Cong's brahmastra Priyanka takes plunge

Rahul makes her Gen Secy incharge of East UP for polls

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Ending years of speculation, Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, the sister of Congress president Rahul Gandhi, on Wednesday finally plunged into active politics ahead of the Lok Sabha elections to take on the might of the BJP and Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the crucial Hindi heartland that has 80 Lok Sabha seats.

Dubbed as the "brahmastra" of the Congress, Priyanka will debut as the party's general secretary incharge of the eastern part of Uttar Pradesh having Modi's constituency in Varanasi and also UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath bastion in Gorakhpur.

Congress leaders said Priyanka's entry into active party politics will galvanise the workers, helping them take on the dual challenge posed in the State by the BJP and the Samajwadi Party-Bahujan Samaj Party alliance.

The Congress hopes that Priyanka will be able to turn the projected direct fight between the BJP and SP-BSP alliance into triangular contest where the Congress could benefit on a number of seats due to division of votes.

Congress leaders also feel that while it is too early to assess the impact of a possible Congress revival under Priyanka stewardship on the prospect of the BJP and the SP-BSP alliance, but care may be taken in the selection of candidates to ensure that the BJP suffers most.

Congress list of candidates, sources said, may be dominated by upper castes, since the BJP hopes to capitalise on 10 per cent reservation to general category candidates in educational institutions and employment to woo the upper caste voters. Priyanka can play vital role there in bringing back the traditional upper caste voters to the Congress fold.

Soon after her appointment as an office-bearer in AICC, speculation is rife that she may be fielded as the party candidate from Rae Bareilly, the constituency currently being represented by her mother and UPA chairperson Sonia Gandhi, who is not keeping well of late.

Though no reactions came till late evening from Priyanka as she is reportedly in New York and scheduled to return on February 1, Rahul said he is happy that Priyanka will assist him in the Lok Sabha polls. "I am very happy that my sister Priyanka will assist me in Uttar Pradesh in the Lok Sabha polls, she is very capable," Rahul said at Amethi after making some of the crucial appointments in the party system. The brother-sister duo will formally announce the beginning of Lok Sabha poll campaign in UP on February 4 at a Press conference.

Senior party leader Jyotiraditya Scindia will be on par with Priyanka as AICC general secretary for Uttar Pradesh West region. Rahul added Jyotiraditya is a dynamic youth leader. Both Priyanka and Scindia replace Ghulam Nabi Azad, who has been appointed AICC general secretary for Haryana, where the party is facing factionism.

"UP is central to building a new hope fulfilled. The new UP AICC team led by Priyanka and Jyotiraditya will herald the dawn of a new kind of politics in the State. We will offer the youth in UP a dynamic new platform to transform the State," said Rahul.

Husband Robert Vadra congratulated Priyanka on a Facebook post: "Congratulations P... always by your side in every phase of your life." The BJP has been repeatedly targeting Vadra, a businessman being investigated for allegedly corrupt land deals in Haryana and Rajasthan and is facing probes by the Enforcement Directorate.

The party is not immediately clear on the division of the 80 parliamentary seats between the two new incharges but sources said it could be 40 each. Both Amethi and Rae Bareilly, the two Gandhi family bastions, fall in eastern Uttar Pradesh and Priyanka has been extensively campaigning since 2004 in all national and state level elections.

It's admission of Rahul's leadership failure: BJP

'In Congress, the family is party; in BJP, party is family'

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The BJP on Wednesday interpreted the entry of Priyanka Gandhi Vadra into the active politics in the Congress as an admission of his brother Rahul's leadership failure and likened the move to the party opting for a "family alliance" after having been "rejected by various parties in the proposed mahagathbandhan".

"Priyanka ji has become the general secretary, my good luck to her. Since the party is a family concern, these kinds of postings are nothing unusual, except to say with a caveat why has she been given the limited role of eastern UP? Perhaps her persona merited a wider role," said Union Law Minister and senior BJP leader Ravishankar Prasad.

Claiming that the appointments made by the Congress reflected the outlook of the party, Prasad said it was a case of a brother (Congress president Rahul Gandhi) appointing his sister to a party position.

Railway Minister Piyush Goyal accused the party of carrying out dynasty politics and said, "In the Congress party there is reservation only for one family, nobody gets anything beyond them." BJP spokesperson Sambit Patra claimed the new appointment reflected crisis of confidence within the Congress against Rahul. "The Congress has basically publicly announced that Rahul Gandhi has failed and needs crutches from within the family. Because of his rejection by grand alliance parties, he has opted for a family alliance," Patra said.

Patra said it was natural that the Congress had to "coronate" somebody from within the family and added that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has projected the Lok Sabha elections as a battle between "naamdar" (dynasts) and "kaamdar" (those who have worked). The new India is asking the question who will be the next leader in the Congress, Patra said referring to its succession line from Jawaharlal Nehru to Indira followed by Rajiv, Sonia and Rahul.

"All appointments are from one family. And this is the fundamental difference between the Congress and the BJP. In the Congress, the family is party. In the BJP, the party is family," Patra said.

In 2014 elections, Congress could win only two seats — Sonia from Rae Bareilly and Rahul from Amethi — from UP which has the largest number of 80 Lok Sabha seats in the country.

UP Congress workers elated at prospects

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

The entry of Priyanka Gandhi into active politics and her appointment as AICC general secretary incharge of Uttar Pradesh (east) has come as a major boost for the party workers and leaders ahead of the Lok Sabha polls.

The morale of the youthful cadre received a further fillip as along with Priyanka Gandhi, Congress president Rahul Gandhi appointed Jyotiraditya Scindia as AICC general secretary incharge of UP (west).

In his first reaction after appointment of his sister Priyanka as the party general secretary, Rahul said the decision was taken to strengthen the party and this two powerful Congress leaders will pave way for the spread of the Congress ideology of the youths, elders, and other section of the society.

"I trust Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and Jyotiraditya Scindia. We will not play on the back foot," he told reporters at Fursatganj. He added the party has appointed both the leaders in a permanent basis in UP and had not sent Priyanka and Jyotiraditya for just two months or till the Lok Sabha polls.

"I have sent them to take Congress' ideology forward in Uttar Pradesh. Our ideology is of standing and fighting for the poor, for the youth, for the farmers. Both Priyanka and Jyotiraditya are very capable and dynamic, and will surely take Congress forward in UP," he added.

The sudden appointment of Priyanka on the day Rahul is visiting UP has changed the political dynamics in the State which will elect 80 Lok Sabha members.

When asked if Priyanka would be contesting the Lok Sabha polls, Rahul said, "It is up to Priyanka to take the decision. I have already said that the Congress will not play on the back foot and will only bat on the front foot in UP and elsewhere."

4 killed in Illegal mine at Dhanbad

ROSHAN KUMAR ■ RANCHI

At least four persons were reported dead and around half a dozen injured as the roof of a mine partially collapsed at Kaparasa mines under Nirsa police station of Dhanbad district—200 km west of State capital.

Sources said that the incident occurred when some persons had entered the mine for carrying out illegal mining activities. The place where the incident occurred is fifty metres away from the mines which the Eastern Coalfield Limited (ECL), a subsidiary of Coal India Limited, has outsourced to private company, Kanta Transport.

Sources claim that four deaths have been reported, including three men and one woman, of which Dinesh Paswan and Kanto Rawani were identified while two remain unidentified. However, officials claim only one death.

Dhanbad Senior Superintendent of Police (SSP), Kishore Kaushal said, "The incident occurred at the mines where illegal mining was being carried out. We have reports of death of one person. However, the exact number of deaths can be ascertained once the rescue operation is completed."

The SSP also said that as illegal mining was carried out in the area, FIR will be lodged against the ECL and the out-sourced company (Kanta Transport).

Kaushal said, "There has been negligence on part of the company as they fail to follow necessary safety mining guidelines. Neither there was fencing in the area nor red flag installed."

As per mining guidelines, the company carrying out mining activities must fenced the protected area along with installing signboards and flags, also regular patrolling should be carried out in the area.

The ECL too claimed that incident occurred where illegal mining was being carried out. Niladri Rai, technical secretary to ECL, CMD said, "The incident occurred at the mines where some people were carrying out illegal mining."

As the news of mines mishap spread, officials from district administration including Dhanbad DC Anjaneyulu Dodde, SSP Kishore Kaushal, Superintendent of Police (Rural) Aman Kumar, Sub Divisional Officer Raj Maheshwaram and other officials rushed to the spot.

Sources said that the incident occurred in the morning when around fifty to sixty persons illegally entered the mines for carrying out mining activities. More than dozen people were trapped when a portion of the mine suddenly caved in following which the local residents carried out rescue operations. As the mining was being done illegally, the local residents were afraid of revealing the names of the deceased and injured persons.

Coal capital Dhanbad has witnessed many mining accidents in past and in majority of them the incident occurs due to illegal mining activities. Sources said that despite district administration and ECL's claims to check illegal mining many persons are engaged in unlawful activities.

Many people are in coal smuggling business selling the black stone to Jamtara and other adjoining districts crossing river Barakar. Coal is also smuggled to some factories operating in Dhanbad and Nirsa area.

PM to inaugurate Namami Ganga in Santhal Pargna

ROSHAN KUMAR ■ RANCHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is likely to inaugurate the sewerage treatment plant and river front coming under the much acclaimed Namami Ganga project in the State. Construction of sewerage treatment plant and river front development under this project are being carried out on the banks of the holy Ganga in Sahibganj and Rajmahal districts.

While the exact date of the PM's visit to Sahibganj has not been finalized, he is likely to inaugurate the project next month. This will be Modi's second visit to Sahibganj, as on April 2017 he had visited the town to lay the foundation stone of a multi-modal terminal on river Ganga.

State urban development department, secretary, Ajoy Kumar Singh in this connection on Tuesday held a review meeting which was attended by department officials. The urban development secretary directed the officials to complete the construction process of six ganga ghats coming up at Sahibganj and Rajmahal districts. Singh said, "The construction work of two sewerage treatment plants at Sahibganj district is completed and it will be functional by February, while the construction work of sewerage treatment plant at Rajmahal is going on and it will be completed by June this year."

As per the plan, three sewerage treatment plants will be constructed in both the town while six ghats will come up in Sahibganj and Rajmahal district. In Sahibganj district, around 17000 houses will be connected through sewerage treatment plant, similarly in Rajmahal district around 6000 houses will be connected through the plant.

Anant Ojha, Rajmahal MLA who has been working on Namami Ganga project said, "Under the project ₹137 crore has been sanctioned for construction of sewerage plants and river front development in Sahibganj. Similarly, in Rajmahal town, ₹56 crore has been sanctioned."

He added, "As the two towns (Sahibganj having the population of one lakh and Rajmahal with 50,000) do not have much industrial effluents, the construction of sewerage treatment plants will help in checking flow of solid and liquid waste in the river."

Sources said that entire 83 km stretch of Ganga in Jharkhand will be covered under the programme. The projects will focus on making villages along the river free of open defecation. The major thrust of the Namami Ganga project is to use technologies to ensure improved access for managing solid and liquid waste which will help in improving the health and quality of people life.

Replacing the National Mission for Clean Ganga which was set up in 2011, the Modi government in 2014 launched the 'Namami Ganga' under the National Mission for clean Ganga initiative with an allocated budget of ₹20,000 crores for five years. The main objective of the project is to ensure sewage management, industrial discharge management and the beautification of several ghats along the Ganga.

However, the Opposition has termed the inauguration of sewerage treatment plant as election gimmick. Pradeep Yadav, Jharkhand Vikas Morcha (JVM) leader and party MLA from Poreyahat, which comes under Santhal Pargana region said, "The inauguration of sewerage treatment plant is s election gimmick. The Union Government and State government have failed to clean the river." Echoing the views of Yadav, city based environmentalist, Nitish Priyadarshi said, "Unless and until the Ganga is clean in upper catchment area, the river cannot be cleaned."

First bullet train project gets nod for forest trespass

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Standing Committee of the National Board of Wildlife (NBWL) has given in-principle approval for diverting nearly 215 hectares of forestland for Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ₹1.1 lakh crore worth Mumbai-Ahmedabad bullet train project. However, the approval for the high-speed rail project which has drawn flak from the conservationists has come with certain conditions.

The patches of forest land will be carved out from the eco-sensitive zone of Sanjay Gandhi National Park (SGNP), Tungareshwar wildlife sanctuary and Thane creek flamingo sanctuary for the 500 km long rail corridor.

The NBWL in its meeting on January 10, 2019, allowed diversion of 3,2756 ha of forestland from Creek Flamingo Wildlife Sanctuary and 97,5189 ha of forestland from deemed ESZ. In-principle approval was also given for diversion of 32.75 hectares of forestland and 77.30 hectares of non-forestland from Sanjay Gandhi National Park and 0.6902 ha of forestland and 4,7567 ha of non-forestland from Tungareshwar Wildlife Sanctuary.

The NBWL, under the Union Environment Ministry, is responsible for framing India's policy and strategy for wildlife conservation and one of its key tasks is to regulate development projects to safeguard wildlife.

To ensure that the bullet train project does not have adverse impact on the adjoining biodiversity, the NBWL has enlisted several conditions on the project proponent before initiating the construction, implementation of animal passage plans on the basis of the Dehradun-based Wildlife Institute of India (WII) guidelines "Eco-friendly Measures to Mitigate Impacts on Linear Infrastructures on Wildlife" being the major one.

TSAF team goes on expedition to Mount Kangri

PNS ■ JAMSHEDPUR

Tata Steel Adventure Foundation (TSAF) team is attempting a winter ascent of Stok Kangri (20,180 ft) located in Leh region. Stok Kangri is one of the most popular 6000m peaks in Indian Himalayas which attracts climbers from India and abroad during the summer season. However, summiting the peak during winter is rarely attempted owing to the extreme cold and severe climatic conditions which call for superior technical skills.

The expedition team led by Hemant Gupta, secretary, TSAF reached Leh on Wednesday and is likely to reach the peak of Stok Kangri on January 30. Gupta said that the TSAF winter expedition would be highly demanding on body and mind of the participants. "One would need to be prepared for tough days at high altitude in harsh winter environment as the expected temperature on summit day is around -35°C, and factoring in the wind chill, can go as low as -40°C," he said.

The TSAF team will attempt this summit without any external support which will make their journey arduous yet imbibe a spirit of self-sufficiency in the unique way which mountain adversity can teach. Normal support in terms of ponies, mules, porters, cooks and support staff will be avoided. TSAF in its outdoor leadership course always focuses on self-cooking, carrying one's own load and working with limited resources. Such unaided small groups help in reduction of garbage generated during the trek as also in preservation of the environment and the mountain trails. Hence, the winter summit expedition this year will attempt to reduce adverse impact on the ecology through zero waste and self-sustained trekking.

Aambagan ground renamed Netaji Subhas Maidan

PNS ■ JAMSHEDPUR

The iconic Aambagan ground, plagued by encroachments, was renamed Netaji Subhas Maidan-Aambagan to commemorate the birth anniversary of the freedom fighter on Wednesday. In a function held at the ground, State food and civil supplies minister Saryu Roy, along with members of the socio-cultural outfit, Subhas Sanskriti Parishad, announced the new name. He also inaugurated a plaque announcing the new name.

Roy said it is a matter of pride that the ground has been named after the great leader. Roy promised to rid the ground of encroachments before embarking on beautification plans of the ground which has a mosque at its southern end and the state-run school, Rajasthan Vidya Mandir, at its north.

Roy said he would take up the issue with the district administration and ensure the ground is maintained regularly. "It is the best to pay homage to legendary freedom fighter Subhas Chandra Bose, who had visited Jamshedpur on several occasions and was also president of Tata Steel's trade union," he said.

Parishad founder Sekhar

Dey appreciated the role played by Roy in renaming the ground. He said that they would also approach the state government for removing the encroachments. "We plan to approach the state government soon with a proposal for further beautification of the ground which is also used by a large number of people," said Dey, who is a director of the Sreeleathers Group.

Giridih youth dies in Malaysia, family awaits return of body

SURESH NIKHAR ■ GIRIDIH

Family of Santosh Mahto, a 25-year-old youth from Giridih district of Jharkhand, who died in an accident while working on a high-rise transmission line in Malaysia on January 19 this year are still waiting for his body to be brought back home.

The family has been in touch with authorities to get the body home but his body is still lying at the mortuary of a hospital in Dubai due to bureaucratic hurdles. "We received the news of his death the same day through a friend working with him. But unfortunately, we cannot conduct his last rites as we are still waiting for the body," said Ghanshyam Mahto, father of the deceased.

The family approached Bagodar MLA Nagendra Mahto regarding this issue and the legislator said he brought the matter into the notice of external affairs minister Sushma Swaraj on Monday. "I spoke to the union minister soon after I received information about the case. On her directive, I have mailed her all the details provided by the family," the MLA told the Pioneer.

Santosh is survived by wife, one son, two daughters, father and mother. His family said that he got a job as a labourer in Malaysia through a registered contract firm in November 2018.

According to sources, there are around six million Indian migrants in the Gulf States of Bahrain, Kuwait, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Male, United Arab Emirates and Oman that have long been best destinations for millions of poor labourers, most of whom work in transmission line construction, transport and other low-paying sectors.

The government and non-governmental groups have received hundreds of complaints from migrant workers, ranging from non-payment of wages to torture and abuse over the years.

Bagodar MLA said that the family is in distress and that Santosh's was not the sole incident of an unwanted delay in bringing back the bodies of citizens working abroad.

In another case, the body of Nunchand Mahto, a resident of Tirla village under Bagodar police station, was brought home after six months in January this year," he said.

Ranchi DC signs MoU with AAI for development of 12 villages

PNS ■ RANCHI

The district administration on Wednesday signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Airport Authority of India (AAI) for holistic development of 12 villages located around the Birsa Munda International Airport.

The Ranchi deputy commissioner Rai Mahimapat Ray and director of Birsa Munda airport PR Deoria inked the MoU at the collectorate.

"The project costing around Rs 6.19 crore would be implemented in three years. It is one of the largest AAI projects to be implemented under its corporate social responsibility programme. The United Nation Development Programme will be the implementing agency," said the Ranchi DC.

The villages to be benefited under the scheme include Hundru, Chota Ghagra, Hethu, Chandaghassi, Churu Lodhma, Karamtoli, Kachhatoli, Latma, Nariguttu, Khijri, Pokhartoli and Tombagattu. The project aims to bring improvement in overall living standards of people and achieve the goals envisaged under the NITI Ayog's Transformation of Aspirational District Programme.

The villages would be provided improved medical health facilities, which include strengthening the capacity of ground functionaries. Mobile Medical Units would also be operated in these areas. All these provisions would also help the administration achieve the objectives of National Rural Health Mission.

Furthermore, the project aims to bridge the existing gaps in education infrastructure and also increase the capabilities of teachers. There is stress on education as the villages have low literacy rate and a high drop-out rate from school.

