Prez Rule in Maharashtra, parties relieved

More time for political manoeuvring to form Govt, feel parties, but Congress, NCP cry foul over Guv's haste; Sena to move SC

PNS ■ NEW DELHI/MUMBAI

Maharashtra was on Tuesday placed under President's Rule, which came as a major relief to all the four stakeholders who now have enough time to outdo each other in the race for Government formation in the State. The Shiv Sena and the NCP admitted this and said they were not in a hurry, while the Congress maintained it will talk to Uddhav's party after discussing threadbare with Sharad Pawar's entity to reach a common ground.

Following the Centre's move, the Shiv Sena said it is readying a petition to challenge the President's Rule decision in the Supreme Court. A final call will be taken on Wednesday, Shiv Sena's advocate said. The SC may hear the petition challenging the Governor's decision on Wednesday.

Except for the BJP, the Shiv Sena, NCP and Congress all have cried foul over the Governor's role. "The way President's Rule was recommended, I condemn it. This Government has violated the SC guidelines on President's Rule on several occasions in the last 5 years," Ahmed Patel said.

Sena suffered a setback in its efforts to cobble up a non-BJP Government in Maharashtra with the Congress at the last moment announcing its decision to hold more talks with ally NCP on supporting the Shiv Sena.

Security outside Raj Bhawan in Mumbai on Tuesday after Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari recommended the imposition of President's Rule in the State in view of stalemate over Government formation PTI

Interestingly, while the BJP, which had given up its claim, appeared once again on the scene to assert it was back in the contention, the Sena still showed signs of willingness to go with its longtime NDA ally if the BJP gave it what it wanted — the Chief Ministership for two and half years.

"We have six months, we will sit down with the Congress and NCP," Uddhav told reporters after a meeting with his MLAs.

In a Press conference with Congress leaders, Pawar said they were in no hurry and will take a decision after holding further talks with the Congress.

Senior Congress leader Ahmed Patel maintained his party will hold talks with the Sena only after its talks with the NCP culminate. But then, BJP leader Narain Rane came out to say that his party will try to form a Government and that former Chief Minister Devendra Fadnis is putting in all efforts in this direction.

Patel along with KC Venugopal and Mallikarjun Kharge was dispatched by Congress president Sonia Gandhi to hold talks with Pawar to thrash out all niggling issues that could make or mar the prospective alliance with an ideologically opposite party. The political manoeuvring continued till late evening. Earlier, the Centre imposed President's Rule after Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari recommended it five hours before the expiry of the 8.30 pm deadline given to the NCP to express its willingness to form the Government. The Union Cabinet subsequently met and approved the recommendation before Prime Minister Narendra Modi's departure to Brazil for the BRICS Summit.

The Shiv Sena moved the SC challenging the Governor's decision to not grant it more time for the Government formation exercise.

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

A reluctant Congress, which did not make its mind to back an ideologically different party in forming a Government in Maharashtra, got more confused when a day earlier its long time ally NCP chief Sharad Pawar communicated to Congress president Sonia Gandhi that "he (Pawar) will first assess the situation in joining hands with the Shiv Sena and get back to the party".

This made the grand old party send three top leaders — Ahmed Patel, Mallikarjun Kharge and KC Venugopal — to meet Pawar in Mumbai and comprehend the nitty-gritty further. The Congress has been extremely reluctant to back the Shiv Sena, given the severe ideological mismatch and the fact that the two parties fought bitterly as rivals in Mumbai and other parts of the State in the polls.

The leaders were supposed to visit early in the day to Mumbai but their plan deferred after, according to sources in AICC, Pawar conveyed that State leaders of both the parties will first discuss the "terms and conditions" of the Government formation in the State.

Both Sonia and Pawar had spoken earlier where both are believed to have discussed on a "common minimum programme" before giving any word to the Shiv Sena. Pawar also informed the Congress central leadership that he would come to Delhi and finalise details with them during the day. When Pawar expressed his inability to visit the national Capital, the Congress decided to send the leaders to meet Pawar.

Though the meeting remained inconclusive, leaders of the two allies said further discussions would be needed to decide on the issue of Government formation in the State. Congress' distrust for Shiv Sena apart, it also did not want to go the whole hog on the advice of the NCP chief without plugging all loopholes. NCP leader Ajit Pawar had stopped short of blaming ally Congress for the "delay" in deciding on whether to support the Shiv Sena in a non-BJP Government in Maharashtra. And sources said his uncle, Sharad Pawar, is upset with the Congress for it.

Congress held off on sending its leaders to Mumbai early morning, asking Pawar to come to Delhi instead and speak to Sonia. But Pawar declined, citing a meeting with his party MLAs, and the two then spoke on the phone.

Pawar angle common in all three Prez Rule

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Maharashtra is witnessing President's Rule for the third time in its history with the first being in 1980 and the second in 2014. Interestingly, Pawar has always been in the mix of things on all the three occasions, the Shiv Sena being an addition this time round.

It was the Sharad Pawar-led Progressive Democratic Front Government that the Congress had dismissed first in 1980 to impose President's Rule.

In 2014, the Congress Government led by Prithvi Raj Chavan was dismissed by the Narendra Modi dispensation after it lost majority following Sharad Pawar's NCP withdrawing support to it.

The longest duration that Maharashtra was under President's Rule was for 112 days from February 17, 1980, to June 8, 1980, despite then Chief Minister Sharad Pawar enjoying majority in the House. When Indira came back to power in 1980, she dismissed all non-Congress State Governments in Bihar, Gujarat, Odisha, Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, besides Maharashtra. She was retaliating for the dismissal of eight Congress Governments by the Janata Party dispensation in 1977.

She wanted to ensure the Congress majority in the country after the collapse of the Morarji Desai-led Janata Party Government at the Centre. Pawar was leading the coalition Government in Maharashtra at that time and he had won the majority. The President's Rule came to an end when Abdul Rehman Antulay took over as the Chief Minister of the State.

President's Rule was again imposed for 32 days from September 28, 2014, to October 31, 2014, after then Chief Minister Prithviraj Chavan resigned following the break-up of the 15-year-old Congress-NCP alliance. The NCP had pulled out of the alliance after blaming Congress for stalling talks over seat-sharing.

Article 356, known as President's Rule, deals with failure of constitutional machinery in the State. Under President's Rule, the Governor runs the State with the help of the Chief Secretary. But the Governor cannot take any policy decisions, which can only be taken by the Union Government with the assent of Parliament.

CJI within RTI Act ambit? SC verdict today

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

A five-judge Constitution Bench headed by Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi will pronounce on Wednesday at 2pm its verdict on petitions challenging the Delhi High Court decision bringing the office of the Chief Justice of India (CJI) under the ambit of the Right to Information (RTI) Act, as per the notice on the SC's official website on Tuesday.

Other members of the bench are Justices NV Ramana, DY Chandrachud, Deepak Gupta and Sanjiv Khanna.

Fake doctor posted for 3 yrs in S'garh Govt hosp

Probe ordered after plaint; fraudster now missing

PNS ■ ROURKELA

A fake doctor had been working in a rural hospital on contractual basis for nearly three years! After a buzz over it by media and public, the doctor is now reportedly missing.

He was identified as Padmanavan Mukhi Karwa, posted in the Nuagaon New PHC in 2016. He occasionally went on deputation to the Hatibari CHC.

As the area is a tribals-dominated region, he was succeeding to camouflage his true identity and cheat the patients there. But the pharmacist working in the hospital had a haunch over his qualification as he was prescribing wrong medicines.

After that, some local residents finally could know the education certificates of the fake doctor through an RTI reply. It is also alleged that since last many months, the locals were applying for information about the doctor through RTI, but they were denied the same as the fake doctor has certain nexus with some officials in the office of the CDMO, Sundargarh.

It is also learnt that earlier to this, the accused doctor was posted in the Hi Tech Medical College and Hospital, Railways and the Rourkela Steel Plant (RSP) Social Welfare Department by submission of a fake certificate.

Even it is learnt that on January 1, 2018, professor of Hi Tech Medical College Dr Sradhananda Mohapatra had written to the CDMO Sundargarh that Karwa is not a registered MBBS doctor. Despite this, he was allowed to continue in his position.

Interestingly, the doctor's documents reveal that he is a resident of Bihar but got MBBS from the VIMSAR, Burla and schooling from Rourkela. But without getting registered under the Odisha Medical Council, he has registered in the Bihar Medical Council which clearly raises eyebrows. Despite this without thoroughly verifying his documents in first stage, the Hi Tech Medical College and Hospital, Railways and the Rourkela Steel Plant (RSP) Social Welfare Department gave him posting and later tried to verify the documents. Interestingly none of the management of those three organisations sued the fake doctor.

CDMO, Sundargarh Dr Saroj Mishra said he has written to the VIMSAR authorities to verify credentials of Karwa. He further said that as he is new and the initial probe revealed that Karwa was registered with the Bihar Medical Council, he has also written to the Bihar Medical Council to verify the authenticity of his credentials.

Meanwhile, an inquiry has been initiated into the matter.

Video of cop demanding bribe viral

PNS ■ BARIPADA

The video of the Inspector-in-Charge of the Badasahi police station in Mayurbhanj district demanding bribe has gone viral on social media.

Bishwaj Kumar Rout was seen demanding the bribe from a person to release a vehicle, which was seized by the police seven days ago. Taking cognisance of the matter, Mayurbhanj SP P Parmar immediately suspended the IIC on Tuesday.

"I came to know about the matter from the viral video. Whether he has received the bribe amount or not is still not clear. But it is confirmed that Rout was demanding the illegal gratification," said Parmar.

"Earlier, there were complaints against Rout that he was not doing his duty properly. As there was no proof, any action was being not taken against him. But yesterday, the video confirmed us about his acts and he has been suspended", Parmar added.

Farm fires, sinking mercury may plunge Delhi air to 'emergency'

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Raging stubble fires in neighbouring States, fall in the temperature and wind speed pushed the national Capital's air quality in the "severe" zone on Tuesday with the Government's air quality monitor, SAFAR, forecasting that pollution levels in Delhi-NCR are expected to enter the "severe plus" or "emergency" category on Wednesday.

Meteorologists said Delhi recorded a minimum temperature of 11.7 degrees Celsius, the season's lowest so far on Tuesday morning. It is two notches below normal for this time of the year. "A dip in wind speed and temperature makes the air cold and dense," leading to accumulation of pollutants in the air, said Kuldeep Srivastava, head of the India Meteorological Department's regional weather forecasting centre.

According to the Central Pollution Control Bureau (CPCB), Delhi's overall air quality index (AQI) was 425 at 4 pm on Tuesday. It was 360 at 4 pm on Monday.

The levels of PM 2.5 — tiny particulate matter less than 2.5 microns in diameter that can enter deep into the lungs and even the bloodstream — shot up to 292 micrograms per cubic metre, around five times the safe limit of 0-60 micrograms per cubic metre.

The levels of PM10 increased to 436 micrograms per cubic metre, more than four times the safe limit of 100 micrograms per cubic metre.

Most of the 37 air quality monitoring stations in Delhi recorded air quality in the severe category. The spike in pollution came on a day when the Delhi Government lifted restrictions under its odd-even vehicle rationing scheme in view of the the 550th birth anniversary of Sikhism founder Guru Nanak Dev. Bawana was the most-polluted area in the city with an AQI of 458, followed by Wazirpur (454), Rohini (454), Dwarka Sector-8 (453) and Anand Vihar (450).

Assembly session from today

Opposition to take on Govt over 5T, Mo Sarkar

Treasury Bench ready to discuss constructive issues: Arukha

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

With Winter Session of the 16th Odisha Legislative Assembly (OLA) beginning on Wednesday, Opposition BJP and Congress have already made strategies to counter the State Government on various issues, including 5T initiative and Mo Sarkar programme.

The alleged suicide of Jajpur district's Haridashpur VILW Smitarani Biswal and the Kendrapara Credit Cooperative Society sexual harassment case will be other major issues against the Government.

"We will raise several issues pertaining to law and order and corruption to take on the BJD Government. We will also seek a discussion on the Jagannath Temple's missing key case and the Government's delay in tabling the Judicial Commission's Report on the matter," said Leader of Opposition Pradipta Kumar Naik.

He also said the BJP MLAs would highlight the State

Government's 'partisan approach' in distribution of aid to Cyclone Fan-affected people.

"People having links with the BJD have been given more than one house while the eligible ones have been deprived of the support," he said.

Naik said the alleged irregularities in the KALIA scheme would also be raised in the House.

Congress Legislature Party Leader Narasingha Mishra said the State Government has failed to tackle the situation that arose out of natural calamities.

"We will also seek a discussion on the Government's 5T initiative and Mo Sarkar programme. The Government has been shielding some senior bureaucrats who are in neck-deep in corruption," said Mishra. Senior Congress MLAs Taraprasad Bahinipati and Suresh Routray said they would seek explanation for the 'deteriorating law and order' situation in the State.

Meanwhile, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Bikram Kesari Arukha sought the cooperation of the Opposition parties for the smooth functioning of the Assembly. "The Treasury Bench is ready for discussion on all constructive issues to be raised by the opposition parties," he asserted.

As per schedule, the Winter Session will run from November 13 to December 19 with 30 working days in-between.

The first Supplementary Budget for the 2019-20 fiscal will be presented by Finance Minister Niranjana Pujari on the opening day and the Appropriation Bill will be placed on 25 November.

MLAs can ask questions via mobile app: Speaker Patro

DGP reviews security arrangement for legislature

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

With an objective to switch over to a paperless State Assembly, Speaker Surjya Narayan Patro on Tuesday said MLAs can put their questions and seek answers through mobile app this winter session scheduled to start from Wednesday (November 13).

Patro informed that the Assembly premises would be completely Wi-Fi-enabled soon. Arrangements and changes like infrastructure would be carried out to move towards the paperless concept, he added.

Meanwhile on Tuesday, DGP BK Sharma reviewed the security arrangement at the Assembly ahead of the winter session. Police Commissioner Sudhansu Sarangi and DCP Bhubaneswar Anup Sahoo were present during the review.

A total of 30 platoons of police force and 90 officers would be deployed to ensure foolproof security for the legislature. "However, the cops' deployment depends on the requirement on a day-to-day basis, the DGP said, adding that the Assembly premises would be kept under the glare of CCTV cameras.

A three-tier security arrangement has been made in the Assembly premises. Two platoons of Special Tactical Unit, Striking Force and Quick Response Team would be deployed at the legislature.

To maintain law and order at the Lower PMG, which is located close to the Assembly and is the venue for series of protests during the sessions of the legislature, some officers of the Seventh Battalion have been given special training. Besides, experienced officers would be deployed at the Assembly, Sharma added.

BBSR students become cleanliness messengers

BMC's Mu Safaiwala drive ropes in 194 schools for creating awareness

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The students of as many as 194 schools, including 134 private and 60 Government schools in the city here took a pledge of cleanliness under 'Mu Safaiwala' programme launched by the Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation (BMC).

Besides, questionnaires for assessment of cleanliness were distributed in more than 50 schools so far and others will be covered soon.

Interestingly, there will be 100 marks per questionnaire. If a student scores more than 80 marks then he/she will be considered as 'Mu Safaiwala' and if he/she scores less will be known as 'Mu Aliawala' (one who creates filth).

While the Team BMC is gearing up to make the distribution of the questionnaire in all 194 schools under the target, November 16 will be the last date and collection of questionnaire will start after that date.

"Through the questionnaire, a student will get awareness, make his/her parents and relatives aware and the output will be calculated accordingly. If in a school more than 60 per cent marks from the questionnaire will be below 80 per cent, then we have to rethink about the awareness drive under Mu Safaiwala in that particular school and will go for another round of awareness drive so that the students will understand the important things on cleanliness and Swachh Bharat initiative," said an official of BMC.

The Mu Safaiwala programme was launched in Bhubaneswar on October 2 when Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik inaugurated it at Satyanagar.

'SC verdict for mosque in Ayodhya directionless'

Puri seer says mosque to fuel communal conflict in future
Ups the ante for Kashi, Mathura temples

SAROJ KUMAR MISHRA ■ PURI

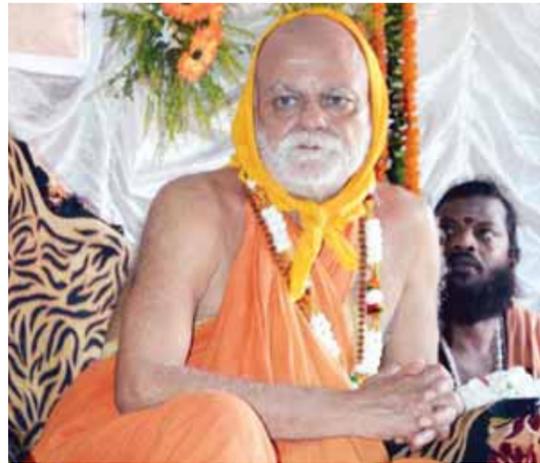

Following a landmark verdict of Supreme Court on Saturday in support of a Ram Temple in the disputed site of Ayodhya and construction of a mosque outside the shrine, Jagadguru Sankaracharya of Puri Swami Nischalananda Saraswati has expressed dissatisfaction.

He described the verdict as "directionless" and his con-temptation was that the construction of a mosque, symbolising an invader, on five-acre of land in Ayodhya would fuel communal conflict in times ahead.

Upping the ante for Kashi and Mathura temples' liberation, the seer termed the decision to build the mosques in Ayodhya as leading the country to great danger in future.

He also urged the Muslim intellectuals to reject the idea for a mosque in memory of an invader defamed for barbaric assaults on Hindus and its ethos. "If the Muslim intellectuals are proved to be genuine patriots like Abdul Kalam Azad, they must reject an inch of land in the country's boundary for a mosque in memory of an invader. I feel it is surely an acid test for the community to prove their love for the nation," said Saraswati.

The seer in a video messaging on his facebook handle on Saturday, took the order of allotting land to Muslim side in a light of compensation.

Training his guns at the successive Governments since Independence for failing to liberate Mathura and Kashi temples from outer aggression, the top Hindu seer told that the country is still not free from outer rules.

Quoting from religious texts, he said Ayodhya is the first capital city of the world which was conquered by foreign invader by power of arms. He said right now it is up to Muslims intelligentsia to consider accepting or rejecting the offer of land for a mosque depicting sign of an invader guilty of atrocity on Hindus and destruction of religious structures.

Recalling the Somanth Temple, he praised Sardar Balav Bhai Patel and Dr Rajendra Prasad for daring to renovate the shrine despite opposition from first PM Jawaharlal Nehru.

The seer in his message warned of aggression and reverts against Hindus from Muslim community if a mosque symbolising an invader is built elsewhere in the country.

NHRC issues reminder to CS over report on malnourished children

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) has issued a reminder to the Odisha Chief Secretary when he failed to file a reply to an earlier notice issued to him on the petition alleging that more than 10 lakh children in the State are underweight out of which over 50,000 are severely malnourished.

The commission has sought a reply from the Chief Secretary within four weeks.

Earlier acting on a petition filed by activist and lawyer Radhakanta Tripathy, the NHRC had issued notice seeking detailed reports within four weeks.

Tripathy in his petition had alleged that while the overall malnutrition rate among children for the state stands at about 37.5 per cent, it is way higher in the backwards tribal districts of Malkangiri, Koraput, Nabarangpur, Rayagada, Gajapati, Kandhamal, Kalahandi, Nuapada, Mayurbhanj, Sundargarh and Keonjhar.

The worst-affected in the State are children from Bonda, Juanga, Mankidia and other tribal communities. The children from the SC dominated villages also suffer from acute hunger and malnutrition.

The problem with most programmes launched by the Women and Child Development and Health Departments and countless NGOs is that they do not take into consideration the ground realities and the socio-cultural practices. No wonder, all the schemes have failed to have the desired effect, Tripathy stated.

