

OPINION 8
FARMERS BACK IN THE FOLD

WORLD 12
WORLD CONGRATULATES NARENDRA MODI

SPORT 15
MARY BEATS NIKHAT
IN INDIAN OPEN SEMIS

Published From DELHI LUCKNOW BHOPAL BHUBANESWAR
RANCHI RAIPUR CHANDIGARH
DEHRADUN HYDERABAD VIJAYWADA

*Late City Vol. 13 Issue 139
*Air Surcharge Extra if Applicable

DEHRADUN, FRIDAY MAY 24, 2019; PAGES 16 ₹2

the pioneer

www.dailypioneer.com

SRK BEGINS SHOOT FOR
TED TALKS 2
13 VIVA CITY

INDIA INCREDIBLY MODI-FIED

Anti-BJP forces bite dust, fail to stop BJP juggernaut

NAVIN UPADHYAY ■ NEW DELHI

Modi hai to mumkin hai. The evocative tagline of the BJP campaign aptly reflects the party's massive victory in the Lok Sabha polls. The brand 'Modi' has outshone every competitor, be it regional satraps or Congress president Rahul Gandhi, who found few takers for his "chowkidar chor hai" jibe at the PM.

The result shows the BJP has emerged as a pan-India force as the saffron party made big inroad into the strongly protected fortresses of Mamata Banerjee's West Bengal and Navin Patnaik's Odisha. Except Kerala and Tamil Nadu, the footprint of the BJP is clearly visible all over the country.

The result emphatically negated pre-poll calculations that the coming together of anti-BJP forces in several States could stop Modi's juggernaut there. While the Uttar Pradesh mahagathbandhan of Samajwadi Party and BSP did pull down the BJP a bit, but in Bihar, Jharkhand, Karnataka and Maharashtra, no one could withstand the force of the all-pervasive Modi wave.

The outcome is particularly worrisome for West Bengal

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, who had emerged as the most vocal critic of the Prime Minister during the poll campaign. All the seven phases of the polls were marred by violence, and both the PM and BJP chief Amit Shah had warned that those engaged in bloodletting will pay for it after the elections. Now, that the BJP stands neck and neck with the TMC in terms of tally and its voting percentage has increased phenomenally, the party is expected to make a big push to grab power in the State in next Assembly polls.

The West Bengal result shows that, like in every other part of India, there has been a significant consolidation of Hindu voters in the State with 27 per cent Muslim population.

The BJP's strategy to centre its campaign around Hindutva paid off rich dividends. The BJP victory is all the more significant because the party crossed halfway mark of 50 per cent seats in 17 States such as Gujarat, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Haryana, UP, Rajasthan, Arunachal Pradesh among others.

The Congress will have a lot to think after its pathetic show. Rahul Gandhi may have won from Wayanad with a record margin, but his humiliating defeat at the hands of Smriti Irani in the family pocket borough of Amethi is the cruelest blow the BJP has inflicted on the Congress chief.

The results show that in direct contest with the BJP, the Congress has no chance to survive. The two parties were locked in direct contest on 184 seats, of which 174 went to the BJP.

There is no denying the fact that Hindutva and nationalism were the two most prominent agenda for the BJP. No surprise Sadhvi Pragya Singh Thakur was able to vanquish veteran Digvijaya Singh despite calling Nathuram Godse a nationalist. Giriraj Singh's massive victory over Kanhaiya Kumar is also reflection of the success of the party's Hindutva agenda.

The BJP victory is undoubtedly fuelled by the support of all sections and caste, but it is believed that even a significant section of the Muslim voted for the saffron outfit.

Senior BJP leader Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi put this number to 30 per cent.

Continued on Page 4

BJP workers welcome Prime Minister Narendra Modi as he arrives at the party headquarters to celebrate the party's victory in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections in New Delhi on Thursday

It is victory of people, avows Prime Minister

DEEPAK K UPRETI ■ NEW DELHI

Stating that the landslide repeat mandate has surprised the whole world and put forward a "new narrative" for India for waging a decisive battle against poverty, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday promised that he would go all-out to live up to the "big trust" reposed on him by the people. The PM said he would carry all political parties along to make the country prosperous and strong.

Modi, who walked into the BJP headquarters in the evening along with party chief Amit Shah to a tumultuous welcome with thousands of workers chanting "Modi-Modi", "Bharat Mata ki Jai" and "Vande Mataram", said the ultimate victor in the elections are people of India who "fought the polls".

He said political pundits will have to re-visit their tools to analyse the repeat "prachand bahumat" (massive mandate) saying "this is new India".

Taking a dig at political parties deriving their sustenance from the "tag of secularism", Modi said they were silenced by the big political victory of BJP in 2014. "2014 tak us jamat ne bolna band kar diya", he said saying they were "de-masked".

Vowing that he would go beyond caste-based considerations, the Prime Minister said, "Caste-based political parties received a big shock this election", adding, "with the spirit which prevailed during freedom movement we can remove poverty during 2019 to 24".

Detailing his welfare schemes which fulfilled aspirations of youth, farmers, labourers and middle-class, Modi said his Government would fast-track its war against poverty next five-year. Taking a dig at Left parties and their alleged commitment to the welfare of workers, he said the BJP Government provided pension to 40 crore labourers in the unorganised sector.

Even as Shah in his address to workers directly attacked dynasty, caste and politics of appeasement and the setback they got in the poll results, the Prime Minister said he would let go of what happened during polls and run the Government with the consensus of all.

"Governments are formed by majority but run by consensus of all", he said adding "we have to look ahead" and taken even our political rivals with us for making India a prosperous and strong country.

I congratulate Narendra Modiji and BJP for their electoral victory. People of India have decided that Narendra Modi will be the PM again and I fully respect that. I take 100 per cent responsibility for this defeat — Rahul Gandhi

Congratulations to the winners. But all losers are not losers. We have to do a complete review and then we will share our views with you all. Let the counting process be completed fully and the VVPATs matched — Mamata Banerjee

This victory is a win of pure nationalism over the parties supporting ideology of tukde tukde gang — Amit Shah

I don't want to blame the EVMs now since the result is out. Once the verdict is out, it has to be accepted gracefully and I am accepting it gracefully — Sharad Pawar

Southern comfort for red-faced Rahul

DEEPAK KUMAR JHA ■ NEW DELHI

After its success in the three Assembly elections last year, the Congress once again performed miserably against the BJP at the national level. The party president Rahul Gandhi faced the mortification of a humiliating defeat at the hands of Smriti Irani in the family bastion of Amethi.

The party scored a duck in 18 States and saw nine of its former Chief Ministers biting the dust. For the second time, the grand old party did not get enough number to bag leader of Opposition post in the Lok Sabha.

While Rahul lost from Amethi, there were no takers for sister Priyanka Gandhi in UP. The party lost all the seats where Priyanka campaigned or conducted road-shows.

The only face saviour for Congress was Kerala (15) and Punjab (8) which helped the party reach a tally 51 (till 8pm) seats which is merely seven more from the tally of 2014

General elections.

The States where the Congress could not even open its account include Rajasthan, Gujarat, Delhi, Haryana, Uttarakhand, Odisha, Jammu Kashmir and Himachal Pradesh. Apart from these, the Congress also has no presence in Andaman and Nicobar, Dadra and Nagar Haveli, Daman and Diu, Lakshadweep, Manipur, Mizoram, Sikkim and Tripura.

The UPA which has Congress as its main constituents could not even touch three digit figure with its major alliance partners like NCP, JD(S) and others showing a dismal performance.

Senior Congress leaders who lost included Lok Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge from Kalaburgi in Karnataka, former Delhi CM Shiela Dikshit from North East Delhi, former Madhya Pradesh CM Digvijay Singh from Bhopal, former Maharashtra Chief Ministers Ashok Chavan from Nanded.

Continued on Page 4

OVERALL 542/543

NDA	UPA	OTHERS
348	81	97

Following a clear lead on over 300 Lok Sabha seats, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday addressing BJP party workers at the BJP Headquarters said, "Even a single political party could not mislead the country by wearing a mask of secularism." He emphasised how the Opposition could not make inflation or corruption an election issue

BJP storms Mamata's citadel

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Left and Congress were blown off, TMC lost much of its roof in the Saffron Fani as 2019 election results on Thursday saw BJP seriously denting Mamata Banerjee's stronghold.

In an extraordinarily polarised atmosphere, the Lok Sabha poll results found BJP making massive inroads into TMC "green fort" of Bengal apparently getting a huge chunk of Left Front votes to swing its way.

BJP	Congress	TMC
18	2	22

The Congress which won four seats in 2014 was leading in only two seats with former PCC president and sitting MP Adhir Chowdhury clinching the Behrampore seat and AH Khan Chowdhury leading from the Malda South seat. Making a record of sorts the Left Front not only transferred 23 per cent votes to the saffron outfit but also for the first time since 1955 drew a blank sending no MP from the erstwhile Red citadel.

Percentage-wise the TMC polled about 43 per cent votes while the BJP got about 41 per cent votes wresting almost 23 per cent votes from the Left which got just about 8 per cent.

Continued on Page 4

Jagan shatters Naidu's dream, sweeps Andhra

L VENKAT RAM REDDY ■ HYDERABAD

The YSR Congress Party wiped out the ruling TDP from Andhra Pradesh with a landslide victory in Assembly as well as Lok Sabha elections on Thursday.

This is almost like repetition of 1983 election results. In 1983, the TDP had won 201 seats out of 294 in the Assembly and secured 46.3 per cent vote share. Then Opposition Indian National Congress had won 60 seats, with 33.58 per cent vote share.

In that way, Jagan has rewritten the history by securing 145 plus seats, out of 175 Assembly segments. In his own words, this is unprecedented in the history of erstwhile Andhra Pradesh. The TDP was confined to just 24 seats.

Actor-turned-politician Pawan Kalyan's Jana Sena suffered humiliating defeat as Pawan himself lost both the seats he contested from Gajuwaka and Bhimavaram Assembly seats. Jana Sena won just one seat.

The YSRCP chief Jagan Mohan Reddy will take oath as new CM of Andhra Pradesh on May 30 in Vijayawada.

SP-BSP-RLD alliance fails to 'caste' its spell

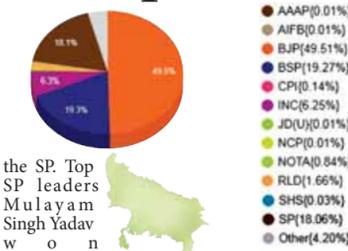

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

The BJP trounced the caste-based alliance of SP-BSP-RLD in Uttar Pradesh, and along with its ally Apna Dal (Sonelal), bagged two-thirds of 80 Lok Sabha seats with Prime Minister Narendra Modi winning Varanasi constituency by more than 4.5 lakh votes.

Although the SP-BSP-RLD alliance did not perform as expected, the BSP turned out to be the major gainer with 10 seats, while the SP could manage only 5 seats, less than 2 it won in 2014. However, the BSP had drawn a blank in the last Lok Sabha elections.

The Congress was in for its biggest setback as party chief Rahul Gandhi lost to BJP's Smriti Irani by over 50,000 votes. However, Congress bagged sole seat Rae Bareilly of UPA chairperson Sonia Gandhi.

It was mixed fortune for the Yadav clan of the SP. Top SP leaders Mulayam Singh Yadav won 95,000 margin, and Akhilesh Yadav won by 2.5 lakh votes in Azamgarh. But his cousins and sitting MPs Dharmendra Yadav and Akshay Yadav lost Budaun and Firozabad seats. While trailing for long, RLD chief Ajit Singh's son and party vice-president Jayant Chaudhary lost in Baghpat.

Saffron wave sweeps through U'khand, BJP bags all five seats

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

The saffron surge in almost all parts of the country that has catapulted the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) led NDA to power for second consecutive term at Centre assumed the form of a strong wave in Uttarakhand where from all five Parliamentary constituencies the BJP candidates secured landslide victories.

Like they did in the Parliamentary elections of 2014, the voters of Uttarakhand voted overwhelmingly in the favour of the BJP candidates as barring Ramesh Pokhriyal 'Nishank' all of them secured more than 60 per cent votes. The victory margin of the BJP candidates in the all five seats was much more than that of the elections in 2014.

Due to a defect in QR scanning machines causing delay in counting of postal ballots, the results for two of the constituencies had not been officially declared till the time of this report filed.

The results of Haridwar, Nainital-Udhm Singh Nagar and Garhwal constituencies were declared while the results of the remaining two constituencies were in progress.

After lagging behind Ambrish Kumar of Congress in the first round, BJP candidate and former chief minister Ramesh Pokhriyal 'Nishank' maintained a steady lead from the second round.

He defeated the Congress candidate by a margin of 258729 votes. Nishank too increased the margin of his victory from this seat.

In the elections of 2014, Nishank had won from here by a margin of 177822 votes. In the most keenly watched constituency of Nainital-Udhm Singh Nagar, BJP state president, Ajay Bhatt routed Harish Rawat of Congress as he won by a record margin of 339096 votes. In Garhwal Lok Sabha, Tirath Singh Rawat of BJP defeated Manish Khanduri of Congress by a margin of 302669 votes. In 2014, father of Manish Khanduri, Major General (Retd) B C Khanduri had won from this seat by a margin of 184526 votes as BJP candidate.

In Almora, the union minister of state for textiles, Ajay Tamta trounced his Congress rival and Rajya Sabha MP, Pradeep Tamta by a margin of 232986 votes.

Ajay Tamta kept his winning streak over Pradeep Tamta intact as in the elections of 2014 he had won by a margin of 95690 votes. In Tehri Garhwal Lok Sabha seat, Mala Rajya Laxmi Shah romped home in style as she defeated PCC president Pritam Singh by a margin of 3,00586 votes. She too increased the margin of victory when compared from 2014 when she had won by a margin of 192503 votes.

Snippets

The PM aspirants or the probable kingmakers could not save their own turfs — from Chandrababu Naidu to Mamata to Sharad Pawar to Mayawati to Akhilesh — they all shared a common fate

Out of the total 13 seats in Punjab, Cong romped home to impressive victory on eight seats, surprising both the SAD-BJP combine and the AAP and improving its tally from three in 2014

How the families fared: Gandhi family's Rahul lost while mother Sonia won in UP, Hooda father-son duo lose in Haryana, Yadav clan's Mulayam and Akhilesh win, Ajit Singh, Jayant Chaudhary had mixed results, Maneka, Varun win in UP

Motormouths and controversial leaders from the BJP like Anant Kumar Hegde (Uttar Kannada), Nalin Kateel (Dakshin Kannada), Sadhvi Pragya Thakur (Bhopal), Sakshi Maharaj (Unnao), Giriraj Singh

Post defeat, Opposition questions role of ECI

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

On the clear win of Bharatiya Janata Party in Lok Sabha elections 2019, the smaller Opposition parties in Uttarakhand including Samajwadi Party, Bahujan Samaj Party and Uttarakhand Kranti Dal have accepted the verdict of voters.

However, senior leader of Samajwadi Party in Uttarakhand, SN Sachan questioned the response of the Election Commission of India (ECI) to the objections that were raised by opposition parties throughout the elections. Sachan said, "Samajwadi Party accepts the decision of voters but we are still doubtful of Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs). In the ballot system earlier a voter used to be sure about the vote that he had cast, but when we cast our votes through these machines one can never be sure." He added, "Question marks on ECI are not a healthy sign for the democratic well being of our country.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi campaigned and interacted with voters for BJP as PM of the country and not as a candidate, which of course gave advantage to BJP in these elections.

It is for ECI to object, but they remained quiet on the subject. ECI should be an independent entity and should not be influenced by any political party. The parliamentary campaign in our country is slowly turning into one like the presidential campaign in USA. BJP sought vote for Modi and not for their candidates."

BSP State president Kuldeep Balyan said, "The way members of BJP hacked EVMs, the result was already pre-planned. Earlier too they kept repeating that they will win more than 300 seats. In 2014, we agree that there was Modi wave, but this time circumstances were different. In fact in Haridwar, there was so much opposition to BJP candidate Ramesh Pokhriyal Nishank. We believe that democracy in India is under attack." Media co-ordinator of UKD, Sunil Dhyani said, "The fact that we have become a marginalised party in our own state is because of the incapability of our own leaders.

Had former state presidents such as Diwakar Bhatt, Narayan Singh Jantwal, Kashi Singh Airy, Trivendra Panwar and BD Raturi participated in the elections as candidates, things would've turned out to be different. Our senior leaders are the biggest reason behind our poor performance. Diwakar Bhatt rather than focusing on our candidate readily gave support to independent candidate Gopalmani Maharaj."

Ramdev places faith in Modi for next 10 years

PNS ■ HARIDWAR

Reiterating his support for Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Yoga guru Swami Ramdev has said that the victory of BJP is on account of Modi's intention, policies, strong character and leadership along with the faith of 125 crore Indians who believe that he will take the country to new heights.

Modi had delivered in the past five years and given a vision to the country for 2030, said Ramdev while adding that the Modi era has begun now.

Reacting to the election results, Ramdev said, "Under Modi's leadership, we will be able to communicate with the superpowers like Russia, Japan, America and Britain at equal level instead of being submissive.

Modi ji had a vision for that and he the Congress, he said that the oppo-has executed the same." Ramdev further said that Modi had vision which he executed and the people of India placed faith in his visionary approach.

He said attempts were made to divide the people with casteism, dynastic politics, dividing OBC, Muslims, Dalit, and farmers which the people of India have rejected in the elections.

Lauding the management of BJP national president Amit Shah, Ramdev said, "Amit Shah used to say that wishes to see the BJP as an invincible party and he has made the party so for the next 10-15 years." Targetting tion shall have to do Anulom Vilom Pranayam, recite Bhagvad Gita and Indian politics has to return on basic agendas of Gau, Ganga and Gayatri.

He said those Indians who used to abuse Vande Matram song and were critical of "Bharat Mata ki Jai" will have to take a lesson from Modi's win.

Regarding the agenda before the country, Ramdev said, on issues like Ram Mandir, ban on cow slaughter, clean Ganga, economic and social justice, agriculture, health issues, black money, corruption, some national issues like Section 370, uniform civil code and pride in Indian culture, Modi will talk on these issues and achieve a positive result on these.

The foundations of the development of India were laid in past five years with some progress also being achieved. The second term for Modi will be for ensuring fulfillment of the same, he added.

BJP win elicits mixed response from first time voters

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

As Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) won all the five seats in Uttarakhand, the first time voters in Dehradun expressed mixed reactions to the victory.

Youths stated that the opposition blaming defeat on Electronic Voting Machines (EVM) is useless and unnecessary.

However, some voters opined that a fair re-checking should be done. Ravinder Singh Rawat said, "The BJP won in Uttarakhand because of the great work done by the party. Our Prime Minister Narendra Modi has placed India as a powerful country in front of the world in the last five years.

majority of people especially in Uttarakhand which is why they won.

other leader more capable than Narendra Modi who has constantly been enhancing his own and the nation's worth nationally and globally.

tion blaming the credibility of EVM is right.

"THERE SHOULD BE A FAIR CHECKING OF MACHINES." SHYAMAL BAHUGUNA SAID, "BJP WINNING IN ALL FIVE SEATS FROM UTTARAKHAND WAS SURPRISING"

Also, I believe that the opposition parties blaming EVMs for their loss is futile. I voted and saw the slip of my candidate which I believe was genuine to prove that my vote was given to the candidate I selected.

Another first time voter Srishti Chajjer said, "The BJP's victory was expected. I am not a supporter but I feel the party has a stronger impact on the

There could be some substance in the allegations regarding EVMs leveled by the opposition so a fair check should be done by the officials in charge."

Bani Thapa said, "I think the BJP's victory is not that of a party but of an ideology of unity which was supported by the voters of the state. I also feel that there is no

There should be a fair checking of the machines." Shyamal Bahuguna said, "BJP winning in all the five seats from Uttarakhand was surprising.

From five constituency seats, at least two had good candidates from Congress. The allegations leveled by the opposition parties I feel are not very valid."

charges for the Char Dham. The fixed charges proposal was however not accepted by two out of nine companies while the other seven companies have started operating flights on the Kedarnath route.

On the request of Rudrapur district magistrate Mangesh Ghildiyal, UCADA has allowed Pinnacle Aviation and Krystal Aviation to operate for the time being.

It is also worth mentioning here that this year too, UCADA has received complaints regarding anomalies in the ticketing of helicopter services.

Acting on the complaints, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of UCADA, Dilip Jawalkar has issued notice to all seven companies for handing over the list of online ticket booking that their respective portals are showing till June 13.

Chopper service re-tender to be finalised today

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

For filling the final two slots of helicopter services for Kedarnath, the re-tender procedure was completed on Thursday.

According to official sources from Uttarakhand Civil Aviation Authority (UCADA), four companies had applied.

The names of the companies which have been finalised will be declared on Friday. After that the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) will conduct an inspection of the helicopters and the helipads.

It is pertinent to mention here that taking cognisance of the complaints of over-charging for helicopter services during Char Dham Yatra last year, Uttarakhand government determined fix minimal charges for the Char Dham. The fixed charges proposal was however not accepted by two out of nine companies while the other seven companies have started operating flights on the Kedarnath route.

On the request of Rudrapur district magistrate Mangesh Ghildiyal, UCADA has allowed Pinnacle Aviation and Krystal Aviation to operate for the time being.

It is also worth mentioning here that this year too, UCADA has received complaints regarding anomalies in the ticketing of helicopter services.

Acting on the complaints, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of UCADA, Dilip Jawalkar has issued notice to all seven companies for handing over the list of online ticket booking that their respective portals are showing till June 13.

Haridwar residents laud BJP victory

PNS ■ HARIDWAR

A wave of cheer gripped various segments of Haridwar city residents after trends of the Lok Sabha elections started coming after five rounds of counting with BJP candidate from Haridwar Ramesh Pokhriyal Nishank leading over his opponent from Congress, Ambrish Kumar.

Free Lassi offer and Halwa announcements were doing rounds on social media while some serious political observers were busy making their posts on Facebook and Twitter giving their own analysis of the BJP's victory and Congress' defeat.

By 2 pm when Nishank was leading by over 1.40 lakh votes over his rival Congress candidate Ambrish Kumar, long time Congress supporter PS Chauhan said, "The charisma of Modi continues.

BJP's victory is based on its own standing while there was hopeless projection of Congress. The reasons behind Modi's spectacular win could be many but according to me the major reason was Hindu nationalism. Also, the Congress had no alternative to Modi." Expressing his views, the president of SIIDCUL Industrial Association, Arun Saraswat said, "A strong opposition is necessary in a healthy democracy which the Congress has failed to be. It is failing to act as a responsible opposition. Congress still does not want to accept the verdict and continues to defend its misinformation narratives.

They need to do introspection." Some citizens opined that the bigger the win, the bigger is the responsibility. Modi's supporters must digest this win with grace instead of indulging in rowdiness on the roads in the name of celebration.

Women voters in Doon express joy at BJP win

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

Reacting to the victory of Bharatiya Janta Party (BJP) in the parliamentary elections a majority of women voters here opined that the second term of Prime Minister Narendra Modi will ensure the growth and development of women. Vaishali Pandey said, "The BJP's victory is the outcome of the majority viewing Narendra Modi as a capable Prime Minister to represent them. His win defies all the allegations leveled by the opposition against the party.

I am happy as the BJP government started many schemes for the development of women in the last five years. It is also obvious that the various steps by the PM will ensure more development in future." Another woman voter Bimla Devi opined, "I voted for BJP and am happy to see the results. Congress was never an option for me.

They did nothing in their tenure which is why the voter chose the right option." Bharti Rawat said, "Narendra Modi has promoted women empowerment.

From issuing ration cards to women security the various schemes of the government boosted women development which was not that visible during the term of the Congress-led government. The BJP government has always supported women's growth which is why the party won all the seats."

Lawyers watch vote counting trends on television at the Dehradun bar association hall on Thursday Pioneer photo

BJP supporters celebrate the party's victory with crackers, drum and slogans on a road in Dehradun Pioneer photo

25% RTE: Challenges for private schools

PNS ■ HARIDWAR

Right to Education Act requires private schools to set aside 25 per cent free seats for students from economically weaker sections (EWS) which is a good initiative feel all educationists. But with it comes with certain challenges which the private schools and students face.

All private schools have to admit 25 per cent children from weaker sections and underprivileged groups within two kilometers of the school in class I or the lowest class in school, says the RTE. About the initiative undertaken, Swami Sharad Puri, the founder of Shivdale School said, "Government has created good opportunity for children from weaker sections. Education is birthright of every child but unless it becomes a collective responsibility, the aim gets diluted and far fetched. There should be equal distribution of students in all schools but many times education authorities send hordes of applications to us unaided schools, which is simply impossible to handle."

Govind Jaiswal, district education officer, secondary education, reasons that 25 per cent quota is of the strength of the school in the lowest class. "If the applications received for the school are more as is usually the case, we draw lots and send forth to private schools under categories of 2E and 2D. 2E is for economically weaker sections and 2D for scheduled caste, scheduled tribes and others.

When asked about it, Delhi Public School, Ranipur, principal KC Pandey said, "Since 2012 we have admitted 120 poor students under RTE Act. Last year there were nine student applications which we had received and eight of them were accepted. Only one application was rejected of a student who was from Bhimgoda area which is about five kilometres from our school while the rule says that the school has to admit the student living in vicinity of one or two kilometers only."

Speaking on the challenges which the schools face while admitting students from poor background, Pandey added that initially when they come to school, most of them are used to speaking rough language.

एसजेवीएन लिमिटेड
(भारत सरकार एवं हिमाचल प्रदेश सरकार का संयुक्त उपक्रम)
SJVN Limited
(A Joint Venture of Govt. of India & Govt. of H.P.)
A MINI RATNA & Schedule 'A' PSU
CIN-L40101HP1988 GOI 008409

NATHPA JHAKRI HYDRO POWER STATION CORRIGENDUM-III

The last date of uploading, downloading and opening of e-tender No. PCD- 2535 for the work "Protection of exposed portion of Silt Flushing Tunnel (SFT) cut & cover by providing GI Wire crates between RD 18.00 mtr. to RD 327.00 mtr. at NJHP's Natpha" is hereby extended as under:-

Last Date & Time of Downloading of Document : 28.05.2019 upto 12:00 hrs. (IST)

Last Date & Time of Uploading of duly filled Bids : 29.05.2019 upto 13:00 hrs. (IST)

Date and Time of Opening of Bids : on 29.05.2019 at 14:00 hrs. (IST)

All other terms and conditions shall remain unchanged. DGM (P&C)

NJHPs, SJVN Ltd., Jhakri - 172201

SAVE ENERGY FOR BENEFIT OF SELF & NATION

CM thanks PM, public for resounding win

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

Congratulating the victorious candidates and party workers, Chief Minister Trivendra Singh Rawat credited Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the people of India for the resounding victory achieved by BJP candidates. Speaking on the party's victory, Rawat thanked the people of India and extolled the hard work and sacrifices of BJP workers. This was the first time when pro-incumbency instead of anti-incumbency was discussed in the Lok Sabha election. "Development won and casteism was defeated in the polls. Nationalism won in the election which is a victory for new India. In the past five years, the Modi government worked effectively for the welfare of the poor, farmers and women while also making efforts to further strengthen the armed forces. The people have stamped their approval on the work done by the Modi government. This is a victory for all those who have benefitted from the developmental and welfare schemes of the government," he said. For the victory achieved by BJP candidates with record margins on all five constituencies in Uttarakhand, the chief minister expressed gratitude to the people. He said that the people had changed the past trend by according resounding majority to the ruling party. He said that this victory was also a result of the strong faith the people of Uttarakhand had in the Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He said,

CM TS Rawat greets the crowd at BJP State office in Dehradun. Pioneer photo

"People of Uttarakhand have given a befitting reply to those who were questioning the valour of our armed forces. The people have given their approval to Modi's love for Uttarakhand, his devotion to Shiva and his thoughts for nurturing Uttarakhand. Modi will aptly respond to this mandate by ensuring all-round development of Uttarakhand," said Rawat. Speaking at a function held to celebrate the victory at the BJP State office, the chief minister said that the Congress has resorted to excessive verbal abuse. However, the people of Uttarakhand showed that they do not accept such verbal abuse. He pointed out that corruption by the government or inflation were not issues in the election because the government had acted effectively on these issues. He also paid homage to the party workers killed in West Bengal and Kerala. He also assured the public that the State Government will continue to work in a transparent manner with zero-tolerance for corruption. "We didn't bow down so far and will not bow down even in the future in front of any blackmailer or agent of corruption," he stressed. Former MP and ex CM Bhagat Singh Koshyari, Tehri MP Mala Rajya Laxmi Shah and others also expressed their views on the occasion.

