SC reinstates Alok Verma

But bars CBI chief from taking policy decision till selection panel call

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

In a major rebuff to the Centre and Central Vigilance Commission, the Supreme Court on Sunday reinstated Alok Verma to the post of CBI Director by setting aside their orders sending him on leave.

However, the court made it clear that on reinstatement, Verma will cease and desist from taking any major policy decisions till the Selection Committee's decision. Verma's two-year tenure as CBI Director ends on January 31.

On the issue of "divestment of power and authority" of Verma, the apex court said it is "still open" for the high-powered committee, which selects the CBI chief, to consider the matter within a week since the CVC is probing the charges of corruption against him.

The high-powered committee includes the Prime Minister, the Chief Justice of India (CJI), and the Leader of Opposition.

"We deem it proper to direct that Verma, Director CBI, upon reinstatement, will cease and desist from taking any major policy decisions till the decision of the committee permitting such actions and decisions becomes available within the time frame indicated," a Bench headed by the CJI said in its 44-page order.

The Bench also comprised Justices SK Kaul and KM Joseph. The judgment was penned by CJI Ranjan Gogoi. However, the CJI didn't attend court and it was pronounced by Justice Kaul.

By its Tuesday's order, the SC set aside the October 23, 2018, orders of the CVC and the Department of Personnel and Training that divested Verma of his powers and appointed CBI's Joint Director M Nageshwar Rao to look after the duties and functions of the agency's director.

Verma and Special Director Asthana were sent on "leave" after corruption charges were leveled against each other and the CBI filed a FIR against Asthana. While Verma had moved the apex court against the Government's orders, Asthana has not sought any relief from the SC but has moved the Delhi High Court for quashing of FIR against him in a corruption case.

The SC referred to its verdict in the Vineet Narain case and subsequent amendment in law to drive home the point that legislative intent has been to ensure "complete insulation of the office of the CBI Director from all kinds of extraneous influences, as may be, as well as for upholding the integrity and independence of the institution of the CBI as a whole."

The 1997 Vineet judgment relates to investigation of allegations of corruption against high-ranking public officials. The top court referred to a provision of the Delhi Special Police Establishment (DSPE) Act, which said the CBI Director cannot be transferred without the consent of the Selection Committee.

"If the word transferred' has to be understood in its ordinary parlance and limited to a change from one post to another, as the word would normally convey and on that basis the requirement of 'previous consent of the committee' is understood to be only in such cases, i.e. Purely of transfer, such an interpretation would be self-defeating and would clearly negate the legislative intent," the Bench said.

It said the institution of CBI has been perceived to be necessarily kept away from all kinds of extraneous influences so that it can perform its role as premier investigating and prosecuting agency "without any fear and favour and in the best public interest."

"The head of the institution, the director, therefore, has to be the role model of independence and integrity which can only be ensured by freedom from all kinds of control and interference except to the extent that Parliament may have intended," it said.

Verma leave order bonafide: Jaitley

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Government took the decision to send the CBI's two senior officers on leave on the CVC's recommendation to protect the integrity of the investigating agency, Finance Minister Arun Jaitley said on Tuesday, describing the action as "perfectly bonafide".

Reacting to the Supreme Court on CBI chief Alok Verma, Jaitley said the Government would comply with the orders of the apex court.

Now, none can save PM from Rafale probe: Rahul

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Congress president Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday said no one can save Prime Minister Narendra Modi from Rafale investigation as the SC has reinstated CBI chief Alok Verma, who was unceremoniously removed by the Modi Government.

Speaking to the media outside Parliament, Rahul said the CBI chief was "ousted" at 1 am as he was about to begin an investigation into the Rafale jet agreement.

Unanimous LS clears 10% general quota Bill

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

With most Opposition parties grudgingly backing what they called a political "juml" and the Government describing it as a "historic" measure, the Lok Sabha on Tuesday night passed the landmark Bill seeking to provide 10 per cent reservation in jobs and education for the economically backward candidates among the general category. The Government will table the Bill in the Rajya Sabha on Wednesday.

With an eye on upper cast votes in the forthcoming Lok Sabha election, all major political parties supported the legislation even though they questioned the timing and legal "firmness" of the move. As many as 323 members voted in support of Bill and only three voted against it.

Replying to an over four-and-a-half-hour debate, Social Justice Minister Thaaarchand Gehlot sought to allay doubts raised by several Opposition members about the legislation's fate if challenged in the Supreme Court, saying he can say with confidence that the apex court will accept it.

The Modi Government's policy and intention is good and that is why it has enabled the reservation for the poor in the general category with constitutional amendment, he said, seeking support of all parties for the passage of the Constitution (124th Amendment) Bill 2019.

"Your doubts are unfounded. Put them to rest," he told Opposition members, many of whom dubbed the Bill as "juml" and "gimmick", questioned its legal standing and accused the Government of bringing it in haste with an eye on the Lok Sabha polls.

Gehlot claimed that the Bill is in line with Prime Minister Narendra Modi's assertion when he assumed power in 2014 that his Government would be devoted to the cause of the poor and work for "sabka saath sabka vikas" (With all, development for all).

Modi and Congress president Rahul Gandhi were present in the House when the Bill was passed.

HRD to add 10 lakh seats in institutions to make up for loss

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

HRD Ministry on Tuesday convened a meeting to work out the modalities to implement 10 per cent reservation for the "economically weaker" sections within upper castes in higher educational institutions. Sources said the Ministry is working out the number of seats that need to be increased in the educational institutions to be able to implement this quota.

Sources said initial estimates reflect that around 10 lakh seats will have to be added in institutions across the country, including Central universities IITs and IIMs, among other prestigious higher educational institutions.

"The modalities are yet to be worked out about how the quota will be implemented. All the universities and educational institutions recognised by the University Grants Commission whether Government run or private will have to implement the quota," source said.

The Centre on Monday cleared the 10 per cent quota in Government jobs and education for the "economically weaker" sections, meeting a key demand of upper castes. The related Bill was passed in the Lok Sabha on Tuesday and will come up in the Rajya Sabha on Wednesday.

As per the All-India Survey on Higher Education (AISHE), 2017-18, the country has a total of 903 universities, over 39,000 colleges and over 10,000 stand-alone institutions. The proposed reservation will be over and above the existing 50 per cent reservation enjoyed by the scheduled castes, scheduled tribes and the other backward classes, and will take the total reservation to 60 per cent.

The Bill is likely to introduce criteria like an annual income below Rs 8 lakh and not owning more than five acre of agricultural land for those seeking quota benefits.

SC forms 5-judge Bench, Ayodhya trial from January 10

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

A five-judge Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court will hear the Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid land title dispute case from January 10. The Bench will be headed by Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi and also comprise of Justices SA Bobde, NV Ramana, UU Lalit and DY Chandrachud.

"Take notice that the following matters (petitions in the Ayodhya land dispute) will be listed on Thursday the 10th January, 2019 at 10.30 am in Chief Justice's court before the Constitution Bench comprising the Chief Justice, SA Bobde, NV Ramana, Uday Umesh Lalit and Dr DY Chandrachud, JJ," said a notice uploaded on the apex court website.

On January 4, the top court had said that further orders in the matter would be passed on January 10 by "the appropriate Bench, as may be constituted".

As many as 14 appeals have been filed in the apex court against the 2010 Allahabad High Court judgment, delivered in four civil suits, that the 2.77-acre land be partitioned equally among the three parties -- the Sunni Waqf Board, the Nirmohi Akhara and Ram Lalla.

The apex court on October 29 last year had fixed the matter in the first week of January before the "appropriate Bench".

--BJD RALLY IN DELHI--

Naveen slams Centre's anti-farmer attitude

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik on Tuesday lashed out at the BJP-led Central Government accusing it of turning a deaf ear to the paddy minimum support price (MSP) demand of the farmers of Odisha.

Addressing a "Krushak Adhikar Samabesh" organised by the BJD at the Talkatora Indoor Stadium in New Delhi, Patnaik said his party has delivered what it had promised to the people.

"We had promised to irrigate 10 lakh hectares of farmland in the last five years and we are almost completely done. In the last 4.5 years, we have spent Rs 30,000 crore on agriculture. As you can see, we make promises and we keep those promises," Patnaik said.

The Chief Minister said the BJD was forced to come and hold a demonstration in the national capital due to the sheer apathy of the Centre towards the interest of Odisha farmers.

"We repeatedly appraised the Centre about the need of hike in the paddy MSP for Odisha but the Centre didn't pay heed to our demand. Even Prime Minister Narendra Modi didn't meet the members of the House Committee formed to discuss the paddy MSP issue with him. After forming the Government at the Centre, the BJP forgot all the promises made to the people of Odisha," alleged Patnaik.

The Chief Minister further said that it is the responsibility of the Centre to implement the recommendations of the Swaminathan Committee. "Farmers are the backbone of India's economy. Odisha Government has introduced KALIA scheme in the very interest of its farmers and it would continue to fight for the interests of farmers," said Patnaik.

Reiterating his demand for financial autonomy, the CM said: "Had we been given financial autonomy, we would not have to come to New Delhi. We can help the State develop and prosper with its own funds."

Besides, the Chief Minister many other

BJD leaders also spoke.

Later, a team of BJD members led by the party supreme met President Ram Nath Kovind at the Rashtrapati Bhawan in New Delhi and submitted a memorandum on paddy MSP hike.

DMs to decide edu institutions' closure

Puri school, colleges declared closed

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR/ PURI

The Higher Education Department on Tuesday asked the entire district Collectors to take decision on the closure of schools and educational institutions on the day two of Bharat Bandh on Wednesday.

Higher Education Department Additional Secretary Partha Sarathi Mishra wrote to the district Collectors in this regard in view of second day of Bharat Bandh called by trade unions. "There may be apprehension of untoward incidents in different parts of the State during Bharat Bandh on January 9," Mishra wrote in the letter.

He asked the district Collectors to assess the situation in their respective districts due to the bandh. "In case of any compelling situation which could likely to affect the educational institutions, you may kindly take a suitable decision for closure of the educational institutions within your jurisdiction on January 9, 2019," the letter stated.

All schools and other educational institutions in Puri district will remain closed on Wednesday on the second day of the Bharat Bandh.

Puri district Collector Jyotiprakash Das issued an advisory to the institutions on Tuesday. "Due to the Bharat Bandh, I declared Wednesday a holiday for all schools and colleges in the district," said Das to The Pioneer.

State must pay ₹2,930 MSP, bonus: BJP, Cong & NKS

--Submit memos to Governor

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Opposition parties, the Congress and the BJP and the Navnirman Krushak Sangathan staged protests here on Tuesday against the State Government's alleged apathetic attitude toward farmers and termed the BJD's Delhi rally as a "mere drama".

The BJP Kruskak Morcha led by its State president Shibaji Mohanty gheraoed the State Secretariat and burnt the effigies of Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik and Food Supplies and Consumer Welfare Minister Surjya Narayan Patro.

Police arrested many Morcha workers following a scuffle erupted between them when the latter was marching towards the Secretariat.

The Morcha alleged that the State Government has failed to procure paddy from farmers at MSP of Rs 1,750, set by the Union Government and is not giving bonus of Rs 100 to farmers promised by the Chief Minister earlier. The party also alleged that Mandis have not yet been opened at many places in the State.

They alleged that State Government has announced KALIA Yojana to hoodwink people. Among others, party vice-president Sameer Mohanty, general secretary Bhruagu Baxipatra, secretaries Kalandi Samal and Dilip Mallick, spokespersons Golak Mohapatra and Dillip Mohanty, BJYM State president Tankadhar Pradhan and Mahila Morcha State president Pravat Parida were arrested and later released. Later a team of Morcha led by BJP vice-president Sameer Mohanty met Governor Prof Ganeshi Lal and submitted a memorandum.

The Pradesh Kissan Congress (PKS) held a rally from the Congress Bhawan to the Raj Bhawan and submitted a memorandum, addressed in the name of the President, to the Governor seeking that the State Government procure paddy from farmers at Rs 2,930 per quintal and provide bonus of Rs 750 per quintal and waive farm loans.

The rally led by PKC president Amiya Patnaik was participated by Santosh Sahoo, Subash Rout, Brundaban Khatei, Sudhakar Sahu, PCC spokesper-sons Prashant Satpathy and Deepak Mohapatra and Basant Mohapatra, among others.

Similarly, the NKS led by its president Akshaya Kumar staged a dharna in front of the Raj Bhawan. Kumar slammed the BJD for staging a dharna in Delhi and demanded that the Government procure paddy at Rs 2,930 per quintal and pay security allowance of Rs 5,000 to each farmer above 20 year's age. Later, a team led by NKS State convener Sheshadeb Nanda submitted a memorandum to the Governor.

--ENGINEERING STUDENT GANG RAPE--

Rourkela cops in J'khand for probe

PNS ■ ROURKELA

A Government Railway Police (GRP) team of police from the Jharkhand on Monday evening in connection with investigation of the much publicised gang rape of an engineering college student of the city. Although the team reportedly has started searching to nab the culprits, no significant progress in the case has been made so far.

Sources said, after completion of medical check up on Monday, the victim girl had gone back to her house, since her health was not well.

Police although intended to take the victim girls to the spot of crime, it was not possible, since she reportedly had not recovered fully.

"We are investigating into the matter with our team based in Jharkhand now and we plan to take the victim girl to the spot, as soon as she recovers fully," said Railway SP AP Swain.

Significantly, the alleged rape of the engineering student had come to the fore on Monday after lodging of a complaint with the GRP, Rourkela. According to the allegation, the girl reportedly had come in trap of a person, while on her way to home, who had introduced himself as her brother's friend. The youth allegedly had taken her towards Chakradharpur instead of Jharsuguda after getting down at the Lotapahar station and raped her along with four other youths.

Trade unions' strike hits life in State

Train, vehicular communications affected

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

A two-day nationwide strike called by the trade unions to protest against the anti-labour policies of the NDA Government threw normal life out of gear across the State on its first day on Tuesday.

The agitators staged road blockades at various places and resorted to Rail Roko at several railway stations, thereby affecting movement of trains in Bhubaneswar, Cuttack, Brahmapur, Puri, Baleswar and other parts of the State.

The protesters also staged picketing on the National Highways in Bhubaneswar, Rourkela, Baleswar, Brahmapur and Cuttack.

While most of the shops and business establishments remained closed, banking services were also affected due to the bandh.

Movement of vehicles, especially heavy ones, came to a grinding halt across the State.

Commuters faced severe inconvenience due to the bandh while many passengers remained stranded at bus stands as buses remained off the roads.

In Bhubaneswar, city buses and auto-rickshaws stayed off the roads compounding the woes of commuters, who trudged by foot to reach their destinations. Same was the situation in Cuttack and other cities of the State as the protesters blocked road by burning tyres and picketing at important intersections.

Several thousand students appearing for the JEE Examinations in the State had a harrowing time due to the shutdown without any means of transport to reach the examination centres. Employees of different sectors including banking, education, coal, steel and telecom have extended their support to the strike.

The ruling Biju Janata Dal (BJD) and Congress also extended their support to the bandh in the State. However, there are no reports of any violence or untoward incidents during the shutdown.

Notably, the trade unions are protesting against the alleged "anti-labour, anti-people and anti-national policies" of the Narendra Modi Government.

In a release, the CITU said the BJP Government had made "desperate attempts" to make "gross pro-employer changes in labour laws" ignoring the viewpoints of trade unions.

The trade unions demanded fulfilment of a 12-point charter of demands including inflation control, minimum wages, social security schemes, stalling privatisation of Government enterprises, discontinuation of foreign investments in railways, banks and insurance sectors and jobs for unemployed youths among others.

Odisha gets licence for 3rd airport in R'kela

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Monday provided licence for operation of flights in the Rourkela airport

It's good news for flyers that Odisha has got the regulatory approval for a third airport, the location being Rourkela. Presently, the State has the Biju Patnaik International Airport (BPIA) in Bhubaneswar and the Veer Surendra Sai Airport at Jharsuguda.

The Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Monday provided licence for operation of flights in the Rourkela airport.

Earlier, officials of the Civil Aviation Department had reviewed the progress and preparedness of the airstrip at Rourkela and declared that the airport is ready to provide connectivity under the Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik (UDAN) scheme.

A memorandum of understanding was signed between the Steel Authority of India Limited (SAIL) and the Airport Authority of India (AAI) for operation and management of the airstrip in May last year.

The SAIL is the owner of the Rourkela airport; and signing an MoU with the AAI is mandatory for introduction of commercial flights from the airport.

In September last, the AAI had announced that three more airports would come up in Odisha in 2019. These are in Jeyapore, Rourkela and Utkela (Kalahandi).

The infrastructures of the three proposed airports are being developed at a total investment of over Rs 100 crore, AAI Member (Planning) AK Pathak had said.

State Budget use grows by 26%

--Mining revenue posts highest growth
--CS directs depts to avoid parking of funds

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Reviewing fiscal performances of various departments up to December 2018 at the All Secretaries meeting held here, Chief Secretary AP Padhi directed the departments to avoid parking of money in any account and draw only the actual expenditure from the budget allocation.

Padhi also directed the departments to focus on resource mobilisation and regularly update their programme-wise performance on the web portal. The departments were further asked to expedite disposal of the old litigations pending in several courts through a special drive.

Principal Secretary Finance Ashok Kumar Meena appraised that the budget utilisation in different programmes being executed through various departments recorded a growth of around 26 per cent by end of December 2018 with actual expenditure of Rs 39,820 crore. The total programme expenditure in social sector by end of December of current financial year has grown by 56 per cent over the corresponding period of 2017-18.

The actual expenditure under the head crossed Rs 21,245 crore against the last year spending of Rs 13,912 crore during the same period. The projects under the head are executed and monitored through the departments of Panchayati Raj and Drinking Water, Women and Child Development, School and Mass Education, ST and SC

Development, Health and Family Welfare, Higher Education, Skill Development and Technical Education and Social Security and Empowerment of Persons with Disabilities. The total expenditure in infrastructure sector has reached Rs 8,513 crore marking a growth of around 3 per cent over the corresponding period of last fiscal.

Similarly, the total expenditure in agriculture and allied sector has touched Rs 8,201 crore. The total expenditure has grown by 4 per cent in agriculture and farmers' empowerment, 41 per cent in fisheries and animal resources development, and 23 per cent in the activities under Cooperation Department.

Keeping pace with the expenditure, the total revenue generation has also grown around 19 per cent by end of December 2018. The total revenue generation by December end in last fiscal year (2017-18) was around Rs 25,023 crore against which current year collection up to same period has been Rs 29,665 crore. The revenue from non-tax sources have grown by 60 per cent with a total collection of Rs 8,556 crore, while the revenue from own-tax sources has grown by 7 per cent with total collection of Rs 21,109 crore.

The revenue generation from mining royalty and industrial water rate has increased around 70 per cent and 14 per cent respectively. The total collection from mining royalty has been around Rs 7,185 crore against last year's collection of Rs 4,217 crore up to December end.

Similarly, the revenue collection from industrial water has grown up to Rs 454 crore against last year's collection of Rs 406 crore during the same period. The revenue collection from duties and electricity has also grown by 73 per cent with a total collection of Rs 2,309 crore.

Funds crunch hits NREGA execution in Odisha

₹1,213 cr Central share yet to be released

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA), the biggest employment generating programme, has received a serious setback in the State due to slow release of funds by the Union Government.

The State is to get more than ₹ 1,213 crore of Central Share under the MGNREGA programme. Release of funds remains erratic despite repeated requests sent to the Ministry of Rural Development (MoRD), said officials.

In 2017-18, the MoRD approved ₹ 2,798.37 crore for Odisha out of which Central share was ₹ 2,534.38 and by March 31, 2018, the Centre released ₹ 2,198.49 crore. Till date, ₹ 335.89 crore Central share of the last fiscal is yet to be received by the State.

In 2018-19, the MoRD approved ₹ 3,054.53 crore and out of which Central Share is ₹ 2,766.38 crore and till date State has received Rs 1888.58 crore only. The Centre released 86 per cent of its share in 2017-18 and 68 per cent in 2018-19 and, thus, implementation of MGNREGA has been impacted.

Recently, the State Government has once again approached MoRD to release the balance 1213.69 crore.

While wage seekers are facing tough time, the State Government is utilising its own Revolving Fund of Rs 300 crore to weed out the problem.

Notably, the prime objective of MGNREGA is to ensure livelihood security to the households in rural areas by providing at least 100 days of guaranteed wage employment in every financial year.

While the Union Government releases 100 per cent towards unskilled wage expenditure; material spending is borne by both Centre and State on 75:25 basis.

Nikita's husband arrested, sent to jail

PNS ■ CUTTACK

Police on Tuesday arrested and forwarded to court Lipan Sahu, husband of TV serial artist Laxmipriya Behera alias Nikita, who died last week falling from the rooftop of her parents' house at Mahanadi Vihar here under the Chauliaganj police station.

"The couple entered into a scuffle following a quarrel, for which Nikita fell down from the terrace and died," said City DCP Akhileshwar Singh, adding that police were yet to establish whether the husband pushed to death his wife from the terrace.

Basing on circumstantial evidences and the statements given by the family members and neighbours, police found Lipan guilty in the death of the TV serial actress.

Lipan was remanded in judicial custody on the evening after he was denied bail by a lower court.

Police further said Lipan's parents are also booked under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act of 2005 as Nikita had earlier twice complained of torture and violence she faced while staying in her in-laws' house at Gopalpur here.

Rail Dak Seva stopped in City

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

State capital Bhubaneswar like Speed Post and Registered Post has been completely stopped in the State capital Bhubaneswar since last 15 days.

No remedial measures have been taken even after the situation being informed to Odisha Post Master General Santosh Kumar Kamila and the Bhubaneswar Railway Mail Service (RMS) Superintendent.

Hundreds of people suffer being deprived of the Rail Dak Seva daily.

Centre dragging feet on rail projects in State

For example, BBSR New Station Complex delayed

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Development of railway stations and setting up of multifunctional complexes in Odisha for amenities of passengers are facing uncertainty. While the State Government is pressing for these facilities, the Union Government is dragging its feet, for which ambitious projects are getting delayed.

Inordinate delay for signing a MoU by the Ministry of Railways (MoR) has resulted in cost escalation and hindrance in going ahead with construction of the proposed New Station Complex at the Bhubaneswar railway station.

While the State Government solely funding Rs 180-crore project to make the Bhubaneswar railway station a world-class facility, the Indian Railways is yet to give a date to sign an MoU.

The State Government recently approached the MoR to allow its officials to sign the requisite pact so that construction work would begin, but there is an eerie silence on the part of the Railways, said a State Government official.

Similarly, the proposal of setting up of a world-class facility at the Bhubaneswar New Complex as a second railway station for the State capital city has turned out as a cropper.