The failure of the State Government to ensure child-care with nutrition, food, safe drinking water and proper healthcare to the pregnant women and children up to 12 years amounts to serious violation of human rights, Tripathy alleged.

Pursuant to the notice of the NHRC, the reports submitted by the different district administration, the facts were presented as if the State has done everything and there is no problem in Sundargarh, Koraput, Jajpur, Nuapada and Malkangiri districts.

But the petitioner argued that the efforts are insufficient in nature and a lot needs to be done by the State Government for providing the basic necessities, dignified life to the residents of these affected areas.

After considering the petition and the reports of the district Collectors, the NHRC has sought a composite updated detailed reply in the matter from the Chief Secretary within four weeks positively.

Prof Ashok Mahapatra features in Limca Book

PNS ■ BHUBANESWAR

The rare craniopagus surgery conducted successfully by a team led by eminent neurosurgeon Prof Ashok Kumar Mahapatra at the AIIMS in New Delhi in 2017 has featured in the 2020th edition of the Limca Book of Records.

The team comprising 125 doctors and paramedical staffs helped separate 28-month-old Jaga and Kalia, conjoined twins from Odisha, who were joined to each other at the cranium.

The complex surgery has been recorded as the first cranio-pagus surgery in India in the record book.

Prof Mahapatra is presently heading the Medical Programme of SOA University here as its Director.

Talking to newsmen on Tuesday, Prof Mahapatra, who was the head of neurosurgery department at the AIIMS New Delhi at that time, said it was the first successful craniopagus surgery in India. "The facilities and expertise available at AIIMS in New Delhi made it possible," he said.

One of the features of the surgery was that a vein taken from the vein bank at AIIMS was grafted in Kalia's brain as the children shared only one vein and it was the first such case of vein grafting in the world, he said.

After the twins were admitted in AIIMS, a preliminary assessment was made to ascertain whether they could stand the arduous surgical processes. "We decided to go ahead after the twins were made to undergo all tests under anesthesia conducted on July 26, 2017 over a 12-hour period."

Prof Mahapatra said the team constituted to take up the surgical separation took advice from Prof James T. Goodrich, a famous paediatric neurosurgeon at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Bronx, New York, as he had done two such surgeries earlier and was considered the top most expert in the field in the world.

"We spent time gathering as much information about fused brains as possible and conducted three dry runs before the actual surgery was performed," he said, adding "we knew that all our efforts could yield 20-25 per cent success." But the entire team in AIIMS gave its 100 per cent which hugely contributed to the success of the surgery, he said.

Chances of such cases occurring are one in three million; and barely 12 or 13 such surgeries have been done in the world during the last 33 years, he said. Jaga and Kalia, who spent over two years in AIIMS, New Delhi before returning to Odisha, are doing well though Kalia's development is slow. "We should give them two to three years' time to see how they improve," he added.

When Nanak's Sikh Aarti poetry flowed in Puri

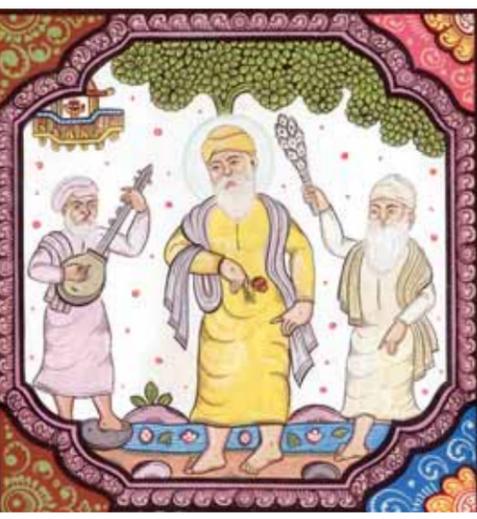

JAGPREET LUTHRA

The ambience of the Jagannath Temple in Puri today cannot even be a patch on what it would have been five centuries ago. Yet, those who stand there watching the Aarti at night, the frothing sea as the fountain, swear by its breath-taking beauty. So did Guru Nanak as he stood at the temple under a star-studded sky sometime in the year 1506. In a spontaneous song, Nanak expressed his deep awe at what he saw; and the reverence to the "ultimate creator" whose glory, he said, could not be contained in anything humans had to offer.

Nanak composed the Aarti after he witnessed the pundits do the evening puja at the temple. With the addition of five more compositions by other people, the Sikh Aarti, as it has come to be described, is sung in raga Dhanashri at the conclusion of the day's last prayer, the Rehraas Sahib, also composed by Nanak. The gist of the Aarti is that the creator's grandeur is too much to be sung with a small set of lamps and incense; the sky itself is the grand platter; the stars are the lamps; the wind is the celestial fan; and the flower-filled forests are the scent.

Such is the poetic appeal of Nanak's composition that Rabindranath Tagore translated the Aarti into Bengali and recited it daily. The late actor Balraj Sahni, on a teaching tour of Shantiniketan, asked Tagore why he had not written an international anthem. "It has already been written (by Guru Nanak)," Tagore told Sahni as he called it the "universal anthem," according to the actor's autobiography. The late former Chief Minister of Odisha Janaki Ballav Patnaik too had rendered an excellent translation of the Aarti in Odia in 1986.

The connection between Jagannath Puri and Nanak and other icons of the Bhakti movement, including Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and Namdev, runs deep. Thousands of their followers continue to visit the places touched by these saints en route the Jagannath Temple. Even historians are discovering a wealth of heritage here as evident in a new, three-volume book, 'Jagannath Sadak', by author-activist Anil Dhir. Invited by the Delhi-based think tank, Odisha Forum, Dhir gave a talk at the India International Centre last month on 'Guru Nanak's visit to Puri and the spread of the Jagannath culture'.

Author of seven books, Dhir, also a popular columnist and television panelist, comes from a Punjabi family that settled in Odisha two generations ago. He said he has been fascinated with pilgrims prostrating on the old Jagannath Road, a sight that triggered the idea to explore its history. He, along with a group of researchers and archaeologists, undertook a 14-day journey on a bullock cart from Jagannath Ghat in West Bengal's Hooghly to the temple at Puri, a journey that turned out to be "eye-opening about the history of this route." The project was sponsored by the Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH) seven years ago and the book was long in the writing.

Dhir talked about the oneness of Jagannath culture and Sikhism. "The Odisha model of the composite culture of India," Dhir said, finds its truest reflection in the Jagannath Sadak. Besides Vaishnav Hindu shrines, there are Shaivite, Muslim, Jain, Sikh and Buddhist shrines all along the road, which was as popular with pilgrims as with plunderers.

The Sikh Aarti, which has verses of four people besides those of Nanak and the tenth Sikh Guru Gobind Singh, Dhir said, represented the essence of Sikhism. The subsequent inclusion into the Aarti of the compositions of cobbler Ravi Das, barber Bhagat Sain, weaver Kabir and farmer Bhagat Dhanna, all men of humble stocks, along with those of the two gurus, signify "the all-encompassing Sikh faith." "The Aarti is the preamble to Sikhism; it is half of what Sikh religion stands for," Dhir's interpretation of the Aarti is also a far cry from the politically-coloured view that reads it as a parody on Brahminical rituals: "It was Guru Nanak's first view of the sea; as a seeker, he must have been awe-struck with the dazzling spectacle he saw; and the song must have been a spontaneous flow rather than a satire." In fact, Dhir believes that "the seeker in Guru Nanak found in Puri what he had been looking for and that is why he broke the pattern of travelling along circular routes and went straight back to Punjab from Puri after spending 24 days there." Dhir's book is due for release this month in what would be the Odisha Government's tribute to Guru Nanak on the occasion of his 550th birthday on November 12.

PPT celebrates Port Day

Paradip aspires to be country's No. 1 port

PNS ■ PARADIP

The Port Day was observed on the auspicious day of Kartik Purnima by the Paradip Port Trust (PPT) on Tuesday. PPT Chairman Rinkesh Roy unfurled the Paradip Port Flag at the Wet Basin and performed the traditional Kalas Puja and handed over the sacred Kalas to the Sadhavas who set sail on board a traditionally-decorated boat.

Port Deputy Conservator Capt AK Mohapatra welcomed the guests and explained the importance of the Port Day.

Roy outlined the tremendous growth of the port in recent decades. The port's operations began in 1966 and its annual cargo handling capacity rose to 10 MMT in 1995, which further rose to 50 MMT in 2010; and in FY 2017-18, it crossed the coveted 100-MMT mark.

And it is now aspiring to be the No. 1 port in India. It is now following a transformational agenda with the advance technology adoption for its future growth. In the last few years, a 90-MMT capacity addition has been made.

He said new projects are underway, out of which works worth Rs 4,500 crore are nearing completion. A desalination plant, a multimodal logistics park, introduction of bus services for employees and workers in the port prohibited area, construction of a gated colony and insurance for workers have recently been done.

Young Govt doctor goes around villages after duty to see patients

UBACHAK MOHANTY ■ BALESWAR

Although most often doctors are blamed for negligence and carelessness and referring patients to private hospitals for vested interests, here is a young Government doctor who renders service to the patients beyond his duty hours.

Meet Dr Suraj Jena (29), a plain MBBS and only son of a retired bank manager, Brajakishore Jena and Suprava of Santragadia under Oupada block.

Currently, as first posting after passing out from Burla, he is posted at Raj Berhampur CHC since January 2019. After duty hours, Jena goes around villages in the holidays and off-hours where he not only conducts checkups, but distributes free medicines and also advises patients to get admitted at the nearest Government hospitals and centres etc.

He visits from village to village in his bike with a bag containing medicines, stethoscope and sphygmomanometer (BP measuring machine) along with his father with prior information to the village heads.

He said that while he had interest in serving people, he was encouraged by his parents.

"Here the population is mostly tribal and wage earners. Either they work in agriculture fields or in stone crushers or in related activities. They care for their health in the least. Even, sadly, they don't know they are already afflicted with several diseases. Most of them lack knowledge in health education. Further, due to paucity of money, they don't visit a doctor either," said Jena.

"Even they neglect common ailments which aggravates to a big problem. I came across a TB patient yet he doesn't know he is affected with. Similarly, women neglect their health even though they suffer," said Jena, adding, "I do only symptomatic general treatment and give them medicines whichever I have."

Suraj said further, "I have a plan for holding a camp in a big way somewhere in the month February along with my batch mates here. Since, all are busy with their duties and preparing for PG entrance, we contemplate to hold it after our exams."

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Congress on Tuesday hit out at Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari for recommending President's Rule in the State, alleging that he has committed a "grave travesty" and made a "mockery" of the Constitutional process. Congress Chief Spokesperson Randeep Surjewala also questioned the Governor for the "arbitrary" allotment of time to the NCP, Shiv Sena and the BJP to prove support for Government formation.

"Governor Koshiyari has committed a grave travesty of democracy and made a mockery of the Constitutional process in recommending President's Rule in Maharashtra," he said. Surjewala alleged that four grave violations of the Constitutional scheme, as expressed in the SR Bommai judgment, stand out.

Senior Congress leader and Former Union Minister Sushilkumar Shinde echoed a similar view, saying, "Once we have letters of support, the President's rule can be lifted."

Another Congress leader and former Chief Minister Prithviraj Chavan said the Governor should have invited his party to indicate "willingness and ability" to form

Congress Chief Spokesperson Randeep Surjewala questioned Guv for the "arbitrary" allotment of time to NCP, Shiv Sena and BJP to prove support for Govt formation

Government. "In absence of any single party having majority in Maharashtra, Governor should have called; 1. Single largest pre-poll alliance i.e. BJP-Shiv Sena together; Then 2. Second largest post poll alliance i.e. Congress-NCP," said Congress spokesman.

"In case Governor called individual parties, why did he not call INC. And above all why the completely arbitrary allotment of time? 48 hours to BJP, 24 hours to Sena and not even 24 hours to NCP, before the Presidents Rule," he said. This is unashamedly dishonest and politically motivated, Surjewala alleged.

Party spokesperson Abhishek Singhvi also slammed the Governor for his actions, saying this is not President's rule but the "malicious BJP's" political rule. A statement tweeted by Koshiyari's office said, "He is satisfied that the Government cannot be carried on in accordance with the Constitution, (and therefore) has today submitted a report as contemplated by provision of Article 356 of the Constitution."

Koshiyari, who had given the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) time till 8.30 pm on Tuesday to express its "willingness and ability" to form Government in Maharashtra and time being of the essence, has submitted a report to President Ram Nath Kovind recommending President's rule in the State.

In Mumbai, State Congress spokesperson Sachin Sawant said, "I condemn this action which has been taken in a hurry without exhausting all options. This raises questions about the Governor's impartiality. This also raises doubt whether the Governor is acting under pressure."

Another senior Congressman Vijay Wadettiwar, who was the leader of the opposition in the 13th State Assembly, the tenure of which expired on November 9, felt that President's rule will not be a roadblock in Government formation.

Detailing his trip to Brazil, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said that the BRICS summit will focus on strengthening ties among the world's five major economies in key areas such as digital economy, science and technology, and also build mechanisms for counter-terrorism cooperation. Modi, who left for Brazil in the afternoon, will be in that country on November 13-14 to attend the 11th BRICS summit.

"I look forward to exchanging views with other BRICS leaders with the aim to further strengthen intra-BRICS cooperation, particularly on the theme of the summit 'Economic growth for an innovative future,'" Modi said in his departure statement.

During the summit, the five major economies of the world will aim to significantly strengthen their cooperation in science, technology and innovation, he said.

The BRICS countries will also look to enhance cooperation on digital economy and build mechanisms for counter-terrorism cooperation within the BRICS framework, Modi said. "Our business and industry play an important role in Intra-BRICS ties. I will be addressing BRICS Business Forum and interacting with BRICS Business Council and New Development Bank," he said.

On the bilateral meeting with the Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro, he said Brazil and India share close and ever expanding bilateral relations, including in the spheres of defence, security, trade, agriculture, energy and space. Close cooperation between the two countries in multilateral forums has been a significant aspect of our strategic relationship, Modi said.

"BRICS summit will also provide me with the opportunity to hold useful bilateral interactions with leaders of other BRICS countries," he said.

This will be the sixth time Modi will be participating in the BRICS summit, his first being at Fortaleza, also in Brazil in 2014.

The Prime Minister is scheduled to hold separate bilateral meetings with Russian President Vladimir Putin and Chinese Premier Xi Jinping. He would also attend the BRICS business forum closing ceremony and the 'closed' and plenary sessions of the XI BRICS Summit.

BRICS is the acronym coined for an association of five major emerging national economies - Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa. The grouping brings together five major emerging economies comprising 42 per cent of the world's population, having 23 per cent of the global Gross Domestic Product.

Govt bans 1800 NGOs to receive foreign funds

PNS/PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Over 1,800 NGOs and academic institutes found to be violating laws have been banned by the Government from receiving foreign funds this year, officials said on Tuesday.

Among those whose registration under the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act has been banned include University of Rajasthan, Allahabad Agricultural Institute, Young Men's Christian Association, Gujarat and Swami Vivekananda Educational Society, Karnataka.

"With the cancellation of the FCRA registration, all NGOs and academic institutes were prohibited from accepting foreign contribution," a Home Ministry official said.

The FCRA registration of these organisations were cancelled mostly due to their failure to submit annual income and expenditure statement on foreign funding for up to six years despite repeated reminders.

As per FCRA guidelines, registered associations are required to submit electronically an online annual report with scanned copies of income and expenditure statement, receipts and payment account, balance sheet, etc., for every financial year within nine months of the closure of the financial year.

Associations which do not receive foreign contribution during a particular year are also required to furnish a 'NIL' return for that financial year within the aforesaid period, read the guidelines.

Other associations whose FCRA registration has been cancelled include Institute of Pulmocare and Research, West Bengal, National Geophysical Research Institute, Telangana, Maharashtra, Rabindra Nath Tagore Medical College Hospital and Research, West Bengal and Baptist Christian Association, Maharashtra.

In addition to 1,807 associations, registration of one more organisation - Bengaluru-based NGO Infosys Foundation - was also cancelled this year following a "request" of the NGOs itself. Earlier, an official of the Infosys Foundation had said its de-registration from the FCRA followed a request it proactively made to the Ministry of Home Affairs. "This (request) was done as the Infosys Foundation does not come under the purview of the FCRA following the amendment made to the act in 2016. We had approached the ministry to consider this, and thank them for granting our request," the official had said.

Ever since the Narendra Modi government came to power in 2014, the Ministry of Home Affairs has cancelled the FCRA registration of over 14,800 NGOs, thus banning them from receiving foreign funding.

CSIR-CSIO develops tech to cut down pollutants

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

Low-cost indigenous electrostatic spraying technology developed by the researchers from Central Scientific Instruments Organisation (CSIR-CSIO), Chandigarh, might come handy for metro cities like the national capital to cut down dust and smog pollutants.

The electrostatic spray-based multipurpose dust mitigation tech is a modification of the pesticide spraying technology that the researchers had developed after intensive research spanning seven years.

This technology uses electrostatic field to generate charged spray droplets which recombine with naturally occurring oppositely charged dust and smog particles and settle down onto the ground very efficiently and effectively.

Dr Manoj K Patel, scientist and principal investigator of the project, said, "Suppression of dust is very much necessary to live a healthy life and protect us from communicable diseases like Asthma, TB, and other airborne diseases. Moreover, dust also creates hindrance in the operation of machinery and industries, so it becomes inevitable to suppress the dust and foreign particles in the working environment."

The field and laboratory trials of the dust mitigation device are in progress. Soon, the device will be deployed at field scale for commercialisation, according to an official from the Department of Science and Technology under the Science and Technology Ministry.

The pesticide spraying technology has already been well received among the scientific fraternity of the country.

For this societal innovation, Dr Patel and his team has been awarded NRDC National Societal Innovation Award 2017. He has also been awarded Gandhian Young Technological Innovation Award 2016.

The researchers said pesticides spraying technology is different from the conventional spraying technologies as it can control the excessive use of pesticides by reducing the droplet size and ensuring even distribution of spray.

The tech has been transferred to Dashmesh Industries, Alwar, Rajasthan and the product is available in the market for the end user by a brand name eSPRAY, being used in India as well as overseas.

Professor RK Sinha, Director, CSIR-CSIO, Chandigarh said, "The technologies developed in the field of electrostatic spraying have great socioeconomic impacts which are directly linked to our farmers and the common man."

National workshop on Ayurveda to be held

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As India is all set to become a diabetes capital of the world, medicinal herbs besides disciplined lifestyle couple with yoga are increasingly being seen as an answer to tackle the menacing disorder caused by the absence of insulin. India is a treasure trove of over 7000 medicinal plants.

In this connection, a two-day national workshop is being held from November 14, 2019 wherein experts from across the country will come together to discuss the role of the Indian systems of medicine such as Ayurveda in tackling the lifestyle disease which is estimated to grip around 100 million Indians by 2030.

The event on November 14 (marked as World Diabetes Day) is being held at the All India Institute of Ayurveda (AIIA) in Delhi which was inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in 2017. The institute has mandate to bring in the synergy between traditional wisdom of Ayurveda and modern diagnostic tools and technology.

A senior official from the AIIA said that the workshop aims to create awareness as well as showcase various scientific researches being undertaken and ongoing in the sector to prove the efficacy of the traditional medicine systems such as panchkarma and herbs in managing the 'silent killer'. For instance, some of the CSIR labs like Lucknow-based National Botanical Research Institute (NBRI) and Central Institute for Medicinal Plants (CIAMP), both Lucknow based have jointly developed herbal product BGR-34.

It is a formulation of extracts of herbal plants like sadabahar, Vijayasar, gurma, Dharuhedi, jamun and gilyo whose properties to stimulate the production of insulin is well known. Dr AKS Rawat, ex-scientist from NBRI said that the BGR-34 has been found to have antioxidant properties, enhance immunity, help repair the pancreas and increase production of insulin within the body.