Cong credits BJP's win to nationalism

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

While the Bharatiya Janata Party thanked the public along with Prime Minister Narendra Modi for the party's resounding victory, the Congress party opined that people of the state had voted mainly on the issue of nationalism. BJP State president Ajay Bhatt, who also won from the Nainital-Udham Singh Nagar constituency thanked the public, PM Modi and the BJP national president Amit Shah for the win. He said that the party workers had made an incomparable contribution to the party's victory. On the other hand, accepting defeat gracefully, the Pradesh Congress Committee (PCC) president, Pritam Singh said the people of Uttarakhand voted on the issue of nationalism. He said that the Congress party would review the reasons for the debacle in these elections. He however added that the congress workers and leaders fought the elections valiantly but the people voted for the BJP. Singh said that Congress accepts the verdict of the people and the party would carry the role of opposition with perfection.

Contrasting tale of two offices

Victorious candidate from Tehri Mala Rajya Laxmi Shah and others celebrate at the BJP State office. Pioneer photo

The Congress Bhawan wears a deserted look as leaders and most workers stayed away. Pioneer photo

As the initial trends on start of counting started giving indication of BJP's victory, the party offices of BJP and Congress presented pictures which were markedly different party workers raised slogans in favour of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The workers also smeared gular on each other while congratulating each other. In the afternoon the chief minister Trivendra Singh Rawat dejection. "We need to introspect on the failure. Our party should accept that the BJP fought the election systematically and in a planned manner. Their machinery was much more efficient than ours and they outwitted us in every field," said a senior party worker.

from one another. As most of the exit polls had given a clear majority to the BJP, the party workers sensing their victory had gathered at the state party office located on Balbir Road in large numbers in the morning. In anticipation of the victory, the BJP had made elaborate arrangements at the state party office. A big TV screen was installed at the office for the workers. As the TV news channels started airing lead of BJP in the elections more party workers, leaders and sympathisers started gathering at the office. At around 11.45 am when, the party candidates in all the five seats of Uttarakhand got substantial lead over their rivals an impromptu celebration started in the office. On the beats of drums, enthusiastic BJP workers started dancing. Among the leaders, Rajpur road MLA, Khajan Das was first to arrive in the office, he was closely followed by the minister of state for higher education, Dhan Singh Rawat. On arrival of these leaders, the accompanied by cabinet Minister Madan Kaushik, candidate from Tehri Lok Sabha, Mala Rajya Laxmi Shah, former chief minister Bhagat Singh Koshyari and Mayor of Municipal Corporation of Dehradun (MCD), Sunil Uniyal Gama arrived in the office to join the celebration. On their arrival the party workers burst crackers and distributed sweets. While BJP office was bustling with activity and celebration, Rajiv Bhawan, the state party office on busy Rajpur road wore a deserted look. A lock was placed on the door of the office of the Pradesh Congress Committee (PCC) chief Pritam Singh. Other Congress leaders who are regularly seen in the office were also conspicuous by their absence. Some party workers though were sitting in the office with a look of

SHRI GURU RAM RAI UNIVERSITY (SGRRU)
 Pathri Bagh/Patel Nagar, Dehradun, Uttarakhand
(Established under Shri Guru Ram Rai University Act No. 03 of 2017)

Quest for Excellence

The University is sponsored by "Shri Guru Ram Rai Education Mission", which was established in 1952, with the sole objective of providing "Quality Education and Healthcare" to the masses.

ADMISSIONS OPEN FOR 2019-20

Reduced fees
₹ 50,000 to ₹ 2,41,000
in various courses

Giving you Ladder of Success

School of Medical & Health Sciences

College of Nursing

School of Paramedical Sciences

School of Management & Commerce Studies

School of Humanities & Social Sciences

School of Education

School of Computer Application & Information Technology

School of Pharmaceutical Sciences

School of Basic & Applied Sciences

School of Agricultural Sciences

Doctorate (Ph.D.) - All Streams

All courses and combinations are running in the above Schools and College.

NUMBERS SPEAK

1,80,000+ Alumni of the Mission	5,500+ Number of Students Studying
650+ Faculty Members	100+ Number of Laboratories
123+ Number of Courses / Specialization	80+ Acres of University Campus
25+ Number of Specialization Imparting Ph.D	67+ Years of Educational Experience

For admissions please contact: Log on to www.sgrru.ac.in for online registrations
Mobile: (0)7248889111/222, 7900210707

The BJP workers were seen celebrating the landslide victory of the party while the Congress headquarters was seen deserted as the latter failed to touch the magic numbers

COME TO KEDARNATH!
CLICK PHOTOGRAPHS AND WIN PRIZES!!
Participate in Online Photography Competition

First Prize
₹ 51,000/-

Second Prize
₹ 21,000/-

Third Prize
₹ 11,000/-

Uttarakhand Tourism Development Board
 Pt. Deendayal Upadhyaya Paryatan Bhawan Near ONGC Helipad,
 Garhi Cantt., Dehradun-248001 (India) Ph. # +91 135 2559898/ 2559987
www.uttarakhandtourism.gov.in, www.gmvnl.in, www.kmvn.gov.in

Details of this competition can be accessed from various social media platforms of Uttarakhand Tourism

Counting peacefully held in Uttarakhand

Failure of the QR scanning machines resulted in delay in counting of postal ballots

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

Counting of votes in all 13 centres in the state went off peacefully on Thursday with Election Commission (EC) making foolproof arrangements for the counting. On the day, the officials involved in the counting of votes faced problems due to failure of the QR scanning machines which resulted in delay in counting of postal ballots.

In Dehradun, the counting of votes was done at Maharana Pratap Sports College. The counting of votes was done at the level of assembly segments.

In Dehradun counting centre, the EVMs of seven assembly segments falling under in Tehri parliamentary constituency and three constituencies (Doiwala, Dharampur and Rishikesh) was done. The sealed control units of the EVMs stored in the strong rooms were brought by the polling personnel to the counting centres. The EC had placed 14 tables in each assembly segment.

At every table three personnel were stationed, one who opened the control unit and pressed the result button while another personnel noted down the result displayed even as the third one, the observer overruled the entire process.

Meanwhile failure of the QR scanners caused anxiety to the polling personnel. These scanners were to scan the QR code of the service voters. The Chief Electoral Officer (CEO), Sowjanya said that after the failure of QR scans, the service voters were manually matched with the QR code.

For counting of 477517 votes in all five Lok Sabha constituencies, the EC had made arrangements in 13 counting centres where counting was held on 862 tables.

To prevent any untoward incident, the commission had deployed nine companies of Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) and 35 companies of state armed police. In addition 14000 personnel of Uttarakhand police was also stationed around the counting centres.

After the counting of the EVMs, the five Voter Verifiable Paper Audit Trail (VVPATs) from every assembly segment were randomly picked. The voter slips of these machines were verified with the electronic data fed in the machine before the agents of the candidates.

Winds, light rain & thunderstorm likely at isolated places today

PNS ■ DEHRADUN

The State Meteorological Centre has issued a yellow warning of strong gusty winds likely to prevail at isolated places in plains of the state on Friday.

Light to moderate rainfall and thunderstorm are likely to occur at a few places especially in the mountainous regions of the state.

In the provisional state capital Dehradun, the meteorological centre has forecast the possibility of rain and thunderstorm in some areas.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are expected to be about 37 degree Celsius and 21 degree Celsius respectively.

Meanwhile the maximum and minimum temperatures recorded at various places of the state on Thursday were 37.7 degree Celsius and 22.2 degree Celsius respectively in Dehradun, 40.1 degree Celsius and 21 degree Celsius in Pantnagar, 25.4 degree Celsius and 13.7 degree

The maximum and minimum temperatures are expected to be about 37 degree Celsius and 21 degree Celsius respectively

Celsius in Mukteshwar and 28.2 degree Celsius and 17.2 degree Celsius respectively in New Tehri.

BJP sweeps all four Himachal seats again

PNS ■ SHIMLA

Riding on a Modi wave, the Ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) in Himachal Pradesh retained all the four Lok Sabha seats in the state as its candidates won by a huge margins on Thursday.

Hamirpur sitting MP Anurag Thakur, Kangra candidate Kishan Kapoor, Shimla candidate Suresh Kashyap and Mandi sitting MP Ram Swaroop Sharma won their seats by defeating their nearest Congress rivals.

The main contest was between the Congress and the BJP.

Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur thanked all the voters for the landslide victory of the party. He told reporters here that the victory confirms that people have expressed faith and confidence in the programmes and policies of his government.

For former chief of the national cricket bodies Anurag Thakur this was the fourth consecutive victory. He won by over 3.81 lakh votes against Congress legislator Ram Lal Thakur.

From Kangra, the largest Lok Sabha constituency in the state in terms of voters, the BJP had fielded Cabinet Minister Kishan Kapoor, 68, after dropping veteran leader Shanta Kumar, against two-time Congress legislator Pawan Kajal. Kapoor defeated Kajal by a margin of more than 4.47 lakh votes. In the Shimla (reserved) seat, it was an ex-serviceman versus an ex-serviceman. Colonel Dhani Ram Shandil (retired), who was the Congress candidate, lost by over 3.23 lakh votes to BJP nominee and former Indian Air Force (IAF) officer Suresh Kashyap.

Punjab remains one of the last bastions of Cong

MONIKA MALIK ■ CHANDIGARH

The tsunami that swept the nation failed to wash the Congress off the political shores as Captain held on to his ship in Punjab, doubling the party's tally by bagging eight of the 13 parliamentary seats.

But the Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) peak performance in other parts of the country failed to help its allies, the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD). The state's regional party was left high and dry in Punjab despite the "wave" as only the Badal couple managed to flow into the Parliament.

For the saffron party, it was performance as usual with the victory on two out of the three seats it contested in the State.

Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), the surprise performer in 2014 elections, was relegated to one-man show in the Lok Sabha with its state unit president Bhagwant Mann emerging the solitary winner, while remaining 12 candidates even failed to secure their deposits.

A fourth front, a conglomeration of six political parties or splinter groups under the banner of Punjab Democratic Alliance (PDA), failed to make a mark despite having big names, including two sitting MPs and three legislators, in its list.

However, with the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP), which contested on three seats as a part of the PDA, securing a considerable number of votes, indications of its resurgence in Punjab is in sight, with even Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh pointing at the same.

Unlike 2014 elections when AAP stunned the traditional political players, polls this time did not throw any surprises as the expected emerged as winners.

The SAD's power couple secured a massive win in their bastions — party chief Sukhbir Badal from Ferozepur and Harsimrat Badal securing hat-trick from Bathinda. Likewise, Chief Minister's wife Preneet Kaur too wrest the citadel from the cardiologist-cum-social worker Dr Dharamvir Gandhi in Patiala, who was pushed to the distant third.

Besides, Congress' sitting MPs — Ravneet Singh Bittu from Ludhiana, Santokh Singh Chaudhary from Jalandhar, and Gurjeet Singh Aujla from Amritsar — had comfortable victories, except party's state president and Gurdaspur MP Sunil Jakhar who faced defeat from a political greenhorn and Bollywood action hero Sunny Deol.

REFERENDUM TO TWO-YEAR-OLD CONG GOVT

Carrying forward the momentum it gained in 2017 state polls, the Congress party managed to emerge as a winner with seven percent jump in its share as compared to the previous general elections — from 33 percent in 2014 to 40 in 2019 — giving a stamp of approval to the state government's performance in these two years, besides a further boost to Capt Amarinder's leadership.

In fact, the Congress' gained from where AAP lost. AAP, which bagged four seats with 24.5 percent vote share in 2014, has been consigned to just one seat with its vote share falling down to just 7.37 percent. At the same time, the vote share of the SAD and the BJP was almost similar to what it was in 2014 — indicating clearly that Congress managed to fill in the vacuum AAP has created in these five years.

In addition, the Congress kept the issue of sacrilege and related firing incidents alive to use people's anger against the SAD with the party winning on the panthic seats of Khadoor Sahib and Sri Anandpur Sahib, and also in Faridkot — which has been the epicentre of 2015 sacrilege incidents.

Even as the Congress performed badly across the country, Punjab was a saving grace with the party relegating the BJP-SAD combine to just four seats, despite the Modi wave.

BADALS' WIN, SAD LOSES

Badals and Akali Dal have always been considered synonymous. But, the victory of its power couple did not pull the party out of the doldrums. The duo won, but the remaining eight candidates failed to taste the success.

Despite a marginal increase in its vote share, from 26.4 percent in 2014 to 27.49 percent in 2019, SAD's tally has come down to just two, that too at a time when the nation was swept by Modi tsunami.

The mood in the SAD-BJP camp was that of celebrations after the announcements of results.

But insiders agree that the results are sure to leave the senior party leaders thinking about a factor which they have all along been relegating to the trashcan of their thoughts — prevailing anger amongst the people on sacrilege issue.

SAD-BJP combine had believed that anti-incumbency against the Congress in the State and Modi factor across the nation is so strong that it, in no way, let the sacrilege and related firing issue come in its way towards victory. But, the results have proved it the other way.

Both Sukhbir and Harsimrat managed a win in their bastions. While political analysts are attributing Harismrat's hat-trick to considerably weak opponents coupled with a rumoured "political understanding", Sukhbir's victory is accredited to Ferozepur being a "safe" seat.

Nearly wiped out in 2017 elections, SAD's strategy to lay its bet on the winning and trusted horses has failed to give desired results.

Except the Badal couple, all senior leaders including Parminder Singh Dhindsa, Prof Prem Singh Chandumajra, Bibi Jagir Kaur, Gulzar Singh Ranike, Charanjit Singh Atwal, and Surjit Singh Rakhra, were made to bite dust.

Southern comfort...

From Page 1

The list also includes Sushil Kumar Shinde from Solapur, former Uttarakhand Chief Minister Harish Rawat from Nainital, former Meghalaya CM Mukul Sangma from Tura, former Haryana CM Bhupinder Hooda from Sonapat and Verrappa Moly from Chikballur in Karnataka.

The Congress poor show has once again exposed the structural weaknesses in the party organisation on the ground. The real cause of concern for the Congress is the reverses in Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Madhya Pradesh where it had defeated the BJP in the Assembly elections just six months ago.

Even Karnataka, where the Congress is in alliance with the JD(S), has been a big disappointment. Congress failed to convince the voters about its promise of Nyay (Nyuntam Aay Yojana) through which the party promised a minimum income guarantee scheme of Rs 72,000 a year to the country's 20 per cent or five crore poorest of the poor families.

Similarly, Rahul's campaign focussing on alleged irregularities in the Rafale deal and his "Chowkidar chor hai" slogan directed at Prime Minister Narendra Modi failed to impress upon the voters mind as compared to BJP's campaign narrative of nationalism, national security and decisive action against terrorism.

At a Press Conference, Rahul said he did not want to discuss the possible reasons of the defeat because "the people of India have already decided". "I frankly do not want to get into what might have gone wrong. The people of India have already decided and that's it. I want to congratulate Modi and the BJP," said Rahul. The future course of action and introspection will be done at the Congress Working Committee meeting sooner, he said.

"To the sympathisers of Congress I just want to say 'don't lose heart and hope'. This is a fight of differing ideologies and we will continue the fight." Party General Secretary Priyanka Gandhi too said the party fully respects the decision of the people and congratulated Modi and the BJP for their victory in Lok Sabha polls. Rahul's announcement to contest from Kerala's Wayanad district in addition to his Amethi stronghold had surprised many and raised important questions about the strategy.

Naveen again darling of Odisha voters

- BJD wins emphatic majority in State Assembly
- BJP's '120+' brag turns laughable
- Split vote for Modi pushes number of BJP LS seats

SP NANDA ■ BHUBANESWAR

Naveen Patnaik has been chosen by Odisha's voters as the State's Chief Minister for a record fifth tenure in a row. He is expected to be sworn in to the post in a few days.

Patnaik's Biju Janata Dal (BJD), defying any anti-incumbency factor at the end of its Government's fourth term and a belated Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) surge, was leading in 115 Assembly seats out of the 146, for which elections were held in four phases ending on April 29.

In the 2014 polls, the BJD had a tally of 117 out of the total 147.

However, the Modi wave across the country had a significant effect in the State as the BJP was leading in eight Lok Sabha seats against only one it had won in 2014, and a limited impact on the Assembly polls, in which the saffron party was in the lead in 20 seats against 10 it had got last time.

For the first time, Odisha witnessed a split voting, "one for Naveen for the State and one for Modi for the Centre".

BJP national president Amit Shah's bravado of "120+"

Assembly seats fell flat as the voters seemed to bring the BJD back to power again in appreciation of Naveen Patnaik's pro-people welfare policies and programmes.

Prime Minister Modi's assertion on the last day of his campaigning in the State that Patnaik's time is up as Chief Minister has also been scoffed at by the voters.

Besides, the BJP had not named a Chief Minister candidate.

Though Union Minister Dharmendra Pradhan was the party's informal Chief Ministerial face, he was evidently taken as no comparison to the giant figure of Naveen Patnaik, who this time won from the two seats he had contested.

Pradhan did not contest in the elections, which was not generally appreciated.

As for the Congress, it was decimated to leading in a mere nine Assembly seats against its winning figure of 16.

In the Lok Sabha polls, the party, like in 2014, may come out a cropper.

BJP storms Mamata's citadel

From Page 1

The Congress polled 5 per cent votes shedding 5 per cent to BJP and TMC.

Among the notable winners were BJP State president Dilip Ghosh who defeated senior TMC leader Manas Bhunia, Union Minister Babul Supriyo who won the Asansol seat trouncing cine star Moon Moon Sen by more than 1.75 lakh votes. Supriyo had won this seat in 2014 by about 70,000 votes. Sen a sitting TMC MP had been shifted by Mamata Banerjee from Bankura to take on the Bollywood singer-turned BJP MP from Asansol.

A three-time North Malda MP Mausam Benazir Noor who switched sides from the Congress to the TMC ahead of the elections was trounced by BJP Khagen candidate Khagen Murmu a former CPI(M) MLA.

Another big loser from the TMC was State Minister Subroto Mukherjee who lost to BJP's Subhas Sarkar from Bankura. Senior TMC leader and former Railway Minister Dinesh Trivedi also lost from Barrackpore seat to Arjun Singh, a former TMC MLA and strongman who joined the BJP a month before the polls.

From Hooghly seat BJP candidate Locket Chatterjee defeated two-time TMC MP Ratna Dey Nag while from neighbouring Serampore seat TMC's Kalyan Banerjee defeated his nearest BJP rival.

Senior TMC leader and Mamata Banerjee's nephew Abhishek Banerjee won the Diamond Harbour seat by a massive margin of more than 3 lakh votes. Both the seats from Kolkata however went to the TMC as veteran party MP Sudip Banerjee defeated BJP heavyweight and national secretary Rahul Sinha.

Among the known faces from the CPI(M) losing the battle were outgoing Raiganj MP Md Salim and former Kolkata Mayor Bikash Ranjan Bhattacharya who lost to TMC's Mimi Chakrabarty, a Bengali cine star from Jadavpur seat. The BJP left quite an impression in the Assembly by-elections to winning four out of eight seats that went to polls. The TMC won three seats while the Congress managed to win only one seat. The CPI(M) drew a blank here too.

Even as a pall of gloom descended near the TMC supremo's Kalighat residence with no leader coming out to address the press, Mamata Banerjee came out with a brief tweet "congratulating" the "winners" and asserting that her party would assess the reason of the debacle saying this was a setback and not a defeat.

Offering the "excellent performance to the people, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and our workers" Dilip Ghosh said "this victory is the result of Modiji's good works," adding the victory also "shows the amount of disgust and desperation against TMC's goonda raj that they had perpetrated in Bengal for the past several years. They would not only allow the people to vote but also they would throw hundreds of our workers in jail on false charges."

INDIA INCREDIBLY MODI-FIED

From Page 1

The overall result shows that Modi's personal charisma has once again shattered traditional caste barriers and caught the imagination of the young generation, impressing upon them that their future lies with a powerful India that is both a strong economic and military power — something that could only be achieved by leaving the baggage of narrow caste politics behind.

The BJP capitalised on the horribly mismatch of JD(S)-Congress alliance in Karnataka, rode on Modi wave in Gujarat and regained lost ground in Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan to leave the Congress licking its wound in the four crucial States where Rahul Gandhi and his managers had pinned great hope to take their tally into three digits.

Similarly, the BJP and its ally Janata Dal(U) trounced Bihar Opposition alliance into smithereens clearly showing that the powerful wave of Hindutva had also converged with massive mobilisation of anti-Yadav OBC votes in their favour.

If the consolidation of the anti-Yadav OBC vote in favour of the BJP was the story of the cowbelt, then the success of the BJP in wooing the Dalits to its fold was near pan-India story. The preliminary analysis of the voting pattern even in UP suggests that non-Jatav Dalit went majorly with the BJP.

The poll outcome also shows that despite their grievances with the BJP over demonetisation and ill-implementation of the GST both the middle class and trader community continued to side with the BJP, which expanded its support base by effectively implementing the slogans of "catch them young".

Initial data showed that majority of the first time voters across caste divide preferred Modi over the rest. Modi's war cry against Pakistan and "ghar me ghus kar marenge" type slogans endeared him into younger generation that saw him a real hero that would settle score with a villain (Pakistan) that has been hurting them for years.

The result leaves the Congress literally into doghouse and raises serious question mark over the leadership of Rahul Gandhi. The fact that the Congress has not even got enough number of seats to claim the position of Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha is something that Rahul cannot brush aside.

The party may go into a huddle or introspect on what went wrong, but its faces serious existential dilemma now. Knowing the way Amit Shah functions, it is anybody's guess how long the Congress Government in Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka will survive. Rahul is going to face flak over going alone in Uttar Pradesh where the party only helped the BJP by cutting into the SP-BSP votes. There is belated realisation in the party that instead of focusing on UP where the Congress had nothing to gain, Rahul and Priyanka should have tried to focus their energy on Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Karnataka where the Congress could have done far better.

The poll outcome also shows that the country is changing and changing very fast. A change that wants to see India emerge as a 'muscular' power that also caters to the needs of its poor. If the BJP exploited the Balakot strike by displaying the muscular strength of the Modi Government, it also went to town counting the pro-poor schemes like Ujjwala, housing for poor, Jandhan Yojna, Ayushman and Mudra schemes, etc.

The fact that Rahul's "chowkidar chor hai" attack on the PM failed miserably shows that the Modi has been able to convince the nation that he led a regime which is far different from the corruption-ridden regime of the past.

Before Modi's glittering package of a 'muscular', pro-poor, pro-development and honest pro-Hindutva regime, the Opposition looked like hawking the same stale goodies of social justice and secularism. In changing India, voters clearly preferred the former.

NORTHERN RAILWAY TENDER NOTICE

No. 74-W/23/WA/Publication DATED: 22.05.2019

SRDEN/CMB acting for and on behalf of The President of India invites E-Tenders against following tenders closing date 02.07.2019 16:00. Bidders will be able to submit their original/revised bids upto closing date and time only. Manual offers are not allowed against this tender, and any such manual offer received shall be ignored. Contractors are allowed to make payments against this tender towards tender document cost and earnest money only through online payment modes available on IREPS portal like net banking, debit card, credit card etc. Manual payments through Demand draft, Banker's cheque, Deposit receipts, FDR etc. are not allowed.

Tender No. Date	28-DRM-MB-19-20 Date : 20.05.2019	29-DRM-MB-19-20 Date : 20.05.2019	30-DRM-MB-19-20 Date : 20.05.2019
Name of work	Replacement of old corrugated chequered surface on level activities for plate with new MZM, KNT-LRJ and girder bridges under ADEN/NBD.	Replacement of road works in the section of ADEN/NBD.	Miscellaneous works in the section of Sr.DEN-I/MB
Tender Closing Date	02.07.2019	02.07.2019	02.07.2019
Advertised Value (Rs.)	6236560.24	6587475.88	4920933.96
Earnest Money (Rs.)	124700.00	131800.00	98400.00
Tender Doc. Cost (Rs.)	5000.00	5000.00	3000.00
Bidding Start Date	18.06.2019	18.06.2019	18.06.2019
Validity of Offer (Days)	45 Days	45 Days	45 Days
Period of Completion	3 Months	6 Months	3 Months

SERVING CUSTOMERS WITH A SMILE

Modi, Naveen congratulate each other

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

With the trends indicating a landslide victory for the BJD, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday congratulated BJD president Naveen Patnaik for the impressive performance.

Modi took to Twitter to wish Patnaik and wrote, "Congratulations to Naveenbabu for yet another victory in Odisha. Wishing him the very best for the next term."

Later, Patnaik thanked Modi for his wishes. He took to Twitter and congratulated the BJP for the massive victory in the Lok Sabha elections. Patnaik wrote, "Thank you PM Narendra Modi for your wishes on BJD's spectacular performance in Odisha elections. Congratulate the NDA and the BJP for the huge victory in the Lok Sabha elections. Looking forward to working together for the people of Odisha"

Later in the evening Patnaik also spoke to Modi over telephone and congratulated him. The PM also congratulated Patnaik.

POLL VICTORIES

ASPIRING KINGMAKERS' BASTIONS BREACHED

RAHUL DATTA ■ NEW DELHI

Mamata Banerjee: The most vocal and combative, TMC chief and West Bengal Chief Minister nursed Prime Ministerial ambitions; launched a blistering campaign against Narendra Modi and was averse to backing Congress president Rahul Gandhi as the UPA's PM candidate. Given her complete supremacy in the state, even pundits were skeptical about the BJP's chances. However, the saffron brigade stunned everyone by storming her citadel. Having failed to stop the BJP from making strong inroads in a big way into her bastion, she will have to rethink her strategy to defend her turf in the 2021 Assembly polls.

N Chandrababu Naidu: Ahead of the results, Andhra Pradesh chief minister and TDP chief Naidu was the most active in trying to forge an Opposition alliance in case the NDA did not get past the post. Besides Mamata, he had been the most critical of Modi. He must be ruing his decision to quit the NDA. Despite his political acumen, he could not decipher the public mood with Jaganmohan Reddy's YSR Congress Party sweeping the polls in the state. TDP has been almost wiped out from the Lok Sabha too dealing a massive blow to his political clout. Naidu's problems could compound in the coming days if Jagan join hands with the NDA.