Besides, proper drainage system will be built in the villages which in turn would lead to lesser number of infectious diseases and a healthier community.

The ideas envisaged in the swachh bharat mission would also be incorporated under the scheme. The administration said that vocational training programme will also be conducted under the project to enhance the employability of youths.

A grand procession was carried out from Morhabadi Ground to Jail More Park to mark the occasion.

In a much appreciated step, the State government in November 2018 declared collection of sanctified soil from the 'Sarna-Masna' Sthal of the martyrs who broke the tyranny of autocracy. She added that additional measures have been taken to ensure foolproof security at the airport, railway stations, bus stands and other public places. Malls too will be under police surveillance, the SP said. Governor Droupadi Murmu will unfurl the national flag at Morhabadi on Saturday, and elaborate arrangements have been made to ensure there are no security lapses. BJP unfazed by Mahagathbandhan in Jharkhand: Shahdeo

PNS ■ RANCHI

The ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) on Wednesday asserted that it was unfazed by the Mahagathbandhan in Jharkhand and confident about emerging victorious in the upcoming general elections.

Addressing the media on Wednesday in Latehar, party spokesperson Pratul Shahdeo said that the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM), Congress and Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) had joined hands in 2014 too, but they could not stop the BJP from achieving a landslide victory.

"BJP got 40.71% vote share in the 2014 general elections, which was 7% more than the total vote percentage of other parties in fray. Now, the irrelevant JMM-P has joined the UPA alliance, which hardly makes any difference," Shahdeo said.

The JMM, Congress, RJD and JMM-P have unanimously decided to contest the upcoming elections together. Congress party will be the face of the alliance in the general elections and JMM in the state elections.

Shahdeo was in Latehar a day after the Raghubar Das-led government tabled its fifth and final budget of its five-year term in the state.

He lauded the government for coming up with a budget that would be beneficial for people from all walks of life, especially farmers.

"By increasing the agriculture budget by 24% the government has made its stand clear that it is dedicatedly working for the welfare of farmers. The decision of giving Rs.5000 per acre to farmers will also ensure that they don't get trapped in bank loans," said Shahdeo, adding that it was a historical move.

The BJP faced flak nationally in the recent past after several cases of farmer suicides were reported and protests staged by farmers in the national capital. In what appeared to be a politically-motivated move to the BJP, the Congress had waived off farmers' loans soon after coming to power in Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Rajasthan recently.

Shahdeo on Wednesday said that the CM's Bike Ambulance Scheme will ensure quick health facilities to residents of rural Jharkhand.

He also commended the government's decision of providing four cows to each of the Tana Bhagat families, which shows the government's respect for them.

President Cyril Ramaphosa presence as Republic Day Chief Guest a curtain-raiser skyward approach, as Prime Minister Modi has visited South Africa twice since the time he came to power in 2014. Furthermore, since the year 2019 marks the 150th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, President Cyril Ramaphosa has agreed to grace the occasion and be the Chief Guest of the Republic Day Celebrations in New Delhi. He accepted the invitation extended by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and gave his confirmation during the G20 Summit which was held in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Initially, it was President Donald Trump (United States of America), who was invited to be the chief guest for the celebration. But due to prior engagements and constraints, he declined the request. Ramaphosa is likely to participate in the Pravasi Bhartiya Diwas (PBD) celebration, which will take place in Varanasi this year. PBD is celebrated to exhibit the contribution of Overseas Indian community and celebrate Babu's return to India from South Africa.

President Cyril Ramaphosa came to power after Jacob Zuma resigned; ending an era of scandal and misrule. Zuma was ousted on count of racketeering, corruption, money laundering, and was also accused of taking bribes.

Today, there are around 1.5 million people of Indian origin in South Africa, comprising around three percent of the total population. Moreover in Asia, India is Africa's sixth largest trading partner, and the trade has grown from US$4.7 billion (2007) to around US$10 billion in 2018 (Rohini Singh 2018).

We share a very warm and cordial relationship with the country bilaterally, also through other international organisations like IBSA (India, Brazil and South Africa) and BRICS (Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa). The tenth BRICS summit was held in South Africa in 2018, which was attended by PM Modi where he restated India's adherence for promoting peace, and bringing in development to the country, by focusing much on the South-South cooperation. Both the leaders also jointly released a stamp honoring the heritage of Gandhi and Mandela. Three Memorandum of Understanding was signed between India and South Africa which are: a) Exploration and Use of Outer Space for Peaceful Purposes, b) Cooperation in Agricultural Research and Education, and c) Setting up of the "Gandhi Mandela Centre of Specialisation for Artisan Skills" in South Africa (MEA, 2018).

Prior to this, Modi visited South Africa in 2016, where he entered into eight agreements and extended cooperation in the fields of Information Communication Technology, Tourism, Sport, Culture, Grassroots Innovation, Renewable Energy, Audio-Visual and Visa Simplification Procedures.

He termed the nation as the land of Madiba (Nelson Mandela) and the "Karambhoomi" of Mahatma Gandhi. He also addressed the Indian community and said that in the last ten years, the two way trade between both the nations have grown by 300 percent which is a clearly signifies India's keen business interest in South Africa.

Areas where both countries have a scope of cooperating includes; minerals and mining, chemicals and pharmaceuticals, high-technology manufacturing; and information and communication technology (The Pioneer 2016).

Now, with the interest shown by President Ramaphosa to attend the Republic day celebration there are bright hopes for strengthening our engagement with South Africa.

There is also an opportunity for both the nations to discuss and cooperate in many other areas and sectors. Areas like health, skill development and digital sector are kept in priority by Ramaphosa where he wants to boost relations with India. Also, at present the defence industry of South Africa is flourishing and growing most in the African continent.

enthusiastic to examine partnership in joint production (Dipanjan Roy, 2018). President will also meet the Indian business community in New Delhi in order to discuss, how with the help of South Africa, India can conduct and build up trade relations with other African nations.

We hope, Ramaphosa visit to India turns out to be fruitful for both the nations, further deepening our ties with South Africa - since there is great potential in this partnership, and it's a great occasion to bind business as well as people to people connection between the two countries.

Red Line Metro to reach Ghaziabad new bus adda

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Delhi Metro network's Rithala-Dilshad Garden Red Line will soon be extended to Ghaziabad's New Bus Adda. The Union Cabinet on Thursday approved the extension of Delhi Metro corridor from Dilshad Garden to New Bus Adda Ghaziabad. This would be the second metro line in Ghaziabad and the first metro link connecting the interiors of the city. It will pass through Sahibabad Industrial Area and is aimed at impacting the nearby residential areas.

The stretch also includes an interchange facility. At the Mohan Nagar station, people can change for Blue Line. Ghaziabad Development Authority (GDA) wrote to the UP government saying that the project was 99% complete and that December 25 could be a good day for commissioning of the line.

The Cabinet has also approved contribution of Rs.324.87 crore as central financial assistance for extension at the total completion cost of Rs.1,781.21 crore. The rolling stock is being provided by Delhi Metro Rail Corporation (DMRC) and land has been provided free of cost by the Ghaziabad Development Authority (GDA), said officials of Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs.

The extended corridor of Rithala-Dilshad Garden Red Line covers eight metro stations in total - Shaheed Nagar, Raj Bagh, Rajendra Nagar, Shyam Park, Mohan Nagar, Arthala, Hindon river and Ghaziabad New Bus Stand metro stations.

The other line that will be opened by year-end, Noida

Metro's Aqua line, is 29.7-km long. It has been under construction since the year 2015 and will benefit people residing in Greater Noida by connecting the city's vast stretches and linking it firmly with the national capital. The Aqua line will run from the depot station in Theta, Greater Noida to Sector 71, Noida and will cover 21 metro stations. Out of these 21, 15 metro stations will operate from Noida Sector 149 to Noida Sector 71, passing through Sectors 144, 137, 81, 50 etc. and 6 metro stations will operate from Greater Noida, passing through Delta 1, Alpha 1, Alpha 2, Pari Chowk and Knowledge Park 2. According to sources quoted in the report, the final documentation and inspections would be completed in three weeks, making it possible for the inauguration to take place in December.

Cabinet to strengthen N-E autonomous councils

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Keeping in mind the tribal population in the Northeast ahead of the Lok Sabha polls, the NDA Government on Wednesday took a major decision to grant more power and funds to 10 autonomous councils in the region.

The Union Cabinet approved a "landmark" constitutional amendment to increase the powers of the autonomous councils in the Sixth Schedule areas of the Northeast. The Finance Commission will be mandated to recommend devolution of financial resources to them, an official statement said.

The amendment also provides for transfer of additional 30 subjects including departments of Public Works, Forests, Public Health Engineering, Health and Family Welfare, Urban Development and Food and Civil Supply to Karbi Anglong Autonomous Territorial Council and Dima Hasao Autonomous Territorial Council in Assam.

"The Cabinet approves landmark amendment to Article 280 and Sixth Schedule of the Constitution. The most important part of these amendments is that these will significantly improve the financial resources and powers of the autonomous districts councils in Assam, Meghalaya, Mizoram and Tripura, fulfilling long-standing aspirations of the tribal population in these Northeastern States," the statement read. A Bill in this regard is expected to be introduced in the upcoming session of Parliament, a Home Ministry official said.

"This will be a game changer, as it will substantially enhance the funds available to these local government institutions for undertaking development works in these tribal areas," the official said.

The proposed amendments provide for elected village municipal councils, ensuring democracy at the grassroots level. The village councils will be empowered to prepare plans for economic development and social justice including those related to agriculture, land improvement, implementation of land reforms, minor irrigation, water management, animal husbandry, rural electrification, small scale industries and social forestry.

At least one-third of the seats will be reserved for women in the village and municipal councils in the Sixth Schedule areas of Assam, Mizoram and Tripura and at least two of the nominated members in all autonomous councils in the North East Sixth Schedule areas resulting in empowerment of women.

There will be State Election Commissions for holding elections to the autonomous councils, village and municipal councils in the areas of Assam, Mizoram and Tripura. There will be a provision for anti-defection too. Meghalaya has for the time being kept out of the purview of the provision for elected village and municipal councils and one-third reservations for women.

The amendments will fulfil the commitments made under tripartite Memorandum of Settlements signed by Government of India, governments of Assam and Meghalaya, United People's Democratic Solidarity (UPDS), Dima Haram Daogah (DHD) and Achik National Volunteers' Council (ANVC).

The amendments propose to rename the existing autonomous councils as Karbi Anglong Autonomous Territorial Council (KAATC), Dima Hasao Autonomous Territorial Council (DHATC), Garo Hills Autonomous Territorial Council (GHATC), Khasi Hills Autonomous Territorial Council (KHATC), Jaintia Hills Autonomous Territorial Council (JHATC) and Tripura Tribal Area Autonomous Territorial Council (TTAATC) as the present jurisdiction of these councils extend to more than one districts.

There will also be increase in seats in KAATC (from 30 to 50 seats), DHATC (30 to 40 seats), GHATC (30 to 42), KHATC (30 to 40) and JHATC (30 to 34).

CBI books ex-CMD of AI for misusing position

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The CBI has booked former Air India Chairman-cum-Managing Director Arvind Jadhav for allegedly constituting an illegal panel for making senior appointments and transfers.

Along with Jadhav, the CBI has also named then Executive Director (Personnel) LP Nakhwa (now retired) and former Additional General Managers (Operations) A Kathpalia, Amitabh Singh and Rohit Bhasin in its FIR registered under IPC section related to criminal conspiracy and provisions of Prevention of Corruption Act pertaining to abuse of official position.

The FIR alleged that Jadhav had constituted a panel in 2010 to promote officers to the rank of General Manager (operations) in violation of laid down procedures.

The three-member panel included then Chief Operating Officer Gustav Baldauf, then

Executive Director (operations) A Soman and former Executive Director (Personnel) LP Nakhwa, the FIR said.

Nakhwa, who was General Manager (Medical Services), was given the rank of Executive Director (Medical Services) after the post was upgraded as a temporary measure till August 31, 2009.

It is alleged that Nakhwa was to be reverted to the post of General Manager (Medical Services) from September 1, 2009, but she continued in her position as Executive Director in clear violation of the Civil Aviation Ministry's directive dated March 6, 2009.

The CBI inquiry also found that Jadhav regularised Nakhwa in the post of Executive Director (Medical Services) with effect from April 1, 2010 without following the due procedure, the FIR said.

The Civil Aviation Ministry had annulled and reversed the irregular appointment of Nakhwa as Executive Director (Medical services).

A human resources sub-committee of the Board of Air India in an order dated September 8, 2010 reverted Nakhwa to the post of General Manager (Medical Services) with immediate effect.

"Therefore, the promotion panel so constituted by Arvind Jadhav...For selecting suitable candidates for promotions to the post of GM (operations) should have been re-constituted in the wake of reversion of Nakhwa from Executive Director (Medical services) to the rank of General Manager," it said. The CBI also alleged that Nakhwa was not eligible for being a member of the said promotion panel but Jadhav nominated her against the prevailing rules and procedure.

ADR: BJP earned ₹553 cr from unknown sources in '17-18

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

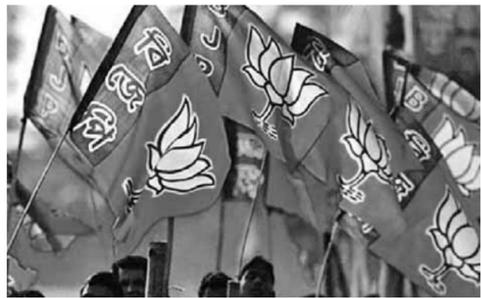

Political parties received ₹8721.14 crore funding from unknown sources between 2004-05 and 2017-18 with the BJP and the Congress witnessing maximum income from such sources. More than 50 per cent of the funds national parties received during the financial year 2017-18 came from "unknown" sources that included donations through electoral bonds and voluntary contributions.

According to Association for Democratic Reforms (ADR), the income of these parties from "unknown" sources was ₹689.44 crore, which is 53 per cent of their total income. The BJP alone declared ₹553.38 crore as its income from unknown sources. This income of BJP forms more than 4 times the aggregate of income from unknown sources declared by the other five national parties.

According to it, the total income of BJP, Congress, CPI, BSP, TMC, and NCP in 2017-18 was ₹1293.05 crore. The income of these parties from "unknown" sources was ₹689.44 crore, which is 53 per cent of their total income.

Out of the ₹689.44 crore, the share from electoral bonds was ₹215 crore or 31 per cent, the report said.

The parties received ₹354.22 crore or more than 51 per cent of the fund from unknown sources through voluntary contributions (below ₹20,000), it said, adding the total income from other miscellaneous unknown sources

The ADR also recommended that scrutiny of financial documents submitted by the political parties should be conducted annually by a body approved by CAG and ECI so as to enhance transparency and accountability of political parties with respect to their funding was ₹4.5 crore.

Thirty-six per cent of their income or ₹467.13 crore from "known" donors, whose details were available from contribution reports submitted to the Election Commission.

They got ₹136.48 crore from other known sources, such as from the sale of assets and publications, membership fees, bank interest, and party levy, the report said.

According to donation reports (containing details of donations above ₹20,000), only ₹16.80 lakh was given in cash to the national parties.

The CPI(M), which is also a national party, was not included in the analysis as its "schedules or annexures were unavailable for the financial year 2017-18". At present, political parties are not required to declare the names of individuals and organisations giving less than ₹20,000 nor of those who donate via electoral bonds.

While the national parties were brought under the Right to Information Act by the CIC ruling in June 2013, they have still not complied with the decision.

The ADR also recommended that scrutiny of financial documents submitted by the political parties should be conducted annually by a body approved by CAG and ECI so as to enhance transparency and accountability of political parties with respect to their funding.

"The national and regional political parties must provide all information under the Right to Information Act. This will only strengthen political parties, elections and democracy," it said.

Disappointed as decision on elevation of judges not made public, says Lokur

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Former Supreme Court Judge, Justice Madan B Lokur Wednesday expressed disappointment over not bringing to public domain the December 12 decision of the apex court's Collegium on the elevation of judges, which has been at the centre of controversy.

Justice (Retd) Lokur, who demitted office on December 30, 2018, was part of the 5-member Collegium deliberations which had reportedly agreed to recommend the names of Justices Pradeep Nandrajog and Rajendra Menon to the Supreme Court.

Later, however, Delhi High Court judge Sanjiv Khanna and Chief Justice of Karnataka High Court Justice Dinesh Maheshwari were elevated as apex court judges, triggering a public debate on the issue.

On the controversy around the purported change in the decision, Justice Lokur said he did not know as to what additional documents came after his retirement.

Speaking at an interaction here on "State of the Indian Judiciary", organised by a law portal, the former judge however rubbished the claim of nepotism in the judiciary.

Justice Lokur said he didn't think that the Collegium system has failed.

Healthy discussions take place at the Collegium meetings and agreements and disagreements are part of it, he said, adding that the discussions are confidential and trust is the important factor.

He advocated time-bound decisions on the recommendations of the Collegium by the Executive, saying that in the event of no response from the government, the recommendations can be deemed to be accepted. He said there is a need to bring some changes in the Collegium system and some mechanism has to be there for adhering to time line in judicial appointments.

KHURSHED WANI ■ SRINAGAR

For the third straight day, three more terrorists were killed in north Kashmir's Baramulla district on Wednesday taking the toll to nine. The terrorists were killed in a fierce encounter in Binnar village where police and security forces launched an operation on specific information on movement of terrorists.

The three slain terrorists are believed to be cadre of Lashkar-e-Tayyeba (LeT) outfit, two of them suspected to be foreigners.

Security sources said that a joint team of army, Police and CRPF launched a cordon-and-search operation at Binnar village on the outskirts of Baramulla district on the basis of inputs about the presence of terrorists.

Maha ATS busts 'ISIS-inspired' group; minor among 9 arrested

Mumbai: The Maharashtra Anti-Terrorism Squad (ATS) has busted an "ISIS-inspired" group, which was planning mass casualty attacks using poisonous chemical mixtures at big gatherings, an official said on Wednesday.

The ATS has also arrested eight men and detained a minor boy — all suspected members of the group — following searches in Thane and Aurangabad over the last two days, he added.

The arrests have come just days ahead of the Republic Day on January 26.

The ATS has seized liquids, chemical powders, a chemical bottle with "hydrogen peroxide" written on it, six knives, six pen drives, six laptops, over 24 mobile phones, several gadgets, WiFi routers, DVDs, CDs, hard drives, graphics cards, modems and computer RAMs (random access memory), the ATS official said.

The group, which had engineers in its ranks, had planned to prepare toxic chemical mixtures and blend those with food or water at big events to cause mass casualty, he added.

All the seized materials were sent to the forensic science laboratory for examination, he said.