In a country like India, where more than ₹500 crore rupees is spent on diabetes medicine and treatment each year, promoting researches in ayurveda is expected to have significant implications.

Experts warn that Type 2 diabetes can increase risk of complications such as high blood pressure, kidney ailments and stroke which in turn can impact the life expectancy of the patient. Today, 425 million people live with diabetes worldwide - about 1 in every 11 adults - according to the International Diabetes Federation, and the number is rising.

Day 100: Journalists in Kashmir protest against continued suspension of internet services

PTI ■ SRINAGAR

Journalists in the Valley took out a protest march here against the continued suspension of internet services which completed 100 days on Tuesday since the abrogation of the Jammu & Kashmir's special status on August 5.

Scores of journalists working with different media organisations assembled at the Kashmir Press Club here and took out a protest march against the snapping of internet services in the Valley on the night of August 4, hours before the Centre revoked the State's special status under Article 370 and abrogated it into two Union Territories.

The journalists demanded immediate restoration of the services to facilitate the media persons to discharge their professional duties.

"We took out the protest against the suspension of internet services for 100 days now.

Internet is a basic tool for journalists to discharge their professional duties and we demand its immediate restoration," senior journalist Pervez Bukhari told reporters after the protest.

The Centre's August 5 decision led to an unannounced shutdown in the Valley even as authorities imposed severe restrictions, including on communication, which were later gradually eased out.

Postpaid mobile services on all networks were restored in the Valley on October 14, 72 days after they were snapped.

However, pre-paid mobile phones and all internet services continue to remain suspended since August 5.

The Government has set up a 'Media Facilitation Centre' at a conference hall of a local hotel here for journalists to discharge their professional duties. But the media persons complain that it has not enough computers and they have to wait for hours for their turn.

Kashmir rail services resume, mini buses on roads in Valley

PTI ■ SRINAGAR

Rail services in Kashmir resumed on Tuesday — over three months after being suspended due to security reasons in view of the Centre's decision to abrogate Article 370, officials said.

Few mini-buses also plied on the Batwara-Batamalo route through the city centre, while inter-district cabs and auto-rickshaws plied in the city and elsewhere in the Valley.

Private transport was plying unhindered. A railway official told PTI that a train chugged between Baramulla and Srinagar this morning.

He said the train made only two trips on the Baramulla-Srinagar

Srinagar-Banihal stretch of the railway line would resume in a few days after checking track safety and conducting trial runs.

The train service in the valley was suspended due to security reasons on the morning of 5 August — hours before the Centre announced its decision to abrogate Article 370 of the Constitution and to bifurcate the erstwhile state into two Union territories.

The Centre's decision led to an unannounced shutdown in the valley — which completed 100 days on Tuesday — even as authorities imposed severe restrictions which were later gradually eased out.

PTI ■ LUCKNOW

Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Tuesday said the day is not far when people from the country would be able to visit Nankana Sahib in Pakistan's Punjab province, as he congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi for opening of the Kartarpur Sahib corridor.

"I congratulate Prime Minister Narendra Modi and all of you for this (opening of Kartarpur Sahib corridor). The day is not far when we will be able to go to Nankana Sahib," the CM told a gathering on the 550th birth anniversary of Sikhism founder Guru Nanak Dev.

Situated in the Punjab province of Pakistan, Nankana Sahib is named after the first Sikh

Extending wishes on the occasion of Guru Purab, Adityanath

KARTIK PURNIMA

Devotees throng ghats in UP to take holy dip

PTI ■ LUCKNOW

A sea of devotees thronged ghats across Uttar Pradesh to take a holy dip in the Ganga, Gomti and Saryu rivers on Kartik Purnima.

In the temple town of Ayodhya, people began flocking to the ghats of the Saryu since early morning amid chants of "Sita Ram" playing on loudspeakers in the streets, while many devotees who came from neighbouring districts of the State camped overnight near the river.

This is the first religious congregation in the holy city since the Supreme Court's judgment in the Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid case.

Devotees in the State capital took a dip at Mankameswar ghat on the banks of the Gomti. A huge crowd also gathered on the banks of Ganga and Yamuna in Allahabad.

Elaborating on the significance of Kartik Purnima, the convenor of Allahabad-based organisations Ram Naam Bank and Ram Sewa Trust, Ashutosh Varshney, said, "It is the full moon day in the month of Kartik".

"It is also known as Dev Deepavali, a Diwali celebrated by Gods. The festival is celebrated 15 days after Diwali," he added.

Earthen lamps are lit at all temples and the bank of the Ganga on the auspicious occasion.

AIMIM not in favour of five-acre land: Owaisi

PTI ■ HYDERABAD

AIMIM president Asaduddin Owaisi on Tuesday said his party is not in favour of the five acres of land to be allocated for building a mosque under the Supreme Court verdict in the Ayodhya issue as the fight was for a legal right and Babri Masjid.

"...I speak for my party, we do not want this 'khairat' (donation or charity). Our fight was for a legal right, for a Babri Masjid. Our fight was not for, to get this piece of land..." he told reporters here.

He was asked about the comments of some Muslim leaders that the five-acre land allotted should be given within the 67 acres acquired by the government.

The whole struggle for so many years was not for a piece of land, he said.

"...Why did we have this patience so much. We went to the court, if it was a piece of land we could have accepted it somewhere else. But, from last 50 years, we have been fighting this case in a court of law with all the patience," he said.

The RSS raised a bogey that a temple was demolished, but Supreme Court ruled otherwise, he claimed.

He reiterated his claim that the country is going on the path of "Hindu Rashtra".

"...How attempts are being made to make Muslims in India as second class citizens. Keep watching. Political disempowerment is happening.

Nobody can deny this...Bring NRC, citizen amendment bill, what message you are giving. My regret is that all the secular parties, their mouths are shut," he said.

He asked why the Congress, NCP, BSP and others are silent and that the silence needs to be broken.

On Saturday when the apex court announced its judgment in the Ayodhya issue, Owaisi had said he personally felt that the offer of the five-acre plot to the Muslim side should be rejected.

Owaisi reaffirmed that his party, which has two MLAs in Maharashtra, would not support the government led by the BJP or Shiv Sena.

Asked for his party's stance in a scenario of a NCP leader becoming Chief Minister, he said, "let marriage happen first."

Hyderabad train collision: Human error suspected, train driver booked

PTI ■ HYDERABAD

The train collision that left 17 people injured here occurred due to "human error" on the part of a loco pilot, now in a critical condition in a hospital, and he has been booked on charges including endangering public safety, railway and police officials said on Tuesday.

A day after the mishap involving two slow moving trains at Kachegowda Railway station, a South Central Railway official said that according to the preliminary information, suspected human error appeared to be the cause of the accident as the MMTS train had overshot the signal.

Prima facie it appears to be human error as per available evidences. The Commissioner of Railway Safety will dig deep and go into the complete details of the train operation and inspect all the available records and evidences and come to a final conclusion, the official told PTI.

Babul Supriyo to visit cyclone-hit areas of WB today

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Union Minister Babul Supriyo on Tuesday said he has been asked by Prime Minister Narendra Modi to visit the cyclone-hit areas in West Bengal on Wednesday to look into the ground level situation.

Supriyo said his visit is not an inspection of the relief work being carried out by the West Government but to find out the ground level situation as a Union Minister and MP from Bengal.

He urged the ruling TMC "not to do politics" over his visit and said that the State Government has been officially informed about his visit to coastal areas of South 24 Parganas district which was lashed by Cyclone Bulbul.

"I have been asked by Prime Minister Narendra Modi to visit the areas and look into the ground situation. It is not at all any sort of inspection or any other political visit to the cyclone-hit areas. It will be purely a normal visit to look into the situation post cyclone," Supriyo told PTI over phone.

Both Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah had spoken to West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Sunday and had assured all help to the State Government, he said.

The TMC leadership when contacted declined to comment on Supriyo's visit.

Bengal Guv gets Central protection, State unhappy

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Much to the chagrin of the Mamata Banerjee Government, the Centre on Tuesday provided Z category protection for Bengal Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar and sent in the first posse of Central Protection Force for the purpose.

A decision regarding the "upgradation" of the Governor's security network was taken in the month of October by the Union Home Minister amid repeated run-ins between Raj Bhavan and the Nabanna (State Secretariat) with the TMC Government accusing Dhankhar of breaking federal norms by repeatedly interfering in administrative affairs.

A posse of 28 CPF personnel on Tuesday accompanied the Governor to at SAI Stadium at Salt Lake and a religious function at Baranagar in North Kolkata where during a short speech on Guru Nanak's message for peace he raised his voice against the ongoing political clashes which was not doing the State any good.

After Tuesday's development a separate control room of the CRPF will be set up at the Raj Bhavan sources said adding the central forces would hence forward mind the inner security ring of the Governor.

The State police will only be required to handle the outward ring and associated duty, sources said.

Bringing in the Governor under central protection only opens a new front of conflict between the Centre and the State Governments whose equations are anything but cordial, experts say.

Vide an order dated October 15, the North Block had directed the CPF headquarters to take charge of Dhankhar's security that will be valid in all parts of the country.

Following this, the State Government urged the Home Ministry to take back its decision to entrust the security of Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar to an altercation with him. Subsequently Dhankhar had been involved in repeated confrontation with the State Government locking horn with the Trinamool Congress in a war of words over a number of issues ranging from allegations that he was not accorded adequate honour during the Durga Puja carnival to his comments on the State's law and order situation.

The State Government had been critical of the Governor allegedly for his repeated interference in the administrative affair.

Meanwhile Dhankhar on Tuesday once again disapproved of the ongoing political violence saying, "political violence is not good for the society and goes against the preaching of Guru Nanak Dev Ji who preached global unity. Such violence should stop as it is not good for the State."

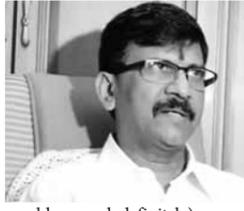

MAHARASHTRA IMPASSE Will succeed, says Raut after setback over Govt formation

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Even as the Shiv Sena failed to muster numbers to stake claim for Government formation in Maharashtra, its ailing leader Sanjay Raut on Tuesday quoted lines of legendary poet Harivansh Rai Bachchan to reaffirm his party's resolve to succeed and not give up.

Raut, who on Monday underwent angioplasty at a hospital here, tweeted two lines from Bachchan's famous poem: "Lehron se dar kar nauka paar nahi hoti, himmat karne waalon ki kabhi haar nahi hoti" (the boat that quails the waves never gets across, those who dare do not lose).

The Rajya Sabha member further tweeted, "Hum hong kamyab, zaroor hong" (we would succeed, definitely).

The 57-year-old firebrand leader, who led the Sena's charge to seek equal share in power with the BJP after the Assembly poll results in Maharashtra, complained of chest pain on Monday following which he underwent angioplasty at the Lilavati Hospital here.

The Shiv Sena on Monday suffered a setback in its efforts to cobble up a non-BJP Government in Maharashtra with the Congress at the last moment announcing its decision to hold more talks with ally NCP supporting the Uddhav Thackeray-led party.

While Sena leader Aaditya Thackeray said two parties (Congress and NCP) have agreed "in-principle" to support the Sena-led Government, Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari refused additional time sought by his party to muster numbers.

Later, the NCP, which is the third largest party in the state, got an invite from the governor, asking it to express "willingness and ability to form Government".

With 54 MLAs, the NCP is the third largest party after the BJP (105) and the Shiv Sena (56) in the 288-member House, where the halfway mark is 145. The Congress has 44 MLAs.

Uddhav, BJP leaders visit ailing Sena leader Raut

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Shiv Sena chief Uddhav Thackeray on Tuesday met party leader Sanjay Raut, who underwent angioplasty at Lilavati Hospital here, and later said the Rajya Sabha member was recovering fast but refused to comment on the political crisis in Maharashtra.

BJP leaders Harshvardhan Patil and Ashish Shelar also met 57-year-old Raut at the hospital here following which the latter said it was a courtesy visit with "no political angle".

The visit came in the backdrop of the stalemate over Government formation continuing in the State even 19 days after the Assembly poll results were declared. Thackeray met Raut along with Patil. Later, talking to reporters, Thackeray said, "Things are taking shape, I will speak about it at the right time. I cannot comment on politics right now."

Asked about Raut's health, he said, "He is recuperating fast. He has also resumed work as the executive editor of (Sena mouthpiece) 'Saamana'."

Former Mumbai BJP chief Shelar also met the Sena MP and later said, "Doctors have advised Raut to speak less. I met him out of courtesy. It is Maharashtra's culture, we meet unwell people irrespective of political differences."

"There was no political angle to this meet. A senior BJP office-bearer is also admitted in the same hospital, I also met him," he added.

Earlier, NCP chief Sharad Pawar also met Raut at the hospital in the morning.

Raut, who led the Sena's charge to seek equal share in power with the BJP after the Assembly poll results in Maharashtra, complained of chest pain on Monday following which he underwent angioplasty, a procedure to restore blood flow through the artery. The ailing Sena leader in the morning took to Twitter to quote lines of legendary poet Harivansh Rai Bachchan to reaffirm his party's resolve to succeed and not give up.

Thackeray meets Sena's MLA-elects at resort

Mumbai: Even as the Congress-NCP were in a huddle over Government formation in Maharashtra, Shiv Sena president Uddhav Thackeray on Tuesday met his party legislators at a suburban resort where they are staying for the last few days.

Sena legislators told Thackeray they would abide by whatever decision he takes, Bhaskar Jadhav, one of the MLA-elects, told reporters after the meeting.

Thackeray was accompanied by senior leaders and his sons Aaditya, the newly-elected MLA from Worli in central Mumbai, and Tejas.

Jadhav said the NCP was given time till 8.30 pm on Tuesday to express its "ability and willingness" to stake claim to form Government in the State, but the President's rule was imposed at 5.30 pm. "This is surprising," he said. When Thackeray reached the resort, he was heard saying he wanted to make "some important calls" before the meeting with MLA-elects.

The Sena's newly-elected MLAs have been staying at the resort for the last few days.

In the last month's assembly election, the BJP emerged as the single largest party with 105 seats followed by the Shiv Sena 56, the NCP 54 and the Congress 44.

On Monday, the Sena claimed the NCP and Congress have agreed "in-principle" to back its Government without the BJP, but failed to get letters of support from the political rivals before the deadline set by Governor B S Koshiyari who rejected its plea for three more days to do so. PTI

No decision on backing Shiv Sena yet: Cong, NCP

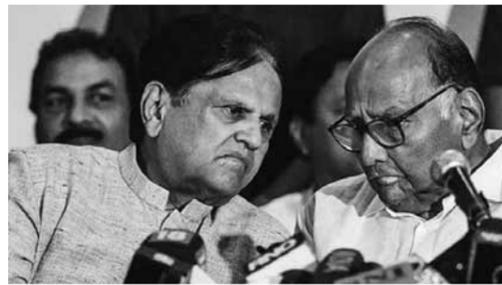

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Hours after the President's Rule was imposed in Maharashtra, the Congress and the NCP on Tuesday bought some more time in taking a decision on extending support to the Shiv Sena to form a Government in Maharashtra, on the ground that they need certain clarifications from each other before going ahead.

On a day when Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari went ahead and recommended the President's rule more than six hours ahead of the deadline of 8.30 pm he had set for the NCP to revert to him on the Government formation issue, senior Congress leaders Ahmed Patel, Mallikarjun Kharge and K C Venugopal held 90-minute-long discussions with NCP chief Sharad Pawar in Mumbai.

Addressing a news conference after he and his party colleagues had with NCP chief Sharad Pawar, Ahmed Patel said: "Shiv Sena president Uddhav Thackeray formally reached out to Congress president Sonia Gandhi and Me only yesterday for support to form a Government in the state. Since it involved a major decision, we need to meet our pre-poll alliance partner NCP first and seek certain clarifications on Government formation in the State. Once we are through with the discussion, we will hold talks with the Shiv Sena leadership".

Reiterating that the two parties had not arrived at any decision on extending the support to the Sena, Patel said that the issues on which they needed clarifications from the NCP included formulation of a Common Minimum Programme (CMP). "We want to clear between ourselves before talking to the Shiv Sena," Patel said.

Responding on similar lines, Pawar said: "After we received request from the Shiv Sena for our, we decided to discuss among ourselves first the issues relating to the government formation first before holding talks with the Sena leaders. We would like things to proceed smoothly till the formation of Government," he said.

Queried as to how the Congress and NCP had reconciled with the ideological differences with the Shiv Sena while going in for power-sharing with the Shiv Sena, Pawar said: "When we reach the stage of holding discussions with the Shiv Sena, we will proceed in the matter while keeping our common ideology in mind".

Replying to another question, Pawar said: "The issue of power distribution is not before us at this juncture. The issue before us is whether to form a Government or not. If the government is to be formed, what should be the agenda of the Government is our immediate objective".

Alluding to the President's rule imposed in the State, Pawar said: The Governor has given us enough time to discuss all issues relating to Government formation in the coming days".

Udhav: Will work out plan for Govt formation with Cong, NCP

PNS ■ MUMBAI

Shiv Sena president Uddhav Thackeray said here on Tuesday that because of the Governor Bhagat Singh Koshiyari's recommendation for President's rule in the State, his party had sufficient time on hand to discuss all Government formation-related issues with the Congress and NCP, including the formulation of a Common Minimum Programme (CMP) which were essential for providing a stable Government to the State.

Talking to media persons after the Congress and NCP leaders addressed a joint news conference, Uddhav said: "Because of the Governor, we have enough time on hand. All three parties — Congress, NCP and Shiv Sena — will sit across and formulate CMP and sort out other issues relating to the government formation".

"Like the Congress and NCP, the Sena has also some issues on which we need clarification. We — all three parties — sit across and thrash them out before forming a government," the Sena president said.

"It is not a joke to form a Government in state like Maharashtra. This is especially so when the parties of different ideologies come together to form a Government. There is need for discussion on certain issues," Uddhav said.

"You may have at the Congress-NCP news conference, Ahmed Patel and Sharad Pawar said that for the first time, I approached them for support yesterday. This clears the misunderstanding sought to be created by the BJP that I had no time to talk to them, but I was in touch with the Congress and NCP. In the BJP's case, I was not interested in talking to them. I told them that in case we need to need to something different for the country, we can do it," the Sena president said.

Replying to a question, Uddhav said that it was not the Shiv Sena but the BJP finished the option of going together and forming a Government in the State. Asked if the alliance with the BJP ended fully, Uddhav told the questioner: "Why are you such a hurry? It is politics. The Governor has given us six months.

Stalin now all powerful in DMK

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

Sixty-six-year-old MK Stalin has become the undisputed and unquestionable leader of the DMK, Tamil Nadu's principal Opposition party. This has been made possible by amending the bylaws dealing with the powers vested on the party president in the general council meeting of the party held earlier this week at Chennai.

With the new amendments enacted by the general council, Stalin need not consult the general secretary of the party to take any decision or break any logjams.

According to a member of the general council, the new rule has empowered the president to take decisions ranging from the district unit to the party head quarters. The amendments were drafted by Stalin's close confidante P Wilson, the newly elected Rajya

Sabha member of the party who is also a legal luminary. The amendment has literally sidelined Kalyanasundaram Anbazhagan, the general secretary of the party, who is bed ridden for quite some time now. Prior to the amendment, Stalin had to consult the general secretary for each and every decision he had to take. Anbazhagan, 97, has been the general secretary of the party since 1977 and is credited with the record for being the longest serving and oldest second-in-command of a political party in the country.

Anbazhagn, the last surviving founder-member of the party, is in a state of comatose, according to party insiders. "He has become senile and rest of the party leaders are shocked why he is not being replaced," said Govindarajan Satyamurthy, columnist who has been a keen observer of the DMK for the last four decades. Though the general secretary is a powerful position in the party, former president late M Karunanidhi saw to it that Anbazhagan, a trusted family loyalist was appointed to the post and ensured his continuation despite indifferent health.

