NCP for 50:50 on Maha CM post

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As the talks for the formation of Government in Maharashtra continue among the Shiv Sena, NCP and the Congress, in a late-night development NCP sources said the Chief Minister's post is most likely to be on a rotational basis, with the first half of the five-year term to be given to the Shiv Sena and the latter to the Sharad Pawar-headed party. The Congress is likely to have the deputy Chief Minister's post for the full term, they said.

"So, the question of the Sena enjoying the full five-year term does not arise. The second half will have a Chief Minister from the NCP," an NCP leader said. However, Congress sources said the issue of Chief Minister's post was not discussed in Wednesday's meeting.

Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut told reporters that the Chief Minister of the State will be from his party, but parried question on whether the Sena would hold the post for five years.

On Wednesday, after a marathon meeting of senior leaders of the Congress and the NCP at Pawar's residence here, former Maharashtra Chief Minister and Congress leader Prithviraj Chavan said the alliance is hopeful of ending the spell of political uncertainty in the State and working to provide a stable Government.

However, Chavan's confidence has not ended the suspense over the formation of a Government in Maharashtra, currently under President Rule, for two reasons: The ongoing NCP-Cong talks are inconclusive, and second, the hour-long meeting between Pawar and Prime Minister Narendra Modi has further raised curiosity about what transpired during the discussion.

Pawar, who later took to social media to announce his meeting, claimed his meeting with the Prime Minister was about farmers' distress in Maharashtra. However, there were few takers for Pawar's emphatic denial of any political discussion during his meeting with Modi.

"Due to President Rule in the State, your urgent intervention is highly necessitated. I shall be grateful if you could take immediate steps to initiate massive relief measures to ameliorate distressed farmers," the three-page memorandum given by Pawar to Modi said.

Asked by reporters about the Government formation in Maharashtra, the NCP chief declined to comment. The Pawar-Modi meeting, which went on for 50 minutes, took place against the backdrop of hectic parleys between the

NRC across India soon: Shah

HM says no need for people from any religion to be worried about it

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

On the lines of Assam, National Register for Citizens (NRC) exercise will be carried out across the country soon, Home Minister Amit Shah said here on Wednesday, assuring that no one should be worried as it is just a process of getting everyone under the NRC, irrespective of their religion. He also underscored the point that there is no need for people from any religion to be worried about it.

Speaking in the Rajya Sabha, Shah said the NRC has no such provision that says that certain religions will be excluded from it. "All citizens of India irrespective of religion will figure in the NRC list. The NRC is different from the Citizenship Amendment Bill," Shah said.

"The Assam exercise was carried out under a Supreme Court order. NRC will be carried out across the country, will be done in Assam again, no one from any religion should be worried," he said. Some BJP-ruled States — like Uttarakhand, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Jharkhand — have already announced that they will conduct Assam-like NRC exercise in their States. In the NRC final list published on August 31, over 19 lakh people were left out of the citizenship register in Assam.

Most of the people who have not produced adequate documents to prove their claims will not be declared illegal immediately, according to officials in the Government. They have the option of appealing to Foreigners' Tribunals and subsequently approach the court.

Shah said people whose names are missing from the draft list have the right to go to tribunals, which will be constituted across Assam. He added that those who can't afford lawyers to go to a tribunal will be provided financial help by the Assam Government.

The Modi Government plans to amend the Citizenship Act in the ongoing Winter Session of Parliament. The Citizenship Amendment Bill speeds up the process under which non-Muslims from Bangladesh, Pakistan and Afghanistan can get Indian citizenship.

gious atrocities there will get citizenship (in India) under the Bill," he said.

The Home Minister said the NRC and the Citizenship Amendment Bill 2016, which lapsed on June 3, 2019, are two different issues and both should not be seen through one prism. He said the Lok Sabha had passed the Bill and the select committee had approved it, but the Lok Sabha had lapsed. "Now it will come again. It has no connection with the NRC," he said.

There has been opposition from various political parties to the Citizenship Amendment Bill. There have been protests across the Northeastern States over the Government's plan to table the Bill. In Assam, protesters have argued that the Citizenship Amendment Bill goes against the provisions of the Assam Accord that seek to safeguard the interests of indigenous people. There were protests and marches on Monday across seven States in the North-East against the proposed legislation.

Won't allow NRC in Bengal, says Didi

SAUGAR SENGUPTA/PNS ■ KOLKATA/ASSAM

Barely 24 hours after launching a broadside against the BJP and the All India Majlis-e-Ittehadul Muslimin chief Asaduddin Owaisi for conspiring to dislodge Trinamool Congress from Bengal, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee once again asked the people to remain cautious against "nefarious designs" being hatched by these parties.

Addressing a huge crowd in Murshidabad, Mamata said her party would not allow the implementation of National Register for Citizens in Bengal as long as she was the Chief Minister of the State.

On the day Union Home Minister Amit Shah announced a country-wide NRC, Assam Finance Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma too said the State Government has requested the Centre to reject the final updated NRC in the State.

"Till I am there no one can take away your citizenship and no one can throw you out of India which is your own country," Mamata told a large gathering. "Some people are crying hoarse about NRC but let me tell you that there will be no NRC in Bengal," Mamata said, adding how "not even the Hindus were spared in Assam where they have thrown out 19 lakh people from the citizenship list out of which 14 lakh are Hindus."

All these people were now being kept in detention camps, she alleged. "They are now in jails in Assam. But I will not let that happen in Bengal. There will be no NRC here," she added.

Targeting the "dirty alliance" between the BJP and AIMIM, Mamata said, "Money, men and ideas are being imported from outside and you will have to remain cautious against efforts to divide the State."

Alleging that the AIMIM was a "paid agent of the BJP" which was pouring money in Bengal to divide the people, Mamata said, "They are the biggest allies. They are coming with bags full of money from Hyderabad as your sympathisers but their aim is to divide you," to help the BJP come to power in the State.

Apparently telling the Muslims not to trust leaders visiting from outside and only repose faith on local leaders she said, "No one will fight for the cause of the people of the State of Bengal other than those who are from this State... don't trust outsiders who are posing as your friends and coming with money bags."

Day after UP Home Guard scam evidence burnt, top official among 5 arrested

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Gautam Buddha Nagar police on Wednesday arrested five home guard officials, including a divisional commandant posted in Aligarh, for their alleged role in the fraudulent withdrawal of salaries of scores of the force's personnel. The police action has come within 24-hour deadline set by UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

Their arrest came a day after muster rolls (attendance logs) of all home guard personnel were found burnt in a box inside the Gautam Buddha Nagar district home guard commandant's office in Greater Noida. The attendance logs of all personnel since 2014 in the district were found gutted in the fire amid an investigation into the alleged salary fraud, prompting Yogi to intervene.

Gautam Buddha Nagar Senior Superintendent of Police Vaibhav Krishna said five officials have been held for their suspected role in the fraudulent withdrawal of salaries.

"Home Guards' present

Divisional Commandant, Aligarh, Ram Narayan Chaurasia (42), Assistant District Commandant Satish Chandra (35), and Platoon commanders Montu Kumar (32), Satveer Yadav (38) and Shailendra Kumar (30) have been arrested in the salary scam case," Krishna said.

Chaurasia is the mastermind of the alleged scam which he initiated since his appointment as District Home Guard commandant in Gautam Buddha Nagar in 2017 until he got promoted and transferred in 2019, the SSP said.

"While Chaurasia was picked up for questioning from Aligarh, the others deployed locally were called in for questioning over the matter and arrested on Wednesday afternoon," Krishna told PTI.

The police also suspects their role in the fire at the commandant office in which personnel's attendance logs got burnt, but said they are not named as accused in the case as yet as a separate probe is underway.

Sri Lankan Prez Gotabaya picks brother Mahinda as Prime Minister

PTI ■ COLOMBO

Sri Lankan President Gotabaya Rajapaksa on Wednesday named his elder brother and former strongman Mahinda Rajapaksa as the new Prime Minister after incumbent Ranil Wickremesinghe announced his resignation from the post following the election debacle.

Mahinda, the main opposition leader, will be appointed as Prime Minister after incumbent Wickremesinghe steps down formally on Thursday, his spokesman Rohan Welivita was quoted as saying by Times Online.

The former President, who will function as Prime Minister of the caretaker cabinet until the general election, is expected to be sworn in at 1 pm before assuming office at around 3 pm, it added.

Mahinda was appointed the PM on October 26, 2018 by the then President Maithripala Sirisena, who sacked Wickremesinghe in a controversial move that plunged the country into an unprecedented constitutional crisis.

Normalcy back in Kashmir, HM tells Rajya Sabha

No one has died in police firing post-Article 370, says Home Min

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Asserting that normalcy has returned to the Kashmir Valley following the abrogation of Article 370 on August 5, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Wednesday said the situation is completely normal and not a single civilian was killed in police firing in the Jammu & Kashmir. However, the detention of politicians and the blockade of the internet and social media were continuing because of security concerns. Shah reiterated that schools, colleges, offices, shops and markets are open.

Presenting the status report on Kashmir in the Rajya Sabha, the Home Minister said there is no shortage of medicine, food and fuel and the law and order situation is extremely normal. "People in this House were predicting bloodshed but I am happy to inform that no one has died in police firing," Shah said.

Replying to a question from Leader of the Opposition Ghulam Nabi Azad on the restoration of internet services, the Home Minister said that facilities will be restored at an appropriate time by the authorities there. "As we all know our neighbouring country (Pakistan) is carrying out various covert activities there, and only after taking into consideration the law and order, a decision in this regard can be taken," Shah said.

Azad challenged the logic cited by Shah and remarked that Pakistan has been India's neighbour since 1947, since when India has also fought wars against it. If this were the case, Azad said, then internet would never be restored in the Valley. This led to a war of words between both sides.

Cabinet OK's Bill to regularise Delhi colonies

New Delhi: The Union Cabinet approved the "National Capital Territory of Delhi (Recognition of Property Rights of Residents in Unauthorised Colonies) Bill, 2019," on Wednesday to provide a legal framework to grant ownership rights to people living in unauthorised colonies in Delhi.

The proposal is applicable to 1,797 identified unauthorised colonies spread over 175 square-km of the national Capital inhabited by people from lower income groups.

The decision to grant ownership rights was taken by the Cabinet recently, and on Wednesday it cleared the Bill which is to be introduced during the ongoing Winter Session of Parliament. This Bill will help in allowing the registration of properties and provide certain relief to the residents in Unauthorised Colonies (DCs) of Delhi from registration charges and stamp duty.

Nearly 40 lakh people reside in unauthorised colonies located on private or public land in Delhi. Properties, whether in the form of plot of land or built up space are generally held through general power of attorney (GPA), will, agreement to sale, payment and possession documents.

Jam punctures abductors' nerve, man flees

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

An attempt by six people to abduct a 30-year-old man went awry when the assailants, fleeing in a car, were first caught in heavy traffic on the Noida-Delhi road and then their vehicle broke down, police said on Wednesday.

The victim identified as Sachin Pathak, alias Chini, escaped from the clutches of the kidnapers when they got down from their Honda City to stop a random Maruti WagonR to flee the spot, officials said.

Six people, including the four who were in the car, were arrested on Tuesday on charges of kidnapping, robbery, among others, said Neeraj Malik, Station House Officer (SHO) of Noida Sector-39 Police Station. The accused have been identified as Mustaqeem (23), Mohit Awana (24), Deepak (22) and Gaurav (22), Balendra (32) and Raheesh (24), all residents of Noida. Mustaqeem, Mohit, Deepak and Gaurav were arrested from Yamuna Pusta Road while they were travelling with illegal firearms and ammunition in a stolen car, said the SHO.

Based on information received from them, Balendra and Raheesh were arrested for their role in the conspiracy, he said.

"On Monday, Sachin, a native of Uttarakhand and currently living in Noida, was abducted from Okhla Bird Sanctuary Metro Station by the assailants. They sped towards Kalindi Kunj in Delhi but were met with heavy traffic on the route. The assailants then decided to take a U-turn and drove in the wrong lane for some distance.

"Later their car had a flat tyre near Sector 94 'gaushala' and they got down to stop an oncoming WagonR but at this moment, Sachin fled from the Honda City and jumped across into the 'gaushala' to escape the assailants," the official said.

On Tuesday, a complaint was registered at the Sector 39 police station after which an FIR was registered and investigation taken up, the official added.

During probe, it emerged that the assailants and Sachin had a dispute over the leadership of a tempo union operating from Sector 94 metro station after which the conspiracy was hatched. Sachin was recently elected as Pradhan of tempo union at Sector 94 metro station in Noida.

Based on information received from them, two more accused — Balendra (32) and Raheesh (24), were also arrested for their role in the conspiracy, the police said.

One of the accused, Pala Pradhan, involved in the conspiracy is absconding and efforts are on to arrest him, the police added.

Four stolen cars were impounded from their possession and an illegal firearm along with ammunition seized from them, the police said.

Home Ministry strips T MLA of citizenship

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Home Ministry on Wednesday cancelled the citizenship of Telangana MLA Ramesh Chennamaneni for concealing facts about his visits abroad. The information was related to his visits during the 12-month period immediately preceding his application seeking Indian citizenship.

"His misrepresentation concealment of fact misled the government of India in making its decision initially. Had he revealed the fact that he had not resided in India for one year before making the application, the competent authority in this Ministry would not have granted citizenship to him," a Home Ministry order said.

Paswan lying on water quality, alleges Kejriwal

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Amid the raging water politics, Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal once again accused Union Minister Ram Vilas Paswan on Wednesday of spreading lies and misleading people on the issue of drinking water quality in Delhi.

A controversy has erupted after Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) report said that all samples collected from Delhi had failed quality analysis.

Citing a media report, Kejriwal tagged Paswan and tweeted, "Sir, you said a sample had been collected from this person's house and it failed (quality analysis), but this man says no specimen was taken from his residence."

He is also saying he is satisfied with the water quality.

Why did you tell such a big lie?"

Later, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) MLA from Burari, Sanjeev Jha, alleged that the BIS also collected a sample from the house of a woman whose husband is the vice-president of Paswan's Lok Janshakti Party.

Reacting to it, Kejriwal said he's disheartened to see such misuse of power to spread fear among the residents of Delhi.

Earlier during the day, Kejriwal nominated two members of Delhi Jal Board (DJB) Vice Chairman Dinesh Mohaniya and Member, Water, Shalabh Kumar — for a joint inspection and testing of water samples in the national Capital with the Centre.

The decision comes after a BIS report said all 11 samples collected from Delhi failed quality analysis on 19 parameters and the city's water was the most unsafe among 21 state capitals.

Paswan later wrote to Kejriwal, saying since Mohaniya is a political person, he may nominate a non-political person in his place. Paswan had challenged Kejriwal to name people for a team, comprising city and central officials, to test the water. The Centre has nominated two experts from BIS for joint inspection of water samples. On Tuesday, the Delhi Government said it would set up 32 teams to collect water samples from each ward in the national capital, test them and put the results in public domain within a month.

Delhiites terrified of poor potable water: Tiwari to CM

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) Delhi unit chief Manoj Tiwari on Wednesday wrote to Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, mentioning that people were deeply scared of the city's drinking water, which a Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) study found to be the most unsafe among 21 major Indian Cities.

"Uncontrolled panic has set in Delhi, people are terrified of drinking the water you are supplying," Tiwari wrote in his letter. The BJP leader, who is also a Member of Parliament (MP) from North East Delhi claimed that residents had contacted him and expressed concerns about their families' safety.

"People from many parts of the city had reported that their tap water had a bad odour and it was difficult to differentiate between the smell of sewage," Tiwari said. "No matter what politics are being practiced, lives of children and elderly not safe with polluted water and air," he said further.

Meanwhile, Union Health

Minister Dr Harsh Vardhan and Member of Parliament (MP) from Chandni Chowk also expressed concern.

Quoting a report of BIS, Dr Harsh Vardhan said that there is no point in disbelieving the report of the quality of drinking water "The BIS has state-of-the-art facilities to scientifically test the quality of drinking water as per international specifications. It is a matter of great concern that the samples have not been able to get through on the nineteen parameters standards for which elaborate testing was sincerely done," he said.

"The drinking water was tested for PH, hardness, TDS, calcium, magnesium, iron, ammonia, chloride etc. The unsafe water is flooded by infectious particles which can badly affect kidney, liver, intestine and put especially children at the danger point of pneumonia," he added further.

Nigerian among 4 arrested for supplying drugs in Capital, ₹7 crore heroin seized

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Police have arrested four people, including a Nigerian national, in three separate cases of drug trafficking here and seized heroin worth Rs 7 crore, besides 60 kg ganja and 23 gm methaqualone drug, officials said on Wednesday.

Following a tip-off, police nabbed a suspected Nigerian drinking water as per international specifications. It is a matter of great concern that the samples have not been able to get through on the nineteen parameters standards for which elaborate testing was sincerely done," he said.

The duo used to smuggle ganja in their car. Sixty kilogram ganja was seized from their possession, along with the car, Ved Prakash Surya, DCP (North-east), said.

In Dwarka area, police arrested Bhagwan Singh (45), a native of Moga in Punjab, and seized 1 kg heroine from his possession. He was previously involved in nine cases of drug trafficking in Punjab, said Anto Alphonse, DCP (Dwarka).

Singh revealed that he had purchased the drug from an African woman. He further disclosed that he has been dealing in all kind of drugs for the last 17 years and supplies in Punjab, the police added.

Delhi is generating 146 MW solar power by installing rooftop solar panels in schools, markets, institutions and other buildings under Mukhya Mantri Solar Power Yojna. Delhi Power Minister Satyendar Jain said that immediately after the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) led Government came to power in Delhi, it promoted installation of solar panels in housing societies in Delhi under Mukhya Mantri Solar Power Yojna.

"The rooftop installations of solar panels progressed with significant pace. It has also helped in cutting CO2 emission by 500 tonne every day," he said.

Delhi Government's flagship scheme (Mukhya Mantri Solar Power Yojna) was launched in 2018 to transform the power sector in Delhi, he added.

"Now we started installing solar panels in housing societies. From these solar plants, power can be supplied for the common utilities like parking, lift, clubs, gym etc." he said.

Jain further said that this initiative has reduced the electricity bill from ₹10 per unit to ₹1 in these households. Apart from this, the overall electricity bill of the societies with solar plants has also been reduced by 50 per cent, he said, adding that it is not only environment friendly but also highly economical comparing to other sources of power", he said.

"In Dwarka area, there is a boom in installing rooftop solar panels, as nearly 25 per cent of the societies availed the scheme in the last year. I wish that all housing societies shall come forward to install the solar panels and to promote the use of clean and sustainable energy", he added.

Delhi government provide 30 percent subsidy on setting up the solar plant to install rooftop solar panels in residential complex, he said.

According to Manish Yadav, Project Manager at Revanta, that help in setting up solar plants under this scheme, the electricity bill in the housing societies installing solar plant has been reduced by 50 per cent. "Solar panels of mono-crystalline modules which save electricity better have been installed in housing societies. The subsidy reaches directly to the beneficiaries," he said, adding that apart from residential societies, institutions like schools, colleges, hospitals and NGOs also can avail the benefits of this scheme", he added.

Subroto Banerjee, vice-president of Balaji group housing society, which has set up a solar plant under the Chief Minister Solar Power Scheme said he is very satisfied with reduced electricity bills due to the solar plant. "We are saving ₹1,55,000 on electricity bill in a year due to this scheme," he said.