"These people had created a terrorist gang inspired by the ISIS called the Ummat E Mohammadiya and had planned terror activities at various places," the official said without elaborating.

"The idea was to make some poisonous mixtures and mix those in water or food at places of big events so that people consume it," he said.

The locations where the group had planned the terror activities were being ascertained, he added.

"We will verify all the aspects, including (a possible) attack at the (ongoing) Kumbh Mela (in Prayagraj, Uttar Pradesh) and at other big events as well," the official said.

The chemicals seized from the group were of experimental quantities, he said, adding, "We are also investigating whether the group had any associates in the state or other parts of the country."

Among those arrested was Mazhar Abdul Rashid Sheikh, the son of Rashid Malbari — a underworld criminal and dreaded sharp-shooter of the Dawood Ibrahim gang — the ATS official said. Sheikh was arrested from Aurangabad in central Maharashtra, he added.

The minor, who was detained, was aged around 17 and was a student of class 11 (Science), the official said. PTI

BJP's days are numbered: TMC

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

A day after Amit Shah charged the Trinamool Congress with unleashing syndicate raj in Bengal and promised to clear the province of illegal cross-border infiltrators once it came to power, the State ruling outfit hit back calling the BJP president an empty vessel whose party had failed to keep its earlier promises like repatriating black money and crediting ₹15 lakh each in the citizens' bank accounts.

While TMC Rajya Sabha MP Derek O'Brien called the BJP a mad outfit, speaking out of nervousness and desperation, senior leader and State Minister Partho Chatterjee called Shah an empty vessel who was only capable of making large noises.

Referring to Shah's speech in a Malda rally O'Brien said "it is obvious that they are very nervous," as "they know their days are numbered. They are politically scared. Their speeches are low on facts and poor in State."

Shah had on Tuesday told a rally in Malda that "Trinamool Congress needs to be uprooted from this State so that its syndicate tax raj can be ended." Blowing the BJP's elections bugle he vowed to throw out all infiltrators from Bengal. "If we come to power we can assure you that the BJP will make Bengal infiltrator-free."

Reacting to Shah's statements O'Brien tweeted, the BJP did not understand the ethos of India and Bengal. "They are heading towards a big zero," he said adding "some are saying they are desperate, some are saying they have gone mad ... or is it a combination of both?"

Thousands hit Mizoram streets against Citizenship Amendment Bill

Aizawl: Thousands of people, including students, hit the streets across different places in Mizoram on Wednesday to protest against the Citizenship (Amendment) Bill.

Effigies of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Rajnath Singh were torched, as protesters took out rallies from here, seven district headquarters and at over 50 other places.

Raising slogans and carrying placards, the agitators demanded the resignation of the PM and the Home Minister, alleging that the controversial bill will endanger the very existence of the Mizos.

The rally was organised by the Mizo Zirlai Pawl (MZO) or Mizo students federation, which had also organised an 11-hour, state-wide bandh on January 8. PTI

SPECIAL TREATMENT TO SASIKALA IN PRISON Not yet briefed on inquiry committee report: MB Patil

Bengaluru: Karnataka Home Minister MB Patil on Friday said he was yet to be briefed on the report of an enquiry committee that went into charges of preferential treatment to ousted AIADMK leader V K Sasikala at the prison here and would take action after discussions with department officials.

Patil, who took over as Home Minister after the Cabinet rejig on December 22, asserted that nobody was above the law and there was no need to protect anybody.

"It has come to my notice through media reports about RTI... Nobody is above the law..." he told reporters here.

"There was inquiry...I'm holding discussions. Officially I'm yet to be briefed on it. I cannot act on media reports.

Have taken cognisance of media reports. I will discuss without department officials and whatever is needed will be done. What is the need to protect anybody," he added.

An RTI query revealed that Sasikala was given special treatment in a prison here, where she is serving imprisonment in a corruption case, according to the report by an inquiry committee that went into the allegations by a senior police official.

The 295-page report by retired IAS officer Vinay

Kumar confirmed that the then DIG (Prisons) D Roopa's claims in July 2017 that Sasikala was given preferential treatment and a separate kitchen functioned for her at the Parappana Agrahara Central Jail here, RTI activist Narasimha Murthy had recently said.

Kumar had submitted his report to the Government on November 17, 2017, but its contents were not made public.

Asked if action would be taken based on thereport, Patil said "definitely...I have not been officially briefed about it... I have to ascertain about it as the Home Minister and will act accordingly." PTI

More than 70K cows died in Hingonia gaushala in last five years: Gehlot

Jaipur: Lashing out at the Opposition BJP on the issue of cows, Rajasthan chief minister Ashok Gehlot on Wednesday said 74,016 cows had died in Hingonia gaushala in Jaipur during the previous Government's five year rule.

He accused the BJP of calling the Congress a party of Muslims but stated the Congress had won elections in the 'cow belt' of Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh.

"Politics was done in the name of cows. As many as 74,016 cows died in Hingonia gaushala in five years. Congress was called the party of Muslims but the party won elections in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh," Gehlot said, in his reply to the debate on the Governor's speech in the Assembly. He said the Hindu community had realised the BJP raises the issue of Ram temple ahead of elections.

The chief minister targeted the former Vasundhara Raje Government "for weakening schemes like free medicines which were initiated by the earlier Congress Government" and said his Government will not discontinue any public welfare scheme. He said the public gave huge mandate to the BJP in 2013 Assembly elections but the Vasundhara Raje Government wasted five years and gave misrule to the public. PTI

TN district thanks Collector for pro-development schemes

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

Tiruvannamalai, one of the most backward districts in Tamil Nadu, is undergoing a silent transformation, thanks to innovative and well-conceived programmes and schemes worked out by the District Collector.

"The district was known as home to Lord Annamalai Temple and the ashram of Ramana Maharshi. Other than these two unique institutions, Tiruvannamalai was known only for child marriages, foeticide, illegal termination of pregnancy and malnutrition," said Kattumannarkoil Kannan, vice president, Cauvery Delta Farmers Welfare Association, Tamil Nadu.

Being one of the most rain deficit regions in the State, Tiruvannamalai's contribution to the State economy was negligible. There are no industries

Mothers taking oath with camphor that they would not marry off their daughters before they turn 18

worth mentioning and this resulted in many poor men opting to work as illegal wood cutters in the Seshachalam Forests of neighbouring Andhra Pradesh. Most of the wood cutters allegedly killed in "encounters" inside the forest were from Tiruvannamalai. All these could turn out to be old stories as the district in making big strides thanks to K S Kandasamy, the district collector.

Since the day he took over as collector in September 2017, Kandasamy went into action.

District Collector Kandasamy with schoolchildren who wrote letters to their parents not to marry them off before they turn 18

He was greeted by unprecedented problems crying for drastic solutions. Quacks operated in various parts of Tiruvannamalai performing selective abortion of female children. Women were afraid of delivering female children as they knew life of girls would be a horrid affair.

"Infanticide, school dropouts, child marriages, malnutrition, lower educational status, high maternal mortality rates, were some of the issues haunting us. The maternal mortality ratio was 111.1 for the year 2017-2018. We brought it down to 54.36 by 2018 to 2019," Kandasamy told The Pioneer on the eve of his departure to New Delhi where he is being honoured on Thursday by the Prime Minister.

Along with the MMR, Kandasamy succeeded in bringing down the infant mortality rate which stood at 11.9 in 2018. "This is lower than the State average of 17. But we are working to bring it down to zero. There are many factors for this phenomenon and this needs multi-pronged strategy," said the district collector.

Since early marriages and teenage pregnancy are the root cause of the higher order birth, Kandasamy and his team have decided to eradicate child marriages. "During 2017-2018 we had stopped 168 child marriages. And during the current year and up to December 2018 we have stopped 166 child marriages in our district and legal actions were initiated. All the children secured are being given training, counselling and career guidance," he said.

A simple but majestic event held at the initiative of Kandasamy turned out to be the game changer in the attitude of women and men towards girl child. "All rural women took a pledge by holding burning camphor that they would not marry off their kids below the age of 18. This has paid rich dividends," said Kandasamy.

Vijayasree Ramesh, a social activist from Chennai is optimistic about the future of Tiruvannamalai. "The collector has taken the women community into confidence and he himself has become a role model in driving home the lesson that women should be respected. He had integrated schemes like Beti Bachao Beto Padhao with the local issues and this has paid good results," said Ramesh, a lawyer-turned-girl child activist.

One of the private colleges in the district came forward to implement the "Role Reversal Activity" suggested by Kandasamy. An equal number of boys and girls were selected for the mission. For one day, they had the roles reversed. Boys became home makers while the girls had fun.

We cooked and cleaned and served them food of their choices. And the girls had fun playing games, dance, chit-chat, drive a battery operated car. It was a different experience and our perspective about women got changed," said Arun, one of the students who took part in this mission.

These are few of the innovations being implemented by Kandasamy and team. He is confident that by the time he has to move out, an irreversible process of change would have set in Tiruvannamalai.

Priyanka to hit SP-BSP alliance hard

Now dissidents have option of knocking door of Congress

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

With the euphoria generated by the alliance followed by the mega meet of Opposition leaders at Kolkata, the Samajwadi party and the Bahujan Samaj Party are grappling with the 'real politik' of seat sharing. Both the parties are also grappling with the dissidence as many aspirants will not be able to contest the election following the alliance.

of the fledgling alliance. The move has come as a setback for the SP-BSP alliance as it has created fresh avenues for the prospective Lok Sabha candidates of both SP and BSP but denied opportunity to contest as both the parties have shared 38 seats each and rest for the small parties. The SP, BSP appeared over confident of their electoral arithmetic comprising of the SC, OBCs and minorities.

in the electoral fortune of the Congress has brought a new hope for those SP and BSP leaders who were at the dead end of their political career because of the alliance of the two parties. Now they have the option of knocking at the door of the Congress," said a political analyst.

"Entry of Priyanka Gandhi could be setback for the Samajwadi Party-Bahujan Samaj Party alliance. The strategist of the SP-BSP were confident that there will be direct fight with the BJP, now the electoral battle is likely to be triangular which may benefit the BJP," said the Rajya Sabha MP of the Samajwadi party. He added, "The forceful entry of the Congress could also create dilemma for the Muslim voters and providing credible alternative to the rebels of SP, BSP and the BJP".

BSP former MP refusing to be identified said, "The SP-BSP leaders should have made efforts for the honourable accommodation of the Congress in the alliance". He said this would have sealed the fate of the BJP and the tally of the ruling party at the Centre could have been reduced to a single digit.

"If 2017 UP Assembly election is the benchmark, then the alliance plus Congress would have secured 52.08% vote share as compared to 39.67% of the BJP" said the BSP leader.

Political observers say that voters, particularly Muslims, have not forgotten Mayawati's decision to take the BJP's support to form the Government in Lucknow in 1995, and later in 1997 and 2002. They say these voters will not rule out the possibility of this happening again if the Opposition fails to unseat Narendra Modi and the BJP at the Centre. There is this fear amongst Muslims that Mayawati could switch sides after the elections if she is not in a powerful position. This assumption that Muslims will vote only for the alliance is somehow misplaced."

UP Congress general secretary Onkar Nath Singh said, "All sections of the society are looking at the Congress as a possible alternative on seats that will be contested by BSP and SP. If they feel the Congress is in a strong position, they could end up voting for the Congress instead of the alliance."

The last time the SP and BSP had joined hands was for the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections in 1993, when the BJP was riding the Hindutva wave after the demolition of the Babri Masjid the previous year.

Gauri's sister rubbishes cyber expert's claim

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA ■ BENGALURU

Slankesh's sister Kavita Lankesh has rubbished the claim made by a US-based self-styled cyber expert and hacker that Lankesh was killed because she was planning to write an article on the hacking of Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs).

"I am aware of it and I think it is completely false. I don't think it is true at all. I don't know why it was said like this. I don't believe my sister was targeting for that at all," Kavita Lankesh said.

Lankesh was shot dead on September 5, 2017 evening outside her house.

Police have arrested 16

people, while two suspects are at large.

Police have claimed that a right wing criminal syndicate, which killed the left leaning journalist Lankesh, was inspired by the literature brought out by a right wing organisation Sanatan Sanstha and assassinated her for being 'Durjan' (evil person), as mentioned in the book.

However, adding an outlandish twist to the story, the man identified as Syed Shuja had said he had met Lankesh and wanted the article on EVM to be published in her weekly when the assassination happened.

Kavita said, "The murder was a political conspiracy but I don't believe in this kind of twist. So far, the investigation is going in a right direction." When asked whether she believed that there were political motives behind the claims, she said, "I guess so. It's a fake news. I don't need to go into it."

The Election Commission has filed a complaint with the Delhi Police asking it to register an FIR against Syed Shuja, who at a press conference in London on Monday claimed EVMs can be hacked, and the 2014 Lok Sabha elections were rigged.

In its complaint, the poll panel asked the police to investigate the matter "promptly" for violation of certain sections of the Indian Penal Code dealing with spreading rumour to alarm and "create fear" in the minds of the public.

Didi: Those dividing country into pieces not national leaders

PTI ■ DARJEELING

A day after BJP president Amit Shah ridiculed the Opposition's bid to forge a grand alliance, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday said those who want to divide the country into pieces cannot be called national leaders. Speaking at an event here to celebrate the 122nd birth anniversary of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose, Banerjee said "we will be successful only when we are together".

"Such persons are leaders of only a section of people of the country," Banerjee said in an apparent dig at the BJP, without naming the saffron party or any of its leaders. "Those who want to divide the country into pieces cannot be national leaders," she added.

Kickstarting the party's Lok Sabha poll campaign in West Bengal from a rally at Malda, Shah Tuesday scoffed at the efforts by opposition parties to forge a grand alliance, saying it is driven by the "greed for power" and with nine potential prime ministerial candidates in their ranks.

Taking a swipe at the opposition rally convened by the Trinamool Congress supremo in Kolkata last Saturday, Shah said bringing in 20-25 leaders on one stage would not serve any purpose as Narendra Modi will become prime minister again.

He had also described TMC government as "facilitators of murders" and made serious corruption charges against it. TMC had organised a mega rally at Brigade Parade ground in Kolkata on Saturday last in which over two dozen leaders of as many 22 anti-BJP parties had given a call to oust Modi from power in the general elections.

Stating that Netaji had taken people from all communities and races together, from the Hills to those in every other part of the country in forming the Indian National Army (INA), Banerjee said he talked of "togetherness and unity of all people of the country". She said Mahatma Gandhi, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad and Babasaheb Ambedkar were great national leaders as they stood for the good of all.

Priyanka's appointment will strengthen party: Pilot

PTI ■ JAIPUR

Deputy Chief Minister of Rajasthan Sachin Pilot on Wednesday said Priyanka Gandhi's appointment as AICC general secretary for UP East will inspire party workers across the country.

"It is a welcome development. This will boost party workers across the country. It has been a long standing demand of the workers to give her (Priyanka) an official role. "Until now, she chose to restrict herself to campaigning in Amethi and Raebareilly but now as a general secretary, she will strengthen the party's Lok Sabha campaign in the next three months," he said.

Pilot said her new official role will make a huge difference. "Today we understand India is going through a very challenging time and people are looking at the Congress to give an alternative and we need to really get our act together and give a very charged campaign," said the Deputy Chief Minister of Rajasthan.

Pilot's boss, Ashok Gehlot has also welcomed the announcement.

Sitharaman slams Cong on EVMs hacking issue

PTI ■ CHENNAI

Amid the row over a self-styled expert alleging that EVMs could be tampered with, Union Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday hit out at the Congress for joining hands with elements in a foreign country who claimed that electronic voting machines could be hacked.

She dared the Congress to step down from power in Madhya Pradesh where assembly elections were held recently.

A self-styled cyber expert had days ago claimed that EVMs could be hacked and alleged that the 2014 general elections were rigged.

To a question on Tamil Nadu Congress demanding an inquiry into claims that EVMs could be hacked following a hackathon in London recently, she told reporters here that "if they win, EVM is working properly, if they lose EVMs do not function properly, and that too in a foreign country."

The Defence Minister attacked the Congress for what she termed pursuing the path of weakening democracy. "This is an effort by the Congress to weaken democracy,"

"The Congress party won the Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Rajasthan Assembly elections only through the Electronic Voting Machine," she said and blamed the Rahul Gandhi-led party for changing stand on EVMs according to their convenience.

The Congress party should say they will step down from government in Madhya Pradesh since they won the polls through the EVMs.

"They should say that there should be some problem with the EVMs and that was why they won...otherwise they should say that they themselves manipulated the machines for their victory," she said.

She queried if the Congress manipulated EVMs for their victories in the past.

'Perfectly fine': Nitish over EVM's credibility

PTI ■ PATNA

Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Wednesday defended Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs), saying it was "perfectly fine" and suggested that there will not be any problem if voter verifiable paper audit trails (VVPAT) are made available at every polling stations.

Amid raging debate over EVMs, which Opposition leaders have been critical of, Kumar said he was not in agreement with the things said.

In an apparent dig at the Congress, which is among opposition parties who are criticising EVMs, Kumar asked "during whose time the EVM system was introduced?"

"My stand on the use of EVM is very clear. EVMs are perfectly fine. There will not be any problem if VVPAT is made available at every polling stations. I do not agree with things which are being said about EVM. In my view, EVM has strengthened people's right to vote," Kumar told reporters.

He was talking to reporters here after paying tributes to national leader Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose on his 122nd birth anniversary in the state capital.

The incidents of bogus voting and booth capturing used to be witnessed during voting through ballot paper but things have improved with the introduction of EVMs and the system would further improve with the introduction of VVPAT, Kumar, who is also JD(U) national president, said.

Kumar said voters' slip must be distributed in every household beside taking the receiving from the families in which voters' slips have been distributed.

Why is NDA afraid of facing JPC into Rafale deal: D Raja

PTI ■ CHENNAI

CPI leader D Raja on Wednesday reiterated his party's demand for a JPC probe into the Rafale deal, asking why the NDA Government is 'afraid' of facing the Joint Parliamentary Committee if there was no wrongdoing in the Indo-French pact.

The CPI national secretary urged PM Narendra Modi to "tell the truth" on the matter. "Neither the Defence Minister (Nirmala Sitharaman) nor the External Affairs Minister (Sushma Swara) was involved when the deal was clinched. It was the Prime Minister, the Prime Minister alone who took the decision and decided the deal," he said.

"JPC is a parliamentary instrument and Parliament is supreme in our democracy. If there is nothing (wrong) they can very well accept JPC. Why are they afraid of it," he told PTI. Raja's remarks came in response to Sitharaman once again ruling out a JPC probe into the Rafale deal on Wednesday.

On the demand for a JPC probe into the Rafale deal while speaking to reporters here Wednesday, Sitharaman had said "it is not needed." Unlike the 2G issue, no institution like the Comptroller and Auditor General or even the Supreme Court said anything against Rafale, she noted.