But a section of leadership in the DMK is feeling that the latest move by Stalin to usurp the powers of the general secretary is an attempt to being the entire party structure under his family. "Durai Murugan, the party treasurer, has been eyeing the post of the general secretary for sometime and it is said that he is thoroughly disappointed with Stalin for ignoring him. It seems Stalin is keeping the post of general secretary hot for his son Udhayanidhi Stalin, the chief of the DMK youth wing," said Satyamurthy. But Murugan, 81, is also not in the best of health though he moves around the State without any physical support.

A party insider confided to The Pioneer that all was not well within the DMK. "Since the day Karunanidhi took over the reigns of the party following the death of C N Annadurai in 1969, he has gradually and systematically made it into a family enterprises," said the leader on condition of anonymity. The recent setback suffered by the DMK in the assembly by-election could be a fall out of this discontentment, say many political commentators.

TN CM says Haasan's political innings will end in a fiasco

PTI ■ SALEM (TN)

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister K Palaniswami on Tuesday ticked off actor-politician Kamal Haasan for "showing off" as a leader despite lack of knowledge in basic politics and claimed that his political innings will end in a fiasco.

A day after taking on superstar Rajinikanth who is expected to foray into politics, the Chief Minister targeted the Makkal Needhi Maiam chief, saying he founded a political party as he does not have suitable opportunities in Tamil cinema in view of his advancing age.

On Monday, Palaniswami hit out at Rajinikanth for his comment that there was a leadership vacuum in Tamil Nadu, saying he was just an actor and not a political leader.

While no political leader claimed a vacuum, the remark came only from the actor, he said.

A perception is prevalent among some that a vacuum exists in politics after AIADMK stalwart J Jayalithaa and DMK patriarch M Karunanidhi died in 2016 and 2018 respectively.

Taunting Haasan, the Chief Minister said, "he is a big leader," and wondered why his MNM did not contest the recent bypolls to Vikravandi and Nanguneri Assembly constituencies. He wanted to know the votes polled by MNM in the recent Lok Sabha polls.

Elections to 14 urban local bodies conclude in Karnataka

PTI ■ BENGALURU

Barring a few incidents of skirmishes involving BJP and Congress workers, elections to the 14 urban local bodies in Karnataka were held peacefully on Tuesday, officials said.

The local bodies that went to polls are two major municipal corporations of Mangaluru and Davangere and six city municipal councils, three town municipal councils and three town Panchayats in seven districts.

These ULBs comprised 418 wards where till 3 pm, 55.27 per cent polling was registered, sources in the State Election Commission said.

As many as 1,587 candidates, including 386 from Congress, 363 from BJP and 233 of JD(S), contested the polls.

There were 475 independent candidates, the sources added.

The counting of votes will take place on November 14.

There was a face-off between the BJP and Congress supporters at Kanakapura but police intervened and diffused the situation.

A similar incident was reported in Mangaluru where also security personnel brought the situation under control, police said.

BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel, BJP MLA Ved Vyas Kamath and Congress veteran Shamanur Shivshankarappa are among the prominent people who exercised his franchise in Mangaluru.

Speaking to reporters in Mangaluru, Kateel expressed confidence that BJP would win Mangaluru and Davangere corporations and also in a large number of other ULBs.

Pilot: Raj Govt committed to providing maximum job opportunities to youth

PTI ■ JAIPUR

Rajasthan Deputy Chief Minister Sachin Pilot on Tuesday said his Government is committed to providing maximum job opportunities to the youth in the State.

The remarks came after Pilot met some young men who had been protesting in the State for the past six days, demanding recruitments from the Government.

He also spoke to their representative Upen Yadav who was on a six-day-long hunger strike.

The Minister said the country's economy was suffering and the State was also being affected due to the policies of the Centre.

"The State Government is committed to providing maximum job opportunities to youths according to their qualification. We are going to fill the backlog in services and will ensure that youths get jobs as per their educational qualification," he told reporters.

After speaking to the deputy chief minister, Yadav ended his hunger strike and drank juice offered by Pilot.

"I have promised that the government will look into the demands of unemployed youths," the Minister added.

Gehlot arrived here from Punjab and headed to the resort on the Delhi Road where he is meeting with the party MLAs.

The Congress MLAs have been staying in the resort here since Friday.

Like Ayodhya, go by SC verdict on Sabarimala: Minister to BJP

PTI ■ THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Kerala Devaswom Minister Kadakampally Surendran on Tuesday asked the BJP, which has welcomed the recent Supreme Court order on Ayodhya, to also respect the apex court verdict on Sabarimala permitting women of all ages to pray at the Lord Ayyappa shrine.

Surendran, who was replying to a question posed by the lone BJP legislator O Rajagopal, also asked the saffron party not to encourage "goons and anti-socials" to go to Sabarimala.

Rajagopal had sought reply from the Devaswom Minister on the arrangements made at the hilltop shrine ahead of the annual pilgrimage season.

The BJP member alleged that the number of devotees to the hill shrine came down last year and wondered why the Left government supported the entry of "atheist, Left activists" and others into the temple.

Countering it, the Minister said: "Please don't encourage anti-socials and goons to go to Sabarimala like last time," an apparent reference to violence during the protest against entry of young women.

"Society expects more from a personality like you (Rajagopal). Now, the Ayodhya case verdict has come, your party has welcomed it with open arms. Hope the same attitude will be there with respect to the Sabarimala issue," Surendran said.

The Minister said facilities have been arranged for keeping the sacred offerings of around 6,500 devotees while a total of 1,161 toilets, 160 bathrooms and 150 urinals had been set up.

"Five emergency medical centres have also been readied. Three incinerators and 600 waste bins are also there," Surendran told the House. The hill shrine had witnessed protests by devotees and right outfits against the LDF Government's decision to implement the Supreme Court verdict in 2018 allowing all women, including those in the menstruating age, to offer prayers at the hill shrine.

This is no endgame

The Maharashtra Governor has ticked off boxes rather than honouring the spirit of a federal, democratic system

As Maharashtra hurtles towards Presidential Rule, it has shown how a valid electoral verdict and ethics can be subverted by political greed of the day. Not only that, it shows how a centrist party, no matter what the verdict in States, can use the offices under its purview to turn any result in its favour. And justify its act as only following a precedent of Congress or its coalition governments at the Centre instead of correcting it. Although the BJP and Shiv Sena had worked out a pre-poll alliance, which was even endorsed by voters, the former's arrogance as the lead partner and the latter's insistence on an equal role tore it apart. The former willingly let its junior partner drift away and challenged its ability to prop up an alternative coalition. The Sena tried its best but with ideological divergences paring down its chances of forming a stable Government with the Opposition Congress-Nationalist Congress Party (NCP), it is out in the cold without the numbers. No matter how tempting the opportunity to use the electoral window to jump into governance, the Congress and the NCP are looking beyond local legislators to the larger impropriety of convenience tarnishing their national image. The BJP, which is a keen believer of one-party homogeneity across the nation, is having the last laugh as the only possible choice. So it has lost no time in overturning the ethics of the Governor's office and emanating a democratic federal structure. The Governor, while giving ample time to the BJP to stake a claim, didn't even ask for a floor test and gave in to Chief Minister-elect Devendra Fadnis' inability to procure requisite numbers, which he ought to have done according to the rules and spirit of parliamentary democracy. While Governor BS Koshiyari ticked off the boxes on technicality, he did not give adequate time to the Opposition parties and even an adrift Sena for crystallising their adjustments before committing to furnishing letters of support. One must remember that individually none of them had the moral right to begin such exercises given the decisive nature of the verdict in favour of BJP-Sena. Yet the Sena got 48 hours to furnish proof and the NCP just 24 hours, the last a bigger travesty as reports emerged that the Governor had recommended President's Rule even before the latter's deadline expired. Constitutionally, the Governor should have insisted on floor tests in the House as according to the judgment in the Bommai vs Union of India case in 1994, "the assessment of the strength of the Ministry is not a matter of private opinion or any individual, be he the Governor or the President." The ruling is very clear about "demonstrating" strengths and not relying on subjective assessments. This has only lent credence to theories that President's Rule anyway was an extension counter of the ruling party and the State would still be at BJP's command, with or without Fadnis. While Sena has moved the Supreme Court questioning the Governor's role, the State may appear to be in limbo but in reality, is in the BJP's kitty.

Going by latest precedents in States, the BJP has assumed power despite not emerging as the single-largest party, be it by cobbling up post-poll alliances, breaking Opposition ranks or devouring any claimants. Goa, Manipur and Meghalaya stand out as examples where the Congress was actually the single-largest party. Then there was the embarrassment of March 2016, when Congress rebels and BJP MLAs challenged the Harish Rawat-led Congress Government in Uttarakhand over the Finance Bill. The rebel MLAs were later disqualified. Governor KK Paul asked the Modi Government to impose President's Rule in the State, but Uttarakhand High Court Judge KM Joseph quashed it and Rawat proved his majority in the House. All these examples of violations prove there is an internecine plot to erode the spirit of alliance politics in general and the regional partners in particular, making them look like puppets in a shadow play, so facile that the voter changes his/her pattern in the next round of elections. As political parties hide their ambitions with the fig leaf of responsibility, Maharashtra is indeed in a crisis. It still records the most farmer suicides — more than 12,000 in the four years from 2015-2019. The largest State economy in the country is in the middle of a halting slowdown, a collapsed real estate sector, agrarian distress and loss of jobs and manufacturing. All talk of Marathi pride is actually a condensation of deeper aspirations to ride out this morass. And that surely cannot happen with an imposition of authority but stakeholderhood.

Fee hike unjust

It's not that JNU students are unreasonable, it's just that due process must be followed

One wonders whether certain moves are made to malign the image of Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) as the premier institute of the country, knowing full well that its students won't stop questioning or give up without a fight. This time the students, led by their unions, are protesting against a slew of decisions taken by its administration, which includes a steep hike in tuition fees, enforcement of a dress code and curfew timings for hostellers. So much so that water cannons had to be used to disperse agitating protesters, some of whom were detained. The students' angst over the almost 300 per cent hike in fees is understandable as it's astronomical and insensitive, instead of being graded and phased out as all transitions to a new protocol should be. For long, JNU has come to be recognised as one of the most liberal institutions, which provides quality education at affordable rates. It has provided succour to the poorest of families, who could not afford a respectable education for their children due to the hefty fees charged by other eminent institutions, which are only getting more expensive by the day.

On the other hand, it is also a fact that JNU's fee policy had been operating under a differential regime — its fee structure was nothing when compared to its counterparts. Could one imagine staying in one of the prime locations of Delhi, paying a room rent of just ₹20 per month for a single-seater or ₹10 per month for a double seater, that, too without any utility or service charge? That's something that was unimaginable back in the decade and even now. Perhaps, this is the reason why students here over-extended their duration of degrees so that they could prolong their stay at the hostels, which is comfortable and cheap, the inexpensive food coming as an additional benefit. Some even take short-term courses while working part-time. Then there are also others, who stay on campus without permission. The accumulation of old students led to a chronic hostel shortage for newcomers. The university, too, was at ease for a lot of its budget came either from the taxpayers' money or from international donations. In this sense, it is welcome that the varsity finally woke up to the dangers of big subsidies. Yet it must be accepted that a steep hike, coming after a span of 19 years, is an injustice when not reasonably executed. No consultations were made with the stakeholders or the management council to arrive at a common ground. Dress codes or hostel timing rules for students, too, are downright silly. The students admitted to this varsity are adults and must be treated as such.

False data mechanism

GDP as a measure of human well-being and progress is flawed. A new set of metrics that can be implemented across the world is the need of the hour

RK PACHAURI

The entire focus and preoccupation on Gross Domestic Product (GDP) as a measure of human progress and advancement has obviously been taken much too far. It was in 1930 that Lord Keynes came up with the statement, "For at least another 100 years, we must pretend to everyone that fair is foul and foul is fair; for foul is useful and fair is not. Avarice and usury and precaution must be our gods for a little longer still. For only they can lead us out of the tunnel of economic necessity into daylight."

It must be remembered that this was a period when the global economy was in the doldrums and, perhaps, a measure which recorded the output of goods and services would have been useful as a response to the distress that the US in particular and other parts of the world were suffering from. But perhaps Keynes never anticipated that a system, which became ingrained in the minds of every individual and which defined the systems for measuring human progress, would hardly be easy to replace after a 100 years. We know today that reliance on GDP hides a lot of negative effects and externalities and its flawed effects keep growing.

The extent of waste and the impacts on the environment, which the modern economy generates, are, unfortunately, not factored into GDP at all. Damage to the environment and the stock of natural resources should, even on the basis of common sense, be deducted from any compilation of GDP for a particular society or economic system. Further, it is a well-accepted principle that when environmental damage takes place, the polluter must pay. This, unfortunately, is not the case all across the world.

The problem of climate change is the result of Cumulative Emissions of Greenhouse Gases (GHGs) since the beginning of industrialisation. The sole responsibility for this lies essentially with the industrialised countries and it is for this reason that the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) clearly came up with the condition of "Common but differentiated responsibility." This was accepted and agreed on essentially because the developing countries are no doubt at a stage where their energy consumption would perhaps outstrip that of the developed world. Yet, the stock of carbon dioxide and other GHGs has been the cumulative contribution of the industrialised countries to an overwhelming extent. The developed nations are now conveniently forgetting the historical responsibility that they must accept fully.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) came out with a study earlier this year where it estimated the extent of subsidies that the world is responsible for in the pricing of fossil fuels. "Globally, subsidies remained large at $4.7 trillion (6.3 per cent of the global GDP) in 2015 and are projected at $5.2 trillion (6.5 per cent of GDP) in 2017."

The study further states, "About three quarters of the global subsidies are due to domestic factors — energy pricing reform thus remains largely in countries' own national interest — while coal and petroleum together account for 85 per cent of the global subsidies. Efficient fossil fuel pricing in 2015 would have lowered global carbon emissions by 28 per cent and fossil fuel air pollution deaths by 46 per cent and increased Government revenue by 3.8 per cent of GDP."

In other words, the world, instead of reducing the emissions of carbon dioxide — the primary GHG which causes climate change — is generously rewarding the production and use of fossil fuels and, hence, of carbon dioxide. This represents a distortion, which clearly reflects the power of the fossil fuel lobby over decision-making in most countries.

It was in 2008 that the then President of France, Nicolas Sarkozy, set up a commission on the Measurement of Economic Performance and Social Progress under the chairmanship of Joseph Stiglitz, the Nobel Prize winning economist, the report from which was submitted in September 2009. While the Stiglitz Commission analysed the flaws and shortcomings of GDP as a measure, it also came up with some recommendations, which would help modify and refine this metric. It was brought out that statistical indicators are important for designing and assessing policies aimed at advancing the progress of society as well as for assessing and influencing the functioning of economic markets.

It is well-known that what gets measured, gets managed. Hence, when we get measures that are flawed, then decisions will also be flawed or biased and we may then deviate substantially from what constitutes human welfare.

The first recommendation of the Stiglitz Commission was based on coming up with a measure reflecting material living standards, which would be closely associated with net national income, real household income and consumption. Hence, there is a large range of variables that would provide a sharp deviation between GDP and the well-being of a household or society.

Another recommendation emphasises the fact that citizens' material living standards are better followed through measures of household income and consumption. In fact, data for OECD countries show that real household income has grown quite differently from real GDP per capita and typically at a lower rate. Another recommendation relates to considering income and consumption jointly with wealth. It may be inferred that if we were to apply this principle, we should also include estimates of natural wealth.

With the recent burning of the Amazon forest in Brazil, any measure of GDP would be over-estimated if we were to ignore the massive destruction of nature's wealth that Brazil owns. Still another recommendation highlights greater prominence be given to the distribution of income, consumption and wealth.

On a practical basis, if we have to overhaul the measure of GDP and eliminate its flaws such an effort needs to be led by the Secretary General of the United Nations (UN). The effort should involve setting up a group of experts which would provide a roadmap within a period of three months on how to ensure that the world moves its systems to a new set of metrics by 2030. This effort should then be taken up by the UN General Assembly to ensure that a new system is designed for implementation across all the countries of the world during its first phase of design and detailing during 2020 to 2022. The following eight years would then be given to full implementation and to ensure that by 2030 we give GDP a burial after a hundred years of dominant existence.

Judicial reforms

Sir — This refers to the article, "Big ticket reforms need of the hour" (November 8) by VK Bahuguna. The writer must be complimented for stressing on the need for reforms in our justice system to ensure faster and efficient delivery of justice to the citizens. As the writer said, the need is to review the closed method of selection of judges to the high judiciary. But there are also many other issues that matter to the rest of us.

First, besides the enormous delay in the listing of cases, one of the prime concerns pertains to the scanty time given to the common man for hearing his/her appeal/writ petition even if they relate to some gross error committed by the lower court in reading a particular file/document.

Second, it is but natural for the common man to get frustrated when he/she finds that no reason has been cited for the dismissal of the petition, thus negating the basic premise of justice that not only must it be done; it must also be seen to be done.

A serious thought must be given to the shortcomings that plague the judicial system of the country.

Respect the police

Sir — This refers to the editorial, "For the sake of law" (November 7). Clashes between the public and the police must not be allowed to become a trend. Policemen are servants of the Government when in uniform. On the other hand, lawyers are professionals, who, too, have protection of law while on duty.

But a lawyer is with an attire and not uniform. Any assault on a police officer in uniform is categorised in statutes — even a rough argument with him/her can attract the charge of misde-meanour. This is built on the thesis that the men in uniform represent the face of a transferred authority by the Government, which is paramount.

Without such construct, the Government will be seen as powerless to discharge its primary remit of maintaining peace and order. While the Government must invariably sustain the authority of the uniform, the

Migratory birds need a safer world

It was sad to learn that as many as 1,500 migratory birds of over a dozen species were found dead in Sambhar Lake, the country's largest inland saltwater lake near Jaipur. Officials suspect water contamination as one of the reasons for their death but are waiting for the viscera test reports. Such a large number of deaths of migratory birds is rare in recent history.

Earlier, a medical team from Jaipur had collected a few carcasses and water samples for examination. Ashok Rao, a veterinary doctor who was part of the investigation team, ruled out the possibility of bird flu saying no secretion had been found. Other possibilities like toxicity of the water and bacterial or viral infection are being looked into. A few days ago, a hail-storm had hit the area, which could also be a possibility for the cause of death. Birds form a major part of the earth's ecosystem. Migratory birds come mainly from Siberia and Europe when harsh winter season sets in there. These birds migrate to India every year for food, breeding and nesting. After the passage of winter, when it gets hot here, they again migrate to cooler areas. Authorities must take necessary steps to make the environment clean and unpolluted to welcome these winged guests.

Balanced verdict

Sir — This refers to the editorial, "Return of maryada" (November 11). The unanimous verdict delivered by the Supreme Court not only paved the way for the construction of Ram mandir in Ayodhya but also put an end to a decade-long dispute. It is disheartening that the issue had to drag on for far too much. The truth remains that the wheels of our judicial system runs very slow. The court's directive to the Uttar Pradesh Government to allot five acres of land within Ayodhya for the construction of a new masjid must not be viewed as charity but a recognition of their right to worship. The court's ruling is sound and balanced. People must accept the judgment wholeheartedly.

Choose merit, not patronage

Civil servants, both principled and spineless, exist in the system; the former serve the country and the latter politicians and themselves

DEBASHISH BHATTACHARYYA

In the administrative system, the bureaucracy plays a key role as civil servants or babus function to implement the policies of the elected Government in a rational, efficient and non-partisan manner. However, people have often experienced that when it comes to implementation and delivery, the performance is disappointing, leading to almost non-delivery or poor public services. And, one of the many factors attributed to this is the unholy nexus between politicians, bureaucrats and other vested interests. There are compelling reasons to believe that this is true. And, it is little wonder, the cost is stupefying. While many feel that the bureaucracy saps initiative, inhibits risk-taking and crushes creativity; there are others who feel that in a vast and diverse country like ours the bureaucracy is unavoidable. And, there is yet another group of people who feel colonial hangovers in bureaucracy represent an utterly frustrated scenario as it can't meet the social and economic challenges that a welfare State like India faces.