The Railways was to develop Bhubaneswar-Barang, a greenfield station, as a Model Station with world-class facilities. However, the Rail Vikash Nigam Limited (RVNL) has developed it as a small wayside station with very limited amenities for public.

While the State Government is trying to make the Bhubaneswar station a world-class one, making Bhubaneswar New, a way side rail station would not match to the requirement of Smart City Bhubaneswar, pointed out a senior State officer.

The Union Government had declared that 23 railway stations would be developed to international standards. However recently, the MoR has announced to re-develop 12 stations namely Puri, Bhadrak, Baleswar, Brahmapur, Cuttack, Jajpur-Keonjhar Road, Rayagada, Sambalpur, Jharsuguda, Rourkela and Bhubaneswar.

However, there is no announcement regarding the other 11 railway stations.

Similarly, it was announced to establish eight multifunctional complexes at Cuttack, Brahmapur, Jharsuguda, Rayagada, Banspani, Baleswar and Bhubaneswar with a Budget Hotel at Sambalpur. These proposals are yet to be taken up by the Rail Land Development Authority (RLDA).

THIS CONCERNS US

Computers, phones of judges under surveillance!

JAYANT DAS

During the last week, there have been three interesting developments relating to judiciary. The first: the Union Ministry of Law, turning down a proposal of a Parliamentary panel for increasing the retirement age of judges of High Courts and the Supreme Court. The second: another observation of a Parliamentary Standing Committee relating to reservation of for women as judges which was turned down as not permissible under the Constitution. The third: the disturbing claim by a lawyer before the Chief Justice of India that computers and telephones of judges and senior officials were under surveillance following a recent order allowing ten Central agencies to eavesdrop and penetrate the computer-held details.

The Law Ministry's view is there was no proposal as of now to increase the retirement age of SC judges from 65 to 67 and of the HC judges from 62 to 65. The Ministry responded to the Parliamentary Standing Committee's recommendation that raising the judges' retirement age would help retain the existing judges, which in turn would help reduce both vacancy and pendency of cases in the short run. This is inherently fallacious.

In August 2010, the then Union Law Minister Veerappa Moily introduced the Constitution (114th Amendment) Bill in the Lok Sabha. The Bill, which sought to increase the retirement age of HC judges to 65, could not be taken up for consideration and lapsed with the dissolution of the 15th Lok Sabha. The Committee report had raised concern over the large number of vacancies of judges in the HCs. The Ministry countered that the appointment of judges in the SC and HCs is a continuous and collaborative process of the judiciary and the executive. "While every effort is made to fill vacancies expeditiously, vacancies keep on arising on account of retirement, resignation or elevation of judges and increase in judge strength," the Ministry said. It further stated that the timeline for initiation of the proposals for filling up vacancies is rarely adhered to by the HCs.

As of now, out of a total approved strength of 1,079 judges in the 24 HCs, only 695 posts are filled. 35.5% of the posts are vacant. The Committee headed by BJP lawmaker Bhupender Yadav was of the view that to reduce pendency of cases, the existing vacancy positions of judges need to be filled immediately. As per the existing Memorandum of Procedure (MOP), the judge appointment proposal has to be initiated by a HC Chief Justice six months before the occurrence of a vacancy. Within six weeks, the Chief Minister/Governor has to recommend on the proposal received from the HC CJ; and within four weeks, the CJI/ SC

Collegium has to recommend the proposal to the Law Ministry.

There has been some amount of clamour for reservation for women in the appointment of judges. With the ongoing demand for women's reservation in the State legislatures and the Parliament, the Government of India, for the first time, has appropriately asserted that under the relevant provisions of the Constitution, there is no occasion for reservation on the basis of caste, class or gender.

The Law Ministry has disclosed that there was no proposal to introduce reservation for women in the higher judiciary. The Ministry's response came on an observation of a Parliamentary Standing Committee that only six women judges have been appointed in the SC till date. The Committee recommended that the Ministry take suitable measures to include more women judges in both higher and subordinate judiciary. The Committee reiterated its recommendation in its eighty-fourth Report on Demand for Grants that the strength of women judges should be around 50% of the total strength. The Ministry holds the correct view that judges are appointed in the SC and HCs as per Articles 124 and 217 of the Constitution, which did not provide for reservation for any caste, class or gender.

The Government has, however, been requesting the HC CJs that while sending proposals for appointment of judges, due consideration be given to suitable candidates belonging to the SCs, STs, OBCs, minorities and women. While such requests have been made to ensure a fair representation for different sections of society in the higher judiciary, the Ministry said there is no proposal for amendment of Articles 124 and 217.

Whereas the first two relate to the Union Ministry of Law asserting the right legal position, it has been a matter of concern when the CJI is told in the open court that computers, telephones of judges are under surveillance by Government officials. Whereas the first two developments have a legitimate basis, the present accusation by a lawyer is definitely disturbing. However much we may condemn the improper use of PILs if the present allegation is true, it is a matter relating to the true independence of judiciary. Whatever may be said of the judiciary about its weakness at the crucial hours, it has risen to the occasion and, of late, delivered several judgments with far-reaching consequences in preserving and effectuating the Fundamental Rights under our Constitution.

A lawyer made a sensational claim before CJI Ranjan Gogoi that computers and telephones of judges and "very senior" officials are under surveillance following the December 20 order allowing 10 Central agencies to snoop on people. Advocate ML Sharma sought an early hearing of his PIL petition challenging the Government's notification as violation of the Fundamental Right to privacy. CJI Gogoi first asked Sharma whether he had filed the PIL, and, if so, to pass over the case number. The CJI said the case would be listed in due course if filed. The CJI then enquired of Sharma whether he had paid a fine of Rs 50,000 which the court had previously levied on him for filing a frivolous PIL in a separate case. Sharma said he had paid the fine the very day the order was issued. He said his intentions in the case were genuine and in public interest. A verdict of a nine-judge Constitution Bench had directed the Government to protect informational privacy of every individual. It had directed the Government to carefully and sensitively balance individual privacy and the legitimate concerns of the state even if national security was at stake. The December 20 order allows ten Central agencies, from the Intelligence Bureau to the Central Board of Direct Taxes to the Cabinet Secretariat (RAW) to the Commissioner of Delhi Police, to intercept, monitor and access to "any information" generated, transmitted, received or stored in "any computer resources". The Government order is based on Section 69(1) of the Information Technology Act of 2000 and Rule 4 of the Information Technology (Procedure and Safeguards for Interception, Monitoring and Decryption of Information) Rules, 2009.

All these three issues are a matter of concern for all. There is hardly any justification to enhance the judges' retirement age. The vacancies have occurred not because of the retirement ages as such but because of the systemic failure in selection and appointment of judges of HCs and SC. Whereas the first two issues do not directly affect the independence of the system, the third one gives rise to concern among the citizens. The order for enabling snooping is prone to be abused to the peril of our democracy. It is, therefore, inevitable to curb this tendency through judicial action as the Government by and large is prone to disregard the right to privacy of citizens. The average citizen is assured with the affirmation of the view in the first two issues. The third one relating to independence of judiciary may have to be tackled by the judiciary itself with support and assistance from eminent lawyers and jurists. It must be appreciated that all the three are matters of concern for all of us!

In Balangir Hundreds of animals sacrificed at Sulia Yatra

PNS ■ BALANGIR
Much to the dismay of animal lovers, killing of hundreds of animals once again continued at the Sulia Yatra at Khairguda village in the district this year on Tuesday. Buffaloes, sheep, goats, hens and birds were sacrificed by the tribal devotees.
Notably, to propitiate the happiness to their families and the community as a whole, said a tribal leader Satyanaryan Bhoi.

"This year as the administration has put on no restrictions on killing of animals, people and devotees from the district and outside offered hens, goat, sheep and even buffaloes to the Goddess," added Bhoi.
"We were suffering from various diseases. We prayed to goddess Sulia and recovered from it and hence I am taking a buffalo to offer it to the Goddess," said a devotee J Meher of Athagaon village.
"Five platoons of police were deployed to maintain land order at Sulia Yatra. Moreover, we are also took steps to curb the incident of pick pocketing and other untoward incidents during the occasion," said Balangir SDPO KS Naik.

--Bharat Bandh-- Life in K'jhar, G'pati & Ganjam hit

BRAHMAPUR

Normal life was affected in Keonjhar, Gajapati and Ganjam districts on Tuesday on the first day of a two-day Bharat Bandh call given by the central trade unions against the Union Government's anti-worker policies.

The strike crippled normal life in the three districts as the public transport like buses remained off road causing inconvenience to thousands of passengers. Trucks and other heavy vehicles also remained off road and were seen lined up in many places, bringing the commercial transport to a grinding halt.
Besides, shops at major markets and business establishments downed their shutters in view of the Bandh call. Keonjhar district AITUC leaders Maheswar Rout, Bidyadhar Mahanta, Kailash Chandra Swain, Shrihari Ghana and Rangadhara Patra said that it was successful and thanked for the support.

Similarly, Gajapati CPI(M) leader Jona Subash said the Bandh was successful as it evoked spontaneous support from locals, small traders, business establishments and transport bodies.

No Odisha R-Day tableau in Delhi this year too

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

In a major disappointment for the people of Odisha, no tableau of the State will be displayed in the Republic Day parade at Rajpath in New Delhi on January 26.
A special committee of the Ministry of Defence has rejected all the five designs for the R-Day parade presented by the Information and Public Relations (I & PR) Department of the State Government.

According to reports, the Centre had asked all States to prepare tableaux for Republic Day parade with a theme on "Gandhi Connect" to commemorate the 150th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi this year. However, the expert committee formed under the Ministry of Defence did not give its approval to the five designs prepared by Odisha during its first meeting held recently.

The panel has selected tableaux from 14 States while the designs of States like Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Himachal Pradesh, Assam and Kerala have been rejected.
Last year also, the Centre had rejected Odisha's tableau that depicted Brahmapur's famous Thakurani Yatra.

5 killed, 16 injured in road mishaps in State

PNS ■ CUTTACK/ JAJPUR/

At least five persons were killed and 16 others sustained injuries in separate road accidents in Cuttack, Jajpur and Dhenkanal districts on Tuesday.
A speeding container truck hit an iron-laden stationary trailer from rear on NH-16 near Bainchua village in Cuttack district killing the driver and helper of the truck. Fire Services personnel and police recovered the bodies from the mangled vehicle using gas cutter and sent the victims to the SCB Medical College Hospital, Cuttack, for postmortem.
In another incident, a person died and 15 others were injured when a bus by which they were travelling rammed into a truck from rear on the Brahmani river bridge under the Dharmasala police limits in Jajpur district.

The bus, carrying more than 50 tourists from Dum Dum in West Bengal, was on its way to Puri when the mishap took place at around 5 am. The driver of the bus reportedly could not see the goods-laden truck due to low visibility owing to foggy conditions.
The helper of the bus fell off the vehicle after the collision and died on the spot. Police reached the place, rescued the injured ones and admitted them to the Dharmasala hospital for treatment. Both the vehicles were seized by police.
In Dhenkanal district, a tanker and a truck had a head-on collision on NH-55 near Baladiabandh Square killing both the drivers on the spot. The helper was critically injured and admitted to the District Headquarters Hospital.

PNS ■ ATHAGARH

An under-trial prisoner (UTP), Laxmidhar Behera (50) of Oranda village under the Gurudijhatia police limits who was lodged in Athagarh Sub-Jail since September 7, 2016, died of illness on Tuesday. He was suffering from gall bladder blockage leading to cancer and was admitted at the SCB Medical College Hospital, Cuttack. Jail Superintendent Sameer Sahoo said that the UTP was admitted to the SDH, Athagarh on December 31 last when he complained of the ailment. Later, he was referred to the SCB. Laxmidhar was remanded to jail by the Athagarh SDJM on charges of crime under Sections 498 (A), 323, 306,304 (B), 406 of IPC.

State Vigilance Actions in 2018 13% more trap cases registered, 40% more DA cases detected

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Despite continuous crack-downs on corrupt public servants, the State didn't get any relief from corruption in governance in 2018 compared to the preceding year.
This was revealed in the annual achievement report of the Vigilance Directorate which mentioned that as many as 182 trap cases were registered in 2018 compared to 161 in 2017, recording a rise of 13 per cent.
Besides, the Vigilance registered 94 disproportionate assets (DA) with detection of Rs 95.24 crore in 2018 against DA cases with detection of Rs 67.30 crore in 2017, recording a rise of 40 per cent.
The 182 trap cases were registered against 195 persons, including 192 public servants and three private persons. The accused officers were arrested in separate cases on charges of accepting bribe amounting to nearly Rs 16.90 lakh. The accused included 12 Class-I officers, 10 Class-II officers and 161 Class-III employees of different Government offices.
The 98 DA cases were registered against 145 persons, including 23 Class-I officers, 21 Class-II officers, 55 Class-III employees, 4 Class-IV employees and 42 private persons.

disposition as it will boost industrialisation move in the mining zone. Earlier, sponge iron-based steel complexes were not allowed by the State Government; and now, with policy change, the SLSWCA cleared the proposals for the two 0.53 MTPA integrated steel plants at Karakolha and Karakhendra in Keonjhar district.

While the RML will expand its existing sponge iron plant at Karakolha to an integrated steel plant (ISP) of capacity 0.53 MTPA, the mining major proposes to set up ISP of 0.53-MTPA capacity at Karakhendra.
The steel manufacturing process would be via pelletisation, sponge iron, induction furnace and rolling mill, etc. Products would be steel TMT, flat, round, wire rod, structural and alloy steel, said official sources.
RML Director Sidharth Rungta is spearheading the initiative for expanding the mining major's activities to steel manufacturing sector.
Way back in 2005, the RML had signed an MoU with the Government to set up a 2-MYPA ISP with an investment of Rs 2,275 crore in two phases.

While 1 MTPA ISP was to be set up at Kamando in Sundargarh, another was planned at Jharband in Dhenkanal, said sources. So far, the RML has installed a 0.6-MTPA steel mill in Sundargarh and reportedly work on rolling mill (TMT) of 0.217 MTPA is in progress. Partial production from Dhenkanal steel complex is expected by December, sources said.
Both the proposed steel complexes would generate job opportunities for more than 2,000 people.

XIMB holds leadership talk on human resource

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The Xavier Institute of Management, Bhubaneswar (XIMB) organised a leadership talk here recently for its students in which Fujitsu Consulting India Human Resource (HR) head Sumit Sabharwal spoke on "What organisations are looking from management graduates".
Sumit, who manages the end-to-end HR for close to 5,000 employees, elucidated the roles of an HR manager in multinational companies where people from various backgrounds amalgamate together to make the company successful as it is now.

He also tried to break some stereotypes usually attached to the HR department witty anecdotes and shed some light upon the importance of inclusivity, mutual respect, proactive decisions, and seamless coordination among various organisations which are facilitated by the HR department.

The meet helped the students understand what organisations expect from them and which all skills do they need to improve. An interactive question and answer session was also held wherein Sumit answered the questions posed by the students.

Action sought against B'pur City Hosp docs

PNS ■ BRAHMAPUR

The Manav Adhikar Surakhya Manch in its 76th Ghanta Yatra (cymbal rally) held here on Monday demanded that Health Minister Pratap Jena take stringent action against the City Hospital Orthopaedic Department Prof Sankarshan Patra and Dr Dillip Kumar Mishra for flouting Government rules.
The Manch in a memorandum to Jena alleged that both the doctors use to send the patients to private clinics and medicine stores instead of providing them the services under the Nidan scheme and at the Niramaya centre.
By telling the patients that the digital X-ray, ultrasound and other machines in the hospital are not functioning properly and claiming the reports as false, they use to send the patients to private clinics, the Manch alleged.

After the news that BJD supremo Naveen Patnaik has given a green signal to replace Ashish Chakraborty, present district president of the party, two names, Jitu Patnaik, former MLA, Champua and Hrishikesh Naik, MLA, Patna, are doing the rounds for the post.
While Jitu who had won the Assembly election as an independent candidate is said to be backed by Soumya

Sources revealed that although Kusha is suspended from the party but he is seen in all the meeting of BJD in the district

Ranjan Patanaik, Hrishikesh also is a long time heavyweight BJD leader of the area. If Jitu is given the command of the party in the district, then he has the chance to accommodate the Congress supporters with him as Jitu was himself an original Congress leader. Besides, in view of age factor, Hrishikesh is in a disadvantageous position compared to Jitu.
However, situation changed on January 5 when news came that Jitu, a mines owner, has been summoned to appear in the Keonjhar Vigilance Court in connection with a Rs 130 crore mining scam.

If such a situation persists, then the alternative is Kusha Apat who had lost the last election by a very low margin against Sana Mahakud.
But the problem with him is that he has been suspended from the party.
Sources revealed that although Kusha is suspended from the party but he is seen in all the meeting of BJD in the district. His supporters in the BJD claim since Kusha has no mining or any other case against him, he should be re-inducted in the BJD.

Bandh: MCL mining hit; loss mounts

Talcher coalfields most affected

PNS ■ SAMBALPUR

Efforts of the Mahanadi Coalfields Limited (MCL) to overcome production loss of 4.867 million tone in the current financial year due to disturbances in mining operations plummeted further with country-wide bandh as coal mining and supply operations remained totally paralysed in the company on Tuesday.
Even the loaded rail rakes were stopped from moving out of the MCLs coalfields.
The work stoppages due disturbances in project areas of MCL, which contributes 25 per cent to the total production of Coal India, have been highest during the current financial year.

As per the records, the 10 million tonne annual capacity Kaniha project in Talcher coalfields remained the most affected mine with work stoppage for around seven weeks during first 3 quarters of financial year 2018-19, costing production loss of over 1.3 million tonne.
It was followed by Hingula mine of same production capacity which suffered production loss due to stoppages of about 37 working days during the current fiscal, amounting to loss of around 1.03 million tonne coal production.
At the end of 3rd quarter till December 31, the 4 MT capacity Balram OCP remained paralysed up to 29 days, while stoppages of about eight working days were witnessed at 27 MT Bhubaneswari OCP, over nine working days at 16 MT

Bharatpur OCP, over eight working days at 16 MT Lingaraj OCP and around six working days at 6 MT Jagannath OCP.
The Ananta OCP of 6 MT annual capacity was the only mine in Talcher coalfields which did not suffer any disturbance during first three quarters of financial year 2019, and continues to exceed its target.
Similarly, mines in Ib Valley coalfields also suffered loss, although not up to the extent of Talcher coalfields. Major setback in Ib Valley coalfields was from the 21 MT capacity Lakhanpur OCP, which suffered the stoppage for more than a week up to the third quarter, resulting in 0.4 million tonne less production.

Similarly, the 13.7 MT Kulda OCP suffered working hour loss to the tune of more than five days, while its adjacent 2 MT Basundhara (West) suffered working hour loss of 14 days.
Having an ambitious target of 162.5 MT for the current fiscal, the company had planned for a record production of 100 MT from Talcher coalfields alone to achieve the target, with rest coming from mines in Ib Valley coalfields.

Electricity staff hold stir across State

On several demands

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The electricity employees and engineers of Odisha took out rallies at different parts of the State, including Bhubaneswar, with a number of demands.

The electricity engineers and employees in all States throughout India are resorting to cease work on January 8 and 9 agitating under the banner of the National Coordination Committee of Electricity Employees and Engineers (NCCOEEE).

At the call of the NCCOEEE and under the banner of Joint Forum of Odisha Electricity Employees and Engineers (JFEEE), the electricity employees and engineers of Odisha are also taking part in the stir.

They demanded to stop privatisation and franchisee system in, electricity distribution, withdraw Electricity Bill 2018, integrate all electricity utilities and form Odisha State Electricity Board Limited, bring all employees recruited after 2004 under the ambit of old pension scheme, regularize service of all outsourced and contractual employees and engineers engaged in regular work, remove anomalies in pay revision and immediate payment of arrears pay.

At a demonstration held at PMG Square here, the leaders said in spite of complete failure of privatisation and franchisee system, there is a move to privatise the Cesu, Nesco, Wesco and Southco.

They said that if the Electricity Bill 2018 is passed in Parliament, the private companies will be given supply and tariff collections charge while the Government firm will be entrusted to construct and maintain network. The private companies will not have the obligation to give supply to all consumers and will in essence choose creamy customers leaving practically rural customers.

This will lead to profit for private company and loss for Government company. While the Government will invest for infrastructure, benefit will be reaped by private companies, they added.

They informed that in proposed tariff policy, cross subsidy will be phased out leading to tariff hike for domestic consumers.

Against regular nature work, out sourced and contractual workers and engineers are being engaged at low wages, which is affecting quality of work, they alleged.

B'garh Dhanu Yatra to begin from January 11

Hectic preparations on

PNS ■ BARGARH

The stage is set for the famous 11-day annual Dhanu Yatra which will begin on January 11 at Bargarh. Krishna Leela and Mathura Vijay is the central theme of the festival and the day one would begin with wedding of King Kansa's sister Devaki with Basudev. After the marriage, Kansa moves towards the Darbar of his father King Ugrasen and dethrones him to capture the kingdom. The yatra ends with Kansa Badha at the hands of Lord Krishna.

On the opening day, a huge colourful procession, accompanied by folk dancers and musicians, will reach the Kansa darbar at Hatpada from the Ma Samaleswari temple.

During the yatra, the district headquarters town Bargarh turns into a virtual Mathura nagari of the mythology with Kansa ruling the roost.

Dressed in full regalia he moves round the town on a caparisoned elephant issuing order and pulling up errant officials, including the Collectors and the top police personnel.

For the second time, the organisers have selected Bhubaneswar Pradhan to perform the role of Kansa. He was selected among 23 strong aspirants last year after a stiff challenge of senior artists.

The Dhanu Yatra is considered to be the biggest open air theatre in the world with the whole town decked up as Mathura and everybody considered themselves as an actors. Since the portrayal of Kansa is the main attraction of the festival, every artist worth his salt aspires to essay the role.

The geographical setting of Bargarh municipal limits also conforms to Mathura where King Kansa ruled. The river Jeera represents the Yamuna across which is situated Ambapali village which turns into Gopapur where Krishna was brought up.

Meanwhile, massive preparations have been made by the district administration and the Dhanu Yatra Mahotsav Samiti for smooth celebration of the annual festival. According to Sureswara Satpathy, president of the organising committee, various State level cultural troupes, including the locals, will participate in the cultural events organised at the main venue Hatpada.

To add colour to the festival, a State-level handloom exhibition-cum-sale will be held by Samalpuri Bastralaya and the Development Commissioner of Handloom. Weavers from Boudh, Dhenkanal, Balangir, Khordha and Brahmapur have arrived to put up their handloom products in the makeshift stalls.

BJD hoodwinking farmers with false data: PCC chief

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Pradesh Congress Committee president Niranjan Patnaik on Tuesday alleged that farmers have been deprived of minimum facilities and Government cooperation during the last 19 years in the State.