Man held in UP for posing as PMO official

PTI ■ LUCKNOW

A man was arrested for allegedly impersonating as an official of the Prime Minister's Office (PMO), according to a statement issued by the Uttar Pradesh Police's Special Task Force (STF) here on Wednesday.

Acting on a tip-off, the STF arrested Naresh Rai from Jiamau locality here on Tuesday, it said.

The STF had received a complaint that Rai used to call bureaucrats posing as a PMO official and ask them to give contracts and jobs to some people, it said, adding that he used to take money for this. An SUV was also seized, the statement added.

Tripura DGP: BSF, cops on alert to check Rohingya infiltration

PTI ■ AGARTALA

The BSF and the State police have increased vigilance along India-Bangladesh border to check infiltration of Rohingya Muslims, Director General of Police (DGP) Akhil Kumar Shukla said on Wednesday, two days after 30 refugees were apprehended at Churaibari in Assam.

The immigrants, including 12 children, were on their way to Guwahati from Agartala in a bus Monday, when the Assam Police held them at Churaibari in Assam's Karimganj district, about 200 km from here.

They were sent to jail by a district court Tuesday. Last week, 31 Rohingyas were holed up behind the barbed wire fencing along the Bangladesh boundary in Tripura, as the border guards of both sides debated over their status.

"The Border Security Force (BSF) and the state police have been put on alert to ensure that no new Rohingya Muslims enter into our territory through the India-Bangla international border," Shukla said.

Tripura shares 856-km-long border with Bangladesh. C.L Belwa, the deputy inspector general of BSF (Tripura Frontier), said Rohingyas make their way to India through different routes in the east and then move to other parts of the country for job and livelihood.

The refugees, who were apprehended at Churaibari on Tuesday, had actually entered India through Assam, he said.

"They had come to Tripura to work in brick kilns, but their livelihood issues were not solved here so they were returning to Assam again," Belwa said.

The 31 Rohingya Muslims, who were holed up in no-man's land since January 18, have been handed over to Tripura Police by the BSF after talks with Border Guards Bangladesh (BGB) failed.

They underwent a medical check-up and were later produced before a court in West Tripura district which sent them to 14-day judicial custody Tuesday.

More than 700,000 Rohingya Muslims fled Myanmar's Rakhine state to neighbouring Bangladesh since August 2017 after a military crackdown, triggering a massive refugee crisis.

In October 2017, the Ministry of Home Affairs had urged all states to take immediate steps to identify and monitor Rohingya immigrants.

To be The Global Benchmark for a Capital City

There will be jobs...

...only if we change our beehive thinking and focus on making specific, systemic changes

Joblessness is like an albatross around our necks, noticeable and mentionable, but a drag that nobody has an idea of how to deal with. Even in poll season, none of the political parties has articulated specifics of a rehabilitation plan despite knowing that a manifesto of redemption would work with the masses. Perhaps, the political class, guilty of having created the mess in the first place, would not like to acknowledge their shortness of vision or the lack of it. Perhaps, they do not want to commit, knowing the anger non-fulfilment stokes. Or perhaps, by letting the problem fester they have a better chance of fomenting political unrest. But cold statistics keep knocking at our door and the latest to hit us comes from Maharashtra, where 7,000 people, mostly college graduates, applied for 13 waiter jobs at the secretariat canteen, a job that requires candidates to be educated up to Class IV. And if that isn't a measure of desperation, consider that in a recruitment drive by Indian Railways, nearly 19 million people from across the country applied for 63,000 vacant posts! With no credible figures on unemployment being put out by the NDA government, which had promised to create two crore jobs per year ever since it took over the reins, we have the Centre for Monitoring of Indian Economy figures quantifying joblessness as nearly seven per cent despite GDP growth. Job elasticity is simply not there though the government is now desperately seeking cover in Employees' Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO) figures of increased subscriptions. However, we must remember that much of that has to do with migration of labour from informal to formal sectors, reorganisation of the labour market and may not have anything to do with net job creation at all. The time for complaints and justification is over and we have to pursue a recuperative vision. Keeping to the flavour of popular parlance, rozgari cannot be milked as a poll plank till we see some kaamdari in right earnest.

India's unemployment challenge is more serious compared to others because of its large productive youth population, usually considered a demographic dividend but in the absence of jobs could very well become a demographic disaster instead. Yes, there is lack of growth in the industrial sector and in an automated scenario, that cannot be readily relied upon. Given the increased digitisation of operations, new jobs have to be reliant on the services sector while insular global trade policies mean that we must ramp up domestic demand. Medium-scale enterprises can emerge as the sunshine sector in terms of job absorption capacity while education, healthcare and tourism will have to be primed given their dominant service orientation. For all initiatives like Skill India, there must be an industry-aided skill requirement map so that the problem of overqualification, as evidenced by the latest job rush queues in Maharashtra, does not dash hopes. Besides, there must be a provision for career-long skill upgradation given that the economic paradigm can change due to technological breakthroughs and fluidity of the economy. Yes, use of AI may kill some traditional jobs but as seen with the IT revolution, it can also encourage an allied layer of human services and talent. Surely no change can be guaranteed overnight. That's why an integrated systems thinking is necessary to factor in future imperatives beforehand to ensure flexibility and adaptability. Albert Einstein had once said, "We cannot solve problems by using the same kind of thinking we used when we created them." We need to not only think out of the box but be ready to jump out of it.

Virat dominance

The cricketer's kind of achievements comes only once in a while to deck up the gentleman's game

After inspiring India to its first ever Test series triumph and the maiden bilateral ODI series win in Australia, Indian skipper Virat Kohli added another milestone in his list of achievements on the 22 yards of cricket glory. Kohli was in ravishing form throughout in 2018 amassing 1,322 runs in 13 Tests at an average of 55.08 with five hundreds while in 14 ODIs, he compiled 1,202 runs at an astonishing average of 133.55 with six hundred-plus scores. This was the second year on a trot that the modern-day great of the game has scored more than a 1,000 runs in a calendar year in both Test and ODI formats. However, in comparison to previous years, the stupendous run of 2018 rates as a great record because out of the 13 Tests he featured in, 11 were in tough overseas conditions of South Africa, England and Australia. Often criticised as a flat track bully because a majority of his big scores has come on the Indian subcontinent, Virat demolished the jinx of poor performance in England and despite India suffering a humiliating defeat of 1-4 in five-match series last summer, he emerged as the highest run scorer with 593 runs in 10 innings, consisting of two tons and three 50-plus scores. In South Africa in the three-match series, he was the combined highest run scorer with 286 runs in six innings. And in the year-end series Down Under, though Cheteshwar Pujara and the Indian pace attack were the highlights of India's historic triumph, it was skipper Kohli who stood tall against the on-fire Australian attack in tough Perth conditions and scored centuries to keep India in the game. And if he was not given out controversially at the slips, the situation could have been vastly different.

Not only in the five-day format of the game, the talismanic skipper, who is now just 10 short of Sachin Tendulkar's record of most hundreds in ODI cricket, was in a completely different zone in the limited overs format. He started his campaign against South Africa in their home ground and amassed 558 runs in just six innings at an astonishing average of 186.00 and a strike rate of 99.47, which was a fair indication that he doesn't play too many dot balls. During the series, he scored three centuries and one 50-plus score and successfully led India to the 5-1 win in the six-match series. And after opting out of the Nidhas Trophy and returning in the England series, he was only second behind England's Joe Root with 191 runs and two half-centuries in three games. Then again after missing Asia Cup in the United Arab Emirates, he returned to lead the Men in Blue in the home series against West Indies and scored three back to back hundreds in the first three matches, topping the chart of highest run scorer with 453 runs in five matches at an average of 151. While in between these two formats, he featured in 10 Twenty 20 games, three each in three overseas tours of the team and one against Ireland. His unbeaten 61 in the final T20 at Sydney helped India chase down 165 runs and level series 1-1. Though India wasn't able to win the Test series in England and South Africa, it was Virat's impressive leadership that took his side close in most of the games. If any other batsman had stepped in to help Virat, the results could have been different.

No closure for Netaji

It's unfortunate that the man, who led India towards its freedom, was lost when India woke up to Independence. Till date only theories exist about his death

KINGSHUK NAG

When Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose's death in an air crash in Taipei on August 18, 1945, was announced, the British Government suspected that this was a cover for his escape to the Soviet Union. Their suspicions were confirmed a few months later when transmitters in Calcutta's Governor's House caught three broadcasts on shortwave band 31 by Netaji between December 26, 1945, and February 1946. The broadcasts showed that he was alive: Netaji said that he was under the "shelter of great world powers" and his utterances revealed that he was aware "my men are being tried at the Red Fort."

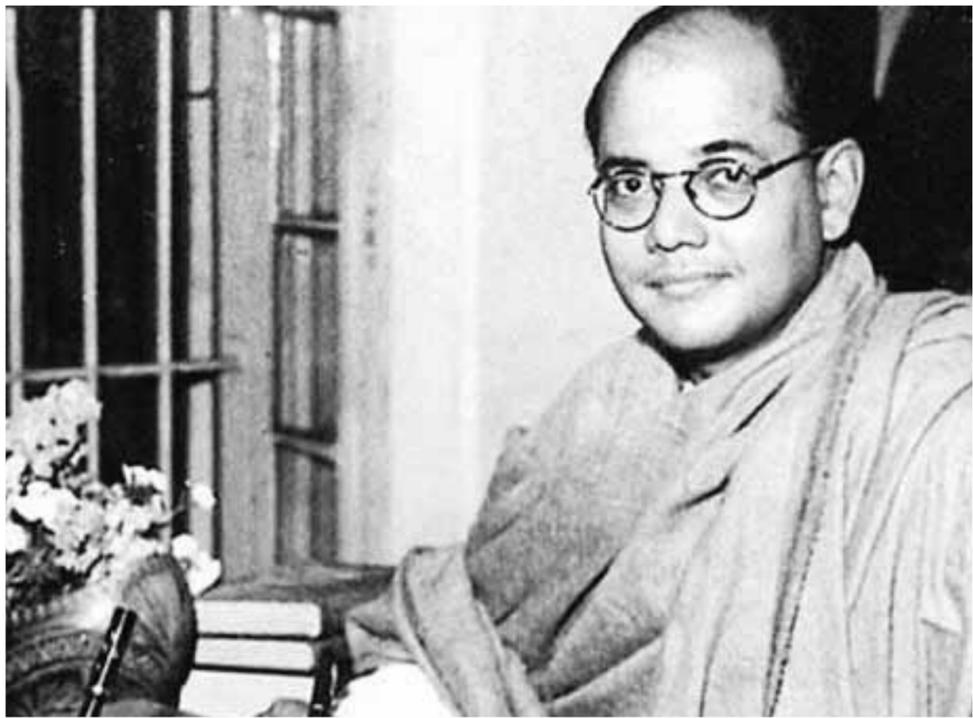

Subhas Chandra Bose promised to come to India and sit on judgement on "those trying my men at the Red Fort." He also said that the back of British imperialism had been broken and that the British could concede Independence to India in two years. Copies of these transmissions have now been made public after the declassification of records pertaining to Netaji in 2015.

Due to inferior technology in those times, transmissions never reached the ears of millions of Indians for whom they were meant, but the British masters were definitely alarmed on hearing them. The alarm spread to the Congress circles as well. Found among the records was a letter from Khurshed Naoroji, one of the Secretaries of Mahatma Gandhi to Louis Fischer (on June 22 1946). It read: "At the heart, the Indian Army is sympathetic to the Indian National Army (INA). If Bose comes with the help of Russians, neither Gandhiji nor Jawaharlal Nehru or the Congress will be able to reason with the country."

That Netaji was looming large on the British horizon was clear from the fact that on October 25, 1945, the then British Prime Minister chaired a Cabinet meeting for finalisation of a policy towards Bose, based on a confidential note on the subject from Lord Wavell, the then Viceroy of India.

Incidentally, the file also mentioned that Lord Mountbatten, who was the British Supreme Allied Commander for South East Asia Command, received a dispatch from the British directorate of military intelligence that said: "When Bose was preparing to leave Burma by plane, the Chinese intercepted a message from the Japanese, asking him to remain in Burma. Bose subsequently escaped to Thailand."

The file also mentioned that the case in support of Netaji's death in an air crash was based on evidence provided by Col Habibur Rahman and Japanese doctor T Yoshimi. But Habibur Rahman was "not willing to come out with the truth" and there were a multitude of discrepancies in his version. Obviously, the British did not believe that Netaji had died in any air crash.

The British obsession with Netaji was natural in view of the INA, whose wartime activities had given a new dimension to the Indian freedom struggle. The INA had taken on the British Indian Army in the North-East during the World War II. Due to censorship in those parts (as a result of inner line restrictions), news had not been covered in mainland India and people did not know about the exploits of the INA (although they had lost the war).

Fresh from the victory in World War II, the British thought they would teach a lesson to the INA soldiers — like they had to the soldiers of the first war of Independence. They selected three soldiers — Hindu, Muslim and a Sikh — for trial for waging war against the King Emperor. This, they averred, would be a lesson to all Indians.

This policy had worked in 1857, when the last Mughal Emperor, Bahadur Shah Zafar, was tried in the Red Fort and deposed to Rangoon. But clearly, things had changed. The trial of the INA officers brought out before Indians the brave exploits of the INA. The British had thought publicity of INA activities would lead to their being hated by the Indian public. They were wrong; as Indians began to hear about the activities of the INA, their chests began to swell in pride.

Our men in the Indian Army also became restive and Naval ratings mutinied. There was also trouble among Army ranks in Jabalpur. It was clear that the colonialists, who had used the Indian Army to control India, would not be able to do so any longer as the INA had showed the Indian army men a new way of reclaiming their country.

Lt General S K Sinha, one of the most celebrated officers of the Indian Army, who also became Governor of Jammu & Kashmir and Assam after retirement, was a young Captain in August 1946 posted to the Military Operations Directorate (MOD) to replace English officers. Shortly before his death, Gen Sinha wrote in an English newspaper on February 16, 2016, that while going through the files left by his predecessor, he found a report from Major General O'Brien of Military Intelligence that raised serious doubts about the continued loyalty of thousands of emergency commissioned officers of the Army, who had been recruited in the World War II period and wanted to keep a watch on them. More importantly, Sinha found plans for Operation Gondola, by which 43,000 British civilians would be escorted out of the country if the need arose. Obviously, the British were planning for an eventual aversion of trouble.

Although the British had originally planned to leave India in September 1948, they quit earlier on August 15, 1947, to avert trouble in the form of an uprising. The British were keen on a peaceful exit to keep its empire in other parts of the globe stable. If they were to be kicked out violently from India, their colonies elsewhere would be in threat.

Unfortunately, the Congress leadership, led by Jawaharlal Nehru, collaborated with the last Viceroy, Lord Mountbatten, to allow this design that led to the Partition of India along with its freedom. What happened to Netaji one does not know.

Probably, he was packed by Stalin to the Gulag Archipelago; although some say he made his way to India as a mendicant Gumnami Baba. But when India woke up to freedom, the man, who made this possible, had been lost. An unsavoury fact at that.

Sir — Judicial scrutiny will likely render the 10 per cent reservation for the economically weaker sections null and void. However, removing the age and attempts barrier will go a long way in providing equal opportunity at the outset without affecting the status quo. In a highly competitive atmosphere, this can go a long way in ensuring that nobody is left out for want of chance and everybody gets to have equal access to job opportunities.

Ability of a leader

Sir — This refers to the editorial, "Didi's headline act" (January 21). The prime objective of Opposition parties, especially West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, appears to be to defeat the BJP and Prime Minister Modi in particular. It is an undisputed fact that regional parties have no specific policy, programme or an ideology for the development of the nation. Even if the mahagathabandhan is voted to power, the selection of

More questions about L'affaire Rafale

This refers to the article, "Demystifying the Rafale" (January 20) by Pathikrit Payne. The surmise of the article seemed to be based upon contract negotiations with the Hindustan Aeronautics Limited, the only Indian Offset Partner (IOP) in the reckoning then, which ceased to make headway owing to "refusal by Dassault to guarantee quality of production if the jets were to be built by HAL in India", and also the refusal by Dassault to accept "the humongous man-hour quoted by HAL (2.7 times more than what Dassault needed to make a Rafale) for the deal." To recall, the Defence Offset Guidelines of Defence Procurement Procedure, 2013, had bestowed the Original Equipment Manufacturer unfettered freedom to select its IOP in any defence deal. The argument that unresolved issues with the "recalcitrant" HAL proved to be the nemesis of the earlier deal should be taken with a pinch of salt. And costing being a dicey affair, often, a conclusion based on numbers could be wide off the mark. One has reason to believe that Dassault had been placing hurdles deliberately to prevent the well-established Public Sector Undertaking from playing an active role in the deal.

the Prime Minister will, undoubtedly, be an insurmountable problem for them. The winning of a majority of MPs in the Lok Sabha poll by any party may not be a criteria to decide who will clinch the top post. Regional parties will ultimately look for a remarkable personality, who enjoys popularity and has adroit administrative abilities. Except for Banerjee, no leader has the ability, skill and dexterity to be the Prime Minister. But Banerjee is temperamentally emotional and not fundamentally rational. Her tempestuous attitude and outlook may not appeal to all regional parties.

Nimai Charan Swain

The question is: Would Dassault have stayed as the L1 bidder even after the price was revised vertically skywards? In the early days of the BJP's tenure, in July 2014, in response to a request by its Finance Minister, the Eurofighter Consortium had offered to cut the 'total package price' by 20 per cent. Perhaps, an evaluation of the prices and benefits afresh in the changed context would have boosted national security even better and also accrued the concomitant economic benefits. Such unanswered questions about the 'L'affaire Rafale' are many.

Celluloid falsehood

Sir — Making biographical films on politicians can hardly portray an impartial picture of their lives. For personal benefits, entertainment and commercial objectives, the real story gets twisted and hard realities are ignored. Such films ought to be included in the category of fiction. However, hoi polloi can be attracted by the person in focus, and such cinema can be misleading, even controversial if not defamatory. Perhaps this is a marketing technique. Films on personalities, who are still around, must be avoided.

No turning back

Sir — This refers to the editorial, "Who let the cranks out?" (January 23). In an age of modern scientific technology and new inventions, it is surprising that people are crying foul over the use of Electronic Voting Machines (EVM) in elections. India should not in any way get back to Stone Age practices just because a few modern scientific devices are faulty. EVMs have come here to stay and have saved us from the Herculean task of manual counting.