It seems worthwhile, however, to quote Queen Elizabeth-I. After making Lord William Cecil her secretary, Elizabeth advised him, "This judgement I have of you, that you will not be corrupted by any manner of gift and that you will be faithful to the state and that, without respect of my private will, you would give me that counsel which you think best." Even though policies, projects and programmes drawn up by the Government aim at the development of the country and well-being of the people, successive governments failed to appreciate the fact that leadership may change, but the engine of governance does not falter on account of having a new driver in a Government that possesses a relatively-famed bureaucracy. However, in demanding political systems, there is less pretence that the country's bureaucracies are deeply influenced by people's interests. Civil servants, both principled and spineless, exist in the system; the former serve the country and the latter politicians and themselves. Thus a section of bureaucracy appears to act as a cog in a political machine that seeks loyalty to the regime as a means to maintain its hold on power, identify solely with the rulers and the official ideology.

Incidentally, there are not many Ashok Khemkas (the IAS officer transferred over 50 times in 27 years of service and still counting) who have the guts to stand up against hidden agenda, poor policies, corruption and exploitation to remain aligned with democratic ideals. Put differently, there are civil servants wishing to sail with confidence, competence, courage and commitment but are being hounded for doing their duty. Let's not lose sight of the Punjab and Haryana High Court's recent observation about Khemka who secured a grading of 9.92/10 by the Reviewing Authority: "We are of the view that a person of such professional integrity needs to be protected as the professional integrity in our political, social and administrative system is depleting very fast..." That being said, I am reminded of a statement by a retired upright IAS officer and writer and columnist whom I met at India International Centre (IIC). As I congratulated him for writing a bold article against a powerful Central Minister, he laughed in that very contagious way he had. I also gave him unsolicited advice that if he continued writing such pieces, he could not aspire to become a Governor or head a Government-appointed committee or organisation. And in response, he said, "I am not among those crafty bureaucrats who enjoy the trust of unscrupulous politicians and ministers. I was sidelined, transferred for not being politically convenient and pliable. But I never gave in to temptation."

However that may be, just a few days ago, speaking at a panel discussion on 'Has the steel frame rusted', former Chief Secretary of Delhi Government, Shalaja Chandra said, "It is easy to say that politicians have failed the IAS officers. But I feel this is not entirely correct. Those in the service need to introspect. If they do not have any extraneous interests, nothing can stop them from serving the people."

So far, the feeble accountability of public and political processes, have defined the character of public administration in India. The challenge ahead lies in finding and meeting the balance between serving citizens while upholding the rule of law without falling prey to either obstructionist and lacklustre bureaucracy or clientelism.

Nevertheless, even as we complain about red tape, paperwork and excessive bureaucratic rigmarole the fact remains that eventually people rely on it to structure our country. The NDA Government in its second term, infused chummings in the Indian civil services by pushing for the lateral entry of domain experts and forced retirements of officers, but it continues to face enormous social and political challenges. In order to effectively deal with these trials we need an efficient bureaucracy. And, to find that, the Central Government has to think and act big.

Righting the country's administrative machinery steadfastly is the only way it's going to happen. Indian ethos and the laws of the land mandate an efficient bureaucracy. It is now up to lawmakers, the Ministers — whom the bureaucracy is supposed to report to — to ensure the country gets it. It's time for transition from a patronage-based to merit-based bureaucracy, with which will come accelerated progress.

Learn from great CEOs

Their greatness lies in the fact that not only have they created profitable enterprises; they have also created brands that are etched forever in the imagination of consumers

HIMA BINDU KOTA

One can decidedly differentiate between an ordinary Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and a great one. Great CEOs are exemplary visionaries, with superlative managerial and leadership skills. They are admired by colleagues and common men alike and are considered idols by millions of young aspiring leaders dreaming of making it big in the corporate world. Their greatness lies in the fact that not only have they created profitable enterprises; they have also created brands that are etched forever in the imagination of consumers. So what are the leadership principles and management philosophies that drive these icons and enable them to take their organisations to stellar heights?

As Brad Feld, an American entrepreneur and venture capitalist, said, "Don't be afraid to have a big vision, but make sure it's a clear one", clarity of vision is one of the main traits of great CEOs.

Taking an example of Steve Jobs, an unconventional leader who demanded excellence from his staff and was controversial for his blunt delivery of criticism. However, his sheer genius; his amazing ability to articulate his vision and dexterity to take his people, investors and customers with him on his journey made him an exceptional leader. Jobs had an exceptional clarity of vision and excelled at designing minimalist devices that broke barriers in computer speeds. He created an ecosystem which could stand alone or work together in an interconnected way-like an iPod connected to a Mac connected to an iTunes store. Apple could manage vast amounts of information through division of labour among the systems. For example, the Mac controlled system administration while iTunes fetched content from cloud storage, freeing the device to concentrate on playing the music. Jobs was motivated more than anything to feel he had made a solid and positive impact on the world during his lifetime. And since he had such high expectations from himself, he was able to achieve excellence.

Jack Welch, perhaps the greatest corporate leader of the 20th century, was the youngest CEO of General Electric (GE) when he took over in 1981. He followed an incremental leadership style and during his two-decade stint, the net worth of GE improved by a whopping 4,000 per cent. He is a management theorist and strategic thinker who championed new initiatives like Six Sigma quality, differentiation and e-business.

Bill Gates, listed as the richest person on this planet for 12 consecutive years, is also a man of colossal vision. He envisioned every person on this planet to have a computer and every computer, a programme, designed by Microsoft. Since then, he has worked tirelessly to achieve his vision. In this process, he has been instrumental in the IT revolution that the world has witnessed. Great CEOs, apart from adding to the bottomline of the company contribute to the society in a big way. It would be hard to talk about the life of Bill Gates and not discuss philanthropy and humanitarianism. Heading to his mother's advice before she passed away due to breast cancer, Gates has always taken a selfless approach to his leadership, spending considerable money and time in philanthropic efforts to give to others. The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation has donated billions of dollars to causes all over the world, making significant differences in the lives of children and adults. This level of giving back illustrates Gates' character and focus on social responsibility as a global corporate citizen. It also shows that his pursuit of solutions and making life better went beyond just making a profit. Instead, it was about driving significant change in the world that would make a difference for those who need it the most.

Indra Nooyi, who is an iconic leader, consistently ranked among the 100 most powerful women, when she was the CEO of PepsiCo, the world's second largest food and beverage company in the world, and was at the helm of managing an employee strength of 30,000 and selling in around 200 countries around the world. She believed in developing two balance sheets: One was to provide return to shareholders and the other was to provide return to the environment. Under her leadership, PepsiCo focussed on people and planet in addition to profit. Nooyi had worked tirelessly to reduce the use of energy, water and packaging and simultaneously providing a great workplace for its employees and associates.

Great CEOs show that great works are performed not by strength but by perseverance. "It's not where you start out in life that matters, but where you end up".

This adage fits Ursula Burns perfectly. Born in the poor neighbourhood of Manhattan to immigrant parents and raised by a single mother, she rose to become the first female African American CEO of a Fortune 500 company, Xerox and also holds the honour of being the first woman to succeed another woman CEO, Anne Mulcahy. Having joined Xerox in 1980 as a mechanical engineering summer intern, Burns progressed through the corporate echelons to become the CEO from 2009 to 2016. At present, she is the Chairperson and CEO of VEON, a senior advisor to Teneo, and a non-executive director of Diageo since April 2018. She is also the member of the board of directors of Uber. She worked very hard to rise above her underprivileged background and did not use her background as an excuse. She worked with perseverance to reach the top of the corporate world and worked hard to return Xerox to profitability. NR Narayan Murthy, a role model for every Indian, is an apt example of "Simple living, high thinking". He is a billionaire with net worth of about $230 crore but still flies economy and drives around in a simple car. Murthy's life is an inspiration to all of us and gives a strong message that world-class businesses can be created based on transparency and good governance. Born in a middle class family in Sidlaghatta, Karnataka, the odds of life were no match to this brilliant and enthusiastic person, who, through his discipline and determination created a "Great Indian IT Success Story".

Infosys, today, is one of most respected IT companies in the world with footprints all across the globe and is the second-largest IT company in India by revenue. But did you know that his first entrepreneurial venture, Softronics, failed to take off? One of the initial challenges faced by Murthy was the inability to take admission in the prestigious Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) even after earning a high rank and scholarship as the grant was not enough to cover his studies. Since his father was unable to fund his education, he enrolled into a local engineering college but later did his post-graduation from IIT.

Similarly, the failure of his first entrepreneurial venture, Softronics, did not stop him from establishing Infosys and lead it to stellar heights. Murthy follows Mahatma Gandhi's policy of "practice what you preach." He has always led by example and believes that the primary responsibility of a leader is to give hope and confidence in the face of adversity.

Taking care of people is one of the biggest attributes of great CEOs. Murthy has been generous in rewarding employees with stock options. Personally, he has given away stocks worth of ₹50,000 crore to his employees. He reiterates that performance should be rewarded suitably. In Infosys, drivers, electricians and secretaries are among millionaires due to their stock options. Indra Nooyi was also a caring, humane CEO who took care of her employees by being in touch with them and understanding their concerns. She even wrote "thank you" letters to the parents of the employees to show her appreciation to them.

Similarly, Ken Chenault, the former CEO of American Express, believed in reaching out to each employee. He made it a point to answer to each and every mail he received from any of his employees. He travelled around the world to meet staff at different locations from around the globe. To further connect personally with his people, he used to run an open operation where anyone could talk to him.

Great CEOs, because of their innate quality of perseverance and contribution to society, ensure stability and growth of their organisations making them the best in the world. They live by their principles and lead by example, making them exemplary leaders of the corporate world.

A litmus test for medical bureaucracy

The biggest problem with the CGHS is excessive red tape, harassment and too much paperwork, which bogs down the patients, the wellness centres as well as empanelled hospitals, laboratories and drug suppliers

VK BAHUGUNA

The Central Government Health Scheme (CGHS) is one of the largest health care systems in the country, which caters to serving and retired Central Government employees, their dependents, pensioners and also Members of Parliament. On paper and intention-wise it is one of the best welfare schemes in the country.

Present in 71 locations in the country, it caters to 35 lakh beneficiaries and the number is always increasing. Due to unplanned expansion to new cities each year, the infrastructure, manpower and other resources of the CGHS are getting strained.

In places like Dehradun more than 25,000 beneficiaries (including from distant places like Haridwar and Roorkee) through the wellness centres daily and many have to wait from 5 AM to 2 PM for their turn to be examined by the doctor. However, many have to return home without even getting to meet the doctor, as the main server in Delhi closes at 2 PM and there is no provision for manually handling the paperwork. It was complete chaos till a few months ago, when the Survey of India Dispensary was merged with it and things eased a bit. There has been a long-standing demand to improve the CGHS system by all quarters and from all over the country. The biggest problem with the CGHS is excessive red tape, harassment and too much paperwork, which bogs down the patients, the wellness centres as well as empanelled hospitals, laboratories and drug suppliers.

Taking note of the shortcomings in the CGHS, Union Health Minister Harsh Vardhan had solicited suggestions from all stakeholders for improving the scheme and submitting these proposals latest by November 30.

To make any scheme effective, the Government needs to ensure that it can sustain the patient pressure and be innovative and patient-centric rather than procedure-centric. Today, the biggest management problem in CGHS is lack of proper infrastructure and manpower. The Health Ministry has been opening new wellness centres without proper assessment of the infrastructure and the result is the utter chaos that prevails in these new dispensaries and the endless suffering of patients. The plight of senior citizens is particularly bad as they have to wait long hours just to get treatment despite their failing health and weakened condition. The doctors and nursing staff are also under tremendous pressure. Now the question is how to overcome this situation as it is also necessary to extend the CGHS scheme to cover new areas in the country.

The other problem relates to rates of various tests and treatment procedures for the empanelled hospitals and delay in payments to the laboratories, that is forcing many diagnostic centres to refuse patients. The third issue relates to the lack of proper and honest monitoring of private empanelled hospitals as sometimes, due to the mischief of a few, the entire scheme is put in limbo.

It is therefore, necessary to take some innovative policy decisions. To cope with the ever-growing number of CGHS centres the Government should enter into a public private partnership (PPP) mode and select private hospitals, who in turn should be allowed to have collaborative partnership with the CGHS on pre-determined aspects and also appoint private doctors for a few hours on contract to treat the patients. At present this provision of hiring exists but it is cumbersome and the wellness centre gets caught in the web of red-tapism. There should be an upfront decision to fix the number of doctors based on the number of beneficiaries and requirement of doctors and support staff and powers should be delegated up to the Chief Medical Officer (CMO) level to allow hiring on contract basis.

The rates of pathological tests and radiological procedures should not be fixed in an arbitrary manner and should be periodically revised. The payments should be made bi-monthly for which an adequate budget should be sanctioned upfront for the whole year.

Many private hospitals indulge in malpractices and there is a need for constant and transparent monitoring. If the Government innovates and ropes in private hospitals, enhances the powers of CMOs and regional heads and involves private medical professionals, the CGHS medical bureaucracy can be used for better monitoring of these hospitals.

There are two-pronged problems faced by the patients. First, the administrative hassles at the wellness centres due to too much red-tapism and poor infrastructure. Also, many times, empanelled hospitals harass the patients with too much paperwork and deny admission or treatment on flimsy grounds.

Second, is the harassment patients face in running from the empanelled hospitals to the wellness centres, as each time one needs to endorse the expert advice. To rectify this, the Government could allow patients to directly approach the empanelled hospitals for specifically identified diseases, including chronic ones like diabetes and so on. The Government had allowed senior citizens above 75 years of age to approach empanelled hospitals directly without referral. This provision should also be allowed for senior citizens above 60 years, to make things easier for them and reduce the pressure on doctors. The collection of medicines and distribution should also be streamlined.

Though it is a welfare scheme yet there is no involvement of the beneficiaries. This is specially necessary in cases involving cashless pensioners and the Government might consider setting up a mechanism for this as it will bring in more transparency and expertise of private hospitals and doctors.

The Prime Minister and Health Minister must take this initiative to its logical end as already, the Government is spending on an average, nearly a lakh annually on the health care of each of its employees. Fine tuning of CGHS is essential to make the scheme succeed.

2nd whistleblower fires more salvo at Infosys CEO

IANS ■ BENGALURU

Unleashing a barrage of charges against Infosys Chief Executive Officer Salil Parekh, the second whistleblower fired more salvos at him, with the allegations ranging from his unaccounted travels to grabbing the company's sponsored vantage point seats at the ATP tournaments for personal use.

"Salil Parekh keeps visiting the US every month in order to retain his Green Card status. I have also heard that he has on several occasions gone to the US but has not visited any client or our offices. Then, what is the purpose of his visits? It is evident that he is telling you a lie," said the whistleblower in an unsigned and undated letter to the company's Chairman and co-founder Nandan Nilekani and Independent Directors on the Board.

Claiming to be an employee in the company's finance department, the whistleblower complained that he was unable to disclose his identity fearing retaliation for the damning disclosures he was making against Parekh.

"I am an employee working in the finance department. I am submitting this whistleblower complaint as the matter is so volatile that I fear retaliation if I disclose my identity. Please excuse me for the same, but matter is of grave importance," said the employee in the complaint, accessed by IANS through sources on Monday night.

In a belated response on the second whistleblower's letter to the board, the city-based Infosys on Tuesday told IANS in an e-mail that "the undated whistleblower's complaint largely deals with allegations relating to the CEO's international travels to the US and Mumbai.

"One board member received two anonymous complaints on September 30, one dated September 20, titled 'Disturbing unethical practices' and the second undated with the title 'Whistleblower Complaint,' said the company, attributing the admission to Nilekani's statement on October 21-22.

Attacking the second non-promoter CEO after Vishal Sikka, the whistleblower alleged that Parekh was abusing his high office to endear himself to high profile universities in the US, promising donations with a view to guaranteeing admissions to his children.

"He (Parekh) is also using the connections of the company's Global Academic Relations (GAR) team to secure seats in reputed institutions for his children," the whistleblower claimed.

As part of the industry-academia relationship, the GAR team liaises the company's links with top universities the world over, as part of InStep, its flagship internship programme.

According to the aggrieved Infosys, a woman employee is renowned for proudly bragging internally about Parekh's academic exploits with the American universities.

"This is a gross violation and misuse of his power and Infosys finances. You may want to trigger an investigation to see all the locations visited by the CEO, institutions where Infosys has invested and why?" the complainant said.

The whistleblower also said it was shameful of Parekh to "project" his performance and grab 108 per cent bonus in April 2019, way before other subordinates who toiled and received bonus only in the range of 70-90 per cent in July/August 2019.

"How fair is that? Earlier, the founders would always ensure that all the people who worked hard would get rewarded and only then accept anything themselves. This is a huge let down," the complainant noted.

Referring to the concessions offered to Parekh by Nominations and Remuneration Committee (NRC), the whistleblower alleged that the CEO's stock vesting lock-in period had been advanced to the end of first year than the three-year lock-in period agreed initially.

"This was even taken up as a resolution that was passed at the annual general meeting (AGM) in June 2019. This is a very unfair practice and needs to be reversed," asserted the whistleblower.

Targeting Parekh's personal ethics, the complainant alleged that the CEO is a liar who sets up individuals against each other and seldom documents his decisions.

Tata Motors' India operations face acute challenges: Moody's

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Tata Sons infusing USD 914 million (around Rs 6,542 crore) equity in Tata Motors is credit positive for the company but the country's largest automobile manufacturer faces acute challenges in sluggish economic growth, weak liquidity, and tight financing norms, Moody's Investors Service said on Tuesday.

Moody's assigned a Ba3 rating to the proposed senior unsecured notes to be issued by Tata Motors. The rating outlook is negative, Moody's said in a statement.

"The Ba3 ratings reflect Tata Motors Ltd's (TML) leading market position in commercial vehicles (CVs) in India, 100 per cent ownership of the premium/luxury car manufacturer Jaguar Land Rover Automotive Plc, and ownership by Tata Sons, which results in a one-notch uplift, reflecting our expectation of continued parental support, when needed," says Kaustubh Chhabal, a Moody's Vice President and Senior Credit Officer.

On October 25, TML

announced that it will make a preferential allotment of equity shares and convertible warrants to Tata Sons for a USD 914 million equity injection, of which USD 548 million will be paid immediately, and the balance over a period of 18 months.

Pro-forma the preferential allotment and the conversion of the warrants, Tata Sons' shareholding in TML will increase to 46.4 per cent from the current 38.4 per cent. "We view the preferential allotment as a credit positive because TML plans to apply the proceeds towards reducing its debt," adds Chhabal, who is also Moody's Lead Analyst for TML.

"The equity injection also reflects Tata Sons' continued support, and will somewhat reduce the pressure on TML's balance sheet stemming from the weak operating performance of its India business, even as JLR delivers some improvement."

JLR continues to make progress on its cost savings and efficiency plan with the aim to achieve GBP1.0 billion in cost savings by March 2020, having delivered GBP0.5 billion up to September 2019. In addition, JLR has achieved GBP1.5 billion of its GBP1.7 billion target on capital expenditure and working capital improvements as of September 2019.

Looking ahead, Moody's expects JLR's adjusted debt/EBITDA to improve from 10.6x at March 2019 to 6.0x over the next 12 months.

Tata Motors' Oct global wholesale down 19 per cent

Mumbai: Automobile major Tata Motors Group on Tuesday reported a fall of 19 per cent in its global wholesales during October to 89,108 units, including the off-take for the Jaguar Land Rover (JLR).