"To earn livelihood, about 3 lakh farmers are compelled to work as bonded labourers in Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat and other States every year. But the State Government is announcing schemes after schemes for farmers, daily labourers and common people in pen and paper only and trying to take the pride by giving false data," Patnaik alleged.

He alleged that the KALLA is a drama before election. "Now, they are demanding MSP hike as well as Special Category Status for the State at New Delhi. Odisha could have gained if the BJD would have extended conditional support to the BJP during President and Vice President elections. But that was not done and they supported each other on many issues. Now, the BJD is trying to make the Odia people fool," alleged the PCC chief.

'Detain AP officers entering Kotia'

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

Utkal Samilani Mancheswar branch president Dillip Dasharma has condemned the illegal entry of Andhra Pradesh leaders and officials repeatedly into Kotia gram panchayat in Pottangi block of Koraput district.

He said in a statement on Tuesday that it is very unfortunate that Andhra Pradesh officials are regularly intruding into Kotia.

The Sammilani in 2013 along with the district administration and local leaders had protested against the Andhra Pradesh Government's move of building roads and houses and providing electricity under its different schemes in Kotia gram panchayat.

The Sammilani demanded that Odisha police detain the leaders and officials of AP entering illegally into the State border and take action against them.

MKCG Nirayamaya centre, drug stores raided

Dist admin teams find irregularities

Delayed agri projects cost Govt ₹1.2L cr

Around 100 irrigation-related projects pending for about two decades have cost Govt exchequer heavily

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

As many as 100 irrigation-related projects pending for about two decades now due to several issues, including political, have cost the Government exchequer a mind-boggling ₹1,20,772.05 crore. These projects include some of the famous and significant ones like Sardar Sarovar in Gujarat, Indira Sagar Polavaram project in Andhra Pradesh, Gosikhand irrigation project in Maharashtra, Shahipur Kandi dam in Punjab, Saryu Nahar Pariyojna in Uttar Pradesh, Teesta Barrage in West Bengal, Dhansiri project in Assam, Kosi Barrage in Bihar, Gumani Barrage in Jharkhand and Rukura Indira Irrigation project in Odisha.

A performance audit of the Accelerated Irrigation

These projects include — Sardar Sarovar in Gujarat, Indira Sagar Polavaram project in Andhra Pradesh, Gosikhand irrigation project in Maharashtra, Shahipur Kandi dam in Punjab, Saryu Nahar Pariyojna in Uttar Pradesh, Teesta Barrage in West Bengal, Dhansiri project in Assam, Kosi Barrage in Bihar, Gumani Barrage in Jharkhand and Rukura Indira Irrigation project in Odisha

Benefit Programme (AIBP) by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India (CAG) revealed several deficiencies in the planning, implementation and monitoring of the scheme. The report was tabled in Parliament on Tuesday.

The performance audit revealed that the total cost overrun in 84 major and medium irrigation projects, including 16 completed and 68 ongoing projects was ₹1,20,772.05 crore which was 295 per cent of their original cost.

According to performance audit, the cost of Sardar Sarovar project was revised from ₹39,240.45 crore in May 2010 to ₹54,772.94 crore with stipulated completion by March 2020. This led to an increase in project cost by ₹15,532.49 crore (40 per cent) of which increase of ₹5,722.29 crore alone was attributable to price escalation and ₹6,384.70 crore was due to change in design and inclusion of additional requirements.

The cost Krishna Koyana LIS of Maharashtra was revised at 2013-14 price level from ₹2,224.76 crore to ₹4,959.91 crore. This led to an increase in project cost by ₹2,735.15 crore (122 per cent) of which ₹244.64 crore alone was attributable to price escalation, ₹282.77 crore was due to other causes and ₹41.51 crore was due to change in design.

The cost of Chokha Rao project in Telangana was revised from ₹6,016 crore to ₹13,445.44 crore in 2017. This led to an increase in project cost by ₹7,429.44 crore (123 per cent) due to changes in the scope of work. The cost of Indiramma flood canal in Telangana was revised from ₹1,331.30 crore to ₹5,940.09 crore in 2016 due to change in Standard Schedule of Rates, deviation in the project execution and changes in the scope of work.

Velligallu of Andhra Pradesh, Lower Wardha, Wang and Krishna Koyana LIS of Maharashtra were delayed ranging from four to 25 years in approval of Detailed Projects Reports. These projects were finally approved for a total amount of ₹7,498.77 crore. The canal length of 3,420 metre of Kachnari Diversion scheme of Madhya Pradesh could not be constructed due to non-availability of actual command area (CCA of 220 ha) on site during execution. This showed that the DPR had not correctly assessed the availability of command area.

The work of concrete lining of the Madhya Ganga Canal project sanctioned in July 2007 at a cost of ₹117.87 crore was stopped after completion of work up to 31.55 km out of 66.20 km on the pretext of affecting the groundwater recharge. "This showed that the requirement and feasibility of providing concrete lining had not been adequately analysed at the DPR stage leading to avoidable expenditure on bed lining," it said.

Of the 73 delayed MI schemes, 40 minor projects were completed after delays ranging from two months to 12 years and 33 were ongoing with time overrun ranging from one month to five years.

As per audit report, ₹179 crore incurred on repairs and maintenance of the Sardar Sarovar Canal network was booked by the project authorities during April 2010 to March 2017 under AIBP.

The CAG performance audit notes that the projects have been languishing due to abject mis-governance apart from land acquisition issues, the projects has hit inter-state coordination, financial, rehabilitation and resettlement walls.

Opp, Govt lock horns over RS Session extension

A view of the Rajya Sabha Session on Tuesday

PTI

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Opposition and Government on Tuesday locked horns over the decision of the latter to extend the functioning of the Rajya Sabha by a day to facilitate the passage of the 10 per cent reservation earmarked for the economically backward upper castes.

While the Centre claimed that it is the authority of the Government and the Chairman of the House to extend the sittings, the Opposition insisted that they should have been consulted before making the announcement.

Both sides during the day held several rounds of meetings amid setting a record sort of by six adjournments of the Upper House to resolve the issue but ended with Deputy Chairman Hariwansh adjourning to meet on Wednesday prompting the Opposition members to sit in protest in the House even after adjournment for the day.

Opposition parties led by Leader of Opposition Ghulam Nabi Azad also held a protest in front of the Mahatma Gandhi statue late evening while the Lok Sabha continued to discuss and debate the proposed Quota Bill.

Leaders of Opposition parties in the Rajya Sabha and the Leader of the House discussed the extension of the ongoing Winter Session by one more day with Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu who in turn discussed the issue with the Leader of the House and Finance Minister Arun Jaitley. Jaitley asserted that it was the prerogative of the Government to call, advance, extend Session of the Parliament or of either of the two Houses. He referred to Rule 12 of the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business in the Council of States (Rajya Sabha) which states "The Council shall sit on such dates as the Chairman, having regard to the state of business of the Council, may from time to time direct."

During the discussion with the Opposition leaders, Minister of State for Parliamentary Affairs Vijay Goel pointed out to the precedents in 2011 and 2013 when the Session of the House was extended similarly towards the fag end of the Session.

Amid the ruckus, Health Minister JP Nadda moved The Indian Medical Council (Amendment) Bill, 2018, for consideration and passage after T Subbarami Reddy could not move the statutory resolution disapproving the Companies (Amendment) Ordinance. This move was also protested Jairam Ramesh and TMC Derek O'Brien even reached the podium and sought to know how this matter could be taken when House was not in order.

The House also witnessed unruly scenes, with almost entire Opposition on its feet over alleged misuse of CBI and demand for discussion on the issue under rule 267 suspending the listed business.

No one can save Modi from Rafale probe, says Rahul

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Congress president Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday said no one can save Prime Minister Narendra Modi from Rafale investigation as the Supreme Court has reinstated the CBI chief who was unceremoniously removed by the Modi Government.

Speaking to media outside Parliament, Rahul Gandhi said the CBI chief was "oust" at 1 am as he was about to begin an investigation into the Rafale jet agreement and Prime Minister Modi and his Government cannot run away from a probe into the deal.

He said the entire nation will know "without a shadow of doubt" that he has taken ₹30,000 crore of people's money and given it to his "friend" Anil Ambani, Rahul Gandhi said on his first reaction to the Supreme Court order for CBI Director Alok Verma.

"The CBI chief was ousted at 1 am in the night because he was about to begin a probe into the Rafale deal. The CBI chief has been reinstated and we have got some relief. Now let's see what happens. They cannot run away from Rafale, it is impossible. Modi ji ran away from a debate. He should have discussed with us the Rafale issue, in the people's court. No one can save them from Rafale, as Rafale is the truth. No one can run away from the truth," he said.

Shortly after Verma was sent on leave late in October, Rahul had accused Modi of allegedly removing him in an attempt to stop the officer from investigating the Rafale "scam." The party has often pressed the charge against the Government since. It had also said that divesting Verma of his statutory powers abruptly — amid a feud with his deputy Rakesh Asthana — was illegal.

The Congress party has been targeting Modi on the deal alleging the price of each Rafale aircraft has sharply increased from ₹526 crore, negotiated by the previous UPA Government, to ₹1,600 crore and that the contract will help Anil Ambani get ₹30,000 crore benefit through off-set contract. Ambani too has rejected the charges.

Modi care: Guidelines for pvt investments for opening new hospitals in cities issued

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Almost four months after it launched the Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (PMJAY) providing hospitalisation cover of up to ₹5 lakh per family per year from poor strata, the Centre has now issued broad guidelines for private investments in setting up of hospitals in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities for smooth functioning of the scheme.

The PMJAY was launched from September 23, 2018, for providing hospitalisation cover of up to ₹5 lakh per family per year to over 10 crore poor and the deprived families (approx. 50 crore people) in the empanelled hospitals throughout the country.

So far 33 States/UTs have signed MOU for implementing PMJAY out of which 29 have already launched the scheme.

"The objective of the broad guidelines is to improve the supply of healthcare services in the underserved areas to ensure maximum utilisation of the benefits under PMJAY and to improve the demand for quality healthcare services at affordable prices to general public," said a senior official from the Union Health Ministry.

As per the guidelines, he said that under model I, a doctor owned hospital can have 30 to 50 beds, under model II is doctor manager partnership-multispecialty (100 beds) while under model III, multispecialty hospital can have 100 beds or more.

To incentivise private sector, incentives will be provided during land allotment, various clearances will be facilitated with specific timelines among others.

While private sector will have the responsibility to build, design, finance, manage operate and maintain with quality standards, besides taking market risk and provide services at PMJAY rates, the Government will be entrusted the task of ensuring sufficient unencumbered land on lease or through bidding, facilitate various permissions and clearances through special window with timelines, compulsory empanelment of the hospitals for PMJAY and other Government scheme, ensure timely payments for services.

Protect zoo birds against highly contagious viral: CZA

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Following death of peacocks, chicken and ducks due to avian influenza (H5N1) in Munger and Puri districts in Bihar and Odisha respectively, the Central Zoo Authority (CZA) has alerted all zoos in the country to protect the birds in captivity against the highly contagious viral disease which affects only members of the birds family.

The virus is transmitted mainly through migratory birds. But even these winged beauties are prone to virus threat.

Issuing alert in this regard, CZA member secretary Dr Anup Kumar Nayak said that the zoos have also been asked to follow "standards, guidelines and protocol on disease diagnosis and cure of wild animals in Indian Zoos," published by the CZA in collaboration with the Indian Veterinary Institute. CZA is autonomous body of the Central Government responsible for oversight of zoos across the States.

The State authorities have also been advised to improve bio-security measures in the zoos to avoid spread of the viral disease among captive animals.

Patna's Sanjay Gandhi Zoo director Amit Kumar said the zoo will remain closed for public till situation is under control. The zoo was closed after strains of avian influenza virus were found in six dead peacocks last December. The samples of the second lot of dead birds have been sent to a lab and reports are awaited, he added.

The move aims to minimize the possibility of catching the infection among birds. "The zoo is being thoroughly sanitised. The zoo will be opened for visitors only after we get the negative reports from the lab where samples of the birds are being sent time to time as per the CZA protocol," said Kumar.

In few parts of Odisha too, bird flu has taken its toll on poultry birds. The State Government has declared areas in Kendrapara district bird flu hit and have vaccinated 35,000 poultry birds. As a precautionary measure, the Naveen Patnaik Government has asked schools and Anganwadi Centres not to provide eggs to children. Similarly, sale of eggs and chicken has been banned in Krushna Prasad block for next few days, said an official from the State Government.

Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu met Congress president Rahul Gandhi at latter's residence in New Delhi and is learnt to have discussed plans of uniting all Opposition parties against the BJP. Naidu also met Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, NCP's Sharad Pawar and NC leader Abdullah. Ever since the TDP moved out of the NDA, Naidu has been seeking to forge an anti-BJP front

SC sets aside Delhi HC's Division Bench order invalidating Monsanto's patent on BT cotton seeds

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday set aside an order of the division bench of the Delhi High Court which had invalidated the patent right of US-based agro major Monsanto Technology over BT cotton seeds for its Bollgard technology.

The apex court restored the order of the single judge Bench of the high court which was not seized of the issue of patent but had dealt with the issue of trademark infringement claimed by Monsanto over the BT cotton seeds by Nuziveedu Seeds Ltd.

Deciding appeal of Monsanto, Bench of Justices RF Nariman and Navin Sinha said, "Order of division Bench (of Delhi High Court) is set aside. The order of single judge dated March 28, 2017, is restored and suit is remanded to single judge for disposal in accordance with law. PTI

SC seeks Bengal Govt's response on BJP plea seeking permission for rath yatra

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday sought response from the West Bengal Government on a plea by the BJP seeking permission to take out rath yatra in the State.

The party's West Bengal unit has challenged the December 21 order of a Division Bench of the Calcutta High Court, which had set aside the order of a single-judge bench allowing the procession.

A Bench comprising justices L Nageswara Rao and SK Kaul also asked the BJP state unit to submit a revised plan for its 'save democracy rally' for consideration by the State Government. The Bench posted the matter for hearing on January 15.

"In the meanwhile, the petitioner (BJP) will submit a revised schedule of the Rath Yatra/Ganantra Bachao Yatra/Chetna Yatra to the respondent — State Government, during the course of the day. The State Government shall consider the same," the order said.

The BJP has now decided to cut short its 40-day programme to 20 and the fresh yatras would start from Bahrampur, Diamond Harbour, Midnapore and Kolkata North Lok Sabha constituencies, a lawyer associated with the matter said, adding the decision was taken in view of the upcoming school examinations and the 2019 general elections. Assessment order passed on taxes of Rahul, Sonia but not given effect, I-T informs SC

New Delhi: The Income Tax department informed the Supreme Court on Tuesday that an assessment order (AO) with respect to the tax of top Congress leaders Rahul Gandhi and Sonia Gandhi for 2011-12 in connection with the National Herald case has been passed but not being given effect.

The top court allowed the AO, passed on December 31, 2018 raising the tax demand from Congress president Rahul, his mother Sonia and others, to be placed on record after the I-T department insisted on it but said that it would not form any opinion on the merits of the case on its basis.

A Bench of Justices AK Sikri, S Abdul Nazeer and MR Shah also asked Sonia and Rahul to file an affidavit and place on record in four weeks a CBDT circular which was issued on December 31, 2018, to clarify about taxes on valuations, but was recalled on January 4.

The court asked the I-T department to file its reply to the affidavit and the circular to be filed by the Congress leaders within a week thereafter. PTI

Iran ready to use influence over Taliban to bring peace to Af: Diplomatic sources

New Delhi: In case India wants to use Iran's channels of communication with the Taliban, then Tehran will be open to such a proposition, Iranian diplomatic sources have said, at a time when there was renewed focus on peace and reconciliation process in Afghanistan.

They said though Iran's influence over the Taliban was not comparable to that of Pakistan, still it would try to use the clout over the terror outfit for bringing peace and stability in the war-torn country.

Major powers like the US and Russia have been reaching out to the Taliban as part of efforts to push the stalled Afghan peace process.

The issue of peace and reconciliation in Afghanistan is likely to figure during talks between External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj and her Iranian counterpart Javad Zarif on Wednesday.

In a significant move, India had sent two former diplomats in "non official" capacity to a conference on Afghan peace process in Moscow in November which was attended by a high-level Taliban delegation.

The conference organised by Russia was attended by representatives of Afghanistan as well as from several other countries, including the US, Pakistan and China.

The Iranian sources said Tehran was ready to use its influence over Taliban on behalf of the Afghan government. If India wants Tehran's channels of communication with the militant outfit, we are always open to do that, they said.

India has been maintaining a policy of not engaging with Taliban and pressing for an Afghan-owned and Afghan-led peace initiative to bring peace and stability in the war-ravaged country. The Iranian sources said a Taliban-dominated Afghanistan will be security challenge to Iran, India, but it will be an existential threat to Pakistan.

Iran is learnt to have conveyed its view to Islamabad about how Taliban can be real threat to its existence. PTI

SC paves way for re-opening of Sterlite plant in Tuticorin

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday paved the way for the re-opening of Vedanta's Sterlite copper plant in Tuticorin, which was at the centre of massive protests over pollution concerns, by refusing to stay the green tribunal order that had set aside the Tamil Nadu Government's decision to close it.

The apex court also stayed the December 21, 2018 decision of the Madurai Bench of Madras High Court which had ordered status quo in respect of re-opening the plant.

"The impugned order dated December 21, 2018 passed by the Madurai Bench of the Madras High Court shall remain stayed," a bench comprising Justices RF Nariman and Navin Sinha said.

"The directions that have been passed by the National Green Tribunal, by its judgment dated December 15, 2018, will continue to subsist and will be subject to the ultimate outcome of the appeal," it said. The top court also sought response from Vedanta on the state Government's appeal against the National Green Tribunal (NGT) order to reopen the plant.

The State had moved the top court saying that the NGT had "erroneously" set aside various orders passed by the Tamil Nadu Pollution Control Board (TNPCB) last year with regard to the Sterlite plant. It had said the tribunal had consequentially directed the TNPCB to pass fresh orders of renewal of consent and issue authorisation to handle hazardous substances to the Vedanta Limited.

Lok Sabha gives consent to DNA Bill

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Lok Sabha on Wednesday passed a Bill that provides for regulation of use and application of Deoxyribonucleic Acid (DNA) technology for establishing the identity of certain categories of persons, including offenders, victims, suspects and undertrials.

The DNA Technology (Use and Application) Regulation Bill, 2018 regulates the use the technology to establish the identity of persons in respect of criminal matters listed and civil matters such as parentage disputes, emigration or immigration, and transplantation of human organs.

Replying to the debate, Science and Technology Minister Harsh Vardhan said the DNA testing is being done on persons comprising a minuscule per centage of less than one per cent.

On concerns of members on the misuse of the Bill, the Minister said the misuse can happen of anything at any level. Even the blood sample collected by the clinical laboratories has the potential of misuse. Terming it a comprehensive Bill, he said it has taken a long duration of 14-15 years to bring this bill to this stage.

The Bill provides for establishment of a National DNA Data Bank and Regional DNA

Data Banks.

Every Data Bank will maintain the indices including crime scene index, suspects' or undertrials' index and offenders' index. The Bill also provides for seeking consent of the individual when DNA profiling is used in criminal investigations and identifying missing persons. However, consent requirements have not been specified in case of DNA profiling for civil matters.

Participating in the debate on the Bill Sanjay Jaiswal (BJP) said that future of the world is on the DNA Technology while Kalyan Banerjee (TMC) was of the view that the Bill was very good for the criminal justice system, civil justice system and more so for the people of the country.

He also sought to know that if any investigative agency which is collecting the DNA abuses the power, what steps should be taken against that person under the law.

NK Premachandran (RSP) raised concerns about the Bill which includes Right to Privacy.

He was of the view that some legislature was required so that the DNA profile taken from the people was not misused.

Premachandran also said that the Bill should be sent to a Parliamentary Standing Committee.

DMK seeks resolution against 10% quota Bill

Economic backwardness is against Constitution, says MK Stalin

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI
The DMK, Tamil Nadu's principal Opposition party, came out on Tuesday against the decision of the Narendra Modi-led Union Government to provide 10 per cent quota in education and jobs to the economically weaker sections of the society.
DMK president M K Stalin, who is also the Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly, demanded the Tamil Nadu House to pass a resolution condemning the move. "The BJP is playing a dangerous game with the backward classes and others with the decision to set apart 10 per cent quota for the economically weaker sections. This which made 27 per cent quota for Other Backward Communities in central government jobs.

But Tamil Nadu Minister for administrative reforms D Jayakumar replied that it was a policy decision of the Union Government and nothing could be done at this stage. "We have to wait till the fine print is sent to the State Governments by the Centre. Then only we will be able to make any comments on the proposed move," said Jayakumar.
Interestingly, Tamil Nadu has 69 per cent reservation policy though the national limit is 50 per cent. The 10 per cent quota, if implemented in Tamil Nadu will hike the reservation quota to 79 per cent in the State leaving just 21 per cent for the general category.
Except for Brahmins, and some of the few sub-sects in the Hindu religion, all communities in the State have been incorporated as backward communities and other backward communities because of the political influence wielded by the community leaders.

CONTRADICTION IN J&K POLITICS Coalition Govt better than single party: Mufti

Srinagar: PDP president Mehbooba Mufti on Tuesday said coalition Governments deliver better results than single-party majority regimes, citing the example of the BJP-led Government at the Centre.
The Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) president was reacting to National Conference (NC) leader Omar Abdullah's statement asking people of Jammu & Kashmir to give a clear mandate to any one party.
"Brute majority has had a history of sell outs in J&K. With 60 members NC sold out power houses, brought Ikhwan, task force, POTA," Mehbooba tweeted.
"Even earlier when NC had absolute majority and unqualified political mandate it only yielded powers, resources of state to Centre," she said.
The former Chief Minister further said the coalition led by her father Mufti Mohammad Sayeed in the State had established "a high bar of achievements — opening of cross LOC roads (being) the singular political achievement post-independence".
She said post-Indira Gandhi era, coalition Governments had delivered better results than single party rule.

"Even at national level it seems post Indira Gandhi, coalition Governments have delivered better than majority party rule e.g. Vajpayee coalition, UPA-1 compared to present BJP single party rule," she said.
"Recall Narisimarao (sic) minority Government which brought the country out of its worst economic crisis and introduced economic liberalisation," she added in the tweet.
Speaking at a function in Jammu on Monday, Abdullah had said that "experiment of coalitions" had not worked well in J&K.

