely to include discussions on a possible summit between Trump and Kim, as well as other key issues such as economic cooperation and cybersecurity.

Interestingly, almost 62 per cent of people who have cheated feel the need to check their partner's phone without their knowledge and 51 per cent feel their partner's phone without their knowledge.

India all her life without hearing any references to the queer world, wondered about lgbt.

It's a possibility but the authorities have to start talking. This is not in a way that it reaches them through a sexual experience.

Women, men, actor, and a TED speaker, Anand Shekhar, find that India and the importance of trust revealed the research.

As per the study, 62 per cent of Indians are insecure in marriage, whereas 61 per cent feel the need to check their partner's phone without their knowledge.

Emotional Maturation

The early years of life are held to be the most formative and are often assumed to set the stage for emotional maturation throughout life. The concept of emotional maturation is complex, and there are different perspectives on what it entails. Emotional maturation is often associated with the ability to experience a wide range of emotions, to understand and regulate one’s own emotions, and to empathize and connect emotionally with others. However, the exact stages and processes of emotional maturation are not well-defined, and the concept is often used in different ways across different fields of study.

The concept of emotional maturation is often related to developmental psychology, where it is seen as a process that occurs throughout the lifespan. Emotional maturation is also related to emotional intelligence, which involves the ability to understand and manage one’s own emotions, and to understand and relate to the emotions of others. Emotional intelligence is often seen as a key skill in many aspects of life, including personal relationships, work, and leadership.

In summary, emotional maturation is a complex and multifaceted concept that is important in understanding emotional development and functioning. It is a process that involves understanding and regulating one’s own emotions, empathizing with others, and connecting emotionally with others. Emotional maturation is seen as a key skill in many aspects of life and is often related to emotional intelligence.

Quentin Blake’s illustrations on auction

Quentin Blake's distinctive black-and-white illustrations are often associated with the particular style of his pen and ink drawings. The use of thick lines and bold contrasts is characteristic of his work, and he has been known for his unique and distinctive style. His illustrations are often recognized for their playful and whimsical nature, and they are often associated with children's literature. However, his work is not limited to children's books, and he has also illustrated works for adults. Blake's illustrations are often considered to be a form of art in their own right, and they are highly regarded for their creativity and originality.
Klopp never doubted his squad

Klopp believes it is too early for Liverpool to consider their Champions League exit as 'irreversible'.

The German boss said: "I was not quite as optimistic. But we try to win our game. It's not as if we are not trying to win. But it's not as if we have given up on us winning. We have a chance to win the group and a chance to win the competition."

Klopp believes it is far too early to talk about the effect of a potential Champions League exit on Liverpool's Premier League campaign.

"It is too early to talk about the effect of the group stage exit,' said the Liverpool manager. "It is too early to talk about the effect of the sequence we have had in the competition.

"We'll have a chance to win the group and a chance to win the competition. We have to win the group and then we have a chance to win the competition."

Liverpool manager Jurgen Klopp said his team are in a "good place" and "not closed" after their win over Salzburg.

"We are in a good place," said the Liverpool boss. "We are not closed. We have to play the games."

"We have a chance to win the group and a chance to win the competition."

Klopp's team have already secured top spot in Group C and are through to the last 16 of the Champions League, where they will face Atalanta or Ajax in the last-16 draw on Monday.

"We are in a good place," he added. "We have a chance to win the group and a chance to win the competition."