According to the group, its global wholesales of all 'Tata Motors' commercial vehicles and the 'Tata Daewoo' during the month under review declined by 36 per cent to 28,478 units as compared to October 2018.

"Global wholesales of all passenger vehicles in October 2019 were at 60,630 nos., lower by 7 per cent as compared to October 2018," the statement said. "Global wholesales for JLR were 47,278 vehicles. Jaguar wholesales for the month were 12,367 vehicles, while Land Rover wholesales for the month were 34,911 vehicles." IANS

JLR sales dip 6 pc in Oct to 41,866 units

New Delhi: Jaguar Land Rover (JLR), a part of Tata Motors, on Tuesday reported 5.5 per cent decline in total retail sales at 41,866 units in October as compared with the year-ago period. Sales of Jaguar brand were at 10,606 units during the month, down 22.9 per cent from October 2018, Tata Motors said in a statement.

Land Rover sales were at 31,260 units, up 2.4 per cent from the same month last year, it added. "The automotive trading environment remains challenging globally. Against this background, it is all the more encouraging to see our China turnaround strategy and work with the local retailer network generating positive results as sales have improved in China for the fourth consecutive month," JLR Chief Commercial Officer Felix Brautigam said. Finance panel grills FinMin on DeMo, state of economy

IANS ■ NEW DELHI

Demonetisation came to haunt Finance Ministry officials all over again with a section of the lawmakers choosing the subject to grill the executive while raising questions whether the move taken three years ago was the prime reason for the current slowdown.

The subject came up for discussion at the meeting of Parliamentary Standing Committee on Finance last week. But what was meant as a one-off mention soon became a full-blown issue with several members terming the move as bad for the economy.

At the meeting, the MPs also questioned senior Finance ministry officials on the likely revenue shortfall, lack of investment and lack of confidence in Indian economy.

Officials were asked to reason with the current poor economic growth and deceleration in all macro indicators, sources said. Some members asked the officials if the demonetisation step of three years back by the government is the reason behind the current slowdown, said sources.

Economic Affairs Secretary Atanu Chakraborty, Revenue Secretary AB Pandey, Finance Secretary Rajeev Kumar, Chief Economic Adviser K Subramanian were among those who attended the panel's meetings along with Central Board of Direct Taxes chief PC Mody.

India's GDP likely to grow 5% this fiscal: SBI report

New Delhi: An SBI research report on Tuesday sharply cut the country's GDP growth forecast to 5 per cent for FY 2019-20 from the earlier projection of 6.1 per cent.

The second quarter GDP growth rate is likely to slip to 4.2 per cent on account of low automobile sales, deceleration in air traffic movements, flattening of core sector growth and declining investment in construction and infrastructure, according to Ecowrap — the report from the Economic Research Department of State Bank of India (SBI).

The report, however, said the economic growth rate will pick up pace in 2020-21 to 6.2 per cent. To propel economic growth, it said, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) may go for "larger rate cuts" in December monetary policy review.

Last month, while reducing the key policy rate (repo) by 25 basis points for the fifth time in a row, the RBI had also reduced its growth forecast to 6.1 per cent for 2019-20 from 6.9 per cent. PTI

Some e-retailers indulged in predatory pricing, says Goyal

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Union Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Tuesday said some e-commerce companies are indulging in predatory pricing which is adversely impacting millions of small retailers.

"I would like to highlight the adverse impact of predatory pricing indulged by some e-commerce players which adversely impact millions of small retailers. It is important for the letter and spirit of the law," he said at the BRICS trade ministers meeting in Brasilia.

The Minister said the need of the hour is to develop digital infrastructure, digital skills and institutions particularly in the developing and less developed world.

The global economic outlook is facing grave challenges amidst growing protectionism and rising trade tensions manifested in unilateral measures, Goyal noted.

"In this uncertain world, India continues to offer economic opportunities," he said mentioning several steps taken by the union government to attract investments.

The Minister said increasing trends of protectionism in the form of non-tariff barriers (NTBs), both stated and unstated, deny market access, particularly for developing countries. "The developed world advocates open and free trade with emphasis on removal of tariffs in developing countries, while in reality, they are raising more barriers in the form of NTBs," he said.

These developments are contributing to enhancing economic uncertainties and raising the cost of doing trade in developing and least developed countries, Goyal said.

72% Indians believe country headed in right direction: Survey

IANS ■ NEW DELHI

At least 72 per cent urban Indians believe that India is headed in the right direction compared to 61 per cent global citizens who feel their country is on the wrong track, says a survey by market research firm Ipsos.

While people in China (93 per cent), Saudi Arabia (82 per cent) and India (72 per cent) are the most optimistic about the future, those in South Africa (15 per cent), Italy (17 per cent) and Spain (21 per cent) are the most negative about the prospects of their country. Among the issues that both Indians the most are unemployment, financial/political corruption and crime & violence, according to the Ipsos "What Worries the World" survey. These are also the top three issues that both global citizens as well — though not in the same order.

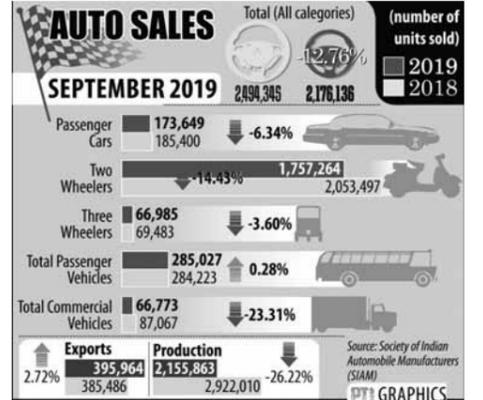

"Urban Indians have faith in the overall trajectory for the country and overall there is a sense of optimism among citizens," Amit Adarkar, CEO, Ipsos India & Operations Director, Ipsos APEC (Asia Pacific Excluding China), said in a statement.

Crisis-hit Nissan chops forecasts, net profit worst for a decade

Yokohama: Crisis-hit Japanese automaker Nissan on Tuesday slashed its full-year forecast for both sales and profit as it struggles with weak demand in Japan, the US and Europe, as well as fallout from the arrest of former boss Carlos Ghosn.

Nissan downgraded its net profit forecast to 110 billion yen ($1 billion) for the fiscal year to March 2020, compared with an earlier estimate of 170 billion yen. Full-year sales are now estimated at 10.6 trillion yen, down from a previous forecast of 11.3 trillion yen.

Nissan blamed the poor outlook on weak first-half earnings, a strong yen, an uncertain global outlook and the stagnation of the car industry in general. Incoming chief financial officer Stephen Ma said: "Sales in China outpaced the market but sales in other key regions including the US, Europe and Japan underperformed in those markets. This resulted in the overall decrease of our market share." Net profit for the six months to September plunged 73.5 per cent to 65.4 billion yen, the worst first-half result since the global financial crisis a decade ago.

"Nissan is in a very severe situation at a time when competition in the global auto market is further intensifying," said Satoru Takada, auto analyst at TIW, a Tokyo-based research and consulting firm. It was Nissan's first earnings announcement since the appointment last month of Makoto Uchida as new chief executive, elevating the insider heading the firm's China unit as it overhauls its leadership after the Ghosn scandal. Airtel has placed conditional bid to buy spectrum of RCom while Bharti Infratel has submitted bids for mobile towers, a Bharti spokesperson said. Police, protesters face off in renewed HK clashes

AP ■ HONG KONG

Police and protesters battled outside university campuses and several thousand demonstrators blocked roads as they took over a central business district at lunchtime on Tuesday in another day of protest in Hong Kong.

The clashes followed an especially violent day in Hong Kong's five months of anti-government demonstrations, in which police shot one protester and a man was set on fire.

Protesters littered streets with bricks and disrupted train service during the morning rush hour on Tuesday. Commuter train passengers were escorted along the tracks, and subways were shut because of disruptions.

Police used tear gas in faceoffs with protesters in and around universities, where classes were canceled.

A few thousand protesters took over several blocks of the central business district at lunchtime. The demonstrators chanted "Five demands, not one less" holding up one hand with five outstretched fingers.

Their demands include democratic changes and investigation of police treatment of protesters.

Traffic was blocked on two major roads by the crowds, with half a dozen of Hong Kong's famous trams lined up unable to move. The words "Join Us" were spray painted on the front window of a halted double-decker bus abandoned by the driver and passengers and one of its windows was broken.

Office workers filled the sidewalks and overhead walkways to watch the action, with some joining the protesters in chanting.

One 24-year-old man, who would not give his name, said he was there to support the protesters and accused the police of using excessive force, a common complaint among the city's 7.4 million people.

Recent weeks have been marked by escalating vandalism against shops linked to mainland China and train stations, and assaults by both protesters and pro-Beijing supporters.

Hong Kong leader Carrie Lam, speaking to news media after a weekly meeting with advisers, called the blocking of the morning commute "a very selfish act."

Clinton criticises UK Govt for blocking Russian report

AP ■ LONDON

Former US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton says she's "dumbfounded" the UK Government has failed to release a report on Russian influence in British politics as the country prepares for national elections.

Clinton told the BBC in an interview broadcast Monday that the public needs to know what is in the report by Parliament's Intelligence and Security Committee.

The Government said it needs more time to consider the report before releasing it to the public, but critics claim the report has been withheld until the next Parliament because it is embarrassing to Prime Minister Boris Johnson's Conservative Party.

"I'm dumbfounded that this government won't release the report... Because every person who votes in this country deserves to see that report before your election happens," Clinton said.

An American investigation into the 2016 US presidential election found "sweeping and systemic" interference.

Bill Browder, a former investment manager in Russia, told the BBC he gave the committee evidence on wealthy Russians working to influence British politics.

The Intelligence and Security Committee report was sent to the prime minister on October 17, and it needs government approval before it is made public.

Af to release Taliban prisoners in apparent swap

Kabul: Afghan President Ashraf Ghani announced on Tuesday that three high-ranking Taliban prisoners would be released, in an apparent exchange for two Western hostages who were kidnapped by the insurgents in 2016.

The three Taliban prisoners include Anas Haqqani, who was seized in 2014 and whose older brother is the deputy Taliban leader and head of the Haqqani network, a notorious Taliban affiliate.

"We have decided to conditionally release three Taliban prisoners who... Have been in Bagram prison in the custody of the Afghan government for some time," Ghani said in an announcement at the presidential palace.

IMPEACHMENT WITNESS Ukrainians asked about holdup of aid

AP ■ WASHINGTON

Transcripts in the newest batch from testimony in the House impeachment hearings are chipping away at a key Republican defense of President Donald Trump.

At issue is Trump's decision to tie military aid for Ukraine to investigations of Joe Biden and the Democrats. Allies of the president say he did nothing wrong because the Ukrainians never knew the aid was being delayed.

The special adviser for Ukraine at the State Department, Catherine Croft, says she fielded inquiries from Ukraine about the holdup.

In the transcript of her testimony to House investigators, released Monday, Croft says officials in Ukraine were clear in their concern over the assistance as they battled Russian aggression.

Witnesses in the impeachment inquiry are set to begin testifying in public on Wednesday.

It was presented and endorsed by (the security) cabinet," it said.

Ata and his wife were killed as they slept on the third floor of a building in Shejaiya district of Gaza City, Palestinian sources said.

Palestinian health officials said that four of their children and a neighbour were injured.

The Israeli Army however rejected speculations that the killing marked return to Israel's policy of targeted assassinations.

Train crash kills 16 people in Bangladesh

Dhaka: At least 16 people were killed and 60 others injured in a head-on collision between two trains in Brahmanbaria district in central Bangladesh on Tuesday, railway officials said.

A railway spokesman said the pre-dawn accident appeared to have occurred when Chittagong-bound Udayan Express was changing tracks at Mondobhag railway station in the district and the Dhaka-bound Turna Nishita coming from the opposite direction collided with it.

"The salvage campaign is nearly completed as Railways Minister Nurul Islam Sujan and our senior officials visited the scene to oversee the rescue drives," the spokesman said.

Hayat-ud-Dowla Khan, Brahmanbaria Deputy Commissioner was quoted as saying by the Dhaka Tribune that the accident occurred because the loco masters did not obey the signals.

Israeli airstrike kills Islamic Jihad commander in Gaza

Jerusalem/Gaza: Israeli security forces on Tuesday assassinated a commander of Islamic Jihad described by them as "a ticking bomb", leading to retaliatory attacks from the Gaza Strip that pushed major areas in Israel to closure and escalated tensions in the region.

A joint statement by the Israel Defence Forces (IDF) and Israel's internal security agency, the Shin Bet, announced that Baha Abu al-Ata was neutralised in a targeted strike at around 4:30 am in an operation that was approved by Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

"[Ata] was behind multiple attacks and rocket launches against Israel in recent months and intended to carry new immediate attacks," the Army and Shin Bet said.

"The operation was recommended by the IDF Chief of Staff and the Shin Bet and approved by the Prime Minister and Minister of Defence, after

Morales leaves for Mexico as Bolivia military pledges to tackle violence

La Paz: Evo Morales has left Bolivia for Mexico, which has granted him political asylum, as the armed forces agreed to help police curb violence that has erupted after the president's stunning resignation left a power vacuum.

The senator set to succeed Morales as interim president, Jeanine Anez, pledged to call fresh elections to end the political crisis.

The United Nations and the Organisation of American States (OAS) earlier voiced fears of a breakdown in security in a country that appeared increasingly rudderless after dozens of officials and ministers resigned along with Morales, some seeking refuge in foreign embassies.

Morales called Mexico's Foreign Minister Marcelo Ebrard on Monday to request asylum and later tweeted that he was "heading to Mexico."

US top brass to mediate between S Korea, Japan

Washington: A top US military officer will be trying to contain the fallout between Seoul and Tokyo on his first overseas trip on the job.

"It is in our interests to keep all three of us very closely aligned," US Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Mark Milley said of South Korea and Japan while en route to the region, according to a Press release from the US Department of Defence on Monday, Xinhua reported.

The overseas trip, the first since he assumed office on September 30, reflected concern among US officials over the straining relationship between its two Asian allies.

UK's Labour Party hit by 'cyber-attack'

LONDON: Labour Party platforms which had the intention of taking our systems entirely offline.

"Every single one of these attempts failed due to our robust security systems and the integrity of all our platforms and data was maintained."

The attack was a "real concern", Labour's General Secretary Jennie Formby said on Twitter.

Reports suggest that it was just a Distributed Denial of Service (DDoS) attack which floods a computer server with traffic to try to take it offline.

DDoS attacks are not normally recognised as being a hack as they do not involve breaking into a target's systems to insert malware, said the BBC reporter, adding that

France, UK, Germany, EU 'extremely concerned' by Iran's N deal breach

Paris: France, Germany, Britain and the European Union have said they are "extremely concerned" by Iran's decision to re-start nuclear activities at one of its key sites, in breach of a landmark 2015 deal with international powers.

"The Foreign Ministers of France, Germany and the United Kingdom and the High Representative of the European Union are extremely concerned by the latest announcements that Iran is restarting uranium enrichment activities at the Fordow facility, as confirmed by the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) in its November 11 report," they said in a joint statement on Monday.

Paris, Berlin, London and Brussels said that Iran's action was "inconsistent" with the 2015 Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action, or JCPOA, under which Tehran had agreed to curb some of its nuclear activities — notably uranium enrichment — in return for a lifting of economic sanctions.

N Korea assails US, South Korea and UN nuclear agency

United Nations: North Korea on Monday accused the United States of "political and military provocations" and South Korea of "double-dealing behaviour."

North Korea's UN Ambassador Kim Song made the accusations in a speech to a General Assembly meeting on the International Atomic Energy Agency, which he accused of "ignorance of the prevailing reality of the Korean peninsula."

Kim said relations between the US and North Korea "have made little progress" since the June 2018 summit between their leaders, "and the situation of the Korean peninsula has not extricated itself from the vicious cycle of aggravated tension."

Trump says Baghdadi successor in US crosshairs

New York: US President Donald Trump placed the Islamic State group's new chief in the crosshairs on Monday as he marked Veterans' Day by celebrating the killing of the jihadists' former leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi.

While US presidents traditionally mark the day by laying a wreath at a vast military cemetery in Arlington, near Washington, Trump traveled to New York where he made an address ahead of the city's annual parade of veterans.

Trump was widely criticised after announcing a full withdrawal of US troops from Syria last month.

'Ghost' footprints hiding since end of Ice Age found

Using a special type of radar, researchers have discovered the invisible footprints hiding since the end of the last ice age — and what lies beneath them.

The fossilised footprints reveal a wealth of information about how humans and animals moved and interacted with each other 12,000 years ago, according to the study published in the journal Scientific Reports.

"We never thought to look under footprints, but it turns out that the sediment itself has a memory that records the effects of the animal's weight and momentum in a beautiful way," said study lead author Thomas Urban from Cornell University in the US.

"It gives us a way to understand the biomechanics of extinct fauna that we never had before," Urban said.

The researchers examined the footprints of humans, mammoths and giant sloths in the White Sands National Monument in New Mexico.

Using ground-penetrating radar (GPR), they were able to resolve 96 per cent of the human tracks in the area under investigation, as well as all of the larger vertebrate tracks.

Big data is the keyword for the future. And its unprecedented relevance even today is the very reason for its prominence. Organisations today are gathering digital impressions of customers to observe their interpretation through machine learning and distributed computing. Data analytics in the education segment opens numerous doors for instructors to connect and facilitate education in new ways. It will give them a more profound comprehension of the student's learning experience, and therefore manage the process appropriately.

Here are a few ways data analysis has already started influencing the Indian educational system:

Improved test results

The general thought of utilising data inside the instructive framework is to improve the results of the students. Right now, the only estimation of the learner's performance is their response to assignments and tests. While this holds true, every learner produces a remarkable data trail. Dissecting this information trail continuously will help increase a superior comprehension of the individual student journey, and in devising the ideal learning conditions for them.

Customisable programmes

With the assistance of data analysis, customised programmes for every individual learner can be made. Regardless of whether schools and colleges have lakhs of students, tailor-made programmes can be made for every one of them. This is conceivable with the assistance of 'blended learning' — a blend of online and offline pedagogies. This offers the chance to pursue classes that the learners are keen on and furthermore work at their very own pace, and also connecting with educators/facilitators/mentors.

Analysing educators

Instructors can receive the greatest number of rewards from data analytics, because of the handling of information-driven frameworks that can enable educators to make learning experiences as indicated by a learner's learning capacity, and inclination. Different projects can be cultivated that will urge every person to pick what they want to realise. Through this, numerous reports can be produced about the life of a student and what they might want to do or want to pursue in the future. Instructors can also understand what will and what will not work with a certain set of students, thereby improving their efficacy. Reduce the number of dropouts part would help improve students' results, dropout rates at schools and universities would likewise decrease. Instructive organisations can utilise prescient examination on every one of the information that is gathered to give them fragments of knowledge on future understudy results. Such expectations can help investigate a course program before it is brought into the educational plan; limiting the scope for experimentation. Truth be told, enormous amounts of information can likewise be utilised to screen how students are performing in the real world after moving on from school. This would help the future students in picking the correct school and course, reducing the number of dropouts.

As data analytics in the training

Gateway for cross-country exchange programmes

With huge information in the training area, establishments can all the more precisely foresee candidates and furthermore break down the potential factors that influence the application procedure. Such information will enable organisations to manage their enrollment procedures to get better results. Such an influx of information will also enable understudies to investigate data about schools internationally, accelerating the quest and application process for global students as well.

Career prediction

Closely analysing a student's presentation report will assist the facilitator to understand his/her advancement and their qualities and shortcomings. The reports will propose the areas in which the student is interested, and they can seek a vocation in a similar field. If a student is enthusiastic about learning a specific subject, at that point, the decision ought to be valued and the student ought to be urged to pursue what they wish to pursue. With big data, educational institutions can look at the progress of a student and through their behaviours and insights, predict appropriate career alternatives.