"I want people of the State to elect a single party Government in Jammu & Kashmir, keeping in view the challenges and magnitude of problems faced by the people," he had said.
However, Mehbooba's Finance Minister Altaf Bukhari — who does not associate himself with the PDP anymore — supported Omar's call for the return of one party rule in the State.
"I personally believe that Kashmir has suffered a lot because of coalition politics that started since 2002. The results of coming Assembly elections shall have a huge bearing on the stability and all round development of the State," Bukhari said in a statement.
I leave it to the conscience of people to choose and vote for any political party of their choice that can safeguard the state's socio-political interests and deliver the best, the former MLA from Amirkadal said.
Bukhari further said that coalition politics results in a chaotic atmosphere and more often leads to "unstable Governments that hugely affects the policy making and decisions of Government". PTI

Omar launches poll campaign

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU
Former J&K Chief Minister Omar Abdullah on Tuesday launched his party's poll campaign from Jammu with the slogan, "HAL hi Hal hai".
The election symbol of the party, as approved by the Election Commission, is 'plough' (HAL in chaste hindi).
Addressing a day-long youth convention here at party headquarters, Omar told youth wing delegates, "gear up for the crucial polls ahead. The fight is not going to be easy. You have to work hard from now onwards to win the majority seats. We need 45 seats to form our own Government. We can win these seats by working as a team and helping each other in their constituencies".
Positioning himself as a 'mature' leader of the party he said, "I am a changed man now. I am no longer the same Omar Abdullah who ruled the state for six long years".
"Stop calling me a youth leader. I am going to celebrate my 50th birthday next year. My hair is grey now and I am also using reading glasses".
Omar also made a passionate appeal to the state electorate to give him another opportunity to rule the state. He said, you have tried various coalition Governments in the state. Give me one more chance to serve you.
Sharing his serious concern over growing inclination among Jammu & Kashmir youth towards militancy, Omar said shrinking of space has pushed them to the wall.

Rahul Gandhi to address farmers' rally in Rajasthan

Jaipur: Congress president Rahul Gandhi will on Wednesday address a farmers' rally here, a senior party leader said.
It will be the Gandhi scion's first public meeting after Congress formed the Government in the State and initiated steps to fulfil its promise of waiving off farmer loans.
The Congress-led Government in Rajasthan had on December 19, 2018 announced a waiver for short term farm loans up to ₹2 lakh and constituted a committee to decide the eligibility criteria.

The announcement was in line with the Congress chief's pre-poll announcement to waive farm loans.
"Promise of waiving off loans of farmers was a resolution of the Congress and the Government has fulfilled its promise after coming to power," the party's in-charge for political affairs in Rajasthan, Avinash Pande said.
"Congress president will be addressing a public meeting where farmers will express their gratitude," he added. PTI

Resign and face fresh poll, AGP dares BJP

Guwahati: A day after pulling out of the BJP-led Government in Assam over the Citizenship Amendment Bill, the AGP on Tuesday demanded the resignation of Chief Minister Sarbananda Sonowal and dared the saffron party to face fresh polls.
The Sonowal Government has no moral right to continue and if the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) has the courage, it should face fresh election, senior Asom Gana Parishad (AGP) leader and former chief minister Prafulla Kumar Mahanta said here.
"The BJP-led Government was formed in Assam on the basis of a pre-poll alliance with the AGP. As this alliance no longer exists now, we demand that the current Assam Government be dissolved," Mahanta told reporters.
Accusing the BJP of adopting an anti-Assam policy, Mahanta said, "Let the BJP form a new Government alone. We will welcome that".
Withdrawal of the AGP, which has 14 MLAs in the 126-member Assembly, would not have any immediate effect on the future of the Sarbananda Sonowal-led Government that still has the backing of 74 MLAs.

The BJP has 61 members and the party has support from 12 MLAs of the Bodoland People's Front and the sole Independent member.
The Opposition Congress and the All India United Democratic Front (AIUDF) have 25 and 13 members respectively.
"The BJP won many seats in the Assembly elections (in 2016) only due to the AGP. The AGP protested against the bill ever since it was proposed," the AGP founder said.

10% quota only to divert attention from Rafale: AP CM

Amaravati: Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu on Tuesday said the announcement of the Centre providing for 10 per cent reservation for the economically backward people was made in view of the Lok Sabha polls and also to divert the attention from the alleged Rafale scam.
"However, we support the 10 per cent reservation for the economically backward," the Chief Minister said at a public meeting at Kosgi village in Kurnool district, as part of the Jannabhoomi programme.
"At the same time, we sought inclusion of Valmiki community in the ST list, washermen community in the SC list and extension of reservation for Kapus under the backward castes quota," he said while recalling that the state legislature had passed bills in this regard and sent them to the Centre for approval.

The Chief Minister announced a grant of ₹100 crore for the benefit of the Valmiki community.
Meanwhile, TDP politburo member and State Finance Minister Yanamala Ramakrishnu, in a statement, questioned the sincerity of the BJP in extending the 10 per cent reservation for the economically backward as the national party was fundamentally opposed to reservations.
He said, "It was the BJP that provoked the anti-Mandal protests when V P Singh was the Prime Minister."
The national party brought the 10 per cent reservation bill only because of the defeat in the recent Assembly polls in five states, he said, adding that the party has lost its credibility among the people. PTI

Lukewarm response to Bharat Bandh in Bengal

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

With the Trinamool Congress (TMC) Government taking a "strong stance against bandh culture", the first day of Left trade unions-sponsored 2-day Bharat Bandh evoked mixed response on Tuesday in Bengal.

While life remained nearly normal in Kolkata reports from districts, particularly industrial towns of Barrackpore, Howrah, Hooghly and Durgapur-Asansol region witnessed low attendance of workers though the factories remained open, sources said.

In Kolkata buses, metro railways and ferry services functioned near-normally presenting a diametrically opposite picture than what it used to be like even a decade ago. While State Government offices saw near total presence of employees, central government offices and banks remained completely closed apparently giving people a trying time.

Railway services particularly the suburban train services were partially affected with the strikers blocking tracks and disrupting power supply at many places in Howrah and Sealdah Division. Notwithstanding a near-normal picture in most parts of the State strikers clashed with Trinamool supporters and the police at various places even as they vandalised buses and other vehicles at Jadavpur, Sodepur, Rishra, Uttarpara, Barasat, Basirhat, Siliguri etc. Senior CPI(M) leaders including party Legislative party Leader Sujana Chakrabarty and former State Minister Anadi Sahoo were arrested and later released on bail, police said. Reacting to the bandh call Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee said "we have taken a stand of not supporting any bandh. Enough is enough. In the past 34 years the Left have destroyed the State calling bandhs. Not any more." BJP State president Dilip Ghosh thanked the State Government for taking a proactive part in thwarting bandh culture and added "the CPI(M) is trying to find some oxygen before the elections by calling such bandhs but that will not sustain them."

2013 Kumbh stampede: UP Govt to table panel report in Assembly

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

The State Government will table in the Assembly a report by a one-member commission which probed the stampede at Allahabad railway station during Kumbh in 2013. "This time we have asked the authorities to look into the lapses that occurred in 2013 and directed them to initiate necessary precautions," Singh said.

The commission also held the change made on the platform at the last moment and the lack of holding area of passengers as the prime reason for the stampede. Along with the Railways, the commission also blamed UPSRTC, Allahabad district administration and police for thoroughly failing in crowd management leading to the tragedy.

The commission concluded that the Railways did not make a clear assessment of the number of passengers for which arrangement of transportation had to be made on the occasion of 'Mauni Amavasya'.

(Retired) Omkareshwar Bhatt blamed the Railways and UP State Roadways Corporation for the stampede at Allahabad junction railway station in 2013. "This time we have asked the authorities to look into the lapses that occurred in 2013 and directed them to initiate necessary precautions," Singh said.

The commission also held the change made on the platform at the last moment and the lack of holding area of passengers as the prime reason for the stampede.

Along with the Railways, the commission also blamed UPSRTC, Allahabad district administration and police for thoroughly failing in crowd management leading to the tragedy.

The commission concluded that the Railways did not make a clear assessment of the number of passengers for which arrangement of transportation had to be made on the occasion of 'Mauni Amavasya'.

Tripura suspends SMS, mobile internet for 2 days

Agartala: The Tripura Government on Tuesday suspended mobile internet and SMS services in the entire State for two days in the apprehension of law and order problem following a clash in West Tripura district.

In a notification, the home department said, "Incidents of rioting and arsoning have occurred in some areas in Jirania police station under West Tripura district and photographs of such incidents are being uploaded in the social media which may likely to generate serious law and order situation..."

Those photos are likely to be used for transmission of fake information and to prevent this, use of SMS messages and mobile Internet/data services are being prohibited for 48 hours since 3 pm Tuesday, the notification said.

At least seven persons were injured, some with gunshot wounds, on Tuesday at Jirania, about 15 km from here, when police and paramilitary jawans resorted to lathicharge and fired in the air to disperse Citizenship Bill protesters. PTI

Filmmaker Rakesh Roshan diagnosed with cancer

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Filmmaker Rakesh Roshan has been diagnosed with an early stage cancer — squamous cell carcinoma — in the throat and will soon go under knife, his son Hrithik Roshan revealed on Tuesday.

In an emotional post, shared on Instagram with a photograph of him and his father Rakesh Roshan before a workout at their home Gym, Hrithik wrote: "Asked my dad for a picture this morning. Knew he wouldn't miss gym on surgery day. He is probably the strongest man I know. Got diagnosed with early stage squamous cell carcinoma of the throat a few weeks ago, but he is in full spirits today as he proceeds to battle it"

"As a family we are fortunate and blessed to have a leader like him," Hrithik added. Squamous cell carcinoma is a particular type of cancer that is characterised by an uncontrolled growth of abnormal cells in the lining of the throat.

Having featured as an actor in 84 films in the 1970s and 1980s, Rakesh took to film direction in 1987 and the titles of all the films directed by him have begun with alphabet "K".

PM to start poll campaign with projects' inauguration in Maha

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will virtually kick off the ruling BJP's campaign for the Lok Sabha polls in Maharashtra on Wednesday, after he launches several development projects, including four-laned Section of Solapur-Tuljapur-Osmanabad stretch of a national highway and lays foundation stones for some others, at Solapur.

During his second visit to Maharashtra in less than a month, the Prime Minister will also inaugurate the ₹972.71 crore four-lane Section of Solapur-Tuljapur-Osmanabad national highway (new NH-52) and lay foundation stone for a ₹1,183 crore project for construction of 30,000 houses under Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana for beedi workers and textile workers, at Solapur in western Maharashtra.

The 98.72 km four-lane Solapur-Tuljapur-Osmanabad national highway — constructed in a span of 910 days — will help improve the connectivity of Solapur in western Maharashtra with Marathwada region of the State. The highway consists of two major bridges, 17 minor bridges, 87 culverts, 14 underpasses, a 3.47 km by-pass and service roads of 33.21 km length.

Modi — who during his earlier visit to Solapur in August 2014 had laid foundation stone for four laning of Solapur-Maharashtra / Karnataka Border section of NH 9 and dedicated 765 kV Solapur-Raichur power transmission line — will also dedicate to the nation of Underground Sewerage System, and three Sewage Treatment Plants in Solapur. The sewerage project will increase the sewer coverage of the town and improve sanitation in the city. It will replace the existing system and also connect to the trunk sewers being implemented under AMRUT Mission. The Prime Minister will also lay foundation stones for a Rs 244 crore Underground Sewerage System under AMRUT Mission and a project for improvement in Water Supply and Sewerage System, as part of Area Based Development in Solapur Smart City. This project is expected to bring significant improvement in service delivery and improve public health enabled by technology as a means to create smart outcomes for citizens.

After launching two development projects and laying foundation stones for three more major projects, Modi will in likelihood kick-start the BJP's Lok Sabha poll campaign at a public rally at Solapur, which incidentally is the home town of senior Congress leader and former Union Home Minister Sushil Kumar Shinde.

Quota politics

Unexpected announcement of a 10 per cent reservation for economically weaker sections is not a political masterstroke

The aftermath of the Mandal Commission report recommendations being implemented in India was to transform society in this country, and while it could never reverse the millennia of caste discrimination, it was believed at that time that the correct thing to do is to make India's growth more inclusive. And while that has, to an extent worked, it has like many other solutions to long-festering problems, turned into a case of opening a Pandora's Box of new problems. There is nowadays, for example, a perverse demand by caste leaders, once considered on the upper-end of the spectrum, to be declared backward so as to take advantage of reservations.

Other castes that have benefited from reservations have zealously tried to protect their 'turf' and have actively prevented other castes from getting a piece of the action, whether it is in Government jobs or educational institutions. Also, as evidenced by the demand for quotas by land-owning upper castes such as Jats and Gujjars in a belt near the capital to the Marathas in Maharashtra, upper castes are finding it increasingly difficult to compete in this environment and are being left behind. And this is a delicate balancing act for Governments both at the State and Central level because in large swathes of India, castes still tend to vote en masse.

So on the face of it, a reservation for economically weaker sections of society should be a political masterstroke. However, coming so late in the day, the cynic will obviously view it through politically-tinted glasses and believe that this is a way of keeping upper-caste votes within the Bharatiya Janata Party for Narendra Modi, who appears increasingly fretful of the general election coming up in three months. But there are a few issues here, the first is the need to pass a Constitutional amendment. While some caste-based parties might oppose it, smarter members of the Opposition could ensure it gets stalled in Parliament. And then there is the Supreme Court, which has previously ruled that breaching the 50 per cent reservation mark is unconstitutional, save in Tamil Nadu where prior reservations of 69 per cent were grandfathered in. Will the Supreme Court allow this amendment to pass? That is something for the justices to consider, which they almost certainly will have to. And if previous attempts at reservations for upper castes by State Governments is any indication, the shaky foundations of the Bills will be demolished by the highest court of the land.

But then comes the biggest problem of all: Where are the jobs? The Government of India and its public sector units still remain India's largest employer but over the years it is hiring fewer and fewer people and one could rightly think that this move is a cop out for Modi as his Government has failed to create enough jobs over the past few years, in no small part thanks to his own policies such as demonetisation. So all said and done, this is not a done deal as yet and Modi, faced with his facade crumbling, is trying to go all out to ensure a second term despite squandering the immense political capital he had back in 2014. But this could be a case of 'too little, too late.'

Ahom identity

AGP may have stood out as a champion but its real intention is to dent BJP's LS tally

In the end it is all about seizing the pre-poll narrative for the general election and whoever does that better, may just get some customers or force a self-serving discussion. That is why the Asom Gana Parishad (AGP)'s withdrawal of support to the BJP-led Government in Assam is more about finding a politically opportune moment than real dissatisfaction. Yes, the AGP is right in arguing that the new citizenship amendment Bill as proposed by the BJP, granting citizenship to Hindu refugees from across the border till the cutoff year of 2014, is detrimental to Ahom identity and the right of indigenous people over their land, indeed the wherewithal of its politics. However, it was not that the AGP didn't know that this was coming though, it can be reasonably argued, it found itself in a box in launching a counter campaign. It knew that the ruling Sarbananda Sonowal government would not fall if it withdrew support as it had overwhelming numbers (74 to AGP's 14) and was unsure about its standing as an independent party that had the faith of the people. The panchayat polls of December restored its confidence as did the Assembly election results that got the Congress back in reckoning in some states. But it was when other NDA allies became restive, demanding a pound of flesh or two from a dented BJP, that the AGP decided to get into the ring. Sensing the national sentiment at the moment, the AGP has realised that while the state government could run without it, it could threaten the BJP's winning prospects in the Lok Sabha with its pullout. The BJP, not exactly riding the wave pre-2014, may not get the monolithic heartland verdict and would need every extra seat from the Northeast, which it has been nurturing and betting on. In about four seats, the BJP needs the AGP to effect a swing or defeat an entrenched Congress vote. Pundits predict if the Congress woos AGP and other parties to form a state level alliance and ensures a convergence of vote shares, then they could halt the BJP juggernaut in the general election and push its tally back from the seven seats it won in 2014.

The AGP's main contention is a refugee influx, irrespective of religion, would change the demographic contours of the border districts that would forever be a prey base for the larger national parties and ensure the local parties are squeezed out. The BJP is clearly following a me-too model that has worked for the Congress and other Opposition parties at one time. As waves of Bangladeshi migrants crossed the borders, each Opposition party is equally guilty of legalising their stay and shoring up its respective votebank. If it was Muslims before, it is Hindus now. So the AGP has little choice now but to stand out as a strong regional voice. Meanwhile, the BJP is losing the tide of opinion as far as its allies are concerned. First, it was the TDP, then it was the PDP in Kashmir, followed by the Upendra Kushwaha-led Rashtriya Lok Samta Party. The Shiv Sena still likes to trouble it now and then while the latest withdrawal missive from Apna Dal (Sonelal) has revived the perception of the BJP as an arrogant big brother feeding off the smaller parties and then grinding them to dust. As we said, it is all about the visual narrative. Depending on trade winds, all allies jump ships.

What Imran Khan forgot

It is ironic that the Pakistan Prime Minister should want to teach India how to treat its minorities when the country has created a new minority with the passing of every decade

PRAFULL GORADIA

Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan has offered to teach India how it should treat its minorities. Is it not likely that when he said this, he was experiencing a flashback to his cricketing days, when our fast bowlers were not comparable to his country's pace attack? Traditionally, in the undivided India, it was Punjab that produced pacemen. The one outstanding name that comes to this writer's mind is that of Mohammad Nissar, the fastest opening bowler the sub-continent had produced. Certainly, even now, the pack of speed merchants may have something to teach our players.

An Oxonian had once said: Imran is cricket and cricket is Imran. Similarly, Zubin Mehta is music and cannot be imagined in terms of cricket. It is also difficult to reconcile Imran Khan's image with prime ministership. It is not possible that while he was talking of minorities, he was thinking about how to teach India play cricket and to play in India at the Eden Gardens? It goes without saying that Imran Khan has not seen the holocaust of Hindus and Sikhs, starting with Rawalpindi in 1947, nor would he know how his Christian compatriots had rejoiced at the birth of Pakistan only to subsequently regret it, plus, of course, being frequently accused of blasphemy. The Communist Party had wholeheartedly sponsored Partition, only to later beat its breast — it was simply eliminated by the torrent of Islam.

The Ahmediyas, whose hero, Sir Muhammad Zafarullah Khan, had drafted the Pakistan Resolution of March 1940, also had their taste of 'glory' of the state they helped birth. Imran Khan was certainly not born then to witness the magnificent work done by Zafarullah Khan. Nor perhaps in 1953, when the latter's house in Lahore was set on fire, which induced him to flee to Pakistan to not return until his dying days. The rest of the years he spent at The Hague in the Netherlands to bring majesty to the glittering Benches of the International Court of Justice. In the meantime, the charismatic Prime Minister, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, expelled the Ahmediyas from the sanctified garden of Islam.

Another Ahmediya hero who brought glory to Imran Khan's country was Dr Abdul Qadeer Khan, whose thuggish doings in the Netherlands enabled him to obtain the secrets of atomic bomb — all, of course, in the cause of Khidmat-e-Allah, the first Islamic nuclear bomb. He too was rewarded by his faith being expelled.

This writer was educated by two men. The first was his grandfather, one of whose friends was Ahmed Ali Jinnah. He relished Parsi humour and claimed to culturally be a Parsi. Although he was not a practicing Muslim, he acquainted my grandfather with his insights into Islam. That when a Muslim wishes to convert someone, it is with the best intention of opening a possible chance of the convert entering jannat. No other god can enable a non-believer to cross the gateway of heaven.

The second gentleman who taught this writer was his spoken Urdu teacher who did not overtly suggest a conversion, but did say that the future lay with Islam. Just extrapolate the progress of a number of religions. The Yehudis (Jews) have reduced in number and shrunk to a fraction of what they were. The Christians have scattered into many denominations. Many a worshipper in Europe has given up worship. Christianity's priests have come to Asia, where according to the late Pope John Paul-II, there are innumerable souls to harvest. Contrast these performances with the progress of Islam, whose tide is continually rising.

It is ironic that Prime Minister Imran Khan should want to teach India how to treat its minorities. He has held out Pakistan as an example of good treatment. He is probably unaware that Dr Rafiq Zakaria, in his widely read book, The Man Who Divided India, clearly stated that but for the Muslims of Uttar Pradesh (especially Aligarh), Bihar and Mumbai (then Bombay), Pakistan might not have been. Young men from Aligarh went all the way to Punjab to campaign for the 1945-46 general election, which proved decisive for Partition. They propagated Pakistan as the new Medina. Moreover, if India should seriously follow the Pakistani example, it should reduce its minority population to three per cent from the 22 per cent in Pakistan of 1947. Does the cricketing legend expect his country, with its vast land space, to absorb up to 25 crore Muslims now in India? He could not have forgotten his cricket and probably believes that greater the population, higher are the chances of throwing up more players. If not, the new Prime Minister has forgotten that his country has created a new minority with the passing of every decade.

The saga of creating ever new minorities began with the Sikhs at Rawalpindi; soon thereafter, the Hindus. Then came the turn of the Ahmediyas at Lahore. Pakistan's Christians, who had backed Partition, in due course became unpopular enough to be frequently accused of blasphemy and awarded the death sentence by being stoned. The Balochs, of course, were never fully trusted but gradually became suspected if not also positively distrusted. The latest is the turn of the Shias, who are routinely killed by bombs while praying. There is also a proposal to expel Shias from the fraternity of Islam. They are followers of Imam Hussein, who was the grandson of Prophet Muhammad. A distinguished Shia was Qaid-e-Azam Jinnah without whom Pakistan might not have been.

Even since his college days, this writer has been told that all Sunni Muslims of the world belong to a single community, which is their first loyalty. It is, therefore, a mystery why most Pakistanis are callous about the safety, security and welfare of their brethren in India. Regimes in Islamabad pursue their own interests without caring for any repercussion in India. Earlier, their great guru was the US. Now, they look to China for direction; ostensibly, others be damned. This is as old a syndrome as 1947. Within two months, Pakistan had no compunction in invading the Kashmir Valley.

As long ago as in 1951, Dr Zakir Husain, the then vice chancellor of the Aligarh Muslim University and later Rashtrapati, took the lead along with 13 other Muslims eminences to submit a memorandum to Dr Frank P Graham, the United Nations representative in Kashmir on August 14, 1951 said:

"It is indeed a pity that India has never thought of taking the help of its Muslim citizens, most of whom can be the country's useful allies against Pakistani misdeemeanour. There is no doubt a problem. The only viable Muslim leadership in the country is ecclesiastical. The luminaries, who are not maulvis, do not have sufficient following. Addressing Muslim citizens through the ulema has its limitations. The substantive interest of the masses lies in a peaceful life where the individual and his family can try and prosper, to educate the children and so on. Whereas the thrust of the ulema would be to protect and promote the influence of Islam, leaders in India should, therefore, find a channel of informing and seeking cooperation of our Muslim brethren directly."