Registration of illegal colonies approved under PMUDAY plan

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Delhi Lieutenant Governor (L-G) Anil Bajjal on Wednesday approved the registrations and conferring ownership rights for the residents of unauthorised colonies under the Prime Minister unauthorised Colonies in Delhi Awas Adhikar Yojna (PMUDAY).

"Major steps to implement PM-UDAY (PM-Unauthorised Colonies in Delhi Awas Adhikar Yojna) approved today. 1. Withdrawal of cases u/s 81 DLR act falling within the UCs. 2. Urbanisation of 79 villages where UCs are located. These decisions will facilitate conferring/recognition ownership rights in UCs under PM-UDAY and trigger planned redevelopment with improved civic amenities and enable access to loans/mortgages," said Bajjal tweeted.

Bajjal has further accorded approval for various other major projects such as urbanisation of 79 villages under section 507 of DMC Act 1957 and withdrawal of cases of cases under section 81 of the Delhi Land Reform Act.

"The urbanisation of 79 rural villages under section 507 of DMC Act 1957 where the unauthorised colonies are located to take them out of the ambit of Delhi Land Reforms act which imposes several restrictions on land use. Further, by virtue of declaring rural villages as urban under Section 507, the Delhi Development Authority (DDA) will be able to frame development plan to enable local bodies to provide civic and community facilities in the unauthorised colonies which would lead to a faster development in such colonies," said an official.

"Under section 81 of the Delhi Land Reforms Act, 1954, proceedings are instituted for using private agricultural lands for purposes other than agriculture, horticulture, etc. in rural areas. Inhabitants who have utilized their private agriculture land for housing purpose are affected by this provision. As most of these unauthorised colonies exist on such private lands, this step will prove to be a major decision," added the official.

Officials also added that the decisions will help to develop the unauthorised colonies situated across the city and the residents will have better access to basic amenities, access to loan or mortgage, incentivized area improvement/ redevelopment through liberalized development control norms.

40 more services to be added to doorstep delivery scheme: Sisodia

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Forty more services will be added to the Delhi Government's doorstep delivery scheme by the end of this year, Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia said on Wednesday.

Delivering a speech on 'Vision of making Delhi a world class city', organised at PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry here, he asserted that more than two lakh people have so far benefited from the scheme and the number is rising.

"Currently, there are 70 services under the doorstep delivery scheme and 40 more have been identified. By the end of this year, there will be 110 services under the scheme," Sisodia said.

Under the scheme launched by Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal in September 2017, people can call a helpline number to have various documents and services delivered at their doorstep.

Citing "problems" caused by multiplicity of agencies in Delhi, Sisodia rued that the system of governance in the city is the "worst" in the world.

A collective effort is needed to make Delhi a smart city, he said, adding the role of a government is to provide an ambience of easy, user and business-friendly governance.

"There should be a single command centre of governance which is a need of citizen and business community in Delhi," the deputy chief minister said.

Talking about various reforms brought in by the Delhi government, Sisodia said besides simplifying the forms, "corruption" related to VAT, GST and excise taxes were removed. Tax compliance and collection has got a boost in Delhi due to lower rates, he asserted.

Interacting with the members of PHD Chamber, the deputy chief minister said the Delhi government has been able to reduce local sources of pollution by 25 per cent and more will be done to bring it further down. He said a coordinated effort involving the Centre and neighbouring states was needed to overcome the practice of crop stubble burning that added to air pollution woes of Delhi during the winters.

SC ASKS KERALA GOVT Exclusive law for admin of Sabarimala temple

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Wednesday asked the Kerala Government to come out with an exclusive legislation regarding the administration of the historic Sabarimala temple.

Sabarimala temple

A bench headed by Justice N V Ramana asked the State to place before it by third week of January next year the legislation, also covering the aspects of welfare of pilgrims visiting there.

poses to give representation in the temple advisory committee to only those women who are above 50 years of age.

One of the judges of the bench referred to the September 28, 2018 verdict and observed that the direction allowing girls and women of all ages holds the field.

The top court was hearing a plea filed in 2011 which has raised the issue of administration of Sabarimala temple. In August this year, the State Government had told the top court that it was considering enacting a "separate legislation" with regard to administration of the Sabarimala temple. A 5-judge Constitution bench, headed by the then Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi, in a 3:2 majority verdict, had referred to a larger 7-judge bench the pleas seeking review of its historic 2018 judgement allowing women and girls of all ages to enter Kerala's Sabarimala temple, along with other contentious issues of alleged discrimination against Muslim and Parsi women.

The top court had not stayed the 2018 verdict that had allowed entry of girls and women of all ages into Sabarimala temple.

European lawmakers paid private visit to J&K: Min

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

A group of European parliamentarians who recently visited Kashmir were on a "private visit" to the country. Union Minister of State for Home G Kishan Reddy said in a written reply in Rajya Sabha the Government of J&K has reported that a group of 27 Members of European Parliament (MEPs), who belonged to different political parties, including ruling and opposition parties, paid a private visit to India from October 28, 2019, to November 1, 2019, at the invitation of the International Institute for Nonaligned Studies, a Delhi-based think tank, Union Minister of State for Home G Kishan Reddy said in a written reply in Rajya Sabha.

He also informed the House that an Indian delegation of MPs was not allowed to visit Kashmir due to security concerns. Opposition parties had attacked the Government over the EU delegation's tour of Kashmir after Indian politicians and MPs were not allowed to travel to the Valley after abrogation of J&K's special status on August 5.

Reddy was responding to a set of questions that sought to know which institution organised and bore the expenses of this Kashmir tour, and whether the institution that organised it was working as a coordinating institution for the central Government.

In another reply, Reddy said that only 609 people were behind bars, 151 more from the 458 of 2018. The Minister said total 5,5161 preventive arrests were made including stone pelters, separatists and some political leaders. He said that only 609 people were behind bars, 151 more from the 458 of 2018 and there was a false propaganda about J&K's situation. Taking a dig at the Congress, Reddy referred to the cases of detention in Kashmir saying the Government took the decisions in the interest of the country but during Emergency, 36 MPs were booked to "save the chair of one person". Replying to a supplementary question during Question Hour, he said the decision to detain leaders such as former J&K Chief Minister Farooq Abdullah was taken to maintain law and order.

"In the country's interest, different people were arrested at different time. During Emergency, you arrested 36 MPs to save one person's chair. We are working in the interest of the nation and its law and order," he said in response to a query on how long the government will prevent Abdullah from attending Lok Sabha.

In a separate reply, the minister said such visits or exchanges promote "deeper" people-to-people contact.

SC seeks ED reply on Chidambaram's bail plea in INX Media case

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court Wednesday asked the Enforcement Directorate to reply to a plea filed by senior Congress leader P Chidambaram challenging the Delhi High Court verdict which denied him bail in the INX Media money laundering case.

A 3-judge bench headed by Justice R Banumathi issued notice to the ED on Chidambaram's appeal challenging the high court's November 15 verdict and posted the matter for hearing on November 26.

Senior advocates Kapil Sibal and A M Singhvi, appearing for the 74-year-old former finance minister, said he has been in custody for the past 91 days and high court has noted in its verdict that he is neither a flight risk nor can he influence the witnesses or tamper with the evidence. "On these triple tests, the high court order is in our favour," Sibal told the bench, which also comprised justices A S Bopanna and Hrishikesh Roy, while seeking the bail.

The bench said it would issue notice to the ED and ask them to file response on the plea.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the ED, told the court that he would file the response by November 25. Mehta said the arguments in the matter could be heard after November 26 as he has to appear in a separate matter before a Constitution bench of the top court on that day.

"You file your response. We will see on November 26," the bench told Mehta.

The apex court posted the matter for hearing on November 26 and asked Mehta to file ED's response in the meantime. The high court had dismissed the former finance minister's bail plea in the ED case, saying prima facie allegations against him were serious and he played an "active and key role" in the offence. Chidambaram was first arrested by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on August 21 in the INX Media corruption case and was granted bail by the Supreme Court on October 22.

WHO asks South-East Asia region to keep check on AMR

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Warning that antimicrobial resistance (AMR) is likely to claim 10 million lives worldwide annually by 2050, the World Health Organisation (WHO) has asked the health authorities in its South-East Asia region to adopt and implement high-impact interventions to check the menace.

WHO Regional Director for South-East Asia Poonam Khetrapal Singh said "Overuse and misuse of antibiotics in human and animal health accelerates the emergence and spread of bacteria resistant to it".

The WHO warning comes close on the heels of an Indian study by environment think tank Centre for Science and Environment (CSE) released Wednesday that said, high doses of antibiotics, that are vital for human beings, are being used "routinely" and "indiscriminately" in crops by farmers in Delhi, Haryana and Punjab like pesticides. World Antibiotic Awareness Week is being observed globally.

Khetrapal stressed on effective monitoring of antibiotic consumption as per standard treatment guidelines, strengthening infection prevention and control (IPC) in health care facilities, and called for scaling up political leadership, advocacy and coordination to fight AMR.

"Antimicrobial resistance (AMR) is a global crisis that threatens the future of our most precious drugs - antibiotics."

"Across the world, AMR kills an estimated 7,00,000 people annually, including 2,30,000 from multi-drug resistant tuberculosis. By 2050, unless urgent action is taken, AMR is expected to kill 10 million annually. Antibiotic-resistant bacteria are responsible for a substantial proportion of the AMR burden," Singh said.

Noting that the member states are taking decisive action and implementing national multi-sectoral action plan to address AMR, which since 2014 has been a flagship priority, the WHO regional director said the region's progress must be sustained.

"It must also be accelerated - an outcome the new WHO-convened Regional Taskforce for AMR will help achieve. In pursuit of the region's flagship priority on AMR as well as its quest to achieve universal health coverage, health authorities region-wide should adopt and implement several high-impact interventions," Singh said.

Listing out some initiatives, she said WHO's AWaRe classification tool should be fully harnessed.

The CSE study said that "Farmers along the banks of the Yamuna in Delhi, Hisar in Haryana and Fazilka in Punjab were found to be using streptomycin, a 90:10 combination of streptomycin and tetracycline, routinely and indiscriminately in high doses in crops, including on those crops which they not approved for."

CSE Director General Sunita Narain, who was a member of the United Nations Interagency Coordination Group on AMR, said, "We strongly feel that concrete and timely action is required by central and State Governments to contain AMR, particularly from animal and environmental routes."

EC defers move to strip NCP, CPI, TMC of national party tag

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Election Commission (EC) has deferred its decision to de-recognise the CPI, TMC and NCP as "national party" in view of their poor performance in May 2019 Lok Sabha polls following pleas from them.

According to sources, the parties in their plea told the poll panel that as there would be a series of polls to various State Assemblies they would definitely improve their performance. "We have accepted their pleas and deferred the decision", they said.

For getting "national party" status, a party should be a recognised "state party" in at least four states.

According to the Election Symbols (Reservation and Allotment) Order, 1968, a political party can be recognised as a national party if its candidates secure at least six per cent of votes polled in four or more states in Lok Sabha or assembly elections, and, in addition, it has at least four members in the Lok Sabha. It also should have at least two per cent of the total Lok Sabha seats and its candidates come from not less than three states. The three parties also told the EC that they are old parties and have played a key role in national politics. Hence, their status should not be based on recent electoral performance only. Though the TMC won 22 LS seats in West Bengal, NCP four seats in Maharashtra and CPI two seats in Tamil Nadu, their candidates polled poorly in other states.

If the parties get de-recognized they would be considered "registered but not a recognised party." They are bound to lose facilities and concessions hitherto enjoyed by them in those states where their recognition was with-

The NCP and the Congress leaders met in the evening at Pawar's residence in Delhi to discuss how to partner with the Shiv Sena, the long-term BJP ally which recently ended its alliance with the ruling party over a power tussle in Maharashtra. Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut exuded confidence that a Government led by his party will be in place by next month in Maharashtra. "We are inching towards the Government formation. The picture will become clear in the next two days and a popular Government led by the Shiv Sena will be in place by December," he told reporters. The Shiv Sena has called a meeting of its MLAs and senior leaders on November 22 in Mumbai, a party leader said. Sena chief Uddhav Thackeray will address the meeting which is expected to deliberate on the party's line of action in the backdrop of the three main non-BJP parties making efforts to form government in Maharashtra. Asked about the meeting between the NCP and the Congress, Raut said there will be a "full stop to it", implying that the two parties have almost completed their discussions on Government formation. Senior leaders of the Congress and the NCP held talks on Wednesday with a focus on firming up the modalities for taking a shot at government formation in Maharashtra. Congress leaders Ahmed Patel, Jairam Ramesh, Mallikarjun Kharge, Prithviraj Chavan, K C Venugopal and Balasaheb Thorat attended the meeting. NCP leaders Supriya Sule, Ajit Pawar, Jayant Patil and Nawab Malik were also present. Both, the Congress president Sonia Gandhi and her predecessor refused to comment on the progress being made in the formation of a new government in Maharashtra. "No comments," Sonia said in Parliament House when reporters posed questions on the political situation in Maharashtra.

Mamata had made similar remarks from Coochbehar on Tuesday inviting a backlash from Owaisi. On Wednesday, AIMIM's Bengal unit president Zameerul Hasan said the Muslims were leaving Mamata as she always tried to use them as vote bank.

Accusing the Chief Minister of using the Muslims for votes and nothing else he repeated the charges made by Owaisi questioning "why the development index of the Muslims remains so low in this State" and "how the BJP could gain such huge support base in Bengal without your (TMC's) help." "We were ready for the last parliamentary elections but our party president Asaduddin Owaisi had asked us not to contest as minority vote might get divided and TMC candidates might lose in minority dominated areas," he told reporters, adding Mamata had become nervous as AIMIM was increasing its support base in the State.

The Noida police chief said the irregularities in withdrawal of salary of home guards appears to have existed before 2017 also but it had become prominent in the last two years.

Earlier in July, it came to light that salaries of scores of home guards deployed here were withdrawn despite them showing up for work only half of the time during May and June, prompting officials to launch a probe into the matter.

A sample analysis of fraud in seven police stations of Noida showed that in May and June this year, 114 home guards were given Rs 7.07 lakh in salary for 1327 work days, and about 50 per cent of it was based on forged muster rolls, police said.

It estimated that the total fraud could be around Rs 3.50 crore to Rs 4 crore, and said a detailed analysis of attendance logs, which are available with the police, is underway. Meanwhile, a team of forensic experts from Gujarat arrived in Greater Noida for analysing the burnt documents of attendance which are crucial for unearthing the irregularities.

"We have enough evidence against the accused persons to ensure appropriate legal proceedings against them in the case," SSP Krishna said.

An FIR was lodged against home guard officials for fraud and forgery over the fraudulent withdrawal of salaries of the force's personnel on November 13.

The First Information Report (FIR) was lodged under Indian Penal Code sections 409 (criminal breach of trust by public servant, or by banker, merchant or agent), 420 (fraud), 467, 468 and 471 (all three related to forgery of documents).

Part of the auxiliary force, home guards are not permanent employees and are recruited on a casual basis. They do not have any fixed monthly salary and are paid based on the number of days of duty.

Around 700 home guards are presently deployed in Gautam Buddh Nagar, the police said.

Normalcy back in Valley, Shah tells Rajya..

The claim of normalcy also prompted the Opposition to ask why their MPs were barred from entering J&K. This prompted Shah to say, "I agree that internet is quite essential for information and it should be restored as soon as possible. But let me remind him that mobile phones were introduced in India in around 1995, and Kashmir got mobile phones for the first time in 2003 by the then BJP Government. Internet was also introduced in the Valley only in 2002, due to security reasons. Internet is an essential facility but when the question is about security and law and order, I think we to understand our priorities."

Seeing the ruckus, Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu disallowed any further discussion on the question. Besides internet services, Azad raised the issue of education in the State which has been affected after the abrogation of Article 370 and 35A on August 5 this year.

few police stations only for limited hours - from 8 pm to 6 am. "In not even one of the total 195 police stations, the Section 144 is imposed. It has been lifted completely. As precautionary measures, it is imposed only between 8 pm and 6 am and that too in areas of very few police stations," he said. Shah also cited a number of figures of healthcare facilities, school examination attendance, polling percentage in recently held Block Development Council polls, and of the landlines and mobile phones restored to argue that situation in Kashmir was 'normal'. The Home Minister said that incidents of stone pelting have declined from 802 last year to 544 so far this year. "The medicines are available to Kashmiris in ample supply. Hospitals and mobile vans are stocked fully. In Srinagar in September this year 7.66 lakh people checked into the OPD. While in October (a month after restrictions were enforced in the Valley) the number of OPD patients increased to 7.91 lakh. So there is no let-up in healthcare facilities." "All 20,411 schools are open in Kashmir. In recently held 11th Class examinations 99.48 per cent students appeared. And in recently held 10th and 12th class examinations 99.7 per cent students appeared for examination," Shah said. Azad had pointed out that the number of students appearing in schools and colleges during routine class was between zero and five per cent only. "Out of 316 Block Development Councils elections were successfully held in 307 BDCs with a polling percentage of 98.3 per cent. These elections were conducted in at atmosphere free of fear," Shah said. "The sale of essentials like petrol, diesel, kerosene, LPG and rice has increased between eight to 16 per cent in the Valley. As far as apple production is concerned, this season a total of 22.58 lakh metric tonnes of apple produce is expected of which NAFED has already bought 6 lakh metric tonnes. All 93,247 landline connections have been restored. All 59 lakh mobile phone connections have been restored. In 10 districts, 280 e-terminals have been set up for internet. Urdu and English newspapers are working as usual. Banking is functioning smoothly. Shops are open throughout the day, except at noon. And the High Court has dealt with 52,000 cases since August 5," Shah said.

Cabinet OK's Bill to regularise Delhi ..

The properties in these colonies are not being registered by registration authorities and thereby the residents do not have any title documents in respect of such properties and the banks and financial institutions do not extend any credit facilities in respect of said properties. The Supreme Court in the SLP (C) 13917 of 2009 Suraj Lamp & Industries (P) Ltd. vs State of Haryana & others vide its judgment dated 11 October, 2011 had held that sale agreement/general power of attorney or will transactions are not 'transfers' or 'sales' and that such transactions cannot be treated as completed transfers or conveyances and they can continue to be treated as existing agreement of sale. Keeping in view the socio-economic conditions of the residents of these unauthorised colonies and ground realities, it is necessitated to recognise and confer rights of ownership or transfer or mortgage to the residents of such colonies on the basis of power of attorney, agreement to sale, will, possession letter and other documents evidencing payment of consideration and to facilitate development or redevelopment to improve existing infrastructure, civic and social amenities which will lead to better quality of life. The proposed Bill to recognise GPA, will, agreement to sell, purchase and possession documents, in the light of Suraj Lamp Case Judgment, as a special one-time relaxation for this purpose for the residents of UCs in Delhi. The Bill also proposes to provide for registration charge and stamp duty to be levied on the value mentioned in conveyance deed or authorisation slip and for its applicability on last transaction only. The ownership of the properties in unauthorised colonies have been transferred several times through registered or un-registered or notarised power of attorney, agreement to sale, will, possession and payment letters. Further, the stamp duty on these multiple transactions, have neither been assessed nor paid. PNS

Raut complains about seat demotion in RS

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ NEW DELHI

Shiv Sena MP Sanjay Raut on Wednesday attacked the BJP-led NDA Government and also wrote to Rajya Sabha Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu saying moving him to the fifth row is an attempt to humiliate him and the party.

In a letter addressed to Naidu, Rajya Sabha member Sanjay Raut said, "I think that this decision was taken by someone deliberately to hurt the sentiments of Shiv Sena Party and to suppress our voice."