Data analytics is bound to revolutionise the education sector, by allowing students to have a more positive impact on society and the future of the country. And embracing this very field will open up numerous possibilities in the Indian pedagogy system.

'Technology is reshaping learning practices'

MUSBA HASHMI speaks with MUKESH SHARMA about the importance of personalised learning and how a holistic curriculum is the need of the hour

What made you come up with Prometheus?

The idea to build the school came into being because there was a need to create an institute that helps students realise their true potential. The school is meant to be that institute, which sets the course for students to receive a high-quality holistic education and become a greater part of the community.

The inspiration for naming the school was drawn from the Greek titan, Prometheus, who gave fire to mankind and initiated the dawn of civilisation. Hence, the name. We want to give students an education that ignites their potential.

How do you plan, to best use your experience in e-learning domain for the students?

We are incorporating the best educational pedagogies and introducing new age tech-enabled practices in line with these pedagogies. I will use my experience to keep the focus on new age learning and introduce latest pedagogies as and when needed.

What different aspects of personalised learning can be used by schools to overcome the ageold learning strategy?

Personalised learning is aimed at meeting the needs of every student and drawing out their individual talents and strengths. The first step is moving away from the 'one-size-fits-all' model and creating individual 'learner profiles', which is a key element of personalised learning.

Once learner profiles have been established, it is possible to utilise 'personal learning paths', which focus on the students' strengths to help them improve. Additionally, the use of 'flexible learning environments' helps students to take control of their education.

Today technology is seen as means of leapfrogging in both teaching, learning as well as in knowledge transactions...

All the way from kindergarten to universities, technology is reshaping teaching and learning practices. This specially applies to the use of gadgets like laptops, mobiles and tablets. Information has become accessible at the click/tap of a finger or through voice commands. Students can easily connect with educators across the globe using the means of technology. International tie-ups for e-learning and offering course material that don't have experts physically available are now possible; which means the child is not bound by a classroom to learn.

Mukesh Sharma
Founding Chairman, Prometheus School, Noida

This is a feat in itself and has expanded the boundaries of the knowledge transactions.

A curriculum with overall development is the need of the hour, do you think customisation can be its tool?

Overall development is essential in raising well-rounded individuals that are endowed with the capabilities to handle the needs of the future. In line with our core-beliefs, customisation of the curriculum is an important aspect of nurturing capable students.

Curriculum that are focused on the outcome of an entire class, as a whole, cannot plan for diversified paths to work ahead. To bring out the best in students, we need to customise the curriculum and their education to enable a well-rounded growth. Customisation of the curriculum can help meet the specific needs of a demography and provide room for growth that can help maximise the students' potential for success.

What are your long term goals?

Within the next five years, the school will have established its name as a top premium school in the country front lining the new age holistic education, encompassing academics, co-curricular activities, sports education and life skills learning. We aim to educate and empower the students to help them grow into aesthetically rich, intellectually aware and integrated young people capable of fulfilling their dreams and aspirations.

MAKE FUTURE BRIGHT

Corporate banking offers lucrative option for those who are just starting off, says AMIT GOYAL

Banking professionals handle client's money. In simplistic terms, they help individuals and corporate with their investments, loans and all other money related issues. When we hear the words corporate banking, you might immediately think of loans. Or, we might be confused about what corporate banking means and how it's different from commercial banking and investment banking. In either case, your thinking would be justified. In India corporate banking is now the better career option for the younger student.

Corporate banking is a broad vertical within a commercial bank that takes care of the banking requirements of companies of any size — from micro, small, medium to large multinational conglomerates. Under corporate banking, there are further verticals specialising in providing banking solutions to micro set ups, small and medium enterprises, so and so forth. As the complexity of organisation increases, which generally comes with the size of the company, the banking needs also differ.

Take for example a small mom and pop shop in your neighbourhood, the likely services the business would require would be depositing their daily sales proceeds and making payments to their suppliers. On the other extreme a large global corporate with presence in multiple geographies will have different set of challenges like bidding for projects or requirement for international payments in different currencies.

Job profile

The bankers deal with companies rather than everyday people. Their clients range from small and medium sized companies to huge conglomerates. The products they offer include treasury services, loans and credit, trade finance, and employer services.

Corporate banker's responsibilities include: Meeting with and interviewing corporate and personal customers, discussing their financial requirements, and providing appropriate financial advice. They are advising corporate clients about mergers, acquisitions, capital markets etc. preparing lending agreements promoting the bank's services planning and problem solving writing reports managing projects training and supervising junior banking staff.

Responsibilities

- Interacting with the business customer, understand their underlying needs and provide them solutions in a timely fashion
- Corporate/business banking also involves business development and new income generation for the bank by way of deepening existing customer wallet and by winning new customer to the bank.
- If and when a customer faces challenges in the bank, they usually contact their designated Relationship Manager and request them to get involved in the situation and resolve it for them.
- Working closely with the Relationship Manager to deliver the right solution.
- Maintaining strong working relationships with all team members and stakeholders.

What to study? Although there is no prescribed specialisation that one must have in order to be a corporate banker. However, for few roles the hiring manager may prefer a particular stream or background. For instance, for an analyst role, a degree in mathematics, statistics may be desired due to the analytical nature of the job. Similarly, for a customer-facing role that involves business development, a specialisation in sales and marketing or finance may be desired. Ideally a post graduate diploma in banking and finance from a reputed institute is the next best step to start a career in corporate banking.

Other skills, which can go a long way in a banker's career, are being proactive, attention to details, creative and customer focused. There are many key skills:

- Analytical ability
- Numeracy skills
- Verbal and written communication skills
- Very good interpersonal skills
- Negotiation skills
- Discretion
- Attention to detail
- Ability to priorities, manage time and work under pressure
- Willingness to work long and unusual hours.

Skills

Be a trouble-shooter for the customer. Customer service is at the heart of banking. Good communication skill, a can do attitude and an affable personality is what is looked for when selecting a candidate. Technical knowledge in banking can be added bonus for lateral recruitment. For a fresher, it is imperative that the candidate is enthusiastic, keen to learn on the job and can connect well with the customers.

Remuneration A corporate banker can work in a variety of fields and locales. The annual salary for corporate bankers ranges between ₹5 lakh to ₹8 lakh and is dependent upon the level of experience, type of industry, and geographic location.

GATE to success

Only three months are left for the GATE 2020 exam. AS PANDIT tells aspirants what they can do to secure a seat in institutes like IITs and NITs

It's a crucial period for the aspirants of the Graduate Aptitude Test in Engineering (GATE) 2020 scheduled on February 1, 2, 8 and 9. Conducted jointly by the Indian Institute of Science and seven Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs) headed by one institute every year, candidates who end up qualifying the exam are not just eligible to secure a seat in IITs/NITs for higher education courses like MTech and PhD but can also get hired by various Public Sector Undertakings for high-paying engineering-related jobs.

No wonder, the competitive exam is gaining popularity among the students day by day. However, with just 3 months left for the exam, many of you might have started panicking over how to crack GATE 2020 exam with a good rank. Fret not.

Here is a preparation strategy you must follow to ace the GATE:

Focus on the syllabus

While you all must be familiar with the syllabus of the exam and the subjects involved, make sure you are thoroughly aware of the latest one and the topics being covered. All questions asked in the examination are directly related to the topics mentioned in the syllabus.

Subject and topic weightage

Analyse the question papers from the previous 10 years and research on the marks distribution of each subject. This will give you an idea about the core topics to prepare as in the GATE exam, questions are generally asked from the core area of the syllabus, which has to be prepared well.

Keep the fundamentals clear

Unlike other competitive examinations, while preparing for GATE, it is important to clear your basic concepts rather than cramming the formulas. Since simple questions are asked in a tricky format, be thorough with your concepts in order to understand and solve the questions.

Solving previous years' papers

Now that you have understood the pattern of the questions, start with solving as many mock test papers as possible, followed by the previous year's question papers. This will help in adapting to the online pattern and assess your preparation.

Based on the test analysis, you can focus on their weak areas. However,

Akhand Swaroop Pandit
Co-founder-CEO, Catalyst Group

keep in mind that the pattern of the examination has changed for the next year.

Focus on high return and easy questions

During preparations, lay emphasis on topics like Engineering Mathematics and General Ability as they carry 30 per cent of the total marks and are fairly easier to score in. You could look at some online lectures to prepare for these topics.

Attempt the easier questions first

You should go through all questions and try solving those questions first, which you find easy and require less time to score qualifying marks. Beware of attempting questions you are not confident of as there is negative marking too.

Unwind before the exam

When it's just one day left before GATE, stop bothering much about it. Go out for a drive or do anything that relaxes you. Sit for the exam with a rejuvenated mind.

With 90 days in your hand, follow the aforementioned strategy and start your preparation for GATE 2020 exam considering it as your only attempt. However, remember this isn't the end of the world. So, go ahead and give your best shot.

There has been a dramatic shift in the way HR approaches talent acquisition. Talent shortage and the rapid consumerisation of HR technology have compelled HR departments to treat their candidates like customers. High performing organisations are putting the candidate experience at the front and centre of their recruiting strategy. And technology is a key driver enabling this shift.

Most of us might have at least one negative recruitment experience where the recruiter disappeared after the interview or worse, after filling up a hundred forms and interviewing for a day, you're told that you've not made it. No further explanation provided.

However, HR technology is changing that.

From helping recruiters make faster, more objective decisions to providing real-time updates to candidates, HR technology is helping organisations make recruiting a more candidate-centric process.

Let's look at how HR technology is helping organisations make recruitment more effective:

Recruitment Marketing

The talent landscape today is much more competitive than ever before. The days of placing an ad and waiting for candidates to pour in are long gone. Today, recruiters must sell jobs to candidates in order to fill positions faster. And candidates are more likely to have multiple offers when they are interviewing. Which makes it critical for recruiters and organisations to invest in building a strong employee value proposition that encourages candidates to choose their organisation over others.

Online presence coupled with active social handles are one way to building a great employer brand. Dedicated technologies for employee advocacy or recruitment marketing can help organisations tap into diverse, richer talent pools and hire top talent. Many HCM or ATS solutions also provide modules for career page development and optimisation which is also a big driver of successful recruitment marketing.

Most HR tech solutions also offer some level of automation, helping organisations with smaller budgets and HR teams remain competitive in the talent market. Email marketing and drip campaign capabilities offered by HR technology vendors can prove to be invaluable branding and marketing tools. Again, these capabilities can be offered as in a bundle with suite solutions or stand-alone offerings.

Smarter sourcing

The one area in recruitment where technology has had the most pronounced effect is talent sourcing. Access to Internet in the country is on the rise. Social platforms, job boards and CRM platforms are enabling recruiters to tap into a rich pool of talent. ATS and HCM software typically provide capabilities for talent sourcing and help recruiters automate sourcing on platforms like Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Indeed, and Monster.

Objective Talent Assessment

Unconscious bias has been a major hurdle in effective recruitment however, technology is helping recruiters overcome it.

Talent assessment tools help recruiters make an objective, data-driven decision about a candidate's potential fit for an open position.

Talent assessment tools help ensure a fairer recruiting process and deliver a positive candidate experience — helping build the employer brand and position organisations competitively in the talent market.

HR technology is transforming how organisations think about talent acquisition. It is helping recruiters become enablers of the employment experience rather than perform only transactional activities.

Brexit, a boon or bane for Indian students?

ROHIT SETHI, Director, ESS Global, gives a low down on what does Brexit mean for international students eyeing UK universities

With the deadline for the withdrawal now extended till January 31, 2020, the uncertainty still prevails around whether Brexit will have any effect over the academic aspirations of international students willing to study in the UK.

Post-Brexit plans will not only bring bad news for UK students willing to study in mainland Europe but will also affect the EU students. Proposals from Britain's education ministry have stated that from 2021 the UK may start charging overseas EU students the same fees as charged to the other international students. This means that EU students would have to pay somewhere between £10,000 and £35,000 a year to attend a university in England.

Moreover, Britain's exit from the EU can possibly affect the country's reputation as one of the top study abroad destinations. It can complicate the student visa process, making it more difficult for international graduates to secure jobs in the country due to fluctuations in work visa policies.

There is also a possibility of getting no scholarships in the case of certain universities in the UK. While Brexit may not impact the UK based scholarships like Commonwealth or Great, it may hinder the probabilities of international students planning to participate in EU-based grants through programmes like Erasmus+.

A recent study by the GMAT council reported that international students are still keen to study business in the UK. In fact, Brexit is expected to bring a considerable positive impact on Indian students interested in pursuing higher education in the UK, especially those willing to register for the postgraduate programmes at UK universities. With the British Government revealing its ambitious immigration plan underlining the need for skilled professionals in the UK economy, the admission of Indians and other migrants from the non-EU regions will hugely benefit from such a demand and favourable immigration policies.

Changing policies might be a boon for Indian and non-EU students.

WORKSHOP ON PHOTOGRAPHY AT IIAD

The Indian Institute of Art and Design (IIAD) organised a two-day photography workshop at its Okhla campus for Communication Design Students. The aim of the workshop, facilitated by Canon Photo Mentor and a Lifestyle and Commercial Photographer Ravi Dhangra, was to provide the students a chance to learn about the basics of photography from light sources to various lighting types and techniques.

The workshop provided the students with a platform to talk about the various aspects to keep in mind while taking a photograph and how to use reflectors and light modifiers in order to create the appropriate atmosphere and environment to visually express themselves.

Dhangra said: "Picture capturing is an art in which you need to gauge the details such as light, frame, exposure etc. to create an art piece. Shadow plays an important role in adding volume and dimension to any frame." He stressed on the importance of the absence of colors in a time of so much sensory overload, as a way of disrupting the monotony and asserting one's individuality.

Federer alive at ATP Finals

AFP ■ LONDON

Roger Federer kept alive his hopes of a seventh ATP Finals crown on Tuesday, beating Italian debutant Matteo Berrettini 7-6 (7/2), 6-3 at London's O2 Arena.

The Swiss third seed put himself under enormous pressure by losing his first match on Sunday in straight sets in Group Bjorn Borg to Dominic Thiem.

The six-time champion was not at his fluent best on Tuesday but ultimately had too much for Berrettini, who won just three games against Novak Djokovic in his opener.

Both players were solid on serve in the first set, with Federer struggling to make inroads against the eighth seed.

The Swiss eventually earned himself the sniff of a chance in the 12th game, winning the first break point of the match but Berrettini snuffed out the danger and held to take it into a tie-break.

Federer upped the level of his game in the shootout, helped by some wayward shots from his opponent plus a Berrettini double-fault and won it comfortably 7-2.

The Swiss, clad in black, broke immediately at the start of the second set to leave the Italian with a mountain to climb.

Berrettini earned a clutch of break points in the eighth game but Federer eventually served himself out of trouble.

Federer, as usual enjoying the lion's share of support from the crowd, broke in the next game to seal the set 6-3.

The 20-time Grand Slam champion said he had remained calm and tried to stay positive after the Thiem defeat.

"There's no reason to be too down on yourself," he said. "We came here to play three matches and give it all we have. It was the big goal of the season to come here and qualify which we did, plus I had a day off."

"Not everything was bad (in the Thiem match) but of course if you over-analyse it, all of a sudden it can be," he added. "I was ready, I was prepared today and that's what matters the most."

VAR must improve: Klopp

AFP ■ LAUSANNE

The day after Liverpool beat Manchester City in a crunch match where VAR decisions were hotly disputed, the Premier League leader's coach Jurgen Klopp and other top football figures have suggested improvement is needed to the fledgling system.

Klopp, his City opposite number Pep Guardiola, Real Madrid coach Zinedine Zidane, and Thomas Tuchel of Paris Saint-Germain all attended the UEFA coaches forum in Nyon, Switzerland on Monday, where the VAR (Video Assistant Referee) system was a hot topic.

"It is clear it's a process where they have to keep on improving," Klopp said. "It can be improved, a lot of things have to be done by human beings and we are not 100 percent (either)."

"There is space for some mistakes, nobody asks for perfection, just to have the right decision, that's all."

His comments were made a day after the marquee game of the Premier League season so far saw a controversial VAR call after six minutes when City could easily have had a penalty when the ball ricocheted around the Liverpool area and hit the Reds' defender Trent Alexander-Arnold on the arm.

Not only did VAR fail to overturn the referee's decision not to award City a penalty, but they were doubly punished 22 seconds later when Liverpool midfielder Fabinho fired home a brilliant strike to give the Reds a 1-0 lead.

UEFA assistant general secretary Giorgio Marchetti said uniformity was needed but called for time for the promising new system to bed in.

"Now we have VAR, it's quite useful that coaches and representatives of referees can speak together," Marchetti said.

"Let's not forget VAR is very young and it's a revolution in the game. 'What we all need is uniformity. 'There are points which need to be fine-tuned, but you have to look at the positive points that VAR brings,' he said.

Rafael Nadal plays a return to Alexander Zverev

'NO EXCUSES'
On Monday night, Rafael Nadal refused to make excuses after being outplayed by defending champion Alexander Zverev.

The Spanish top seed, who has never won the season-ending event, came into the tournament under an injury cloud and was well short of his imperious best as he went down 6-2, 6-4.

He is locked in a battle with Novak Djokovic to finish as the year-end number one but was not serving flat out in practice last week due to an abdominal strain that forced him to pull out of the Paris Masters at the semi-final stage.

The 33-year-old led Germany's Zverev 5-0 in head-to-head contests coming into the match but was uncharacteristically sloppy in the first set, conceding two breaks of serve.

Buoyed by his dominant start,

Zverev, seeded seventh, broke in the first game of the second set to take an iron grip on the match.

Nadal dug deep, urging himself on but his 22-year-old opponent proved too strong. He did not concede a single break point in the entire match.

Zverev hit a total of 26 winners—double his opponent's tally — and Nadal managed just three forehand winners in the entire match.

"The physical issue was not an excuse at all," said the Spanish 19-time Grand Slam champion, who said he did not feel any pain from his abdominal injury. "The only excuse is I was not good enough tonight."

"What really matters is I need to play much better in two days. That's the only thing," he added. "We knew that it was going to be tough, because the period of time since the injury until today is very short, but we are here trying."

Zverev, one of four players under the age of 24 at the event in London, was delighted to recapture his best form after a mixed season.

"This means so much, playing here again after winning my biggest title so far in my career here last year," he said. "This means everything to me. "Playing here, playing in front of you all, playing in the O2 is something that we don't have during the year, and this is so special."

Nadal faces a tough task now to qualify for the semi-finals from the group phase, with matches still to come against Tsitsipas and Medvedev.

The Spaniard has qualified for the year-end championships for 15 years in a row but has only made nine appearances due to injuries.

Sai Praneeth enters top 10

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Indian shuttler B Sai Praneeth jumped one spot to 10th while Kidambi Srikanth slipped three places to be at 13th in the latest BWF rankings issued on Tuesday.

Sai Praneeth, who had won bronze at the World Championships in August, moved to top 10 while Srikanth, who was at 10th in the previous week, dropped out of the top bracket.

Sameer Verma also moved up one place to be at 16th in the men's singles rankings headed by Japanese Kento Momota.

In the women's singles rankings, P V Sindhu and Saina Nehwal remained unchanged at sixth and ninth respectively.

In the men's doubles, the pair Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty rose two places to be at seventh. The Indian duo have been in fine form in recent months, reaching the final of the French Open in October and the semi-final of the China Open recently.

SRIKANATH GETS WALKOVER HONG KONG: Top Indian shuttler Kidambi Srikanth advanced to the men's singles second round without playing a shot after his opponent Kento Momota's pull-out while Sourabh Verma entered the main draw of the Hong Kong

Open after clinching straight-game wins in his two qualifying clashes here on Tuesday.

Srikanth was to play against Momota in the first round today but the Japanese world number one pulled out of the tournament on Tuesday. The reasons for his withdrawal were not known.