Akhilesh Yadav: Having taken over the mantle of SP from his father and veteran politician Mulayam Singh Yadav, Akhilesh's plans to play a major role at the centre - even burying the over-two-decades-old hatchet with BSP supreme Mayawati in the process - have come to a naught with the party faring badly in its stronghold Uttar Pradesh. Though the young leader never openly aired his political ambitions, he was eyeing a kingmaker's role. He vigorously campaigned for the 'Mahagathbandhan' to put up a united front against the BJP. Facing a drubbing for the second consecutive time in the Lok Sabha polls, the SP will have to reinvent itself to remain relevant in fast changing political dynamics.

Mayawati: The BSP supreme and former chief minister of UP had made no bones about her Prime Ministerial ambitions and hence, did not even allow Congress to join the 'Mahagathbandhan' to ensure she had a larger share of seats to fight in UP. She also gave no-holds-barred speeches against Modi during the campaign but the frontal attack failed to spin magic in her favour. Her caste combinations failed to trump Modi's charisma. Along with the SP, the BSP also fared badly. The stunning reversal brushing aside caste and other related factors will make it all the more necessary for Mayawati to present a new image for her party to survive in the most politically-crucial State.

K Chandrashekar Rao: Having swept the Telangana state assembly polls last year, the TRS chief and chief minister was nursing ambitions to project himself at the national stage. He met several leaders including DMK chief M K Stalin and TMC chief Mamata Banerjee. However, as Rao was busy with his efforts to forge a federal front, the BJP breached his fortress to make a debut from the State in the Lok Sabha. Even the Congress managed to make inroads in the State. Though Rao played the most important role in the creation of Telangana, the voters, however, preferred to vote for Modi at the national level.

HD Deve Gowda: The former Prime Minister and JD(S) chief has a lot on his plate now after his party which in coalition with the Congress is running Karnataka with his son H D Kumaraswamy as the chief minister could not withstand the Modi wave. Deve Gowda was considered to be one of the king makers in case of fractured mandate due to his seniority and stature. Trailing in the electoral battle till last trends came in, Deve Gowda like other aspirants Akhilesh, Mayawati and Pawar is now on a very weak wicket to play a role at the state and national level. Coming days will see the JD(S) chief definitely taking stock where his electoral strategy failed even as the BJP's win could impact the survival of his son's government too in the State.

Sharad Pawar: The Maratha strongman and NCP chief, rated to be one of the most astute and shrewd politicians of the country, was a PM candidate even as he sought to play the mentor's role in bringing together the opposition camp to face the BJP. But the Modi juggernaut, with the Shiv Sena, simply brushed aside any challenge posed by the NCP along with the Congress. Pawar's clout nationally has taken a severe beating. The NCP has already blamed the Congress for not performing upto expectations.

BJP's young guns sail through Dynasts get mixed results

DEEPAK KUMAR JHA ■ NEW DELHI

Congress' young turks failed to deliver, while those from the BJP rode on the Modi wave to register win in the high-voltage Lok Sabha polls.

Sitting Congress MPs — Jyotiraditya Scindia, Sushmita Dev and former Union Minister Jitin Prasada, Milind Deora, who all are in the close circle of party chief Rahul Gandhi, lost badly. They had been the most vocal inside and outside the Parliament on every issue.

On the other hand, sitting BJP MPs Anurag Thakur, Poonam Mahajan, Dushyant Singh and first timer Tejaswi Surya registered win from their respective Parliamentary constituencies.

Amongst the losers, the biggest one is Jyotiraditya Scindia, who was seeking his fifth term from his family bastion Guna Lok Sabha seat. He lost to BJP's Krishna Pal Singh. Prior to Jyotiraditya, his father Madhavrao Scindia, the erstwhile titular ruler of Gwalior, had won the seat in the 1999 elections. Madhavrao died in 2001 and since then Jyotiraditya Scindia has represented the seat. In 2014, he was among the only two leaders from MP who were able to hold on to his seat.

Another surprise loss was Mahila Congress President Sushmita Dev, who lost to BJP's young gun Rajdeep Roy from the most high-profile Silchar Lok Sabha seat of Assam. Both Rahul and Priyanka Gandhi campaigned for her. Sushmita's father late Santosh Mohan Dev, won Silchar seat five times. Both Jitin Prasada and Milind Deora who's father Jitendra Prasada and Murlid Deora, too lost.

Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot's son Vaibhav lost in Jodhpur to BJP's Gajendra Singh Shekhawat. In Rajasthan's Barmer, Manvendra Singh, son of Jaswant Singh, founding member of BJP lost by over 3.2 lakh votes. Manvendra was contesting on a Congress ticket. Ajit Pawar's son Parth, and Shankarrao Chavan's son Ashok Chavan too lost in Maharashtra to BJP candidates.

On the other hand, Anurag Thakur retained Hamirpur Lok Sabha seat along with her another party colleague Punam Mahajan in North Mumbai. While Thakur is son of former CM of Himachal Pradesh Prem Dhumal, Punam is daughter of late BJP's strategist Pramod Mahajan.

Another big win registered was by Tejaswi Surya, BJP's youngest candidate from Bangalore South, against Congress heavyweight BK Hariprasad.

Former Rajasthan chief minister Vasundhara Raje's son Dushyant Singh too emerged victorious from the Jhalawar-Baran Lok Sabha seat who defeated his Congress rival Pramod Sharma. Sharma, a BJP rebel, had joined the Congress ahead of the Lok Sabha election and contested the polls for the first time. Raje had represented the seat for five terms from 1989 to 2004 after which her son was elected from the seat.

RAKESH K SINGH ■ NEW DELHI

Amid a poll pitch against parivarwad by the BJP, the political dynasts had a mixed fate during the Parliamentary polls. While some political families have managed to secure their bastions, others like Congress president Rahul Gandhi lost their prized seats.

While former UPA chairperson Sonia Gandhi is projected to win in Rae Bareilly, her son Rahul lost out to BJP's Smriti Irani in his so called pocketborough Amethi. Rahul has already conceded defeat against Irani and congratulated her.

However, the Congress president is all set for a comfortable victory in Wayanad constituency of Kerala where he is leading by over 4 lakh votes.

The other mother-son duo from the Gandhi family — Maneka and Varun — who are contesting on BJP tickets from Sultanpur and Pilibhit respectively are heading towards a victory in their respective constituencies. Union Minister Maneka Gandhi who was engaged in a see-saw battle in Sultanpur eventually won defeating BSP's Chandra Bhadra Singh "Sonu".

A deserted view of National Congress headquarters during the day of counting for 2019 Lok Sabha elections in New Delhi on Thursday. PTI

In the Samajwadi Party, patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav led in Mainpuri while Akhilesh looked comfortable to win in Azamgarh.

However, Akhilesh Yadav's wife Dimple Yadav was trailing in Kannauj constituency and that could be bad news for the Yadav clan.

As per the available trends, the Rashtriya Lok Dal (RLD) — a constituent of the BSP-SP led 'mahagathbandhan' is projected for a mixed outcome. While RLD chief Ajit Singh is moving ahead in Muzaffarnagar, his son and party vice-president Jayant Chaudhary is trailing from Baghpat.

In Haryana, former State Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda is trailing in Sonapat. Bhupinder, a sitting MLA from Rohtak district who contested the Lok Sabha polls after a gap of 14 years, was behind sitting MP Ramesh Chander Kaushik.

The performance of Bhupinder Hooda, who had defeated former deputy Prime Minister Devi Lal from the Rohtak LS seat earlier, is a major setback for the Congress.

However, Bhupinder's son Deepender Hooda is engaged in a sea-saw battle in Rohtak, where fortunes are fluctuating between Deepender and his nearest BJP rival Arvind Sharma as the figures are changing with each round of counting.

Down South, former Prime Minister and JD(S) patriarch H D Deve Gowda was trailing in Tumkur against BJP's G S Basavaraj. His grandson and Chief Minister H D Kumaraswamy's son Nikhil was also trailing against independent candidate-Sumalatha Ambareesh, supported by the BJP, in the bitterly fought Mandya constituency.

However, Gowda's other grandson Prajwal Revanna, son of minister H D Revanna, is leading in Hassan against A Manju of the BJP.

9 former Cong CMs bite dust

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

What's common for Sheila Dikshit (Delhi), Bhupinder Singh Hooda (Haryana), Harish Rawat (Uttarakhand), Digvijaya Singh (Madhya Pradesh), Ashok Chavan and Sushil Kumar Shinde (both from Maharashtra), Mukul M Sangma (Meghalaya), Nabam Tuki (Arunachal Pradesh) and Veerappa Moily (Karnataka)? They are all Congress stalwarts and former of Chief Ministers. And they have all bit the dust in the Lok Sabha Election 2019.

Dikshit, who is Congress Delhi Chief and the only party veteran having donned the Chief Ministers' cap thrice from Delhi (from 1998 to 2013), lost to her rival and city BJP chief Manoj Tiwari from North East Delhi seat while Moily (former Karnataka Chief Minister) was defeated by BJP's B N Bache Gowda in Chikkaballapur, a Congress stronghold. Moily, a former Union Minister, was the joint candidate of the ruling Congress-JD(S) coalition. He was first elected from Karkala in Udipi district as an MLA in 1992. He won from there six consecutive times.

Two-time Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister Nabam Tuki lost to Union Minister of State for Home Kiren Rijiju of the BJP. He has been seeking a third term from the State's West Parliamentary constituency. For his part, former Maharashtra Chief Minister and Congress candidate Ashok Chavan lost to Pratap Chikhlikar of BJP in Nanded Lok Sabha seat.

In Uttarakhand, ex-Chief Minister and Congress leader Harish Rawat faced a humiliating loss to BJP's State chief Ajay Bhatt in the Nainital-Udhamsingh Nagar constituency. The BJP swept all the seats in the Hill State.

In Madhya Pradesh's Bhopal, Congress leader Digvijaya Singh suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of BJP newcomer and controversial leader Sadhvi Pragya Singh Thakur, who won the high-profile Bhopal seat. The Malegaon blast accused had earned a public reprimand from none other than Prime Minister Narendra Modi himself for her controversial remarks against Mahtama Gandhi.

Yet another CM to have lost in the hustings is former Union Home Minister and Maharashtra CM Sushilkumar Shinde, who was defeated by Lingayat Swami from Solapur Lok Sabha seat.

In neighbouring Haryana, former Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda, a sitting MLA from Rohtak, was defeated in Sonapat which was retained by sitting BJP MP Ramesh Chander Kaushik.

Another former Congress Chief Minister who found himself in the list of losers was Mukul M. Sangma. A former Chief Minister of Meghalaya, Sangma is the current Leader of Opposition in the State Legislative Assembly. The Congress candidate from Tura lost to National People's Party (NPP) candidate Agatha Sangma, a veteran politician and former Lok Sabha Speaker late PA Sangma's daughter.

Exit polls predict finale right Saffron motormouths pass voters' test

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

They predicted and they stood vindicated! Nine out of nine exit polls on May 19 had predicted an outright victory for the BJP and six of them had projected the party winning more than 300 seats. The pollsters had also projected the UPA's dismal performance in the wake of the rolling BJP juggernaut. And some had forecast that the Opposition alliance will not touch the three-digit mark.

It made the ruling dispensation (BJP and its allies) gung-ho but invited criticism from the Opposition Congress and others who called it were paid for, unreliable, inaccurate and gossip.

While the BJP looks set to cross the 300-mark on its own and the NDA hogging 350 seats, the UPA tally was pegged at 85 seats, as per the trends and results last available.

It was also, perhaps, the first time that the pollsters were unanimous in their projections.

All the exit polls gave the BJP a clear mandate and showed the UPA at a distant second.

The India Today-Axis and News 24-Chanakya exit polls have been bang on target.

Most pollsters also correctly forecast the BJP's performance in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh — where the Opposition Congress recently won the Assembly polls.

Take the case of Rajasthan. Almost all exit polls predicted a clean sweep for the BJP in the Western State, with some exit polls handing them all 25 seats in the State. The News18-IPSOs exit poll said the BJP is set to get 22 to 23 seats in the desert State, while Today's Chanakya exit poll predicted all 25 seats to fall in BJP's kitty. The latter hit the bull's eye.

Ditto is the case of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and BJP chief Amit Shah's home state Gujarat, where BJP, as per the India Today-My Axis India Exit Poll, is set to make a complete sweep in the Gujarat Lok Sabha elections possibly winning all 26 seats.

Axis My India was among those who had successfully predicted not only the winning party but also the range of their mandate.

The Congress-led alliance was projected as gaining in Punjab, Kerala and Tamil Nadu. And it did. Some pollsters gave Congress a tally as low as 38, less than the 44 it won in 2014. The Congress fared a shade better than 44 but turned true the projections that it would not cross the three-figure mark this time round too.

In the politically crucial Uttar Pradesh with 80 Lok Sabha seats, the pollsters has come up with a mixed bag of results indicating the complexities involved at the ground level. If India Today-Axis gave the BJP-led NDA a maximum of 68 seats and News 24-Today's Chanakya said its tally could even cross the 70-seats mark, then ABP-Nielsens gave NDA as less as 22 Lok Sabha seats and the SP-BSP-RLD alliance a high of 56 seats. As things stand, the Axis and Chanakya estimates were the closest.

RAKESH K SINGH ■ NEW DELHI

Motormouths and controversial leaders from the BJP like Anantkumar Hegde (Uttar Kannada), Nalin Kateel (Dakshin Kannada), Sadhvi Pragya Thakur (Bhopal), Sakshi Maharaj (Unnao), and Giriraj Singh (Begusarai) are set to register big wins.

Sadhvi Pragya Thakur was leading against Congress' Digvijaya Singh by over 3.5 lakh votes and was projected to win the constituency by a significant margin. Pragya had hit the headlines in the run up to the polls by claiming that IPS officer Hemant Karkare was killed in the 26/11 attacks due to his karma and that he was a traitor. She had to later apologise for the remarks. She had also stoked a controversy by terming Nathuram Godse, who had killed Mahatma Gandhi, as a nationalist. She had to again tender an apology after the remarks generated a nationwide outrage.

Another BJP leader Anantkumar Hegde, known for making controversial remarks, won the Uttara (North) Kannada seat in Karnataka, defeating his nearest rival Anand Anasotikar of the Janata Dal (Secular) by a massive margin of 4.79 lakh votes, according to the results declared by the EC on Thursday.

Hegde held the portfolio of junior minister in the Skill Development and Entrepreneurship Ministry during Narendra Modi's first term as PM. Hegde had also made headlines for wrong reasons when he had said the Constitution would be changed. He had to later tender an apology in the Parliament.

And amid reports of his controversial remarks on Twitter about Nathuram Godse, Hegde claimed his account was "hacked". But later asserted there was no question of justifying Mahatma Gandhi's killing.

Before that, Hegde had called Congress chief Rahul Gandhi a "hybrid breed", wondering how can the son of a 'Muslim' father and a Christian mother be a Brahmin.

"...They have no sense about religion. See how much they lie, father is a Muslim, mother a Christian, son is Brahmin. How did it come?" You cannot get such hybrid breed in any laboratory in the world, it is available in our country's Congress laboratory only," he had said, attacking Rahul, at an event in Uttara Kannada district.

Nalin Kumar Kateel (Dakshina Kannada), who had backed Pragya Thakur on the Godse issue, also won by 2.74 lakh votes, as per the results announced on Thursday.

For his part, the vocal Sakshi Maharaj won from Unnao with a record margin of four lakh votes. He had recently stoked controversy by stating this would be the last election in the country and there would be none in 2024.

Ahead of the nomination for the Unnao constituency, he had warned the BJP that "results would not be good" if he was not re-nominated from Unnao. The BJP had been contemplating dropping him.

In his election affidavit, Maharaj has listed 34 criminal cases promoting enmity among communities, criminal intimidation, robbery, dacoity, murder, forgery, cheating and criminal breach of trust besides rape.

Union Minister and another firebrand leader Giriraj Singh retained the Begusarai seat trouncing his nearest rival Kanhaiya Kumar of the CPI by a huge margin of over four lakh votes.

Singh, who had moved to Begusarai from Nawada, after initial reluctance, polled 6.88 lakh votes out of a total of 12.17 lakhs polled on the elections held April 29.

WINNERS & LOSERS

RAHUL GANDHI	SMRITI IRANI	AKHILESH YADAV	ANURAG THAKUR	DHARMENDRA YADAV	GIRIRAJ SINGH	GURJIT SINGH AUJLA	JAYANT SINHA	KANIMOZHI	KARTI	HEMA MALINI	MULAYAM YADAV	PRAGYA THAKUR
ATISHI	DIGVIJYA SINGH	DIMPLE YADAV	HARDEEP SINGH PURI	HD DEVE GOWDA	KANHAIYA KUMAR	KRITI AZAD	MEHBOOBA MUFTI	MILIND DEORA	URMILA MATONDKAR	MISA BHARTI	POONAM SINHA
SAMBIT PATRA	SANJAY NIRUPAM	RAVI SHANKAR PRASAD	ASADUDDIN OWAIISI	JYOTIRADITYA SCINDIA	SHATRUGHAN SINHA	SUNNY DEOL	SHIVPAL YADAV	SHEILA DIKSHIT	SUNIL JAKHAR

Most Union Ministers ride Modi wave

Smriti Irani emerges giant killer

Except Union Minister Manoj Sinha, Hardeep Singh Puri and KJ Alphons, a record number of Union Ministers won their seat due to Modi-Amit Shah wave in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. Union Textile Minister Smriti Irani emerged as a giant-killer against Congress president Rahul Gandhi who conceded defeat from Amethi in one of the most keenly watched contests in the country.

The official announcement on most of the seats was awaited as matching of electronic voting machine (EVM) counts with voter verifiable audit trail (VVPAT) slips was in progress.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi retained Varanasi by over 4.79 lakh votes. He increased his victory margin as compared to 2014 by over one lakh votes, trouncing Samajwadi Party's Shalini Yadav.

Giriraj Singh, who was up against Kanhaiya Kumar, former JNU president and CPI(M) candidate, in Begusarai, was leading by 4.22 lakh votes. Radha Mohan Singh fielded from Purvi Champaran was ahead of his rival Aakash Singh by a margin of nearly two lakh votes. In Arrah, RK Singh led against his nearest rival of CPI(M) by a margin of over one lakh votes.

Ravi Shankar Prasad was leading against Congress' Shatrughan Sinha on Patna Sahib seat by nearly 2.83 lakh votes.

Firebrand leader and Union minister Ashwini Kumar Choubey too sailed through against RJD's Jagadanand Singh, leading by around 1.5 lakh votes.

Cabinet Minister KJ Alphons was facing a humiliating defeat in Kerala. He trailed at the third place behind Congress' Hibi Aeden and CPI(M) candidate P Rajeev on Ernakulam seat.

His colleague and Union

The big winners included Rajnath Singh and Nitin Gadkari. The official announcement on most of the seats was awaited as matching of electronic voting machine (EVM) counts with voter verifiable audit trail (VVPAT) slips was in progress

Housing and Urban Affairs minister Hardeep Puri lost in Amritsar by a margin of over 99,000 votes. Another big loss of the BJP was Union minister of state for Railways Manoj Sinha who was down by around 1.15 lakh votes against BSP's Afzal Ansari on Ghazipur seat.

The big winners included Rajnath Singh and Nitin Gadkari. Singh led against Samajwadi Party candidate and Shatrughna Sinha's wife Poonam Sinha in Lucknow by over 3.45 lakh votes.

Gadkari won from Nagpur by a margin of around 1.97 lakh votes. He was up against Congress' Nana Patole. On Chandrapur (Maharashtra) seat Union minister of state for Home Affairs Hansraj Gangaram Ahir had a tough contest on the platter and he was trailing behind Balubhau by over 50,000 votes.

In UP's Baghpat, Satyapal Singh was also engaged in a keen fight with RLD candidate Jayant Chaudhary. Singh was trailing behind with 1068 votes.

Sanjiv Balyan was engaged in an intense contest in Muzaffarpur seat in UP. He was leading over his rival and RLD chief Ajit Singh by thin margin of 3,782 votes.

Maneka Gandhi, who switched to Sultanpur (UP) seat, was leading by a slender margin of 13,859 votes against BSP's Chandra Bhadra Singh.

BJP's biggest winners included VK Singh who led over his rival from SP Suresh Bansal by a margin of five lakh votes in Ghaziabad constituency.

Rajyavardhan Rathor was leading against Olympian Krishna Poonia of Congress by 3.89 lakh votes on Jaipur (Rural) seat. Arjun Ram Meghwal was sailing on Bikaner seat by 2.5 lakh votes. Anant Kumar Hegde (Uttara Kannada) was leading by nearly five lakh votes against JD(S) candidate Anand Asnotikar.

Union minister Mahesh Sharma was leading on Gautam Buddha Nagar (Noida) seat by over two lakh votes, against BSP's Satyapal. In Bareilly, Santosh Gangwar sailed through with around 1.5 lakh votes.

Other ministers of Modi government including Jual Oram (Sundargarh), Sadanand Gowda (North Bengaluru), Shripad Yesso Naik (North Goa) Ram Kripal Yadav, Jitendra Singh (Udhampur), Rao Inderjeet Singh (Gurgaon), Narendra Singh Tomar (Morena), Babul Supriyo (Asansol), Ajay Tanta (Almora) among others, were on the victory march.

BJP workers light firecrackers as they celebrate the party's victory in Srinagar on Thursday

BJP-SENA REPEATS 2014 SHOW

Opp blames Rahul for poll debacle

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

In a virtual repeat of its spectacular performance in the 2014 polls, the BJP-Shiv Sena alliance on Thursday swept the Lok Sabha polls in Maharashtra, by either winning or establishing unassailable leads in 41 out of the total 48 seats in the State, decimating once again the Opposition Congress and limiting the tally of NCP to five.

On a day when senior Congress leaders Sushilkumar Shinde and Ashok Chavan bit electoral dust, the saffron alliance both humiliated the Congress further by reducing its embarrassing 2014 tally of two seats to one seat.

In a surprise outcome, All India Majlis-E-Ittehadul Muslimin (AIMM) legislator and former TV journalist Imtiaz Jaleel was poised to bag Aurangabad by defeating four-time MP Chandrakant Khaire of the Shiv Sena.

The ruling saffron alliance's superlative performance has come as a big boost to the BJP-Shiv Sena combine ahead of the State Assembly polls to be held in October this year. With its stunning performance achieved after bucking the severe anti-incumbency faced by the Devendra Fadnavis government, the ruling BJP-Shiv Sena alliance has dimmed the hopes of the Congress-NCP alliance returning to power in the State.

The BJP-Sena alliance performed well in all the regions in the state. While the saffron alliance won all the six seats (BJP-3 and Sena-3) in Mumbai, walked away with nine seats in western Maharashtra, six seats in north Maharashtra, six seats in Konkan region, eight seats in Marathwada and eight seats in Vidarbha region.

Though it increased the 2014 tally by one seat, the NCP had nothing to gloat about its electoral performance. For, NCP chief Sharad Pawar's daughter and two-time MP Supriya Sule managed to retain the home seat of Baramati, while his grand nephew and former deputy chief minister Ajit Pawar's son Parth Pawar suffered an embarrassing defeat at the hands of Shiv Sena's sitting MP Shrirang Appa Chandu Barne by a margin of 2,15,913 votes.

Incidentally, both the BJP and Shiv Sena retained their 2014's winning tally of 23 and 18 seats respectively. The only difference this time around was that the BJP contested 25 seats in the 2019 polls against 26 seats it had contested in 2014 election, while the Shiv Sena contested 23 seats as against 22 seats it had contested in the previous polls.

Both the BJP and the Shiv Sena have been contesting the Lok Sabha polls as an alliance since 1989. In both the 2014 and 2019 polls, the BJP romped home with its best-ever winning tally of 23 seats as against 18 it had won in 1996, while the Sena improved its previous tally of 15 seats, by winning as many as 18 seats. However, with its winning tally having been reduced to mere one seat, the Congress' stock has hit its nadir in Maharashtra which was long-considered its bastion. The only seat that the Congress won was Chandrapur, where its candidate Balubhai alias Suresh Narayan Dhanorkar trounced Union Minister of State Hansraj Ahir by a margin of 50,288 votes.

The Congress' embarrassing electoral debacle can be gauged from the defeats of its two former chief ministers Ashok Chavan in Nanded and Sushilkumar Shinde fell by way side. While Chavan was trounced by Prataprao Patil Chikhlikar of the BJP, Shinde suffered a defeat hands of Jai Sideshwar Shivchary Mahaswamiji.

The annexing of Chavans' home turf of Nanded is of extreme political significance considering that barring four terms, Nanded was under the control of the Congress since 1952. While late S B Chavan represented the constituency twice (1980 and 1984), Ashok Chavan himself was elected to Lok Sabha once in a bye-election in 1987, following the resignation of his father. Late S B Chavan's son-in-law and Ashokrao's brother-in-law Bhaskarrao Khatgaonkar has represented the constituency thrice (1998, 1999 and 2009).

Chavan, who was incidentally one of the two Congress candidates (out of its 26 candidates) had been elected to Lok Sabha in 2014 polls from Maharashtra in the face of a fierce Modi wave.

The other highlights of the polls were the victories of BJP's Union Minister Nitin Gadkari (Nagpur), state president Raosaheb Danve-Patil (Jalna), late senior party leader Gopinath Munde's daughter and sitting MP Pritam Munde (Beed), late party leader Pramod Mahajan's daughter Poonam Mahajan (Mumbai north-central).

Bollywood actress Urmila Matondkar, who contested the polls as a Congress candidate from Mumbai north constituency, suffered a massive defeat at the hands of BJP's sitting MP Gopal Shetty.

In the initial stages of counting in the morning, Matondkar had created a stir by lodging a complaint with the Election Commission of India alleging 'changed' EVM, here on Thursday.

"On the form of EVM 17C from Magathane, the signatures and the machine numbers are different. A complaint has been filed with the EC," Matondkar had tweeted.

However, later in the evening, Matondkar conceded the defeat through a tweet: "Congratulations to Prime Minister @narendramodiji and his team on a stupendous victory... one that can only be applauded with a mighty vigour".

Modi 3rd PM to retain full majority

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Spearheading the NDA to a thumping victory, Narendra Modi is the third Prime Minister after Jawaharlal Nehru and Indira Gandhi to retain power for a second term with full majority in the Lok Sabha.

As counting is on across the country on Thursday, trends indicate the Modi-led BJP will garner more than 302 seats on its own thereby easily going past the halfway mark of 272 seats in the 17th Lok Sabha elections. In 2014, the BJP had won 282 seats out of the total 543 in Lok Sabha.

Jawaharlal Nehru won around three-fourth of the Lok Sabha seats in the first elections in the country during 1951-52. Subsequently, he was able to win 1957 elections as well as 1962 elections with full majority. Since the elections were taking place for the first time in independent India in 1951, the polling had to be spread over a period of five months from October 1951 to February 1952.

While the Congress dominance was insurmountable in 1951, various other political strands such as Bhartiya Jana Sangh, Kisan Mazdoor Praja Party, Scheduled Caste Federation and Socialist Party had started to take shape by then. The Congress was able to win 364 out of 489 seats during 1951-52 elections. The party polled around 45 per cent of the total votes then.

In 1957, when Nehru was up for re-election, India was going through a difficult phase as the Prime Minister was battling the right wing inside and outside his party after passage of the Hindu Marriage Act in 1955.

The country was facing many language disputes. Consequently, after establishment of States Reorganisation Committee in 1953, many states were formed on the basis of language. The country was also feeling the heat due to food insecurity.

However, among all this, Nehru was able to win a spectacular victory of 371 seats in 1957 elections. The Congress's vote share even increased from 45 per cent in 1951-52 to 47.78 per cent in 1957. In 1962 elections, Nehru won again bagging 361 seats out of total 494 seats in Lok Sabha.

