After running behind schedule in its initial stages, the Vizagapatnam Metropolitan Rapid Transport System (BRTS) project has managed to complete all the components of the project, including the proposed rapid-rail over-bridge, as a part of the project.

The project work got delayed mainly because of the different issues, change in the direction of the NB (Vizag) Gaunt Road, and in the old direction of the NB (Vizag) Gaunt Road. The work is now in full swing and all components of the project have been completed within the time frame.

The factors affected the progress of the project were mainly due to the non-fulfilment of the project land by the government of Andhra Pradesh. As a result, the work has been delayed in line with the BRRTS's timeline. As a result, the work has been completed within the time frame.

It may be recalled that the VizBRTS has entrusted the responsibility of construction of the multi-lane separated road for the busy NAFAY junction of the city to a private bidder on November 15, 2017. The bidder was supposed to complete the project in 9 months as per the contract.

Encounter solves many problems but creates new ones too

Vijayawada | Sunday | December 8, 2019

People felt sufficiently avenged after three girls were shot dead in Warangal, but some say the police action could have been better.

The only comparable instance was another extra-judicial killing in the city in 2018, when five villagers were killed by the police in an encounter. The police had claimed the villagers had opened fire at them, but the villagers had maintained that the police had killed them in cold blood.

The chief minister has, however, taken an activist’s stand to the police against public allegations. Several questions are being asked by the police, even if the police are innocent. The police are being asked whether they are being watched or being targeted for information.

The police have so far refused to answer these questions. The police instead say they will conduct an encounter if they come across any suspect.

GSP leader submits ‘secret’ report to PM on Goa drugs nexus

I have submitted a secret report to the PM. I cannot disclose the contents of this report as it involves sensitive information regarding police officers and politicians involved in the drug nexus, says Vinod Patil

Goa Forward Party (GFP) leader and former state minister Patil told reporters that he has submitted a report to the Prime Minister Narendra Modi, saying that “police and politicians involved in the drug nexus, says Vinod Patil.

Patil said it is the first time in his life that he has submitted a secret report to the PM. He has not disclosed the contents of the report.

He has alleged that the system has been corrupted and that police officers and politicians involved in the drug nexus are protecting the drug peddlers.

Patil has been a key figure in the Goa anti-drug campaign and has been vocal about the issue in the past.

However, the GFP leader did not provide any further details or information regarding the contents of the report.

The GFP has been demanding the scrapping of the Goa Chinrutha Act, which is widely seen as being lenient on drug offenders.

The GFP has been demanding that the Centre take prompt steps to address the drug menace in the state.

The GFP leader also said that the police should be more proactive in taking action against drug peddlers.

The report, if true, could have serious implications for the political landscape in Goa.

The GFP is the main opposition party in Goa and has been critical of the state government in the past.

The Goa government has been under pressure to take stringent measures to combat the drug menace in the state.

The GFP leader's allegations could result in further investigations by the state police and could lead to the arrest of several high-profile figures involved in the drug nexus.

One lakh workers in auto parts industry lose jobs till July

The crisis in the Indian auto sector has led to a significant reduction in production of automobiles and auto component manufacturing, impacting a whole supply chain. As a result, the automobile manufacturers are having a direct impact on their supply chain partners, too. The suppliers have also had to cut their production and all vehicles manufacturers have reduced their production by around 30-40%.

Vijayawada | Sunday | December 8, 2019

One lakh workers in the auto parts industry lost their jobs till July, according to reports.

The reduced production has led to the closure of two auto component manufacturing units, which were operating at over 90% of their capacity earlier.

The Alliance of Auto Component Manufacturers of India (ACMA) said that the crisis has also led to a reduction of production by 10-15% in the industry.

ACMA's spokesperson reiterated that the industry has been facing a crisis since the beginning of the year.

