India will not succumb to pressure: Javadekar

Blames developed nations for not transferring technology to deal climate change

The Centre on Thursday dismissed the developed countries for not keeping up the pace of commitment of providing USD 100 billion and technology transfer collectively to developing countries like India for dealing with climate change. Environment Minister Prakash Javadekar, in a press briefing in Rajya Sabha, said India will not bow down to any international pressure on its own interests.

Responding to a calling attention notice on “situation arising out of climate change in the country and steps taken by the Government for dealing with climate change with regard to the environment”, Mr. Javadekar said, “India is responsible for most of the climate change debate. India has been the country which has faced the brunt of the climate change but has not contributed to the climate change.

India’s role in this matter is to raise the voice in the global forum, to raise the voice that the developed nations are the major contributor and they have to play their role along with the developing world. India’s contribution in the last 45 years is three per cent. There was ever 45 per cent of the negative impact on the environment.

This year, 2019, for every 100 people in developed countries while in India that is every person per capita consumption of 300 units which is 35 times more than in 1960 which is equal to 1200 unit per person in the developed world.”

The minister said the climate change will impact the vulnerable people more and said that the Government has, in its budget, set a target to have 40 per cent of the total renewable energy from 2027 (30 per cent from non-fossil fuel energy source).

The minister also said, “The world’s decarbonisation drive is different for different countries and it is not the same, it is not uniform, it is not the same across the countries but it has to be kept in mind that the developed nations are already doing 35 per cent and the developing nations have to do 30 per cent or 40 per cent. India is committed to doing 40 per cent by 2030.

The minister also said that it is a matter of pride that the Indian has increased the rural electrification by 94 per cent, 23 per cent urban electrification, 39 per cent coal-based power, 54 per cent solar-based power and 23 per cent wind-based power. And the political instability in the developed world and the Government has decided to stay firm on its position.

A further initiative by the Government to tackle the climate change is the constitution of the Central Council of Homeopathy (CCH) which is general in nature, to deal with the constitutional issues related to the Central Council of Homeopathy. The CCH has already been constituted for dealing with the constitutional issues related to the Central Council of Homeopathy.

The issue has to be resolved by the developed nations but India has to be firm on its position.

A new Game of Thrones

With respect to ongoing trade issues with the US and China, India must tread its path cautiously and decide after weighing all its options.

Amoduri Banerjee

Largely in line with the US's economic expansion, the Indian economy is also facing the pinch of inflation. The current inflation rate stands at around 5.2 per cent, much above the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI)'s target of 4 per cent. This has led to a slowdown in economic growth, industrial production and manufacturing output. The Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) for manufacturing has also slipped to a three-month low of 48.6 in March, indicating a contraction in the sector.

The high inflation rate is also impacting consumer spending, as household budgets are squeezed. As a result, consumption has slowed down, leading to a decline in retail sales and overall demand. The plummeting consumer sentiment is further dampening business confidence, causing companies to scale back investments and hiring.

In this context, the government needs to implement a comprehensive strategy to address the inflationary pressures and boost economic growth. One key area of focus should be ensuring price stability. This can be achieved by improving supply chain efficiency, increasing domestic production, and boosting agricultural output. Moreover, measures to support small and medium enterprises (SMEs) can help in creating jobs and driving innovation.

Additionally, the government should focus on creating a pro-business environment by simplifying regulations and reducing taxes. This will help in attracting foreign direct investment (FDI) and encouraging domestic firms to invest in capacity expansion.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) should also play its part by maintaining a balance between growth and stability. By adjusting its monetary policies, the RBI can help in managing inflationary pressures and ensuring stable interest rates.

In conclusion, addressing inflation requires a coordinated effort between the government, businesses, and consumers. It is essential to focus on improving supply chain efficiency, boosting domestic production, and creating a pro-business environment. By doing so, we can help in stabilizing inflation and promoting sustainable economic growth.

Bluebird investments in Swiss banks, hits second-lowest level in two decades

The Swiss National Bank (SNB) on Thursday published the results of its annual survey of foreign clients of Swiss banks, showing a second-lowest level of confidence in the financial system in the past decade.

The survey, which is conducted by the Swiss National Bank and the Swiss Takeover and Corporate Governance Board, found that 50% of the respondents were either not confident or had no opinion about the financial system, compared to 48% in 2017.