The memorandum was also signed by Sir Sultan Ahmed, Sir Mohammed Usman, both former members of the Viceroy's Council. The signatories included the Nawab of Chhatari, Chief Justice of Allahabad, Sir Iqbal Ahmed, Sir Fazal Rahimtoola, AK Khwaja, TM Zarif, BH Zaidi and Hafi-ur-Rehman; the last two were MPs. Their submission also said: "If the Hindus are not welcomed in Pakistan, how can we, in all fairness, expect Muslims to be welcomed in India? Such a policy must inevitably, as the past has already shown, result in the uprooting of Muslims in this country and their migration to Pakistan, where as it became clear last year, they are no longer welcome, lest their influx should destroy Pakistan's economy".

There was also a background to this fear. Several Muslim League leaders had repeatedly emphasised in the years preceding Partition that when the country was divided, there must be an exchange of population. Sir Feroz Khan Noon had gone to the extent of threatening the re-enactment of the violent orgies of Chengiz Khan and Hulagu Khan.

Election propaganda

Sir — The West Bengal Government has been denying permission to the Bharatiya Janata Party's proposed rath yatra in all the 42 parliamentary constituencies as it may lead to law and order problems. The Calcutta High Court has gauged the agenda of the organisers of the yatra and has rightly refused permission for the same. One only hopes that the Supreme Court will also appreciate the concerns of the State Government and deny permission for the rath yatra. The Union Government has failed to deliver on its promises to the masses and this is a last-ditch effort by the RSS-BJP combine to woo the people by playing the Ayodhya card yet again.

A path to elections with no holds barred

This refers to the editorial, "Behind the scenes" (January 8). We all know that apart from the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), the Samajwadi Party (SP) and the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) are the two main protagonists in Uttar Pradesh, the largest State of India in terms of population. What started during last year's by-polls, where most opposition parties united against the ruling party, this pre-election alliance between the SP and BSP is only a natural progression. But unlike various Opposition combinations that exist only in the air, the SP-BSP combine seems to be a real possibility. It was sensible on the part of BSP supremo Mayawati and SP chief Akhilesh Yadav to leave aside the Congress because the grand old party remains only a fringe player in Uttar Pradesh. Second, more the number of seats these two parties get, better will be their bargaining power to form a Government.

Additionally, the Congress is

Besides, the alliance between the two parties has sent across a message that the next general election will witness more State-specific alliances than a broad nation-wide arrangement against the ruling BJP. But one thing is certain that the 2019 general election is going to be a no-holds-barred battle.

Real empowerment

Sir — It is not the State Government's business to interfere in the rituals of a religion. In doing so, it will only be hurting the sentiments of the people because traditions are one that are followed since ages. As long as the rituals are harmless and are respected by one and all, including the women, one cannot understand why the State Government must interfere at all.

As a matter of fact real empowerment for women will not come when they break old traditions by entering the gates of a temple, where their entry has been banned. Our society will be enlightened only when it protects its women.

FIRST COLUMN

Smelling trouble in Uttar Pradesh

The collaboration of SP-BSP and troubles with its own allies have made matters worse for the BJP. But the party remains hopeful

KALYANI SHANKAR

It is often said that 'Uttar Pradesh is India and India is Uttar Pradesh.' A win in India's most populous State can prove to be a game-changer for any party, nationally, as it accounts for 80 out of the 545 parliamentary seats. Besides, Uttar Pradesh has gifted many Prime Ministers to our country. As the two foetured-friends — Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) and Samajwadi Party (SP) — inch closer towards a grand alliance in Uttar Pradesh ahead of the 2019 Lok Sabha election, minus the Congress, the poll scene is becoming interesting. The Congress could still become a coalition partner if there is any breakthrough in alliance talks. But as of now, the two regional satraps want to keep the Congress out as it does not have a place in their scheme of things as yet. They want to win the maximum number of seats in their stronghold and take matters from there to a post-poll scenario to do the final bidding for the top job.

First, the SP and the BSP do not need the Congress which is a lightweight in that crucial State. Second, the Congress' votes are not transferable. Third, the SP feels that its experience of aligning with the Congress during the 2017 Assembly election did not work. Also, the Congress did not include the lone SP legislator in the recent Madhya Pradesh Cabinet. Though it was the Congress that had been stressing on the need to bring regional parties together to take on the BJP after its recent wins in Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh, it failed to honour the demands of smaller parties. Fourth, BSP supremo Mayawati is worried about some Dalit votes moving to the Congress' camp. She has made her political calculations keeping her party's interests in mind. Fifth, both parties feel that a three-cornered contest would benefit the alliance as it can stop the Congress' votes from going to the BJP in protest against the grand old party joining the alliance as the former's core voters are from Dalits, Other Backward Classes and minorities.

The grand alliance might include Ajit Singh's Rashtriya Lok Dal (RLD) and some smaller parties. The RLD, once strong amid sugarcane farmers of western Uttar Pradesh, has just begun to re-organise itself. The alliance is also trying to get Om Prakash Rajbhar's Suheldev Bhartiya Samaj Party and the Krishna Patel faction of Apna Dal. Not only does the tie-up have arithmetic but also chemistry as the once bitter enemies — Mayawati and SP chief Akhilesh Yadav — are now on 'aunt and nephew' terms. In 2014, the BJP had a vote share of 42.63 per cent in Uttar Pradesh, while the SP-BSP combine got 42.19 per cent — its almost the same. With Mayawati winning 22.23 per cent of the votes even in 2017 and the SP securing 28.32 per cent, together, they polled over half of the total votes. If the Congress also joins the alliance, the combined vote share of the three parties will be more than that of the BJP's. There is a divided opinion in the Congress about it joining the alliance. This is in sharp contrast to 2017, when the party, in one voice, favoured a tie-up with the SP. One section feels that making the contest triangular is bound to hurt the BJP. The grand alliance might have a strategic understanding with the Congress to help each other.

But where does all of this leave the BJP? Experts say that it means the alliance might pick up about 50 seats. Then the BJP and the Congress would be left with 30 seats. The Congress could pick up two seats — that of the Gandhis and perhaps one or two more. The BJP can at best hope to get 24 or 25 seats. After the recent loss of three Hindi heartland States — Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh — it might lose another 30 seats. In other States, it might shed 20 seats. So, expectation is that the BJP could lose as many as 100 seats. The party would have to cover up the gap from other regions to reach the 282 mark that it won in the 2014 Lok Sabha poll. But how much can they make up in West Bengal, south and Odisha? Moreover, the BJP does not have any big alliance partner. The Telugu Desam Party has quit and the Shiv Sena is threatening to break alliance. The Peoples Democratic Party has left and the Akali Dal is disgruntled. About 18 smaller parties have left the NDA fold since 2014. However, the BJP does not agree with this analysis. They believe that the people will vote for Modi. The party is hopeful that with a strong leadership, effective communication, disciplined organisation, unlimited funds and a divided Opposition, it can make a come back.

However, one can sense a certain degree of worry within the party. BJP chief Amit Shah is subdued and the top leadership is already on a course-correction mode. It will be looking for a new narrative in its national council meeting next week. But Modi can spring surprises. One week is said to be long in politics and three months is quite long to make any prediction. One thing is certain that the BJP will emerge as the single largest party with or without forming the Government.

Rabies threatens our lion

Progressive control pathways and procedures for international certification of rabies-free status should be established to save our wild cats from the madness syndrome

HARI SHANKER SINGH

If you thought that rabies concerned only dogs, then one must look back to the records at the King Edward Memorial Pasteur Institute and Medical Research Institute, Shillong. It had published a scientific article in 1950 recording two instances of a positive microscopic finding in the brain — evidence of rabies — of the Bengal tiger in Assam, the first in 1943 and the second in 1950. In the first case, the tiger severely mauled 18 people in just over 24 hours before it was killed but made no attempt to eat any of the victims. In the second case, the tiger terrorised the inhabitants of five or six villages and attacked 14 people, at least five heads of cattle and a dog, of whom one person and the dog were killed on the spot and two others died in hospital the following day. Subsequently, the animal was killed.

The rabies virus was found in both cases. And though these two cases were examined following complaints of unseemly behaviour, several others were ignored. A few cases of leopards dying ostensibly due to rabies were also reported in south India during the British period. The rabies-inflicted stray dogs, living on the boundaries of Kruger National Park in South Africa and other reserves, are threats to predators such as lions, leopards, hyena and wild dogs. Perhaps deaths of predators by rabies do not get the exposure they deserve. The veterinary advisor for the Siberian Tiger recommended the vaccination protocol for use in all wild tigers to save them from viral disease.

Four years ago, a similar behaviour was observed in two lions — first was a male lion in Girnar on May 31, 2011, and the second was a young lioness in the Khamba range of the Gir forest on December 15, 2015. In both cases, the frenzied felines chased people and attacked a few of them, including the forest staff. The injured people were vaccinated and saved but both lions died within a few days. Symptoms like biting of tyres and frequent roaring in the daytime indicated the presence of rabies but cases were never examined to know the truth. The extent of damage by the fatal Canine Distemper Virus (CDV) attack, ostensibly a mutation or aggravation caused by the rabies virus, was taken seriously only when 23 lions died in September 2018 in the Gir forests.

In the past, deaths of the lion by virus attacks were detected but ignored because the number was not high. Unlike the lion, tigers or leopards do not live in groups. Thus, death of one or two of them at a site by the fatal disease was ignored. It was recorded as a natural disease but facts prove otherwise. Almost every other day, news reports cite the recovery of dead leopards, tigers, lions and several other carnivores from their habitats but the cases have never been examined by virologists to confirm the cause of deaths.

In a study, four concomitant incidents of rabies related deaths were recorded in Gujarat during 2012-2014. Brain samples were collected from two buffaloes, nilgai and mongoose and rabies virus was found in all of them. Further, the genetic relationship of these isolated specimens was determined and the rabies virus transmission among the wild and domestic mammals was established. In Deva village in Allahabad district, two cows and a young buffalo cub were bitten by a rabies-infected dog. All died within two weeks. Finally, the dog was killed and the carcass was disposed off in a remote area of the village. What had happened to carnivores such as jackals and foxes, which consumed the carcass, is not known but the villagers confirmed that the carnivores had not been spotted. Why is it that the jackals are fast disappearing from the villages? Why are the hyenas becoming rare in the countryside? Why is it that the population of the wild dog (dhole) declined drastically in its habitats such as the Satpura Tiger Reserve and then recovered in a few years and again declined drastically? Is it due to the spread of rabies or any other virus? Has rabies' presence in the domestic dog caused the loss of wildlife in an unbelievable scale? Perhaps yes. Casualties of the major wild carnivores in India due to transmission of rabies, CDV, FIV or other viruses are high but it is impossible to provide facts about the scale of the crisis. After the lion deaths due to a CDV attack in the Gir forests, investigations indicated that like the African lions, the CDV and other viruses are present in some wild lions in the Gir forest. All of these become fatal when other diseases such as Babesia protozoa are transmitted from an unhealthy prey.

The World Health Organisation (WHO) reported that rabies is a vaccine-preventable viral disease which occurs in more than 150 countries. Dogs are the source of a vast majority of human rabies deaths, contributing up to 99 per cent of all rabies transmissions to humans. Human deaths due to rabies are known and have been well-documented but it is also primarily a disease of terrestrial mammals, including dogs, wolves, foxes, jackals, big cats (lions, leopards and tigers), mongooses, badgers, bats and monkeys. Rabies is endemic to India and accounts for 36 per cent of the world's human deaths due to this disease. The true burden of rabies in our country is not fully known; although as per a WHO report, it causes 18,000-20,000 deaths every year. Nobody knows how many wild carnivores die due to this disease. India had over 19.1 million domestic dogs in 2007 and a majority of them belonged to the category of feral or stray dogs. A substantial number of these forms the prey base for carnivores, especially for leopards, tigers, lions, hyenas, wolves and jackals.

In India, dogs play an important role in rabies transmission to wildlife. However, little is known about the role of wild animals in rabies transmission. As per a study in the US, the rabies disease unexpectedly re-emerged in wildlife. Rabies is a viral zoonosis associated with many species of carnivores, including cats, jackal, hyena and bats, which are the primary hosts of the Rabies virus. Although sporadic cases of rabies in wildlife have been documented across the African continent, convincing evidence for the circulation of rabies in populations of wild carnivores has been found only in south Africa, where wild canids, such as jackals and bat-eared foxes, are assumed to be primary hosts of the virus. Although wolves, wild dogs, jackals and foxes are susceptible and readily succumb to the disease, they can disseminate the disease in other wildlife.

The carnivores — lion, tiger, leopard, hyena, wolf, and jackal — are susceptible to diseases as they largely prey upon domestic animals, including dogs and pigs which are a carrier of pathogens. Domestic livestock, including dogs, constitute major food for these wild animals. Cases of tiger and leopard deaths are reported from time-to-time, but the institute engaged in the field of wildlife research does not give priority to such an important problem. In the absence of adequate studies, it is difficult to assess deaths of wild carnivores due to rabies but it seems a major hurdle, although not accepted till date of wildlife conservation in India.

To eliminate rabies in wildlife, 'progressive control pathways' and procedures for international certification of rabies-free status should be established. To achieve this, wildlife managers should know the extent of the problem. The sample of every dead animal should be examined scientifically in institutes that deal with wildlife or virology. Institutes, too, need to focus on the scale of natural deaths rather than just concern themselves with environment impact assessment (EIA). It has taken us long to maintain a healthy population of the big cat. Let us not lose them to another threat.

A diversified investment strategy

Dynamic asset allocation is the ideal way to invest. It helps one to strike a balance between associated risks and rewards. This strategy holds the potential to outshine all other forms of investments when market conditions remain volatile

HIMA BINDU KOTA

When it comes to investments, the adage, 'Don't put all your eggs in one basket', comes to mind. Diversification essentially means the strategic allocation of investments among different assets and their categories to spread the money around so that exposure to any one type of asset is limited. This helps manage risk and reduce volatility of portfolio over a period of time. One of the keys to successful investing is to learn the art of maintaining fine balance between comfort level and time horizon.

If one invests conservatively for retirement at a young age, he/she may run the risk of investment growth not keeping pace with inflation. Conversely, if one invests too aggressively, when one is older, they may face a situation where their savings are exposed to market volatility. This can erode the value of their assets at an age when one has fewer opportunities to recoup losses.

One way to balance risk and reward in an investment portfolio is to diversify assets. Although diversification does not ensure profit or guarantee no losses, it may help mitigate risk. It does help in reducing the number and severity of ups and downs. Diversification does not aim to maximise returns but limits the impact of volatility on a portfolio. To better understand this concept let us look at the table along with this article which contains hypothetical portfolios with different asset allocations from 1926 to 2017.

The most aggressive portfolio shown in the table comprises 60 per cent domestic stocks, 25 per cent international stocks and 15 per cent bonds. It has an average annual return of 10.02 per cent. The best 12-month return stood at 134 per cent, while its worst 12-month

ASSET ALLOCATION OF DIFFERENT PORTFOLIOS

	Aggressive Growth	Balanced	Conservative
Average Annual Return	10.02%	8.05%	6.34%
Best 12-month return	134.46%	74.29%	30.76%
Worst 12-month return	-61.26%	-39.53%	-16.65%
Best 20-year return (annualised)	15.49%	13.65%	11.01%
Worst 20-year return (annualised)	2.54%	3.02%	2.95% return lost nearly by 61 per cent. This is too much of volatility for investors to endure.

However, as we can see, a slight change in the asset allocation tightened the range of those swings. It is also clear that additional fixed income investments to a portfolio slightly reduces one's expectations for long-term returns. But this may significantly reduce the impact of market volatility. This is a trade-off many investors feel is worthwhile, particularly as they get older and more risk-averse.

Factoring time into diversification strategy: People are generally accustomed to thinking about their savings in terms of goals — retirement, college, a down payment or a vacation. But as one builds and manages his/her asset allocation, regardless of which goal he/she is pursuing, there are two important things that must be considered: First, the time horizon ie the number of years when one would need the money back and second, attitude toward risk.

To take an example, a young adult may think of a goal that is 25 years away, like when he/she retires. Since the time horizon is fairly long, he/she may be willing to take additional risk in pursuit of long-term growth. The investor may be under the assumption that there's enough time in hand to regain lost ground in an event of short-term market decline. In that case, higher exposure to domestic stocks may be appropriate.

However, risk tolerance plays a crucial role here as well. Regardless of the time horizon, one should undertake risk with which he/she is comfortable. So even if one is saving for a long-term goal, or is more risk-averse, he/she may want to consider a more balanced portfolio with some fixed income investments. Regardless of the time horizon and risk tolerance, even if one is pursuing the most aggressive asset allocation model, he/she may want to consider including a fixed income component to help reduce overall volatility of the portfolio.

The other thing to remember about time horizon is that it keeps changing constantly. So, let's say one's retirement is 10 years away, he/she may want to re-allocate their asset to help reduce exposure to higher-risk investments in favour of more conservative ones like bond or money market funds. This can help mitigate the impact of extreme market swings on portfolio, which is important when one needs the money relatively soon. Once they enter retirement, a large portion of the portfolio should be more stable. Lower-risk investments can potentially generate income. But even in retirement, diversification is key to help manage risks. So just as one should never be 100 per cent invested in stocks, it's probably a good idea to never be 100 per cent allocated in short-term investments if time horizon is greater than one year.

After all, even in retirement one needs exposure to growth-oriented investments to combat inflation and help ensure that the assets last for what could be a decades-long retirement. Regardless of the goal — time horizon or risk tolerance — a diversified portfolio is the foundation of any smart investment strategy.

FOREIGN EYE

BASTARDISATION OF THE OVERALL POLITY

Education was the immediate victim of the buffoonery and opportunism of the Sri Lankan leaders. The gradual deterioration of education also had predictable outcomes: It crowned the nincompoops as masters of universal knowledge. What hides the magnitude of the real problem is the reliance on tradition indicators like adult literacy rate, percentage of children of school age who attend primary and secondary school, et al.

Sensex jumps 130 pts; banking stocks rally

PTI ■ MUMBAI
Benchmark equity indices ended higher for the third straight session on Tuesday on widespread buying in banking stocks towards the end amid fresh inflows by foreign funds and positive global cues. The BSE Sensex spurted 130.00 points to end at 35,980.93, while the broader NSE Nifty advanced 30.35 points to 10,802.15. Both indices traded in the negative zone through most part of the session as investors booked profits in recent gains amid weakness in the rupee due to rise in global crude prices. However, with the emergence of buying towards the close of the session, Sensex wiped off losses and hit a high of 36,037.35 before settling 0.36 per cent higher. The index had rallied 336.45 points in the previous two straight sessions. The 50-share NSE Nifty settled 0.28 per cent higher. Intra-day, it touched a low of 10,733.25 and a high of 10,818.45. According to Hemang Jani, Head — Advisory, Sharekhan by BNP Paribas, banking stocks remained in focus after the RBI governor Monday expressed satisfaction over the performance of the banking sector by saying bad loans have declined, particularly that of state-owned banks. "Also the sharp moderation in bond yields should significantly boost the treasury performance of the banking sector," he pointed out. Market traded on a range-bound with a positive bias in which PSU banks led the gains on account of improving non-performing asset (NPA) resolution along with capital infusion and depressed valuation, said Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Financial Services. Investors have some caution ahead of corporate earnings and a hope over ongoing US and China trade meeting, he added. Earlier in the session, investors logged gains ahead of Q3 earnings of bluechip companies such as TCS and Infosys later this week amid fresh weakness in the rupee which again breached the ₹70-mark against a dollar, traders said. However, losses were capped on Central Statistics Office's positive advanced estimates of national income for 2018-19. The domestic economy is expected to grow at 7.2 per cent in 2018-19 against 6.7 per cent in the previous fiscal mainly due to improvement in the performance of agriculture and manufacturing sectors, the CSO had said on Monday. In the Sensex kitty, Sun Pharma was the top gainer, surging 3.98 per cent; followed by private lender ICICI Bank 3.46 per cent ahead of earnings. Shares of Tata Motors surged 2.34 per cent largely on reports of strong JLR UK sales. Other gainers include SBI, Yes Bank, Axis Bank, Bajaj

Auto and IndusInd Bank, rising up to 3.18 per cent. While losers include Kotak Bank, NTPC, HDFC, HUL, Bajaj Finance and M&M, falling up to 1.41 per cent. Shares of Gruh Finance and Bandhan Bank tumbled Tuesday, with the former plunging 16.39 per cent following announcement of merger plans. Fresh spell of buying by foreign institutional investors (FIIs) also buoyed trading sentiments, traders said. Meanwhile, foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) bought shares worth a net ₹736.18 crore, while domestic institutional investors (DIIs) sold shares to the tune of ₹141.97 crore, while on Monday, provisional data showed. Among Sectoral indices, bankex took the top position by climbing 1.31 per cent, followed by healthcare 0.98 per cent, PSU 0.65 per cent, metal 0.58 per cent, auto 0.39 per cent, Infrastructure 0.19 per cent, FMCG 0.13 per cent and teck 0.02 per cent. While, capital goods, power, consumer durables, IT and oil & gas indices ended lower up to 0.35 per cent. The broader markets depicted a mixed trend with the small-cap index rising 0.17 per cent while mid-cap index fell 0.16 per cent. Globally, Asian shares rose as investors were optimistic about trade talks between Washington and Beijing amid dovish remarks from the US Federal Reserve.

Undisclosed assets of ₹6K cr detected under foreign black money law

PTI ■ NEW DELHI
Undisclosed assets totalling ₹6,000 crore have been detected under the foreign black money law enacted by the Government in 2015, Parliament was informed on Tuesday. Further, as on October 31, 2018, 34 prosecution complaints have been filed under the foreign black money law. "As an outcome of the actions taken by the Income-tax Department under the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015' (The Black Money Act), as on October 31, 2018, undisclosed foreign assets and income valued at over ₹6,000 crore have been detected," Minister of State for Finance Shiv Pratap Shukla said in a written reply in the Rajya Sabha. Under the Act, a one-time compliance opportunity for a limited period was provided to those persons who have any foreign assets which have hitherto not been disclosed for the purposes of Income-tax. In this compliance window, which closed on September 30, 2015, 648 declarations involving undisclosed foreign assets worth over ₹4,100 crore were made. An amount of over ₹2,470 crore has been collected by way of tax and penalty in such cases.

₹ tumbles 53 paise to 70.21 against USD on crude woes

PTI ■ MUMBAI
The Indian rupee on Tuesday plunged by 53 paise to close at 70.21 against the US dollar amid renewed concerns over widening of current account deficit following constant rise in global crude oil prices. Besides, strong demand for the American currency from importers also weakened the rupee performance. The US dollar's gains against major rival currencies yen, pound and euro too impacted the domestic currency market sentiments. At the Interbank Foreign Exchange (forex) Tuesday, the rupee opened on a sluggish note at 69.83. It weakened further to hit a low of 70.23 (intra-day), before finally closing at 70.21, showing a loss of 53 paise. This was the first loss for the Indian currency unit in three sessions. It had risen by 52 paise in the previous two trading days. On Monday, the rupee had gained 4 paise to end at 69.68 against the US dollar. The Brent crude, a global benchmark, was trading at 58.07 per barrel, up 1.29 per cent.