After 20 years of Independence, the Congress's hegemony in the country's politics finally started breaking down in 1967 when it lost six state assembly elections. Out of this six, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal was lost by the Congress for the very first time.

However, in 1967 elections, Nehru's daughter Indira Gandhi was able to get 283 seats out of total 520 seats. This was Indira's first electoral victory in general elections. In 1969, Indira expelled the old guard of the party, which were called as Congress (O). This section of Congress was led by Morarji Desai.

It was during this time that Indira coined the slogan "Garibi hatao", which found a wide emotive appeal among the Indian voters. As a result, she was able to increase her tally to 352 in 1971 elections for her second term.

In between 2010 and 2014, with UPA Government facing multiple allegations of massive corruption scandals, the BJP decided to appoint the then Gujarat Chief Minister Narendra Modi as their Prime Minister candidate for 2014 general elections.

With a promise of development (vikas) across India, Narendra Modi won his first ever general elections with full majority in 2014 with 282 seats.

23 turncoats to retain power! ACCORDING TO EC'S DATA, 13 TURNCOATS ARE LEADING THEIR CONSTITUENCIES WHILE REST OF THEM ARE SET TO LOSE

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As many as 23 turncoat politicians of 76, who had switched over from one party to other ahead of the Lok Sabha polls, are in a position to win their seats as per the trends so far. According to the Election Commission's data, 13 turncoats are leading their constituencies while the rest of them are set to lose.

Actor-politician Shatrughan Sinha, who joined Congress ahead of the Lok Sabha election, lost to rival Union Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad from Patna Sahib constituency in Bihar. In nearby Madhepura, former JD(U) leader Sharad Yadav, who joined RJD before polls, was lagging by over 1.30 lakh votes from Dinesh Chandra Yadav of JD(U).

Tariq Anwar, who switched from Sharad Pawar's Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) to Congress, is also trailing by over 40,000 votes from Katihar. Cricketer-turned-politician Kirti Azad is trailing from Dhanbad by nearly 1.6 lakh votes. He had joined Congress from BJP.

Son of former Union Minister Jaswant Singh, Manvendra, who is contesting on a Congress ticket from Barmer is also trailing by about 3.12 lakh votes.

Meanwhile, Bhojpur actor Ravi Kishan Shukla, who had contested on Congress ticket in the last general elections but joined the BJP ahead of the Lok Sabha polls, is leading by over 2.80 lakh from Gorakhpur constituency.

In Karnataka, three political leaders changed affiliations from Congress to BJP, with two of them leading in vote counts. While Umesh Yadav and Y

Actor-politician Shatrughan Sinha, who joined Congress ahead of the Lok Sabha election, lost to rival Union Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad from Patna Sahib constituency in Bihar

Devendrappa are leading from Gulbarga and Bellary, respectively. BJP candidate from Hassan A Manju is behind by 1.42 lakh votes from Prajwal Revanna, grandson of former Prime Minister HD Devegowda.

Sujay Vikhe Patil, son of senior Congress leader Radhakrishna Vikhe Patil, had switched to BJP from Congress. He is ahead by over 2.30 lakh votes in Ahmednagar constituency of Maharashtra.

Suresh Dhanorkar, who joined Congress leaving Shiv Sena, is ahead of sitting BJP MP Hansraj Gangaram Ahir in the Chandrapur seat from the state.

In Nanded, Pratap Chikhlikar, a turncoat from Shiv Sena to BJP, is leading against state Congress chief Ashok Chavan by about 37,000 votes.

Bajayant Panda who was expelled from the BJD and is contesting from Kendrapara on BJP ticket is lagging behind by 40,000 votes.

Former Union Minister Panabaka Lakshmi who changed sides from Congress to TDP is trailing by 1.5 lakh votes in Tirupati constituency of Lok Sabha seats.

Among other major turncoats, AAP candidate Dharamvira Gandhi from Patiala, Congress candidates Naseemuddin Siddiqui from Bijnore, Savitri Bai Phule from Bahraich and Babu Katarata from Dahod, are also trailing.

In West Bengal's Alipurduar seat in north Bengal, Dasarthi Tirkey the sitting TMC MP from Alipurduar, who was once a sitting RSP MLA, is staring at his defeat. Manas Bhunia, Apurba Sarkar, Kanialal Agarwal, all former Congress MLAs, who contested from Midnapore, Baharampur and Raiganj respectively on TMC tickets are trailing. Paresh Adhikary and Mafuja Khatun, former MLAs of Forward Bloc and CPI(M) who contested on TMC and BJP tickets respectively, are trailing in Coochbehar and Jangipur Lok Sabha seats.

I don't blame EVMs, but accept defeat gracefully, says Pawar

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Accepting the Lok Sabha poll outcome gracefully, NCP chief Sharad Pawar on Thursday chose not to blame the Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) for the party's poor performance in Maharashtra.

Talking to mediapersons after the poll outcome that saw his party win five seats in the State, Pawar said, "Yes, there were doubts about EVMs. There were some suspicions in the minds of people about EVMs. But, I don't want to blame the machines now, since the results are out. Once the verdict is out, we have to accept it gracefully... I am accepting it gracefully."

"We will definitely examine the reasons for our defeat in the polls. We will increase our contact with people in the run-up to State Assembly polls due in October. Verdict is out now... State is reeling under severe drought, we will have to reach assistance to drought-affected people. Whatever drought relief programme we have undertaken will continue," Pawar said.

Pawar's daughter and two-time MP Supriya Sule retained the Baramati seat, while his grand nephew Parth Pawar suffered a humiliating defeat at the hands of Shiv Sena's irang Appa Chandu Barne by a margin of 2,15,913 votes.

Alluding to the Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit to a cave near Uttarakhand's Kedarnath temple for meditation during the last phase of the Lok Sabha polls, Pawar said: "In the last phase of polling, we saw a 'chamatkar' (miracle) of (prime minister Narendra Modi) sitting in a cave. This was something we had never seen before in this country. We did not expect such things. We will have to see how much it benefited (the BJP). We don't want to jump to the conclusion," he said.

Social media erupts with memes!

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Social media was flooded with opinions, debates, jokes, memes especially aimed to the Opposition and the Congress. One of the most noticed developments was Prime Minister Narendra Modi removing Chowkidar from his twitter handle. He had prefixed it to counter Congress president Rahul Gandhi's attack against him saying 'Chowkidar Chor Hai'.

Ever since the vote count commenced, netizens began their day with a video clip showing television journalist Arnab Goswami mistakenly referring to Sunny Deol as Sunny Leone. The clip was shared in such a huge number that it convinced actor Sunny Leone to post, "Leading by How many votes?????" on Twitter with multiple emojis. Soon, the memes on Congress President Rahul Gandhi and other politicians began making the rounds. BJP candidate Smriti Irani's win over Rahul Gandhi in Amethi further stirred the meme broth.

One trending meme showed Rahul Gandhi's face photoshopped on Deepika Padukone's body in the Padmavat poster that read "Sadmavati".

A meme collage showed multiple images of Smriti Irani, saying: "Smriti Irani looking for some competition from Rahul Gandhi".

Citing a famous scene from the film "3 Idiots" a creative meme showed Prime Minister Narendra Modi telling Rahul Gandhi, "Neeche se check kar, neeche se!" A rendition of another scene from the same film, showed a picture of Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan and Army Chief Qamar

GOVERNMENT OF JAMMU AND KASHMIR
OFFICE OF THE EXECUTIVE ENGINEER PWD (R&B) CONST. DIVN. NO. 1, JAMMU

NOTICE INVITING TENDERS
e-NIT No. CD-1/18 of 2019-20 Dated 20-05-2019

Executive Engineer PW (R&B) Const. Divn. No. 1, Jammu on behalf of Governor of J&K State, invite tenders by e-tendering mode from approved and eligible contractors registered with J&K State Govt. upto 1630 Hrs on 07-06-2019 for the following work.

S.No. 1 Name of Work :- Construction of road by way of Providing and laying of WBM Grade-II (Shingling), Wet Mix Macadam, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC Under Languishing Projects (LUP 1870 & 1883) (Part-II) on roads from :-
1/ Sai Khurd to Sardari Camp (Bidhipur Bana) Length = 2.00 Kms.
2/ Kotli Charkan to Bye-pass road Bishnah via Dhinday Khurd (Including links) (Length = 2.00 Kms)

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 148.89
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 6000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 297780
Time Allowed for completion :- 02 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

S.No. 2 Name of Work :- Construction of road by way of Providing and laying of WBM Grade-II (Shingling), Wet Mix Macadam, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC Under Languishing Projects (LUP 1875 & 1876) (Part-II) on roads from :-
1/ Gondla to Shamsan Ghat at village Agwan (Length = 1.75 Kms).
2/ Baspur to Samka (Length = 1.80 Kms)

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 132.36
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 6000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 264720
Time Allowed for completion :- 02 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

S.No. 3 Name of Work :- Construction of road by way of Providing and laying of WBM Grade-II (Shingling), Wet Mix Macadam, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC Under Languishing Projects (LUP 1872 & 1873) (Part-II) on roads from :-
1/ Kalapul Satrayian to Chowala Fattu Chak (Length = 1.15 Kms).
2/ Mana to Shamsan Ghat (Length = 2.10 Kms).

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 130.07
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 6000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 260140
Time Allowed for completion :- 02 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

S.No. 4 Name of Work :- Construction of road by way of Providing and laying of WBM Grade-II (Shingling), Wet Mix Macadam, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC Under Languishing Projects (LUP 1874, 1877 & 1879) (Part-II) on roads from :-
1/ Tali Morh to Darsopur Ganda (Length = 1.50 Kms).
2/ Nari Khaper (Length = 1.10 Km)
3/ Krishna Nagar to Gazian (Murallian) upto Shamsan Ghat (Length = 1.00 Km)

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 121.28
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 6000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 242560
Time Allowed for completion :- 02 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

S.No. 5 Name of Work :- Construction of road from Tando to Chowala Fattu Chak by way of Providing and laying WBM Grade-II (Shingling), WMM, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC (Length = 3.00 Kms) Under Languishing Scheme (LUP 1884) (Part-II)

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 113.48
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 6000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 228960
Time Allowed for completion :- 01 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

S.No. 6 Name of Work :- Construction of link road from Devighar to Jabawal by way of Providing and laying 150mm thick WBM Grade-II (Shingling), WMM, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC (Length = 2.20 Kms) Under Languishing Scheme (LUP 1888) (Part-II)

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 96.65
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 1000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 193300
Time Allowed for completion :- 01 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

S.No. 7 Name of Work :- Construction of road by way of Providing and laying of WBM Grade-II (Shingling), Wet Mix Macadam, 50mm thick BM and 25mm thick SDBC Under Languishing Projects (LUP 1882 & 1886) (Part-II) on roads from :-
1/ Biaspur Parlah to Talad road (Length = 1.40 Kms).
2/ Pindi Sarochan to Garore Nallah (Length = 0.96 Km)

Name of Division :- PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu
Estimated Cost (Rs. in lacs):- 87.50
Cost of document (in Rs.) :- 1000/-
Earnest Money (in Rs.) :- 175000
Time Allowed for completion :- 01 Months
Time & date of opening of tender :- 08-06-2019 At or after (1400 Hrs)
Class of Contractor :- Hot Mix Plant Holder/ "A" Class
Position of Funds :- Sanctioned under JKIDFC (Languishing Project)

1/ Date of Publishing from 21-05-2019
2/ The Bidding documents can be downloaded from the website <http://jktenders.gov.in> from 1000 Hrs on 21-05-2019 to 07-06-2019 (1630 Hrs)

No. DIP/J-665-P/19
Dated:- 22.05.2019

Sd/- (Er. S. A Wani)
Executive Engineer
PWD (R&B) Const. Div. No. 1 Jammu

NAYA BHARAT

As traditional planks, issues and even grassroots politicians get blown away, Modi 2.0 has managed to change the idea of what India wants

This is undoubtedly a Pied Piper election, where Narendra Modi has emerged not just as an emboldened Prime Minister but a thought leader who has the nation's belief system wrapped up in a new cloak of nationalism and in a corporatised world, as a superbrand that has the trust, factory-manufactured or otherwise. Rather, he has overturned existing mindsets and their expression, freed up many boxes that so far held the characteristics of India and laid down a narrative sold on the promise of India reclaiming its place in the sun. Simply because civilisationally it was so once but the will to wake up to that truth was lost in our sub-consciousness and the burden of history. He seems to have stoked a sense of purposiveness, now that new-age aspirations have also reached saturation point, and has created a post-truth matrix. It is, therefore, the emergence of Indusisation rather than globalisation and a new idea of India. The reality of this may be unpalatable to existing liberal thought simply because it serves an alternative constituency, which has crept up from the fringes and whitewashed the mainstream. This new cultural awareness is based on the extreme polarity of all kinds of otherness. For some, it is religion, the most virulent kind, as evidenced by the landslide acceptability of a Sadhvi Pragya Thakur. For some it is majoritarianism, which sees minorityism as an encroachment that denies more rights due to itself and, therefore, feels it is losing relevance by its own complacency. For some it is about rewriting history and crossing out the invaders, the most contemporary manifestation being Pakistan-sponsored terror. For some, it is about anti-elitism, an assault of middle India into spatial templates set and appropriated by the Western-educated intelligentsia. For others, it is about inclusivity of opportunity, goals and crucially empowerment — be it village roads and electrification, the Awas Yojana, Ayushman Bharat, toilets and LPGs for women, space age dreams for the young and a tough-as-nails leadership that won't succumb to any global Trump-card. And the most important, it is the willingness to self-correct despite the skids, the disbursal of ₹6,000 to farmers' accounts, blunting the face of farm distress and sending a message that it would be attended to, no matter what the nyay crusades of others might promise. Of course, beyond the man is the BJP's organisation which has not let up on its groundwork, treating both old and new territories as the same, and not allowing to slip itself into a comfort zone. In fact, the only question that surfaces is if Modi had under-read his own ability and, therefore, pushed his muscular nationalism a bit too far during the campaign, indulging in a dark, divisive propaganda. But that, too, was probably scripted cinematically to gloss over any talk of issues or his inadequate performance and set up a threat so real that even plurality was seen as an enemy of national identity. Or was it a ruse to simplify India's complexity into an easily readable unitary structure? That alone can explain why Congress chief Rahul Gandhi, for all his gentlemanly sincerity, lost his home seat of Amethi. For Modi didn't want to be an aspirational choice of 2014, he wanted to be an absolutist destiny's child in 2019. Almost hypnotically and spiritually ordained.

This nationwide chemistry has beaten arithmetic, even when it was crafted and test-piloted in the electoral laboratory called Uttar Pradesh. That's why the SP-BSP-RLD alliance has not been able to convince each other's voter bases that it would pay to invest in joint winnable candidates than bleed out. However, apart from Yadavas and Jatavs, it seems the larger arc of most backward castes and Dalits, some of whom have broken basic livelihood barriers, have migrated to a national party and are staking larger dreams on continuity than standing out with a limiting casteist tag. And Modi has made the right noises by announcing quotas for the poor than caste groups and emphasising on raising rural incomes by 2022. The second big takeaway is that of eastern India, which so far had stood out as a bloc like south India, beginning to give way to a pan-India narrative albeit with adaptations. So while Biju Janata Dal's Naveen Patnaik has been voted for the State level, the voter has told him he is good only for Odisha and doesn't qualify for a national role except being a symbiotic partner. The Trinamool Congress chief Mamata Banerjee had probably understood it a bit earlier and though she helmed the mahagathbandhan initially, took a step back when she realised her State was in trouble. Quick to sense that a nationalist surge could ultimately decimate even her regional relevance, she has just about held on. Of course, she has lost the battle of perception and has to rework strategies from this moment on. Assam and the Northeast, have, meanwhile shown that for all the anxieties about the Citizenship Amendment Bill, they do not want to be left out of mainstream development. Not that regional leaders have not stood tall. This election's biggest story has been scripted by YSR Congress' Jagannathan Reddy, who has overturned the charisma of Telugu Desam chief Chandrababu Naidu, silently and fervently. Much credit should also be given to DMK chief Stalin who has lived up to his father's legacy and occupied the vacuum in Tamil Nadu created by the deaths of his father and J Jayalalitha, both demi-gods of their time. Maratha strongman Sharad Pawar, however, failed, losing his turf and sugar belt to the saffron deluge. Does that have something to do with chasing prime ministerial ambitions like KC Rao of Telangana, who, too, has paid for overgrowing national ambitions?

That brings us to the Congress itself, thoroughly emaciated and beaten, where even a younger leadership, despite being Instagram pleasures, could not shake off the burden of dynastic entitlement. Even organisationally, the Gandhi scions, Rahul and Priyanka, haven't concentrated on strengthening structures and have relied on empty rhetoric. While Rahul gifted the BJP a slogan by calling the Prime Minister "chowkidaar chor hai", and rivals spun it on its head justifying why chowkidaari was needed, he failed to retain the gains he made. Who would have believed Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh, where the Congress earned a hard-won fight in the Assembly elections last winter, would cave in completely? Was it arrogance, complacency or its most telling weakness — old school coterie durbars at the exclusion of well-meaning local leaders? Capt Amarinder Singh scripted the Punjab win despite a Balakot, simply because he acts on his own. Besides, the party played saboteur of the grand alliance, becoming a vote cutter, and could not convert a single issue-based rant into an alternative movement. Nor could it claim authorship of schemes that were implemented successfully by Modi. If the Congress wants to get back its axis, it has to nuke itself and rebuild or else be vapourised. As for Modi, he has had the advantage of being granted time beyond the incubation period of a regime change (yes five years may be theoretically too little). He has clearly the numbers and a seeming hold of the national imagination. He has already spoken of embarking on economic reforms. Question is does he want a legacy based on admiration or fear? For there is a huge sense of fear among the others akin to being second class citizens. Or will he discard the tools of political trade and really set an imaginative and progressive agenda? Will it be about order or disorder? Will it be Modi's India hereon? Or Kedarnath's? Only time will tell.

PARMANAND PANDEY

This Lok Sabha election has broken many myths not only at the national level but in Uttar Pradesh (UP), too. This is for the first time that a Government at the Centre has not only warded off the anti-incumbency factor but has, in fact, improved its position in many decades. It's an oft-repeated saying that the road to Delhi's seat of power passes through UP and the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) proved that its pan-India weight could fill any trough, even the one in UP.

Most political pundits had predicted not more than 30 seats for the BJP in this State, particularly after the gathbandhan of the Samajwadi Party (SP), Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) and Rashtriya Lok Dal came into existence. These parties were heavily enthused by the bypoll results of Kairana, Gorakhpur and Phoolpur, where castes like Jats, Yadavs, Dalits and Muslims played a vital role to defeat the BJP. Parties thought that this time, too, the same formula would work and the BJP would be decimated.

UP comprises more than 25 per cent Dalits, nearly 18 per cent of Muslims and 15 per cent of Yadavas and Jats. Their alliance would have been lethal to finish the BJP but this formula did not work in 2019. Belying all expectation, the BJP romped home with 60 seats. Many journalists and analysts, who analysed the outcome of the Lok Sabha election, keeping in mind the caste angle, ignored something that clearly worked in this election — the politics of emotion, one which helped Prime Minister Narendra Modi project himself as the do-gooder who was being obstructed by greedy power players. And for all the polarisation, he seems to have cut across the masses in terms of appeal and acceptability as a worthy choice in a national bet.

So while in the 2014 Lok Sabha elections, there was a discernible Modi wave sweeping across the country, in 2019, there was a complete denial of this wave by most parties and political commentators as well. The SP and BSP are, without doubt, casteist parties. While SP depends heavily on the Yadavas and Muslims, BSP claims the monopoly over the Dalits votes plus some Muslim votes. It is an unacknowledged fact that by and large, Muslims have been against the BJP and in this election were expected to vote against the BJP. Muslims are considered to be politically very wise and vigilant and they vote in favour of the candidate who can defeat the BJP, irrespective of the party he/she belongs to. This was the reason why the gathbandhan was overconfident of pulverising the BJP this Lok Sabha election. It was considering itself to be invincible but all the planning proved to be day-dreaming. The reality is that in this complicated deal, vote transference didn't happen among partners across the State though it had worked at the bypoll level.

The Congress has almost no presence in UP. It has been non-existent for all practical purposes for nearly three decades. Yet for all the concentrated focus by Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi to wean the upper castes away with her temple run and boat

Farmers back in the fold

BJP's resounding victory in UP signals a triumph of developmental politics over the casteist variant. The pre-election payment to sugarcane growers worked too rides, the bottomlines are disastrous. Except for Rai Bareilly, the grand old party has not been able to retain even Amethi from where its national president Rahul Gandhi was contesting. These two seats have been the pocketborough of the Congress and except for 1977, both have always been held by the party. The so-called Congress Brahmastra, too, failed.

Now let us consider how the BJP was able to shatter the dreams of the gathbandhan. Results show that while the SP-BSP combine could not make any significant change in the political contours of Uttar Pradesh, the BSP has been quite lucky. In fact, it has ridden piggyback on the larger appeal of a front. In the last Lok Sabha elections of 2014, the BSP had drawn a blank. On the other hand, SP could secure five seats last time, mainly held by family members, including one by Mulayam Singh Yadav. This time, it has held just nine seats. However, the BSP under Mayawati has improved its tally from zero to 12. This shows that despite getting full support of Muslims and Yadavas, the SP has not been able to get the Dalit votes transferred in its favour. It is also alleged that Mayawati did not send her message to the Dalits in favour of the SP candidates because in her heart of hearts, she does not like the Yadavas. This was enough for Dalits to not transfer their votes in favour of the SP, which is dominated by the Yadavas and who are considered to be the musclemen. In the last Assembly election, Mayawati had coined the slogan "Chadh Gundan ki Chhati Par, Mohar Lagao Haathi Par." She used to say that Yadavas are the cruel oppressors of the Dalits and this slogan silently resonated in this election, too.

While the gathbandhan parties were mainly dependent on the votes of Jat, Yadavas and Muslims, the BJP, under the leadership of Prime Minister Modi and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, was telling the people about their achievements. There is no denying the fact that the pace of development in Uttar Pradesh has been very fast. Almost all villages in the State are now connected with motorable roads, every household has electricity, every family avails gas connection under the Ujjwala Yojana. There is hardly any house even in the remote countryside, which does not have a toilet facility. So much so that those, who did not have a house to live, are living in pucca houses today. There is hardly any member of any family who does not have a bank account under the Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana. Almost everyone has been ensured under the Ayushman Bharat Yojana.

IT IS ALSO ALLEGED THAT MAYAWATI DID NOT SEND HER MESSAGE TO THE DALITS IN FAVOUR OF THE SP CANDIDATES BECAUSE IN HER HEART OF HEARTS, SHE DOES NOT LIKE THE YADAVAS

These schemes have been implemented without any discrimination on the basis of caste, creed and religion. There was a constant crisis of urea but now it is available in plenty. Soil health cards have been distributed to all farmers, which have helped them. Hence, casteist factors could not cut any ice.

Another important factor that led to the BJP's win is that it was, perhaps, for the first time that the farmers got timely and proper payment for their produce, particularly sugarcane growers. This is something that was unthinkable at a time when the SP or BSP ruled the State. Further, the Yogi Government also banned illegal slaughterhouses, thus winning the support of the Hindus. To top it all, not even one communal riot has taken place in the State during the period of Modi and Yogi. There was no peace, no security during the SP/BSP era. Anti-social elements used to have a field day and the police was made pliant to the MLAs and MPs belonging to the castes of the Chief Ministers of their time.

Distribution of electricity has considerably improved in small villages. Thus, the slogan of 'Sabka Sath, Sabka Vikas', has gone down well with the people of the State. Another factor which has worked in favour of the BJP is a direct transfer of the subsidy amount in the accounts of the beneficiaries. This successfully eliminated the army of middleman and contractors, who never allowed the farmers and poor to be benefited by the numerous welfare schemes. Going forward, Balakot and surgical strikes worked heavily in favour of the BJP too, particularly in rural areas. The BJP also sold it properly to the people.

On the other hand, the Opposition, mainly the leaders of the gathbandhan, failed to raise any issue before the electorate as they were heavily dependent on caste factors. Mayawati got so desperate that she showed the audacity of presenting Mulayam Singh Yadav as the genuine backward and Modi as the fake backward. People realised that only the family members of Mulayam Singh Yadav and Mayawati have reaped the fruits of power in amassing a huge amount of money. Corruption had become a byword during the tenures of Mayawati and Mulayam, which has been completely unheard of during the Modi and Yogi regime. This has been the reason why caste politics of gathbandhan has been buried deep and the politics of development has been preferred in Uttar Pradesh.

(The writer is Advocate on Record at the Supreme Court of India)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Failing the test

Sir — It is shocking that Gomathi Marimuthu, the athlete from Tamil Nadu, has failed the dope test twice and it is even worse that the Anti-Doping Agency did not report the fact that she tested positive a month ago. This amounts to cheating. Sports persons must realise that they let down fans and the country when they test positive for performance-enhancing drugs.

NR Ramachandran
Chemai

Respect Dutee's decision

Sir — This refers to the editorial, "Love has no boundaries" (May 22). Indian sprinter Dutee Chand has shown tremendous amount of courage to make the admission of being in a same-sex relationship. It is unfortunate that the revelation has led to a storm, most importantly on the part of her family members. Dutee's elder sister Saraswati Chand, herself an athlete, did not approve of this relationship and said that Chand's partner had "pressurised and blackmailed" her for her wealth and property. Its strange that in today's times even after the Supreme Court's historic decision to decriminalise Section 377, which pro-

The onus is now on Modi

The massive win registered by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP)-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA) in the 17th Lok Sabha elections was unexpected. Before the polls, the general impression was that the country may be heading towards a hung Parliament. That the BJP has defied all predictions to win handsomely can be attributed to the gigantic factor: Narendra Modi. The Prime Minister's direct connect with the people of India has clicked big time. His tireless work, reasonable success story in the last five years, especially in rural India, his unmatched international repute, broad vision, love for the country and its security and visible and tough measures against terror perpetrators have all worked in the BJP's favour. The Odisha election results have proved beyond doubt that people know their preferences well. Otherwise, results to the States of Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka cannot be explained. The Modi-Amit Shah duo has had a keen eye on some regions considered anathema for the BJP, Northeast and West Bengal and worked hard to make deep inroads in these areas. Their efforts have paid off. Of course, the anti-Modi campaign by the Opposition backfired. People did not seem to take some jibes like 'chowkidaar chor hai' against Modi lightly.

The Opposition's unabashed, one-point and unwavering 'Modi-hatao' mission has been shown the door. The country's people obviously want a strong, dominant and decisive leader at the Centre, who can hold his own against internal and external challenges and threats. The Opposition parties' tendency to take the voters for granted with regard to caste and religious equation has flopped badly as is evidenced in Uttar Pradesh where the mahagathbandhan was acting as if it had routed the BJP even before the elections. People may also have wanted to give Modi another five years to take a relook at his unfulfilled promises.

Ganapathi Bhat
Akola

hibited same-sex relationships, many still live with an old orthodox mindset.

Dutee Chand's decision is purely personal and we should judge her as an athlete and how she performs on the track. This personal matter must not come in the way of her intense preparations for the Olympics.

Bal Govind
Noida

Water woes

Sir — Now that we are staring at a crisis, we are beginning to think of solutions to the water scarcity that is plaguing our cities when we should be implementing an action plan. Now we have to act in mission mode, recharging wells, setting up new ones and perhaps make rainwater harvesting a mandatory practice. The judicious use of water must be encouraged and field awareness is crucial. The Government should consult and take the support of non-governmental organisations and domain experts.