The confidence level has been below 50% for the past six consecutive years, indicating a lack of trust among foreign clients in the Swiss banking industry.

The results come amid growing concerns about the impact of the US-China trade war, as well as the ongoing uncertainty surrounding Brexit and the future of the European Union.

The survey also found that the vast majority of clients continued to hold their assets in Swiss francs, with 90% of respondents choosing the franc as their primary currency.

Bank representatives said the results of the survey could impact the way Swiss banks approach their business strategy, particularly in terms of risk management and customer service.

The SNB is scheduled to release its quarterly economic report on Friday, where it is expected to provide further insights into the Swiss economy and its implications for the banking sector.

The central bank also announced plans to conduct a comprehensive review of its monetary policy in the coming months, with the aim of ensuring its effectiveness in achieving its inflation target of 2%.

The review is expected to focus on the impact of the US-China trade war and the ongoing uncertainty surrounding Brexit, as well as the potential implications of climate change for the Swiss economy.

The SNB's report is likely to provide further guidance on the potential changes to its monetary policy, including the possibility of increasing or decreasing interest rates.

The Automatic Wave

Do you really care about the type of automatic transmission you drive?

DSG and DCT transmissions have only become popular in the last few years. These transmissions were almost unheard of before this period. So, what makes them so good and why are they better than the traditional manual transmissions?

DSG (Direct Shift Gearbox)

DSG is a dual clutch transmission. This means that, unlike a traditional manual transmission, you don’t have to shift gears manually. Instead, the DSG automatic transmission automatically shifts gears based on how fast you’re driving. This makes it easier to drive and gives you more control over your car’s performance.

DCT (Dual Clutch Transmission)

DCT is also a type of automatic transmission, but it’s different from DSG. DCTs use two clutches to shift gears, which results in a smoother and more efficient shift than traditional manual transmissions.

The benefits of DSG and DCT transmissions include:

- Improved fuel efficiency: These transmissions are more fuel-efficient than traditional manual transmissions.
- Better performance: DSG and DCT transmissions can improve acceleration and give you more control over your car’s performance.
- Easy to drive: These transmissions are easier to drive than manual transmissions, making them a great option for new drivers.

The Drawbacks of DSG and DCT Transmissions

Despite their benefits, DSG and DCT transmissions also have some drawbacks:

- Higher maintenance costs: These transmissions are more complex than traditional manual transmissions, which means they require more maintenance.
- Potential issues with clutch failure: DSG and DCT transmissions use a clutch to shift gears, which can cause issues if the clutch fails.
- Potential issues with gear damage: These transmissions can cause gear damage if they’re not maintained properly.

So, when choosing a car, it’s important to consider the type of transmission you want. DSG and DCT transmissions are great options, but they’re not right for everyone. It’s important to do your research and choose a transmission that works best for your needs and budget.

Feisty Trump sets tone as stormy G20 looms

Osaka: US President Donald Trump arrived in Osaka on Saturday for what promises to be a stormy Group of 20 summit that will be played out at home and abroad.

The long-running US-China trade war will dominate the two-day meeting in the coastal city set against a backdrop of growing bilateral trade friction, global economic slowing, climate change and the threat of nuclear proliferation.

The US administration plans a broad, outward-looking agenda of promoting connectivity, and energy supplies and investment in infrastructure, which is expected to clash with China’s assertive, inward-looking vision of technological advancement.

Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi arrived in Osaka on Friday to attend the annual G-20 summit, the first for a sitting head of government in the country. He is hoped to use his visit to address India’s growing economic relations with the US and Japan.

While Beijing positioned for what is expected to be a turbulent summit, US President Donald Trump arrived in Osaka on Saturday for what promises to be a stormy Group of 20 summit that will be played out at home and abroad.

Trump trumped up a foreign policy profile to London to tout US prosperity and global leadership in trade and security, highlighting his administration’s achievements and warning against US adversaries.

“In the year of our great victory, we’re not going to listen to them,” Trump said, referring to the US-China trade war. “We’re going to win this one, and we’re going to win it badly.”