In the United States, the US Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has announced that it will award H-1B visas to Indian workers, despite the outbreak of the coronavirus pandemic. The decision was made at a meeting between the Department of Homeland Security and Executive Chairman of SB Group, Anand Paul Singh, and Indian officials.

The US has completed implementing the H-1B electronic registration process, which was announced in April 2020, for the fiscal year 2021. The electronic registration process will allow Indian workers to enter the lottery system to apply for H-1B visas.

The electronic registration process will dramatically streamline the H-1B visa lottery process by reducing paperwork and allowing employers to provide electronic data, which will reduce processing costs. The process will also provide a significant reduction in processing time, allowing employers to receive a decision in as little as 90 days.

The USCIS will use the electronic registration process to select H-1B visa recipients for the fiscal year 2021. The selected registrants will be notified of the results, and the USCIS will issue the visas to the selected registrants.

FOOD TRENDS 2020

ghar ka khaana continue to rule

With the rapid proliferation of the F&B business across the country, millions of dollars riding on food enterprises, and several million people dependent on it for their livelihood, finding one’s way through the maze of taste is serious business, writes RUSHINA MUNSHAW-GHILDIAL, as she maps the trends for an annual food trends report for 2020.

The year 2019 was a year of unprecedented growth and digital upturn for the food industry. Digital technology drove how we do all the time. It was the year in which more Indians ate more food “out” cooked in their homes than ever before! Whether you wanted Pizza, Aaloo or Grilledマンション, or a regional favourite such as Rajasthani Malai Maa, Yoga Fry or the Gujari Dalcha, getting food from a home chef’s kitchen was easier than it has ever been, thanks to digital technology!

Even the way we eat at home changed — the culture of tucking down recipes from one generation to the next is being replaced by online recipe sharing, consumer-focussed, DIY videos, and more.

“therefore, in a country where Mumbai is an urban melting pot and traditionally Dupatta is non-urban the idea, and hiding is expanding its culinary range while Kolhapur is looking back at its culinary tradition, it’s quite a challenge for businesses to identify concepts that have potential to succeed across such indistinguishable diversity.

In such a scenario, food businesses can benefit from a notion that consumer decisions in business and consumer expectations, identifies underlying themes that drive these changes, and helps separate the fads from the trends. Over the past three years, I have found that putting together the annual Godrej Food Trends report requires everything from data analytics to personal intuition on the part of our core team. As a forecaster of trends, it is important that the report be able to differentiate fads from trends. The key distinction between the two is that while trends have the potential to exert long-term influence on the market, a fad is usually short-lived and coming and going quickly.

Trends, therefore, don't exist in isolation. They are a sum of many things, often including altered classes, and can have much longer life cycles, sometimes being around for years or even decades.

One of my favourite examples is our return to our roots. Over the last two iterations of the report, we described a growing movement of self-discovery in the Indian food industry. This desire to learn more about our diverse cultural cuisines and traditions began in 2018 with the initial exploration into northern regional cuisines. In 2019, we went beyond the broad strokes of regional Indian cuisine, we tried to peer deep into the micro-cuisines of India. We saw an explosion of conversations, events, products and dining experiences inspired by micro-cuisines from specific sub-regions, communities, and even individual families.

This inspired exploration into home kitchens brought the true connoisseurs of Indian cuisine to the fore while the food industry connected with nani’s, daadi, mothers or home chefs as SMAs (Social Media Experts), or sources of inspiration and knowledge of our rich culinary diversity. This trend drove a rediscovery of traditional ingredients, as ordinary vegetables became the new exotic and ghareali greens such as lady-ah-phal, aath, tadka, and salt and featured prominently on restaurant menus. Let me tell you, this trend has shown no signs of ebbing. It continues to play out in 2020.

That said, I must admit we don’t always get it right. While we are on target in a majority of cases, sometimes trends don’t play out as anticipated. For instance, in 2014, we heard a lot about millets driving a discovery of other indigenous ingredients, celebrated as a “climate-smart choice for farmers and consumers, but

This trend did not materialize quite as expected. The consumption of indigenous grains hasn’t grown as significantly as the news stories indicated. What will we be talking about to all that hype? Do chefs and media focus on not just millet but other grains too?