Smita Pandey
Via email

Send your feedback to:
letterstopioneer@gmail.com

FIRST COLUMN

Becoming agents of change

With more and more women taking up unconventional modules, they are making farming more productive and commercially viable

SWAPNA MAJUMDAR

Harshada Zanje always yearned for a house of her own. But with her husband being the lone bread-winner in a household of nine members, she knew it would be difficult to move out of the two-room mud house in which they all lived. The small paddy field in their Vadan Zanje village in Pune district of Maharashtra was their only source of income and production was not enough to yield profits. But she didn't give up on her dreams. One day, she saw a photo of a house in a nearby shop and liked it so much that she bought it. She kept the photo near her bedside, hoping against hope that one day she would have a similar house. When a chance meeting with voluntary organisations working in the area led her to plant marigolds, little did Zanje know that she was sowing the seeds of her dream. Early this year, two years after she began growing marigolds, Zanje moved into a pucca five-room house of her dreams.

In an area where farm incomes are dependent on the vagaries of climate, Zanje has shown that problems like water scarcity and undulating terrain can be overcome with hard work and some hand-holding and guidance. So good has been her yield that Zanje is now able to employ labour at the time the flowers need to be picked. It is no wonder that many other farmers, both women and men, have followed her example and begun growing marigolds. "They have all begun to dream like me. If I could do it, they, too, can increase their incomes and fulfil their hopes and wishes," says Harshada.

But much of this would not have been possible had she not met members of CybageAsha, the Pune-based charitable trust and philanthropic arm of Cybage. The organisation, which was working to improve infrastructure in a few villages in Velhe cluster where Zanje lives, realised that in addition to the existing work, more needed to be done to address rural distress and that economic development and income security of the farming community could be accelerated through improved sources of livelihoods. "We also realised that one shoe would not fit all. It was important to tailor these livelihoods according to their needs while ensuring that empowerment of women remained an integral part of our intervention by giving equal economic opportunities," says Ritu Nathani, head, CybageAsha.

So in 2017, CybageAsha, in collaboration with BAIIF Institute for Sustainable Livelihoods and Development, conducted a study of the geographical conditions in 11 villages in Bhor and Velhe cluster in Pune district. An assessment of the climatic and soil conditions revealed that rainfall was unevenly distributed because of the angle of slope of the hilly topography in Velhe. This in turn affected the moisture content of the soil and rate of erosion. Since Velhe's high degree of topographical slope had led to high soil erosion, growing marigolds was found to be an ideal option to counter this as it can be grown in a wide range of soils. It was also found that although marigolds were being grown here, it was not yielding enough benefits. Therefore, they decided to introduce the Kolkata variety of marigold instead of the Kapri variety traditionally grown here. Being far superior to the Kapri variety, the new variety would not only promote climate-resilient farming and help in natural resource management but boost incomes as well, revealed Pankaj Katte of BAIIF.

When these benefits and the need to switch to a more productive variety were discussed in village meetings with farmers as a way to improve incomes during lean times, Zanje was among the first to volunteer to a trial plot in her field. She understood that in comparison to the Kolkata variety, the Kapri marigolds not only had lower productivity but were less attractive and, therefore, had less market value. Zanje's decision to take the risk of planting the new variety, despite initial opposition from her family, paid off when the first harvest of this trial plot showed that the size of the flower was five times bigger and its productivity was four times more. This led Zanje to plant marigolds in her entire field and her first harvest yielded 150 kg and a profit of ₹15,000.

Interestingly, 60-year-old Hirabai, the mother-in-law of Zanje's sister-in-law, who worked alongside Zanje during harvesting, has also been inspired by her success. Having learnt from Zanje that she could adopt a new technique to overcome water scarcity and the uneven topography in her village, Hirabai has taken to wadi or tree farming. This form of farming helps convert unproductive waste lands into productive mango and jamun-growing plots. Although CybageAsha and BAIIF don't work in her village, Hirabai has planted mango trees in her barren patch after hearing about wadi farming from Zanje. Clearly, women like Zanje are the cornerstone of the intervention. Not only has she fulfilled her dream but is helping others to do so. "Our aim is to help farmers, especially women, transform their lives. As partners in sustainable development, together we are bringing change," says Nathani.

(The writer is a senior journalist)

POINT COUNTERPOINT

I AM STARTING A WEEKLY SERIES WHERE I WILL ANSWER QUESTIONS FROM AROUND FOUR MILLION NEPALESE FOLLOWING THESE SOCIAL MEDIA HANDLES.

—US AMBASSADOR TO NEPAL
RANDY BERRY

WE THINK SUCH KIND OF ENGAGEMENT IS NOT NEEDED. IF THE EMBASSY HAS ANYTHING TO SAY, IT CAN DIRECTLY TALK TO THE GOVERNMENT.

—NEPAL'S MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS
PRADEEP KUMAR GWAWALI

Living dangerously

In 2007, Pakistan spiralled downwards amid violence, political polarisation and economic recession. However, some normalcy was restored. Is it heading that way again?

NADEEM PARACHA

On September 30, 1965, the Communist Party of Indonesia — Parti Komunis Indonesia (PKI) — attempted a coup d'état through a clandestine organisation embedded within the Indonesian armed forces. The PKI was close to the Indonesian nationalist hero and first ruler President Sukarno. PKI's embedded organisation, the 13th of September Movement, believed that a large portion of the country's armed forces was anti-Communist and under the influence of the US, which was planning to topple Sukarno.

Sukarno was not a communist himself. In her book, Maoism: A Global History, Julia Lovell writes that he had kept the large PKI on his side to neutralise the influence of the military. Nevertheless, in the early 1960s, as tensions between the military and PKI mounted and the economy began to unravel, Sukarno made an alarming speech in August 1964. Alluding to the developing crisis, Sukarno stated that the country was "living dangerously."

The 1965 coup attempt was brutally thwarted by anti-communist military factions. The coup was crushed by Major-General Suharto. Adrian Wickers, in his 2013 book, A History of Modern Indonesia, writes that the military gave far-right Islamic and Catholic groups ample space and impunity to carry out some of the worst massacres of the 20th century. A 1977 Amnesty International report suggests that "about one million" Indonesians — believed to be PKI members or sympathisers — were mercilessly slaughtered and these included pregnant women and children.

The Australian novelist Christopher Koch dramatised the carnage in a 1978 novel. The title of the novel, The Year of Living Dangerously, was inspired by Sukarno's speech. Since the novel was turned into a film in 1982, the expression "year of living dangerously" is often used by writers and journalists to describe a tumultuous year in the life of a country and/or a particularly violent period in which a country spirals into anarchy and unprecedented bloodshed.

If one sets aside 1971's bloody civil war in former East Pakistan, then the year in which Pakistan lived dangerously (in the context of the mentioned expression) has to be 2007. It is remarkable that the country actually came out of it all.

The year got off to a terrible start when, in January, an Al Qaeda suicide bomber killed 12 policemen in Peshawar. Then in February, military chief and president Pervez Musharraf suspended the Chief Justice of Pakistan, Iftikhar Chaudhry, accusing him of corruption.

The lawyers' community rejected the suspension and began a movement. It was soon joined by both big and small Opposition parties, whose rallies were often attacked by riot police. As the movement transformed into a populist anti-Musharraf drive and spread from Punjab to Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, its leaders decided to take it to Sindh's capital city, Karachi. Karachi's then largest party, the Muttahida Qaumi Movement (MQM), was a staunch ally of the Musharraf regime.

The MQM wasn't happy when the suspended judge and his supporters arrived in Karachi on May 12, 2007. As the judge was waiting at the city's airport, riots and open gun battles between MQM activists and those belonging to the anti-Musharraf alliance such as the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP), Pakhtunkhwa Milli Awami Party (PkmAP), Pakistan Muslim League (Nawaz) (PML-N) and Awami National Party (ANP), erupted on the roads and streets of the city. Government buildings, media outlets, cars and buses were fired upon and torched. Snipers took positions on overhead bridges and mowed down opponents with bullets.

The city came to a standstill as armed men roamed the streets amid dead bodies, abandoned cars and burning motorbikes and buses. According to a May 13, 2007 report by CNN, 33 people were killed and dozens were wounded. The MQM and the Musharraf regime accused the Opposition parties for the violence, whereas the former and most local and foreign news outlets put the blame on the latter and Musharraf.

Then in June, unprecedented monsoon rains in Karachi killed over 200 people. The very next month on July 3, militant clerics and their 'students' fired at security forces posted outside Islamabad's Red Mosque. The mosque and its seminary had been taken over by radical clerics and their supporters, who for months had been harassing the people of the locality on the pretext of "vanquishing anti-Islamic activities." As tensions between the clerics and the state rose, security forces moved in after it was confirmed that the clerics and their "students" were heavily armed. The major siege took place on July 10 and 11 when Pakistan military commandos entered the building and eliminated the militants.

On July 13, newspapers reported that 102 people had been killed. These included 91 civilians (most of whom were militants holed up in the mosque), 10 soldiers and one ranger. As the political and economic situation continued to deteriorate, while terrorist attacks by Al Qaeda-affiliated outfits increased in number, the exiled chairperson of the PPP Benazir Bhutto, returned to Pakistan in October. A large rally in Karachi that was escorting her from the Jinnah International Airport was attacked by suicide bombers and 124 people were killed in the carnage. Al Qaeda-affiliated groups were suspected of carrying out the attack.

ON NOVEMBER 3, MUSHARRAF DECLARED A STATE OF EMERGENCY. THE SAME MONTH, SECTARIAN VIOLENCE IN KURRAM AGENCY KILLED 80 PEOPLE AND ISLAMIC MILITANTS BEGAN TO TAKE OVER BUILDINGS IN SWAT. ON NOVEMBER 22, PAKISTAN WAS SUSPENDED FROM THE COMMONWEALTH FOR REFUSING TO LIFT THE EMERGENCY. ON NOVEMBER 26, PML-N CHIEF NAWAZ SHARIF RETURNED FROM EXILE

On November 3, Musharraf declared a state of emergency. The same month, sectarian violence in Kurram Agency killed 80 people and Islamic militants began to take over buildings in Swat. On November 22, Pakistan was suspended from the Commonwealth for refusing to lift the emergency. On November 26, PML-N chief Nawaz Sharif returned from exile.

On December, 13 Islamist militant groups formed the Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan (TTP), which would go on to kill thousands of Pakistanis in the following years. On December 27, suicide bombers assassinated Benazir Bhutto. Dozens perished with her and dozens more were killed in the riots which spread across Pakistan for three days. Enraged mobs ran amok, setting fire to buildings and automobiles, especially in Punjab and Sindh.

Things almost completely fell apart in 2007. However, the country managed to limp back to some "normalcy" but the economy continued to plummet and terrorist attacks became endemic. Things in this respect began to somewhat improve from 2015 onwards. But an economic downturn, the recent spike in terror attacks and intense political polarisation, are once again threatening the country. Are we once again moving towards a year of living dangerously?

(Courtesy: The Dawn)

Guard against an apocalypse

Human influences on climate change have heralded a new epoch — anthropocene — that is a clear threat to the Himalayas. There's a strong need to establish synergies between climate change mitigation, adaptation and sustainable development goals

SANDEEP KUMAR DUBEY

The human influence on the planet and its environment, leading to global warming, are no more hidden. However, there can also be several natural factors that cause climate change and variations in global temperatures. In fact, increased volcanic eruptions and periods of few sunspots may lead to a drop-off in the temperature as it happened over the Northern Hemisphere for about a thousand years, known as Little Ice Age, which lasted roughly till the mid-18th Century. Climate variations are, therefore, generally induced by a mix of natural and human factors. Precisely because of this, climate scientists find it difficult to define the phrase "2°C above pre-industrial levels" as referred to in the sub-clause 1 (a) of Article 2 of the Paris Agreement, 2015, and fix a numerical baseline for the average global temperature.

The challenge is to separate and quantify human influences on climate change from that of nature. This will help convince and stimulate decision-makers throughout the world for taking up the much-needed climate change mitigation actions as stated in Article 2 of the Paris Agreement, 2015, "to limit the temperature increase to 1.5°C above pre-industrial levels...to significantly reduce the risks and impacts of climate change."

The geological era dominated by human influences on climate is considered as anthropocene. A recent special report by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) titled, "Global Warming of 1.5°C" attempts to trace the temporal extent of anthropocene. The report says that anthropocene has geological merit to be regarded as a formal epoch in the geological time scale and that it begins from the mid-20th century and continues. Scientists, artists and documentary makers are all trying to capture and map the trajectory of Anthropocene and associated global greenhouse gas emission pathways.

In the face of huge human influence on the earth system, pursuing the efforts to limit the temperature increase above 1.5°C is an ambitious task. Unchecked, the temperature rise above 1.5°C may have significant, long-lasting and irreversible impacts on human and natural systems. Among the many impacts and the cascading risks that changing climate and increase in global temperature will lead to, one is on the Himalayas (to be specific, Hindu Kush-Himalaya region) and the natural resources thereof.

The International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development (ICIMOD) described the Hindu Kush-Himalaya (HKH) region the "Third Pole" as it "stores more snow and ice than anywhere else in the world outside the polar regions." The HKH ecosystem is already showing signs of human influences. Changes in cryosphere are an important indicator of climate change. In February 2019, the ICIMOD came out with a landmark study titled, "The Hindu Kush Himalaya

Assessment', delineating the impacts of climate change and increasing global temperature on HKH and its resources. According to the report, glaciers have been shrinking since the mid-18th century, the exception being from 1920 to 1940. The ICIMOD warned of dire consequences if the global climate response fails to contain the rising temperature and said that "current emissions would lead to five degrees in warming and a loss of two-thirds of the region's glaciers by 2100."

Though commonly described as 'Water Tower of Asia', water crisis is looming large over countries in the HKH region. The unfolding water crisis is likely to get worse in the coming years, aided by human drivers such as climate change. The per capita water availability has drastically gone down, thus compromising on the developmental needs, especially of the poverty-stricken population.

Rapid rate of urbanisation (often unplanned), ever-growing population and fast-paced industrialisation in the HKH region stress upon the already depleting natural resources, including water. In the face of competitive sectoral demands for water, administering equitable distribution of water resources for different sectors and needs can be even more challenging for the existing water governance structures in the region.

Hydro-politics played out as a subset of regional geopolitics often ferments competition among countries which undercuts the prospects of cooperation. In the geopolitical tug of war, it is no denying that countries may be inclined to use water as a geo-strategic weapon. Establishment of effective transboundary water governance structures and constant dialogues to achieve trade-offs between upstream and downstream water uses may preclude such a scenario. It is important for nations to understand that cooperation on water issues leads to a win-win situation. Efforts must be on to promote regional dialogue and multi-stakeholders partnership on water issues for effective water resources management and conflict mitigation in the region.

About two billion people living in the basins of the 10 major rivers, which originate from HKH, benefit directly or indirectly from its resources, especially water. To ensure water security for the region, understanding localised variations will be the key. For example, in the hilly areas of the region, the main source of water is the springs. Thus, in this case, relevant geographical units for effective water resources management will be the springsheds and not the river basins. Augmenting water resources, rejuvenating water bodies and strengthening water governance institutions will be vital for the development of the region, human security and achieving sustainable development goals, especially Goal 6.

It is also important to develop institutional capacities at multi-level governance structures for adaptive and effective governance, build cross-scalar interfaces among the various knowledge-based systems and strengthen the resilience of the communities. As the IPCC special report on "Global Warming of 1.5°C" suggests, there is a strong need to establish synergies between climate change mitigation, adaptation and sustainable development goals.

(The writer is a freelance commentator)

FOREIGN EYE

NOWHERE LEFT TO FAIL

May lacked the courage and vision to articulate compelling answers to the many questions, still less to persuade the public and Parliament to trust her judgment. That profound and protracted failure is in large part the reason why the whole Brexit process has broken down, why British voters will participate in European parliamentary elections on Thursday, and why that poll is certain to administer a brutal verdict on the prime minister and her party.

(The Guardian Editorial)

LS polls: Promises to be fulfilled

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

With people reposing faith in the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) once again and giving a resounding mandate to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, it will be a trying time for the ruling party leaders to fulfil the promises they have made during the election campaign.

The poll promises range from building bridges to providing jobs and setting up medical college to developing city as tourist hub.

Sample the promises that the BJP leaders made during the poll campaign:

Rajnath Singh
 ■ Lucknow would be made one of the most beautiful cities of the world. Projects worth Rs 50,000 crore are in the pipeline which will make Lucknow commuter-friendly and one of the cleanest cities of India.

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath
 ■ If the BJP comes to power in 2019, the NDA government will set up a sports university in Meerut.
 ■ Green Expressway from Delhi to Saharanpur to Yamunotri.
 ■ Vasudev Tirth Sthal to be developed in Amroha and efforts to be made to clean the river Ganga there.

■ Dholak trade to be developed under One District One Product (ODOP) scheme.

■ Behmai bridge to be completed.

■ An auditorium will be constructed in Varanasi.

Sadhvi Niranjan Jyoti
 ■ A medical college and a Central school in Fatehpur.
 ■ Rail Park in Fatehpur city.

■ Drinking water to be provided in 64 villages near Ganga by constructing overhead tanks and installing 64 hand pumps.

Anupriya Patel
 ■ Mirzapur to be developed as a tourist destination which in turn will generate employment at village level.
 ■ Temple of Vindhya will be brought under religious tourism map.

Santosh Gangwar
 ■ The famous rubber factory to be re-opened in Bareilly.
 ■ Four industrial areas of Parsakheda, Rajau, Bhojipura and Faridpur to be developed.
 ■ Textile Park will be set up in city.
 ■ Mega Food Park will be re-opened.

BJP makes grand debut in Telangana

J DEEPTHI NANDAN REDDY ■ HYDERABAD

The wait is finally over for the saffron party in Telangana. In a historic mandate, four BJP candidates emerged victorious in the Lok Sabha polls, ensuring a grand debut for the national party in Telangana.

While BJP's former state chief G Kishan Reddy won in sitting seat Secunderabad, like many expected, what's amazed one and all is the victory of other three candidates. The victory of Dharmapuri Arvind from Nizamabad, Bandi Sanjay from Karimnagar and Soyam Babu Rao from Adilabad amazed people and political analysts alike.

Though BJP has been gaining ground steadily in most parts of India over the past two decades, has not been able to repeat the same in Telangana, in spite of a dedicated cadre and vote bank, due to various reasons. But thanks to Modi wave and TRS party's mistakes, 2019 General Elections gave much needed break for the party in youngest state of India.

Especially Dharmapuri Arvind's victory in Nizamabad, where he trounced sitting MP and Telangana CM KCR's daughter Kalvakuntla Kavitha, sent clear signals to CM KCR that Telangana people are ready to side with BJP and dump ruling TRS, if needed and Telangana is not the 'jagir' of Kalvakuntla family.

headlines at national level as 178 farmers filed nominations against CM KCR's daughter, to highlight the failure of Telangana government in addressing farm distress. Even after results, Nizamabad seat made headlines at national level, as daughter of Telangana CM, who ardently pitched for Federal Front, got defeated by a rookie. Ironically BJP's winning candidate D Arvind's father D Srinivas is officially Rajyasabha MP from TRS, but has been keeping away from TRS.

Another notable victory is of Bandi Sanjay in Karimnagar segment, where he trounced KCR's close confidante, sitting MP B Vinod Kumar. Though Karimnagar was considered among the probable seats where BJP might give tough fight, majority of 89508 votes, points towards BJP's future prospects in Telangana.

The trend has been so favourable towards BJP, even in the tribal dominant Adilabad, Soyam Babu Rao won. TRS party's growing familiarity with AIMIM, is said to have backfired in Adilabad constituency, which has a history of communal tension, leading to BJP's victory. Giving ticket to Adivasi leader Soyam Babu Rao who defected to BJP from Congress, also helped saffron party score a stunning victory.

While BJP won four seats in the fiercely fought polls, what's significant is, it fought this elections without any alliance. Fighting elections alone and coming up with such an impeccable performance, signals towards a dawn of a new era in Telangana politics, where three party fight will be witnessed among TRS, BJP and Congress.

"We have been saying that BJP will emerge as the alternative to ruling TRS after Lok Sabha polls in Telangana. People saw BJP as better party to fight TRS than Congress. BJP has a good cadre and strong organisational set up. We have been looking for opportunity to make our presence felt in Telangana politics. This is a monumental opportunity for BJP's growth in Telangana and we will utilise it to make inroads into every village and remotest corner of Telangana," said N Ramchander Rao, senior leader of BJP speaking to The Pioneer after the results.

Though Ramchander Rao, BJP's leader in Legislative Council, lost in Malkajgiri, expressed confidence that this is the new beginning for BJP in not just Telangana but also will pave way for further expansion of party in South India.

BJP's debut has been so impressive that it got a vote share of about 20 percent in GE 2019 in Telangana, compared to about 8 percent in 2018 Assembly polls. The massive gain in seat and vote share, has given a new reason and purpose for BJP leaders and cadres across Telangana, to embark on a new journey and set their sights high.

Amid fear of clashes, Kolkata streets empty out by evening

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Streets in the metropolis emptied by early on Thursday evening amid fear of clashes as election trends poured in with the ruling Trinamool Congress and the surging BJP locked in a neck and neck battle for the 42 Lok Sabha seats in West Bengal.

People reached to the safety of their homes before the formal declaration of results, fearing violent fallout of the poll outcome amid a bitter election battle between the two parties, leaders of which were involved in a no-holds barred attack in a grueling two-month long campaign.

Defeat of negative politics: Yogi

Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath with his Deputies Keshav Prasad Maurya and Dinesh Sharma and others celebrate the party's performance in Lok Sabha elections at BJP office in Lucknow on Thursday

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Elated by BJP's resounding victory in the Lok Sabha elections, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath said the results reflected defeat of negativity emanating from dynastic politics and victory of development and nationalistic politics.

"The results are clear indication that people no longer want negative politics of caste and dynasty. They want basic facilities and they voted for development in this election," Yogi told a select group of reporters at his official residence here on Thursday.

He said the BJP leaders talked about development and nationalism in their poll campaigns and the people liked it.

"Prime Minister Narendra Modi had given the slogan of 'Abki baar 300 paar' and the people voted en bloc to fulfil the dream of Modi and the BJP," the Chief Minister said.

"We won because of the leadership shown by Prime Minister Modi and the political strategy adopted by party's national president Amit Shah. Millions of BJP workers worked tirelessly to ensure that the plan made by Modi and Shah was implemented to the T at the ground level. This is the success of the team BJP," the Chief Minister said.

Yogi was one of the star campaigners of the party. He was the most sought after and addressed a series of rallies across the country. His prestige was at stake in Gorakhpur from where he was elected MP five times but had lost the seat in the by-election in 2018. He ensured that his protégé Ravi Kishan sails through comfortably.

When asked about the mahagathbandhan, the Chief Minister said that no one could take the voters for a ride any more. "The alert voters have rejected the mahagathbandhan (grand alliance) of opposition parties. It is high time for the opposition to introspect and shun politics of negativity," he said. Yogi said that this result had dispelled the myth that votes could be transferred on one command. "The political leaders should now realise that people will vote for only that party which will work at the ground level," he added.

Claiming that Prime Minister Modi had worked during his five-year term for development of the country and for enhancing the infrastructure, Yogi said. "The country's globally improved image also gave a boost to the BJP's election prospect while the counter-terrorism action also gave a political advantage to the party," he said.

BJP retained all three seats, two in Jammu division

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Riding high on the 'crest' of Modi wave, Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) on Thursday retained all three Lok Sabha seats, two in Jammu division and one in Ladakh while National Conference, led by former Union Minister Dr Farooq Abdullah, staged a comeback by dislodging all three rival PDP candidates in Kashmir valley.

The cold desert region of Ladakh, initially witnessed a close fight between BJP and an independent candidate Sajjad Hussain. In the final tally, BJP's Jamyang Tsering Namgyal won the seat by a margin of over 9000 votes. Namgyal secured 41315 votes while Sajjad Hussain could secure 31552 votes only.

However, the biggest upset in the state was recorded on Anantnag Lok Sabha seat. Here, PDP Chief, Mehbooba Mufti, failed to garner majority votes. Despite running 'vitiolic' campaign against the BJP she finished at number three in the final tally of votes. Mehbooba had never lost any election in her two decade long political career. This is the first election she had contested in the absence of her mentor and PDP patron Mufti Mohd Sayeed.

In Srinagar, 83 year old Dr Farooq Abdullah won Srinagar seat, for the fourth time, by a margin of over 70,000 votes. He defeated PDP's rival candidate Aga Syed Mohsin. Dr Abdullah had secured 106750 votes.

In Jammu region, both the BJP candidates recorded his-

Bharatiya Janata Party workers celebrate the party's victory in Srinagar Thursday

1256 votes from Jammu-Poonch Lok Sabha seat.

Meanwhile, reacting to the poll results, National Conference Vice President and former Chief Minister Omar Abdullah congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi and BJP Chief Amit Shah for their stellar performance in the polls. Omar tweeted, "So the exit polls were correct. All that's left is to congratulate the BJP & NDA for a stellar performance. Credit where credit is due PM Modi Sahib & Mr Amit Shah put together a winning alliance & a very professional campaign. Bring on the next five years".

PDP Chief Mehbooba Mufti while conceding defeat also posted a message on her twitter timeline. She wrote, "I've been fortunate to get the love & affection of my people. They have every right to express their anger for my failings. Accept their verdict with humility. Congratulations to winning candidates from NC. I'm grateful to my party workers & colleagues. Mehbooba also wrote, "Congratulations to Narendra Modi ji for a historic mandate. Today surely belongs to BJP and it's allies. Time for Congress to get an Amit Shah".

Addressing a press conference in Srinagar, Dr Farooq Abdullah expressed hope that the new government in Delhi will do justice with Jammu and Kashmir.

"We hope the new government in Delhi will do justice with J-K and engage in dialogue with Pakistan so that we are taken out of this morass," he said.

Southern comfort INC, ADMK scrapes through bypolls

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

The Indian National Congress owes it to Tamil Nadu and Kerala for providing a crucial southern comfort by contributing 26 seats to its total kitty of 53 seats. The Congress which contested the 2019 Lok Sabha election as a constituent of the DMK-led Secular Progressive Alliance (SPA) in Tamil Nadu won nine of the ten seats allocated to it. This includes the lone seat from the union territory of Puducherry.

The Congress led-UDF literally swept Kerala as it won the 19 out of the 20 seats from the State leaving the lone seat of Alappuzha to the CPI(M). The Kerala result is a major setback to the CPI(M) as well as the BJP. The Hindutva party had given enough indications that it was all set to open its parliamentary account in Kerala but it turned out to be a misplaced hope. The State of Kerala remains the BJP's Rishyamukh (the mountain mentioned in Ramayana which remained inaccessible to the monkey king Vali) as the entire minority communities maintained their distance from the party.

UDF sweeps Kerala as it won 19 out of the 20 seats

The strong anti-incumbency feeling against the ruling AIADMK played spoilsport of the BJP's Tamil Nadu dreams. The BJP should have taken into consideration its experiences when it had forged alliance with the AIADMK in the past (1998 and 2004). What happened this time was the repeat of 2004 when both the parties were obliterated in the hustings.

