Don’t make it prestige issue: Vardhan

“Don’t make it prestige issue, please. The security of the statue for the visiting Prime Minister is an important issue and we need to ensure that no untoward incident takes place while visiting the mausoleum. Singh, however, has spoken a lot on the issue and I think it will be helpful in tiding over the impasse,” said Vardhan.

Min favours law to check violence against doctors

The wake of protests by the Knitted Association in support of striking doctors in Kolkata, the 'Narmad' doctors have also issued a statement.

It is a matter of concern that in West Bengal, even after the recent incident, the government has not been able to take any action against the perpetrators of the crime.

VMCH’s security personnel will be beefed up, “Singh said.

We demand for a Central law to take the army on through our land from the British era which is not in the interest of the state. Even before the internet, there were many incidents of violence against doctors in the country,” said the medical association.

needed, a healing touch

While the politicization of the Bengal junior doctors' strike is regrettable, we must address their legitimate concerns.

By the politics, I mean a tactical issue of the Bengal junior doctors, who are standing up for a cause that is close to their heart. They are acting on behalf of their patients, who are in need of medical attention.

But that is a side issue. The Bengal junior doctors' strike is not the only one. Other junior doctors in other parts of the country are also striking for the same reasons. They are demanding better working conditions, higher salaries, and respect from the government.

There are reports of violence and vandalism at some hospitals in Kolkata. This is unacceptable. The government must take steps to ensure the safety of the striking doctors.

The strike has been called off in some places, but in others, it is still ongoing. The government must engage in dialogue with the doctors to find a solution.

The Bengal junior doctors' strike is a symptom of a larger problem. The government must address the root causes of the issue to prevent similar incidents in the future.

Bengal is a state where the government is not always responsive to the needs of the people. The striking doctors are showing that they are not afraid to stand up for their rights.

The government must listen to the doctors and act accordingly. They must not only end the strike, but also address the underlying issues.

This is a call to action for all of us. We must support the doctors in their fight for better working conditions. We must also demand that the government take responsibility for the health of the people.

In conclusion, the Bengal junior doctors' strike is a wake-up call for the government. They must act now to ensure the safety and wellbeing of the doctors and the patients they serve.
Khan Market, the new Lutynes Yog

Will Khan Market respond to the voices asking for real change? Or will it be replaced by another popular name that is more of the same?

RAJEEV VARMA

A generation ago, Khan Market started as a haven for the city’s intelligentsia. It was a place where the cream of India’s intellectual and social elite gathered. But in the last decade, Khan Market has seen a significant transformation. It has become a place dominated by high-end retail stores, fast-food chains, and premium lifestyle brands. The place that was once a hub of intellectual discourse and cultural currents has now become a mere reflection of the city’s cosmopolitanism.

In this changing landscape, the question arises: Will Khan Market respond to the voices asking for real change? Or will it be replaced by another popular name that is more of the same?

THE FEMALE WARRIOR

Will the Indian government embrace the women's rights movement and promote gender equality?

The Indian government has been slow to respond to the women's rights movement. While some progress has been made, there is still a long way to go. Women continue to face discrimination and inequality in many areas of life, including education, employment, and politics.

Despite these challenges, the women's rights movement in India is gaining momentum. There are many organizations and activists working to promote gender equality and women's rights. The government needs to take more active steps to support these efforts and ensure that women have equal opportunities in all fields.

COLLUSION OF GOVERNMENT AND POLITICAL PARTIES

The Indian government is accused of colluding with political parties to suppress women's rights movements and limit their influence.

There is evidence of government and political party collusions to suppress women's rights movements and limit their influence. This is a worrying trend and needs to be addressed urgently.

To make universal healthcare accessible for all, a single-window system will be vital. The government needs to implement measures to ensure that all women have access to healthcare and medical care when they need it.

Moreover, it makes no attempt to address the systemic exclusions that still exist in the rural areas, where women suffer from critical drawbacks in both physical and mental health. The government needs to focus more on rural health care and provide adequate resources to support these efforts.

The government's policies on health care and education have been criticized for their inadequacy. Many women, especially those from marginalized communities, do not have access to quality education and healthcare. This needs to be addressed immediately.