Back in the cauldron

The weakening of American resolve and toughening of the Taliban's posture would turn Afghanistan into a medieval prison that it once was

HIRANMAY KARLEKAR

Afghan Taliban's spokesman, Zabiullah Mujahid, refuted, on January 19, reports in Pakistani media that the organisation had agreed to talks in Islamabad with Zalmay Khalilzad, the US special representative for Afghanistan Reconciliation. This is not surprising; nor is the statement on the same day by a Taliban leader who wanted to remain anonymous, "We have rejected Pakistan's approach and suggestion. We are clear that Kabul's puppet regime is not in a position to fulfill our demands."

A bit of background needs to be recalled in respect of the issue of talks. In July, 2018, the Trump administration began seeking direct negotiations with the Taliban. Since then, Khalilzad has held at least three rounds of talks with the latter, the last one being in Abu Dhabi, capital of the United Arab Emirates, in December, 2018, in the presence of representatives from Pakistan and Saudi Arabia. These, of course, were not formal peace talks to end the 17-year-old war in Afghanistan but rather exploratory talks leading to formal talks.

The future of these exploratory talks now hangs in the balance. Two questions arise here. What are the chances of these being resumed? What would happen if they are not? According to the Taliban leader, who sought anonymity, talks with the US could resume only if the latter assured that just three issues would be discussed — a US withdrawal from Afghanistan, an exchange of prisoners and the lifting of the ban on the movement of Taliban leaders.

They are unlikely to change their stand. Their strategy has been to drag on the war and tire out the US to the point where Washington is prepared to leave on any terms. They have fought — albeit with sanctuary and massive support from Pakistan — the US and their allies and the fledgling Afghan military and police, for over 17 years. They have expanded the territory under their control. According to a report by the US Government's leading oversight authority, Special Inspector General for Afghan Reconstruction, the Afghan Government controlled, as of January 31, 2018, 229 (56.3 per cent) of the country's 407 districts, Taliban 59 (14.5 per cent) and 119 (29.2 per cent) were contested, controlled neither by the Government nor the Taliban.

A report in The New York Times of May 9, 2018, however, said that 65 and 35 per cent of Afghanistan's territory respectively were under Government and Taliban control or influence. According to an Associated Press report on December 21, 2018, half of Afghanistan was under Taliban control or influence. As a result, the US, which has spent over $900 billion, and had over 2,400 of its soldiers killed since the launch of its post-9/11 offensive against the Taliban in 2001, is showing an increasing desperation to leave. Its reaching out for talks with the Taliban in July, 2018, marked a significant concession to the latter who had said that they would first discuss peace with the Americans alone, while Washington had insisted on talks with the Afghan Government's participation.

There have been other developments indicating a weakening of American resolve. One of these is the Trump administration's decision, announced on December 20, 2018, to withdraw 7,000 troops from Afghanistan by this summer. The result has been a toughening of the Taliban's posture, an example of which was their threat, delivered on January 15, that they would call off peace talks with the US if the latter's troops were not pulled out of Afghanistan. The threat came as Khalilzad and the delegation led by him arrived in Kabul for talks with the Government headed by President Ashraf Ghani.

Clearly, the Taliban will negotiate only on their terms. Pakistan's Government, its public statements notwithstanding, is not going to try to push them to accepting American terms because it wants to control Afghanistan through them. As for the US, its growing desperation may lead it to a final outcome which leaves the Afghan Government and its forces to fend for themselves.

The chances of their being able to do so are bleak. Lt-Gen Kenneth F McKenzie, set to become the commander of the US Central command, told the US Congress during his confirmation hearings in December, 2018, that the Afghan Army would dissolve without American support. Coming in the wake of several major attacks like the one on Ghazni in August, 2018, Monday's one on a military installation in Maidan Wardak province, which reportedly killed over 100 personnel of the National Directorate of Security (NDS), Afghanistan's main intelligence agency, indicate that he may not have been wrong.

What would happen if the Taliban take over Afghanistan? The country would return to the medieval prison that it was — with its women reduced to domestic slavery — during their rule between 1996 and 2001. Islamist fundamentalism, and the terrorism spawned by it, would receive a massive boost worldwide. Europe would be a bigger target than now. And the US should remember what President Obama said while announcing his new Af-Pak policy on March 27, 2009, "If the Afghan Government falls to the Taliban — or allows the Al-Qaeda to go unchallenged — that country will again be a base for terrorists who want to kill as many of us as they possibly can."

Time's up, say #NeverAgain

Just as #MeToo, fuelled by the extraordinary courage and conviction of women, became a global force to reckon with, there is a need for a movement against domestic violence and abuse

ANU PESHAWARIA

There can hardly be a more opportune time than now, in the midst of a culturally, politically and economically powerful 'MeToo' movement across the world, to revisit the larger cause of domestic violence and abuse. There is an urgent need for an equally powerful social media-driven movement against it like #NeverAgain. As an Attorney with long years of passionate advocacy of this important socio-cultural and legal issue, this writer has been particularly focussed on issues of domestic violence and abuse in the diasporic Indian/South Asian families in the US. Anecdotal experience suggests that the problem exists in a significant way among the large expatriate Indian population around the world as well but does not often get the attention it so urgently demands.

Just as #MeToo, fuelled by extraordinary courage and conviction of women, who were silenced and oppressed for decades, as well as aided by the power and reach of social media, has become a global force to reckon with, there is a need for a scaleable movement on this issue. One is conscious that South Asian women, trapped in violent and abusive domestic situations, may find it hard to make their case on social media but it is a tool that ought to be employed to network, put abusive spouses and families on immediate notice and end it once and for all.

The case of Indian and South Asian women, who marry Indian/South Asian men living in the US and end up in violent or abusive domestic situations, is unique for several reasons. Perhaps the most important one is that many of them are either completely unprepared or ill-prepared to deal with it because they find themselves in a wholly new socio-cultural milieu in a country some 10,000 miles away from India and other South Asian nations. Many fall into such relationships even before they have had the time to familiarise themselves with their immediate surroundings, let alone social and legal services being available to them.

Overarching their rather harrowing lives is the fear of social stigma. More often than not, they are told stories of how a wonderful life awaits them in America, the world's richest country, which would be a dramatic improvement for them, compared to what they experience in India. With this as the backdrop, to find oneself in an abusive relationship so far away from familiar surroundings, makes things much harder for them. The consequence is that many of them choose to endure abuse rather than upset the rhythm of their lives.

This writer's extensive engagement with the women trapped in abusive relationships reveals that one common feeling among them is one of utter helplessness, exacerbated by what society back home might say about their failure to make their marriages work. The writer also found that a majority of these women would not only muster enough courage to speak out but even take legal action if they had a helping hand either from individual attorneys like the writer herself or legal aid groups.

Although there have been no national or state-wide studies of Indian/South Asian women and domestic violence in the US, there is reason to believe that this is a growing problem. Indian Americans are a reasonably large group of people. According to the US Census Bureau's 2015 American Community Survey, there are 3,982,398 multi-race, multi-ethnic and single-race Asian Indians, of which 3,699,957 are single race. While Indian Americans barely constitute about one per cent of the US population, because of their broad economic success, they are a force to reckon with far beyond their numbers. In terms of domestic and sexual violence among South Asian communities, a fact sheet released by the Asian Pacific Institute on gender-based violence is quite instructive. Here are some of their findings:

Domestic violence:

- In a study of 208 South Asian women recruited through community outreach in the Greater Boston area, 21 per cent reported having experienced physical and/or sexual abuse at the hands of their intimate partner; 15 per cent reported such experience during the previous year. (Intimate partner violence associated with poor health outcomes in US South Asian women).

- In a face-to-face interview study of 1,577 Asians recruited from Asian organisations and gathering places in the greater Houston area in Texas, 20 per cent of the Indian respondents (154 male and female) reported experiencing at least one form of intimate partner violence based on the eight-item Conflict Tactics Scale, ranging from "thrown objects at the respondent" to "used a knife or gun on the respondent" during the previous year. (A prevalence study on partner abuse in six Asian American ethnic groups in the USA)

- A study on life course experiences of intimate partner violence and help-seeking (lifecourse IPV and help-seeking study), which assessed experiences of IPV among 56 Indian and Pakistani abused women (and 87 Filipina women) aged 18-60 recruited via various community outreach methods in the San Francisco Bay Area, found that 96 per cent of Indian and Pakistani victims reported having experienced physical violence by an intimate partner. About 50 per cent of Indian and Pakistani victims reported having experienced sexual violence by an intimate partner. Indian and Pakistani victims born in the US, or those who had immigrated to America pre-adolescence (1.5+ generations), were more likely to experience all three forms of IPV — physical violence, sexual assault and stalking, compared to those born outside the US and those who immigrated post-adolescence. Younger Indian and Pakistani victims were more likely to experience stalking by intimate partners compared to their older counterparts. (Lifecourse Experiences of Intimate Partner Violence and Help-Seeking among Filipina, Indian, and Pakistani Women: Implications for Justice System Responses).

- A study of 160 South Asian women (who were married or in a heterosexual relationship), recruited through community outreach methods such as flyers, snowball sampling and referrals in Greater Boston (Raj and Silverman Study), found that 42 per cent of the participants reported that they had been physically and/or sexually abused in some way by their current male partners in their lifetime; 36.9 per cent reported having been victimised in the past year. Around 30 per cent reported having experienced partners' physical abuse and 18.8 per cent reported having experienced partners' sexual abuse. About 65.2 per cent of the women reporting physical abuse also reported sexual abuse. Sixteen per cent reported injury or the need for medical services as a result of a partner's violence. Women, who reported intimate partner violence, were more likely than those who did not report violence to indicate that they had experienced "poor physical health in seven or more of the last 30 days" (20 per cent vs seven per cent), "depression [in] seven or more of the last 30 days" (32 per cent vs 10 per cent), "anxiety [in] seven or more of the last 30 days" (34 per cent vs 20 per cent) and "suicidal ideation during the last year" (16 per cent vs three per cent). No significant difference was found in the prevalence of domestic violence between arranged marriages and non-arranged marriages. (Intimate partner violence against South Asian women in greater Boston)

Abuse by in-laws

- Of a convenience sample of 169 South Asian women, who were married at the time of the survey, six per cent reported having experienced emotional abuse by in-laws. The proportion of women, who reported emotional abuse by in-laws, was higher among those reporting partners' violence in their current relationship (15 per cent) than those who did not report such violence (three per cent). (Victims of intimate partner violence more likely to report abuse from in-laws).

- In a telephonic interview survey of a random sample of Gujarati adults aged between 18 and 64 years, seven per cent of the female respondents reported that in-laws had called them names. (The Shanti Project, Baseline Community-Wide Survey, Unpublished raw data).

Domestic violence-related homicide

- A report on 160 US domestic violence related homicides in Asian families based on newspaper clippings and information from advocates for a six-year period from 2000-2005 found that 30 of 158 (19 per cent) victims with known ethnicities were South Asian. And 32 of 122 (26 per cent) perpetrators with known ethnicities were South Asian. (Shattered Lives: Homicides, Domestic Violence and Asian Families).

Seeking help

- The Raj and Silverman Study found that 11 per cent of South Asian women reporting intimate partner violence indicated receiving counseling support services for domestic abuse. Only three per cent of the abused South Asian women in the study ever obtained a restraining order against an abusive partner. This rate is substantially lower than that reported in a study of women in Massachusetts, in which over 33 per cent of the women, who reported intimate partner violence in the past five years, obtained a restraining order.

Seeking help from family members

- In a study of 62 battered women (20 African American, 22 Hispanic, and 20 South Asian), South Asian women were more likely to seek help from family members. South Asian women were significantly more likely to be advised by family members "to stay in the marriage" than other groups of women. (Social support and disclosure of abuse: Comparing South Asian, African American, and Hispanic battered women).

According to estimates, two out of five South Asian women report domestic violence, which is much higher than the general US population (28 per cent according to UNICEF, 2000). These statistics tell only a fraction of the story. They tell you how many women had the courage to report abuse or call for help. How many more are silent, terrorised, obedient to the abuser and isolated in an abusive situation we do not know. The numbers of those, who do not call for help, too are not known because they do not recognise the situation is abusive or they do not know their legal rights. All we know is that domestic violence in South Asian community "is seriously under-reported because we have seen many women who never get as far as the formal institutions" (Preisser, 1999).

However, because of the state of the current law, both in terms of immigration policy and in terms of where we are with international agreements between the US and India, in too many cases this writer's hands are tied. Much more should be done than simply answering their calls and do what can be done to counsel, educate and help them negotiate laws that too often keep them in unhealthy situations or separate them from their own children. Ultimately, the laws need to accommodate these special cases. The awareness must spread to citizens of the US so that we can all make a concerted effort to relieve the suffering of some of our most vulnerable residents.

Paradise lost: India's biodiversity is in crisis

While developed nations are bending over backwards to usher in biodiversity into urban spaces, India is tracking backwards and losing its green cover. The Western Ghats are symbolic of the country's pristine hotspots and must not be allowed to wither away

KOTA SRIRAJ

Population pressures, hunger for land and prime real estate have all made many a nature hotspot disappear over the last decade. These permanent losses of biodiversity hotspots would seem insignificant when compared to the rather disturbing findings of a latest study published in the Yale Journal of Biology and Medicine. The study found that unplanned developmental activities and land use are reducing the ever-green forest cover and perennial streams in the central region of the Western Ghats in India.

While other developed nations in the world are bending over backwards to usher in biodiversity into their cities and urban spaces, India is tracking backwards and losing its green cover and natural sanctuaries for its flora and fauna. The Western Ghats, a biodiversity hotspot known for its rich ecology, natural forest systems and perennial rivers, are slowly but steadily falling prey to large-scale human activities that are now beginning to erode the ecosystem of this central region of the country.

The study sharply focusses on the Kali river that originates in Uttara Kannada district in Karnataka and joins the Arabian Sea. The river is as old as the Western Ghats but over the years, it has been dammed at six locations. As a result, 325 species of flora and 190 species of fauna are at immediate risk of extinction. Remote sensing data formed the basis of the study and showed how the silent destruction of one of nature's best known habitats is taking place systematically. The data specifically shows that between 1973 and 2016, forest cover reduced from 85 per cent to 55 per cent.

Additionally, land use pattern in the region also underwent changes during 1980-2000 due to developmental projects such as the building of dams on the river Kali, Kaiga nuclear plant and Dandelii paper mill. The paper mill establishment itself led to large-scale conversion of forests to crops. These developments are not only sad but also irreversible. The study also noted that forests had shrunk thanks to the large water reservoirs, which had been constructed at the expense of forest cover.

The lush environs of the Western Ghats came to be replaced with exceedingly dry and dusty atmosphere. This mainly due to changes in water usage. Eco-hydrological footprint is a measure of how the ecology of a region responds to changes in water cycle and water usage. This can be measured by assessing the ratio of available water and water lost due to usage and evaporation. Around 2,309 million cubic metres of water is required to meet demands of society and livestock in the region, while around 4,700 million cubic metres are required to maintain ecosystems and the aquatic life.

An analysis in the report also showed that although the Kali river has sufficient water supply and perennial streams in the Ghats and coastal area, regions that lie in plain lands with a higher degree of agriculture and cultivation, have intermittent and seasonal flow. This is leading to water scarcity for four to nine months in a year.

Whereas those areas, which have greater than 70 per cent of forest cover, are not experiencing any type of water scarcity. This shows the strong correlation between ecology and hydrology in the backdrop of land use. The unfortunate part is that in the process of clearing the forests for developmental activities, India is losing native species of vegetation, which play a pivotal role in enhancing the water retention capability of the catchment area.

This levelling of the forests for dams and other development activities may be touted as development but it is a skewed progress at best since it ensures the best interests of only a certain section of society. Indigenous population or the local people are paying a steep price as they not only lose the habitat but also their income and livelihood.

According to experts, villagers in the vicinity of native forests earn ₹1.54 lakh per acre per year, compared to ₹32,000 in villages with stream catchments experiencing deforestation. This confirms the vital role of native forests in sustaining water and people's livelihood.

The study also revealed that management practices adopted by engineers also contributed to the erosion of water retention capability in the river catchment with severe water scarcity. Keeping these aspects in mind and for the best interests of the Western Ghats, a United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) recognised World Heritage Site, the Government agencies must establish better management and conservation strategies to maintain the forest cover and take immediate measures to preserve the exclusivity of the flora and fauna of the region.

The role that the National Green Tribunal (NGT) can play to preserve the Western Ghats cannot be emphasised enough. Although it has already put in place many measures, in the light of the recent report, gaps in the efforts to conserve Western Ghats are becoming apparent. The NGT must take cognisance of the same and take suitable action. Western Ghats are symbolic of India's pristine biodiversity and must not be allowed to wither away.

Sensex slumps 336 points

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Equity benchmark Sensex on Wednesday tumbled over 336 points to end at 36,108 on emergence of intense selling towards the lag-end mainly in FMCG, financial and IT stocks, while renewed concerns over US-China trade tiff further jolted investors' sentiment.

Similarly, the NSE Nifty slumped over 91 points to close at 10,831. In the Sensex pack, ITC Ltd emerged as the biggest loser with its shares plunging 4.16% after the company's quarterly results failed to entice investors.

Other top losers on the index were PowerGrid, Infosys, Mahindra and Mahindra and NTPC — falling as much as 1.85%.

Traders said market remained range-bound for the better part of the session as investors kept their exposure at a low ebb due to weak global cues. Towards the lag-end, the selling pressure gathered momentum after European markets opened in the negative zone.

However, some recovery in rupee amid slide in global crude brought some respite for domestic bourses that were otherwise appeared facing headwinds.

Global shares traded on a mixed note with a negative bias due to concerns over the state of ongoing US-China trade negotiations, amid reports that the White House has cancelled a trade planning meeting with Beijing this week.

"Market continued to trade on the downside as absence of major surprise from the quarter earnings failed to give direction. Investors are taking a cautious approach given their focus on global headwinds and upcoming general election. While FIIs are sellers in the market, expectation of slow pace in US FED rate hike and possibility of rate cut in India will ease liquidity crunch in the market," said Vinod Nair, head of research at Geojit Financial Services Ltd.

The 30-share BSE Sensex opened on a firm note at 36,494.12 and advanced to a high of 36,521.47. However, it succumbed to a late-session sell-off and finally ended at 36,108.75, down by 336.17 points, or 0.92%. The gauge had lost 134.32 points in the previous session. The NSE Nifty too tumbled 91.25 points, or 0.84%, to close at 10,831.50 after moving between 10,811.95 and 10,944.75.

Meanwhile, foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) sold shares worth a net ₹78.53 crore on Tuesday, while domestic institutional investors (DIIs) sold shares worth ₹84.15 crore, provisional data showed.

Other than ITC, other laggards include PowerGrid, Infosys, M&M, NTPC, SBI, HDFC, Kotak Bank, HDFC Bank, TCS, Hero MotoCorp, Coal India, ONGC, RIL, Asian Paint, IndusInd Bank, ICICI Bank, Maruti Suzuki, Bajaj Auto, Tata Motors, Bharti Airtel and Axis Bank.