The Edappadi Palaniswamy-led Government has managed to prolong its longevity in office by scraping through the bypolls by winning eight of the 22 seats. Though there is no threat to the AIADMK government in the near future, chances of more MLAs of the party revolting against the leadership cannot be ruled out. Out of the 22 assembly seats which went to the by-poll, the AIADMK had won 21 in the 2016 assembly election. So, the party has lost 13 seats from its benches.

There was a big anti-BJP feeling in Tamil Nadu which was intensified by the blitzkrieg unleashed by the DMK-led front. The anti-Sterlite agitation, the anti-hydrocarbon extraction campaign and the agitation against the Salem-Chennai Greenfield corridor played a big role in creating a wide rift between the BJP and the people of Tamil Nadu. The state unit of the BJP failed miserably when it came to explain to the people of Tamil Nadu the pro-poor measures being implemented by the Centre

Mayawati terms LS poll results as 'unprecedented', questions EVMs again

PTI ■ LUCKNOW

Terming the Lok Sabha poll results as unprecedented, BSP president Mayawati again raised doubts over EVMs on Thursday and indicated that her alliance with the SP and the RLD will continue.

"We had not contemplated that the alliance will fare so badly. People are not able to digest the poll results. It is against their sentiment and aspirations," she said. Pointing fingers towards electronic voting machines (EVMs), the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) supreme said, "Several shortcomings of conducting elections through EVMs have come to our notice and there is opposition to EVMs all over the country."

She added that after this results, whatever confidence people had in EVMs will disappear.

Modi Magic fails in Tamil Nadu as Stalin leads DMK to grand victory

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu remained inaccessible to the BJP for the second time in succession. In addition to the ignominy of failing to win a single seat from the Dravidian Land, the BJP faces a bleak future in the State. The BJP failed to win at least one seat from Tamil Nadu despite hectic campaigning by PM.

The results of the elections from the State underscore many factors. The ruling AIADMK is yet to get over the demise of party supremo J Jayalalitha while the combined leadership of Chief Minister Edappadi Palaniswamy and his deputy O Panneerselvam has failed to rejuvenate the party. There was no Modi wave in Tamil Nadu. At the same time, the DMK under the leadership of MK Stalin fought valiantly despite many odds and reasserted its supremacy.

The AIADMK which has won 37 of the 39 seats in the 2014 Lok Sabha election had to contend with just one seat in the 2019 election. The party has been weakened because of the internal fighting for the control of the party by the factions led by Panneerselvam and V K Sasikala, and the number of corruption charges against the Palaniswamy-led government. People of Tamil Nadu saw the residences and offices of a minister as well as the chief secretary getting raided by the sleuths of the CBI and the Income Tax Department, hitherto unheard of anywhere in the country.

The party underwent a major split in 2017 as the Mannargudi clan, led by Sasikala and her nephew TTV Dhinakaran was eased out of the AIADMK by the EPS-OPS duo. This antagonised the Thevar community in central Tamil Nadu which had stood with the AIADMK since the party was launched by M G Ramachandran in 1972.

Dhinakaran retaliated by launching the AMMK to teach the 'treacherous' EPS and OPS a lesson. He claimed that he had deployed many sleeper cells in the AIADMK and would bring down the Palaniswamy-led government at the time of his choice. Tamil Nadu voters were annoyed with the kind of street fighting staged by the AIADMK and the AMMK. They used their rights at the first instance by casting their votes to the DMK, the one and only viable alternative. Though there were parties like the MNM (launched by actor Kamal Haasan) and AMMK in the electoral arena, Tamil Nadu voters preferred the DMK and its allies because the former lacked trust and track record.

BJP's efforts to make its presence felt in the State came a cropper. "There are no leaders in Tamil Nadu BJP capable of winning election. And they do not want the party to emerge as an alternative in the State because of obvious reasons. The rulers in Kamalalayam, the BJP head quarters, are afraid of losing their prominence if the party emerges as a strong force," said a senior State leader.

BJP's candidate for Ahmedabad West seat Kiritsinh Solanki flashes the victory sign after winning in the Lok Sabha elections during a roadshow in Ahmedabad on Thursday

US corporate sector hails re-election of PM Modi

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

US corporate sector on Thursday congratulated Narendra Modi on his "commanding victory", saying the Prime Minister has the potential to transform India and forge opportunity for all Indians.

Prime Minister Modi-led Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) appears set to post an emphatic victory in the Lok Sabha election, bringing Modi back into office for a second term.

"Congratulations to" Modi and the BJP "for a commanding victory," said Nisha Desai Biswal, president of US India Business Council (USIBC).

The Prime Minister "has the potential to transform India and forge opportunity for all Indians," she said, adding that the USIBC looks forward to work with the BJP government.

Commending Modi on his electoral success, Biswal said the first five years of Modi's government saw good progress on reforms.

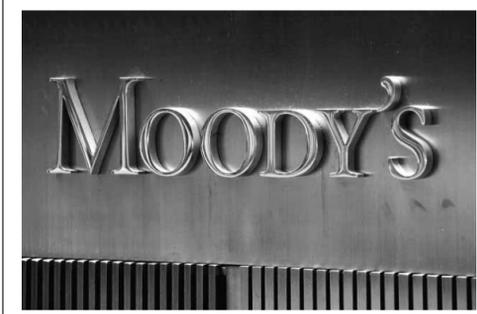

The establishment of a national Goods and Services tax, passage of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, and a variety of legal and regulatory reforms catapulted India's Ease of Doing Business ranking from 142 to 77, she said.

"These reforms laid the foundation for India's strong record of economic growth. Still, much remains to be done to unlock the expansive growth potential of the Indian market. With a strong mandate from the Indian people, Prime Minister Modi will have an opportunity to usher in an era of global economic and strategic leadership for India," Biswal said.

A strong US-India commercial partnership will support these goals, helping India

Credit view on India hinges on policies of new Govt: Moody's

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

As per the trend, BJP-led NDA will form the government at the Centre for the second successive term with absolute majority.

In 2017, the US-based rating agency upped India's rating to 'Baa2' from 'Baa3', changing outlook to 'stable' from 'positive', and said reforms would help stabilise rising levels of debt.

Moody's expects the broad push towards fiscal consolidation to remain, although with greater policy emphasis on supporting low incomes, Foster added.

Moody's on Thursday said its credit view on India will depend on policies of the new government and expressed hope that the country would continue with its fiscal consolidation plan.

"Any credit implications of the outcome of India's general election will be determined by the policies adopted by the government in the next few years. These policies are yet to be formulated," Moody's Investors Service VP Sovereign Risk Group William Foster said.

She left the position on January 20. The important diplomatic post has been vacant in the 28 months of the Trump administration.

Former Nissan chairman Ghosn appears in Tokyo court

AP ■ TOKYO

Nissan's former chairman, Carlos Ghosn, appeared in a Japanese courtroom on Thursday for a hearing ahead of his trial on accusations of financial misconduct.

It was the first of a series of hearings to iron out logistics for Ghosn's actual trial. The trial date has not been set, and experts say it could be months away.

Ghosn, who led the Japanese automaker for two decades, was arrested in November and charged with underreporting his income and breach of trust. He was released on bail in March, rearrested in April on fresh accusations and then released again on bail on April 25.

Ghosn insists he is innocent and says he was targeted in a "conspiracy" by others at Nissan Motor Co.

Nissan, which is allied with Renault SA of France, has seen profits nose-dive amid the fallout from Ghosn's arrest.

Ghosn has hired a strong legal team as he fights to clear his name. One of his top lawyers, Junichiro Hironaka, was seen walking into the courtroom Thursday with Ghosn.

One of the conditions of Ghosn's release on bail is that he is forbidden to contact his wife.

Business Corner

The chairman of National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS), Prof CB Sharma announced the fourth-semester exam result 2019 of Diploma in Elementary Education (DE.Ed) at an event — "Training of 12.11 lakh In-service Untrained Elementary School Teachers". Students can now check the same on the institute's website — www.dled.nios.ac.in. NIOS D.El.Ed fourth-semester exam was conducted on March 15 and 16. The exam was conducted for three subject modules namely Learning in Art, Health, Physical and Work Education at Elementary Level (508), Learning Social Science at Upper Primary Level (509) and Learning Science at Upper Primary Level (510)

TP Singh, General Manager, Northern Railway, accompanied by SC Jain, Divisional Railway Manager, Delhi, & Principal Head of Departments of Northern Railway today inspected Diesel Locomotive Shed, Tughlakabad, a premier Locomotive Maintenance Center over Indian Railways and in its 50th year of Operations

Indian merchant service and UPI payments app, BharatPe announced the winners of its 2019 World Cup contest. 11 merchants from Bangalore, mostly independent business owners will be travelling to the UK for India vs Bangladesh match on July 2, 2019. The match will be played at Edgbaston Cricket Ground, at Birmingham, England

Panasonic joins firms stepping away from Huawei after US ban

AFP ■ TOKYO

Japan's Panasonic on Thursday said it would stop supplying some components to Huawei, joining a growing list of firms distancing themselves from the Chinese telecoms giant after a US ban over security concerns.

Japan's Toshiba also announced it was temporarily halting shipments to Huawei to check whether US-made parts were involved, in order to comply with Washington's new restrictions.

The moves came a day after major Japanese and British mobile carriers said they would delay releasing new Huawei handsets, upping the pressure on the world's second-largest smartphone manufacturer.

"We've stopped all business transactions with Huawei and its 68 group companies... That are subject to the US government ban," Panasonic spokesman Joe Flynn told AFP.

Panasonic's business with Huawei includes the supply of "electronic parts," he said, declining to provide further details.

Washington's restrictions affect products made fully or partially in the United States, where Panasonic manufactures some of the components it supplies to Huawei, the Japanese firm said.

There was no immediate comment from Huawei on the move, and a Panasonic official declined to comment on what business the Japanese firm would continue to do with the Chinese company.

China seeks support of Asia in trade fight with US

AP ■ BEIJING

China is seeking support from Russia and from its Central Asian neighbours in its escalating tariff fight with the U.S., while also stepping up protests against moves to penalize its technology sector.

Speaking Wednesday at a meeting of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization in Kyrgyzstan, Foreign Minister Wang Yi said representatives of the eight-nation grouping had expressed "broad support" for China's position.

In comments reported Thursday, Wang reiterated China's stance that it would never accept unequal trading arrangements.

Beijing will match "extreme pressure" from the U.S. With its own measures, he said in remarks posted on the ministry's website.

The trade frictions have "aroused great concern from the international community," Wang said.

US-China trade tension can jeopardise global growth in 2019: IMF warns

PTI ■ WASHINGTON

The escalation of trade tension between the US and China has the potential to disrupt the global supply chains and jeopardise the projected recovery in growth in 2019, the IMF warned Thursday, over 10 days after President Donald Trump imposed 25 per cent tariff on USD 200 billion worth of Chinese imports.

The world's two largest economies are locked in a trade war since Trump imposed heavy tariffs on imported steel and aluminium items from China in March last year, a move that sparked fears of a global trade war. In response, China imposed tit-for-tat tariffs on billions of dollars worth of American imports.

The trade war escalated after Trump on May 10 increased the import duty on Chinese products worth USD 200 billion from 10 per cent to 25 per cent.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF), in a blog authored by Eugenio Cerutti, Gita Gopinath and Adil Mohammad said that consumers in the US and China are unequivocally the losers from the trade tension.

Cerutti is currently the Assistant to the Director at the Research Department of the IMF, Mohammad is an Economist in the Research Department of the IMF and Indian-origin Gopinath is the Chief IMF Economist.

At the global level, the additional impact of the recently announced and envisaged new US-China tariffs, expected to extend to all trade between the two countries, will subtract about one-third of a percentage point of global GDP in the short term, with half stemming from business and market confidence effects, the IMF said.

Failure to resolve trade differences and further escalation in other areas, such as the auto industry which would cover several countries, could further dent business and financial market sentiment, negatively impact emerging market bond spreads and currencies, and slow investment and trade, it said.

"In addition, higher trade barriers would disrupt global supply chains and slow the spread of new technologies, ultimately lowering global productivity and welfare. More import restrictions would also make tradable consumer goods less affordable, harming low-income households disproportionately," the IMF said.

Noting that the US-China trade tensions have negatively affected consumers as well as many producers in both the countries, the IMF said the tariffs have reduced trade between the US and China, but the bilateral trade deficit remains broadly unchanged.

"While the impact on global growth is relatively modest at this time, the latest escalation could significantly dent business and financial market sentiment, disrupt global supply chains, and jeopardise the projected recovery in global growth in 2019," it said.

The research, using price data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics on imports from China, found that tariff revenue collected has been borne almost entirely by the US importers.

US aviation regulator says Boeing hasn't submitted 737 MAX fix

AFP ■ FORT WORTH

The US aviation regulator has still not received Boeing's proposed fix for its 737 MAX aircraft, which have been grounded globally following two deadly crashes, the agency's chief has said.

Boeing has said it will patch the Maneuvering Characteristics Augmentation System (MCAS) stall prevention system, which has been blamed for the two crashes in Indonesia and Ethiopia that killed a total of 346 people and caused the best-selling planes to be taken out of service.

Boeing said last week that it had finished making changes requested by the US Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), but the agency's interim chief Dan Elwell told reporters on Wednesday that the agency hadn't yet seen the fixes.

"We are still waiting for Boeing to formally submit the software for approval," he said on the sidelines of a summit of global aviation regulators in Fort Worth, Texas. Elwell said the FAA sent Boeing additional questions about its proposed fixes for the MAX planes, which caused the delay.

The summit set to begin Thursday will see the FAA attempt to re-establish trust with aviation regulators from 33 countries including China, Canada, the European Union, Ethiopia and Indonesia.

The regulator called the summit to walk through the steps taken to address concerns with the MAX aircraft after it was criticized for dragging its feet on ordering the jets grounded.

Canadian and American regulators have differed on the proper training for the 737 MAX 8, with Canada insisting pilots train in a flight simulator and the US saying a training course on a computer or iPad is enough.

"We haven't determined the final training yet," Elwell said.

Sebi fines 5 entities ₹39 lakh for manipulative trade in BSE stock options segment

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Markets regulator Sebi on Thursday levied a total fine of over ₹39 lakh on five entities for indulging in fraudulent trades in the illiquid stock options segment of BSE.

Among the five entities, Straight Line Food Products and Winsher Commercial were fined ₹5 lakh each, Shri Radha Raman Alloys and Vindus Holdings were levied a penalty of ₹9 lakh each while ₹11.20 lakh was imposed on Subhlabh Fiscal Services, totalling ₹39.20 lakh.

After observing large scale reversal of trades in stock options segment of the bourse, the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) conducted an investigation between April 2014 and September 2015.

NORTHERN RAILWAY
OPEN TENDER NOTICE (E-TENDER)

For and on behalf of President of India, the Divisional Railway Manager (Mechanical), Northern Railway, Delhi Division invites E-tender for following work from experienced and capable tenderers.

1. Tender No.	197-S/224/Hiring-Mini Truck/PNP/19/MC-IV
2. Name of Work	Hiring of Mini Truck (Carrying Capacity-4.5 T) at C&W depot, Panipat for two years.
3. Advertised Tender Value	Rs. 16,60,893.41/- (Including GST)
4. Earnest money in favour of Sr. DFM/NR, New Delhi	Rs. 33,200/- (Note: It should be in the form of net banking or gateway only. FDR not be accepted as EMD for tender invited on IREPS)
5. Date & time of submission of tender bid	Up to 21.06.2019 at 12:00 hrs.
6. Website particulars where complete details of tender documents can be seen	www.ireps.gov.in

No. 197-S/224/Hiring-Mini Truck/PNP/19/MC-IV Date: 22.05.2019 1561/19

SERVING CUSTOMERS WITH A SMILE

NORTHERN RAILWAY
OPEN E-TENDER NOTICE (E-Tender)

For and on behalf of President of India, the Divisional Railway Manager (Mechanical), Northern Railway, Delhi Division invites E-tender for following work from experienced and capable tenderers.

1. Tender No.	197-S/176/CAMC-Wheel Lathe/TKD/19/M-IV
2. Name of work	Comprehensive Annual Maintenance Contract for Two Years of Surface Wheel Lathe (Make-HYT) of Wagon Care Centre, Tughlakabad.
3. Advertised Tender Value	Rs. 31,17,324.72/- (Including GST)
4. Earnest Money in favour of Sr. DFM/NR, New Delhi	Rs. 62,300/- (Note: It should be in the form of net banking or gateway only. FDR not be accepted as EMD for tender invited on IREPS)
5. Date & time of Submission of tender bid	Up to 20.06.2019 at 12:00 hrs.
6. Website particulars where complete details of tender documents can be seen	www.ireps.gov.in

No. 197-S/176/CAMC-Wheel Lathe/TKD/19/M-IV Date: 22.05.2019 1560/2019

SERVING CUSTOMERS WITH A SMILE

PROCLAMATION REQUIRING THE APPEARANCE OF ACCUSED PERSON (SEE SECTION 82 Cr.P.C.)

Whereas complaint has been made before me that accused Vishal S/o Imran Khan R/o H. No. E-6/395/4, Sangam Vihar, New Delhi has committed (or is suspected to have committed) the offence under F.I.R. No. 955/16 U/s 408/120B IPC at PS Mehrauli, New Delhi and it has been returned to a warrant of arrest thereupon issued that the said accused Vishal can not be found and whereas it has been shown to my satisfaction that the said accused Vishal has absconded (or is concealing himself to avoid the service of the said warrant). Proclamation is hereby made that the said accused Vishal of F.I.R. No. 955/16 U/s 408/120B IPC at PS Mehrauli, New Delhi is required to appear in this court to answer the said complaint on or before 27.06.2019.

By Order
Sh. Vaibhav Mehta
Metropolitan Magistrate, South Distt
Room No. 210, Saket Court, New Delhi

SEARCH FOR MISSING MALE

General Public is hereby informed that one male (depicted in the photo) namely Tarun Sharma S/o Lt. Om Parkash Sharma R/o H. No. 1232, Kucha Pati Ram, Sita Ram Bazar, Delhi Aged - 40 Years has been reported missing since 18.05.2019 vide DD No. 32-A Dated 19.05.2019 registered at Police Station Hauz Qazi, Delhi. His physical description is as under:-

Complexion: Fair, Height: 5'11", Face: Round, Built: Medium, Clothing: White and grey coloured checked coloured shirt, black coloured pant & black shoes in feet. Any person having any information/Clue about this missing male, may inform SHO, Hauz Qazi, Delhi at E-mail : cic@cbi.gov.in or website : <http://cbi.nic.in>

Sd/- SHO, Hauz Qazi, Delhi.
Tel. No. : 011-24368638 or 24368641
FAX No. : 011-24368639
DP/6295/CD/19

APPEAL FOR IDENTIFICATION

General public is hereby informed that an unidentified deadbody of male Namely: Unknown S/o Unknown R/o Unknown Age : 30 years, Height : 5'2", Complexion : Shallow, Wearing: Blue Sando Baniyan & Black colour Lower has been found at opposite Central Bank of India, Hamilton Road, Kashmere Gate, Delhi on 16.05.2019. In this regard a case vide DD No. 12 A dated 16.05.2019 has been lodged at P.S. Kashmere Gate, Delhi.

Any person having any information or clue about this found dead person may kindly inform to the following:-
SHO :
P.S. Kashmere Gate, Delhi
North Distt., Delhi
Tel. No. 011-23968730, 23967889

DP/29/N/19

Appeal for Identification

General public is hereby informed that one male Name: Unknown, S/o: Unknown, R/o: Unknown, Age: 60 Years, Height: 5'6", Complexion: Shallow, Sex: Male, Wearing: Grey Colour Shirt-Black Pant was found dead on 15.04.2019. Place of Recovery: Found Dead body in front of Toilet near 901 Red Light, Y-Block, Kanjhawala Road, Mangol Puri, Delhi. In this regard FIR/DD No. 17-A, has been lodged at P.S. Mangolpuri, Delhi on 15.04.2019. Any clue come to notice please inform undersign.

SHO
PS. Mangolpuri, Delhi
Ph.: 011-27921168, 27922186

DP/2281/OD/19

Appeal for Identification

General public is hereby informed that one male Name: Unknown, S/o: Unknown, R/o: Unknown, Age: 35 Years, Height: 5'7", Complexion: Wheatish, Sex: Male, Wearing: Grey Striped Trouser & Green Baniyan & Chappal in his feet was found dead on 18.05.2019. Place of Recovery: Found Dead at Ridge Jungle Near High Voltage Tower behind night Shelter, Kabir Basti, Subzi Mandi, Delhi. In this regard FIR No. 120/19, has been lodged at P.S. Subzi Mandi, Delhi on 18.05.2019. Any clue come to notice please inform undersign.

SHO
PS. Subzi Mandi, Delhi
Ph.: 011-23823161

DP/26/N/19

NORTHERN RAILWAY
OPEN TENDER NOTICE (E-TENDER)

For and on behalf of President of India, the Sr. Divisional Mechanical Engineer/C&W, Northern Railway, Delhi Division invites E-Tender for following work from experienced and capable tenderers.

1. Tender No.	197-S/CAMC-EOT Cranes Tracks DLI Div/19/M&P-I
2. Name of work	"Comprehensive Annual Maintenance Contract for Maintenance & Alignment of Gantry Track of EOT Cranes of all Coaching Deptt. in DLI Division" for one year.
3. Advertised Tender Value	Rs. 13,39,724.80/- (Including GST)
4. Earnest Money in favour of Sr. DFM/NR, New Delhi	Rs. 26,800/- (Note: It should be in the form of net banking or gateway only. FDR not be accepted as EMD for tender invited on IREPS)
5. Date & time of submission of tender bid and opening of tender	Upto 14.00 hrs. on 22.06.2019 and opening of tender after 14.00 hrs. on same date
6. Website particulars where complete details of tender documents can be seen	www.ireps.gov.in

No. 197-S/CAMC-EOT Cranes Tracks DLI Div/19/M&P-I Dated : 22.05.2019 1571/19

SERVING CUSTOMERS WITH A SMILE

WORLD CONGRATULATES MODI

IMRAN EXTENDS HEARTFELT WISHES Expresses desire to work with him for peace in South Asia

PTI ■ ISLAMABAD Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan on Thursday congratulated his Indian counterpart Narendra Modi on his electoral triumph and expressed desire to work with him for peace and prosperity in the region.

the course of Indo-Pakistan ties, which were pushed to a new low after the Pulwama terror attack. In April, Khan said he believed there may be a better chance of peace talks with India and settle the Kashmir issue if Modi's party BJP wins the general elections.

Faisal said at his weekly media briefing here. He was responding to a question about the outcome of Indian elections and Pakistan's expectations from the new government in New Delhi.

B'desh's Hasina calls Modi to congratulate him on his victory

Dhaka: Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina on Thursday telephoned her Indian counterpart Narendra Modi to congratulate him on his victory in the general elections during which the two leaders pledged to raise the India-Bangladesh relationship to unprecedented new heights.

China's Xi Jinping extends 'heartfelt congratulations' to Modi on victory

PTI ■ BEIJING Chinese President Xi Jinping Thursday extended his "heartfelt congratulations" to Narendra Modi for winning the general elections, in a rare gesture of greeting a foreign leader well before the official announcement of the results.

GLOBE TROTTERING

GERMAN DIPLOMAT IN TEHRAN FOR TALKS

Berlin: A senior German diplomat is in Tehran to press Iran to continue to respect the landmark nuclear deal, despite the unilateral withdrawal of the US and increasing pressure from Washington.

UK POSTPONES BREXIT VOTE: OFFICIAL

London: The British Government on Thursday postponed a crucial Brexit vote scheduled for the week starting June 3, following an outcry from hardline Brexiters over concessions made by Prime Minister Theresa May.

US PLANS TO SEND 10K TROOPS TO WEST ASIA

Washington: US officials say the Pentagon will present plans to the White House to send up to 10,000 more American troops to the West Asia to beef up defences against potential Iranian threats.

National Urban Co-operative Bank Ltd. C-3/84, New Kondli, Mayur Vihar, Phase-III, Delhi-110096. PROFIT & LOSS ACCOUNT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST MARCH 2019. Includes Income, NPA Excess Provision Written Back, EXPENDITURE, and Profit after Tax.

National Urban Co-operative Bank Ltd. C-3/84, New Kondli, Mayur Vihar, Phase-III, Delhi-110096. BALANCE SHEET AS AT 31ST MARCH 2019. Includes CAPITAL AND LIABILITIES, PROPERTY & ASSETS, Contingent Liabilities, and Unclaimed Account held with RBI - DEAF Account.

Grover, Lalla & Mehta CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS. Includes contact information, report on financial statements, and a summary table of income and expenditure.

National Urban Co-operative Bank Ltd. C-3/84, New Kondli, Mayur Vihar, Phase-III, Delhi-110096. Accounting Policies and Notes to Accounts. Includes sections on General, Fixed Assets & Depreciation, Revenue Recognition, and Investments.

US LAWMAKERS CONGRATULATE MODI, SAY LOOKING FORWARD TO WORK WITH INDIA

Washington: Top American lawmakers on Thursday congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi on his impressive victory in the general elections, saying they were looking forward to continue working with his government to strengthen the Indo-US ties.

Russia's Putin congratulates Modi on victory

Moscow: Russian President Vladimir Putin on Thursday congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the convincing victory of his Bharatiya Janata Party in the parliamentary elections and expressed his readiness to work together to build up the full range of bilateral relations.

French President Macron extends wishes to PM

PTI ■ PARIS French President Emmanuel Macron on Thursday congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi on his electoral victory and the two leaders reaffirmed their commitment to work together towards further strengthening of the bilateral Strategic Partnership.

Abe Shinzo congratulates Modi on victory

PTI ■ TOKYO Japanese Prime Minister Abe Shinzo on Thursday congratulated his counterpart Narendra Modi for his resounding electoral victory in the general elections and vowed towards further strengthening the India-Japan special strategic ties.

NEPAL PRIME MINISTER CONGRATULATES MODI FOR POLL WIN

PTI ■ KATHMANDU Nepalese Prime Minister KP Sharma Oli on Thursday congratulated his Indian counterpart Narendra Modi for a "landslide victory" in the general elections and hoped to work closely with him in future.

Israel's Netanyahu congratulates Modi on huge poll victory

PTI ■ JERUSALEM Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on Thursday became the first world leader to congratulate his counterpart Narendra Modi for scripting an "impressive victory" in the elections and vowed to strengthen their "great friendship" as well as bilateral ties.

Abu Dhabi Crown Prince congratulates PM Modi on victory

Dubai: Mohammed bin Zayed, the Crown Prince of Abu Dhabi and Deputy Supreme Commander of the UAE's Armed Forces, on Thursday congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi on his election victory, saying he looked forward to working with him to deepen the strong bilateral ties.

Indian-Americans celebrate Modi's electoral victory

Washington: Indian-Americans from across the US on Thursday celebrated the electoral victory of Prime Minister Narendra Modi by distributing ladoos and watching election results in movie theatres and restaurants.

ICICI Bank Notice for sale of immovable property. Includes details of the property (Plot No. 65, Block A, Sector 5, Noida), terms of sale, and contact information for the auctioneer.