In conclusion, it is clear that the government must take more active steps to address the issues facing women in India. The country needs an urgent and comprehensive strategy to promote gender equality and women's empowerment.

I really have to pause myself to think about the current status of single fathers in India. It was potentially a dark and inescapable reality before, but not anymore.

At least, the ones who are still here are not exactly sad...how are we, single fathers, who've been fighting the good fight and holding down a steady job for years...now, we're the new breed, the new wave, the new generation.

In the last two decades, the social scene of India has been changing drastically. And so have we, the single fathers, who are on a mission to carve our own identity.

It's not just about being a single parent, but it's about finding a balance between our personal lives and our professional lives. It's about being a good provider, a good friend, and a good father.

As a solo mother, my father was a single parent, and I've always found it incredibly inspiring. He was a strong and determined man, and I've always admired his strength.

Growing up, I've had to take care of everything, from my studies to my chores. It's been a challenge, but it's also been a learning experience. I've learned how to be independent, responsible, and resilient.

A two-washed out game, Sri Lanka's defeat to Bangladesh on Tuesday meant winning the captaincy of the tournament. Australia captain Meg Lanning had said the team was under pressure, but the two sides had set a mark in the World Cup finals here on Sunday.

Australia had not played a match at the World Cup since June 4, forestalling points with Bangladesh and Pakistan following two washed out games. The island nations won the tournament back in 1996, but they last won the World Cup on the same day Australia posted 50 runs in the last two matches.

The opener isn’t yet looked his devastating bow but the 107 off 111 by journalist in an otherwise professional performance so far in the tournament. The five-time wicket-takers have scored four runs. This was the first time Australia posted 20 runs in the last two matches.

Plan that backfired

R ULES of the tournament: South Africa and Afghanistan will be exactly looking to tick the victory box when they take on each other in a World Cup encounter here on Saturday. Down and out, the two bottom-placed teams know that this will be their last chance to post their first win in the ongoing 15-over dinger.

It is perhaps the first time that South Africa, from the very beginning, in a World Cup tournament, has to look for a win in a must-win situation. No wonder, as the Proteas, who managed to chase down 297 runs against Australia, needed 298 to win the World Cup, and they managed to do that at the Wanderers with an over to spare. It is same thing for the Afghan team, who managed to chase down 292 runs against India, and now they need to get the ton runs to secure a win.

Kevin Pietersen was the Proteas batsman who scored 106 against India, but the Ashes specialist did not have a good showing against the Afghans. And while Hashmatullah Shahidi, the Afghan captain, has scored 100 against Australia, he needs to do something big against the Proteas.

MEN WHAT MATTER

RASHID KHAN (AFGHANISTAN)

The whirlwind, the leg-spinner, will be on the prowl for wickets against an unbeaten batting line-up. He needs to do exactly that on a pitch that is offering good assistance to the spinners.

FAND D U P L E S S I S (SOUTH AFRICA)

The skipper carries the dual responsibility of motivating the struggling batting line-up and making big runs. In fact, he will do the latter as well as the former. His stand with the tail ensured that they have had a good showing in the last match against Afghanistan.

SURVIVAL of the fittest

South Africa, Afghanistan face-off in search of first win to keep hopes alive

Extraordinary catches... (laughs)...

Just keep on crossed about it...

I am not saying he was wrong or felt I have to. Can I play match-winning bowling over the years, Kapil?

Rashid Khan, the Afghan leg-spinner, has never been known to back off. He is exactly the sort of player who will take on the world's best. He is the no.1 player in the world, it shows Bumrah is the number one fast bowler in the world, it shows Kapil here. Kapil here.

The India-Pakistan match will be a battle of the best. It was very important catch was that of Hashim Amla, Rassie van der Dussen, Quinton de Kock (wk), South Africa:

Kapil: When you don't have experience?... (laughs)...

You just try to alter your preparation, you hit square. So if bowlers do bowl like that, you don't actually take a little bit of their confidence away because they just don't short them perfectly. And then there can be sure normally any off spinner. So, there is a fact that he is a bit of amerchant. He is a bit of a smart merchant. And from a spinning point of view, you are making the guys play square. But you are not tricking them all the time.

The spin doesn't assist too much. Hopefully the spin doesn't assist too much.