Among the winners, Sun Pharma continued to remain top performer, surging 3.04%, followed by Yes Bank at 2.71%. Also, Tata Steel gained 1.53%, followed by HUL 0.90%, Bajaj Finance 0.75%, Vedanta Ltd 0.60%, HCL Tech 0.57%, and L&T 0.02%.

Sector-wise, the BSE metal FMCG index emerged worst performer by sinking 1.38%, followed by power 1.24%, IT 0.85%, PSU 0.85%, infrastructure 0.83%, auto 0.71%, bankex 0.68%, realty 0.66%, capital goods 0.37%, and oil & gas 0.03%.

While Metal index topped winner by surging 0.63%, healthcare gained 0.44%.

In the broader markets, the mid-cap index and small-cap index fell up to 0.28%.

Globally, Japan's Nikkei fell 0.14%, Taiwan index fell 0.49%, Singapore declined 0.46% and Hong Kong's Hang Seng shed 0.02%. Shanghai Composite Index, however, rose 0.05% in late morning deals. Japan's Nikkei also gained 0.04%.

The US Dow Jones Industrial Average ended 1.22% lower on Tuesday. European shares too were in negative zone in their early deals with Frankfurt's DAX falling 0.49% and Paris CAC 40 down 0.39%. London's FTSE fell 0.50%.

US Senate to vote on opposing bids to end shutdown

WASHINGTON ■ AFP

US Senate leaders have agreed to vote on Thursday on competing proposals to end a government shutdown now in its second month, but the chances are slim that either will reopen federal agencies.

Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell and top Democrat Chuck Schumer announced an agreement on the Senate floor Tuesday for a pair of test votes. The first would be a procedural step on a measure that funds all shuttered branches of government through September, and includes President Donald Trump's demand for border wall funding and his proposal on immigration policy.

A second vote would be on a stop-gap measure that funds government until February 8, to allow for debate over border security and immigration, while also letting Trump's upcoming State of the Union address before Congress proceed.

It also would include disaster relief money already passed in the House. Each proposal would require 60 votes to advance in the 100-member body, a high threshold, given the current level of partisan rancor over who is to blame for the shutdown.

A senior Republican Senate aide told AFP it was unlikely Republicans would sign on to the short-term funding bill, and that even if they did, the president would not sign it. But the Democratic leader took to the floor to say the votes "could break us out of the morass we are in," and he specifically encouraged Republicans to sign on to the stop-gap bill to briefly open government. "It will allow us to then debate, without hostage-taking, without temper tantrum... How we can best do border security," he said.

On Monday, FBI agents complained that the month-old US government shutdown is preventing them from paying informants, buying drugs under cover in narcotics busts, and even renewing their own security clearances. Investigations and prosecutions are suffering from the lack of money to travel to interview witnesses or funds to pay translators, agents are saying, according to Tom O'Connor, president of the FBI Agents Association (FBIAA). The shutdown began on December 22 after President Donald Trump rejected a proposed government funding bill that did not meet his demand for billions of dollars to build a wall on the US-Mexico border.

Last ISIS-held village in Syria falls

BEIRUT ■ AFP

Kurdish-led fighters overran the last village held by the Islamic State group in Syria on Wednesday, confining its once vast cross-border "caliphate" to two small hamlets, a war monitor said.

It is the culmination of a broad offensive launched by the Syrian Democratic Forces last September with US-led coalition support in which they have reduced the jihadists' last enclave on the north bank of the Euphrates valley near the Iraqi border to a tiny rump.

The capture of the village of Baghouz leaves the few remaining diehard IS fighters holed up in scattered homesteads among the irrigated fields and orchards on the north bank of the Euphrates Valley. "Search operations are continuing in Baghouz to find any IS fighters who are still hiding," the head of the Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, Rami Abdel Rahman told AFP.

"The SDF will now have to push on into the farmland around Baghouz." "Around 4,900 people, mostly women and children but including 470 IS fighters, have fled the jihadists' fast dwindling enclave since Monday, Abdel Rahman said late on Tuesday.

Of those 3,500 surrendered to the advancing SDF on Tuesday alone. They were evacuated on dozens of trucks chartered by the SDF. The fall of Baghouz follows the SDF's capture of the enclave's sole town of Hajin and the villages of Al-Shaafa and Sousa in recent weeks.

The new wave of departures means that nearly 27,000 people have left former IS areas since early December, including almost 1,800 jihadists who have surrendered, the Observatory said. The whereabouts of the ultra-elusive IS supreme Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, who has made just once public appearance - in Iraq's then IS-held second city Mosul in 2014 - are unknown.

It is a far cry from the jihadists' peak in 2014, when they overran large parts of Syria and neighbouring Iraq and Baghdadi proclaimed a "caliphate" in areas under their control. The gains have come at the cost of heavy losses for the mainly Kurdish fighters of the SDF and despite their sense of betrayal by their US ally after President Donald Trump made the surprise announcement last month that Washington would withdraw all its troops.

Neighbouring Turkey has threatened repeatedly to launch a cross-border operation to crush the Kurdish fighters of the SDF and the autonomous region they have set up in areas of northern and northeastern Syria under their control.

Turkish troops had been held at bay by the intervention of US troops who set up observation posts along the border and mounted joint patrols with Kurdish fighters.

But with those troops gone, the Kurds fear they will be exposed to the full might of the Turkish military.

Afghan CEO urges patience amid talk of US troops withdrawal

DAVOS ■ AP

Afghanistan's chief executive is urging the world not to give up on his impoverished country after the Trump administration suggested the United States could withdraw troops.

Afghanistan has struggled with corruption, political instability and a long Taliban insurgency, frustrating efforts to stabilize it. US President Donald Trump's administration last month indicated it could pull out half of the 14,000 U.S. Troops stationed in Afghanistan.

"Don't lose patience," Abdullah Abdullah told The Associated Press in an interview at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland.

"We all made mistakes in the past 18 years" - since US Forces overthrew a Taliban regime in the aftermath of the September 11, 2001 attacks only to see the fundamentalist Islamic militia regroup in the years afterwar.

Abdullah said the situation on the troops withdrawal was unclear: U.S. Officials in Afghanistan have said "there isn't any instruction" to pull out troops.

Interim bail of Zardari extended till Feb 14

The former president and his sister along with other suspects appeared before the court as the interim bail granted to them ended Wednesday, Geo TV reported.

China detains students, labour activists

BEIJING ■ AFP

Chinese authorities have detained a dozen labour activists over recent days in the latest clampdown on efforts to organise workplaces in China, rights groups said. Beijing has taken an uncompromising line against efforts to establish independent labour unions in southern Guangdong province, the epicentre of China's high-tech manufacturing sector.

The campaign is backed by campus Marxist groups at some of China's most prestigious universities - several leaders of which have been arrested or disappeared in recent months.

Another seven students and recent graduates from two elite Beijing universities were arrested on Monday, according to labour rights organisation Jasic Workers Solidarity.

The students were rounded up hours after publishing a statement accusing police of recording forced video confessions of previously detained student activists who had supported the Guangdong union campaign, the rights group said.

They had accused police of organising recent screenings of the videos, in which their subjects confessed to using worker issues to "subvert the state", on several campuses in an effort to deter further student activism. The viewings targeted students who were members of Jasic Workers Solidarity - a group which rose to prominence last year when it attempted to form a workers' union at a welding machinery company in Guangdong.

City of London Policy chief to reassure India over Brexit

LONDON ■ PTI

The Policy Chair of the City of London Corporation is set for her first visit to India next week to strengthen ties between the British capital and India in the field of financial and professional services.

Catherine McGuinness, who is the political chief of London's financial district or "Square Mile", will also seek to reassure Indian financial firms worried about Brexit and the risks of the UK leaving the European Union (EU) in a feared no-deal situation as the March 29 Brexit deadline nears.

"My first visit to India comes at an interesting point in time for both our countries. In the UK our focus remains firmly on Brexit, while in India the conversation is all about the pending budget and elections," McGuinness said on the eve of her visit, planned between January 27 and 30.

"But while these political issues may dominate headlines for good reason right now, it's crucial we don't lose sight of the larger picture and the importance of the strong relationship between our two countries," she said.

The City of London Corporation's policy chief pointed out that while trade stands at an "impressive" 18.8 billion pounds, there is still enormous potential to expand this relationship even further.

She is set to travel to Delhi and Mumbai for meetings with senior government and industry leaders to discuss how to boost relations and knowledge sharing in areas like fintech, green finance, re-insurance and non-performing assets.

Some of the pre-scheduled meetings on her agenda include interactions with the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI), Confederation of Indian Industry (CII), representatives of the Maharashtra state government, and Alice Vaidyan, Chairman of GIC Re.

In Mumbai, she will also meet Surendra Roshia, CEO of HSBC India, who recently joined the City of London Corporation's influential India Advisory Council.

High Commissioner to the UK, Ruchi Ghanashyam, described the City of London Corporation as an important partner of the Indian mission in London, working to boost economic and commercial activities between India and the UK particularly in the fields of financial services and fintech.

"This visit will foster greater understanding of the City of London in India as well as deepen the already close and strong trade and economic relationship," she said.

A new report on regulatory technology (regtech) is also set to be launched during the upcoming tour of India. "The publication is the third and final document in a fintech-related series produced by the City Corporation alongside PwC India, and outlines UK regtech expertise, the market opportunity in India and a recommendation on how to improve collaboration in the sector," the City of London Corporation said.

The Corporation says it has run a representative office in Mumbai since 2007 to enable long-term relationship building with financial sector stakeholders across India. Around 10-15 Indian financial firms are based in the Square Mile, which the City Corporation works closely with.

Sanjiv Chadha, Regional Head of State Bank of India (SBI)-UK, said, "SBI is delighted that Policy Chair Catherine McGuinness will make her inaugural visit to India."

"The Bank is pleased to work with the City of London Corporation in further developing relationships in the financial and professional services space. It is a relationship that continues to provide unique and important opportunities for growth in both the Asian and UK markets," he added.

Scotland Yard chief warns of Brexit-related terror threat

LONDON ■ PTI

Scotland Yard's counter-terrorism chief, Assistant Commissioner Neil Basu, has warned that the "ferbrie" atmosphere around Brexit could be enhancing the risk posed by far-right terrorism in the UK.

The UK is due to leave the 28-member European Union (EU) on March 29. However, the government of Prime Minister Theresa May is facing massive resistance from her own Conservative Party MPs as well as the opposition Labour Party over her Brexit deal.

"We saw a spike in hate crime after the referendum (in June 2016), that's never really receded. So there's always a possibility people are being radicalised by the kind of ferbrie atmosphere we've got at the moment," Basu told BBC on Tuesday at the launch of a new film aimed at encouraging people to report their suspicions about all forms of terrorism.

"We want people to report anything that we think is going to lead to violent confrontation and people need to calm down," said the Indian-origin Metropolitan Police Lead for Counter-Terrorism and the Head of its Specialist Operations.

Buttigieg enters 2020 US race, would be first openly gay nominee

WASHINGTON ■ AFP

He is a longshot candidate, but South Bend Mayor Pete Buttigieg said Wednesday he is jumping into the burgeoning 2020 Democratic field challenging Donald Trump, aiming to become the first openly gay presidential nominee. Should he win, the 37-year-old wunderkind, a US Navy reservist who took leave from his mayoral duties to serve in Afghanistan, would also be America's youngest-ever commander in chief.

Buttigieg announced that he has formed a presidential exploratory committee, a key opening step to formally launching a bid. He joins a growing list of charismatic Democrats seeking to carry the party's torch into 2020, including three female US senators - Elizabeth Warren, Kamala Harris and Kirsten Gillibrand - and Hispanic-American former Obama cabinet member Julian Castro. In a nearly-two-minute video posted online, Buttigieg portrayed himself as a can-do reformer - he has earned high praise for reviving his mid-sized Indiana city - from America's millennial generation eyeing the future, not the past. "Right now our country needs a fresh start," he says in the clip. "There's no such thing as again in the real world. We can't look for greatness in the past."

In his opening video he makes no mention of Trump, instead taking aim at what he called the "show" in Washington: "The corruption, the fighting, the lying, the crisis. It's got to end." And he highlights his credibility as being part of a new forward-focused generation facing immense challenges. "We're the generation that lived through school shootings, that served in the wars after 9/11. And we're the generation that stands to be the first to make less than our parents - unless we do something different," he said.

Buttigieg was in the early primary state of Iowa last year, testing out a campaign message and attempting to build name recognition. He is up against a strong Democrat field of contenders, which will broaden in the coming months to include the likes of former vice president Joe Biden, Senator Cory Booker and former congressman Beto O'Rourke.

Russia presents info on missile US says violates pact

MOSCOW ■ AP

The Russian military on Wednesday rolled out its new missile and spelled out its specifications, seeking to dispel the U.S. claim that the weapon violates a key nuclear arms pact.

The military insisted that the 9M729 land-based cruise missile conforms to the limits of the 1987 Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty.

The U.S. Has announced its intention to abandon the INF, charging that the new Russian missile violates provisions of the pact that ban production, testing and deployment of land-based cruise and ballistic missiles with a range of 500 to 5,500 kilometres.

Washington said it will suspend its treaty obligations if Russian does not come into compliance by February 2.

Lt. Gen. Mikhail Matveevsky, the chief of the military's missile and artillery forces, said at a meeting with foreign military attaches that the new missile has a maximum range of 480 kilometres.

He said the 9M729 missile differs from the previous 9M728 model by having a modified warhead and guidance system that enhances its capability.

The military then displayed the weapon along with its mobile launcher during a presentation at its exhibition center near Moscow.

Matveevsky insisted that the new missile's booster, cruising engine and fuel tank remain unchanged.

He added that the new missile actually has a range 10 kilometres less than the older type due to heavier warhead and control systems.

Matveevsky emphasised that the new missile can't be modified in field conditions.

The Russian general said that the modified mobile launcher for the new type of missile is bigger because it carries four of them rather than the previous two.

Matveevsky added that the military gave the presentation to underline its "increased transparency and our adherence to the INF Treaty." Kremlin has staunchly denied the U.S. Claim of Russian violations of the pact.

'I like doing challenging roles'

Actor NAWAZUDDIN SIDDIQUI, who is set for the release of his forthcoming film Thackeray, says he hates taking up roles which do not challenge him as a performer. "I love doing challenging roles. With each film, I want to try something new. I hate doing roles in my comfort zone. I want to be a versatile actor. I look up to only new, different and challenging roles for myself," said Nawazuddin. "There's only one life, we should keep trying new things. That's what I want to do," he added. He talked about his role in the film, "Balasahebji was an iconic figure. I am honoured to be doing a film based on his life. He was a cartoonist, writer and political figure. His journey has inspired me a lot." He said that it was a tough role for him because, "he was an iconic figure and while shooting the film on him, the only thing that I kept in my mind was to do justice to the role through my acting. I researched a lot about him, watched a lot of his videos, speeches and Sanjay Raut (writer) helped me in learning more about his life." The film is slated to release on January 25.

'Calling out patriarchy at home is very tough. The most difficult thing is to question people around you, especially whom you love the most like your parents, brother and boyfriend. Hathaway quits drinking

Actress ANNE HATHAWAY said that she has quit drinking for the next 18 years because she does not want to drink around her two-year-old son Jonathan.

During an appearance on The Ellen Degeneres Show, Hathaway said: "I quit drinking back in October for 18 years. I'm going to stop drinking while my son is in my house just because I don't totally love the way I do it and he's getting to an age where he really needs me all the time in the morning."

She added, "I did a school run one day where I dropped him off at school, I wasn't driving, but I was hungover and that was enough for me. I didn't love that one." She had earlier said that she feels at "greater peace" now that she's a mother.

Image enhancement is one thing; you are in the end in control of it. But when the projected image becomes bigger than you, then the mirrored image can eat into the reality of your self-esteem. A recent study, conducted by a cosmetic clinic chain, spanning over 300 people across four Indian cities, showed that the process of taking, altering and posting selfies negatively affects one's self-esteem and body image perception as well as promotes body dysmorphia.

Selfies, that have already been considered responsible for numerous deaths as well as injuries among people lost in the act of clicking themselves, are also making people anxious and less-confident about their own looks and physical attractiveness. As per the report, in Delhi, 68 per cent men and 82 per cent women showed an increase in levels of anxiety after posting their selfies on social media. Around 71 per cent men and 80 per cent women showed a decrease in self-confidence. Their feelings of physical attractiveness also recorded a dip. The feelings of inadequacy were intense enough to drive many of them to undergo cosmetic surgery in order to enhance their facial appearance.

The study noted that people posted selfies using filters more than without as their real features made them anxious about public approval. Also, the fact that filters work magically on the selfie saddened them, making them envy their own enhanced image.

In one of the recent lectures on the psychological effects of taking and posting selfies on social media, Debraj Shome, director of the said clinic chain, pointed towards men and women between 16 to 25 years of age who spend up to five hours per week clicking selfies and uploading them online. "People who took and posted selfies reported feeling more anxious, less confident, and less physically-attractive later. Even though people could retake or retouch their selfies through filters, we noted certain effects that could be harmful. It contributed to significant feelings of inadequacy over looks. This indicates that people in India will also become like the ones in California, USA, where a large majority of the population considers cosmetic surgeries."

The lecture also noted an important point by Dr Rinky Kapoor, cosmetic dermatologist. Said she, "The camera in the phone has ironically become the reason why the phone sells. It is well-known that selfies are a risk to one's life and limb, with hundreds of people dying or sustaining injuries while taking selfies. This study shows that selfies have an adverse psychological effect on one's personality too. The impact is even more devastating on people with low self-esteem who take to social media to engage in public behaviour with reduced risk of disgrace and social anxiety."

She suggested that since there is not

Selfie? Not me

Behavioural expert DEBRAJ SHOME explains why the mania of taking and posting selfies online is hinting at an insecure and a mentally-unstable generation.

By TEAM VIVA

any upside to the act of taking selfies as yet, the government "seriously" needs to consider banning front-facing cameras in smartphones. "There is also a need to launch a nationwide campaign that discourages people from taking selfies," she said.

As per the research, negative impacts of taking selfies were observed the most among people in Delhi, followed by people in Mumbai, Hyderabad and then Kolkata. The nationwide study showed an increase in anxiety among 60 per cent men and 65 per cent women. Of all the respondents, 61 per cent men and 70 per cent women recorded a decrease in confidence after posting their selfies.

Shome also pointed out that social media and celebrities have been hugely responsible in making selfies popular, especially among the youth. "Since famous celebrities and other TV person-

'Frequently taking selfies could be considered a body-checking behaviour, such as repeated weighing and recurrent checking of one's own reflection in the mirror' alities also have social media accounts, youngsters tend to see how their favourite celebrities strike a pose and get million likes. Following them, they try to imitate their behaviour. They tend to feel depressed comparing themselves to the other so-called physically-attractive people. This eventually results in self-loathing."