MSME loan NPAs improve to 8.5% in the yr to Sept '18: Report

PTI ■ MUMBAI
There has been a marginal improvement in bad loans among micro-small and medium enterprises (MSME) segment in the year to September 2018, a report said Tuesday. The non-performing assets (NPAs) for both banks as well as the non-bank finance companies (NBFCs) from the 'micro' enterprises segment have improved to 8.5 per cent in September 2018 from the 8.7 per cent last year. The report by state-run lender Sidbi and credit information company Transunion Cibil comes days after the Reserve Bank announced a special dispensation to restructure MSME loans because of heightened stress due to events such as the note ban and implementation of GST. The same for the small and medium enterprises has improved to 11.3 per cent from the earlier 11.4 per cent. Credit to the MSME segment as a whole grew 13.5 per cent, the quarterly report said. The RBI had announced a forbearance for MSME loans up to ₹25 crore following pressure from the Government. In a January 2 comment, domestic brokerage Kotak Securities had wondered about the timing of the MSME dispensation at a time when the banks are growing the portfolios rapidly, while other analysts had termed it regressive. "We are quite surprised at the timing of the notification by the central bank. Lenders usually step back lending when the early warning indicators suggest rising trends of deterioration," the report said. Meanwhile, the Cibil report said lenders may be erring on fresh borrower acquisition in the segment going by the stress in asset quality and need to be more attentive on this aspect.

Mistry was removed from Tata Sons without any intimation

PTI ■ NEW DELHI
Cyprus Mistry was removed as chairman of Tata Sons without any prior intimation, the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) was told on Tuesday by two investment firms promoted by the Mistry family. Senior advocate C A Sundaram representing the two firms said that removal of the chairman was not even on the agenda item of the board meeting of Tata Sons on October 24, 2016, when he was sacked. "The agenda did not contain anything about removal of chairman," said Sundaram adding the proposal to remove him was brought "under any other item" of the meeting. Questioning the order of the Mumbai bench of National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) in this, he said that it treated removal of Cyrus Mistry as "nature of employment dispute." Later Mistry was removed as director of all Tata group companies as the trustees had "written to all companies that if you do not remove him, we would take Tata brand name from you."

Concluding his arguments for the investment firms, Sundaram said: "In our opinion, he (Mistry) is the best man for us (to protect minority shareholders)." J a n a k Dwarkadas, who is representing Cyrus Mistry, in the matter has started his arguments and would continue on Wednesday. Cyrus P Mistry has also moved NCLAT in his personal capacity against his removal. The Tata side was represented by senior advocates, including Harish Salve, Abhishek Manu Singhvi and others during the hearing. The Mistry camp had challenged the July 9 order of the Mumbai bench of the NCLT which dismissed the pleas against his removal as Tata Sons chairman, as also the allegations of rampant misconduct on part of Ratan Tata and the company's board. A special bench of the tribunal had held that the board of directors at Tata Sons was "competent" to remove the executive chairperson of the company. The NCLT bench had also said that Mistry was ousted as chairman because the Tata Sons' Board and its majority shareholders had "lost confidence in him". Under the Companies Act 2013, an order of NCLT can be challenged before the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT). Mistry, who was the sixth chairman of Tata Sons, was ousted from the position in October 2016. He had taken over as the chairman in 2012 after Ratan Tata announced his retirement. Two months after his removal, Mistry's family-run firms approached the NCLT as minority shareholders, against Tata Sons, Ratan Tata, and some other board members. Mistry in his pleas primarily argued that his removal was not in accordance with the Companies Act and that there was rampant mismanagement of affairs across Tata Sons. He also alleged that Tata Trust chairperson Ratan Tata and trustee N Soanwala interfered with the day-to-day operations of the group companies, they acted as shadow directors, and all of the above caused massive revenue loss for the group.

US, China hold more trade talks overshadowed by Kim visit

AFP ■ BEIJING
US officials held a second day of trade talks with Chinese counterparts in Beijing on Tuesday, overshadowed by an unannounced visit from North Korean leader Kim Jong Un. This is the first time the two sides have met face-to-face since President Donald Trump and Chinese leader Xi Jinping agreed to a tariff truce during a meeting in Argentina on December 1. The talks between the US delegation — led by Deputy US Trade Representative Jeffrey Gerrish and including officials from the Treasury, Commerce, Agriculture and Energy departments — and the Chinese side were still ongoing late Tuesday, a source told AFP on condition of anonymity. Negotiators are seeking to resolve a number of thorny issues that have threatened an all-out trade war between the world's two biggest economies. These include more Chinese purchases of US goods and services to reduce a yawning trade gap, increased access to China's markets, stronger protection of intellectual property and a reduction in Beijing's subsidies. Neither side has provided any details about the talks. The temporary ceasefire came after the two sides imposed import duties on more than $300 billion of each other's goods. US Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross said Monday that China's economy was more vulnerable to the fallout from the trade war.

Iran seeks Indian investments in fertilisers, petrochemicals

PTI ■ NEW DELHI
Aiming to boost ties with India, Iran welcomed investment proposals from the country in urea and petrochemicals and is willing to provide fertilisers at reasonable rates, an Iranian minister said Tuesday. After meeting Union Minister Nitin Gadkari, Iranian foreign minister Mohammad Javad Zarif said India can look at investments in sectors like petrochemicals and fertilisers in the Chabahar area. "We have offered discussions in that area (urea) and we welcome proposals from India...India has been a customer for Iranian urea fertilisers for a long time. "Because of the illegal US sanctions, the Indian consumer, the Indian farmers are paying 38 per cent more for the fertilisers and we have possibilities of providing that to India at a reasonable rate," Zarif said. He said trade arrangement with the European Union (EU) was moving slower and Iran was working with its traditional partners like India, China and Russia to protect its interests. "While we continue to work with Europeans on their special purpose vehicle, we are working with our traditional partners like India, China, Russia so that we continue to work in the interest of our people. "Europeans have been trying...But they have not been able to do it as rapidly as we had expected them to do...We are in touch with Europe but we are not waiting for Europe..." Zarif said. In November last year, Iran said the EU must be given more time to set up a trade mechanism meant to circumvent reimposed US sanctions on Tehran, but warned it could not "wait forever". The EU is working on a payment system to continue trade and business ties with Iran after the US ditched a landmark 2015 nuclear deal with Tehran in 2018 and reintroduced a raft of sanctions on the country.

UN examining Saudi woman's asylum bid

AFP ■ BANGKOK

The asylum claim of a Saudi woman who resisted deportation from Thailand will take several days to assess, the UN said on Tuesday, as the 18-year-old's family, who she accuses of abusing her, was due to arrive in Bangkok.

Rahaf Mohammed al-Qunun arrived at Bangkok's main airport on a flight from Kuwait after running away from her family, who she alleges subjected her to physical and psychological abuse.

Thailand is not a signatory to a UN convention on refugees, and asylum seekers are typically deported or wait years to be resettled in third countries.

The UNHCR insists anyone with an asylum claim should not be sent back to the country they fled under the principle of non-refoulement. In a short press release distributed to media outside their embassy in Bangkok on Tuesday, the Saudi Government said it had not demanded her deportation, adding the case is a "family affair", but under the "care and attention" of the embassy.

In an earlier and separate explanation released on Twitter, the embassy also denied sending officials to Suvarnabhumi airport to meet Qunun as she arrived via Kuwait or

Rahaf Mohammed al-Qunun arrived at Bangkok's main airport on a flight from Kuwait after running away from her family, who she alleges subjected her to physical and psychological abuse

It could take several days to process the case and determine next steps, the UNHCR representative in Thailand, Giuseppe de Vicentis, said in a statement.

Thailand is not a signatory to a UN convention on refugees, and asylum seekers are typically deported or wait years to be resettled in third countries.

The UNHCR insists anyone with an asylum claim should not be sent back to the country they fled under the principle of non-refoulement. In a short press release distributed to media outside their embassy in Bangkok on Tuesday, the Saudi Government said it had not demanded her deportation, adding the case is a "family affair", but under the "care and attention" of the embassy.

In an earlier and separate explanation released on Twitter, the embassy also denied sending officials to Suvarnabhumi airport to meet Qunun as she arrived via Kuwait or impounding her passport - as she alleged.

It also said the embassy had made contact with her father, a senior regional government official in the kingdom, "to inform him on her situation".

Thai immigration chief Surachate Hakpant told reporters that Qunun's father and brother were due in Thailand later on Tuesday.

He said he would talk to the UN refugee agency about the potential of a meeting between the family members.

"Rahaf is not a political asylum case," he insisted. "It is not political at all." Ultra-conservative Saudi Arabia has some of the world's toughest restrictions on women, including a guardianship system that allows male family members to make decisions on behalf of female relatives.

Qunun has said she believes she will be imprisoned or killed if sent back, and that her family is so strict it once locked her in a room for six months for cutting her hair.

Under the hashtag #SaveRahaf, the young woman's desperate pleas became a social media sensation, and she was able to post live updates and videos from the Bangkok airport in both Arabic and English, racking up more than 80,000 followers.

Australia to 'carefully consider' Saudi woman's plea

AFP ■ SYDNEY

Australia on Tuesday vowed to consider an 18-year-old Saudi woman's plea for asylum, further easing fears she could be forcibly returned home.

Rahaf Mohammed Al-Qunun's desperate bid to reach Australia will be "carefully considered" if the United Nations deems she is at risk, an official told AFP. Qunun, fleeing alleged abuse by her conservative family, says she tried to reach Australia on a tourist visa.

But she was stopped en route by authorities in Thailand at the request of the Saudi government, which demanded the woman return to her family.

Qunun barricaded herself in a Bangkok airport hotel room, refusing to leave and posting determined calls for asylum on social media to draw attention to her plight.

She is currently being assessed by the UN's refugee agency.

Human rights activists had expressed concerns that Australia's government - which takes a hard line on immigration - may revoke her tourist visa.

The official did not confirm or deny if the visa had been revoked, but said it would make no difference to her bid to reach Australia.

"Any application by Ms Al-Qunun for a humanitarian visa will be carefully considered once the UNHCR process has concluded," the official said.

"Whether someone holds a visitor visa does not have a bearing on this process." Australia had quietly pressed authorities in Thailand to grant the UN access to Qunun, and now wants the matter dealt with quickly.

"The Government has made representations to the Thai government and the Bangkok office of the UNHCR about its serious concerns on this matter and the need for Ms Al-Qunun's claim to be assessed expeditiously," the official said.

UK rules out Brexit extension as May seeks EU help on deal

AP ■ BRUSSELS

The British government on Tuesday ruled out seeking an extension to the two-year period taking the country out of the European Union as Prime Minister Theresa May continued to seek further concessions from the EU ahead of a crucial parliamentary vote next week on her Brexit deal.

In a move that has massive trade, business and political implications, Britain will leave the EU on March 29 when the two-year period that governs the process by which a country can leave the bloc times out, the so-called Article 50 of the EU's governing treaty.

Without a withdrawal agreement, Britain faces the prospect of crashing out of the bloc on that date with no deal, a development that could see tariffs slapped on British exports to the EU, widespread disruption at ports and shortages of food and pharmaceuticals.

As things stand May does not appear to have the numbers to win the support of enough lawmakers for the Brexit deal that she forged with the EU last November. And that's raised concerns of a "no-deal" Brexit and prompted talk of an extension to the two-year process or even another referendum on Britain's membership of the EU.

"Article 50 will not be extended. We are leaving the EU on the 29th of March this year, because that's what Article

Britain's Foreign Secretary Jeremy Hunt arrives for a cabinet meeting in Downing street in London on Tuesday

50 says, that's what Parliament voted for, and that's now what domestic British legislation says as well," Britain's minister of state for exiting the EU, Martin Callanan, told reporters in Brussels.

Britain can request an extension to the Brexit procedure, but all 27 other EU countries must agree, and the bloc's leaders said last month that they would need good reasons to prolong it. Officials have said a second Brexit referendum could be one good reason to do so.

May is set to put the deal to lawmakers next week, and has been in talks with several EU leaders about fresh guarantees. She postponed a scheduled vote on the deal in December after it became clear she would lose.

France insisted Tuesday that the EU can only offer political reassurances to help May persuade reluctant lawmakers to accept the Brexit deal.

French European affairs minister Nathalie Loiseau urged reluctant British lawmakers to back the deal, which lays out things like Britain's future financial obligations, the rights of citizens hit by Brexit and steps to keep goods flowing freely across the Irish border.

"We really need to have a ratification of the withdrawal agreement. This is the best solution for both parties," Loiseau told reporters.

Any help for May to convince parliament, Loiseau said, would amount to "political assurances, but there is nothing more that we can do."

EU in talks with US over embassy 'downgrade'

PTI ■ BEIJING

Brussels: The European Union said Tuesday it is in talks with US officials after President Donald Trump's administration reportedly "downgraded" the bloc's embassy in Washington, in the latest blow to transatlantic relations.

The US State Department lowered the EU mission's diplomatic status from member state to international organisation late last year, according to a report by German broadcaster Deutsche Welle.

The move apparently only came to light when the EU ambassador in Washington did not receive an invitation to the funeral of former US president George H.W. Bush in December, DW reported.

"We understand that there was a recent change in the way the diplomatic precedence list is implemented by the United States' Protocol," Maja Kocijancic, spokeswoman for the European Commission's diplomatic service. AFP

Kim Jong-un arrives in China for talks

PTI ■ BEIJING

North Korean leader Kim Jong-un arrived in China on Tuesday on an unannounced visit, in an apparent effort to co-ordinate with his only major ally ahead of a possible second summit with US President Donald Trump over denuclearisation of the Korean peninsula.

Kim, accompanied by his wife Ri Sol-ju and senior officials including Kim Yong-chol - his right-hand man in diplomatic negotiations with the US and South Korea, arrived in Beijing on his private train.

He is visiting China from January 7 to 10 at the invitation of President Xi Jinping, state-run Xinhua news agency reported.

While official media gave few details, Beijing witnessed familiar traffic snarls like during Kim's previous visits during which traffic on the main thoroughfares were blocked for his convoy to pass.

The reclusive North Korean leader visited China thrice last year to meet with Xi before and after his first summit with Trump in Singapore in June last.

He came again, this time on his 36th birthday, in an apparent effort to co-ordinate with his only major ally ahead of a possible second summit with Trump over denuclearisation of the Korean peninsula.

Erdogan not to meet Trump aide in apparent snub

AP ■ ANKARA

US National Security Adviser John Bolton is set to depart Turkey without meeting with President Recep Tayyip Erdogan, in an apparent snub over disagreements about Kurdish fighters in Syria.

A US official had said over the weekend that the two were expected to have consultations on Tuesday about the fate of Kurds allied with the United States in Syria as part of discussions about President Donald Trump's troop draw-down from the country.

National Security Council spokesman Garrett Marquis said US Officials were told Erdogan cited local election season and a speech to parliament for not meeting with Bolton.

In the speech to parliament Tuesday, Erdogan criticized the U.S. Position that the Kurds must be protected, reiterating his government's position that they are a terrorist group.

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan says Turkey's preparations for a new military offensive against terror groups in Syria are "to a large extent" complete.

There will be a rise in the number of students aspiring for footwear design, fashion technology, apparel design, fashion design, furniture design, fashion communication, knitwear design, jewellery design and bachelor of design programmes of Footwear Institute of India, National Institute of Design, National Institute of Fashion technology and Indian Institute of Technologies will increase during the year 2019.

BANKING, FINANCE, MANAGEMENT

Banking recruitment will increase during 2019. The Institute of Banking Personnel Selection (IBPS) had already called for probationary officer/ clerical or specialist officer cadre.

Advertising will show an additional annual growth of two per cent during 2019. Chartered accountant, ICWAI, chartered institute of Management accountant programme, Chartered management accountant, CIMA global, Asset management, Risk assessment, financial analyst, actuarial science, project management and ACCA programme will attract more students. Combined accounting course with GST compliant courses will emerge from ISDC, UK which can create more employment opportunities.

Prospects for commerce, business studies, management programmes, international business, trade related courses, intellectual property rights and patent law will attain more importance at post graduate and doctoral level studies. Courses related to performing arts, visual communication, business economics, business communication and android development, will create more job opportunities.

Start-up: In tune with the growth in 2018, India will continue to emerge as the third largest start-up ecosystem in the World. Barriers to start business will come down but entrepreneurship will regain.

Entrepreneurs will also include new mothers who want more time at home and 75 per cent more females than males prefer working from home. Students will try to become employers after establishing start-ups in ICT, agri-allied, food processing, education and other services sectors.

FOREIGN EDUCATION

Substantial changes will be witnessed in the trends in overseas education during 2019. The United States will give priority to advanced degree holders from the US Universities for H1B visa will benefit Indian students. This will facilitate more students to pursue for graduate programmes in the US.

Brexit will be implemented during first half of 2019 and will promote overseas education opportunities for EU and UK. Career opportunity in UK will be improved further. UK may relax ban on post study work visa ban as a sequel to National skill and education policy.

Germany and France may witness economic recession and will affect international students. But Macron's reforms will try to correct some of the challenges faced as a sequel to recession. Overseas students will prefer India for higher education.

China will implement novel programmes in AI, Robotics, IOT and Analytics. Technology, Entrepreneurship, start-ups and skill development are some of the areas where India is exhibiting spectacular growth. The US, Canada, Australia and Singapore will again emerge as the potential destinations for Indian students. The US's pay structure for employees working under H1B visa and the recent sops will attract more Indian students. But US may witness economic recession during second half of 2019. Ireland, Netherlands, New Zealand, France, Germany and Ireland will continue to give post study work visa up to two years.

2019 will be the year of data science, Internet of things, skill development, innovation based technologies, talent analytics, automation, block chain technologies, advanced IT & smart courses, says DR TP SETHUMADHAVAN

In the era of digitalisation, skill will be the deciding factor to improve the employability of educated/ unemployed youths. Without appropriate skilling, it will be difficult to sustain in the career market.

Digitalisation, E commerce, food processing, health services, ayurveda, yoga, accounting, banking, financial and insurance services will show robust growth in the country. Umpteen opportunities will be created in accounting, logistics, supply chain management, retail management, network media, digital marketing, e-banking and mobile banking in the country. For productive employment and decent work, we need to work for opportunities for new skills and new sectors.

Technical, supervisory, managerial and customised skill development programmes will attain popularity. National level skill universities may emerge which will facilitate lots of transformations in the job market.

During 2018, Make in India, Digital India and Skill India can't create envisaged employment opportunities in manufacturing, information and communication technology and skill development in the country. Realising the shortfall, Government of India may facilitate to create more employment opportunities as part of pre-election home work.

INDIA'S ECONOMY & EMPLOYMENT

India has been ranked as the 58th most competitive economy in the World Economic Forum's global competitiveness index for 2018. Its competitive advantage includes market size (rank third), innovation capability (rank 31) and business dynamism with ranking of 58.

More investments will be necessary to spur innovation beyond hubs of excellence and diffuse economic growth more broadly. Indian companies can access the third largest market in the world and would benefit from increased trade openness to drive productivity growth.

Separation of EU from UK as a sequel to Brexit will become reality during 2019 even though a lot of apprehensions exist in this sector. Indians top the list of overstayers in UK according to Britain's Foreign and Commonwealth office. Globally, Britain and India are looking at opportunities for co-operation with India beyond Brexit.

According to the report by the Centre for Sustainable Employment of Azim Premji University, 10 per cent increase in GDP results in less than one per cent increase in employment. The rate of unemployment among the youth and higher educated has touched 16 per cent. Indian economy will overtake Britain's economy during 2019. Half of the world's population will become online during 2019. India's GDP growth will attain 7.6 per cent.

McKinsey studies reveal that there will be increased participation of women in the economy which would increase the GDP. India Skills 2019 report suggests that hiring of women is expected to go up by 15 to 20 per cent especially in the banking, financial services, insurance, automotive, IT, software, hospitality, travel and tourism sectors.

CAREER & JOB PROSPECTS

Agribusiness, veterinary science, fisheries technology, food processing, dairy technology, food technology, poultry product technology, post harvest technology, high value agriculture, environmental science, logistics, supply chain management, courses related to packaging, nanoscience, organic/natural farming will be the focus areas during 2019.

Services sector will create more than 67 per cent employment opportunities in the country. New Year will exhibit spectacular growth employee recruitment and 11-15 per cent increase in salary hike. Net employment outlook will be reduced during the first two quarters in India. There will be stagnation in 2019 first two quarters in India due to general election. But gradually it will increase to three percentage points higher than the previous quarter.

Retail sector in rural, tier two and tier three cities will exhibit double digit growth in sales and employment. Healthcare, textile and IT sectors exhibit only single digit growth in sales and employment. Packaging industry will generate more employment.

Hospitality, tourism, retail, supply chain, logistics and agri business management sectors will exhibit higher growth rate similar to 2018 in 2019. There will be more takers for retail management, hospitality management, hotel management, airline and airport management and transport management courses.

Aviation and Cyber security will generate more employment opportunities. Automation, machine learning and block chain technology will decide the future of work as suggested by ILO which will start replacing the traditional sectors. By 2022, nine per cent workforce would be in new jobs which do not exist today.

Around 37 per cent would be in jobs which will radically change the skill sets. About 21 percent of workforce will face existential threat. Around 20-25 per cent jobs will be in organised sector and the share of organised sector will reach 10 per cent from the current 8 per cent level. Thus, organised workforce will be around 46 to 48 million by 2022.

Courses like English, economics, social sciences, customised psychology programmes, foreign languages, developmental studies, embryology, public administration, media studies, paramedical courses like physiotherapy, optometry, nursing, audiology and speech language pathology, nutrition and dietetics will attract more students.

ADVANCE IT

Artificial Intelligence (AI) will become the motive force for the fourth industrial revolution. AI, big data, automation and quantum computing could fundamentally alter the economic progress. Data science and machine learning are some of the emerging sectors which can create lot of employment opportunities. Skills in cloud services, big data analytics, machine learning and artificial intelligence are going to be critical for the data science professional.

Data scientist, data analyst, data architect, data statistician, ML engineer, ML Specialist, technical architect and data engineer are some of the most popular roles in which they can work. Digital services sector will show robust growth in the year to come.