World number 10 Srikanth will now face either compatriot Sourabh or Frenchman Brice Leverdez, who will clash in the second round today, to reach the quarterfinal.

Sourabh, seeded fourth in the qualifiers, first defeated Thailand's Tanongsak Saensomboonsuk 21-15, 21-19 before getting the better of Lucas Claerbout of France 21-19, 21-19 in the final qualifying round.

In the mixed doubles, the Indian pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Ashwini Ponnappa rallied from a game down to beat the Thailand duo of Nipitphon Phuangphapet and Savitree Amitrapai 16-21, 21-19, 21-17 in a 55-minute match and advance to the second round.

But in another mixed doubles first round match, the Indian duo of Pranaav Jerry Chopra and N Sikki Reddy lost 10-21, 18-21 to the third seeded Dechapol Puavaranukroh and Sapsiree Taerattanachai to bow out of the tournament.

Creating chances not enough, we have to score from them: Chhetri

Indian players warm up during team's practice session in Dubai ahead of FIFA World Cup 2022 qualifier against Afghanistan in Dushanbe

PTI ■ DUBAI

Talismanic captain Sunil Chhetri on Tuesday asked his team-mates to pull up their socks and produce an improved performance in the team's crunch World Cup qualifying round match against Afghanistan tomorrow.

After inspiring performance against Asian champions Qatar (0-0 draw), India played out a 1-1 draw against lower-ranked Bangladesh, who were on the verge of running away with the match before the home side's late equaliser in Kolkata on October 15.

Igor Stimac's side are now at the fourth spot in the Group E table with two points and tomorrow's match at Tajikistan capital of Dushanbe will be a crunch game for India to remain in the hunt in the qualifying round. The war-ravaged Afghanistan chose Dushanbe as their home venue for the second round qualifiers of the World Cup.

Chhetri said "converting chances" was an area where the team needs to work more. India had a slew of chances against Bangladesh and all of them they wasted except for the 88th minute header from Adil Khan.

"We are creating chances. But that is not enough. We have to try our best to convert them and try to be a tougher unit while defending. We have missed against Bangladesh and we need to pull up our socks against Afghanistan," Chhetri said after a short training stint at the Dubai Sports City.

"At the end of the day, if we can do better on the pitch, we'll be happier," Chhetri mentioned.

Fullback Subhashish Bose said, "Maintaining clean sheets will be of paramount importance in order to stay alive in the race of the World Cup Qualifiers. We will need to be sharper in the absence of Sandesh-bhai (Jhingana)."

"The team is upbeat. We will leave no stone unturned to make the most out of the remaining games. We were able to do the same against Qatar. If we play to our true potential, there's no reason not to repeat it against Afghanistan and Oman again," he added.

Seasoned defender Anas Edathodika, who paired with Adil Khan at the heart of the defence against Bangladesh, sounded optimistic about the "defensive solidarity" that the Blue Tigers have shown so far.

"There are no easy games at the International level but we have shown defensive solidarity so far. We have to continue to believe in ourselves. We really need to get some good results in the next two games and all that starts with our performance at the back," he said.

"It always makes your job easier to win a match if you can come out with a clean sheet. If we can maintain our shape and hold the defensive line as per our plans, we can pull it off against them," he explained.

'Astro turf, near sub-zero conditions will make it tough'

Sunil Chhetri chats with Igor Stimac at airport before leaving IFT/Twitter

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Bracing up for an unfamiliar astro-turf, sub zero temperatures and a sprightly opponent in Afghanistan, India's football coach Igor Stimac on Tuesday conceded that his team's winless streak in the World Cup qualifiers won't be easy to break in Dushanbe, Tajikistan.

"The climatic condition in Dushanbe is very different from what we have experienced in India at this time. It's very cold and mercury level drops to closer to sub-zero," Stimac said.

The Group E match will be played on artificial turf amid near freezing temperatures.

"Moreover, the match is scheduled on an artificial turf which our players are not used to. Afghanistan have chosen the venue to make others' lives difficult and we have an uphill task in front of us to overcome it," he added.

Stimac said a victory against Afghanistan will boost his side and will help build the momentum for the clash against Oman in the away matches in Muscat on November 19.

"We have improved a lot since our first game (against Oman). We can show what we are capable of without our key players sometimes (defender Sandesh Jhingana and midfielder Rowlin Borges). The result against Afghanistan in Dushanbe will have a major impact on the entire team. A win will boost our confidence by manifold before we head to Muscat."

Asked what will he do differently against Afghanistan, he said, "We have to avoid injuries. We have already lost Sandesh and Rowlin due to injuries and we can't afford to have anymore. We have to execute our plans in the right way. The boys are up and running and they are confident."

STERLING & GOMEZ

What happened at St George's Park

Joe Gomez was the first Liverpool player to get to St George's Park and was in the player canteen when Sterling arrived.

A group of England players, including Gomez, were laughing when Sterling walked in.

Sterling said to Gomez: "You think you're the big man now?"

There was further laughter, as other players thought it was "banter".

Sterling walked up to Gomez and tried to grab him round the neck, Gomez reacted angrily, and the two players were separated by team mates.

Gomez and Sterling met elsewhere in St George's Park and they put the matter behind them.

Gomez went to see the England boss to plead on Sterling's behalf, saying that he didn't think it was in the team's interests for Sterling to be sent home.

Southgate dropped him from the Montenegro game as punishment.

Emotions got the better of me: Sterling

AFP ■ LONDON

Raheem Sterling said he allowed his "emotions" to get the better of him leading to a brief altercation with Liverpool's Joe Gomez that resulted in the Manchester City player being dropped for tomorrow's Euro 2020 qualifier against Montenegro.

Sterling admitted on Instagram on Tuesday he and Gomez "had words" when they met up at the England camp the day after Liverpool's 3-1 win over defending champions Manchester City which left the latter nine points adrift of Jurgen Klopp's side.

"Both Joe and I have had words and figured things out and moved on," Sterling said.

"We are in a sport where emotions run high and I am man enough to

"This is why we play this sport because of our love for it — me and Joe Gomez are good, we both understand it was a five to 10-second thing... it's done, we move forward and not make this bigger than it is."

"Let's get focus on our game on Thursday," Sterling added.

The Daily Mail reported that Gomez and Sterling had to be separated by teammates on Monday after a "physical confrontation".

The pair had also clashed on the field towards the end of Sunday's match.

England manager Gareth Southgate moved quickly to deal with the issue — arguably one of his achievements during his time in the post has been to erase the rivalries between members from different clubs which plagued previous England squads.

The likes of former star defender Rio Ferdinand have spoken about how when they used to join the England camp he and Manchester United players would stick together and find it hard to mix with Chelsea or Liverpool stars.

Southgate said in a hastily-organised press conference on Tuesday he would rather deal with the matter publicly now than let it fester till his usual meeting with the media on the eve of matches.

The 49-year-old, clearly irked by how the information had leaked out regarding the set-to, said Sterling's emotions had run over but "it is not the same for Joe (Gomez)".

However, he emphasised a line had been drawn under the incident.

"We are like a family and all families have disagreements. The important thing is for a family to communicate and work through problems."

Despite being dropped for Thursday's match Sterling took part in England squad training as did Gomez.

Sterling, who according to some reports had packed his bags but changed his mind when Liverpool midfielder Jordan Henderson intervened and persuaded him to stay, has been one of the stars of England's qualification campaign, scoring eight goals in six games.

A draw against Montenegro at Wembley will be enough to guarantee England's place at Euro 2020.

Kohli & Co take pink ball throw downs in between red ball nets

Indian players during a practice session ahead of their first Test match against Bangladesh in Indore on Tuesday

PTI ■ INDORE

Skipper Virat Kohli had his first experience of negotiating a pink ball as Indian cricketers took turns to get used to the new colour during the net session ahead of the first Test against Bangladesh, starting from Thursday (tomorrow).

The Indian team did not train under the lights and the throwdowns with the SG pink ball was part of the traditional red-ball practice session.

Usually, three adjacent nets are placed — for pacers, spinner and throwdowns — for Indian team's practice. However, on team's request, the throwdown-net was created on the other side of the ground on separate practice turfs with a black sight-screen. It was skipper Kohli, who first faced the pink ball.

With throwdown specialists Raghavendra and Sri Lankan Nuwan Senaviratne hurling the pink stuff at express pace, the skipper looked comfortable. He looked more intent on playing defensive shots.

Once Kohli was done and went into the main nets, the other top-order batsmen including Cheteshwar Pujara mixed and matched, facing red and pink ball simultaneously.

Need to play late against pink ball: Rahane | Visibility at twilight could be difficult: Pujara

PTI ■ INDORE

The pink ball is going to be a very "different ball game", India vice-captain Ajinkya Rahane asserted on Tuesday, saying its extra lateral movement compared to the red cherry will force batsmen to play late and closer to their bodies.

Rahane had a couple of practice sessions with the pink ball under the watchful eyes of NCA Director Rahul Dravid in Bengaluru building up to the historic Day/Night Test starting November 22.

"We had two good practice sessions, actually four but two with pink ball — one during the day and one under lights. It was actually exciting," Rahane said ahead of the first Test.

"For me, it was the first time I played with the pink ball and definitely it's a different ball game as compared to red ball. Our focus was to look into the swing and seam movement and also play close to our body," Virat Kohli's deputy observed.

Rahane's assessment after his initial sessions was that the batsmen will have to tweak their technique slightly. "What we found out after the practice session was that the (new) pink ball does a lot more than the red ball. You have to play slightly late and close to your body. We had a word with Rahul bhai as he was also there."

Cheteshwar Pujara & Ajinkya Rahane train at NCA

BENGALURU: Top batsman Cheteshwar Pujara feels "visibility at twilight" could be an issue when India and Bangladesh venture into the uncharted territory called Day/Night Tests later this month in Kolkata.

The Test at Eden will not only be the first day/night affair for both the sides but it will also mark the first official appearance of SG pink balls.

"I have played earlier with pink ball in the Duleep Trophy, that was good experience. Playing with pink ball at the domestic level could come in handy," Pujara told 'bcci.tv'. Majority of the cricketers will be playing with the pink ball for the first time in their careers.

However, the likes of Pujara, Mayank Agarwal, Hanuma Vihari, and Kuldeep Yadav have experience of playing with the Kookaburra pink ball in Duleep Trophy.

"Visibility is not an issue during the day, it will be an issue in twilight and under lights, the twilight could be a little difficult. Those sessions will be crucial." Pujara added, "Most players have said that picking the wrist spinners' wrong 'un is a little difficult." For another senior player, Ajinkya Rahane, training ahead of the match will come in handy as far as acclimatisation is concerned.

Bhuvi trains to test fitness

PTI ■ INDORE

Recovering from a hamstring injury and a side strain, pacer Bhuvneshwar Kumar assessed himself for a comeback when he participated in a "skill session" during Indian team's practice.

The Indian team management seem to have taken charge of Bhuvneshwar's final phase of rehabilitation.

His injury has been a concern for the Indian team since he came back from the West Indies after the limited overs series. He followed a rehabilitation programme at the National Cricket Academy.

"Bhuvi is here for a skill session with the team. The team management just wants him to get into the groove," a team source said about the pacer's presence at the net session.

He had a catching session with fielding coach R Sridhar and then participated briefly in the net session. He bowled a few deliveries from full run-up but it was evident that he wasn't going full tilt.

However Bhuvneshwar's presence at the session is a welcome news considering that the 29-year-old is still an important member as far as India's white ball cricket is concerned.

Gill seemed to have taken a hit when one of the deliveries bounced extra but it was not serious.

The Indian team will get only two full training days ahead of their first day/night Test at the Eden Gardens, starting November 22.

Aware that not much time is in hand, the BCCI had arranged a couple of pink ball sessions under lights for the Test specialists like Ajinkya Rahane, Mayank Agarwal, Pujara, Mohammed Shami at the NCA under Rahul Dravid's guidance.

Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina and West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee are likely to watch 1st day of D/N Test

Hasina, Mamata likely to watch together in President's Box

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina and West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee are likely to watch India's first ever Day/Night Test together after ringing the customary Eden Bell to start the proceedings on November 22.

A four-member team led by Bangladesh's Deputy High Commissioner Toufique Hasan did a reconnaissance of the Eden Gardens on Tuesday and checked the seating arrangements for the Prime Minister and her 80-odd delegates who will grace the historic occasion.

As per the schedule, Hasina will be on a one-day visit and she will watch the match for some time after ringing the Bell and once again will come back at the closing time 8pm when the Cricket Association of Bengal will present a grand felicitation.

Hasan did not confirm whether Hasina and Mamata will watch the match together but a CAB official indicated that they would be seen together in one of the President's box at BC Roy Club House.

Giving the details of Hasina's programme, Hasan said: "Prime Minister will arrive in the morning on the same day and will come to the Eden to ring the Bell just before the start at 1pm. She will leave to take rest after watching the match for some time and will return again at 8pm for the main felicitation programme."

"She will be seated in one of the central President Boxes near the Bell. We are happy with the arrangements and looking forward to be part of the historic occasion. Eden is known as the Mecca of Cricket and for the first time both the countries will play a Day/Night match. Bangladesh people are really excited," he added.

Hasina will leave on the same day after the felicitation. The schedule of her political programmes of the day is not yet finalised.

Hasina and Mamata will be accompanied by BCCI President Sourav Ganguly, BCCI Secretary Jay Shah, cricket icon Sachin Tendulkar, Rahul Dravid, Naimur Rehman, BCB President Nazmul Hasan along with CAB office bearers.

"Following the first day's play, the players who played the first Test between India and Bangladesh will be felicitated by speeches by the hon'ble dignitaries," CAB Secretary Avishek Dalmiya said.

In the break, there are plans for a chat show featuring the fabulous five of Sourav Ganguly, Sachin Tendulkar, Rahul Dravid, Anil Kumble and VVS Laxman.

Keeping in mind the dew factors that comes into play at the Eden Gardens post sunset on winter evenings, the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has agreed to the Cricket Association of Bengal's (CAB) request to start the game at 1 pm and end the day's play by 8 pm in the Day-Night Test.

A BCCI official confirmed the development and said that sessions have been re-planned keeping in mind the need to call stumps by 8 pm as the ball would get really wet if play carried on post 8 pm in Kolkata in late November.

"Keeping in mind the dew factor, the BCCI approved CAB's request to change the playing hours in the second Test. While play will start at 1 pm, the first session will end at 3 pm. The second session will start from 3:40 pm and continue till 5:40 pm. The final session will be played from 6 pm till 8 pm," the official said.

Babar has potential to be compared to Kohli, Smith

PTI ■ PERTH

Having managed to end as the highest run-getter for Pakistan in the just concluded T20I series against Australia, it will be important for Babar Azam to turn on the screws in the longer format as his team gets ready to take on the Aussies in a two-match Test series, which also includes a Day-Night game at Adelaide.

And former Australia batsman Michael Hussey believes that the talented batsman can be spoken of in the same sentence as that which has stalwarts like Virat Kohli, Steve Smith and Kane Williamson if he improves his Test record.

"I honestly believe this guy can be in the same conversation when we start talking about the best players in the world," Hussey was quoted as saying by Fox Sports. "We start talking about (Virat) Kohli, Steve Smith, Kane Williamson, Joe Root gets floated around."

"I think if he can start putting together some big hundreds like this in the Test arena, he's that good... he's a brilliant, brilliant player," he added. Babar made a brilliant start to the preparation for the two-Test series as he hit a masterful 157 in the practice game against Australia A. This after scoring two fifties in the three-match T20I series that saw the hosts win the series 2-0 as the first game saw no result thanks to rain.

PTI ■ INDORE

It's India's fast bowling unit which is now feared in Tests but Bangladeshi batsmen are more concerned about handling spin twins Ravichandran Ashwin and Ravindra Jadeja during the two-match series, top-order player Mohammed Mithun said on Tuesday.

Mohammed Shami, Umesh Yadav and Ishant Sharma are expected to be more than a handful during the series but Mithun seemed more wary about the Ashwin-Jadeja threat.

"We all know the strength of their bowling line-up. We are working on how to tackle their spinners as it is batting-friendly for the first two days but afterwards their spinners come into play as they try to attack the opposition," he said.

"We are working on some technical aspects keeping our focus on how to handle them," Mithun said.

They are expecting that batting coach Neil McKenzie will help them decode the Indian spinners.

Chahar almost takes hat-trick in Mushtaq Ali Trophy

PTI ■ THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Medium-pacer Deepak Chahar followed up his hat-trick in the final India-Bangladesh T20 international with almost a repeat, taking three wickets in the space of four balls for Rajasthan against Vidarbha in a Group B match of the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy T20 tournament here on Tuesday.

However, his heroics (four wickets in an over) went in vain as Rajasthan went down by 1 run (via the VJD method) finishing with 105 for 8 in a game to reduced to 13 overs due to rain.

The fast-improving Deepak Chahar, who on Sunday last became the first India player to take a T20 international hat-trick and also the best ever bowling figures (6 for 7), picked up the wickets of Darshan Nalkande, Shrikant Wagh and Akshay Wadkar off the fourth, fifth and sixth balls of the final over of Vidarbha's innings, but missed the three-peat as he bowled a wide in between.

His performance helped Rajasthan restrict the opponent to 99 for 9 in 13 overs.

After scalping the wicket of Rupesh Rajkumar of the first ball of the over, he dismissed Nalkande off the fourth.

However, he delivered a wide the next ball and then dismissed Wagh and Wadkar off the next two to finish with figures of 4 for 18 in 3 overs.

Chahar began the over by picking up the wicket of Rupesh Rajkumar Rathod to finish with superb figures of 4 for 18 in 3 overs.

Earlier, Vidarbha chose to bat after winning the toss and after some middling performances by the batsmen, the Vidarbha innings imploded and Deepak Chahar triggered the collapse.

His first victim was Rathod, who was caught by his cousin Rahul Chahar.

He then had Nalkande caught by Rajnesh Bishnoi, before having Wagh caught by Chandrapal Singh Chundawat.

He then bowled Wadkar to complete a hat-trick.

Chasing 106 for victory, Rajasthan faltered after a bright start provided by Manender Singh, who smashed 6 sixes in 17 balls before falling for 44.

Opener Ankit Lamba (15, 11 balls, 1 four, 1 six) and Arjit Gupta (12, 9 balls, 1 four, 1 six) were the only other batsmen to reach double figures as the team could make only 105 in 13 overs.

Vidarbha tops the points table with 16 points from 4 matches in an all-win record.

Mumbai record 4th win

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Mumbai registered its fourth win in the league stage at Wankhede stadium on Tuesday after beating Pondicherry by 27 runs.

The title favourites have beaten Mizoram, Haryana and Madhya Pradesh in their first three games.

Asked to bat, Mumbai rode on a blazing half century by skipper Suryakumar Yadav (57 off 37 balls) to post a descent 171/6 on the board.

Their inform openers Jay Bista (29 off 21 balls) and Aditya Tare (20 off 14 balls) conjured 48 runs for the first wicket.

Chasing 172, Pondicherry had a pathetic start and were reeling at 29-2.

But then Parag Dogra (45 off 35 balls) and opener Arun Karthik (27 balls) tried to resurrect the innings with 28-run stand, before Karthik was dismissed by Shivam Dube. Anand Subramanian (39 off 31 balls) and Dogra gave a scare to Mumbai, but their bowlers held their nerves to eke out a win.

Pacer Tushar Deshpande (2-29) and Shams Mulani (2-25) shared the spoils.

There are no matches on Wednesday and the action resumes on Thursday.

In the first game at the Wankhede Stadium, Meghalaya stunned Assam by four wickets. At BKC, Madhya Pradesh defeated Mizoram by 86 runs.

In the second game, Haryana defeated Bengal by five wickets as they chased the 123-run target with 17 balls to spare.

India spinner Yuzvendra Chahal, who came back to the Haryana team after national duty, returned with figures of 1-21.