He said that for some, taking and posting selfies is also a way of expressing themselves, testing how they really look. The number of likes determines their liking towards themselves.

The doctor explained how posting selfies to social media is making youngsters determine self-image and perception, which in turn is emerging as yet another psychological disorder. He said, "Frequently taking selfies could be considered a body-checking behaviour, such as repeated weighing and recurrent checking of one's own reflection in the mirror."

He suggested that this should be considered a risky online health-related behaviour in terms of mental health, especially if it triggers weight and shape dissatisfaction. He added, "High body dissatisfaction is the primary risk factor for the development of eating disorders and is correlated with low self-esteem and depression. Interventions that aim to diminish or eliminate the harmful effects of social media engagement on one's psychological make-up need to be validated and implemented. This indicates that addiction to phones and selfies may create a mentally-unstable next generation."

Youngsters need to realise that taking selfies is not about impressing people. They shouldn't let this control them. One should be satisfied with the way s/he looks.

AN INSPIRING SILENCE

When you tread on the terrain of SATISH GUPTA's

Zen Whispers, it envelopes you in a mix of contemporary and traditional genres, says UMA NAIR

Cute and quaint in terms of a culling of statements, Satish Gupta's Zen Whispers is a representation of his many journeys in art as well as life. We get a glimpse into the Zen monk and artist who embodies the Buddha within.

The book, which was launched a week ago at the Visual Arts Gallery, is replete with paintings and sculptures from different periods of Satish's artistic endeavours that covers works selected from his monumental landscapes series — wave scene series, flower series. This leads to a deep understanding of his artistic developments during the past 25 years for the audience of art and readers alike.

PAUSES AND SPACES

While the book's cover has been treated and designed like a Zen masterpiece, the book is full of pauses and spaces. Satish emerges as an artist who is an itinerant traveller with a thorough knowledge of the past and the present, the East and the West. Interestingly, the designing and arrangement of the chapters in the book are loose and candid, also filled with the language of assonance and allusion, perhaps almost like going beyond the senses or the colours into a utopian realm that melds and melts into the absolute.

The work indicates Satish's deep understanding of design and his in-depth contemporary awareness derived from his experiences of understanding art practices that straddle through both the Eastern and the Western worlds. The book showcases a variety of genres. Satish gradually develops his own artistic language by infusing Chinese contexts with a minimalist rendering of contemporary awareness. This distinctive style gains him critical acclaim and we look at his small word scapes in new dimensions.

INNER REALMS

The signature of antiquity in the paintings echoes the monumentality of inner realms, giving viewers an impression that they are not the works of a contemporary artist but a man who straddles through many realms. After studying them meticulously, one will, however, notice that Satish deliberately breaks away from the practice of contemporary art and instead uses world practices.

To remain still is one of the qualities that the Eastern philosophy teaches when facing the rapidly-changing world and we get an aura of stillness when we read through. The words are soothing yet delicate. Behind his meticulous thoughts, which portray a discipline inherited from tradition, there are innovative and ingenious experiments. Satish creates a synergy by his seamless intertwining of tradition and the avant-garde both in his words as well as his paintings. Just after reading a few pages, it feels like we are being introduced to fantasies on paper and enchantment in the verbal world. The visual richness comprises colour splashes and bold strokes. We can gain multiple moments of silence through the pages, understanding the traditional aesthetics of both concept and imagery — the kinetics of consciousness also come into play — and you realise that silence is the source of his inspiration.

UNIVERSAL CULTURES

Satish's paintings are awash with the spirit of universal, traditional cultures, but they also go far beyond the conventional boundaries of ink/watercolour painting, exuding an aura that is both spiritual and filled with mystery. His words, thoughts and works are a mix of genres — Indian and international, traditional and contemporary. The sculptures are mesmerising if not filled with a dense grav-

This book tells us that the tides of the universe are in our veins and nature's peace flows around us. The sea is emotions incarnated for Satish, and we have to travel, stop and look at the waves to know and understand the beauty of the sheer surging of life, and the tidal wave of Being. The sinuous strokes of black and white embody the perfect joy of each separate muscle, joint and sinew in that it is everything that mirrors the waves and the soil and the sea. The book tells us that in life, nature is aglow and rampant, expressing itself in movement and we must be protectors as well as nurturers of the Earth and its bounty.

The rhythmic quality of the words resonates with the artist's underlying statements. The inner spirit of the paper used becomes the beauty of painting and the enchantment of the moment is the passion inherent. All great works of art and books have one thing in common — they touch hearts universally, across time and boundaries.

Oscar number game

From Black Panther to Roma, this year's nominations have been viral already but here are some fun and unknown facts behind these choices

After more than 30 years and some two dozen films, Spike Lee has received his first Academy Award nomination for Best Director for BlackKkKlansman. It's also the first time that one of his films have been nominated for Best Picture.

Glenn Close's Best Actress nomination for The Wife is her seventh, and could finally mean her first Oscar. She has more nominations without a win than any other living actor or actress.

Black Panther is the first Marvel movie — and the first superhero film of any kind — to be nominated for Best Picture. Its $700 million box-office take is more than the earnings of the other seven Best-Picture nominees combined.

Roma is the first Netflix film to be nominated for Best Picture.

Sam Elliott's first Oscar nomination — for Best Supporting Actor in A Star Is Born — comes 50 years after his first acting credit, on the TV series Judd for the Defense. Rami Malek, nominated for playing Queen frontman Freddie Mercury in Bohemian Rhapsody, is the only first-time Oscar nominee among the men up for Best Actor. He's up against multiple nominees like Christian Bale, Bradley Cooper, Viggo Mortensen and Willem Dafoe.

Yalitza Aparicio's nomination for Roma comes in her first role as an actress.

This is the second of Hollywood's four versions of A Star Is Born, to get a Best Picture nomination, along with the 1937 original. The 1954 and 1976 versions each got several Oscar nominations, but not for Best Picture.

No women were nominated for Best Director this year. The number of female directorial nominees in the 91-year history of Oscars remains only five.

Eighty-seven countries had submitted films to be considered for Best Foreign Language Film. Only five of them got nominated — Germany, Japan, Lebanon, Mexico and Poland.

Bob Hope hosted the Oscars a record 19 times. No one is scheduled to host this year's ceremony.

MERE GULLY MEIN PLAGIARISED?

It hasn't been long that Ranveer Singh and Alia Bhatt-starrer Gully Boy's teaser went viral making waves across social media. The film is an intimate recounting of Mumbai's homegrown rap scene and the musicians who defined it.

With release of the film's Mere Gully Mein recently, there was again appreciation going around. However, it turned out that there are issues with this track as well (as was with Apna Time Aayega, which was said to be plagiarised), and this time it's not just an "inspired" look. The track is a cover of a 2015 song of the same name. While the filmmakers noted that it was a remake, the song's original creator has now claimed that he "wasn't paid the royalties due to him."

Sajeel Kapoor, better known by his stage name Sez on the Beat, took to social media following the song's release and posted that while he appreciates the film's attempt to trace the origins of Mumbai's indie rap scene, he was "not informed" that his track was being used for the film until recently, nor that it would be a cover instead of his original and, perhaps most pertinently, he was not paid royalties for it, despite having a contract with the makers.

THAILAND'S NEW SHADES

Targeting mature, discerning Indian travellers, the Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) is promoting niche hideaways beyond the Bangkok-Pattaya circuit. The tourism board has extended the visa-on-arrival fee waiver for Indians to April 30

ANKITA SAXENA

To ensure that Thailand remains the most preferred tourism destination among the Indian travellers, the Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) has introduced new experiences and destinations for 2019. As a stimulus to encourage more Indians to visit the destination, the Thai government has extended the visa-on-arrival fee waiver from January 14 to April 30.

The TAT Governor, YUTHASAK SUPASORN said, "We want to change the perception of Thailand in India from a 'cheap destination' to a more value-for-money destination. We have been working towards this for some years now. We started with four key segments namely weddings and honeymooners, sports tourism, health and well-being and responsible tourism. We want to move away from a mass tourist destination to a niche destination. After in-depth research on Indian travellers' behaviour, we have identified some lesser known destinations and have formulated a strategy to promote them. I feel we will be able to achieve two million Indian tourists by the end of 2019, a year earlier than the previously set target of 2020."

The TAT Deputy Governor for Marketing Communications, Tanes Petsuwan, informed that India is now one of the top 10 source markets for tourist arrivals to Thailand, a member of a small club of countries that generate more than one million visitors a year. In January-November 2018, the arrivals from India were up by

TAT Governor, Yuthasak Supasorn

12.03 per cent to 1.42 million, generating an estimated 63 billion Baht in tourism income. In December 2018 alone, after the waiver of visa-on-arrival fee for Indians, Thailand recorded 143,000 Indian visitors, registering a growth of over 63 per cent as compared to December 2017, taking the total figure of Indian tourist arrivals to over 1.6 million in 2018.

Petsuwan said, "The growing sophistication and maturity of the Indian travellers has given us an opportunity to promote Thailand's diverse range of niche market products to women travellers, high-net worth individual (HNIs), weddings and honeymooners and family groups. Today, a new strata of experienced, well-heeled and internet-savvy Indian travellers are venturing beyond the long-standing Bangkok-Pattaya circuit to new destinations such as Chiang Rai, Rayong, Trat, Hua Hin and Samut Songkhram."

Sharing some highlights of the Indian tourists, the deputy governor said that in 2018, of the total Indian visitors, 58 per cent were repeat travellers; the average daily expenditure was recorded at approximately ₹12,500; the average length of stay was 7.45 days and the visitor ratio of groups and individual travellers was recorded as 31 to 69.

"In 2019, the 'Amazing Thailand Open to the New Shades' campaign will be carried forward to invite travellers to indulge in unique experiences. We are targeting four segments of Indian travellers. A separate website—www.firstvisit.com, has been launched to cater to the first time travellers. We are targeting women travellers and thus have introduced the website—www.women'sjourneythailand.com. Almost 300 Indian destination weddings took place in Thailand in 2018 and to further this segment, we have introduced www.myweddinginthailand.com for specific needs of those who wish to tie the knot in Thailand. For the family travel category, we are promoting Samut Songkhram as a new destination for local experiences. Luxury travel from India is also a segment of focus this year," added Petsuwan.

The tourism board further apprised that the bilateral airline capacity is at an all-time high with 307 weekly flights between Thailand and 16 major cities in India, served by 13 airlines which include, the Thai Airways, Bangkok Airways, Thai Smile, Bhutan Airlines, Druk Air, Jet Airways, Air Asia, Spice Jet, Thai Lion Air, Indigo, NokScoot and GoAir.

In August this year, TAT will undertake an Amazing Thailand roadshow to Tier-II cities—Ahmedabad, Pune, Amritsar and Bhubaneswar as part of TAT's strategy to tap the potential of India's secondary cities. Thailand expects to welcome five million Indian visitors by 2023.

Making railways safer and more punctual

The chairman of the Railway Board, V K Yadav, recently chaired a Review Meet of the zonal performance at the Northern Railway's headquarter in New Delhi. The member of the Traffic Railway Board Girish Pillai, the general manager of the Northern Railway TP Singh, the principal heads-of-department of the Northern Railway, the divisional railway managers of the five Divisions of Northern Railway viz. Ambala, Delhi, Moradabad, Lucknow and Firozpur were also present on the occasion.

Appraising the overall safety performance of the zone during 2018-19, Yadav noted the 31 percent noteworthy reduction in the number of accidents vis-à-vis 2017-18 and expressed his satisfaction on the mission mode of the zone in 100 per cent elimination of unmanned level-crossing on the zone, which is a part of the 'Mission Zero Accident'.

The chairman underscored the need for expeditious completion of infrastructure projects viz. new lines, doubling lines and so on to enhance capacity creation to meet the twin objectives of operation (punctuality) and safety. He noted that the Northern Railway has taken several steps to improve the punctuality of the passenger carrying trains during the year which include elimination of traction change in 12 trains, standardising and factoring in mega corridor block in the new time table to rationalise train running time. He apprised that live monitoring of the asset failures is being undertaken and additional manpower and resources are being deployed on dense traffic sections.

One of the significant measures to augment punctuality performance was the de-congestion of major terminals of Delhi, Lucknow and Allahabad area. A noteworthy raise in speed of trains on loop lines enabled saving 86 minutes, while the track strengthening and electrification works enabled the raising of sectional speed. He also noted that the PF berthing slots were rationalised to ensure better station punctuality.

Yadav also reviewed the ongoing action plans of the zone with regards to the rationalisation of rake links, terminal shifting to reduce station congestion and to ensure expeditious primary maintenance. The washing line OHE connectivity is on the anvil with other improvements viz. high-speed fuelling and watering.

The chairman further reviewed the various development plans proposed in the year ahead viz. the doubling works, flyovers (rail) to enable operational flexibility and by-passes/chord lines to avoid detention due to reversal. He also reviewed the various traffic facility upgradation works viz. coaching terminal facility at Bijwasan and Varanasi yard remodeling plans. The capacity enhancement works through a target 41 km new line, and doubling spanning 137 km, are on the anvil for the year 2019-20.

Assigning a higher impetus to the modernised signaling, the zone has on its anvil projects for introduction of automatic block signaling on high density routes through an estimated ₹287.66 crore in the year ahead. This would enable better punctuality performance, commented the chairman.

Naqvi applauds Hunar Haat for employment generation

The Union Minority Affairs Minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi, believes that more than two lakh artisans, craftsmen and culinary experts have been provided with employment opportunities through the 11 'Hunar Haats' which have been organised across the country during the last two years. The minister was speaking at the closing ceremony of the Hunar Haat held in Delhi from January 12 to 20. He said, "Hunar Haat has been organised across the country by the Ministry, and it has proved to be an 'empowerment and employment exchange', for the master artisans and craftsmen. The employment oriented programmes of the Modi Government like the Hunar Haat has significantly encouraged and promoted the rich traditional heritage of artisans which had been marginalised for a long time. This initiative has become a 'credible brand' of indigenous talent of Indian craftsmen and will fulfill Prime Minister Narendra Modi's commitment to 'Make in India', 'Stand up India', and 'Start up India'.

He further added that the even was a hit as over 13 lakh visitors from across the country and abroad visited the fair and encouraged the artisans by purchasing, on a large scale, their indigenous handmade products. The artisans have also received national and international orders worth lakhs of rupees.

In the coming days, the event will also be organised at other different locations in the country.

VIT's accelerated business coaching programme

The VIT Technology Business Incubator (VIT-TBI) is a joint initiative between VIT Vellore, and the Department of Science and Technology, Government of India. Pliskova slays Serena's title bid

Karolina saves four match points to upset Williams in quarterfinal clash; Djoker marches past injured Nishikori

AFP ■ MELBOURNE

Serena Williams's bid for a record-equalling 24th Grand Slam title was brought to a halt in sensational style at the Australian Open on Wednesday by Karolina Pliskova, but fellow former champion Novak Djokovic cruised into the semi-finals.

The American great had beaten world number one Simona Halep in the fourth round but folded against the tall Czech seventh seed, who saved four match points before winning 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 under the hot Melbourne sun.

Her reward is a clash against Japan's Naomi Osaka for a place in the final, after the Japanese fourth seed brutally swatted aside the injured Elina Svitolina 6-4, 6-1.

World number one Djokovic enjoyed an early night when courageous Kei Nishikori retired with a thigh strain when losing 6-1, 4-1 after going through three five-set epics during the tournament.

It kept the Serb's bid for a record seventh Australian title on track and he will now meet French 28th seed Lucas Pouille, who beat power-serving Canadian Milos Raonic 7-6 (7/4), 6-3, 6-7 (2/7), 6-4 to make his first Slam semi.

It was a gut-wrenching defeat for Williams, who battled back from a set down and was leading 5-1 in the third and serving for the match, only to throw it away with some wild shots as frustrations bubbled to the surface.

"There's nothing I did wrong on those match points. I stayed aggressive. She just literally hit the lines on some of them," said the dumbfounded 37-year-old, who rolled an ankle but refused to blame it for the defeat.

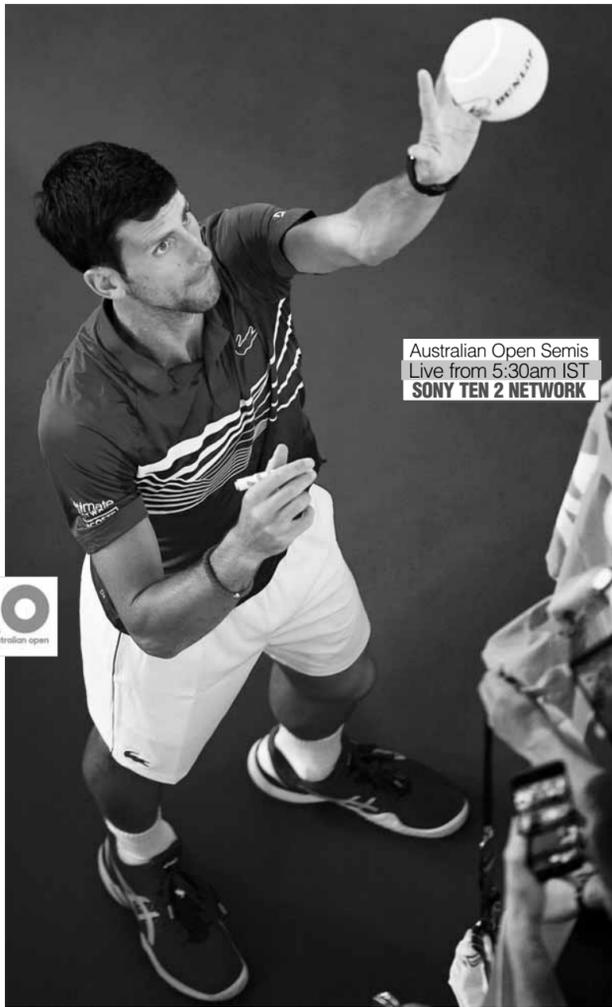

Since returning last year from giving birth, Williams has made four unsuccessful attempts to match Margaret Court's long-time standing 24 Grand Slam titles, and the wait continues with the French Open in May her next chance.

"The big picture for me is always winning," she added. "I'm not going to sit here and lie about that. It hasn't happened yet, but I feel like it's going to happen."

For Pliskova, it is only her third semi-final at a major.

She made the last four at Roland Garros in 2017 and the US Open a year earlier, where she beat Williams before losing the final to Angelique Kerber.

HALEP'S REIGN AS NUMBER ONE OVER

AFP ■ MELBOURNE

Petra Kvitova's surging win over Ashleigh Barty to make the Australian Open semi-finals ensured Simona Halep's reign as world number one is over, not that the Romanian is bothered.