Trend Blazer

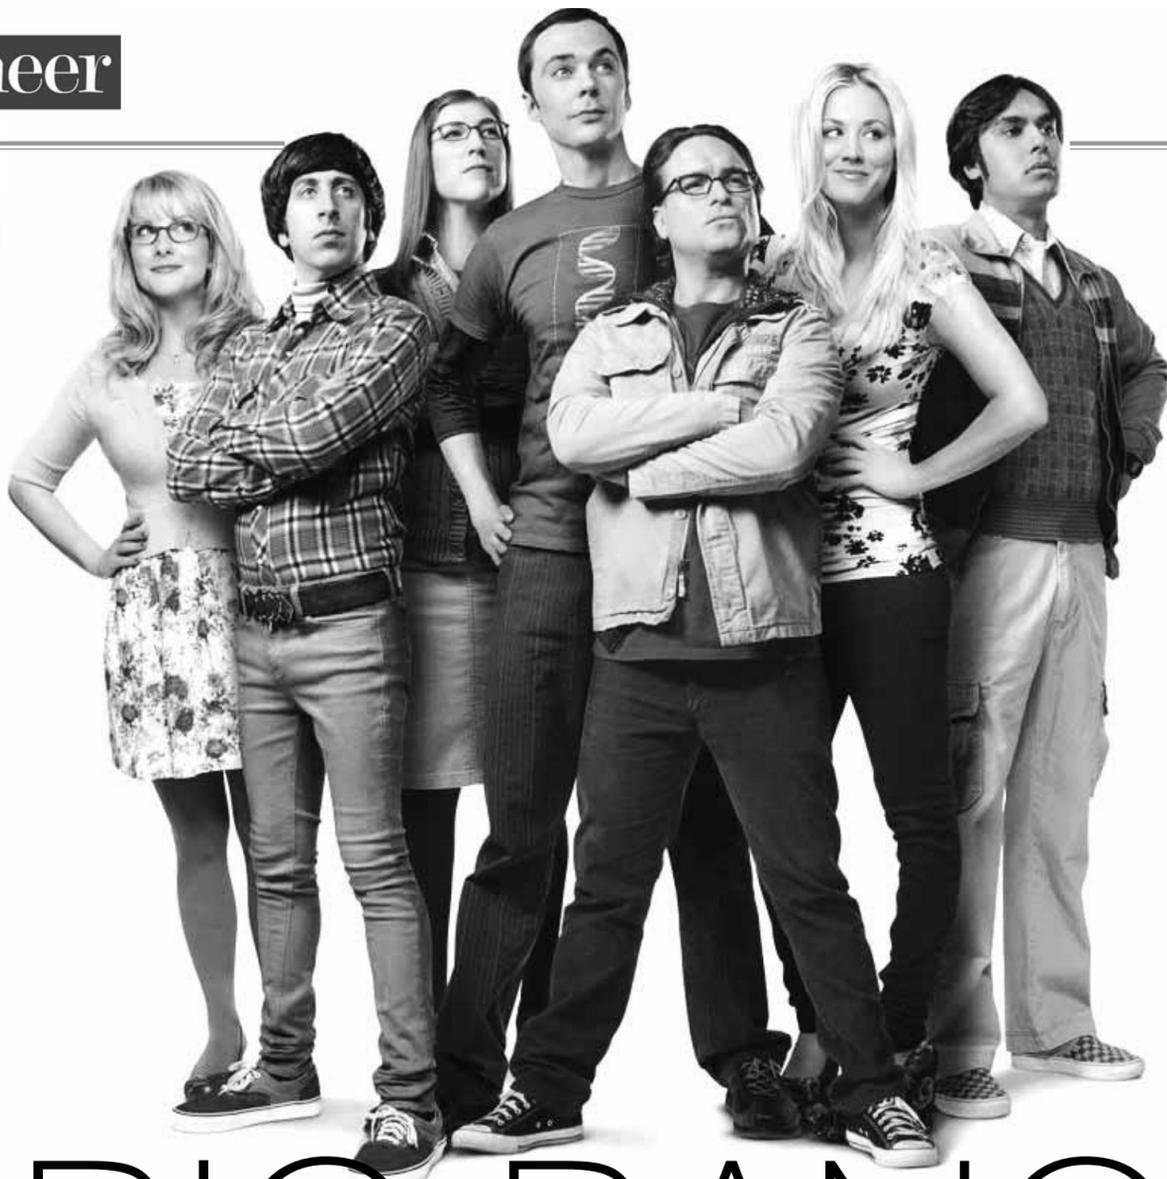

SRK begins shoot for TED Talks 2

Actor SHAH RUKH KHAN has started shooting for the second season of TED Talks.

As for the new season of the Star Plus show, Shah Rukh shot its first episode earlier this week.

Some of the names likely to feature in the second season are acid attack survivor Laxmi Agarwal, whose life inspires Deepika Padukone's next Chhapaak, and actress Tanushree Dutta, who opened the floodgates of India's #MeToo movement, said a source.

TED Talks 2 may go on air in the second half of 2019. The Hundred-Foot Journey producer Juliet Blake, head of TV for TED Talks, is in India to curate the themes.

Dimple joins Tenet

The actress has been cast in CHRIS NOLAN's next alongside ROBERT PATTINSON and MICHAEL CAINE

Veteran actress Dimple Kapadia has been cast in Christopher Nolan's action epic Tenet, which will also feature Robert Pattinson and Michael Caine, and will be shot across seven countries, including India.

While Dimple, 61, is yet to comment on it, celebrities from Bollywood have cheered her on.

Actor Anil Kapoor called her casting "phenomenal," while filmmaker Anurag Kashyap tweeted, "So cool... Dimple Kapadia in a Chris Nolan Film. Wow!"

Film producer Guneet Monga sent in congratulations.

Dimple, who made her screen debut with 1973's Bollywood film Bobby, is a National Award winner. She has proved her mettle in Indian cinema with an eclectic mix of parallel and commercial films like Rudaali, Krantiveer, Dil Chahta Hai and Finding Fanny among others.

Mumbai-based talent manager Purvi Lavingia Vats, who was instrumental in getting Ali Fazal a role in Fast and Furious 7, says she pitched Dimple for the role to Nolan's casting team in Los Angeles.

"Dimple is a great and a wonderful person. She is the only Indian actor to be a part of this project as of now. They will be shooting the film in different countries, and India is one of them," Vats said.

"It took me a few months of convincing. But Dimple was up for it. It is something different for her, and it was an interesting process to make it all a reality," added Vats, who is focussed on getting more international exposure for Indian talent.

Tenet was so far being described as a "massive, innovative, action blockbuster," but plot specifics are under wraps.

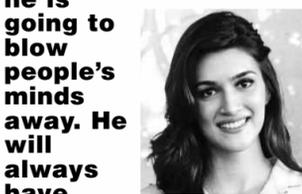

Pattinson, John David Washington and Lea Seydoux are previously announced cast members. Apart from Dimple, the new joiners in the film, to be distributed by Warner Bros. Pictures in theatres worldwide on July 17, 2020, include Aaron Taylor-Johnson, Kenneth Branagh, Clemence Poesy and Caine.

Pattinson said, "I've been a little wary of doing big films for years and years, but there's just something about Chris Nolan's stuff. He seems like the only director now who can do what is essentially a very personal, independent movie that has huge scale. I read the script and it's unreal."

Nolan's last film was Dunkirk.

—IANS

'I saw his (Tiger Shroff) hard work, his discipline and passion and I knew he is going to blow people's minds away. He will always have this super soft corner in my heart. He was my first co-star. Tigy, I feel so happy seeing you fly higher and higher (literally too). And now time for Heropanti 2.'

—Kriti Sanon

Actress JACQUELINE FERNANDEZ says she is a sensitive person, and negative comments on social media do affect her.

She said, "We have really supportive, good fans and I love my people on Instagram. But it could be one comment, one person saying something negative, and I'll be like, 'Why would you say that?'"

The actor said that it does affect her. "I am a sensitive person, so yes it does. And I actually want to get to that point where I'd be like, you know what, 'who are you to say that,' you know? But yes, it does."

'Work culture after #MeToo changed'

Actress MICHELLE WILLIAMS has noticed a difference in the workplace culture after the #MeToo movement.

She said, "I feel like the dynamic on sets has changed. They don't hug you anymore. You don't get a morning grope, you get a morning handshake."

"I feel like more space has opened up in the room, in the actual creative process. The space has opened up for me to be able to be heard," she added.

Williams has four career Oscar nominations for her work in Manchester by the Sea, My Week With Marilyn, Blue Valentine and Brokeback Mountain.

BIG BANG AT THE MUSEUM

The costumes worn by the cast in the popular TV show will be displayed

Costumes worn by the seven main cast members of the 12-season TV show The Big Bang Theory, which closed in a big finale, would be donated to a museum here.

As per the creator Warner Bros, the costume donation to the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History here includes those worn by characters Sheldon Cooper (Jim Parsons), Leonard Hofstadter (Johnny Galecki), Penny (Kaley Cuoco), Howard Wolowitz (Simon Helberg), Raj Koothrappali (Kunal Nayyar), Amy Farrah Fowler (Mayim Bialik) and Bernadette Rostenkowski-Wolowitz (Melissa Rauch).

The items will join thousands of artefacts in the museum's popular entertainment collections and help tell the story of ground-breaking work in American television.

The donations are full costumes worn by the seven primary characters from the series costume designer Mary Quigley.

Among the costume pieces are Sheldon's iconic "Flash" t-shirt, Leonard's "recycle" t-shirt and hooded cargo jacket, Penny's pink tank top and Uggs boots.

Also included are Howard's plaid shirt and red turtleneck, Raj's sweater vest and jacket, Bernadette's yellow cardigan and floral dress and Amy's brown wool sweater and green, knee-length skirt.

However, the museum said there are no current plans for its display.

The series about scientists drew to a close after 12 seasons, with an emotional finale that revealed some big news, tied up loose ends and even featured a celebrity cameo.

In the first of two back-to-back episodes, scientists Sheldon Cooper (Jim Parsons) and his wife Amy (Mayim Bialik) got the news that they are receiving the Nobel Prize in physics for their theory of super asymmetry.

At the Nobel ceremony in Sweden, Amy encourages little girls "who dream about science to go for it." In a cameo appearance, Sarah Michelle Gellar sits next to Raj (Kunal Nayyar) in the audience, but assures him it's "not a date."

Cooper gives a heartfelt acceptance speech that, to fans who have been tuning in since the show's beginning, shows how much the character has grown out of his egotistical and selfish personality over the course of 12 seasons.

"I was under a misapprehension that my accomplishments were mine alone. Nothing could be further from the truth. I have been encouraged, sustained, inspired and tolerated, not only by my wife, but by the greatest group of friends anyone ever had," he said.

The Big Bang Theory was launched in 2007. The show has received 52 Emmy Award nominations and 10 wins, seven Golden Globe nominations, and the spinoff prequel Young Sheldon.

Actor Jim Parsons has opened up about his decision to leave The Big Bang Theory, saying he could not bring himself to do another season of the hit show.

The Golden Globe winner has featured as the beloved Sheldon Cooper on the hit comedy series for 12 seasons. Late last year he revealed he was stepping away from the show.

"It was the first time in my life of doing this show that it occurred to me that I might want to not do another contract after (season) 12 was up," a website quoted Parsons as saying.

"I don't know if it's because I'm an Aries or just because maybe I'm in touch with myself. Whatever it is, once I had that thought, I was like, 'Well, that's your answer,' he added.

Parsons will, however, remain in the The Big Bang Theory orbit as he continues to narrate and executive-produce its prequel Young Sheldon.

"There was no factor; there was no situation that I was like, 'Well, I've had enough of that.' No. There was nothing like that. It was just...when you know, you know. And you're susceptible and thrown around by the whims of your own existence and getting to a certain age and your life changes and suddenly you just think different," Parsons said.

He added, "It has been fascinating to think about who I was 12 years ago. And sometimes when I have trouble learning a line or saying a line of Sheldon's right now, it's hard to know why specifically. But it's like, you're not the same person you were. There is a possibility that this actually became more difficult for you in a way. And I don't know what that means but it's like you just change."

The show revolved around the lives of four socially awkward friends, Leonard, Sheldon, Howard and Raj.

The show is aired in India on Zee Cafe and can be streamed on HOOQ in India.

—Agencies

Remembering Niki Lauda

The Austrian racer is best known for displaying his doggedness on and off the race track

KUSHAN MITRA

Austrian Formula 1 racing legend Andreas Niklaus Lauda passed away earlier this week. He was more than a legend. His comeback from his fiery accident at the old Nurburgring is one of the most remarkable stories in sports, to race just six weeks after almost losing your life is a great subject for a movie and it was made into one. Rush documented the 1976 Formula 1 World Championship. Lauda was not a flamboyant playboy in the mould of many of the British racers of that era, but he was good. So good that he made another comeback in the 1980s when he drove a McLaren to his third World title after winning two with Ferrari. We can always wonder how many world championships Lauda would have won had he not had his devastating accident or retired from the sport for the first time, but his impact on the world of motorsport is possibly much greater than his three titles and his later role as the Chairman of Mercedes-AMG F1 Racing, the dominant team of the contemporary Formula 1 era.

Lauda's accident, something he barely survived back in 1976,

WHEN NIKI WAS RACING AT HIS PRIME, AT LEAST THREE TO FOUR FORMULA 1 DRIVERS DIED EVERY YEAR AND THEY TOOK THAT TO BE A FACT OF LIFE. OF COURSE, THE MOVE TOWARDS SAFETY HAD BEGUN IN THE 1960s

ultimately claimed him. Its after-effects played a role in his death as the flames and even the fire extinguisher fumes seared the inside of his lungs, causing permanent damage. Ironically, it happened despite the fact that the Austrian had led other drivers in protesting the unsafe conditions of the race. Jules Bianchi's death a couple of years ago was an aberration. When Niki Lauda was racing at his prime, at least three-four Formula 1 drivers died every year and drivers, fan and even administrators took that to be a fact of life. Of course, the move towards safety had begun in the 1960s with drivers like Jackie Stewart, but Lauda supercharged that movement. And while it was finally the dramatic events of the San Marino Grand Prix in 1994 when Ayrton Senna died that finally pushed the safety agenda for race cars and even road cars to the central agenda, the near-death of Niki Lauda is what really pushed the safety agenda out of the fringes.

However, more than just being a great driver, Lauda's doggedness came out more dramatically to the rest of the world when he personally went to the crash site of Lauda Air 004 in Thailand.

Niki Lauda came from a wealthy Austrian family and once he retired from the sport finally, he got into his other love, aviation. He began Lauda Air as an airline catering to tourists but it suffered a horrible accident when 196 people died at that aforementioned crash. Lauda himself went to the site in order to give answers to those who died. And like the Boeing 737 MAX today, it emerged that there was a technical fault that caused the crash. It was Lauda's remarkable determination and engineering skill that got Boeing to admit that they made a mistake which caused the thrust reversers to open mid-flight causing the crash.

Lauda's determination and skills will be missed from the Formula 1 circuit and as the grid collects at the annual signature race in Monaco this year, I hope the race car series sends him off in style to race in the heavens!

MASTERING THE PERFECT BLEND

BAAR BAAR's amalgamation of north Indian food with a modern twist has some hits as well misses, says CHAHAK MITTAL

The posh lanes of Khan Market are somewhat akin to a food lover's paradise. And it is here that I headed to Baar Baar, a dine-in restaurant, as a writer and food lover could indulge in her love for fusion dishes as the place offers Indian food with a modern twist. And was I in for a surprise and a change of view towards the way an authentic Indian dish could taste.

The ambience, replete with colours like magenta and teal, peppered with brass and wooden decor, sets the tone for experimentation. It makes you reconsider how Indian dishes could be prepared with a new outlook.

The first I bit into the papad-like sweet potato, yam and banana kadak naan and chaat corn roti, served with sweet corn mousse and tomato sea buckthorn chutney. The taste was such that it would remind one of hummus and pita bread but at the same time, forget it as this has a distinct flavour. The chopped cashews, sprinkled on the top, added flavour to the 'perfectly bland' yet the most tasteful mousse.

My confidence about the curations by New York chef Sujan Sarkar went up a notch further with the potato tikki which was served next. It was nothing like the ones found at the street side chaat thela (vendor). The crispiest tikki, in the centre was surrounded by battered and deep-fried kale and spinach tempura and had a sweet and sour yoghurt mousse poured over its top. The taste could make one wish that every thela should prepare the tikki that way. But uniqueness was presumably the drill, here. The next ensemble made it very apparent.

Served with an ultra tawa parantha at its bottom, the cylindrical duck seekh kebab was topped with mixed berry chutney and housemade pickles. The kebab didn't have the overtly non-vegetarian taste yet was perfectly meaty. A special alert for vegetarians. This one might just not executed to perfection as these appeared and tasted more like potato wedges. The dried cheese didn't make too much of an impact.

With two disappointments in a row, I looked up to the next dish, which was Malai broccoli and pumpkin, crispy lentil cake and parmesan mousse mixed in a salad bowl. A vegetable lover like me would absolutely drool even at the very names of its ingredients, but the dish failed to meet my gastronomic expectations.

Next up was the chicken malai tikka, topped with cheese fondue and walnut crumbs. Ideally, a perfect example of fusion.

As I neared a saturation, the last dish in line was the yoghurt apricot kofta served in dum gravy and with sea buckthorn padma-like breads and pickled apple. The kofta, soft as cotton, could be an appropriate replacement for paneer (cottage cheese) or usual kofias — finally, a perfect fusion.

The speed of the service was not uniform. But I was lucky to get my desserts a bit late as after all the food that I had, it took time for me to make some space. But desserts were worth the wait. The first one was the Thandai cassata, served with bits of nutty-fruity pistachios and black pepper meringue. The crispy wafers on top melted in my mouth like cream. The cassata had my heart.

The second dessert was the Cashew cake, served with milk ice cream and apricot gel. Even as the ice cream was a perfect replacement to the vanilla, the cake could have had balanced its sweetness, which was a tad bit too much.

make you want to reconsider your food orientation.

While I was still gorging on the duck kebabs, sous chef Hitesh Lohat was keen on serving the best under his domain. The beet-root and peanut chops were served with garlic, apricot and chili chutney, greens and pickles. It reminded me of a crazy ball-sized coconut, brown, hard and

It's all about love

The authentic food, the French bistro ambience and the endearing service at PAUL make for a perfect meal, says SHAMBHAVI SURI

Cooking in the 21st century is often equated with new methods like molecular gastronomy. However, at PAUL, they believe that there is nothing better than spending time with family and friends over a delicious meal. Located in the busy Ambience Mall, Gurugram, this restaurant will make you fall in love with the French cuisine. "We received a set of rules and guideline from PAUL International for everything. From the décor to the machines, which we are supposed to use and the recipes," say chef Vipin (head pastry chef) and chef Lokesh (executive chef).

Before I talk about the food, I wanted to elaborate on something that the place exuded which made the visit more memorable. Here, they believe that "there is no sincerer love than that of food," and they show it. There is love in the food they bring to the table and it is evident in the way they treat their guests and probably that's the reason why you don't want to leave.

The ambience really seems to take you to one of the cafés along the walkway in France. Sitting inside, you can smell the breads baking, the coffee brewing and the aroma of decadent food. The décor is simple yet elegant and the smell of bakery in the air is comforting.

While I was just about sinking in the experience, the first of the courses was brought to the table. This were the smoked salmon bites, traditionally referred as a tartine in French or simply put, sliced and toasted baguettes, topped with ingredients. This tartine was bite size, toasted baguettes, topped with a refreshing dill sour cream, smoked salmon and sprinkled with walnuts and mustard grains. The crunchiness from the fresh baguette added a bite to the dish while the creaminess of the sour cream and silkiness of the salmon, melted in the mouth. The capers and the mustard grains further, enhanced and elevated the bites by adding a little pungency and saltiness. This dish was sophisticated and a perfect appetite builder.

I was still savouring the flavour of the salmon bites when a whiff of onions, freshly baked bread and cheese wafted through the air. The next thing I knew, a French onion soup was placed before me. Campagne bread served as a bowl for the soup, where as soon as the lid was removed, I could smell the caramelised onions and the baked cheese. The soup was essentially, a thick brown broth in which onions were slow cooked. A sip revealed that it contained the richness of onions, cheese and butter. This is what heaven is made of. The onions made the broth sweeter, however, it was balanced with the saltiness that was provided by the cheese and butter. The soup was rich, wholesome and left a heavy coat on the palate. Rest assured, the dish is bound to take you to your happy place.

In order to freshen things up, their

First, one on the table was the seafood fettuccini. The fish and whole prawns were lightly tossed in tomato sauce that gave the dish a vibrant orange colour. Taking a bite, the first flavour that coated the palate was the tanginess of the sauce which gradually made way for thyme and buttery-ness. The seafood adds an earthy and salty flavour to the pasta, balancing out the dish altogether. The second seafood dish was PAUL's signature, the grilled tiger prawns. The slightly charred prawns presented on a bed of nutty romesco sauce (made with sweet red pepper), served with buttered veggies, is bound to sweep you off your feet. A little sweet-heat from the romesco sauce with the tiger prawns, cooked to perfection, sings in harmony on your palate.

Last but definitely not the least of the mains, was the roasted baby chicken. This dish is to die for. Sous-vide chicken, cooked off in the pan, served with some veggies and a salad topped with a pepper jus. The sous-vide cooking process helps the chicken retain all its juices while cooking. While cutting the chicken on the plate, I realised that there was crispy skin which crackles as the knife slices through it. Taking a bite, the skin was crunchy while the chicken underneath it was tender and released all its juices as you bite in. The pepper added a layer over the chicken and binds the dish together. To cut through the richness of the dish, the salad on the side helped.

To end the evening on a sweet note, desserts were served — Tiramisu and a Strawberry cheesecake. The tiramisu was as authentic as it could get. However, to take the traditional creation one step further, Kahlua was added to the batter. The flavour of the coffee was stronger and more rustic, pertaining to the premium Lavazza espresso shots used in the making. Tiramisu is definitely a choice for the ones who don't have much of a sweet tooth and love coffee. For the ones who like their desserts sweet, the strawberry cheesecake is your choice. The buttery cracker base topped with vanilla cheesecake and finished with strawberry crush, was beautiful, airy and light. Just the perfect way to end the evening!

signature salad was served. Made up of iceberg lettuce, grilled chicken, finely-cut green apple, carrots and topped with walnuts and emmental cheese, this salad burst with goodness. It was sweet, salty, smoky and crunchy. There was nothing to complain about here. Its simplicity marked its perfection.

Making the French experience even better, the croque-monsieur made its way to the table. It is the French version of a ham and cheese sandwich. There was extra cheese with fresh ham, served along-side crispy, golden-brown hash browns. One would realise why it's a French classic as it makes you fall in love with food, all over again.

The seafood mains were up next.

gorge us

Opera Salon presents French Rendezvous, where you can pair a cup of aromatic tea with soft and buttery freshly baked Almond croissants, Chicken and mushroom Vol-au-vent, Raisin brioche, Roast tomato basil and goat cheese Tarte, Croque Monsieur and more. Price: (for two) ₹800 plus taxes Date: Till June Time: 8 am to 12 am Venue: M-37, M block market, GK-2.

Gorge on the sweetness of Gripe mangoes through Khoya's mango mithai as it brings the true essence of Indian summer for its patrons with the launch of two new exclusive mithais inspired by the Mango season — the Alphonso coconut ladoo and Mango barfi. The mithai could also be gifted in boxes of three, 10, 16 or 36. Venue: The Chanakya, The Oberoi.

Farzi Cafe Presents an expressive lunch affair for non-vegetarians, offering special curations with delicacies like Prawn and ginger rasam with Applam crisp or a Farzi caesar salad with Chicken tikka, and many more. Time: 12 pm to 11.45 pm Price: (for two) ₹1,500 plus taxes Date: Till May Venue: Farzi Cafe (outlets in Cyber Hub and Connaught Place)

Inferno presents a gastronomical fare of flavours, offering delicacies like Smoked chole kulche, Assorted dimsum platter, Old Monked mushroom, Bomb pizza, Choco chips Pranked puppy dessert and more. Time: 12 pm to 12 am Price: (meal for two) ₹1,600 plus taxes Date: Till June 15 Venue: Plot 6 and 7, Sector 29 Gurugram.

The Marketplace, Kirti Nagar, presents Mexican food festival featuring delicacies like Nachos with trio salsa pineapple, mango and tomato. There is Mushroom olive pate, Corn on the cob, Chicken enchilada sliders, Mexican rice meal bowls and many more. Time: 12 pm to 12 am Price: Starting from ₹649 plus taxes Date: Till June

CORNITOS TEA TIME CRUNCHY

- WHAT YOU NEED
- Cornitos barbeque flavour Nachos crisps: 1 bag
  - Sliced green olives: 1/4 cup
  - Sliced jalapeno peppers: 1/4 cup
  - Chopped green onion: 1
  - Seeded green and red chilli: 1
  - Diced yellow bell pepper: 1
  - Jalapeno cheese dip: 1 jar

- METHOD
- Arrange Nachos crisps on a platter.
  - Top it with all chopped ingredients.
  - Serve it with jalapeno cheese dip.

Courtesy: Cornitos.

- WHAT YOU NEED
- Almond flour: 3/4 cup
  - Flaxseed meal: 7 tbsp
  - Fresh broccoli: 4 ounces
  - Mozzarella cheese: 4 ounces
  - Large eggs: 2
  - Baking powder: 2 tbsp
  - Salt and pepper to taste
- For the sauce:
- Mayonnaise: 1/4 cup
  - Fresh chopped dill: 1/4 cup
  - Lemon juice: 1/2 tsp
  - Salt and pepper to taste

- METHOD
- Add broccoli to a food processor and pulse until it breaks down into small pieces and is well-processed.
  - Mix together the cheese, almond flour, 1/4 cup flaxseed meal and baking powder with the broccoli. If you want to add any extra seasonings (salt and pepper), do it at this point.

- Add two eggs and mix well until everything is incorporated.

- Roll the batter into balls and then coat with three tablespoons flax seed meal.
- Continue doing this with all the batter and set the balls aside on paper towels.
- Heat your deep fryer to 375 degrees F. Use this deep fat fryer. Once ready, lay broccoli and cheese fritters inside the basket, without overcrowding it.
- Fry the fritters until they turn golden brown. This will take about three to five minutes. Once done, lay on paper towels to drain excess grease and season to your tastes.
- Feel free to make a zesty dill and lemon mayonnaise for a dip.

Courtesy: Chef Kamaljeet at Masala Grill.

RECIPES

GRILLED SCALLOPS WITH TOMATO CHUTNEY AND ROASTED PEPPERS

- WHAT YOU NEED
- Scallops, shelled and roe removed: 12
  - Black peppercorns, cracked: 1 tsp
  - Fennel seeds: 1/4 tsp
  - Star anise: 1/4
  - Olive oil: 2 tbsp
  - Micro cress: 1 handful
  - Olive oil: 1 tbsp
  - Nigella seeds: 1/2 tsp
  - Canned plum tomatoes, chopped: 200 gm
  - Tomato paste: 1 tsp
  - Chilli powder: 1/4 tsp
  - Caster sugar: 1/2 tsp
  - White wine vinegar: 1 tsp
  - Green pepper: 1/2
  - Red pepper: 1/2
  - Yellow pepper: 1/2
  - Kasoori methi: 1/4 tsp
  - Olive oil: 1/2 tsp
  - Salt

- METHOD
- Crust:
- For the tomato chutney, heat the olive oil in a pan, then add the nigella seeds and sauté for 20 seconds.
  - Add the chopped plum tomatoes, tomato paste, chilli powder, some salt, the sugar and white vinegar. Slow-cook for 15 minutes or until almost dry. Remove from the heat,

- check the seasoning and cool.
- For the peppers, roast the skin over an open flame or under a grill until it begins to bubble. Wrap the peppers in cling-film and chill immediately.
- When cold, peel off the skin and scrape off any remaining bits with a knife. Cut the flesh into 5 mm x 5 mm dice. Add crushed Kasoori methi and olive oil and set aside.
- Wash and drain the scallops, then pat dry with kitchen paper. Crush the peppercorns, fennel seeds and star anise in a pestle and mortar, then transfer to a bowl, add some salt and 1/2 tablespoon of olive oil
- Marinate the scallops in the spiced oil mixture and grill on a hot non-stick pan until gently browned on both sides. This should take a minute for each side.
- To plate, serve three scallops to a portion on top of a droplet of tomato chutney. Top with the roasted mixed peppers and a sprinkling of micro cress.