"I may remind you that when NDA was in Opposition, I was allotted a 3rd row seat in the House in view of my seniority in Rajya Sabha, but now, what I feel, it is clearly shows that my seat has been allotted in the fifth row intentionally to humiliate me and my party's status in the House," Raut said.

Sanjay Raut has said he fails to understand the reason behind "this unwarranted step of re-allocation of seats since there is no formal announcement about the removal from NDA."

The senior party leader and MP has further said that the move has hurt the dignity of the Parliament and has demanded that he be allotted a seat in any of the first three rows according to the decorum of the House.

Raut has also raised questions on Venkaiah Naidu's conduct of Rajya Sabha and said, "Chairperson is above party affiliations and should take decisions in a non-partisan manner."

In his letter to the Rajya Sabha chairman, Raut has also said that there is no reason behind this seat change as Shiv Sena is still officially a part of NDA.

He has said there has been no "formal announcement about the removal from NDA". Allies Shiv Sena and BJP fought the Maharashtra assembly elections together and got a clear mandate to form the government. However, soon after the results were announced, the two parties struggled over power sharing and later they severed ties.

Both the parties has since then made several vicious attacks to blame each other for the stalemate over Government formation in Maharashtra. Shiv Sena has even removed its lone minister in the NDA Government at the Centre in order to facilitate talks with arch rivals NCP and Congress.

Congress seeks resumption of SPG security cover for Gandhis

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Congress leader Anand Sharma on Wednesday demanded in the Rajya Sabha restoration of the elite SPG security cover to the party president Sonia Gandhi and her family as also former Prime Minister Manmohan Singh by "rising above partisan politics."

Senior BJP leaders, however, maintained the decision to withdraw the SPG cover of Gandhi family and Singh was taken by the Home Ministry based on changed threat perception.

Earlier this month, the Centre replaced the Special Protection Group (SPG) security cover given to Sonia Gandhi, her son Rahul Gandhi daughter Priyanka Gandhi Vadra by according them 'Z-plus' security category of the Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF). Singh's SPG cover was withdrawn in August.

Raising the issue during the Zero Hour in the House, veteran Congress MP Sharma said there was a clear evaluation of threat perceptions to the four leaders and withdrawal of SPG cover makes them vulnerable.

"It is the responsibility of the state to protect its leaders," he asserted, while pointing out that the Congress-led UPA Government had not disturbed SPG protection of former Prime Ministers, including that of Atal Bihari Vajpayee, and also of other protectees.

The security cover was neither diluted nor withdrawn during the 10-years of UPA rule, Sharma further said. Underscoring that after withdrawal of the SPG cover to Gandhi and Singh, there are concerns which are well founded, Sharma said, "We would urge the Government that these issues of personal safety, security and lives of our leaders have to be beyond partisan political considerations."

"Please rise above that. Review and restore (SPG security cover). That would be in national interest, otherwise intention will be questioned today, tomorrow and in the future," he told the House.

Defending the Government's decision to downgrade the security cover, senior BJP MP Subramanian Swamy said the decision has been taken by the Home Ministry, and moreover the threat perception to the Gandhis has disappeared with the end of the LTTE in Sri Lanka." Threat perceptions have always been the judgement of the Home Ministry. It has been always been a special committee in the Home Ministry which decides.

If there is any question about it, one can go to court and challenge it," Swamy said. Swamy further said the threat originally arose out of the assassination of former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and from the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE). "That issue has disappeared because of two reasons," Swamy said. "First there is no LTTE" and second the "attitude" of protectees who have been asking for reduction of punishment of those involved in the assassination and even Sonia Gandhi had written to the President of India in this regard. Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu said he too was not in favour of reduction in punishment. Meanwhile, Congress youth-wing members on Wednesday burnt the effigy of Home Minister Amit Shah to protest the withdrawal of SPG security cover of the Gandhi family.

Rahul questions media silence over 10K tribals' sedition prosecution

"Our 'sold out' media may have lost its voice; as citizens can we afford to?"

Rahul Gandhi

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Wednesday hit out at the media after 10,000 tribals in Jharkhand were reportedly charged under the "draconian" sedition law, saying it should have raised a "storm" but it did not.

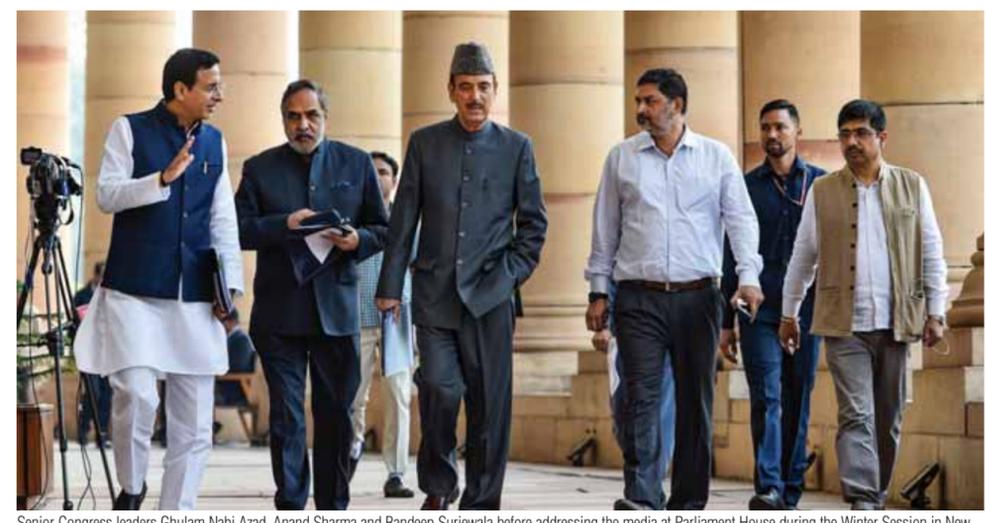

"That any Govt could slam the draconian 'sedition' law on 10,000 Adivasis, fighting against State oppression, should have shocked the conscience of our nation & raised a media storm. But it hasn't," Rahul tweeted.

He also slammed the media for not raising it properly. "Our 'sold out' media may have lost its voice; as citizens can we afford to?" Rahul tweeted. According to a report, 10,000 adivasis were booked under Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code by Jharkhand police.

The case relates to the Pathalgadi movement in Jharkhand's Khunti district where engraved stones were installed in villages in 2017 granting special autonomy to tribal areas under the Fifth Schedule of the Constitution.

The police filed cases and levelled sedition charges against 10,000 tribals, as per the media reports. Jharkhand will go to polls from November 30 in five phases.

MPs raise concern on Surrogacy Bill clauses

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

While supporting most of the provisions of the Surrogacy (Regulation) Bill 2019, Rajya Sabha members on Wednesday expressed reservation in clauses which mandates that only a close relative can be a surrogate mother and provisions of five years of marriage for commissioning parents.

Cutting across the party line, they sought modifications in provisions such as time frame for abortion, time limit of age and prior informed consent, among others. Some of the members also sought provisions for allowances and insurance along with maternity leave for the surrogate mother, besides relaxation in numbers of surrogacy. The Bill was introduced in the Upper House on Tuesday by Union Health Minister Harsh Vardhan. It has been passed by the Lok Sabha in the Monsoon Session.

Participating in the debate, Jairam Ramesh (Congress) said that it was a "very complicated bill" and the Government should get an amended bill passed after considering the suggestions of the members.

"It is very complicated bill. We all agree that surrogacy should be regulated but in what form, it is still debated," he said, adding that the bill should have come after the Assisted Reproductive Technology (ART) bill as the Government is "dealing with surrogacy but not dealing with the technology of surrogacy," he said.

P Wilson (DMK) said the bill has provisions for permission for abortion within 90 days, but sometimes there are cases of medical emergency, and surrogate mother cannot wait for such period.

There should be provision of post-approval as well, he said while Vijaysai Reddy of the YSRCP, while supporting the bill, sought clarity as in which close relatives of the couple opting for surrogacy could be considered for the procedure under the provisions of the bill.

Manoj Kumar Jha (BJD) pointed out that the bill was silent on same-sex couples and people who were in live-in relationships while Aam Aadmi Party's Sushil Kumar Gupta said the bill in the current form would end up surrogate mothers exploitation.

Vikas Mahatme of the BJP said that with passing of the bill in Parliament, the exploitation of poor surrogate mothers would end in the country while Congress's Ameer Yajnik said the bill is much needed but in the current form contains various gaps.

Binoy Viswam (CPI), D P Vats (BJP) Banda Prakash (TRS), Chhaya Verma (Congress), C P Thakur (BJP), Vijila Sathyanath (DMK) Lal Singh Vadodia, Gopal Singh (BJP), Harshvardhan Singh Durgapur (BJP), Gopal Narayan Singh (BJP) and Jugal Singh Matherji (BJP) also participated in discussion on the issue.

Sena MP questions 'strict rules' for building in Defence areas

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As Members in the Lok Sabha on Wednesday questioned 'strict rules' for construction or renovation of houses around the defence establishments or even in the vicinity of residential colonies of armed forces in the cities, the Government informed them that it was revising no-objection guidelines for buildings and ensure that security is not compromised while accommodating development needs.

Shiv Sena member Rahul Shewale said in the Lok Sabha during the Question hour that he was unable to repair his house due to restrictions on building construction in the vicinity of defence establishments. He also sought that the definition of national security should be relooked at.

"I am an MP and my father was a Naval officer. But I am unable to repair my own house," said Shewale whose party had recently split with the BJP in Maharashtra over the issue of Government formation in the State. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, a former Defence Minister in the last Modi-Government, said there is "no conflict" between civilians and armed services on the issue.

In October 2016, the Defence Ministry had issued a circular regarding guidelines for issue of No Objection Certificate (NOC) for building constructions. As per the guidelines, Army stations requiring NOC from the Local Military Authority (MLA) within distances specified have been identified.

It is a "sensitive issue" but the situation is not that no permissions have been given for projects, said Sitharaman who was responding to certain supplementaries as Defence Minister Rajnath Singh was not present in the House. The House was discussing a question about defence establishments and restrictions on buildings in their vicinity.

There are projects that are getting clearances. After 2017, as many as 22 proposals related to Mumbai were received and out of them, only one is under examination. Seven projects were given permission, she added.

"Without hesitation, permissions were given," the Minister said even as she stressed that national security cannot be put in danger. The minister said during her tenure, she had six meetings on the issue and assured that matter is "almost nearing the stage of finalisation."

"342 establishments of Indian Army have been identified under the circular dated October 21, 2016. No establishment of Air Force, Navy and other establishments of Army have been identified," Minister of State for Defence Shripad Naik said in a written reply.

"The matter is being monitored to ensure that the security of defence establishments does not get jeopardised while accommodating development

LS members demand strict action against chit fund firms, promoters

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

While passing the Amendments to Chit Fund Bill on Wednesday Lok Sabha members demanded strict action against chit fund firms and its promoters who siphon money of the poor. Participating in the debate several BJP members lauded the Government's move, saying this will help protect the money of the economically weaker section.

Saugata Roy (TMC), however, questioned the delay in bringing the bill. He said the bill was also introduced in the last Lok Sabha but was then forwarded to the Standing Committee on Finance. The panel gave its recommendations in August 2018 but it has taken more than a year for the Government to bring the fresh bill with amendments, he said. "We have to address the anomalies in the financial system," he said.

Roy said two BJP members from West Bengal had wrongly referred to State Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee in the chit fund scam and her name should be expunged from the record. Anurag Sharma (BJP) said there are over 30,000 registered chit funds in the country and the unregularised would be more than 100 times the number. He stressed that more people should be brought in the formal sector.

Meenakshi Lekhi (BJP) said there was a need for financial literacy in the country to avoid people from falling into the trap of such financial system. She said people who invest in chit funds are many a time unaware that when banking system gives an interest rate of nearly 8-9 per cent, then how can one provide an interest of nearly 30 to 40 per cent. P P Chowdhary (BJP) said the amendments to the bill may appear small but will have long term ramifications in saving people's money.

Requested HCs to expedite 10-year-old cases: Prasad

UNION LAW MIN INFORMS HOUSE

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The issue of piling up of huge pending cases in the courts figured in the Lok Sabha on Wednesday with Law Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad saying his Ministry has requested all High Courts to clear 10-year-old cases immediately to bring down pendency of cases as amidst the reports of a cyber attack on the Kudankulam nuclear power plant, Union Minister Jitendra Singh told the concerned members that "if at all an error like this happened, it was confined to the administrative block."

Among other issues raised during the Zero Hour in the house, Satadip Roy of the Trinamool Congress said the Ministry of External Affairs has refused to give her a no-objection certificate for attending a film festival in China.

The MP said she had to face a lot of harassment for getting the visa and when it did come she was not given the required NoC without being offered any reason. She said Prime Minister Narendra Modi was getting pictures clicked with Chinese President Xi Jinping while she has been denied a visit to China. At this point, the Speaker Om Birla asked another member to raise his issue. BJP MP Shankar Lalwani asked the Centre to work to waive passport requirement for pilgrims visiting Kartarpur Sahib in Pakistan.

Taking up the issues relating to crores of cases pending in the courts, the law minister said it is his for the court to clear the backlog in the court as Government is always there to provide infrastructure.

Congress MP Manish Tewary, however, did not agree with the minister that the Government was not accountable or the piling up of cases in the courts.

The Minister said his Government has taken various measures to improve the infrastructure of various courts across the country so that justice delivery is expedited.

The Modi Government has already given 50 per cent amount for infrastructure improvement, he said, adding, the National Judicial Database is now in place.

Besides, he said, the government has made 478 appointments in high courts and number of Supreme Court Judges has been increased.

On pendency of cases in various courts, he said, all high courts have been requested to immediately clear civil and criminal cases which are pending for 10 years. "I would take this opportunity to again request Chief Justice of all high courts to immediately dispose of cases which are pending for 10 years," he said.

More than 43 lakh cases are pending in 25 high courts in the country and over 8 lakh of these are over a decade old.

Prasad also said there is a case for All India Judicial Service but there are reservations expressed by some high courts.

Doval-led panel to fix modalities for first CDS

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

A high-level committee headed by National Security Advisor (NSA) Ajit Doval is likely to finalise the modalities for appointing the first Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) in the next three to four weeks. Prime Minister Narendra Modi had announced in his August 15 speech the creation of the post of CDS as single point military advisor to political leadership.

The proposal to create the CDS was hanging fire for more than 20 years after the K Subrahmanyam committee on higher defence reforms favoured the creation of such a post for synergy amongst the three Services.

As regards the Doval led panel report, sources said here on Wednesday the Government has asked the Army, Navy and IAF to recommend the names of their senior most commanders for the new position. As of now indications are that Army Chief General Bipin Rawat may become the first CDS as he is the senior most amongst the three serving chiefs. He is due to retire as the Army Chief on Dec 31.

In a major defence reform to keep pace with fast changing war fighting capabilities world over, Modi on August 15 announced the creation of post of the CDS to promote synergy and integration of three Services including the army, navy and air force. The CDS will be single-point military advisor to the political leadership on matters of modernisation, operational preparedness and fight jointly.

The proposal for creation of the CDS was pending for the last 20 years after a Group of Ministers (GOM) headed by then Home Minister LK Advani recommended it. A review committee headed by K Subrahmanyam to fine tune higher defence management in the wake of Kargil war in 1999 had given this proposal to the GOM.

However, successive Governments did not go in for the crucial reform citing lack of political consensus. Also, the three Services could not come on the same platform leading to delay of creation of the CDS. Many western countries including the UK have the institution of CDS.

Prior to the land mark reform made public by the Prime Minister on August 15, he had made the political leadership's inclination apparent during his speech on Kargil Vijay Diwas in July where he stressed on "jointness" and said it was time to connect among three services in terms of "action and system."

Making the important announcement during his Independence Day speech here, Modi said time has come to enhance coordination among the three services to deal with security challenges facing India.

"To further sharpen coordination between the forces, I want to announce a major decision from the Red Fort: India will have a Chief of Defence Staff- CDS. This is going to make the forces even more effective," he said. The Prime Minister said as head of the three services, the CDS will ensure synergy and provide effective leadership to the armed forces in dealing with security challenges. In a tweet then, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh had said the announcement has been made keeping in view the much needed reform to streamline and further improve the coordination among the three forces and their functioning. "CDS will have a long lasting and a positive impact on India's security," Singh said.

The creation of the CDS will eventually lead to the formation of tri-service theatre commands intended to create vertical integration of the three forces. The CDS will be a single window advisor to the Government and also synergise long term planning, procurements, training and logistics of the three services. After Modi's announcement, the defence Ministry commenced the process to select the CDS, his tenure and other related issues through the Doval led panel.

Also, the Defence Ministry will have to take a call on the seniority of the CDS. At present, the three Chiefs are four-star generals and it remains to be seen whether the CDS will be a five-star general therefore senior to the Chiefs. If the CDS is four-star general, then he will be first among equals, it was learnt.

While the GOM proposal was lying in cold storage since 2001, in 2012, the Nareish Chandra committee recommended the appointment of a Permanent Chairman of Chiefs of Staff Committee (COSC) as a midway to allay apprehensions over the CDS.

'Yes, if required', Kamal on ties with Rajini

PTI ■ CHENNAI

As MNM founder Kamal Haasan on Wednesday reiterated his intention to join hands with his contemporary 'Superstar' Rajinikanth politically, the ruling AIADMK continued to target the duo, calling it a 'mirage' and insisted the actors can't harm the party's prospects.

Though Haasan expressed his willingness to partner with his four-decade old cinema colleague, he made it clear he would do so "only if required" and for the sake of Tamil Nadu.

While AIADMK Coordinator and Deputy Chief Minister O Panneerselvam said the duo's possible partnership would not affect his party, his Cabinet colleague D Jayakumar said the duo was like 'mirage' that would "disappoint" the person believing it to be water.

He also likened them to an 'illusion'. Haasan's comments on joining forces with Rajinikanth came a day after both actors hinted at coming together keeping in mind Tamil Nadu's welfare.

"My friend Mr Rajinikanth and I are of the same opinion that if need be all hands should join for the sake of Tamil Nadu and we are no exception," he told reporters here, "That is our attitude, we would join hands) if required only. We will, if required, and that too for Tamil Nadu's sake," he said. Beyond their friendship, Tamil Nadu's welfare was important, he added.

Haasan also ruled out any timeframe for the two actors possibly working together politically. "The positive thing (from the developments) is that there is an assurance we will work for Tamil Nadu," he said. When a scribe asked if Rajinikanth would join his MNM, Haasan shot back saying it was "not fair" to pose such questions. Responding to Haasan's statement, Panneerselvam said none can affect the ruling party.

"The AIADMK's base is very strong. We are not worried who joins hands. This movement is cadre-based," he told reporters. While many political parties could come into existence they can, however, do no damage to the AIADMK, he added.

However, his party and cabinet colleague Jayakumar seemed to be more harsh towards Haasan and Rajinikanth, calling them a mirage and 'illusion'. "A mirage, illusion is being created — it is like those who went believing it was water and getting disappointed," he said. "Rajini or Kamal or Vijay (another top actor who is rumoured to be harboring political ambitions) are all illusions. They cannot survive in Tamil Nadu politics," the Minister said.

To another question, he described top actor Ajithkumar as "dignified and dedicated to his profession". Ajithkumar is considered Vijay's rival, and known to keep away from controversies, although he had once publicly told then Chief Minister and late M Karunanidhi, that actors were forced to attend certain events which became a debating point.