The Czech star overtook Halep's points total, while Naomi Osaka and Karolina Pliskova also have a mathematical shot at assuming the mantle when the new rankings come out next week.

Entering the opening Grand Slam of the year, 11 players had a chance to hold the top spot, but that has now been whittled down.

Of the three in the running, only Pliskova has been there before, in 2017 when she became the first Czech woman to do so.

To do so again she must win the title on Saturday.

"I tried to be consistent, it's unfortunate that she got injured but playing against her even when she was injured was still really tough," said the 21-year-old.

"I just had one goal, to try as hard I can and not get angry. I didn't do that really well in the last two rounds and I did that today so I'm really happy with the way I played."

Djokovic, who is targeting a 15th Grand Slam title, endured his own tough fourth round showdown with Daniil Medvedev and said he was glad to get off court early.

"As they say, this is exactly what the doctor ordered for me after the match two nights ago," he said. "Not to spend too much time on the court."

"I've had plenty of matches so far this year and I am in another semi-final and I will do everything to get ready for that one."

Pouille had never won a match in Melbourne before this year but has recruited 2006 Australian Open champion Amelie Mauresmo to his team and said it was paying off.

a very good feeling," she said after depriving Williams of a US Open final rematch with Osaka.

CALM OSAKA

Asked about facing Osaka next, Pliskova replied: "She's dangerous but nobody is more dangerous than Serena."

A focused Osaka rolled past Ukraine's Svitolina, who was troubled by neck and shoulder problems.

Despite the Ukrainian suffering, it was nevertheless a serious statement from the steely-eyed Osaka, who was playing the sort of tennis which drove her to the US Open title.

Winning start for Saina & Sindhu

PTI ■ JAKARTA

The Indian trio of P V Sindhu, Saina Nehwal and Kidambi Srikanth dished out superb performances on the opening day to advance to the second round of the $350,000 Indonesia Masters World Tour Super 500 badminton tournament here on Wednesday.

Olympic and World Championship Silver medallist Sindhu opened the new season with a fighting 22-24, 21-8, 21-17 win over 2012 London Games champion Li Xuerui of China in a 54-minute women's singles match.

The second seeded Indian will now be pitted against Indonesia's Gregoria Mariska Tunjung.

Eighth seeded Saina, who had reached the semifinals at the Malaysia Masters last week, recovered from a first-game loss to secure a 7-21, 21-16, 21-11 win over local hope Dinar Dyah Ayustine, ranked 50th, in another women's singles match. It was Saina's third win over Ayustine.

The 28-year-old from Hyderabad will next face another Indonesian Fitriani Fitriani, against whom she has a 4-0 head-to-head record.

In men's singles, eighth seed Srikanth eased past Malaysia's Chong Wei Feng 21-12, 21-8 to set up a showdown with Japan's Asian Games bronze medallist Kenta Nishimoto.

But compatriots B Sai Praneeeth and Subhankar Dey failed to cross the opening hurdle at the tournament.

2017 Singapore Open champion Praneeth was sent packing 12-21, 16-21 by Olympic champion Chen Long of China in 40 minutes, while Subhankar, who had won his maiden title at SaarLorLux Open in Germany last year, fought hard before going down 14-21, 21-19, 15-21 against former World champion Viktor Axelsen of Denmark.

Local hope Anthony Sinsuka Ginting, seeded seventh, proved a difficult customer for Parupalli Kashyap once again as he claimed a 21-12, 21-16 win over the former Commonwealth Games champion.

In men's doubles, national champions Manu Attri and B Sumeeth Reddy dished out a fighting game to notch up a 14-21, 21-19, 21-15 win over Denmark's Mads Pieler Kolding and Niclas Nohr.

Commonwealth Games Bronze medallist pair of Ashwini Ponnappa and N Sikki Reddy also bowed out of the competition, losing 14-21, 14-21 to Thailand's Jongkolphan Kititharakul and Rawinda Prajongjai in the women's doubles opener.

Sanjita Chanu celebrates after winning Gold at Gold Coast CWG

IWF lifts ban on Sanjita

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The International Weightlifting Federation has revoked the provisional suspension on weightlifter K Sanjita Chanu for a failed dope test, a major reprieve for the two-time Commonwealth Games Gold-medallist who has claimed innocence.

In a case that has dragged on for almost a year and has been marred by an "administrative" goof-up in Sanjita's sample number, the IWF informed that a final decision on the matter is expected in the coming days.

"On the basis of the information at its disposal, the IWF has decided that the provisional suspension of the athlete (Khumukcham Sanjita) shall be lifted as of today (22 January 2019)," IWF's legal counsel Eva Nyirfa said in an e-mail sent to the national federation and Sanjita.

"The IWF Hearing Panel will render its decision on the athlete's case in due course," it added.

The 25-year-old Sanjita, who had won Gold in the women's 53kg category at the 2018 Commonwealth Games in Gold Coast, had tested positive for anabolic steroid testosterone. Her urine sample was taken prior to the World Championships in United States in November 2017, and she was put under provisional suspension from May 15 last year.

A final decision of the IWF panel is yet to come but Sanjita said her assertion of innocence has been vindicated.

"I have got a mail from the international federation and our national federation has also called me up this morning informing about the lifting of the (provisional) suspension. I am relieved and happy. I am innocent and I have never taken any banned substance in my career. I am vindicated now," she said.

"At the same time, I experienced mental trauma during these past 8-9 months (since May 15 last year) due to the mistake of the international federation. I hope nothing like this happen to any athlete in future. An athlete's reputation is very precious," she added.

Sanjita said the Indian Weightlifting Federation had asked her to join the national camp immediately if she wants.

"The federation official told me today to write if I want to join national camp. I am doing that. I missed the Asian Games and World Championships in 2018. I want to compete in the World Championships this year and qualify for 2020 Olympics. For any athlete, Olympics is the ultimate," she said.

The international body informed about her doping offence only in May last year. That meant the Manipuri weightlifter participated in the Gold Coast CWG, where she finished top of the podium. She had also won Gold in the 48kg in the 2014 Commonwealth Games in Glasgow.

India could have done better in Asian Cup: Jeje

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Indian football team striker Jeje Lalpekhlua on Wednesday rued the country's crashing out of the ongoing Asian Cup and said it could have done better in the continental showpiece event.

The Indian team was on the verge of booking a maiden knock-out round berth but conceded goal via penalty at the far end of the group match against Bahrain. India needed a draw to reach the Round of 16 but lost 0-1 to Bahrain to exit from the tournament.

"We gave our 100 per cent in every match. But we could have done better. Not qualifying out of the group stages is a setback for us. But it shows anything can happen in football," Lalpekhlua said.

"It was a very difficult match against Bahrain and it was unfortunate the way we lost. However, that is life in football, and the important part is the experience earned by the young players that will give dividends in future," he was quoted as saying by the official website of All India Football Federation.

India outplayed Thailand 4-1 in the opening match to notch up its first win in the Asian Cup since 1964. Thailand eventually qualified for the Round of 16 where they lost to China.

"Our biggest achievement was the win against Thailand," said Lalpekhlua, who had scored India's fourth goal in that match.

"But we have to make Asian Cup qualification a regular feature. Now we need to focus to do well in World Cup Qualifiers, followed by yet again qualifying for the Asian Cup (for 2023)," said the player from Mizoram.

"The sleeping giant is now awake. We have shown to all in Asia that we belong on the same page as them. Our performance in the Asian Cup has improved tenfold, and it can only get better from here as young players have been given the needed experience. Indian football can go only upwards from here towards a brighter future," Lalpekhlua said.

None better than Harendra as India coach: Sandeep

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Former captain Sandeep Singh on Wednesday slammed the frequent change of coaches in Indian hockey, asserting that there is none better for the job than the recently-removed Harendra Singh.

Harendra was sacked as India coach earlier this month following a disappointing 2018 and offered another stint with the junior squad. He became the sixth coach to be sacked in as many years.

"You can't be changing coaches this frequently. The crucial Olympic qualifier (FIH Series Finals in June) is ahead of us and we should not be experimenting too much. I don't think I have worked with a better coach than Harendra sir," Sandeep said at the launch of Flickers Brothers hockey academy, his joint venture with brother Bikramjeet.

"There are a few coaches (in India) who can coach at the highest level and Harendra paaji is one of them. He should have been given more time.

"Any new coach takes about six months to adjust to the system and

Sandeep Singh speaks during Flickers Brothers academy launch press conference players also need time to understand his methods. Team doesn't have that kind of time (ahead Olympic qualifiers)," he said.

India have had a variety of foreign coaches and Harendra helming the national team was a rarity in recent times. But he could not even last 12 months after taking charge, following the team's medal-less showing at the Commonwealth Games in April.

Hockey India has invited fresh applications for the post and Sandeep, who was best known for his ferocious drag-flicks, feels an Indian coach will be most beneficial for the team.

"There is no language barrier and more importantly, you don't hesitate while interacting with an Indian coach. Indian coaches are strict on the field but off the field they take very good care of you," he explained.

The phenomenon of dropping players without giving them ample opportunities is another aspect that bogs down Indian coaches, said Sandeep.

The biggest worry for the national team, according to Sandeep, is lack of world-class goalkeepers. "My biggest worry is when P R Sreejesh retires, who will be replace him? I don't see anyone matching up to his standards. We have to prepare goalkeepers. Strikers and drag-flickers keep coming but not goalkeepers. I hope he plays for another five to seven years."

BALOTELLI COMPLETES MARSEILLE MOVE

PARIS: Marseille have completed the signing of Italy striker Mario Balotelli from their French rivals Nice, the Ligue 1 club confirmed on Wednesday. Balotelli, 28, has signed for the former European champions until the end of the season after being released from the remainder of his contract by Nice and passing a medical at the Velodrome earlier in the day. The impending arrival of the former AC Milan, Inter and Liverpool forward, who has scored 14 goals in 36 games for Italy. Marseille coach Rudi Garcia said this week that signing Balotelli was his "number one priority". OM are currently seventh in Ligue 1 and have struggled for goals after failing in an attempt to bring Balotelli to the club last summer. Their main strikers, Valere Germain and Kostas Mitroglou, have scored just three league goals each so far this season.

CHELSEA CLOSING ON HIGUAIN DEAL

LONDON: Chelsea are in final talks to sign Juventus striker Gonzalo Higuain, head coach Maurizio Sarri said on Wednesday as he looks to bolster his team's firepower. Sarri previously coached Higuain at Napoli when he scored a Serie A record 36 goals in a league campaign in 2015/16. That sort of goalscoring prowess is what Chelsea have been badly missing in recent months, with Sarri's lack of confidence in Alvaro Morata and Olivier Giroud forcing Eden Hazard into an unfamiliar centre-forward role. They're a few hours into signing a contract today," Sarri said. Chelsea play Tottenham in Thursday's League Cup semi-final second leg at Stamford Bridge, bidding to overturn a 1-0 deficit to reach the February 24 final.

DUSSEN LEADS SA TO SERIES-LEVELLING WIN

DURBAN: Hendrick 'Rassie' van der Dussen and Andile Phehlukwayo guided South Africa to a series-levelling win in a roller-coaster second one-day international against Pakistan at Kingsmead on Tuesday. The pair came together when South Africa were 80 for five in reply to Pakistan's 203. They put on an unbeaten 127 as South Africa won by five wickets with eight overs to spare. Van der Dussen, playing in his second one-day international, made an unbeaten 80 after scoring 93 on debut. Phehlukwayo was named man-of-the-match after two career-best performances. He took four for 22 in Pakistan's innings and then scored 69 not out. Earlier Hasan Ali, batting at number ten, hit a career-best 59 off 45 balls and helped captain Sarfraz Ahmed (41) put on 90 for the ninth wicket to enable Pakistan to reach 203.

SARFRAZ CAUGHT PASSING COMMENTS

DURBAN: Pakistan captain Sarfraz Ahmed could find himself in trouble after he was caught by stump mics of making what seemed to be racist comments against a South African player during their second one-dayer. According to reports, Sarfraz made these comments against Andile Phehlukwayo in the 37th over of South Africa's run chase on Tuesday. Phehlukwayo inside-edged a Shaheen Afridi delivery for a single. He was on 50 at the time and as he ran off to the non-striker's end, Sarfraz was caught on the stump mics passing some comments in Urdu. 'Abey kaale, teri ammi aaj kahaan baitheen hain? Kya parwa ke aaye hai aaj (Hey black guy, where's your mother sitting today? What have you got her to say for you today)?' Sarfraz was quoted as saying by 'ESPNews' website.

ANAND PLAYS DRAW WITH RAPPORT

WIJK AAN ZEE: Viswanathan Anand played out an easy draw as black with Richard Rapport of Hungary to stay in joint lead on six points after the end of the ninth round of Tata Steel Masters chess tournament. Tackling his first of the two back-to-back black games in a row with ease, Anand had a level position on board for the major part and is now in a three-way tie with four rounds still remaining in the first super tournament of the year. Ian Nepomniachtchi of Russia joined Anand and world champion Magnus Carlsen of Norway in the lead following a fine victory over Indian Grandmaster Vidit Gujrathi. Ding Liren of China played out a draw with tallender Vladimir Kramnik to be joint fourth along side Dutchman Anish Giri who was held to a draw by compatriot Jorden Van Foreest.

TIM HOWARD TO RETIRE AFTER 2019

NEW YORK: Former United States goalkeeper Tim Howard announced on Tuesday that he will retire from the sport after his 2019 Major League Soccer season with the Colorado Rapids. The 39-year-old former Manchester United and Everton stopper, a veteran of three World Cup campaigns, confirmed his decision to hang up his gloves in a statement on Twitter. "I'm greatly looking forward to kicking off the 2019 MLS season, as it will be my LAST," Howard wrote. "There will be plenty of time for sentiment later. For now, I am going to enjoy every minute. And as I've always done, compete hard and help lead the Rapids with the sole purpose of winning." Howard is the most capped goalkeeper in US national team history with 121 appearances. Agencies

Indian Eves eye on-field success after off-field drama

PTI ■ NAPIER

The Indian women's cricket team will aim to put behind the off-field furores and bring the focus back on the game when it clashes with New Zealand in a three-match ODI series starting on Thursday.

The Indian women's team was at the centre of a huge controversy after its semi-final exit in the T20 World Cup in the West Indies owing to a bitter public spat between ODI captain Mithali Raj and the then coach Ramesh Powar.

Following the fiasco, WV Raman replaced Powar and this will be his first assignment at the helm. Mithali also had a fallout with T20 skipper and star batter Harmanpreet Kaur but asserted on the eve of the series that she has moved on from all the drama and is focussed on the task at hand.

The side would be aiming to improve its fifth position in the ICC championship table through this series, which is part of the world body's women's championship and will determine qualifiers for the 2021 World Cup.

India lost the home leg of the ICC Women's Championship series 2-1 to New Zealand during the last cycle that ran from 2014-2016. However, the team has enough firepower in stylish opener Smriti Mandhana, who has already scored 488 runs in the championship.

New Zealand are presently in second position on the table with 12 points from nine matches while India are fifth with eight points and ahead of Pakistan only on net run rate. Defending champions Australia lead the table with 16 points from nine outings.

The losses at the ICC Women's World Cup 2017 and the Women's World T20 last year put paid to New Zealand's hopes of qualifying for the knockouts.

They now get a chance to outdo India in home conditions, which will also help their chances of qualifying directly for the 2021 Women's World Cup, which will be competed here. The hosts and four other top teams will direct entries to the premier event two years from now.

New Zealand are without wicketkeeper-batter Katey Martin, who is unavailable due to work commitments, but have match-winners in the likes of former captain Suzie Bates and Sophie Devine, who leads the championship run table with 592 with three hundreds. Spin bowler Leigh Kasparek is another one to look out for with 19 wickets in the championship so far.

New Zealand have played England, Pakistan and the Windies so far while India have completed their engagements against Australia, South Africa and Sri Lanka.

the most successful bowler, returning figures of 4/39 in 10 overs, while seamer Mohammed Shami finished with an excellent 3/19 in six overs. There were also two wickets for leg-spinner Yuzvendra Chahal.

Captain Kane Williamson top-scored for the hosts with 64 off 81 balls. In response, Shikhar Dhawan began the innings with a flurry of boundaries, eventually finishing as the top-scorer with 75 off 103 balls.

The left-handed opening batsman, battling in different form, studied his innings with six boundaries.

India were comfortably placed at 44 for one when, in a bizarre turn of events, players walked off the ground after dinner because the setting sun made it difficult for them to spot the ball at McLean park.

This led to an interruption that has never been seen in international cricket before.

Because of the nearly half-an-hour delay, the target was revised to 156 in 49 overs, which the visitors chased without much ado.

While Rohit Sharma may have lost his focus after the dinner break, Kohli and Dhawan didn't let the sun-induced stoppage distract their minds when play resumed. Kohli, though, got out five short of a fifty.

The Indian captain hit three boundaries in his 59-ball knock before pacer Lockie Ferguson had him caught behind with a quick delivery that caught the batsman by surprise.

In the course of his 26th ODI fifty, Dhawan became the joint fourth fastest batsman to reach 5000 runs. Dhawan needed 118 innings to reach the mark.

This knock will bring some relief for Dhawan as he hasn't scored a half century in his last nine innings.

Earlier, opting to bat, the New Zealanders were off to an inauspicious start, losing both openers Martin Guptill and Colin Munro within the first five overs with just 18 runs on the board.

By sending back Guptill in his 56th match, the 28-year-old Shami became the fastest Indian to reach 100 wickets in ODIs.

Coming into the series after a hugely successful 2018, Ross Taylor looked good in his 41-ball 24, but he was brilliantly caught and bowled by Chahal, who lured the batsman to dance down the pitch a tad too early with his change of pace.

Till Taylor was there alongside Williamson, things looked good for New Zealand, as the duo played a few delightful shots, especially the skipper whose trademark backfoot punch through the covers stood out.

Tom Latham was dismissed in similar fashion, with leg-spinner Chahal being the bowler.

Henry Nicholls and Mitchell Santner came, swung their willows for a six and a couple of boundaries, and got out to Jadhav and Shami respectively as New Zealand stuttered at 133 for six in the 30th over.

By that time, Williamson too had had enough, and got out while trying to hoick Yadav over long-on.

India produced cricket of the calibre that has become synonymous with Virat Kohli's men to crush New Zealand in the first ODI but a bizarre and unprecedented sun-induced interruption overshadowed the on-field action on Wednesday.

Entering the five-match rubber following maiden Test and ODI series triumphs in Australia, India signalled their intent with a clinical display, which saw them chase down a revised target of 156 by eight wickets in 34.5 overs.

The Duckworth-Lewis method came into the picture for an interruption which was not caused by rain for the first time.

On a near-perfect day, the only thing that didn't go their way was the toss. But India made light of that by bowling out the home team for a paltry 157 in 38 overs.