Gartner studies suggest that 75 per cent of the 10 lakhs registered companies' jobs in India are going to invest in machine learning and data science. Traditional companies started acquiring digital companies in India. Banking and financial services are in the forefront with almost 44 per cent of jobs falling in the domain commerce has also emerged as the largest market for data science professionals which account for 12 per cent of the analytics jobs in 2019. Other sectors where data science professionals are in demand are healthcare (12 per cent), energy (eight per cent), telecom (six per cent) and media (six per cent).

AUTOMOBILE & ENGINEERING

By 2030 more number of electric or hybrid vehicles will be commercially available across the world. Integrated courses like mechatronics, embedded computing, system design, automobile engineering, biomedical sciences, bio informatics, developmental sciences, humanities and social sciences will acquire more importance.

Global move to reduce the use of fossil fuels like petrol and diesel will pave way for electric, solar or hybrid vehicles which in turn facilitate spectacular growth in automobile design and engineering. There will be more takers for students aspiring for integrated post graduate courses and inter disciplinary research in the country.

Manufacturing sector, which is providing only 14 per cent employment opportunities, can create up to 25 per cent employment opportunities in 2019. Construction and infrastructure sectors will create more employment opportunities which can facilitate architecture, civil, mechanical, electrical and electronics, electronics and communication, computer, IT and biomedical engineering. Core engineering graduates require skill development programmes as part of value addition to get appropriate job positions. Green technology will emerge as one of the potential sectors in India giving due initiatives to improve quality of air we breathe and clean, affordable & reliable sources of energy.

POWER & ENERGY

Decentralisation, digitisation and decarbonisation will emerge as new technologies in the energy sector. The industry will see proliferation of solar and wind sector. The energy companies will be increasingly concerned with the sources and quality of services it provides with innovations in tune with the technological interventions. A digital network is beginning to connect distributed systems of energy.

Water, sanitation, waste management, energy, roof top electricity systems, prefab technology and infrastructure are emerging as the prospective areas. Next generation infrastructure revolution will improve efficiencies, drive growth, offer citizens homes, work places, transport systems and utilities.

Government of India is aiming to commercially introduce 5G services in the country by the end of 2020 in line with the world. Internet connectivity would become much faster and would form the backbone of the emerging era of Internet of things. The transition from 4G to 5G will serve both consumers and multiple industries.

Ericsson report reveals that it will enable 27 $ billion revenue opportunity for Indian telecom operators by 2026. Education, healthcare, innovation in design and engineering including development of high tech metro rail systems will generate more employment opportunities in 2019.

Legal framework set for use of drones will create more opportunities in mapping like GIS, GPS, GST, surveying and photography. Government has approved full digital ecosystem for granting permission to use drones. This will facilitate opportunities in precision agriculture, aviation sector and start-up industry.

FOOD INDUSTRY

At a time when prospects for ready to eat and ready to cook products are emerging across the world, food processing sector will exhibit annual growth rate of 20-25 per cent in the country. Food outsourcing will improve and food market will emerge as 55 percent of retail market during 2019.

LOGISTICS

Air cargo business will exhibit a growth of 12.9 per cent in the coming year to achieve National Civil Aviation Policy vision of reaching 10 million tons cargo volume by 2027. According to the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry of India (ASSOCHAM) studies, it will generate more employment in tier two and tier three

37 PER CENT WORKFORCE WILL BE IN JOBS WHICH WILL RADICALLY CHANGE THE SKILLSETS. 21 PER CENT OF WORKFORCE WILL FACE EXISTENTIAL THREAT. AROUND 20-25 PER CENT JOBS WILL BE IN ORGANISED SECTOR AND THE SHARE OF ORGANISED SECTOR WILL REACH 10 PER CENT FROM THE CURRENT EIGHT PER CENT

A Bachelor of Architecture graduate from Hyderabad secured 98.97 percentile. In the Common Admission Test (CAT) 2018, results of which were released on Saturday (January 5, 2019). VNS Juhi Vallabh, who took a gap year after graduation to prepare for the test, said she concentrated more on basics to crack the test.

"I joined a coaching institute and gave my 100 per cent during the preparation. I took about 20 mock tests and used the results of these exams to make changes in my preparation. Google was another tool which I used to clear the doubts that I had," said Juhi adding that she was strong in English, but had to concentrate more on Maths as the subject was missing in Bachelor of Architecture.

Juhi, a resident of Nallakunta, said she wants to specialise in marketing in MBA (Master of Business Administration) and is no more interested in architecture.

"While studying BArch, I realised that I'm more interested in the management side of marketing. Also, during the summer vacation, I started helping my dad who is into media marketing and really liked what he is doing. That's when I decided that I want to pursue MBA," Juhi added.

Till Class XII, Juhi studied in Hyderabad and then moved to Madhya Pradesh to pursue graduation from School of Planning and Architecture in Bhopal and graduated in May 2018.

In total, 11 candidates secured 100 percentile this year from across the country. All the students belong to engineering or technology stream.

Atal Tinkering labs

With a vision to 'Cultivate one million children in India as Neoteric Innovators', Atal Innovation Mission (AIM), housed at NITI Aayog, is establishing Atal Tinkering Laboratories (ATLs) in schools across India. The objective of this scheme is to foster curiosity, creativity and imagination in young minds; and inculcate skills such as design mindset, computational thinking, physical computing etc.

Leadership Foundation, has created the Ethical Leadership in Tinkering and Innovation (ELTI) module to inculcate the ethics and values that form the bedrock of innovation for social good in young minds of the ATL network. The module makes use of activities to provide students a framework to promote hands-on learning and tinkering with students in India. The ELTI module is rolled out to ATLs and can be accessed online at http://aim.gov.in/pdf/ATL_ELTI_Module.pdf

This experiential programme includes hands-on activities that are both challenging and thought-provoking, aiming at reigniting conversations on the code of conduct and ethics in innovation, and taking decisive action to combat challenges in a sustained manner. The module is aimed at ATL-in-charges/ teachers/mentors who would follow it to teach the students about ethical leadership skills. The module has been created in Do-It-Yourself mode so that students can themselves conduct the activities and self-learn.

One are the days when Indian students either opted for engineering or medical after the completing high school. Today's generation is not shying away from taking the road less travelled. Unlike yesteryears, they now have a pool of options to choose from depending upon their personal interests and skill sets.

This trend has also caught on with individuals studying overseas. The 2018 Open Doors Report on International Educational Exchange reveals that Indian and other international students in the US are turning to off-beat courses.

While traditional Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) courses continue to be their top preferences, some specialised courses like Robotics, Automation and Mechatronics are witnessing an increasing demand and will gain popularity this year.

ROBOTICS

Thanks to the rapid progress of AI (Artificial Intelligence), robots are no longer considered dumb-machines that are only capable of doing simple, repetitive tasks. With the arrival of humanoids like Sophia and SoftBank's Pepper, robots have made huge leaps in recent years. Simultaneously, the career options for students who specialise in robotics has expanded.

From doing research work to designing industrial robots, they can get the opportunity to work in a variety of industries. Therefore, the number of students opting for courses related to robotics is likely to go up in 2019.

AUTOMATION

With the fourth industry revolution upon us, automation has already started making profound impacts on the business world. Be it manufacturing, automotive or retail, nearly every sector is now investing heavily on automating tasks that are tedious, repetitive and dangerous.

As traditional job roles are evolving, the demand for automation experts is growing by the day. This explains why a large number of international students are now inclining towards automation courses. Other than automation engineering, certification courses in industrial automation are also expected to take off next year.

MECHATRONICS

Mechatronics is a fairly new branch of engineering that has caught the attention of students off late. As described on Stanford University's online portal, it is at the intersection of mechanical engineering, electronic engineering and software engineering. Mechatronics engineering focuses on technologies involved in building intelligent electro-mechanical systems. After completion of their course, graduates can look for work opportunities in various areas including automation and robotics, AI and expert systems, sensing and control systems, computer integrated manufacturing systems, and transportation and vehicular systems. Since it's a specialised field, only a few universities at pre-

*Organisations, globally, are widening up to this fact and increasingly looking for talent that is learning agile and can continue to perform and keep with the changing job role demands in the present and future. Learning agility will be the second most in-demand skill for organisations during Hiring in 2019," Ketan Kapoor, CEO, Mercer-Mettl says.

In 2019, Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) courses will remain on the top of popular courses choice among the students in every country, as it has rapidly evolved from just being popular in the United States. Furthermore, STEM courses do provide numerous technological sent, offer this course in undergraduate and post-graduate levels.

DISABILITY PROGRAMMES

According to a World Bank report, a billion people across the world live some form of disability. At a time, when people of disabilities make for the 15 per cent of the global population, the demand for disability support workers is on a rapid rise in many countries. In Australia, for example, the Healthcare and Social Assistance sector is speculated to grow by 16.1% by 2025, creating as many as 2,50,500 new jobs. Students with a degree in disability programmes can find a wide range of jobs.

Be it a speech therapist or a full-time caregiver, the options are plenty. Students can also decide to work for Government bodies after graduation. Most medical schools in popular study destinations offer specialised courses in disability care.

INFECTION CONTROL

Another course that is tipped to gain popularity in 2019 is infection control. This specialised field of study prepares students to work in an array of settings such as hospitals, healthcare facilities, Government departments, private labs among others. While only a handful of universities offer regular courses in infection control, students can go for certificate courses or part-time programmes. In most countries, however, they need to get a license before they start their professional life.

Students are also getting lured by other interdisciplinary programmes like Geophysics, Marine Engineering, Game Design and Development, says the 2018 Open Doors Report on International Educational Exchange.

When it comes to Indians, the scenario is not much different. Although the majority of them still prefer to choose a safe career path, popularity for unconventional courses are slowly growing.

HR trends 2019

The HR trends that will take centrestage this year are personalised employed engagement among others, says ANCHAL KHANNA

It's New Year and there will be HR practices that will be trending in 2019. Some of the projections for 2018 like as personalised employee engagement and more intense use of AI will continue to gain momentum next year, but some new trends are likely to take center-stage because of defining events that took place in the past year.

Recognise and reduce unconscious Bias: As the call for equal opportunity and equal pay for equal work done gains steam, Indian companies and MNCs alike are trying to put in place policies that are more inclusive. Diversity and inclusion is no longer a catch phrase but very much an important agenda for the Indian corporate world. This includes using technology for blind hiring, sensitising all employees and more inclusive onboarding processes. Much more effort will be directed towards improving diversity in the workplace, maybe even setting diversity goals as part of their talent acquisition process.

Employee wellness made more comprehensive: Corporates have begun to realise how much employee wellness contributes towards the bottom line. When employees are stress free and happy they are much more productive. Companies will need to put in place creative strategies to ensure that the well-being of their workforce is holistic.

The definition of wellness needs to expand to include not just physical well-being, but also mental, financial and spiritual wellness. Tracking wellness on phones, wearable devices, customising wellness experiences, introducing stress regulation training, mindfulness and meditation, offering programmes that help employees with investments to reduce debt or maintain a certain lifestyle post retirement will become some of the focus areas of employee wellness.

A relook at implementing PoSH in the workplace: In the light of the #MeToo movement companies will want to sensitize and train employees to be fully compliant with the requirements of the Prevention of Sexual Harassment Act of 2013. Organisations will want to have their PoSH policy in place — from creating awareness about the meaning of sexual harassment, to forming the internal complaints committee, and promoting a safe working environment.

Anchal Khanna
CEO, SHRM India

Greater emphasis on Employee Development: As India continues to be among the fastest growing economies in the world, attracting and retaining talent will become crucial. Indian companies recognise that and are putting more and more emphasis on upskilling and developing their employees.

They are using unique approaches to arrive at this goal — providing portals that enable self-learning and development, including development in their performance management systems, partnering with well-known academic institutions to build skills and develop leaders, etc.

Homegrown HR solutions providers: There's been a spike in companies that provide locally developed HR solutions specific for the Indian economy. While SAP and Oracle have a significant presence, smaller vendors with indigenously developed software are finding their place in the burgeoning HR technology market. If the data protection legislation comes into force in India, it will only fuel this growth more.

The field is experiencing a wave of innovations which will transform the way we practice it from now on.

The good news for job-seekers, there will be an increase in average hiring volume from 25% in 2018 to 31% in 2019.

Hiring will be a trend in all the key sectors like Technology, BFSI, Healthcare, Manufacturing and Retail.

However, as per the survey results, the top 3 sectors that will do high-volume hiring (more than 500+ employees annually) would be BFSI, IT & Retail. In BFSI sector around 42% of companies will hire more than 500+ employees in 2019. And in IT sector 33% of organizations will hire around 500+ employees this year.

The top three functions that will see maximum hiring in 2019 would be:

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow is offering Indian students the opportunity of a scholarship award up to £4,000 towards the cost of their tuition fees for each year of the undergraduate and postgraduate courses in International Relations and Diplomacy .This is applicable to the full-time programmes beginning in September 2019. Courses: MSc Diplomacy & International Security, MSc European Politics, MSc International Relations, MSc International Relations, Law & Security, MSc Public Policy, MSc Politics, MSc Political Research.

Eligibility: To be eligible, applicants must: Be a resident in India, Be available to commence their academic studies by the start of the academic year in September 2019, Be applying for a full-time undergraduate or post-graduate programme, Some scholarships have restrictions on other funding you can accept. This means you have to decide which scholarship to accept. For any University of Strathclyde award you are successful in applying for, you will receive the higher award only.

advancements in the world, the reason many students opt for them.

"We are expecting to see a rise in specialised courses such as Robotics, Automation, Mechatronics, Disability programmes, and Infection control courses. All countries will be favoured in 2019, but it depends upon the need of the students," says Rohit Sethi, director, ESS Global.

For instance: The UK is getting quite popular for one year Master's programme among international students. Whereas, Germany has seen a rise in Engineering graduates. Talking about countries like Australia and Canada, they will be the leading countries among the study abroad aspirants due to a huge range of programmes and stay back opportunities.

With cutting-edge technologies like AI and machine learning becoming more and more integral to business operations in the IT/ITES sector, the demand for professionals with evolved, tech-led skillsets will only increase further in 2019.

Expertise in areas such as data compliance and cybersecurity will also be much sought-after, given how critical data privacy and information security have become in the global business discourse. It also foresees organisations collaborating with reputed online learning platforms such as ShineLearning.com to undertake large-scale upskilling and reskilling of their in-house talent.

"This skills-centric approach will benefit both the employers and the employees; while recruiters will be able to seamlessly address the growing demand for skills within their organisations, professionals can access significantly better career opportunities by upgrading their existing skillsets. With rapid technological advancement paving the way for a high-growth, high-value jobs ecosystem, we can expect continuous learning, unlearning, and relearning to become the motto of the new-age workforce," Zairus Master, CEO, Shine.com opines.

STUDY CENTRES

With more and more people looking for alternative medicine treatment, the options are growing by leap and bounds in this field. One such field is magnetic therapy — a natural and painless treatment with no side effects. It involves knowledge about the human body, various diseases and their treatment by using magnets. A magnetic therapist can find employment in private/public hospitals, naturopathy hospitals or alternative treatment therapy centres. The minimum qualification for getting admission to certificate, degree and diploma courses in magnet therapy is 10+2 and graduation for PG courses. A few colleges where one can study are:

- Bihar Acupressure Yoga College, Patna. Course: Bachelor of Magneto Therapy
- Holy Angels College of Alternative Medicines, Mumbai. Course: Bachelor of Magneto Therapy
- All India Alternative Medical Council, Nainital. Course: Bachelor of Magneto Therapy
- All India Paramedical Technology and Alternative Medicine Council, Ludhiana. Course: Bachelor of Magneto Therapy
- Acupressure Health Mart, New Delhi, Kolkata, Raipur. Course: Master Diploma in Magnet Therapy

IN BRIEF

AMRITA SINGS MOU WITH INDIAN NAVY

Amrita Vishwa Vidyapeetham has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Indian Navy for academic and research collaboration in the field of aerospace, anti-submarine warfare, cyber security, management, and medical research. The MoU would encompass collaborative research and development in all possible areas of mutual interest and strength, including M.Tech and PhD programmes for naval officers. Speaking at the occasion C Parameswaran, Director, Corporate and Industry Relations, Amrita Vishwa Vidyapeetham, Coimbatore said: "This is a historic moment. This is the first time that the Indian Navy has signed an MOU with a private university. Our scientists and researchers eagerly look forward to doing cutting-edge research with the officers to help strengthen the country's defenses."

ONE-YEAR PROGRAMME

The Indian School of Public Policy invites applications for the first round of admissions for its flagship programme in Policy, Design and Management. Designed for aspiring public policy managers, practitioners and administrators, the programme will ground students in a strong policy foundation, and arm them with core skills in policy design, implementation, management and assessment. The last date to submit application (first round) is January 15, 2019. The first session will commence from August 2019 at the programme campus in Qutab Institutional Area, New Delhi.

SUMMER INTERNSHIP PROGRAMME

Internshala, in collaboration with Aniket Singh, the author of 'Intern Abroad This Summer' series of books, has launched the 'Aniket Singh Summer Internship Program'. Through this program, students can avail once in a lifetime summer internship opportunities at three top academic institutes - University of Southampton, UK, IISc Bangalore, and IIT Gandhinagar with full scholarship of up to ₹2 lakhs. Any engineering student, across disciplines, can apply to the internships from January 5-11, 2019. Aniket Singh is an IIT Madras alumnus and is working at Apple Inc in California, US. He has been working towards making top research internships in the world more accessible for Indian students. He is also the author of 'Intern Abroad This Summer' series, which outlines how to find and score top research internships in the world. For details, visit: <https://internshala.com/aniket-singh-summer-internship-program>

IELTS CHANGES

The Nursing and Midwifery Council in the UK has announced changes to its English language proficiency requirements for overseas nurses and midwives wishing to work in the UK. Under the change, nurses and midwives wishing to work in the UK will still be required to achieve a minimum overall score of 7.0 in IELTS. However, a 6.5 score in the writing section of the test will be accepted alongside a 7.0 score in each of the Reading, Listening and Speaking sections of the test.

Commenting on the announcement, Michael King, Managing Director, BC Examinations and English Services India, Pvt Ltd said: "The British Council is committed to creating opportunities for people to succeed in India and across the world. We look forward to continue providing support and guidance to those nurses and midwives looking to work in the UK."

CAT'S CALL PREDICTOR

Shiksha has launched one of the first ever IIM & non-IIM Call Predictor featuring 250-plus colleges across India at its portal for MBA aspirants. The CAT 2018 results are already out. There are about 1.5 lakh CAT takers, who will start filling application for the colleges based on their performance. The newly launched tool will help students to shortlist which colleges they may get based on the CAT score and focus on the preparation for their qualitative round. There are numerous factors that influence the college selection. With the Call Predictor, candidates can take a quick decision.

Wolves throw Liverpool out of FA Cup

Goals from Raul Jimenez and Neves sent the hosts into fourth round of nothing when Origi collected a loose ball on the edge of the area six minutes into the second period and smashed the ball high past John Ruddy.

Wolves, though, have made a habit of upsetting the Premier League's established top six in their first season back in the top flight.

After beating Chelsea and Tottenham and holding City, Manchester United and Arsenal in the Premier League, Liverpool can now be added to the list of scalps for Nuno Espirito Santo's side thanks to a wonder strike from Neves.

"He has talent, he has done it before and we encourage him to shoot from range," said Wolves boss Nuno Espirito Santo. "It was a good strike." Only a brilliant save from Ruddy denied Xherdan Shaqiri a stunning equaliser and Liverpool a replay as the Swiss's free-kick was touched onto the inside of the post by the Wolves goalkeeper. Klopp had a final roll of the dice by throwing on Salah and Firmino for the final 20 minutes, but even their firepower failed to spark a fightback and Klopp's team selection will now be seriously questioned as he is still to deliver a trophy in his four seasons in charge.

However, with Liverpool still in pole position to deliver a first league title in 29 years, the German coach defended his selection to minimise the chance of his stars suffering injuries.

"We played a similar line-up and had three tough games in the last couple of weeks, so it was clear we had to change," Klopp added after a run of four Premier League games in 13 days over the festive period.

"The intensity of the last few games gave me the information it was not possible to start with these three up front. Only Dejan played a lot of games in the last three or four weeks, pretty much all the games... He played today and was injured."

Arsenal to host Man Utd in 4th round

LONDON: The FA Cup's two most successful ever sides will meet in the fourth round as Arsenal host Manchester United in the last 32, Monday's draw confirmed. Premier League champions Manchester City are at home to Burnley, while Tottenham face a tough trip to Crystal Palace.

Chelsea have an easier task with Sheffield Wednesday or Luton to travel to Stamford Bridge. Wolves' reward for beating Liverpool is a trip to either Shrewsbury or Stoke. AFP

Hoever's introduction meant Liverpool fielded three teenagers for the majority of the match with Rafael Camacho and Curtis Jones also handed debuts.

However it was the visitors' most experienced player, Milner, who was at fault for the opening goal when Diogo Jota caught the former England international in possession in midfield and put Jimenez clean through for the Mexican to score his seventh goal of the season.

Without Mohamed Salah, Roberto Firmino and Sadio Mane, Liverpool were struggling to get any momentum going forward.

But the visitors were level out

Klopp on what forced Lovren off. "I asked everybody, no signs, nothing, just out of the blue, so that's the decision you have to make."

"I am not sure what you all would have said if immediately from the beginning if our centre-half situation was Fabinho and Ki-Jana; then probably a few very smart people would tell me that I don't respect the competition or whatever."

Goals from Raul Jimenez and Ruben Neves either side of half-time sent the hosts into round four, where they will face Shrewsbury or Stoke City, despite Divock Origi's fine strike briefly bringing Liverpool level after the break.

Liverpool manager Jurgen Klopp believes an early injury to defender Dejan Lovren highlighted why he chose to name a second-string side in bowing out of the FA Cup 2-1 to Wolves on Monday.

Klopp made nine changes to the side that lost narrowly for the first time in the Premier League this season to Manchester City on Thursday, with Lovren one of only two players to retain their place.

However, the Croatian pulled up with a hamstring injury after just six minutes and was replaced by 16-year-old Ki-Jana Hoever.

"Hamstring, is what I heard - without any signs before," said

PAK RESCHEDULES KABBADI SERIES

KARACHI: The Tri-nation Kabbadi International series involving India, Pakistan and Iran was rescheduled after the organisers on Tuesday failed to get security clearance for the inaugural matches in Jhang. The organizers said that the series was scheduled to start from Tuesday with a clash between Pakistan and Indian teams at Jhang but the tournament will now be held from January 10 to 14. "We didn't get security clearance from the interior ministry and now the event will start from January 10th from Bahawalpur and continue in Sahiwal and end in Lahore on the 14th," the organisers said.