Exuding confidence that the possible Rajini-Kamal duo cannot do harm to the AIADMK-led alliance in the state electorally, Jayakumar said "none will stand before" the coalition, comprising of BJP, DMDK and PMK.

Swami Nithyananda booked, two disciples held for 'kidnapping' kids

PTI ■ AHMEDABAD

An FIR was registered against self-styled godman Swami Nithyananda on the charges of alleged kidnapping and wrongful confinement of children to make them collect donations from followers to run his ashram in Ahmedabad in Gujarat, police said on Wednesday.

Police also arrested Sadhvi Pranpriyananda and Priyatatva Riddhi Kiran, both women disciples of the controversial godman, on charges of allegedly kidnapping at least four children, keeping them in illegal confinement in a flat and using them as child labourers to promote activities of the ashram to collect donations.

Nithyananda was booked on the similar charges after police recorded statements of the four children who were rescued from a flat and the ashram, "Yogini Sarvagyaapeetham", a police officer said.

Sadhvi Pran Priyananda and Priyatatva Riddhi Kiran are responsible for managing the ashram, he said. "We have arrested two disciples of Swami Nithyananda after two children in the age group of 9 and 10 years enrolled at the ashram, told us that they were tortured and made to work as child labour and kept in an illegal confinement at a flat in the city for over ten days.

"Similar allegations were made by two other children rescued from the ashram on the basis of a complaint filed by their parents," Dy Superintendent of Police (Ahmedabad rural), KT Kamariya said.

The accused persons have been booked under Sections 365 (kidnapping or abducting with intent to secretly and wrongfully confine a person), 344 (wrongful confinement for ten or more days), 323 (voluntarily causing hurt), 504 (intentional insult with intent to provoke breach of peace), and 502 (sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter) of the Indian Penal Code (IPC).

They have also been booked under Section 14 of the Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act, 1986, the police officer said. "The two children (rescued from the flat) have been handed over to the child welfare committee which is questioning them and trying to locate their parents," Kamariya said.

The rescued children told police that they were forced to take part in a religious ritual and were harassed, he said.

"They were being made to work for the ashram by force to collect donation from followers by sharing and uploading various ritual materials," the DYSP said.

Hindutva bodies warn Sena, BJP against tying up with NCP, Cong

Pune: A group of Hindutva organisations on Wednesday warned of launching a campaign against Shiv Sena and BJP if any of the two parties join hands with Congress and NCP to form a Government in Maharashtra.

Samasta Hindu Aghadi president Milind Ekbote said the BJP and Sena, which have together won 161 seats in the 288-member House, should form a Government in the State as soon as possible as fighting between themselves was an "insult" of the people's mandate. He said the Hindutva outfits were coming together as a "united front" to oppose Sena or BJP's attempts to tie up with the ideologically different parties. "We have been working for Hindutva for decades. We were expecting that some of our demands would be fulfilled since the BJP and Shiv Sena came to power... We are also concerned about farmers.

"But these two parties are fighting with each other. It is an insult of people's mandate. Therefore, we are appealing to both of them to form a Government in Maharashtra as soon as possible," he said. PTI

Gujarat HC issues notices to self-styled godman, State Govt on 'detention' of two women

PTI ■ AHMEDABAD

The Gujarat High Court on Wednesday issued notices to self-styled godman Swami Nithyananda and the State Government on a plea filed by a man seeking custody of his two daughters "detained" at an ashram run here by the controversial guru.

A division bench of justices SR Brahmabhatt and VP Patel issued notices to the respondents, including the State Government, DGP, police officers concerned, child welfare committee chairman as well as Nithyananda and Maa Pranpriya, the co-ordinator of Ahmedabad-based ashram.

The petitioner, Janardhana Sharma, alleged that officials of the ashram — Yogini Sarvagyaapeetham — were not allowing him and his wife to meet their two daughters staying there. Sharma said the police recently managed to rescue their two other daughters, both minors, lodged in the same ashram. While police rescued his minor daughters, his two elder daughters — Lopamudra (21) and Nandhitha Sharma (18) — were still under "detention" at the ashram and not being allowed to meet their parents, Sharma has said in his "habeas corpus" petition.

A habeas corpus plea is a petition which is filed to ensure a person under arrest is brought before a court which will determine whether the detention is legal. The petitioner has requested the high court to direct police and other authorities to produce their elder daughters, who he alleged are being kept under "illegal confinement", before the court and hand them over to their parents. Apart from seeking their custody, the petitioner has also sought the HC's direction for an inquiry regarding all other minors kept at the ashram and appropriate action against the swami and his disciples, if required.

ASI to use waste water from RO to replenish water table around Taj Mahal

• This exercise has been undertaken to spread a message that Taj Mahal can also contribute to water conservation

• A total of 30,000 litres of drinking water is provided daily through the RO (Reverse Osmosis) process for consumption

• While 30,000 litres of waste water will be diverted into stepwell and well, remaining 10,000 litres will go into borewells

PTI ■ AGRA

The ASI has begun doing its bit to replenish groundwater around Taj Mahal, diverting waste water discharged during the RO treatment to a stepwell built during the Mughal period. Of the 40,000 litres of waste water generated within the Taj Mahal complex, some would also be channelised into a well and four borewells that have been constructed for this purpose.

This exercise has been undertaken to spread a message that Taj Mahal, a place which sees maximum tourist footfall in the country, can also contribute to water conservation, Vasant Kumar Swarnkar, superintending archaeologist of Archaeological Survey of India (ASI), Agra Circle, told PTI on Wednesday.

A total of 30,000 litres of drinking water is provided daily through the RO (Reverse Osmosis) process for consumption, he said. In the process, 30,000 litres of waste water is generated and another 10,000 litres is wasted during consumption. So overall, 40,000 litres of water is being wasted everyday, he said.

While 30,000 litres of waste water will be diverted into stepwell and well, remaining 10,000 litres will go into borewells, Swarnkar said. He said water will be channelised through PVC pipes to replenish the water table at 120 feet. The Taj Mahal complex has six RO systems which provide 750 to 2,000 litres of water every hour, he said, adding that the Mughal era mausoleum is open to tourists for 10 hours every day.

The Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) has asked major internet service providers to boost signal strength near monuments and hotels in Agra, so that tourists can easily book tickets online via "QR code standees" placed there to visit the Taj Mahal.

Agra Circle Superintending Archaeologist Vasant Kumar Swarnkar told PTI that ASI has contacted BSNL, Airtel, Vodafone-Idea, Jio to increase their signal strength near the sites the standees have been put.

"BSNL has assured it will do the needful within 15 days," Swarnkar said. QR code standees offer tourists an option to book tickets by making online payment through mobile phones by scanning the codes.

After tourists scan the code, they are connected to the ticketing portal. They can book 30 tickets — 20 for adult visitors and 10 for children — at a time. Tourists can also directly visit the ticketing portal to book tickets online. The ASI official said the district administration is monitoring the progress with the internet service providers.

SC to hear plea seeking removal of dead trees near Agra mental hospital falling in Taj zone

New Delhi: The Supreme Court Wednesday agreed to hear on Friday a plea seeking to remove some dried up trees near the mental hospital at Agra which falls under the Taj Trapezium Zone housing protected monument Taj Mahal.

A Bench headed by Chief Justice SA Bobde took note of submissions of a lawyer, representing the Government hospital, that certain dead trees be allowed to be removed as they "scaring mental patients". It has been alleged that the Forest department of Agra Zone has denied the permission to remove even dried trees in view of the apex court's earlier orders in this regard. Apex court, which has been hearing the PIL filed by environmentalist MC Mehta, has restrained cutting or removing trees in the Taj Trapezium area.

The PIL has sought protection of the Taj from the ill effects of polluting gases and deforestation. Earlier, apex court, in 2014, had allowed Agra civic corporation to cut down 38 trees in protected area of Taj Mahal under Taj Trapezium Zone but had directed it to plant thrice number of trees in the compound or nearby areas. The corporation had submitted the trees need to be cut down to renovate the tehsil building. PTI

BANARASHINDUUNIVERSITYROW

Muslim prof's father sings bhajans, offers namaz

PTI ■ JAIPUR

The group of Banaras Hindu University (BHU) students protesting against the appointment of a Muslim at their Sanskrit department might just change their minds if they visited the professor's father.

At a temple in premises of Shree Ramdev Gaushala Chetanya Dham in Bagru, 35 kms from the Rajasthan capital, Ramzan Khan participates in the aarti, sitting at a harmonium and singing a bhajan.

The atmosphere there is in sharp contrast to the protest by some students at the BHU. They say only a Hindu can teach Sanskrit. But a visit to Bagru, where the family lives in a modest three-room house, reveals that the professor grew up in an atmosphere immersed in Sanskrit and "Hindu traditions".

His father Ramzan Khan himself holds the Shastris qualification in Sanskrit, composes religious songs and performs 'gau sewa' at the nearby cattle shed. At the same time, he visits the mosque and offers namaz.

The local Hindu community as well as his own relatives are okay with this. "I was very happy when my son was appointed at the prestigious BHU. The protest by students is unfortunate and I would like to urge the agitating students to recognise my son and see what kind of background he has," he said.

"My son wanted to learn Sanskrit like me so I got him admission at the school. He had the blessings of the teachers, acquired a high qualification and got selected at BHU," Khan told PTI on Wednesday.

"I am confident that if the students listen to him with patience and see his family background, they would be convinced and satisfied," he added. Ramzan Khan has had a better deal than his son.

"I never faced discrimination on the basis of religion. We all live in brotherhood. I go to the mosque and often offer namaz, I go to the temple and do Krishna Bhakti and gau sewa," he said. He said Sanskrit runs through his veins.

"My father also used to sing songs at temples. I learnt this from him. He made me learn Sanskrit and I also started dedicating time for gau sewa, and also composed songs. My time goes in Krishna and Bhagwad bhakti," he said.

At temples, he sings songs dedicated to Rama, Krishna, Shiva and other Hindu deities.

Singing bhajans at temples and events like "jagrans" is also his source of livelihood.

Hindu seers in the area have come out in support of the family after the BHU row.

"This is very condemnable that a person who is highly qualified in Sanskrit and got appointed on merit is being opposed only because he is Muslim. This intolerance should be stopped," said Saurabh Raghvendracharya, a 'sadhu' from the Raghunathdham temple near Bagru.

"All our religious functions and the temple aarti are incomplete without Ramzan Khan. People in large numbers turn up to listen to him. He does it all in dedication to Krishna bhakti and never expects anything in return," said Mohan Lal Sharma, a priest from another temple.

"He too is a Sanskrit scholar, serves cows and loves them," the priest added. While Ramzan Khan meets people who call on him following the BHU protests, other family members appear reluctant to do so.

"I only want to convey that people should see the qualifications of my son instead of judging him on the basis of religion," he said.

BHU students continue protest, Muslim professor feels 'insulted'

IANs ■ VARANASI

The students' protest against the appointment of a Muslim professor in the Sanskrit Vidya Dharma Vigyan in the Banaras Hindu University (BHU) entered its 14th day on Wednesday with the students refusing to give up on their demand.

The BHU administration continues to maintain that the appointment of professor Feroz Khan is in accordance with the prescribed norms and there is no question of his removal.

The BHU administration has issued a statement, saying, "The idea behind the establishment of the university was to contribute in nation-building by providing equal opportunity of study and teaching to all deserving people without any discrimination on the basis of caste, religion, gender and sect."

The statement also said that Khan's appointment was a unanimous decision made by a selection committee under a transparent process.

The Muslim professor Feroz Kahn, meanwhile, said that he felt 'insulted' by the incident and added that he would have never applied for the job if the university had mentioned in the advertisement that they did not want a Muslim.

Students sitting on dharna, on the other hand, have started reciting Hanuman Chalisa to underline their opposition to a Muslim faculty member.

JU teachers observe cease work demanding full implementation of revised UGC pay scale

PTI ■ KOLKATA

The cease work by teachers of Jadavpur University demanding full implementation of the revised UGC pay scale disrupted classes for the second day on Wednesday.

A spokesman of Jadavpur University Teachers' Association (JUTA), the main representative body of university teachers, said an estimated 450 teachers assembled before the main administrative building in the afternoon hours holding placards as part of the two-day cease work on November 19 and 20.

The JUTA spokesman claimed that no classes took place in any of the four faculties — Arts, Engineering and Technology, Science and Interdisciplinary Studies — as the teachers did not take classes. The cease work was supported by the All Bengal University Teachers' Association (ABUTA-JU chapter), and West Bengal College and University Teachers' Association (WBCUTA). ABUTA (JU) general secretary Goutam Maity said teachers from Vidyasagar University, Rabindra Bharati University and Calcutta University were present at the agitation to express solidarity.

It has also grown 20 other varieties. These include "Gyrocarpus Americanus", whose wood is used to make the world-famous Kondapalli toys. The scarcity of the wood, locally known as "Tella Poniki" has affected the toy manufacturing in Kondapalli near Vijayawada.

The Botany Department worked for a month to collect all database about trees in the college campus and assigned QR codes to them. They catalogued the trees according to their species and incorporated vital information.

Income Tax raids on Tollywood biggies

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

The officials of Income-Tax (I-T) Department on Wednesday conducted simultaneous raids on Ramanaidu Studios in Hyderabad and other premises owned by popular Tollywood producer Daggubati Suresh Babu. The searches are underway against another biggie S Radha Krishna, who owns production houses, Haarika and Hassine Creations and Sitara Entertainments.

According to information, the searches are on in 25 locations across Mumbai, Hyderabad, Chennai and Visakhapatnam.

The raid began early in the morning on Wednesday and media reports suggest that officials are going through I-T returns filed by the production house over the last few years, to examine alleged tax evasion," said the sources.

The raids are expected to continue until Wednesday evening. Some documents were also examined and seized by the officials, media reports added. An official statement is yet to be issued and further details are awaited.

According to information, the searches are on in 25 locations across Mumbai, Hyderabad, Chennai and Visakhapatnam. A majority of the locations are properties owned by Telangana-based film production house owners. Ironically, both production houses are readying to release their new films. Haarika and Hassine is all set to release its next movie 'Ala vaikunthapurramulo' starring Allu Arjun, while Sitara Entertainment's last production was Premam, remake of 2015 Malayalam film. The romantic drama featured Naga Chaitanya and Shruti Hasan.

According to sources, the sleuths are suspecting massive tax evasions in production, distribution and exhibition earnings. Ramanaidu Studio is set for a December release of 'Venky Mama' that stars the uncle-nephew duo Venkatesh and Naga Chaitanya.

Police detain a Kerala Students Union (KSU) activist during a protest in front of the Ernakulam Police Commissioner's office in Kochi on Wednesday. The KSU had called for a march to protest against the functioning of the Kerala University where allegations of manipulation in marks have surfaced and the mysterious deaths of two minor Dalit sisters at Walayar, who were found dead inside their home after being allegedly exploited sexually PTI

Akhilesh responds to Shivpal's offer with a cold silence

IANs ■ LUCKNOW

The olive branch extended by Pragatisheel Samajwadi Party Lohia (PSP) president Shivpal Yadav to his estranged nephew and Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav has, apparently found no takers.

More than 24 hours after Shivpal Yadav put forward a proposal for unity on Mulayam Singh Yadav's birthday on November 22, Akhilesh Yadav has chosen to completely ignore the overture.

Shivpal had suggested that the birthday celebrations of Mulayam Singh should be held in their native village Sefai in Etawah and the entire family should come together for the event. Akhilesh, however, has directed all district units of his party to celebrate the occasion in Lucknow, sources said.

It is not yet known if Mulayam Singh would opt for Lucknow or Etawah on his birthday. According to a former SP minister, known for his proximity to Akhilesh Yadav, "Too much water has flowed under the bridge. Shivpal Yadav has damaged the Samajwadi Party in the Lok Sabha elections by cutting into our votes and paving the way for BJP's victory. It will not be easy to forget all the bad blood that prevails between the two family members and their parties."

The mood is upbeat in the Samajwadi Party following its victory in three assembly seats in the recent assembly by-elections. "We have proved that we are the main opposition party in UP and our victory has given clear indications that SP is firmly on the comeback path. Akhilesh is now working towards strengthening the party organisations and nothing will divert his attention from the job right now," the former Minister added.

NBW issued against Azam Khan, family

Rampur: The Rampur district court has issued non-bailable warrants against Samajwadi Party MP Mohd Azam Khan and his family.

The matter is related to the dispute in birth documents of Azam Khan's son Abdullah Azam, who is an SP MLA.

Azam Khan, his wife and son Abdullah Azam were to appear in court on Tuesday but neither of them appeared after which the court issued the non-bailable warrants against them. The next date of hearing has been fixed for December 2.

BJP leader Akash Saxena had filed a case against Azam Khan and his family under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 of IPC. Abdullah Azam had reportedly given different birth certificate in his passport and then the election affidavit and the case was filed against the family on this issue.

There are over 84 criminal cases pending against Azam Khan and his family in Rampur. These cases are related to land grabbing, encroachment, book theft, statue theft, power theft, buffalo theft, goat theft and forgery.

Azam Khan has failed to get anticipatory bail in the cases. IANS

Andhra college's bid for plant conservation with QR codes

IANs ■ VIJAYAWADA

At a time when Quick Response (QR) codes have become common for digital payments across India, a college in Andhra Pradesh is showing how the technology can benefit students and help in the conservation of plants.

The initiative of PB Siddhartha College of Arts and Sciences here is not only helping the students get information about plants at their fingertips but is also expected to contribute in plant conservation.

Students or anyone can use their smart phones to scan the QR code hung in the trees on the campus to access all the information about the plant ranging from its botanical name to its medicinal value.

Any app generating QR code and available for free on the online stores can be used to scan the QR code and access the information. The user will will help conserve such species by growing them in their gardens," Srinivas Reddy, head of Botany Department at the college told IANS.

The department has developed herbal garden on the college campus with 60 varieties of medicinal plants like Tulsi, mustard, aloe vera and spearmint.

It has also grown 20 other varieties. These include "Gyrocarpus Americanus", whose wood is used to make the world-famous Kondapalli toys. The scarcity of the wood, locally known as "Tella Poniki" has affected the toy manufacturing in Kondapalli near Vijayawada.

see what has been incorporated and for detailed information can refer to books or do the Google search.

Those scanning QR code will not only know the scientific name of the plant, but also its status by International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN), which releases the status of all species every year.