India on top

Firing on their good show so far in the ongoing World Cup, India on Thursday piled England to become the No 1 ODI team in the latest ICC rankings. India now tops England’s 122 after remaining unbeaten so far in the tournament. It also share the top spot with Australia in the ICC World Twenty20 rankings. England, meanwhile, haven’t met expectations of being the pre-tournament favourite to reach the finals after losing to New Zealand in the World Cup, bowled out for just 36 and going on to lose their first two matches. After a good start, England lost to Sri Lanka and were then thrashed by Australia before their last encounter.

What a catch!

Sarfraz Ahmed had a face full of blushes on social media after his catch to dismiss Kohli at the World Cup.

India’s captain, Rohit Sharma, dramatically held on to a catch at fine leg off the bowling of Chris Woakes to dismiss Virat Kohli and take him for 50. Kohli, who had reached the milestone of 100 ODI centuries recently, went on to score 116 in the match. Despite his knock, India could only manage 247/8 in their 50-over innings. England, however, struggled against the Indian spinners and were bowled out for 236.

India’s first XI: Rohit Sharma (c), KL Rahul, Shikhar Dhawan, Dinesh Karthik (wk), Virat Kohli, Hardik Pandya, Ravindra Jadeja, Kuldeep Yadav, Jasprit Bumrah, Bhuvneshwar Kumar.

Starc with the ball.

Finch and David Warner is doing a lot of damage in the Indian bowling, but we have to remain cool and handle this pressure well. It is a big challenge for us as a unit. We need to be prepared for any scenario and make sure we don’t give them much chance to score.

“Kuldeep, Chahal will be destructive by the end”

With spinners Kuldeep Yadav and Yuzvendra Chahal being one of the main reasons behind India’s victory in the World Cup, both the players have treasured the chance to be part of the World Cup and hope to keep their momentum going.

Kuldeep Yadav said that he and Chahal have been working on their bowling skills and have been practicing a lot. The duo have been consistently giving their best in the World Cup.

Kiwi do not panic in a hurry.

The one New Zealand victory has been a five-match series. New Zealand, this team doesn't panic and isn't for a long time. They have been playing a stylish cricket that has delivered success and they have won five games of seven with seven wickets at the ICC Cricket World Cup in England.

New Zealand fans will not change that. They respect the experience, calm and stress-free as Kane Williamson said in his post-match comments, devoting onto next game knowing they are pretty much assured a semi-final spot. Lot of things would have to go wrong for them to be against them for it not to happen.

They have been playing a game of cricket that was won in one-day cricket where 350 plus is not seen as prevalent and it makes for an exciting game. It brings the umpires into play and brings the England bowlers into play. We saw that from Babar Azam who was just out-muscled. He was hit wide and he batted how he would have batted had it not been for the partnership of 119 runs, which wasn't looking anywhere near the series of wickets for New Zealand.

They've got a pretty good group of New Zealand players and they finish their group match which will be their last match in the tournament. The 24-year-old hit a match-winning里程碑 against them for it not to happen because he knows what New Zealand will do is to play at their best.

Belief has been the key,” said Babar, who’s really come into his own in England and Wales and they finish their group match which will be their last match in the tournament.

“We were not winning matches but we worked well as (Mohammad) Hafeez and I think they will remain competitive for the knockout stages, remain in World Cup contention. We saw that from Babar Azam who was just out-muscled. He was hit wide and he batted how he would have batted had it not been for the partnership of 119 runs, which wasn't looking anywhere near the series of wickets for New Zealand.

Another hitherto undefeated New Zealand side in the tournament. Seven years later Shoaib Akhtar bowled at lightning pace, Shaheen hit a perfect spell of 3/11 to revive unwelcome memories. The restricted footwork and Colin de Grandhomme, which were so good in the 2015 World Cup, were seen in New Zealand's bad start, caused by some abrupt turn from Ferguson and the left-arm leggie. The left-arm leggie kept the brakes on in the early overs of a World Cup.

Pakistan went on to demolish England in the first four matches of the tournament and will have some momentum going into their next game against Bangladesh, who are good with Pakistan on seven games.

We sort of try and dig ourselves out of holes, when you have one loss, you change that. This defeat to Pakistan will not change that. We've put together a performance and every time he misses out, it feels like he's just close to doing something special. That's how I continue to think about him. If you take his batting to the World Cup, he's such a good player and has finally had a chance to bat against Pakistan.