To answer all those questions, as we update in the report’s third year, the 2020 edition presents us some interesting big trends (organised alphabetically) for the coming year:

Continued commitment to provenance and mindful eating. Powered by the growing demand for sustainability principles, this trend enforces choice that minimizes their carbon footprint by supporting additional producers and eating seasonally.

Deep exploration of South-East Asian Flavours. In 2020, the consumer industry will offer diners a greater variety of South-East Asian cuisines through deeper explorations of the popular cuisines, along with specific pronounced from previously unexplored regional and ethnic cuisines from the region.

Emergence of the neighbourhood food parlour. The growing demand for fresh, healthy, hygienic, and familiar ghar-ka-khana food, particularly with the consequences of digital communications and platforms, will encourage more trends, regional and community-owned, to start small-enterprises from their home kitchens, offering limited daily specials to small communities of fans.

Keeping it real. Fuelled by an ever-growing consumer demand for authenticity, 2020 will see a growth in dining experiences designed around real issues, real people, real ingredients, and real stories!

Local flavours at global scales. The demand for daily cooking at home, because of changing social dynamics and attitudes towards cooking, will see nostalgic diners, changing social dynamics and attitudes, will see nostalgic diners.

VERDICT:

The writers of 90ML walked a fine line. They tried their best not to glorify alcohol while at the same time trying to keep the audience entertained with an alcoholic-themed film. In that respect, the film has its moments, but overall, it will perspire substantially, as it fails to engage the audience throughout.

The marriage is blissful and the wedding is a grandeur. Even the funniest lines and most laugh-inducing moments aren't extraordinary but these sequences (Abbas Ali Moghul) aren't ordinary either.

The writers of 90ML have collaborated with assuredness by the cast. The film lies bare the various faces of an alcoholic, without giving a solution and intent. The film ends on a loop might get resist the odd moment of comedy classic to on the surface. The reboot has its funniest lines and most laugh-inducing moments aren't extraordinary but these sequences (Abbas Ali Moghul) aren't ordinary either.

Sharing my honest thoughts about my life in the company of the Kalvakuntla family for the first time to a national newspaper, Rajya Sabha member Joginapally Santosh Kumar tells The Pioneer that he has been along with CM K Chandrasekhar Rao, whom he endearingly calls ‘Peddananna’. He reveals how he attended on KCR who had undergone surgery after a fall in bathroom why he called ‘Annayya’ (KTR), his roommate in Pune when they were doing MBA. In an exclusive interview to Naveena Ghanate, he speaks about his childhood, dream of becoming a doctor, and the new lease of life he got when he was in Class X.

My village doesn’t exist

I really miss the days in my village in Krishna district where I grew up. After Mall Mantri project was completed, my village got submerged…

My father was a teacher. When he got the news, he was shocked. He was looking at the flood, we were looking at the flood too. But, my father could not get us out of the flood water. He did his best to save us…

There is a difference between him and knowledge. I am not exaggerating it. There is a huge difference between him and the leader. Even though Kavitha is younger to him; and why he always obeys ‘Annayya’ KTR, his roommate in Pune when they were doing MBA. In an exclusive interview to Naveena Ghanate, he speaks about his childhood, dream of becoming a doctor, and the new lease of life he got when he was in Class X.

Wife took 3 hours to accept me

One source says arranged marriage. My wife Rohini knew me, we were friends (friends), but she didn’t accept at first sight. We met at Birla Shandar, Krishna, my stone was rejected (rejected stone)…

In the night time our marriage was accepted. I don’t have to worry now because she is in love with me. I feel happy. We were married on 8/11.

With Peddananna

When I was fasting, I was alongside him emotionally. It was a spiritual moment, which makes me emotional to this day.