EGYPT TO HOST AFRICA CUP OF NATIONS

CAIRO: Egypt will host the 2019 Africa Cup of Nations between June 15 and July 13, Confederation of African Football (CAF) executive committee preferred Egypt to South Africa as replacements for original hosts Cameroon, who were dropped due to delays in preparations and concerns over security. It will be the fifth time Egypt stage the biennial showpiece of African football after 1959, when the country was called the United Arab Republic, 1974, 1986 and 2006. Egypt only entered the running to host the Cup of Nations when fellow north African country Morocco announced they would not bid to do so.

WEAH JOINS CELTIC ON LOAN FROM PSG

PARIS: Scottish champions Celtic reinforced their striking options on Monday with the signing of USA international Timothy Weah on loan from Paris Saint-Germain for the rest of the season. Son of 1995 Ballon d'Or winner and Liberian president George Weah, the 18-year-old has scored two goals in three appearances for PSG this season but saw his opportunities limited by a star front three of Neymar, Kylian Mbappe and Edinson Cavani. "He has a long career ahead of him but he has those natural attributes in terms of his pace and technique. He's hungry too," Celtic manager Brendan Rodgers told the club's website.

KROOS FACING 3-WEEK INJURY LAYOFF

MADRID: Spanish football giants Real Madrid have announced that their German midfielder Toni Kroos faces three weeks on the sidelines after tearing his left hamstring. Kroos will miss both legs of the club's Copa del Rey tie against Leganes as well as La Liga matches against Real Betis and Sevilla. The 2014 World Cup winner, who celebrated his 29th birthday last Friday, has played 14 league matches so far this season, contributing one assist. Real Madrid have been beset with injuries since the beginning of the 2018-19 season, and are currently languishing in 5th place in La Liga.

RAMKUMAR, ANKITA MAKE WINNING START

MELBOURNE: India's Ramkumar Ramanathan and Ankita Raina recorded straight sets victories to make a promising start at the Australian Open qualifiers but Karman Kaur Thandi went down fighting in the first round here on Tuesday. Seeded 21st, Ramkumar knocked out Spain's Sergio Guitierrez-Ferrol 6-3, 6-2 in his men's singles opening round. Appearing in her third Grand Slam Qualifiers, Ankita (ranked 205) got the better of Myrtille Georges (ranked 238) from France 6-2, 6-2 in her opening round. Agencies

Mumbai on brink of maiden win

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Hosts Mumbai, who are already out of contention for a quarter-final berth, are on the cusp of registering their first win of the season against Chhattisgarh in their Elite Group A game.

At the end of day two of the four-day game at the Wankhede Stadium, the 41-time champions needed 14 runs more to notch a consolation victory.

Mumbai ended the second day at 77 for 0 in their second innings, chasing a target of 91, with their openers Jay Bista (36 not out) and Vikrant Auti (32 not out) at the crease.

Mumbai, who had bundled out the opposition for 129 in the first innings on Monday, replied with 188 after starting day two on 118 for three.

The hosts then shot out the visitors for 149 in the second innings to place themselves on the cusp of their maiden outright win of the season.

First innings wreckers-in-chief, pacers Shardul Thakur (4-47) and Tushar Deshpande (4-53) were again the main destroyers in the visitors second innings.

At Rajkot, Saurashtra posted 356 in their first innings with some vital contributions from the lower-order against reigning champions Vidarbha.

At close of play, Vidarbha were 63 for 2, having lost their openers Aharva Taide and Faiz Fazal, and adrift by 293 runs.

In another inconsequential Elite Group A tie, hosts Railways thrashed Maharashtra by an innings and 58 runs in New Delhi.

Railways bundled out Maharashtra for 131 in the second to record the win and grabbed seven points.

Rajasthan rout Tripura to enter Ranji quarters

PTI ■ AGARTALA

Rajasthan trounced Tripura by an innings and 77 runs to book a berth in the quarter-finals from Elite Group C on Tuesday.

Led by pace spearhead Deepak Chahar, the Rajasthan bowlers bundled out Tripura for 106 in the second innings to guide their team to a massive victory and enable it to storm into the last eight of the national championship.

With this emphatic win, Rajasthan became the first team from the group to qualify for the knockout rounds by topping the pool with 51 points, having won 7 of their 9 matches.

After bowling out Tripura for a paltry 35 in their first innings, Rajasthan took a dominant 183-run lead by scoring 218 in their first essay.

Chahar wreaked havoc as he returned with figures of 5-17 in just eight overs and was well supported by pacers Aniket Choudhary (2-18) and T M Haq (2-21).

Meanwhile, at Rohtak, hosts Haryana needed 98 runs to win against Services, with nine wickets in hand.

Haryana conceded the first innings lead, but fought back and dismissed Services for just 79 in their second essay to tilt the match in their favour.

At Bhubaneswar, Odisha secured the crucial first innings lead against Goa.

The hosts, who decided not to enforce the follow-on, ended the second day at 37 for 1 as the overall lead swelled to 273 runs.

At Kanpur, hosts Uttar Pradesh, who secured the crucial first innings lead, ended the second day at 377 for 5 in the second essay, with middle-order batsman Rinku Singh unbeaten on 96.

At Jammu, Jammu and Kashmir, who chose to bat, were shot out for 151 with Ajay Yadav (5-16) being the wrecker-in-chief for the visitors.

TN SEIZE ADVANTAGE AGAINST DELHI

PTI ■ CHENNAI

Two late strikes helped Tamil Nadu seize the advantage against Delhi at stumps on the second day of the Elite Group 'B' match at the M A Chidambaram stadium.

Delhi ended the day at 35 for 2 in reply to Tamil Nadu's massive first innings score of 422 built on Abhinav Mukund's superb 134 (319 balls, 13X4) and half-centuries by captain Baba Indrajith (86) and debutant

For Delhi, Vikas Mishra was the best bowler, picking up 5 for 142 from 45.4 overs while Shivam Sharma took 4 for 105 from 44 overs Pradosh Ranjan Paul (78, 129 balls, 12X4, 1X6) and M Shahruckh Khan 55 (139 balls, 4X4, 1X6).

For Delhi, Vikas Mishra was the best bowler, picking up 5 for 142 from 45.4 overs while Shivam Sharma took 4 for 105 from 44 overs.

R Sai Kishore struck the first blow for the host, dismissing opener Shivam Sharma (7) before Vijay Shankar effected a superb run-out to send back the other opener Kunal Chandela for 27 in the 13th over.

UK inch closer to quarters

PTI ■ DEHRADUN

Uttarakhand enforced follow-on against Mizoram after bowling out the visitors for 198 to inch closer to grabbing the solitary quarterfinal berth from Plate Group.

Taruwar Kohli remained unbeaten on 96 on day two after Mizoram were bowled out for 198 in their first innings in reply to Uttarakhand's first innings total of 377 at the Rajiv Gandhi International Cricket Stadium.

Asked to bat again, Mizoram were 32/1 at stumps, still needing 147 runs to avoid an innings defeat.

Earlier the visitors were 31 for no loss but they slipped to 67/4 with Sunny Rana (2/46) striking twice.

Dhanraj Sharma was the pick of the bowlers, claiming 3/49.

Taruwar found some support at the other end from Lalhruai Ralte (30) as the duo added 57 runs to repair the damage.

But Mayank Mishra dismissed Ralte to break the partnership before they folded in 75.2 overs.

Stephens, Kvitova advance in Sydney

AFP ■ SYDNEY

World number five Sloane Stephens battled back from the brink of a shock defeat to a qualifier on Tuesday to join two-time Wimbledon champion Petra Kvitova in round two of the Sydney International.

Less than a week before the Australian Open — the season's first Grand Slam — the American was twice two points away from losing to 72nd-ranked Ekaterina Alexandrova, who had the former US Open champion on the ropes.

Alexandrova won the first set to love and was serving for the match and two points away from victory in the second set. But Stephens somehow rallied to win 0-6, 7-6 (7/3), 7-6 (7/3).

"I was, like, it's not going to get any worse than this," Stephens said of the first set.

"So it was like I might as well just play."

"Obviously she was playing well. Sometimes when you play a player that's just playing like that, there is not much you can do."

Earlier, Kvitova avenged her US Open defeat to in-form Aryna Sabalenka.

The Czech, who slumped to 29 in the world after being attacked in her home by a knife-wielding man in 2016, has battled back to number eight and was encouraged by her 6-1, 7-5 win over the Belarusian.

Sabalenka is a form player, racing to number 11 in the world after a stellar 2018 and starting the year by winning the Shenzhen Open.

There was no such joy for 2017 French Open winner Jelena Ostapenko, whose poor form continued in a 6-3, 6-3 defeat to Australia's Ash Barty, who is rewarded with a second-round clash against world number one Simona Halep.

After picking up a thigh injury at the Hopman Cup, Garbine Muguruza — another major winner — safely negotiated her first-round encounter with fellow Spaniard Carla Suarez Navarro 6-3, 6-4.

Last year Muguruza was the top seed and world No 2, but 12 months on she is unseeded and down to 18.

In the men's draw Australian teenager Alex De Minaur, a finalist last year, continued his preparations for the Australian Open with a 6-4 6-3 win over Dusan Lajovic.

Towering Americans Sam Querrey and Reilly Opelka are also through to the next round.

Baroda prevail over Karnataka

PTI ■ VADODRA

Deepak Hooda and Bhargav Bhatt claimed five wickets each to help Baroda register a nail-biting win against Karnataka in a Group A match and keep their quarterfinals hopes alive.

On a day when as many as 16 wickets fell, Baroda almost lost the match, but ultimately won by two wickets, chasing down a 110-run target in their second innings.

After this win, Baroda are now placed third with 26 points from eight matches. They had won three matches, lost one and drew the remaining matches. On the other hand, Karnataka retained their second place with 27 points from eight matches. They have won three matches and lost two.

Yet, both Baroda and Karnataka's fortunes of qualifying for the quarterfinal depend on other match results.

Batting first, Baroda dismissed Karnataka for 112 before the hosts scored 223 runs, riding on Sonalki's 69 and a 60-ball 51 by Hooda, to take a crucial lead.

In the second innings, Karnataka were bowled out for 220, leaving Baroda to get 110 runs to win the match. Yusuf Pathan's 41 off 30 balls with seven boundaries and a six played a crucial role in achieving the target.

Bhatt produced an impressive performance as he bagged eight wickets in the match. He ended the first innings with figures of 3 for 27 and 5 for 116 in the second innings. Bhatt was ably assisted by Hooda who also claimed five wickets while conceding 31 runs in 14.4 overs.

PUJARA, PANT RISE IN RANKINGS

PTI ■ DUBAI

Cheteshwar Pujara has gained a spot to be third in the latest ICC batsmen rankings, following his man of the series performance in India's maiden Test series win in Australia.

Wicket-keeper batsman Rishabh Pant has jumped as many as 21 places to be 17th, the joint-highest by a specialist India wicketkeeper along with Farokh Engineer, who did so in January 1973. M S Dhoni's highest Test ranking was 19th.

India captain Virat Kohli has maintained his number one position in the batsmen rankings.

Pant, a star at the ICC U19 Cricket World Cup in 2016 when he scored an 18-ball half-century against Nepal, has moved into the top-20 after only his ninth Test with an unbeaten 159. Pant had started the Australia tour in 59th place and made rapid progress, scoring 350 runs in a series that also saw him take 20 catches.

Pujara, who scored 521 runs to help beat Australia 2-1, is another batsman to gain in the latest rankings update, which also takes into account performances in the second Test between South Africa and Pakistan in Cape Town.

Pujara has gained one slot to reach third position while all-rounder Ravindra Jadeja (up six places to 57th) and rookie opener Mayank Agarwal (up five places to 62nd) are the others from his team to advance at the end of a historic series win.

Spinner Kuldeep Yadav has gained seven slots to reach a career-best 45th position after his figures of five for 99 in Australia's first innings even as Jasprit Bumrah has held on to 16th position and Mohammed Shami has gained one place to take the 22nd slot. Jadeja has gained one place to reach fifth among bowlers and has also leapfrogged Windies captain Jason Holder into sec-

BCCI announces cash awards

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The BCCI on Tuesday announced cash awards of ₹15 lakhs per match for each of the playing eleven that featured in India's maiden Test series win on Australian soil.

Virat Kohli and Co defeated Australia 2-1 in the four-match Test series Down Under, ending India's 71-year-old wait for the rare achievement.

Congratulating the team, the BCCI also announced cash awards for all the reserve players, as well as the members of the support staff.

"The bonuses will be equivalent to the actual match-fee payable: which is ₹15 Lakhs per match for Playing XI and ₹7.5 Lakhs per match for the reserve players," the BCCI said in a release.

The coaches will be awarded with ₹25 lakhs each, while the non-coaching support staff will receive bonuses which will be equivalent to the pro-rata salary/professional fee.

ond place among all-rounders.

South Africa's Aiden Markram has moved back into the top 10 after his knock of 78 at Cape Town, gaining seven slots to reach 10th position. Temba Bavuma has moved into the top 30 for the first time (up five places to 26th) after his score of 75 while captain Faf du Plessis's first-innings century has lifted him six places to 16th position.

Among their bowlers, Vernon Philander has gained one slot to reach third position while Duanne Olivier has continued his surge to move up to 32nd place from 36th.

There has been no change in position or points for leaders India in the team rankings, while Australia have lost one point but remain in fifth position.

Bumrah rested from Aus ODIs, NZ tour

PTI ■ SYDNEY

In-form Indian pacer Jasprit Bumrah was on Tuesday rested from the upcoming ODI series against Australia and the subsequent tour of New Zealand with Mohammad Siraj replacing the hero of the team's maiden Test series triumph Down Under.

With 21 scalps, Bumrah ended the four-Test series as the joint-leading wicket-taker alongside Australian off-spinner Nathan Lyon. "Keeping in mind the work load of the bowler, it was best felt to give him adequate rest ahead of the home series against Australia. Mohammed Siraj will replace Bumrah in the squad for the Australia and New Zealand tour," said the BCCI in a statement.

"Punjab pacer Siddharth Kaul has also been drafted into the squad for the three-match T20I series against New Zealand," it added.

Bumrah, who made his Test debut just 12 months ago, has become India's go to pacer in all three formats.

India play three ODIs against Australia starting here on Saturday before travelling to New Zealand for a five-ODI and three-T20I assignment starting January 23.

IPL to stay in India

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Indian Premier League (IPL) will stay in the country despite a speculated clash of dates with the general elections but the glitzy T20 extravaganza will start earlier than usual, from March 23, the Committee of Administrators announced on Tuesday.

The two-member CoA, comprising chairman Vinod Rai and former women's captain Diana Edulji, met on Tuesday to discuss the venues and window for the league.

"We will have all the primary venues backed up by alternate venues in case there is a need to shift matches. This will be done in consultation with central and state government authorities as well as security agencies," Rai said.

"The specific reason for having a back-up venue is to ensure that we don't have any issue if there is polling or recounting or PM's rally in any of the states once the election dates are announced," he added.

The last time the IPL started in March was back in 2010. After that, the league has always kicked off in the first half of April and ended in late May.

The early start this year is because of the ODI World Cup in England which will get underway from May 30.

Rai said the specific venues and match dates will worked out later after due consultation with government agencies.

"Once we chalk out the dates, we will get the dates and venues cleared by various govt agencies," he said.

Tuesday's decision ended months of speculation about the league's venue this year given the possibility of a clash of dates with the Lok Sabha elections, the schedule of which is not yet out.

It is learnt that the cash-rich tournament has been kept in the country keeping in view the fact that the elections will be held in phases and it wouldn't be too much of a logistical issue to schedule the games accordingly.

"The CoA will have detailed discussion with all the stakeholders before releasing the IPL 2019 Schedule," a BCCI statement read.

As per the new BCCI constitution, there has to be a 15-day gap between the end of the IPL and India's international engagements.

The IPL has been played outside India twice due to general elections. In 2009, the edition was moved to South Africa, while in 2014, some games were played in the UAE.

That the IPL will stay in the country was first hinted by BCCI officials during the players' auction in Jaipur last month.

Smith, Warner return no cure-all for Aus: Vaughan

Former English skipper feels Aussies are kidding themselves thinking all will be rosy when Smith, Warner return

PTI ■ SYDNEY

Former England captain Michael Vaughan feels Australia, beaten for the first time in a home Test series against India, are "kidding themselves if they think everything will be rosy when Steve Smith and David Warner come back".

In his column for 'The Daily Telegraph' following India's maiden Test series triumph Down Under, Vaughan wrote that Australia's issues run far deeper than the absence of suspended Smith and Warner.

"If you think Australia's problems will be solved the moment Steve Smith and David Warner are available for selection again then you are wrong... Batting, bowling, selection and tactics were poor against India, and Australia has to admit they were just not good enough," wrote Vaughan.

"Clearly, if you take the two best players out of any team they will struggle. But losing Smith and Warner is an easy excuse to hide behind. India was beaten 4-1 in English conditions last summer, although the matches were closer than the final score suggests, but would have beaten Australia 3-1 had it not rained in Sydney for the last two days."

Considering the current scenario, Vaughan can't see Australia beating England in the away Ashes to be held after the 2019 World Cup.

"...Unless they assess themselves brutally. Batting techniques have to be better and they need to be more consistent with the ball. Every facet of their Test team has to improve. They are kidding themselves if they think everything will be rosy when Smith and Warner come back.

"For the Ashes this summer, Australia have to look at breaking up Mitchell Starc, Josh Hazlewood and Pat Cummins. They need a more skilful bowler, such as a Peter Siddle or Trent Copeland. They need someone who can match England's consistency and skill with the Duke ball and bowl the fuller length," he said.

Vaughan's column sparked a debate with former Australian batsman and selector Mark Waugh disagreeing with the Englishman.

"I'm not so sure about that Mr Vaughan. Assuming Warner and Smith get back to somewhere near their best I'm suggesting they will make a huge difference," Waugh tweeted.

Waugh suggested that any team would struggle if they were to lose two of the best batsmen in the squad.

"You take the 2 best batsmen out of any cricket team in the world and see what happens or even 1. Kohli, Root, Williamson etc," he added.

However, Australian spin legend Shane Warne, who had earlier criticised the Australian selectors for their "ridiculous and senseless selections" agreed with Vaughan.

"Unfortunately, I have to agree with @MichaelVaughan here [Mr. Yes Warner & Smith will help, but Aust cricket needs a complete overhaul re the following. Coaching at all levels, the ridiculous under 23 programme, academy etc. As we are not producing quality smart cricketers-why?"] Warne tweeted.

Kohli leads India's best pace, fielding team: Chappell

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Former Australia captain Ian Chappell feels the Virat Kohli-led side is India's best in pace bowling and fielding but it is nowhere close to being the best in batting.

The historic victory in Australia has garnered widespread praise for Kohli's men with several former players lauding the gritty performance.

Asked if this was the best Indian team of all time on 'ESPNCricinfo', Chappell said, "This Indian side is the best fast bowling contingent I have seen from India and the best fielding side that I have seen from India."

"But it's not the best batting side. I have seen better batting combinations from India than this team," he added, but did not dwell on which batting line-up he considered the best.

Although Cheteshwar Pujara was adjudged man of the series for being the series' top-scorer, India's traditionally much-vaunted batting was, for once, overshadowed by the team's pacers.

The Indian pacers accounted for 50 of the 70 Australian wickets during the engagement.

The visiting pace trio of Jasprit Bumrah, Ishant Sharma and Mohammed Shami combined for an average of 21.62 in the four-match series, while Australia's pace battery, comprising Pat Cummins, Mitchell Starc and Josh Hazlewood, averaged over 30.

Chappell said the Indian bowlers did well to exploit the conditions.

"I thought the Indian bowlers did really well and overall they out-bowled the Australians. They got more swing than the Australian bowlers."

"I think the seam position of the Indian fast bowlers was very good. They kept it up the whole time and perhaps that's why they swung the ball more than the Australians," he explained.

'Aussie batsmen were needlessly aggressive'

PTI ■ SYDNEY

Former Australia international Simon Katich on Tuesday said the Indian pacers' ability to maintain "scoreboard pressure" on impatient and needlessly aggressive home batsmen proved to be decisive in visitors' maiden Test series triumph.

India won the four-Test series 2-1 with the fourth Test ending in a draw. Katich said that Australian batsmen couldn't manage period of pressure well enough.

"On previous tours they (pacers) haven't been doing well in these conditions. But in this series, this pace attack was magnificent and they built scoreboard pressure. They have got pace and variety, and they were also able to move the ball. Perhaps that has been the big difference in the two teams," Katich said.

"India's bowlers were really patient and Australia's batsmen haven't been patient enough to withstand that pressure. And very good spinners backed up the pacers, whether it was Ashwin, Kuldeep or Jadeja," he said.

Katich said Australian batsmen did not apply themselves after getting starts.

"At times the Australian batsmen showed they could apply themselves well but they couldn't do it for long periods of time. You need to do it day-after-day in Test cricket. Marcus Harris had had a good series — he has got time and a good technique. But he got a lot of starts and didn't go on to make a big one, much like the other batsmen.

"When Australia look back at series, they will see they have got out trying to be too aggressive. They didn't show the right shot selection or right temperament at the right time in any game. There was too much on-tempo batting, rather than going with ebbs while respecting the opposition bowling."

Black Caps sweep ODI series

Ross Taylor celebrates after scoring hundred in the final game of ODI series in Nelson ICC

AFP ■ NELSON

Veteran Ross Taylor and rising star Henry Nicholls both smashed centuries as New Zealand beat Sri Lanka by 115 runs in the third one-day international in Nelson on Tuesday to complete a 3-0 series whitewash.

Taylor top-scored with 137, and Nicholls was unbeaten on 124 off just 80 balls, lifting the hosts to 364 for four after they lost the toss and were sent in to bat.

It was a record ODI score at Nelson's Saxton Oval, where the average is just 275, and Sri Lanka never looked like reaching the mammoth total.

They were all out for 249 in the 42nd over, throwing away their final four wickets without scoring a run as the series ended with a whimper.

Thisara Perera, who scored a blistering 140 in the second ODI, was again the tourists' standout performer, racing to 80 in 63 balls.

With the series already decided, Nicholls and Taylor used the dead rubber to send a message to New Zealand selectors ahead of this year's World Cup.

It was Nicholls' maiden ODI ton and the 27-year-old will hope his strong Test form is finally transferring to the limited overs format.

Taylor's 20th ODI century tightened the 34-year-old's grip on the New Zealand record he already holds for one-day centuries.

"I'm getting old and hopefully I've got a few more left in me," he said.

TAIL-END COLLAPSE

In his last 11 ODI innings Taylor has scored three centuries and six half centuries. He came to the crease with New Zealand struggling at 31 for two but combined with skipper Kane Williamson for a 116-run partnership to steady the innings.

When Williamson departed on 55, Taylor and Nicholls plundered the Sri Lanka attack with an aggressive 154-run stand.

Sri Lanka's senior bowlers were all wayward, particularly at the death, as the tourists conceded 57 runs in the final three overs.