"These days people have awareness about conservation of plants, but they don't know which plant has to be conserved and what is its name. The IUCN status shows which are the endangered species. We hope that educated people

Myths about Kashmir

Facts and figures on J&K tabled in the House may paint a rosy picture but won't change ground realities

Kashmir's smokescreen becomes so dense by the day that in the end, it solidifies as the only truth, or a picture of it, so relentlessly it is pushed down our throats. And with stories of the non-cooperative Kashmiri and the Western media bias drowning out the validity of the ugly truth that does make it to the surface, the myth takes hold of the mindscape as it is easier to digest narratives that operate within simplistic binaries than raise complex questions. Like the response the Government has tabled in the Rajya Sabha, that stone-pelting has subsided ever since the abolition of Article 370 in Kashmir and that tourist footfalls have increased, apparently generating an additional ₹25 crore as revenue since August. The first claim gets negated by the government's own admission that 700 plus people have been detained during the same period. And the bubble of a thriving tourist economy has been burst by a Kashmiri traders' association claim that the former State has suffered a ₹12,000 crore loss since the lockdown. Home Minister Amit Shah, too, painted a picture of normalcy, telling the Rajya Sabha how schools and colleges were open, the apple industry was recovering, any preventive curfew was only intended to disable Pakistan-sponsored militancy and that there has been no bloodshed since Kashmir became a Union Territory. As if alienation has been the sole byproduct of exported terrorism. He also defended the blockade of internet corridors, saying the fight against terror propaganda meant that security is prioritised over everything else. Yet, even going by the sanitised reportage from the Valley, communication remains a challenge with landlines operating in fits and starts and patchy internet even at media centres. Yes, the Centre through its agencies is picking up apples but truckers from the plains are being attacked randomly and crates are full of some bad apples, literally, with separatist messages imprinted on them. The entire economy is gasping with the lockdown affecting logistics and supply chain management. Existing small and medium-scale businesses are floundering, delivery service start-ups are on the verge of a meltdown with suspended services, the flight of labour and the absence of internet. No tourist, foreign or domestic, is knowingly planning a visit to Kashmir. Violence, either by militant groups, hitbacks of angry citizens or punitive strikes by security forces, makes for a bigger picture when one joins the dots. And the silence is deceptive in the absence of middle ground between polarities. With citizens also resorting to civil disobedience, refusing to open businesses or keeping their children away from school, it could be the proverbial lull before the storm, a fear psychosis or a siege mentality.

Facts and figures can be tweaked but the truth lies elsewhere as a figment, and that is costing us our credibility. While the world and even much of the domestic opinion, in principle, accepted the withdrawal of Article 370 as operable, the never-ending lockdown is raising more questions about our militaristic ambitions than democratic propriety. The Government's continued detention of politically elected representatives, who it says had done nothing to control militancy and played the Indo-Pakistan dynamic for their continued relevance, has stifled the only voice of the locals. Nothing explains why the most pro-India voice among them and somebody who has been the BJP's blue-eyed boy, Omar Abdullah, or even Sajjad Lone continue to be detained. Or why they are being psychologically worn out in dehumanised conditions. If the Government wants to peddle normalcy, then it has to prioritise civil and political engagement, no matter how chaotic or negative the result may be. Restoring civil rights is a must if it wants its governance agenda to not sound like a fable but intended action. A big move always generates big reactions but muzzling them won't help in a political economy called Kashmir. Egoism must make way for reasoned pragmatism and a majoritarian Government should have the strength to stomach the pitfalls than fogging out reality. The world could soon turn intolerant of us.

Turmoil in telecom

How long can companies overlook unsustainable charges? The Government must intervene on taxes

British telecom giant Vodafone's threat to quit India seems to have jolted a few officials in the Government. After all, if such a famous corporate name could be jolted by policies and unfair tax demands, how would smaller, less famous foreign investors fare in the country? There has been a degree of damage control exercise by both Vodafone and the Government after the first stories emerged in London newspapers but the single best thing that seems to have happened since then is that Indian telecom companies across the board have realised that their current charges are unsustainable. They are now speaking of increasing tariffs next month onwards. This is on expected lines for, in real-money terms, telecom charges have been declining year after year even if data is excluded. Data charges per megabyte transmitted today are barely a per cent of what they were a decade ago. Low charges have helped put data in the hands of virtually every Indian but good times were never going to last forever.

While the quantum of the increase remains to be seen, after years of unsustainably low charges, coupled with the constant need to invest in new infrastructure, most telecom operators in India are bleeding. The desperation to be seen as the largest player in a huge market led to unsustainable rates, first for voice communications and later for data after the entry of Reliance Industries' Jio, which benefitted from several aspects of a late entry. It was able to invest in better and cheaper infrastructure, not needing to carry the can for low revenue consumers. Surely, the Supreme Court's ruling on taxes being applicable to "annual gross revenues" for telecom operators rather than for "revenues" must be seen as a harsh one. The Government should do something to mitigate the extent of the payment but an increase in call and data rates is much needed now. Complaints about call quality and lack of network connectivity have become far too common and networks need investment to improve services. For that, India needs a sustainable telecom industry. It is almost certain that with the Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) being taken up in droves by Government-owned telecom operators BSNL and MTNL, the State might be exiting the telecom space once and for all, keeping just a secure communications backbone for intelligence and military purposes. If that indeed is the case, the Government must ensure that all telecom operators are in good financial health. At the same time, the coming years will see next-generation 5G networks, with the Government expecting to make thousands of crores in the spectrum auctions, something that appears to be more of a pipedream than anything else right now. The Government runs the risk of killing the golden goose and finding a hollowed out shell inside. That means allowing operators to raise prices and most importantly, refute allegations of favouritism that tend to stick when it comes to Mukesh Ambani.

Neighbour's border envy

While China has undertaken multiple development projects near the Indian border, Delhi has been very slow and remains hesitant to see tourists in restricted areas

CLAUDE ARPI

Recently, the Indian media was agog with news about the latest deployment of the Chinese People's Liberation Army (PLA) close to the Indian borders. One website, the Indian Defence News, affirmed: "China strengthening military base near Uttarakhand's Lipulekh Pass," which is located near the tri-junction between Nepal, Tibet and India. It explained: "The new base has 20 parking hangars and also maintenance hangars. Medium-lift helicopters for the local Army aviation brigade have also been spotted... There are signs of a military build-up opposite Lipulekh Pass on the northeastern tip of Uttarakhand." It cited some intelligence sources saying that the PLA had built a helipad close to the pass and also "installed two surveillance cameras, a Long Range Reconnaissance and Observation System (LORROS) and a solar panel."

Some other reports mentioned model villages being built by Beijing near the Indian border. This is not new, though the scale should worry New Delhi. The information about Lipulekh Pass is probably linked to the new airport coming up near Purang (Taklakot); it will serve the Kailash/Manasarovar area.

On June 9, 2018, the Civil Aviation Administration of China and the Tibetan Autonomous Region's (TAR) provincial government announced that Tibet would soon have three new airports. An official communiqué stated: "Construction of the three airports, all above the altitude of 3,900 metres, should begin in 2019." The new airports are to be located in Lhunste county in Lhoka (called Shannan by the Chinese) area, north of the Upper Subansiri district of Arunachal Pradesh; the second will be between Tingri and Lhatse counties of Shigatse City, north of Zangmu, the border post with Nepal, and the last in Purang, near Lipulekh.

It was then announced: "The airports should be completed in 2021; by then, there will be eight airports in TAR." The news agency added: "At present, the preparatory work for the three airports is under way. The preferred sites have been determined;" the idea is "to consolidate the border and to promote the deep integration of the military and the people." While tourism and "cultural" industries remain the pillars of the so-called stabilisation, defence is also vital for the Chinese authorities — one of Chinese President Xi Jinping's pet projects is the Military Civilian Integration (or "fusion").

Another of Xi's favourite schemes is to make "patriotic" Tibetans "the protectors of their sacred homeland." The last two years have seen the mushrooming of model villages near the Indian border; they are known as "Xiaogang" or "moderately well-off villages." The pretext for building more than 100 such border villages is "poverty alleviation." Tibetans need to be pulled out of poverty (incidentally, is it not strange that 70 years after the arrival of the communists on the plateau and the so-called liberation of Tibet, the populations still lives in such pitiable conditions?).

But "poverty" is not the only motivation. Xi once famously declared: "Govern the nation by governing the borders; govern the borders by first stabilising Tibet; ensure social harmony and stability in Tibet and strengthen the development of border regions." These villages are following the "double-support model city", which translates into full military and civilian integration.

The authorities have started implementing the theory of their boss by providing decent housing to the villagers and enticing the local recalcitrant Tibetan population to their side. Local satraps have a new leitmotif, the inhabitants of China's borders (with India) should be "the protectors of the sacred homeland and the builders of happy homes." The construction of "model" villages on the Tibetan side of the Indian border, mainly north of Arunachal Pradesh and also in Himachal and Ladakh, is the outcome of this. Several senior communist leaders have visited these new villages, either north of Kibithu in the Lohit valley; in Metok, north of Upper Siang district; in Yume (also written Yumai), north of Takshing in Upper Subansiri, or in Lepo, Marmang and Tsona, north of Khenzimane and Tawang.

Take Metok County, for example. China Tibet News reported that there are 46 administrative villages (including one multi-ethnic inhabitation area consisting of Monpa, Lhopa, Tibetan or Han) with a total population of 13,725. "In 2018, the county's GDP has reached 606 million yuan ($99 million); farmers and herders' per capita disposable income and cash income have reached 10,380 yuan ($1,687) and 8,833 yuan ($1,486) respectively."

In October, 133 villagers belonging to 29 households moved into their new houses. Reports said how "all the township's residents are living in free houses provided by the Government," in Puma Changthang township, north of the Bhutan border. "Sharing a 25-km border with Bhutan, where the average altitude tops 5,300 metres above sea level, the Puma Changthang township is in Nagartse county; it is renowned as the world's highest township."

The report explained: "Resettlement in new housing provided by the Government is part of its efforts to ensure the entire population lives comfortably in border areas... Project construction includes villagers' houses, party's committee offices, village clinics, water supply and roads" and, of course, these "multi-ethnic" villages will welcome Han Chinese.

Take another example. It was reported that Tibetans in Bayi village of Nyingchi City, north of Arunachal Pradesh, have come together and jointly "built a beautiful hometown as well as a better life." Incidentally, places called Bayi (or 8-1 for August 1, the PLA anniversary) are usually under the Army's management.

The article said that by the end of 2016, 16 impoverished villagers were lifted out of poverty through pairing assistance (ie, with the support of a mainland province), through participation in the collective economy and self-employment: "Bayi Village improved farmers and herders' cultural living standards, supported the construction of a "cultural" square, a village library and also organised various cultural and sports activities such as Tibetan circle dance, tug of war, lifting stones or archery."

But at the same time, a review committee in Tsona county warned: "All townships and villages must come together to improve the village rules and regulations [of the party], standardise the daily behaviour of the villagers and strengthen the rural revitalisation strategy goals."

"Standardise the daily behaviour" is ominous. On the Indian side, everything moves slowly as usual. A welcome exception is the Sisseri River bridge in the Lower Dibang Valley of Arunachal Pradesh, recently inaugurated by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh. It will cut down travel time from Pasighat to Roing by about five hours. But the Government remains hesitant to see tourists in "restricted" areas. China does not have this problem.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Welcoming change

Sir — This refers to the article, "What lies ahead for Sri Lankan Tamils?" (November 20) by Kalyani Shankar. It is an intriguing story as to how the newly-elected Sri Lankan President Gotabaya Rajapaksa, former Defence Minister and brother of former President of Sri Lanka Mahinda Rajapaksa, led a brutal crackdown on Tamil Tiger separatists, the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) and cornered it during the Eelam War IV. This culminated in the elimination of LTTE leader, Velupillai Prabhakaran.

This is why Gotabaya came to be known as the "terminator" despite the fact that he carried the infamy of alleged staged killings of Tamil separatists as well as journalists in the civil war during his regime as the Defence Minister. The Lankan President's administrative strategy fructified at the end of the day and ended Sri Lanka's nearly 30-year civil war with the LTTE. His present election as the President is again a manifestation of his political sagacity.

Make JNU a success model

This refers to the editorial, "Student uprising" (November 20). It is a truth that in today's polarised times, we have to pay through the nose for subsidising comforts and facilities enjoyed by our politicians. Even poor people have to share this burden in the form of indirect taxes that constitute a major part of our tax regime. But in return, can't we expect subsidy in education for our own children? It was unfortunate that the Delhi Police used brutal force against a number of students from the Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU), who participated in the protest march to Parliament, demanding a total rollback of the hostel fee hike. Students are of the view that two in five boarders cannot afford the hiked fees and as a result, this would hamper the aspirations of the young. This will further make education a commodity only for the rich and higher middle class people.

JNU's fee structure was designed in a way to provide low-cost, high quality education to all — cutting across caste, class and economic divisions — and, thus, make the country's education system a model of plurality. While it must be accepted that a reasonable fee hike is needed, it must also be ensured that the once highly-reputed university is not divested of its original purpose. A country cannot prosper if the right of a large section of its population to education gets hijacked. Education is indeed the only way to break the vicious cycle of poverty. Now that a committee has been formed by the Centre to look into the impasse over fee hike, a noble way should be found to address the concerns of those students who are financially not able to pay their fees.

Television day

Sir — Though digital platforms have increased their presence in today's times, television is still the most important and the greatest tool for entertainment. It was in December 1996 that the United Nations General Assembly proclaimed November 21 as World Television Day. This day recognises the role and importance of television in our day-to-day lives. It has been at the core of the information revolution, driving reliable visuals, news and entertainment from across the globe at people's doorstep.

Come to the rescue

Sir — It is unfortunate that a number of telecom giants have been registering eye-popping losses in the last quarter. This, coupled with intense competition and bitter disputes over policy compliance, has compelled them to raise tariffs. With no clarity over how they will pay their accumulated dues, the Government, which is examining this issue, must waive off penalties and interest against telcos.

No bad soldiers, only bad bosses

If thousands of policemen take to the streets to express their displeasure, it simply amounts to complete failure of command

ABHIJIT BHATTACHARYYA

Today, I am on cause of action, or lack of it, if any, pertaining to national interest. Not on prescribed judicial process or procedure, except to recall the universally accepted dictum: Justice is blind. Blind, because it cannot see and must never try to see colour, creed, caste, class, community, character, or distinguish/discriminate between either an erring cop or a roving counsel. Law punishes, after following due process thereof, the culprit. I am concerned over the nasty clash of November 2019 between policemen and counsels on the streets of Delhi, Capital of India's 1.3 billion people.

To start with, I don't belong to the Indian Police Service. Yet, I have had the rare privilege as junior "subaltern", to work directly with two legends of the Indian police, K Sankaran Nair in IX Asian Games 1982 and with RN Kao, for short stint, thereafter. Both of them were amazing and extraordinary professionals of superior, rare quality. Both were workaholics, who knew how to command and also demand in a stentorian manner, mission success. Both told a junior non-IPS officer like me at first sight: "There are no bad soldiers; there are only bad commanders." Their crisp advice: "Carry out the assigned task. I am with you always. In success or failure, don't worry." It was an unprecedented reassurance from two superiors in a span of two years. In retrospect, I see the success of my two commanders owing to their inherent ability to command, control, communicate with conviction, objectivity and fairness, and, yet with guts, to demand the impossible to turn defeat into victory; à la Field Marshal Sam Manekshaw, General JN Chaudhuri and Lieutenant-General Zorawar Chand Bakshi. Not everyone, therefore, can command simply by wearing a commander's uniform. That's a harsh reality. Hence, recalling my 38-year-old experience, I froze seeing at least 7,000 police personnel taking to the streets, to express their grievances, defying their top brass, on live TV.

If thousands of subordinates of uniformed service take to the streets to express their displeasure and fury, it simply amounts to complete failure of command and the posting and deployment of the entire top brass of the force need a close re-look. It's time to transfer, re-train and reform. It reflects a complete disconnect between command and the corps. It's an abominable state of affairs for an aspiring superpower status-seeking State.

That the police rank and file is treated like doormats by all political hues is a reality too stark not to be noticed. One instance will suffice. On December 3, 2004, I was driving back to my office after attending the All India Revenue Sports Meet Zonal inauguration by Viren Shah, Governor West Bengal. At a traffic signal, there was a commotion owing to a brazen red light violation in the busy Dalhousie Square of Kolkata, adjacent to Writer's Building, the seat of the State Government. The traffic sergeant on duty showed exemplary promptness to flag down the errant cab driver and impose a fine. But the dutiful cop was pounced upon by the law-violating driver and five more cabbies. I just couldn't take the sight of the cop's bloodied face. I, as Commissioner Customs, went back and promptly wrote a demi-official letter to Kolkata Police Commissioner suggesting that the officer assaulted should be recognised at once and law violators be booked. A fortnight later in my office came three unknown visitors and one of them virtually fell at my feet to say thanks and broke down. I was dazed. It transpired that my letter to the Police Commissioner not only lifted the traffic sergeant's instant suspension "for gross dereliction of duty and rioting" but also brought him a reward and recognition. I felt happy that my letter gave justice to an honest professional in uniform.

I can go on. My four-decade-long diary has some real-life stories for the future. Nevertheless, the narrative would remain incomplete without one of the most macabre cases of murder of a 1971-batch West Bengal-cadre IPS officer Vinod Mehta that was masterminded, instigated, executed by the political class of this country. It was Sunday, March 18, 1984, a Holi holiday. Deputy Commissioner Port, Mehta was "on-call", along with two more Deputy Commissioners, with armed forces, in the vicinity to thwart anticipated trouble. Despite advance inputs, preparation and deployment, Mehta was lynched by a fanatic mob and none of his IPS colleagues came to his rescue. The Communist Chief Minister of West Bengal and his cohorts were busy scheming and manoeuvring the next move. Nothing happened in that murder case. No politician lost his chair. No criminal was punished. Only the words of my two legendary police bosses of yesteryears ricocheted and haunted me: "There are no bad soldiers; there are only bad commanders." The political bosses are commanders of India. They haunt me even today. Every day.

Not a RECiPe for disaster

India's perennial inward focus emerges across trade discussions. This is counter-intuitive, since the country has benefitted greatly from globalisation and liberalised market access

MOHIT KALAWATIA RAGHAV PRIYADARSHI

At the recently-concluded Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) Summit, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced that despite seven years of negotiations, his Government had decided not to join this plurilateral regional trade bloc that was launched by the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) leaders and six other countries during the 21st ASEAN Summit in Phnom Penh in November 2012.

The objective of launching RCEP negotiations was to achieve a modern, comprehensive, high-quality and mutually beneficial economic partnership agreement among the ASEAN member States and its Free Trade Agreement (FTA) partners.

Announcing the country's decision to stay out, Modi said, "India stands for greater regional integration, as well as for freer trade and adherence to a rule-based international order. India has been pro-actively, constructively and meaningfully engaged in the RCEP negotiations since inception. India has worked for the cherished objective of striking a balance, in the spirit of give and take. Today, when we look around we see during seven years of RCEP negotiations, many things, including the global economic and trade scenarios, have changed. We cannot overlook these changes."

Modi's decision came in the backdrop of intense domestic pressure from various stakeholders, including political parties, State Governments and various industry lobbies. Indian decision-makers were persuaded to shun the free trade partnership due to shrill concerns that India would become a dumping ground for Chinese products, adversely impacting Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) and also cripple its dairy industry due to the presence of majors such as Australia and New Zealand in this trade grouping.

Interestingly, India's decision to withdraw from the RCEP came despite the Ministry of Commerce's High-Level Advisory Group (HLAG) recommending that the country adopt an optimistic outlook towards RCEP. The HLAG, constituted under the chairmanship of Surjit Bhalla — Executive Director for India at the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and former member of the Prime Minister's Economic Advisory Council — comprised other high-ranking members such as Foreign Minister Subrahmanyam Jaishankar and former Commerce Secretary Rajeev Kher. The HLAG was tasked with recommending steps to boost the country's share in global merchandise and services trade, and formally came out with its recommendations only days before the Prime Minister announced India's withdrawal from RCEP. Since then, the Commerce Minister has clarified that India may still join the partnership if its concerns are addressed, though such an eventuality seems unlikely in the near future.

To an extent, India's decision to withdraw was also influenced by the perceived negative outcomes of earlier trade pacts it had entered into with Japan, Korea and the ASEAN. A central theme which emerges across trade discussions, of which India is a part, is the country's perennial inward focus. This stance is counter-intuitive since India has benefitted greatly from globalisation and liberalised market access, evidenced not only in its services exports but also through import of primary and intermediate goods for domestic value-addition and re-export.