Courtesy: Chef Alfred Prasad, Sumeru Gourmet Range.

MARY RULES

Six-time World Champion Kom defeats Nikhat in 51 kg semis to enter Indian Open summit clash

PTI ■ GUWAHATI

Six-time world champion Mary Kom overcame some stiff resistance to beat promising Nikhat Zareen in a split decision to enter the women's 51kg category final, while the men pugilists dominated the ring by making it an all-Indian Gold-medal clash in seven categories in the India Open here on Thursday.

In the most-anticipated bout of the day, 22-year-old former world junior champion Nikhat of Telangana was at her aggressive best against her 'idol' Mary Kom who was happy to play the waiting game before taking the upper hand in the third round to win 4-1.

The 36-year-old Mary Kom, who was making her competitive debut at home in 51kg, took some blows initially but was quick to make amends as Nikhat was not able to connect her punches as the bout progressed.

Using her vast experience, Mary Kom regained her composure and dealt a few telling blows on the Strandja Memorial Gold winner Nikhat and that seemed to have clinched the issue in favour of the London Olympics Bronze medalist Manipuri in the third round.

Mary Kom will face Vanlal Duati of Mizoram in the Gold-medal bout on Friday.

In the men's section, 17 Indians stormed into the final in 10 weight categories.

Continuing his dream run, former world youth champion Sachin Sivach registered an upset win over reigning Commonwealth Games champion Gaurav Solanki in a unanimous decision to set up a 51kg gold medal clash against Asian Games Gold medalist Amit Panghal.

A day after he eliminated World Championship Bronze medalist Rogen Ladon in a well-calculated bout, the 20-year-old from Haryana had his task cut out against his sparring partner but he again emerged victorious.

Panghal, who had clinched a Gold in his new weight category in the Asian Championship, defeated national champion P.L. Prasad in the second 52kg semifinal. Panghal had won the Asian Games Gold in Jakarta last year in 49kg. "Amit has improved a lot of late

Kom tells Nikhat to prove herself in ring

PTI ■ GUWAHATI

Avid Mary Kom on Thursday asked her vanquished opponent Nikhat Zareen to prove herself in the ring instead of making irritating comments.

Mary was reacting to former world junior champion Nikhat's comments in the media that she was excited to take on her 'idol' and she would "put up a strong fight by using her brain" in the India Open 51kg semifinals which the celebrated Manipuri boxer won on Thursday.

"Every bout is a new experience for me. Even I don't know who this girl is. I've been fighting since many years now. I clearly want to say I don't want all this. It has come out in the newspapers that she's challenging me," Mary Kom said after beating Nikhat to enter the 51kg final.

Mary Kom beat 22-year-old Nikhat 4-1 in a split decision.

"First you prove inside the ring and then speak out (against me). She has won just one medal at the international level and such is her ego and attitude! They feel proud and satisfied. This is a very bad habit," the 36-year-old Mary Kom said.

"How many years I've competed for the country? And how many times I've proved? It's better to say in a mild way. They are so lucky fighting with me. They will get more experience," the London Olympics Bronze medalist continued.

Mary Kom, however, said Nikhat's comments made her more determined.

"I was so surprised to read her comments in the newspaper. It's so irritating. How can they say all this. Yes, everyone has the right to say and anyone can challenge. But I'm also a human being. It causes a lot of disturbance. Never mind, it made me more determined to do well."

Told that Nikhat considered her as her idol, Mary Kom said: "Why they challenge me then? Idol means you have to show respect, talk with respect."

The 36-year-old Mary Kom, who was making her competitive debut at home in 51kg, took some blows initially but was quick to make amends as Nikhat was not able to connect her punches as the bout progressed

but this is my big chance to show my prowess at a major competition. I hope to give my best and return winner," Sivach, who won a Bronze at the GeeBee Boxing tournament in Finland in March, said.

Shiva Thapa also remained on course to clinching a Gold at the same venue where he was crowned national champion three years ago as he fended off a strong challenge from his Polish opponent D Krystian Szczepanski to emerge 5-0 winner.

Szczepanski was at his aggressive best and kept hurling punches but Shiva cleverly kept frustrating his opponent by going out of his range.

"It made him tired at the end of every round. I was playing my style, did not give my 100 per cent. I was just trying to be tactical with him and let his punches go in the air and miss it so that he loses his control and confidence," Shiva said.

He will face Manish Kaushik in the 60kg final on Friday.

There was also a setback in store for India in the men's 75kg category, when Manjeet Panghal twisted his knee in the first round to be knocked out by his Filipino opponent Eumir Felix Delos Santos.

Santos will face Ashish Kumar in the final.

Former Asian champion Chatchai Decha Butdee of Thailand also created an upset in the men's 56kg by ousting former World Championship Bronze medalist Gaurav Bidhuri in a unanimous decision. The Thai will take on Kavinder Singh Bisht in the final.

The 64kg category will also see a non-Indian in the final with Rohit Tokas taking on Colin Louis Richarno of Mauritius.

FIFA drop plans for 48-team 2022 WC

AFP ■ LAUSANNE

FIFA shelved a proposed expansion of the 2022 World Cup in Qatar to 48 teams, dealing a blow to the world football body's president Gianni Infantino.

The 2022 tournament in the Gulf state will now be played with 32 nations taking part.

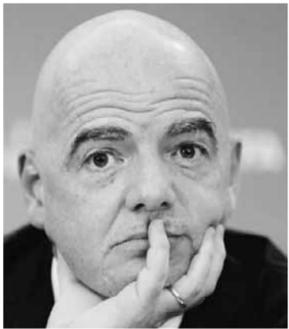

FIFA said it had abandoned the expansion plans "following a thorough and comprehensive consultation process" which led to the conclusion that "under the current circumstances such a proposal could not be made now".

"(The tournament) will therefore remain as originally planned with 32 teams and no proposal will be submitted at the next FIFA Congress on 5 June," FIFA said in a statement.

The expansion was a pet project of Infantino, who pushed the idea despite the likely need for Qatar's neighbours to put aside a two-year blockade and help to host an expanded tournament.

"The involvement of these countries in the organisation of the tournament jointly with Qatar implies the lifting of this blockade, in particular the lifting of restrictions on the movement of people and goods," said a feasibility study submitted to March's FIFA Congress in Miami.

The study also claimed that a Qatar World Cup with 48 teams would generate "between $300-$400 million (265-354 million euros) of additional income".

Specifically FIFA was counting on an additional $120 million in TV rights, $150 million in marketing rights and $90 million from ticket sales.

The news comes after Europe's top football clubs said in March they would boycott an expanded 24-team Club World Cup — also backed by Infantino — which is planned to take place in June and July 2021, replacing the Confederations Cup tournament.

An announcement of the final decision had not been expected until next month's FIFA Congress to be held in Paris ahead of the women's World Cup that takes place in France between June 7 and July 7.

WC exile Hales will still cheer on England

AFP ■ LONDON

Alex Hales insists he will still support England at the upcoming World Cup despite his shock exile from international cricket.

The Nottinghamshire batsman was on course to feature for World Cup hosts England until a report in the Guardian newspaper last month revealed he was serving a 21-day ban following a second positive test for recreational drug use.

The England and Wales Cricket Board responded to the report by announcing that Hales, a member of the provisional World Cup squad, had been withdrawn from international duty.

Hales, 30, is now turning his attention instead to a stint with the Barbados Tridents in the seventh season of the Caribbean Premier League.

The hard-hitting batsman, speaking after being selected as the first pick in the draft for the Twenty20 franchise competition staged in London on Wednesday, said he still wanted England to win the World Cup in his absence.

"I'm still a fan and wish all the boys all the best. What we have done over the last few years has been unbelievable," Hales said in an interview broadcast by Sky Sports.

"I will be (keeping an eye on the World Cup). The guys deserve to win it and I'll be sat there watching and cheering."

As for his feelings about his World Cup exile, confirmed when Hales was left out of England's 15-man tournament squad announced Tuesday, he simply added: "I'm not here to talk about that."

The CPL draft saw Hales selected ahead of West Indies captain Jason Holder and star batsman Chris Gayle, with the competition starting on September 4.

"I just want to get back playing what I love most and that's cricket," Hales, now a white-ball specialist, added.

"This is such a good opportunity to go and play at a ground where I have such fond memories of — the Kensington Oval — and play in a big tournament in some different conditions."

"I've got a few things to do with the English Cricket Board (ECB), there's obviously a process to go through and then I start training I guess."

Favourites tag won't win India or Eng the WC: Shakib

IANS ■ NEW DELHI

Hosts England and Team India have been touted as favourites to go the distance in the 2019 edition of the World Cup. But Bangladesh all-rounder Shakib Al Hasan is keen to remind all that cricket is a game that is played on the field and not on paper.

Shakib said that while there is no doubt that Eoin Morgan and Virat Kohli's men are ruling world cricket at the moment in the 50-over format, the favourites tag alone doesn't win any team the coveted title in the 50-over World Cup.

"India and England are obviously favourites, but that doesn't get you the crown. You need to do the hard yards to win a tournament like the World Cup. Australia have been doing well recently and West Indies have peaked at the right time. To be honest, all the teams look like they are ready for a fight. Depends on who that day does well," he pointed.

Personally, Shakib got the perfect boost going into the showpiece event as he overtook Afghanistan star Rashid Khan as the No 1 all-rounder in ODIs. But for the star Bangladesh player, he wants the trophy that ultimately decides who the boss is.

"This time I think we have a genuine chance of winning the tournament, but keeping the format of the tournament in mind, we must look to play well consistently. If we can do that, we can definitely look at qualifying for the knockouts and take it forward from there. I am confident that we will do well this time."

"Personally, obviously I wish that Bangladesh win the trophy this time. But a lot of factors need to click together for that dream to be realised. While I didn't play much in the IPL, I had been working hard on my game and was looking to prepare for the World Cup. Gave it my all in the practice sessions and tried to maximise the output in every training session," he explained.

While Bangladesh have in the last few years made a name for themselves in the big league by putting in far more consistent performances than before, but Shakib is still a bit worried with the team's bowling attack. The all-rounder though feels that the experience in the side will come to the rescue in crunch games.

"I think we have a very good side, I am a little worried about the bowling, both new ball and the death. But I am very much optimistic that we can go the whole length. We have experience, have guys who have played 3 or 4 World Cups. It is a good thing as we know what we need to do. Need to get the momentum early on. I am confident. Anyone can beat anyone on their day. Consistency is an important factor to go all the way," he revealed.

With the advent of the various T20 leagues, Bangladesh players are now getting an opportunity to rub shoulders with some of the best players in the world. In fact, they also have their own T20 league and Shakib feels this has helped in getting quality players to play for the country as talent can be identified better now thanks to so many platforms.

"I feel playing in the T20 leagues around the world has really helped our boys in recent times as you gain in experience. Apart from building your own game, you also get to see other stars closely and try and learn from them as well. It has helped us become more competitive as a unit," he smiled.

Ronaldo included in Portugal squad

Cristiano will lead Euro champions in UEFA Nations League semi final against Switzerland

LISBON: Captain Cristiano Ronaldo was included in Portugal's squad for next month's Nations League semi-final against Switzerland, head coach Fernando Santos announced on Thursday.

Ronaldo, 34, a five-time Ballon d'Or winner missed the group stages preferring to try and adapt to life in Juventus since moving from Real Madrid.

The Euro 2016 champions welcome the Swiss on June 5 in Porto and the Netherlands play England in Guimaraes a day later before a third place play-off and a final on June 9.

Head coach Fernando Santos has chosen not to call up veterans Adrien Silva, Nani and Ricardo Quaresma and Sevilla forward Andre Silva misses out with a knee injury.

Highly-touted Joao uncapped youngster Joao Felix is also included alongside three other club teammates who won the Portuguese league champions this season.

Portugal squad to face Switzerland on June 5 in the Nations League semis. AFP

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Jofra Archer, the England pacesetter, has come in for high praise from India captain Virat Kohli, who said he would be the "X factor" for England at the ICC Men's Cricket World Cup 2019.

Kohli was speaking during the Captain's Day in London, alongside the skipper of the other 10 teams, when it was put to him that Archer, after being confirmed in England's final 15-man squad, had said he was eyeing the Indian captain's wicket. "I'd quite like to get Virat Kohli out because I wasn't able to in the IPL," he told Sky Sports.

Kohli wasn't aware of that, but the Indian captain made it a point to laud the all-rounder, who was fast-tracked into the England squad for the tournament, having not played an ODI prior to the naming of their preliminary squad.

"Did he say that? I had no idea - that's news to me. It's news to Morgs as well," Kohli said with a smile. "We don't really focus on these things. We don't really focus on whether an individual wants to get you out or whether you're spoken of more or things like that."

"Our focus is on contributing to the team. I take a lot of pride in performing for the team, and making impact performances in every game. If Jofra said that, it's a big compliment. Because he himself is a world-class bowler."

Kohli went on to describe his observations of Archer during their clashes in the Indian Premier League. "The way he's come about in the IPL the last couple of years I've seen

Archer is England's 'X factor': Kohli

"I think he's probably going to be their X factor, because he holds a skillset that's very different from anyone else. He can generate a lot of pace, which can be intimidating. You don't really expect that because of his run-up" him, there's good reason why he was fast-tracked into playing for England in a tournament like the World Cup," said Kohli.

"I think he's probably going to be their X factor, because he holds a skillset that's very different from anyone else. He can generate a lot of pace, which can be intimidating. You don't really expect that because of his run-up."

"And the way he's built, he's a great athlete. He's going to be a delight to watch in the World Cup. I personally would be watching his bowling as well - whatever I've seen of him, he's been very impressive."

Eoin Morgan, the England captain, who was sat right next to Kohli, concurred and added that it was a huge opportunity for Archer. "Nothing's surprised me about him. He's come in and performed exactly how he has been around the world," said Morgan. "He's impressive in all three parts of a 50-over game, he gives you an option in different areas, and obviously has that extra bit of pace."

"It is a huge opportunity. The guy is very young, very ambitious, very confident, wants to play international cricket for England. That's extremely exciting. He's at the very start of his international career, and it so happens that it's at the start of the World Cup and Ashes year, and he could potentially have lots of time playing. It's extremely exciting."

Eng can reach 500 in WC: Kohli

Virat also says World Cup will see run fest but pressure will make even 260-270 hard to chase

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

England could be the first team to score 500 runs in ODIs, India captain Virat Kohli said in jest as captains could not agree on the scoring trends in what is expected to be a high-scoring World Cup.

With 481 for six against Australia last year, England already hold the record of highest ODI total. In their build to the World Cup, they outplayed Pakistan 4-0 in a high-scoring series. At the captains' media interaction ahead of the mega event, Kohli was asked if the 500-run mark could be breached in this edition.

"I was just going to say it really depends on these guys. They seem to be obsessed with getting to 500 before anyone else," said Kohli while pointing to his English counterpart Eoin Morgan, who sat next to him.

Kohli conceded that the tournament will see a run-fest but pressure of playing in a World Cup will make even 260-270 hard to chase.

"It is going to be a high scoring tournament but back home too I said 260-270 will also will be as tough to get in a World Cup as chasing 370-380. I don't see many high scoring games in the later stages of the tournament, initially some teams might get on a roll but later on you will see 250 defended as well. That is the kind of pressure World Cup brings."

The Indian captain expects the teams to be more cautious as the tournament progresses.

"Not all the teams are going to be in a great position (in the later half). The ones who have to make sure that they get the result are going to be under pressure to chase even a small total. The fact that you are going to be close to a knock out berth will get you under pressure in the latter stages and all teams recognise that."

"Then you will not see many teams going gung ho from ball one. Generally both teams would like to start in a balanced way and look to capitalise on the moments. So I see pressure being a massive factor in the World Cup."

The same question was posed to Australian captain Aaron Finch, who was also part of the 2015 World Cup winning squad.

"If you see the last couple of years, trajectory of scores has been going up and up in England. We have been at the receiving end of the highest one. I don't want to put a number on it. Hard to tell (what could be the highest-score in the tournament)."

"On small grounds with good pitches, if the top order gets going, the teams are so explosive these days and if they keep going till the end it (the total) could be anything."

Finch picked India and England as the teams to watch out though he said it would be a highly competitive tournament with all teams playing each other at least once.

Kohli also agreed with Finch that England are going into the World Cup as the "strongest" side.

The marquee clash of the mega event will be on June 16 when India take on arch-rivals Pakistan at Old Trafford.

A question on that mouth-watering contest was always coming and when it came, Kohli and Pakistan skipper Sarfaraz Ahmed were asked how they will approach the high-pressure game. And their reply was a stock one.

"Look India Pakistan is always a very very anticipated match but we keep saying again and again. If you ask the players it is very different from how the fans look at the game. Yes you feel the anticipation and excitement of the fans when you enter the stadium but as soon as you step on the field, it is very professional."

"For us it is just another game you need to win as a team. Yes it brings pressure because the atmosphere in the stadium is very different and as I said you only experience that till the time you start competing in the game. As soon as you get into it, it is a game of cricket for all of us," said the India captain as Sarfaraz nodded in agreement.

"My answer is the same. I don't need to add," said the Pakistan skipper.

While many expect a bagful of runs in the World Cup, bowlers are bound to come into play at some point, said New Zealand skipper Kane Williamson.

"We have spoken about the batting but equally important is the bowling. I have no doubt that there will be venues who will be more suited to the bowlers. We will have to find a way to play well in all conditions," said Williamson.

Spin will decide Aussies fate: Ponting

PTI ■ MELBOURNE

Former skipper Ricky Ponting believes defending champion Australia's ability to bowl and play spin will define their success in the upcoming World Cup.

"The thing that will define Australia's success in the World Cup is, one, how well they bowl spin and, two, how well they play it," Ponting was quoted as saying by the Sydney Morning Herald.

"That's been their Achilles' heel the last 12 or 18 months. With [Adam] Zampa bowling well now, Nathan Lyon's obviously in the squad and Glenn Maxwell's done a good job with the ball whenever he's played."

Ponting said there were concerns about the middle-order's ability to play spin a year ago but the return of David Warner and Steve Smith has strengthened the team.

"And I think some of our middle order are probably slightly better players of spin now than they were 12 or 18 months ago," said the 44-year-old, who won Australia the 1999 World Cup as a player, before guiding the team to successive titles in the next two editions as a captain.

"With Warner there now and Steve Smith coming back in, the middle order looks a lot better against spin bowling than it probably was."

Warner and Smith had served a 12-month ban and returned to competitive cricket at the Indian Premier League with Warner amassing 692 runs in 12 matches and Smith scoring 319 runs in 12 matches and leading Rajasthan Royals to three wins in five matches.

"They're both playing really well. Steve Smith still thinks he's not probably 100 per cent fit just yet — but he's not far away. And Warner's been the dominant batsman in the IPL," Ponting said.

There are concerns that Smith and Warner will be targeted by the crowd during the World Cup with English cricketer Moeen Ali urging the spectators to treat them with respect.

"Those two coming in, obviously they're class players — they'll have their fair share of issues to deal with from the crowds and stuff when they get over there," he said.

"But they're big boys. They've been there and seen it all before. I'm sure they'll be fine."

Australia will begin their campaign against Afghanistan on June 1 at Bristol.

Amla hungrier than ever before

PTI ■ DUBAI

Time away from the game has made him "hungrier than ever before" says South Africa batsman Hashim Amla, gearing up for his third World Cup.

With more than 18,000 international runs under his belt, Amla was once a batting mainstay for Proteas but lost his place in the team due to a dip in form.

He missed the ODI series against Sri Lanka earlier this year, with Aiden Markram taking his place as an opener alongside vice-captain Quinton de Kock in the series.

Amla was also missing in action at the IPL and he says the long break helped him to sharpen his game.

"Things happen that you don't anticipate and I did not anticipate how things have gone recently. But I am a firm believer that when something happens, there is some good in it. I have had time away and now I am really looking back to wearing the green and gold again," Amla was quoted as saying by the ICC.

"I am hungrier than ever before, there is no doubt about that. I have been blessed to have this shirt for a while but the time off has made me want to come back stronger."

"This is my third (World Cup) so I know what it is all about. I have a strong record in England and I have always enjoyed coming here."

The 36-year-old has already featured in two World Cups for South Africa but New Zealand ended their run in both the editions — quarter-finals in 2011 and semi-finals four years ago.

South Africa will open their campaign against World No 1 England, a side tipped to win the World Cup, and Amla believes the underdog status will suit South Africa.

"It is the best first game we could have asked for. We have played England recently and had some success against them, I have done well against them too," he said.

"This year, you don't see the same big names and that is why the focus is not on us but that has some good in it. There has not been much chat about us winning in comparison to the past but I don't think that played a part in how we performed."

"At the end of the day, we always gave our best and played to win. The fact there has not been a lot of chat at this World Cup means there is less expectation but in the team we think we can do well."

There's plenty to learn from Aus, says Root

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

England batsman Joe Root said that there is plenty to learn from Australia, whom they play in an official warm-up match on Saturday, 25 May, and their history in World Cups.

Australia have historically raised their game at the ICC Men's Cricket World Cup, displaying sustained excellence and ruthless professionalism. Those are the very traits that have given them four title wins in the last five editions of the tournament.

"Australia have always had strong squads," Root told Sky Sports. "They've gone into every World Cup right up there in terms of the rankings and depth within their squad for a number of those World Cups and they've won pressure moments. So there's plenty to learn from them as a side."

Root was also excited by the challenge of taking on a rejuvenated Australian team at the World Cup. Australia have won their last eight ODIs on the trot, and that was even before the returns of Steve Smith and David Warner. With the two now back, it has only further shored up the side's strength and confidence.

"We've got two of the best players [Warner and Smith] back playing for Australia now. It's bubbling up very nicely to be a very exciting series, and I'm sure that World Cup game won't disappoint either," Root said. "We want to beat Australia's strongest side and those two are definitely in that. It's a very exciting period for us, and we've got such a great opportunity to do something very special."

Reflecting on England's own transformation into a world-class ODI team, Root put it down to a lot of hard work and hoped they could enjoy the fruits of that labour at the World Cup. Since the 2015 World Cup, England have won 58 out of their 88 matches, making them the winningest team in the interim four-year period.

"I'd like to think that the way that we've improved over this four-year cycle, we are probably ahead of where we thought we would be at this stage," Root said. "We've worked really hard to deserve the tag of the No.1-ranked team going into the tournament; I think we should enjoy that. We should get a lot of confidence from that and really embrace that and enjoy what we've been doing and take it forward into the games."

"The best thing about it is that we are confident, but we are realistic that nothing is ever given to you in this game, and that you are going to have to continue to work very hard. To win a tournament, you have to be consistent as well."

Afridi wants no excuse from 'balanced' Pak

IANS ■ LAHORE

Bowling has always been Pakistan's strength and the return of Wahab Riaz and Mohammad Amir has given the unit the much-needed balance feels former Pakistan skipper Shahid Afridi.

"We did quite a few experiments with the side. We rested the seniors in the series against Australia, giving chance to youngsters," Afridi said in a video posted by the Pakistan Cricket Board on its twitter account.

"Our bowling struggled before the World Cup I think because they lacked experience there. Now Wahab Riaz, (leg-spinner) Shadab Khan and Mohammad Amir are back and it's a well-balanced team. We should not have any excuse now."

Afridi said that the best part about this Pakistan team was that the batting — which has always been an area of concern — has looked good this time round.

"I think this team has the right combination. The best thing is (that) batting used to be a constant worry for us but our batsmen are now in good form," he explained.

But Afridi warned that in a tournament like the World Cup, it will be very important to start well and gain momentum early into the event.

"It's very important to win the first couple of matches to build a momentum ... Our youngsters are capable of beating any team in the world."

"I see Pakistan as one of the teams in the semi-finals and, God willing, I'm confident they'll play the final too. Pressure is inevitable in international cricket. It tests a player and his mental strength. But World Cup is also a great opportunity to become a hero with the whole world looking at you."

Marsh happy to be play as floater

NEW DELHI: Australia batsman Shaun Marsh said that he is not worried about his role, or the competition for spots, at the upcoming men's World Cup.

Marsh, who scored an unbeaten half-century in Australia's comfortable win over West Indies in an unofficial fixture on Wednesday said that he was happy with the acclimatisation the knock afforded him.

Marsh was one of Australia's biggest positives in their 5-0 defeat against England in June last year. The 35-year-old had scored 288 runs at an average of 57.60, which included two spectacular hundreds.

"It certainly does give you confidence if you've scored runs here in the past," Marsh told reporters. "It was nice to spend some time out in the middle and get my feet moving, I enjoy batting out here. Obviously, it's a different challenge. The wickets are slower [compared] to what they are back home, and it swings around a bit."

Marsh didn't sound worried about making the XI and also brushed aside concerns when asked if he thinks he will be competing with Usman Khawaja for a spot in the team. "I'm not really sure. I'd like to think I'm nice and flexible," he said. "I've batted from one to six throughout my career. I'm just going to try and enjoy the practice games and spend more time out in the middle. And see what happens."

PNS

Khawaja survives 'scary' blow

PTI ■ SOUTHAMPTON

Australia suffered an injury scare ahead of the World Cup after opener Usman Khawaja suffered a nasty blow on the helmet while batting against West Indies in a warm-up match.

Khawaja was struck by a bouncer from Andre Russell in the second over while Australia was chasing 230, forcing the opener to retire hurt.

He looked in discomfort and walked off the field accompanied by Australian team doctor Richard Saw, sending a scare through the Australian World Cup camp.

However, scans on his jaw later cleared him of any serious injury as Australia

Bumrah among Lee's top 3 WC quicks

PTI ■ MELBOURNE

Former Australian pacer Brett Lee has picked India's Jasprit Bumrah as one of his top three fast bowlers for the upcoming World Cup.

"What a wonderful bowler," said Lee of Bumrah, who has taken 85 wickets in 49 ODIs. "He's got a good record, wonderful yorker, good pace," added the Australian.

Besides Bumrah, Lee picked compatriots Mitchell Starc and Pat Cummins as the other two fast bowlers who will do well at the quadrennial tournament.

"You'd have to stick with Mitchell Starc," Lee told cricket.Com.Au.

Starc, a left-arter, had suffered a chest injury last February and is nearing peak fitness. "He's still got that quality. When that pace is up he's hard to go past," Lee said of Starc, who was the 2015 Player of the Tournament for his 22 wickets at 10 runs apiece.

Heaping praise on Cummins, Lee said, "Pat Cummins: pace, accuracy, variations. He can do it all." In six matches this year, Cummins has taken 17 wickets at just 14.29.

breathed a sigh of relief. "It was very scary," said Shaun Marsh, who hit an unbeaten half-century in the victory.

"It copped him on the side of the cheekbone ... The main thing is he is OK and can bounce back pretty quickly."

"(Khawaja was) a bit shaken, as you are when you get hit on the head. But he is a tough cookie, Uzzy, and he'll be ready to go." Khawaja didn't take part in the match again even as Australia went on to register a seven-wicket victory over West Indies in the first of their three warm-up games.

Khawaja is expected to be available for selection for Australia's next warm-up match against England on Saturday.