Further, the impending stalemate at the World Trade Organisation (WTO), precipitated by the US's efforts to render the WTO appellate body comatose, necessitates an exploration of other routes for trade enhancement. Bilateral and plurilateral trade arrangements such as the RCEP have thus emerged as a preferred alternative. Since the beginning of the Doha Round of trade negotiations at the WTO in 2001, the number of such arrangements in force globally has grown more than three-fold. During the same period, India inked trade agreements with the ASEAN, Japan, South Korea and Singapore. However, since 2011, India has not signed any further bilateral or plurilateral trade agreements, primarily due to a growing perception that opening up of trade borders has not served the country well.

Contrary to this perception, such agreements have contributed immensely towards trade creation. For instance, India currently has a trade surplus of $2.5 billion with Singapore. Similarly, India's trade deficit with ASEAN vis-à-vis its total trade deficit witnessed a continuous decrease from 9.9 per cent in 2007 to 6.6 per cent in 2017; despite the fact that ASEAN's share in India's total trade has remained more or less constant. Meanwhile, India's deficit with China, a non-FTA partner country, increased from 18 per cent of the total trade deficit in 2007, to 40 per cent in 2017. Even within the aegis of the WTO, the concept of flexible multilateralism has found several supporters. Flexible multilateralism allows WTO members to advance and conclude plurilateral agreements where full consensus is not yet possible. Examples of such plurilateral arrangements include the Information Technology Agreements (ITA-I and II) — while India is a signatory to ITA-I, it has refrained from adopting the second iteration. More recently, taking forward the approach of flexible multilateralism, 76 countries decided to initiate discussions on trade related aspects of electronic commerce. India has so far not joined the discussion, citing the erosion of policy space and the digital gap between member countries among other reasons, for not doing so.

Looking ahead, if India wants to achieve its target of becoming a $5 trillion economy by 2024, then considerable efforts and resources are required to push its exports. More importantly, the country will have to review its frozen approach towards bilateral and plurilateral arrangements. Indeed, along with other like-minded countries, the country should continue to ensure that the relevance of a multilateral trading system is maintained. However, it is also important that in light of changing global trade dynamics characterised by forward and backward linkages, it cannot afford to ignore preferential agreements, or even limited trade deals like the one it is currently exploring with the US.

Given India's political-economy compulsions, it is understandable that the country remains wary of entering into far-reaching trade agreements proposed by advanced jurisdictions. But India must nevertheless adopt an alternative strategy to advance its self-interest. It is better to sit in the negotiating room and disagree than to leave the room altogether.

Going forward, the Indian leadership must resist the temptation of abstaining from decisions due to perceived costs in the short-run. To begin with, there is an urgent need to fix internal decision-making mechanisms. A more concerted and coordinated effort across Government departments in evaluating trade partnerships should be the way forward, instead of convening inter-ministerial discussions as a reactionary measure. Government departments should engage with the industry on a more frequent basis on issues of market access and to determine sub-sectoral competitiveness.

Further, the country's relative strengths and domestic industry participation in specific value chains should inform prioritisation of trade partner negotiations. At present, the Commerce Ministry reaches out to the industry for inputs only after the country has initiated trade discussions — this mechanism largely remains ineffective as it fails to solicit detailed and usable submissions within predefined timelines.

To ensure that there is coherence in the decision-making process, the Government should explore the establishment of a nodal body, on the lines of the erstwhile Trade and Economic Relations Committee (TERC) of the Cabinet. Such a body can enable consultative decision-making, efficient inter-ministerial coordination and better definition of the country's trade priorities and strategies.

The creeping death that we must fight

All sources of NOx and NO<sub>2</sub>, be it transport, industries and power generation, should be tackled keeping in view the health emergency that the country faces today

KOTA SRIRAJ

At a time when air pollution levels are becoming a constant threat in India and across the world, we need to deal with two most damaging gases, nitrogen oxides (NOx) and nitrogen dioxides (NO<sub>2</sub>). NOx and NO<sub>2</sub> are produced from the reaction of nitrogen and oxygen gases in the air during combustion, especially at high temperatures. Hence, in areas with high vehicular traffic, especially large cities, the amount of NOx and NO<sub>2</sub> emitted into the atmosphere as air pollution can be significant.

NOx and NO<sub>2</sub> gases react to form smog and acid rain as well as being central to the formation of fine particles (PM) and ground level ozone, both of which are associated with adverse health effects. Exposure to PM pollution and deadly ozone, even for a short duration, can worsen respiratory conditions and asthma and lead to emergency hospital admission, especially for those with pre-existing heart or lung disease and in the elderly and children.

India, too, is in the crosshairs of spiralling NOx and NO<sub>2</sub> levels. The Air Pollution Global Cities Ranking Report released by Greenpeace found that 15 of the 20 most polluted cities in the world are located in India, highlighting the country's air pollution crisis.

The organisation analysed the satellite data generated using the methodology of Tropospheric Monitoring Instrument (TROPOMI), which monitors vertically integrated amount of several atmospheric trace gases, including NOx and NO<sub>2</sub>. Based on the analysis of this satellite data, Greenpeace India put the culpability of rising NOx and NO<sub>2</sub> levels on transport and industrial clusters which are creating India's worst nitrogen dioxide hotspots such as Delhi, Bengaluru, Mumbai, Kolkata, Chennai and Hyderabad, given the fact that these cities have high vehicular population and petrol/diesel consumption. According to the satellite data collected between February 2018 and May 2019, coal consumption and industrial clusters like Sonbhadra-Singrauli in Madhya Pradesh, Korba (NCAP) that was recently released by the Ministry of Environment Forest and Climate Change (MoEFCC).

The report states that even if we are optimistic and assume that air pollution across India can be reduced by 30 per cent by 2024, 153 cities will be left with pollution levels exceeding the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) and only 12 cities will comply with World Health Organisation (WHO) guidelines.

To highlight the severity of the crisis, even after a 30 per cent reduction, PM10 levels in Delhi will still be about 168 µg/m<sup>3</sup>, almost three times the national standard of 60 µg/m<sup>3</sup>.

India is already paying a price for the current nitrogen dioxide levels with increasing cases of asthma, lung damage, heart attacks and lung cancer. NO<sub>2</sub> also contributes to the formation of PM2.5, a dangerous air pollutant.

It is estimated that air pollution, ambient PM2.5, household and ozone air pollution collectively caused 3.4 million deaths worldwide in 2017 and over 1.2 million in India. PM2.5 alone resulted in more than 6.7 lakh deaths in India in 2017.

The proliferation of NO<sub>2</sub> levels and the consequent increase in PM2.5 levels require urgent intervention and action from the Government. All sources of NO<sub>2</sub>, be it transport, industries and power generation, should be tackled keeping in view the health emergency India faces today.

Additionally, the emission standard deadlines for coal-based power plants and industries must be strictly adhered to, even as the industrial and electricity sectors' transition to cleaner alternatives for power generation must be speeded up.

In fact, according to a 2015 report by IIT-Kanpur, a 90 per cent reduction in NO<sub>2</sub> from power plants in a radius of 300 km from Delhi can reduce nitrates by 45 per cent, which will effectively reduce PM10 and PM2.5 concentrations in Delhi and help us breathe better.

Sebi needs to be more muscular: Tyagi

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Sebi Chairman Ajay Tyagi on Wednesday said the regulator has always adopted a prudent and discussion-based approach on all issues but it "perhaps needs to be more muscular" to build trust among whistleblowers to reach out to it.

The remarks come in the wake of a whistleblower approaching US watchdog SEC with a complaint against IT major Infosys instead of Sebi. Infosys is also listed in the US.

"Our approach has to be prudent, to have discussions with the market participants on each issue. I don't want to boast, but we will go through with consultative process on intermediaries, on market participants and we will follow the process as to what needs to be done," he said.

Speaking to reporters after Sebi's board meeting here, Tyagi also said that last year, there

Sebi is looking into the whistleblower complaint of alleged lapses at Infosys. According to Tyagi, the regulator has taken a lot of steps to expedite cases have been events where any regulator would have looked into issues very seriously and lapses that needed to be corrected. "We don't have to be muscular...Or anything," he remarked to a query about perception that Sebi is muscular.

To a question about a recent instance of a whistleblower approaching the regulator of another country with a complaint, Tyagi said there is no answer but that might be contradicting the view that Sebi is very muscular.

"Why would anyone approach other regulator? I have no answer to that, but perhaps that is contradicting your view that Sebi is very muscular. Perhaps, Sebi needs to be more muscular to have the trust built in those people that they should in fact make a reference to Sebi," he noted.

Sebi is looking into the whistleblower complaint of alleged lapses at Infosys.

According to Tyagi, the regulator has taken a lot of steps to expedite cases.

"We have four members, 12 sanctioned posts of CGMs (Chief General Managers) as adjudicating officers and we take this quasi judicial work really seriously. There have been delays in the past, but if you see the disposals in the last one-and-half to two years, that has definitely improved from earlier years," he said.

Sebi tightens disclosure norms on loan default for listed firms

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Tightening its disclosure norms for listed companies, markets regulator Sebi on Wednesday asked them to report full facts of any loan default within 24 hours for any failure of repayment of principle and interest amount beyond 30 days.

The move will ensure better disclosure and transparency, Sebi chief Ajay Tyagi told reporters after the board meeting.

"The board has decided that in case of any default in repayment of principle and interest on loans from banks or financial institutions which continues beyond 30 days from the pre-agreed payment date, listed entities shall promptly, but not later than 24 hours from the 30th day, disclose the fact of such default," Sebi said.

The decision has been taken to address the gaps in the availability of information with respect to defaults, the regulator said.

This would be applicable from January 1, 2020.

There have been several instances of huge loan defaults by corporates, including in cases like Infrastructure Leasing & Financial Services Ltd (IL&FS). In many cases, the disclosure about loan default has been very late and share prices have fallen sharply.

"The objective of new default disclosure is to get more openness to help investors," Tyagi said.

Asked whether RBI agreed to the new norms, Tyagi said that a deputy governor of the central bank is on the board of Sebi and therefore they are also in agreement.

"One day default disclosure was not agreed to by the board. This scheme of 30 days is implementable," he said referring to an earlier proposal of making a loan default disclosure within a day of default.

Tyagi also said that the board had discussions on proxy advisory firms as well and will discuss more in the next meet.

WhatsApp expresses 'regret' over Pegasus snooping row

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

WhatsApp has written to the Government expressing "regret" over the Pegasus snooping row, and has assured that it is taking all security measures to address concerns, top government sources said.

The sources, who requested not to be named, said the government has asked WhatsApp to reinforce its security wall, and that no more breaches at the messaging platform will be tolerated.

Last month, the Facebook-owned company had showed that Indian journalists and human rights activists were among those globally spied upon by unnamed entities using Pegasus spyware.

According to WhatsApp, the spyware was developed by Israel-based NSO Group and had been used to snoop on about 1,400 users globally, including 121 users from India.

Following the government's notice seeking more information on the attacks, WhatsApp had responded saying it had alerted the Indian Computer Emergency Response Team (CERT-In) in September that 121 Indian users had been targeted by Pegasus.

A WhatsApp spokesperson, in an e-mailed statement, said the company is deeply committed to protecting the privacy of its users in India "by providing industry-leading security for all messages and calls and by staying ahead of advanced threats to user security".

According to WhatsApp, the spyware was developed by Israel-based NSO Group and had been used to snoop on about 1,400 users globally, including 121 users from India

WhatsApp has over 400 million users in India.

"The government also plays a critical role here and we are committed to continuing to engage them in a timely manner on sensitive issues related to user privacy and security. We regret that we have not met the government's expectations for proactive engagement on these issues and will strive to do better," the spokesperson said.

The spokesperson also noted that the company will work with the government to "address their appropriate concerns".

In response to a question in the Lok Sabha on Wednesday, IT Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad said Cybersecurity agency CERT-In has issued a notice to WhatsApp seeking details on targeting of mobile phones of Indian citizens by Israeli spyware Pegasus.

WhatsApp vulnerability: CERT-In issues advisory

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Indian cyber security agency has warned WhatsApp users against a "vulnerability" that can compromise their individual account without seeking permissions even as the popular social messaging app said users have not been impacted.

The Computer Emergency Response Team-India (CERT-In) has issued an advisory in this context calling the severity of the threat, being spread by an MP4 file, as "high".

The advisory comes in the backdrop of recent developments where WhatsApp had informed the Indian government in September that over hundred Indian users were targeted by the Israeli spyware -- Pegasus.

"A vulnerability has been reported in WhatsApp which could be exploited by a remote attacker to execute arbitrary code on the target system," the latest advisory said.

The CERT-In is the nodal agency to combat hacking, phishing and to fortify security-related defences of the Indian internet domain.

A WhatsApp spokesperson said the company is constantly working to improve the security of their service.

"We make public reports on potential issues we have fixed consistent with industry best practices. In this instance there is no reason to believe users were impacted," the spokesperson said.

The Indian cyber security agency's advisory suggested "upgrading" to the latest version of WhatsApp to combat or tide over the problem.

Telcos have to pay ₹1.47L cr in past dues, says Prasad

No proposal to waive off interest, penalty, says Min

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Bharti Airtel, Vodafone Idea and other telecom companies owe the government as much as ₹1.47 lakh crore in past statutory dues, Telecom Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad told Parliament on Wednesday adding that there is no proposal at present to waive interest and penalties on such dues.

In replies to separate questions in the Lok Sabha, Prasad said telecom companies owe the government ₹92,642 crore in unpaid licence fee, and another ₹55,054 crore in outstanding spectrum usage charges.

These liabilities arose after the Supreme Court last month held that non-telecom revenues have to be considered for calculating statutory dues.

To a question on penalty imposed on telecom companies, Prasad said the outstanding SUC (spectrum usage charges) dues of various telecom service providers as on October 31, 2019, added to ₹55,054 crore.

"This amount is subject to be revised once the AGR (adjusted gross revenue) figures are finalised and assessments are done accordingly," the minister said.

The government has directed the licensees to make the payments in accordance with the order of the Supreme Court dated October 24, 2019, and submit requisite documents within the stipulated timeframe.

In another written reply, the minister said the provisional outstanding of the telecom service providers on account of licence fee stood at a cumulative ₹92,642 crore as on July 2019, and added that the amounts are provisional and subject to revision in light of the Supreme Court ruling on AGR matter on October 24, 2019. A Committee of Secretaries chaired by Cabinet Secretary Rajiv Gauba has held meetings regarding the issues related to telecom sector, the minister said.

'India offers huge biz opportunities for Central, Eastern European cos'

NEW DELHI (PTI): India, with its 1.3 billion population, offers huge business opportunities for the companies of Central and Eastern European countries, Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said on Wednesday. He further said both India and Europe also offer an opportunity to help kick-start economic growth in the world.

"We have lots of opportunities together and I hope we can look for a greater engagement. We have both comparative and competitive advantages," Goyal said here while addressing the India-Europe 29 Business Forum, organised by industry body CII.

Seeking investments, the minister said India provides several incentives including low tax rates for investors. "We offer incentives, we have cut down tax rates. We have 1.3 billion people market who are aspiring for a better quality of life," Goyal said.

Indian and Central and Eastern European companies can enhance cooperation in areas like artificial intelligence, renewable energy and new age manufacturing.

Speaking at the function, Deputy Prime Minister for Economic and Demography Policy, Bulgaria, Mariyana Nikolova too sought investments from India.

Moody's assigns Baa1 rating to ONGC's proposed senior unsecured notes

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Moody's Investors Service on Wednesday said it has assigned a 'Baa1' rating to the proposed senior unsecured notes to be issued by Oil and Natural Gas Corp under its USD 2 billion medium-term note programme.

The outlook on the rating is negative, Moody's said in a statement.

"The notes' rating is in line with ONGC's Baa1 issuer rating, which is in turn primarily driven by its standalone credit profile as captured by the company's Baa1 Baseline Credit Assessment (BCA)," says Vikas Halan, a Moody's senior vice president.

The rating reflects ONGC's position as the largest integrated oil and gas company in India with significant reserves, production and crude distillation capacity as also its substantial operating cash flow generation capacity. It also factors the firm's solid credit metrics that have improved but remain constrained by volatile — although range-bound — oil prices and high shareholder returns.

At the same time, Moody's expected that ONGC will not be asked to share fuel subsidies, as long as oil prices stay below USD 70 per barrel. "ONGC's issuer rating also incorporates the company's high likelihood of extraordinary support from and very high dependence on the Government of India, in times of need. However, this assumption of government support has not resulted in any rating uplift, as the sovereign's rating is below ONGC's BCA," it said.

Given ONGC's strong credit metrics and status as a government-owned company, it enjoys strong access to debt capital markets and has substantial financial flexibility through equity stakes in Indian Oil Corp and GAIL India, which together were valued at about ₹21,000 crore as on November 14, 2019.

Moody's ratings for ONGC are based on the full consolidation of Hindustan Petroleum Corp Ltd (HPCL) which includes the full consolidation of HPCL's 49 per cent-owned joint venture, HPCL-Mittal Energy.

The government owns 62.98 per cent of ONGC's equity and has the ability to appoint all of its board of directors.

"The negative outlook on ONGC is in line with the negative outlook on the Government of India's rating and reflects Moody's view that ONGC's ratings will be downgraded if India's sovereign rating is downgraded to Baa3 from Baa2," Moody's said.

Swiggy to expand cloud kitchens to 12 new cities by March 2020

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Food ordering platform Swiggy on Wednesday said it has set up over 1,000 cloud kitchens for its restaurant partners and plans to have more such facilities in 12 new cities by March next year.

In a span of just two years, the company has invested in over a million square feet of real estate space across 14 cities to help large, medium and small restaurant partners expand to more locations both within their city and across new cities through cloud kitchens, Swiggy said in a statement.

"Swiggy has always maintained that cloud kitchens will be the future of food delivery. Very soon, India will have the second-highest number of cloud kitchens in the world, only next to China," Swiggy New Supply CEO Vishal Bhatia said.

The milestone of Swiggy successfully creating over 1,000 partner kitchens shows the faith the restaurant partners have in the concept and bolsters company's pioneering efforts in enabling more success stories in the restaurant ecosystem, he added.

In a cloud kitchen concept, operators prepare, package and deliver food without providing any dine-in facility to end-consumers.

SEIZED VESSELS RELEASED BY YEMEN REBELS: S KOREA

Cairo: Iran-backed rebels fighting in Yemen released three foreign vessels on Wednesday that they seized south of the Red Sea, freeing 16 crew members, South Korea's Foreign Ministry said. The vessels — two belonging to South Korea and one to Saudi Arabia — had been captured by Houthi rebels on their way to the Saudi port of Jizan. Two South Korean nationals were among those set free, the ministry said. The Houthis said they had detained the vessels for entering Yemeni waters earlier this week and routed them to the Red Sea.

SL Prez names brother Mahinda as PM

PTI ■ COLOMBO

Sri Lankan President Gotabaya Rajapaksa on Wednesday named his elder brother and former strongman Mahinda Rajapaksa as the new prime minister after incumbent Ranil Wickremesinghe announced his resignation from the post following the election debacle.

Mahinda, the current main opposition leader, will assume duties soon after incumbent Wickremesinghe steps down formally on Thursday, AFP reported.

Mahinda was appointed the Prime Minister on October 26, 2018 by the then President Maithripala Sirisena, who sacked Wickremesinghe in a controversial move that plunged the country into an unprecedented constitutional crisis. He resigned in December as two crucial Supreme Court decisions made the former strongman's efforts to cling to premiership untenable. The apex court later unanimously declared that the dissolution of Parliament by Sirisena was "illegal". Mahinda won power in 2005 and went on to become South Asia's longest-serving leader. He became the country's youngest ever parliamentarian in 1970 at the age of 24. The two brothers led a decisive campaign that helped end the island nation's three decade long civil war against the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE). Earlier in the day, Prime Minister Wickremesinghe announced his resignation, days after the ruling party's candidate lost the presidential election to Rajapaksa.

Rajapaksa defeated Wickremesinghe's deputy Sajith Premadasa.

In a special statement in Sinhala language, the Prime Minister said that he had met President Rajapaksa on Tuesday and discussed the future of Sri Lanka's Parliament, Colombo Gazette newspaper reported.

He said that while his Government still has the majority in Parliament it was decided to respect the mandate given to Rajapaksa at the Presidential election and step down.

"I will step down to allow the new president to establish a new government. I will officially inform him of my decision tomorrow," Wickremesinghe said.

He has been the leader of the United National Party (UNP) since 1994 and served as Sri Lanka's prime minister for a total of three terms.

He was under pressure to quit and handover the government to the opposite camp after Rajapaksa won the presidential election on Saturday.

The UNP leader faced a revolt since Premadasa's defeat, a regular occurrence during the last 25 years whenever the UNP lost a major election.

Harin Fernando, a minister from the party's younger brigade, told reporters that they want Wickremesinghe to quit the party leadership and name Premadasa his successor for both the party leadership and the post of the main opposition leader.

"We will form our own party if he did not make the necessary changes this time," Fernando told reporters.

There will be a caretaker cabinet of 15 members to run the government until Rajapaksa will be constitutionally able to dissolve parliament after February 2020.

US Senate in unanimous support for HK protesters

AFP ■ WASHINGTON

The US Senate unanimously adopted legislation on Tuesday supporting "human rights and democracy" in Hong Kong and threatening to revoke its special status granted by Washington, signalling anger with Beijing about a crackdown on protests in the Chinese territory.

The lawmakers also approved a measure that would ban the sale of tear gas, rubber bullets and other equipment that has been used by security forces to suppress the protests that have rocked Hong Kong for months.

China had expressed its "strong indignation" last month when the US House of Representatives passed a similar measure.

The chambers will now seek to reconcile the two bills into a single measure to pass Congress and go to President Donald Trump's desk for his signature.

"Today, the United States Senate sent a clear message to Hong Kongers fighting for their long-cherished freedoms: we hear you, we continue to stand with you, and we will not stand idly by as Beijing undermines your autonomy," Republican Senator Marco Rubio said on the Senate floor.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee's top

Democrat, Robert Menendez, added that the legislation "makes it clear that the US will stand firmly and unambiguously with the legitimate aspirations of the people of Hong Kong."

Beijing warns US diplomat of 'strong measures' over HK rights Bill

Beijing: China's foreign ministry on Wednesday summoned a top US diplomat over the Senate's passing of a Hong Kong rights Bill, warning of "strong" countermeasures against the United States should the legislation be signed into law.

Vice foreign minister Ma Zhaoxun called in acting charge d'affaires William Klein to lodge a "strong protest", the ministry said in a statement.

"We strongly urge the US side to immediately take effective measures to prevent this bill from becoming law" and stop meddling in China's internal affairs, the statement said.

"Otherwise, the Chinese side will take strong measures to resolutely counter it, and the US side must bear all the consequences," it said. AFP

Sedition case filed against Sindh University students

Karachi: The Jamshoro police lodged a sedition case against some students of Sindh University, Jamshoro for allegedly chanting anti-Pakistan slogans and for being involved in wall chalking against the State, Pakistan media reported on Wednesday.

Two days ago there were reports that similar charges were laid against several other leaders, including the chairman of Sindh nationalist organisation Jeay Sindh Koumi Mahaj (Bashir Group), who have been booked for rebelling against the country and chanting anti-Pakistan slogans.

The case, registered against at least 17 students of the university, was lodged under Section 120-A (definition of criminal conspiracy), 120-B (punishment for criminal conspiracy), 123-A (condemnation of the creation of the state, and advocacy of abolition of its sovereignty), 124 (assaulting president, governor, etc. with intention to compel or restrain the exercise of any lawful power) and 153 (wantonily giving provocation with intent to cause riot) of the Pakistan Penal Code on the complaint of Inspector Ghulam Qadir Panhwar, the security head of the campus, The Dawn reported.

In his complaint, Panhwar said that on October 31 the hostel in-charge informed him that around 17 to 18 students of the Jeay Sindh group had raised slogans against Pakistan and the government of the country and had been involved in wall chalking outside the boys' hostel's main gate. IANS

Impeachment sham debunked, says WH after public hearing

Washington: US President Donald Trump has claimed victory as the Democratic Party-controlled House of Representatives concluded its third public hearing on the impeachment proceedings against him for allegedly abusing his office for political gain in the run up to the 2020 presidential election.

The impeachment hearings are an effort by Democrats to establish whether Trump withheld US military aid to Ukraine to pressure the country's President Volodymyr Zelensky into announcing a corruption inquiry into Joe Biden, Trump's leading Democratic rival in the poll.

The Democrats are alleging that Trump's call with his Ukrainian counterpart was irregular and inappropriate abuse of his office for political gain. "A great day for our Country! In the end we will win and save our Country from certain destruction," Trump tweeted soon after the House Select Committee on Intelligence concluded its third public impeachment hearings on Tuesday.

In the morning, Democratic lawmakers grilled Lt Col Alexander Vindman, a Ukraine specialist on the National Security Council (NSC), and Jennifer Williams, a top national security aide to Vice President Pence on Trump's July 25 phone call with Ukrainian President Zelensky.

Later in the day, Kurt Volker, former special envoy to Kyiv, and Tim Morrison, another top NSC aide, testified before the powerful House Committee.

The White House called the impeachment process a sham.

"Today's second hearing is over, and the Democrats' central allegation in this impeachment sham has again been completely debunked," White House Press Secretary Stephanie Grisham said at the conclusion of the testimonies.

"Specifically, Ambassador Volker confirmed under oath that he had no indication whatsoever of anything that resembled a quid-pro-quo, corroborating his previous deposition testimony that 'there was no linkage like that,' she said.

Grisham urged the American public not to tolerate the pretence of the Democrats. "With the Democrats' polli-tested 'quid-pro-quo' and 'bribery' narratives in shambles, the American public should not be forced to endure this charade for one more second," Grisham said. PTI

Republicans target military witness in Trump impeachment probe

AFP ■ WASHINGTON

A US Army officer and key impeachment witness saw his loyalty called into question by Republicans on Tuesday, as he testified that President Donald Trump made inappropriate demands on his Ukrainian counterpart for dirt on rival Democrats.

Straining to fight back on abuse-of-power allegations against Trump, Republicans in Congress took aim at Lieutenant Colonel Alexander Vindman, a respected member of the White House National Security Council, suggesting the Kiev-born immigrant's allegiance is not to the United States and so his testimony is dubious.

Testifying in the second week of televised impeachment hearings, Vindman steadfastly defended his patriotism, saying he had reported alarming pressure by Trump for Ukraine to investigate potential 2020 rival Joe Biden "out of a sense of duty".

2,887 days: Abe becomes Japan's longest-serving premier

Tokyo: Shinzo Abe entered the history books as Japan's longest-serving premier on Wednesday, but many of his ambitious goals, including a constitutional revision to strengthen the military, appear far from reach.

Wednesday marks Abe's 2,887th day in office, topping the record previously set by Iaro Katsura, a revered politician who served three times between 1901 and 1913. The 65-year-old is also the second-longest-serving leader of the Group of Seven major economies behind only German Chancellor Angela Merkel, who has been in office since 2005.

Abe's grip on power remains firm as he passes the landmark, with his tenure likely to last until at least September 2021 and no clear successor yet on the horizon. But the premier has plenty of unfinished business, saying earlier this year after a cabinet reshuffle that he hoped to "take on the challenge to create a new country".

He has reiterated his long-cherished ambition of revising Japan's post-war constitution to change the status of the country's Self Defense Forces.

Three dead as Bolivian military lifts fuel blockade

La Paz: Three protesters were killed and 30 wounded in clashes on Tuesday with Bolivian security forces lifting an opposition blockade of fuel supplies to La Paz, the public ombudsman's office reported.

Troops and police had moved to lift the siege on a fuel plant in El Alto by supporters of ex-president Evo Morales that has caused acute shortages in nearby La Paz.

A spokesman for the ombudsman's office said two of the dead had been hit by gunfire, including a 31-year-old man.

"We are asking the authorities for an investigation," the spokesman told AFP, adding that 30 people had been wounded, all of them supporters of Morales.

The army said in a statement that "agitators and vandals" had attacked and partially destroyed the Senkata fuel plant in El Alto, "using high-powered explosives."

The deaths bring to 27 the number of people killed since unrest began in the wake of October 20 elections, according to a tally by the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights.

A convoy of around 50 fuel tankers was able to leave the Senkata plant for the first time in more than a week after police and military forces using armoured vehicles secured the route to neighbouring La Paz. AFP

An Army helicopter flies over the road leading to the State-owned Senkata filling gas plant in El Alto, on the outskirts of La Paz, Bolivia, as supporters of former President Evo Morales set up barricades on Tuesday

'Wide-scale' Israeli strikes kill 11 fighters in Syria: Monitor

Jerusalem: The Israeli Army carried out a "wide-scale" attack against Iranian forces and Syrian Army targets in Syria on Wednesday, killing at least 11 fighters, the Israeli Army and a monitoring group said.

In a rare confirmation of their operations in Syria, the Israeli Army said they carried out strikes against the Iranian elite Quds Force and the Syrian military, in response to four rockets fired at Israel a day before. At least eleven "fighters" were killed in the strikes, said Britain-based monitoring group the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights.

Seven were foreigners, its head Rami Abdel Rahman said, though he could not confirm whether they were all Iranian. Four civilians were also wounded, he added.

Iran has fought alongside Syrian President Bashar al-Assad's forces in the country's eight-year civil war, heightening Israeli concern over the presence of its arch foe along its border.

"Whoever hurts us, we will hurt him," Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said in a statement.

"This is what we did overnight vis-a-vis military targets of the Iranian Quds Force and Syrian military targets in Syria after a barrage of rockets was launched at Israel." AFP

25 Migrants found alive in refrigerated truck on Dutch-UK ferry

The Hague: A ferry crew found 25 migrants in a refrigerated container on a boat sailing from the Netherlands to Britain on Tuesday, emergency services said.

The cargo vessel bound for Felixstowe returned to the Dutch port of Vlaardingen, near Rotterdam, as soon as the stowaways were found, they said in a statement.

The people found in the container received medical attention at the port and two were taken to hospital for further treatment for possible hypothermia.

The discovery comes the month after 39 Vietnamese people were found dead in a refrigerated truck in Britain, again laying bare the risks of illegal migrant routes to Europe.

"On board a ship it turned out that several people were found in a cooling container. The ship returned to the harbour," said the Rotterdam region emergency services on Twitter.

"The 25 people were taken off the ship and given the medical care they need. Earlier the message came from the ship that no people died. Two people were transported to hospital for extra medical care.

Twenty-three people were transferred to a police location after a medical check-up," it said. AFP

Jawaani Jaaneman postponed

Jawaani Jaaneman, starring SAIF ALI KHAN and TABU, has been postponed. The film, which was earlier scheduled to release on November 29, will now hit the screens on February 7 next year.

"It's rightly said, age is just a number... Jawaani Jaaneman in cinemas on February 7, 2020," tweeted the film's co-producer Jackky Bhagnani on Wednesday.

In the film, Saif plays a 40 year-old father and Alaia is his teenage daughter, while Tabu portrays an important pivotal character. The romantic comedy is directed by Nitin Kakkar.

'After hearing the narration (of Hum Bhi Akele, Tum Bhi Akele), I realised how significant the story is. Though Section 377 has been decriminalised, society's generation is certainly not okay with the reality that homosexuals are as normal as all of us. It is just another sexual orientation and nothing more. Unless society is supportive, how will the youth live freely?'

It's amazing how a change of scene can make you feel like a newcomer. Loving it all."

Kevin is happy to join work again

Actor-comedian KEVIN HART looked healthy and in good spirits as he took the stage to surprise the audience before the screening of Jumanji: The Next Level here, and said he was glad that he could recover from his horrific car accident earlier this year, and be part of the Jumanji journey.

Hart, who is still recovering from the crash that left him hospitalised in September, surprised all when he walked onto the stage with castmates including Dwayne Johnson, Jack Black, Karen Gillan, Awkwafina and film's director Jake Kasdan.

He said, "I have never been more excited to be a part of something and see something grow."

Recreating the sequel to an iconic film can be tough, especially when its song has become an anthem for empowering people. IDINA MENZEL talks about the power of Let It Go

POWER OF MUSIC

When Idina Menzel first started performing Let It Go live in concerts, she thought the lyrics and soaring vocals would empower all those young girls in the audience dressed up as Elsa.

Instead, Menzel said she often walked away from those performances feeling just as inspired.

"I feel an extreme sense of pride about it," said Menzel, the Tony Award-winning performer who voices Elsa, a fiercely independent queen with the magical ability to manipulate ice and snow. The song especially resonated with her because at the time she was juggling several shows on Broadway and going through a divorce while "trying to put one foot in front of the other."

"But you see a little girl in a blue dress in the second row," she said and continued, "That's when you realise the song and film represents them. It's giving them permission to take ownership of who they are, and everything that makes them unique and different. But it's a reciprocity. It's coming back to me exponentially because I need to hear it too."

Menzel believes Frozen 2 has the capacity to empower young girls, boys and others of all ages in the same way. The new film comes six years after the original broke box office records for an animated film, amassing $1.2 billion in worldwide ticket sales. It was bolstered by Let It Go, which won a Grammy and two Oscars.

Jennifer Lee, co-director and writer of both films, said she didn't anticipate the success of Frozen. Lee said a conversation with a stranger demonstrated the film's impact.

"I met a woman wearing a handmade 'Let It Go' necklace, but she didn't have any idea who I was," Lee said. "She was talking, and I observed. She embraced the movie for herself. She felt the music spoke to her. It seemed to empower her. That's our goal."

Menzel is unsure if the sequel can generate the same astronomical numbers as the original. But she is hopeful the story and music can resonate with viewers and further the themes of the original, including showing that female characters don't necessarily need their male counterpart to rescue them from distress.

"I think it'll move people," she said. "I think the film is powerful. I don't know what the success of the music will be outside the film. But I know how I felt when I heard (the songs). I know how much I loved recording them and getting inside of them. I think people will learn from Elsa who is always overcoming her fear to take the next step and risk."

In Frozen 2, Elsa finally embraces her powers, but she finds herself haunted by an unsettling voice from afar that no one else can hear. She ends up going on a dangerous journey to seek answers with her sister Anna, played by Kristen Bell. Also joining them are Anna's boyfriend Kristoff (Jonathan Groff), his reindeer friend Sven and the bubbly snowman Olaf, voiced by Josh Gad.

Co-director Chris Buck said the sequel has moments of being "fun and humorous," but the story also delves deep into Elsa and Anna's emotions. He said the main characters are trying to find their meaning in life. The film expands on challenges facing Elsa's kingdom of Arendelle, with Sterling K Brown joining the cast as a military officer and Evan Rachel Wood voicing the sisters' mother.

"The first film is more like Act 1 of a musical where you're setting up the characters' wants and who they are," Buck said. "In this one, we can do Act 2. Usually, those songs go deeper and they're more emotional. You find out more. The struggles are harder. We had that sort of template. That helped us shape it."

Several deadlines were "blown past" while creating the story line that had at least 50 versions of rewrites, the directors said.

Bell applauded the creative team for taking their time. "They didn't just try to come up with the follow up for whatever monetary or marketing sake," the actress said. "You can see a follow up from anything and you know in your soul, in your gut whether or not you connect to it. Like 'Oh those are the same characters I loved but didn't connect to them.' They waited to find something that people would connect to."

Lee said the biggest breakthrough came when husband-and-wife songwriting team Kristen Anderson-Lopez and Bobby Lopez delivered the song Into the Unknown.

"That changed everything," Lee said. "It was the most active song. It's a song that says to Elsa 'You've got to act. You've got to have the guts to follow what your life could be.' You see the change in her from the beginning to the end of the song. It started the whole engine for the whole movie."

Anderson-Lopez agrees. She said the music and film should compel women to trust their instincts in times of conflict.

"We're continuing to say that women need to listen to their gut and follow their gut," said Anderson-Lopez, who won two Oscars with her husband for Let It Go and Remember Me from the film Coco.

"You are powerful in your own unique way by speaking truth and rising up from the floor," she continued. "When the worst thing happens to you really does happen, you learn to do the next right thing. You take one step then another step, then another and stumble blindly toward the light. One breath. One step at a time."

Frozen challenge

Frozen 2 co-directors Chris Buck and Jennifer Lee say creating a sequel of the 2013 blockbuster hit Frozen was very tough, as they wanted to explore new places and introduce new characters without losing the essence of the story.

Set in fantastical land of Arendelle, Frozen is a story of two sisters Elsa and Anna who are on a path of finding acceptance and love, while trying to save their kingdom infused with heart-touching music and emotions. Elsa is struggling to accept her magical icy powers and effervescent Anna is trying to find a bond with her sister.

Frozen 2 brings back their story as they continue on the journey of finding their own self, by tracing their past and piecing it together with their present.

"Making the sequel was extremely challenging. We wanted to have our characters go to a different place and go outside of Arendelle. And we knew we wanted to have new characters to expand this world a bit," Buck said.

"The challenge is how to stay true to the characters and let them grow. We have a map going on in our head of all these things," he explained further.

Frozen won an Oscar for Best Animated Feature. It became the highest-grossing animated film before remake of The Lion King took that position in 2019. And with great success comes great responsibility.

"When Frozen came out, it wasn't just our movie but the movie of the world. That was exciting to us and but that comes with a lot of expectations for the sequel. But truthfully, we agreed that we would keep that pressure outside the room and build Frozen 2 the same way we built Frozen, which is really talking about character first and then plot and then having the songwriters get involved and let the songs come from the story," Buck noted.

To this, Lee added: "It was the exact same team who built 'Frozen' and we made a pact that we're going to build it exactly as we did the first one. The challenges were much greater in terms of where do you go from here. But you have the foundation of these characters. The characters were a little bit of us and we all knew them so well."

The second part of the Disney franchise promises to be more intense as it traces the past of Princesses Anna and Elsa, voiced by Kristen Bell and Idina Menzel in Hollywood version, respectively, and piece together their present. Frozen 2 will release in India in English, Hindi, Tamil and Telugu on November 22.

What's the message for children in the second part? "The thing I love about my characters is that they never give up, no matter how many challenges we throw at them. They're incredibly strong. I think that's a really powerful message for everyone, not just young people," Buck said.

Lee feels Frozen doesn't tackle good versus, but looks at fear and love. "The first one looks at that through being different and I think the second one looks at that with change. Change is one of the hardest things in life to cope with. The fear of change can make you not act on the thing that's most important to you. So, that's the rustle of love and fear," she said.

The gender wars

The divide between men and women is more of a recent creation rather than something that has been passed on down the ages, says SAKSHI SHARMA

Are men from Mars and women from Venus? Contemporary literature would have us believe this. But if you travel back in time, Hindu mythology is replete with examples of the sacred feminine, a force that is to be reckoned with while inhabiting a sphere which is exclusive and sacred.

Urdu literature too is peppered with women being celebrated in ways that had nothing to do with their beauty. Kaifi Azmi's Aurat written more than 75 years emphasised, "Uth meri jaan, mere saath hi chalna hai tujhe, qalb-e-mahoul mein larzaan sharar-e-jang hain aaj;" (Arise, my love, for now you must march with me, flames of war are ablaze in our world today). It, of course, has become a part of folklore that the then-unmarried Shaukat decided that she would only be the wife of the poet.

At the InKpot India Conclave's session on Gender Inequality: Men Are From Mars and Women From... Subjugation? author Neelima Adhar, recited Kaifi's lines, raising the question that why is there a need to fight for equality when there are such men who are sensitive towards women, and want them to walk beside them?

Neelima didn't agree to the idea of a conversation on this topic. She said, "I don't subscribe to this title that men are from Mars and women are either from Venus or subjugated. I am not a feminist. I am a happy and proud woman." Neelima argued that there is nothing like being equal or subjugated. "Every gender has a different space. And everyone wants that space to be respected," added she.

Other panelists disagreed and pointed out that Indian women are subjugated and confined to their homes and child rearing. They are exploited sexually and men (even a lot of other women) often are misogynistic in their treatment. Though Neelima agreed to this but she questioned the point of the conflict? "You have a space, occupy that, we have a space we'll occupy that," said she.

Talking about the Hindu mythology, she said, "In ancient times, women were the power centres because they could procreate. They were powerful. They could have as many husbands as they liked and change partners." But she agrees to the fact that somewhere down the line the Hindu ethos has changed.

Neelima pointed out that attempts are being made to empower women and make them aware of their rights. Even in the government departments there are think tanks and ministries whose job is to empower women. There's rapid change in the mindset of the people. Social change too is taking place. Exposure and communication have become so vast and intense that women refuse to be subjected to atrocities. The momentum of change will keep on gaining strength and intensity.

"I am a privileged citizen. So I can say that I don't care about gender inequality. But the average Indian still feels that they suffer because of it," she said.

Pointing towards films that are being made she said that the awareness about women's rights has become profound. There is a shift in the attitude that 'we don't want a girl child.' Though we may not agree, as the male gaze in commercial films is intense and sexualises women.

Another panelist, Nandini Bhalla, editor of a magazine believes that even though women are now doing so much more and breaking the glass ceiling, they are not taught the word "ambition" as whenever a woman mentions the word, it carries a negative connotation. We think that she is shrewd or a difficult person but we don't see it the same way when it comes to men. She said, "If a man says he is ambitious, he is seen as a go-getter. So women should be taught that it is good to be ambitious. There are so many of them who don't want to be seen as too career-oriented. But it cannot be emphasised enough that there is nothing wrong in it. We have to sensitise women about being comfortable with ambition. Only when we feed these thoughts in their mind, we can achieve equality."

Female mentorship is also critical. Various studies have found that most of the women do not want to work with female bosses. But Bhalla feels that this is a huge flaw as women can be the best mentors for other women as they have fought for their rights. When women support their own kinds and teach them skills, it can help us bring about a change.

Even today there is a serious pay gap which signals that there is a need to talk about equality. Bhalla said that if there was equality we wouldn't have been having this conversation. But it is good to have conversations as they lead to change.

She talked about how feminism is often being misunderstood as dominating men. But instead it means being equal to them. "There is no equality, so we need feminism."

Kartik Aryan, Bhumi Pednekar, Ananya Panday and singer Tulsi Kumar launched the song Akhiyon Se Goli Maare at PVR Plaza Connaught Place from the film Pati Patni aur Woh. The actor climbed in front of the poster display areas at the cinema hall, shook a leg and asked the people assembled there to watch the film which releases on December 6.

Jose Mourinho poses with Tottenham shirt after his appointment Spurs/Twitter

Mauricio out, Mourinho in

Former Chelsea & Man Utd boss handed task of reviving struggling Tottenham's fortune

AFP ■ LONDON

Jose Mourinho on Wednesday was appointed to replace the sacked Mauricio Pochettino at Tottenham, with a brief to revive the flagging fortunes of a club languishing in the lower reaches of the Premier League.

The former Chelsea, Real Madrid and Manchester United manager has signed a contract until the end of the 2022/23 season.

"I am excited to be joining a club with such a great heritage and such passionate supporters," said Mourinho, who has won domestic league titles in Portugal, England, Italy and Spain.

"The quality in both the squad and the academy excites me. Working with these players is what has attracted me."

Mourinho's glittering CV includes Champions League titles with Porto and Inter Milan.

The 56-year-old also won three Premier League titles over two spells in charge of Chelsea, and returned to England to manage Manchester United in 2016.

"In Jose we have one of the most successful managers in football," said Spurs chairman Daniel Levy. "He has a wealth of experience, can inspire teams and is a great tactician."

"He has won honours at every club he has coached. We believe he will bring energy and belief to the dressing room."

The club tweeted a picture of their new Portuguese boss holding a Spurs shirt ahead of his first match in charge — a London derby at West Ham United on Saturday.

Mourinho was sacked by Manchester United last December following a poor run and has been without a club since, most recently working as a TV pundit.

He remains a big name but there will be questions over whether his pragmatic style can mesh with Tottenham's tradition of attacking football, a problem he also faced at Old Trafford.

Argentine Pochettino was dismissed on Tuesday, with Spurs struggling in the league after picking up just three wins from 12 games. The 47-year-old had transformed the club's fortunes since arriving in 2014, and although he failed to win a trophy, he took Spurs to the Champions League final.

Stimac wants India to play without fear

NEW DELHI: Indian head coach Igor Stimac, after the narrow 0-1 defeat to Oman in Muscat, pronounced that he wants his team to "play without fear" against any opponent they face.

"I want my India (team) to play without fear against anyone. Irrespective of whoever you are playing against, you always have a chance to win the game. We need to grab that," Stimac stated in the post-match press conference in Muscat on Tuesday.

He added, "If you are trying to change (your gameplan) according to your opponents, it shows your team's weakness — which is the last thing I would want for my team. We stick to our system and we are working on the players' strengths and conditioning."

The coach stated that India was the better team in the second half and while they have been doing good work in open play and creating opportunities to score, the lack of accuracy in the finishing is a problem they are facing.

"We were the better side in the second half but couldn't find the way to score a goal. This is our main problem which has been haunting us always. We are moving well, we are fighting, we are doing what's necessary but when we come inside the box, the decision making is not at par and the accuracy is not there as well. We need to get used to this, cut the numbers of mistakes down and try to get better results in the future," he said.

The Croatian also congratulated the hosts on their win and added that his team has shown that they can compete against the likes of Oman. PNS

Shami deadly on any surface: Saha

India wicketkeeper Wriddhiman Saha on Wednesday brushed aside concerns about pink ball being a challenge for bowlers like Mohammed Shami who, according to him, can be trusted to come good irrespective of the ball's colour or the nature of the surface.

Shami had a match-haul of seven wickets among the Indian pace attack's collective haul of 14 scalps in the home team's innings and 130-run victory over Bangladesh in the first Test in Indore.

"With the form they (Shami, Ishant Sharma and Umesh Yadav) are in, the pink ball is not a factor. Especially (Mohammed) Shami, he can be deadly on any wicket. He has pace and is able to extract reverse swing," Saha said when asked whether colour of the ball will make more difference. Saha said that they haven't yet checked how much movement is on offer as far as pink ball is concerned. "We are yet to see the movement of the pink ball. But the colour of the ball won't matter with the current form of our pacers," Saha added.

Star will telecast India's training today

The excitement in the City of Joy is clearly visible and while the first four days of pink ball Test is already sold out, fans have also been coming to the Eden Gardens to watch the Indian and Bangladeshi players train for the Test which starts tomorrow. And for those who cannot make it to watch Virat Kohli and boys train on the eve of the game today can witness including Bengal's Shami and Saha, have pink ball experience in domestic cricket but the wicketkeeper pointed out that it was a Kookaburra.

"The only change is the colour of the ball. It's made differently. There's also a change in the timing and picking the ball a bit difficult in twilight. It may help the pacers but will be challenging for the batsmen," Saha said.

NEW BEGINNING
Senior Indian off-spinner Ravichandran Ashwin feels Day/Night

the practice live.

A Star official confirmed that this will be the first time that the training session on the eve of the game will be telecast by the host broadcasters.

"Yes, we will be telecasting Kohli and boys' training on Thursday (today) as we wish to give the fans a feel of what goes on hours before the two teams actually walk out to play their maiden Day-Night Test," the official said.

Tests will mark a new beginning for the traditional format in the country as the spectator count will improve drastically owing to the match timings.

The daily proceedings in the match will start at 1pm and wind up by 8pm.

"I just hope this marks the beginning of where we get huge crowds coming into the stadium and Test cricket gets its credit and obviously with the change in timings people can afford to finish their work and come into the game, watch it and enjoy it," Ashwin

"The pitch looks good. I am very excited. When have you last seen a Test match where first four days' tickets have been sold out."

—SOURAV GANGULY

said on Star Sports. His teammate Mohammed Shami is focussed on the challenges that await him in the game.

"The middle session should be the main focus for batsman while using the pink ball unlike the morning session that is usually considered the most important in a test match as it will have more of a swing in Eden Gardens," he said.

Shami said the bowlers will have to work very hard to extract any assistance from the pink ball.

"...The pink ball is only useful when there is a hard and grassy wicket because the ball goes straight.

"Pink ball is a very different ball and doesn't work like the white or red ball at all so there is a very low possibility that in the last session we get a swing or reverse so we will have to work very hard," he said.

Finest cricketers to grace pink ball Test

KOLKATA: India's finest cricketers including Sachin Tendulkar, Sunil Gavaskar and Kapil Dev will assemble during the country's first-ever day-night Test against Bangladesh, starting in Eden Gardens tomorrow.

The iconic Eden Gardens is all set to witness a musical extravaganza in the presence of former cricketers, celebrities and politicians during India and Bangladesh's first-ever pink ball Test.

According to BCCI President Sourav Ganguly, the second Test of the two-match series will be one to remember.

"Sachin (Tendulkar), (Sunil) Gavaskar, Kapil (Dev), Rahul (Dravid), Anil (Kumble) everyone will be there. In tea time, there will be carts going around the stadium with former captains in them," Ganguly said on Wednesday.

"There is a musical performance at tea time and at the end of the day there is a felicitation. Both the teams, former captains, Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, Chief Minister will be there.

"Runa Laila will be performing, Jeet Ganguly will be performing. I am very excited. Just see the excitement, four days are already sold out in a Test match," he added.

The Cricket Association of Bengal (CAB) and BCCI have put in place several plans to mark India's maiden pink ball Test.

Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina is expected to ring the 'Eden Bell' along with West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on the first day of the match.

Besides, a host of sporting starts, including star shuttler P V Sindhu, chess ace Viswanathan Anand and tennis sensation Sania Mirza are expected to grace the occasion.

As per plans, paratroopers are expected to fly into Eden to hand a pink ball each to captains Virat Kohli and Mominul Haque just before the toss.

The CAB has also organised a talk show featuring the 'Fabulous Five' of Indian cricket — Sourav Ganguly, Sachin Tendulkar, Rahul Dravid, Anil Kumble and V V S Laxman during the 40-minute dinner break. They will talk about the historic 2011 Test win against Australia at the Eden.

The CAB also plans to felicitate sporting stars, including Olympic champion Abhinav Bindra, Sania Mirza, Sindhu and six-time boxing world champion MC Mary Kom. PTI

Tigers wary of early sunset

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Bangladesh's spin bowling consultant Daniel Vettori is done dwelling on the "negatives" and wants his team to feel excited about competing in its maiden Day/Night Test even though it happens to be against an incomparably formidable-at-home India.

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Bangladesh's reserve opener Saif Hassan was on Wednesday ruled out of the Day/Night Test against India owing to a finger injury.

The 21-year-old Hassan split the webbing of his finger while coming in as a substitute fielder during the first Test in Indore.

"The injury has not yet healed and the medical team is of the opinion that he will benefit from being rested to full recovery. Taking the state of injury into consideration, Saif has been ruled out of the second Test," the Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) said in a release. The batsman was in line to make his debut in the historic pink-ball Test at the Eden Gardens, with regular openers Shadman Islam and Imrul Kayes failing to impress in the opener. Hassan's injury means the embattled visitors will have to continue with the duo of Islam and Kayes, who managed all of 24 runs across two innings at Indore.

While a handful of players from India have played a pink-ball game in domestic cricket, Bangladesh's only experience with that was a one-off Day/Night four-day match in 2013 but none of the current team players were a part of that fixture.

Vettori conceded that early sunset in Kolkata could pose a massive challenge for his team's batsmen during the twilight hours. "Pink ball plays normal at this time of the day, and in this light. I think the challenge will be when the Test is under lights. Sunset is quite early here — I think 4:30 pm. I think that'll be the time when we see the pink ball come into play," the former New Zealand captain said.

Vettori has not been a part of any Day/Night Test but he feels batting during the twilight period will be challenging. "The twilight hour, dusk is when it seems to do a little bit more. My experience is only from watching on TV. It will be the period of the Test match when tactically things might do a few different things," he said.

"The wicket will be pretty good and that last session will be very interesting with the pink ball."

With the pink ball expected to help seamers more, Vettori said Bangladesh pacers are equally excited. "The four fast bowlers are very excited. It is a nice thing. Bangladeshi fast bowlers don't get to be excited a lot. I think they are coming to grips with a slightly different ball. It is the SG pink ball.

"I think most guys have limited experience with the Kookaburra one. But I think there's real optimism," he said.

The former New Zealand spinner is also hopeful that tweekers would come into play, especially in the first two sessions each day.

Team for WI series to be announced today

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Vice-captain Rohit Sharma's workload management and opener Shikhar Dhawan's poor form are expected to dominate the deliberations when the national selection committee meets here today to decide on India's limited-overs squads for the home series against the West Indies.

If all goes well, Rohit may get some well-deserved rest during the three-match ODI series against the Caribbean team so that he is fresh and rejuvenated for the tough tour of New Zealand next year where India will play five T20 Internationals, three ODIs and two Test matches.

Rohit's workload will be the prominent point of discussion as he has played close to 60 competitive matches (including IPL) this year.

While the onus will also be on Rohit to give his viewpoint, the possibility of him being given a break in at least one of the two formats looks strong.

The other person, who might feel the heat is senior opener Shikhar Dhawan. Dhawan hasn't been in the best of forms since he returned to cricket after sustaining an injury during the World Cup. Mayank Agarwal's stupendous form in Test cricket and a very good List A career average of 50-plus and an above 100 strike-rate makes him a good choice to partner KL Rahul in case the selectors think of looking at the third opener's option.

The soon-to-be 34 Dhawan is also not expected to be around for a long time.

Ditto for Rishabh Pant, who will don the big gloves with Sanju Samson close on his heels.

Mahendra Singh Dhoni has already started training and if Pant can't seal it during the upcoming series, he might face stiff competition from the 38-year-old legend once IPL comes calling.

With Hardik Pandya (stress fracture), Jasprit Bumrah (back surgery), Navdeep Saini and Bhuvneshwar Kumar (side strain) still recovering from their respective injuries, Shivam Dube and Shardul Thakur are expected to continue in the squad.

Spin bowling all-rounders Washington Sundar and Krunal Pandya — are also under the scanner due to their underwhelming performances.

With Yuzvendra Chahal doing well and if Ravindra Jadeja is not given another break, one among the two could get the axe.

India's new T20 sensation Deepak Chahar is expected lead the pace attack but Khaleel Ahmed's economy rate has been a problem.

'Ashwin deserves limited overs comeback'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Spin great Harbhajan Singh feels Ravichandran Ashwin deserves a comeback in India's limited overs set-up as a reward for his recent exploits with the red ball.

With the management and selectors exploring options ahead of the T20 World Cup next year, opportunities have been given to the likes of Washington Sundar and Rahul Chahal.

As the selectors meet to pick the ODI and T20 squads for the West Indies series next month, Harbhajan said Ashwin should get another chance in the shorter versions of the game.

"This is what I feel, if you are looking to bowl a spinner upfront (which Sundar has been doing in T20s), you rather have a wicket-taker which Ashwin is. Why not (give him a chance)? He has also done a good job with the red ball recently," Harbhajan said on Tuesday.

R Ashwin bowls at nets in Kolkata. PTI

"Ashwin spins the ball, he has got more variations. Someone like a Sundar needs to learn. I want him to do well. I am all for bleeding in youngsters but they must learn else they will be replaced, considering the stiff competition," said the 39-year-old.

Ashwin last played a limited overs game for India in July 2017, following which he and Ravindra Jadeja were overlooked for the shorter formats with wrist-spinners Yuzvendra Chahal and Kuldeep Chahal replacing the finger-spinners. Jadeja was able to make a comeback but Ashwin hasn't.

Harbhajan, though, also believed that both Chahal and Kuldeep remain India's best bet for providing breakthroughs.

"They are your wicket-takers. People who are wicket-takers will always be in the game, be it Kuldeep or Chahal or whoever.

"You need to ask the management (if they should be playing every game). They (management) probably want to see what combination works well for them but good to see Chahal back and hopefully Kuldeep will be back too. In my opinion, they are your two best options," he said.

Naseem to make Test debut

BRISBANE: Teenage bowling sensation Naseem Shah will become one of the youngest cricketers to play a Test after Pakistan captain Azhar Ali confirmed on Wednesday the 16-year-old will make his debut at the Gabba.

Shah, who opted to remain on tour after his mother died, made the grade for today's first Test after impressing with an eight-over spell against Australia A in Perth.

"We are definitely looking to play him — he is bowling really well," Azhar said.

Only handful of players have made their debut aged 16, including Sachin Tendulkar who went on to become an Indian batting legend.

The youngest Test player is listed by Cricinfo as Pakistan's Hasan Raza, who was 14 on his 1996 debut, though his date of birth was later disputed.

Azhar said he had faith in Shah's abilities through a high-pressure five-day game.

"He's very fit, I have captained him in first-class matches and he has overs under his belt," he said.

"I'm sure that he can do that in Tests as well. I have no doubts in his fitness and his bowling skills." AFP

Focus on Dhawan, Shaw in Super League stage

PTI ■ SURAT

The spotlight would firmly be on the likes of Shikhar Dhawan and young Prithvi Shaw when the Super League stage of the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy T20 tournament begins here today.

The focus will be on Dhawan, who has not had a great run in recent times as well as Shaw, who recently returned to competitive cricket after serving an eight month retrospective ban.

Dhawan is currently going through a rough patch. The Delhi batsman had scores of 0(9) against Jammu & Kashmir, 9(6) against Jharkhand, 19(18) against Sikkim and 35(33) against Odisha in the league stage of the national T20 championship and he would be more than keen to turn things around.

Another promising opener who would want to make most of the opportunity is Shaw, who returned with a bang from a doping ban, slamming a half-century against Assam in the last game of the league stage for Mumbai.

Twenty-year old Shaw will have to make optimum use of the Super League stage if he has to impress the national selectors and make a comeback to the national team.

In all probability, Shaw will open for Mumbai, replacing an injured Jay Bista, with senior pro Aditya Tare.

His teammates and three India players — Shreyas Iyer, Shivam Dube and Shardul Thakur — also have an opportunity to cement their places in the Indian T20 squad with good outings.
