The military has been a source of political power, and the military establishment has been at the heart of the political system. This has led to a situation where the military has been able to influence political decisions and shape the political landscape. The military has also been involved in various businesses and enterprises, which has raised concerns about the extent of its influence and the potential for corruption.

One of the main concerns is the issue of civilian control over the military. There have been efforts to promote civilian control and reduce the military's influence in political decision-making. This has included the implementation of reforms to limit the military's involvement in politics and to ensure that civilian leaders have the power to make decisions.

The military has also been involved in various international operations and interventions. This has raised concerns about the potential for the military to use these operations as a means to further its political goals and to exert influence beyond its borders.

One of the key challenges facing the military is the need to adapt to changing political and economic conditions. The military needs to be able to respond to these changes and to adjust its strategies and operations accordingly. This requires a level of flexibility and adaptability that is not always easy to achieve, especially given the military's historical role in political decision-making.

The military's involvement in politics is a complex issue that requires careful consideration and careful balancing of interests. The key is to ensure that the military's role is limited to its traditional military functions and that it is not used as a tool for political advantage. This requires effective mechanisms for civilian control and a commitment to democratic principles and values. The military's role in politics is a sensitive and delicate issue, and it requires a careful and considered approach to ensure that it is not used to undermine democratic values and principles.
Stop creating urban slums

PPPs can be instrumental in attracting capital and enhancing affordable housing projects in major cities and maintaining them too.

ANCILS MENTHA

We celebrated the fifth anniversary of the National Urban Renewal Mission on 26th November last year, which has been a journey of accomplishment and a story of hope for millions of urban dwellers. It has shown that the concept of PPPs can be a game-changer in the urban sector, especially in addressing the challenges of urban poverty and slum development.

In the context of PPPs, there are several key considerations that should be taken into account. Firstly, the importance of creating a regulatory framework that is conducive to private sector participation cannot be overstated. This involves creating transparent and predictable regulatory environments that encourage private sector involvement.

Secondly, there is a need to ensure that the public sector plays a catalytic role in creating the right conditions for private sector participation. This includes providing clear policy guidelines, creating enabling legal frameworks, and ensuring that there is a level playing field for both public and private sector players.

Furthermore, there is a need to ensure that there is a strong focus on social and economic development in urban areas. This involves creating a conducive environment for both private and public sector players to invest in urban infrastructure and provide affordable housing.

In conclusion, the National Urban Renewal Mission has shown the potential of PPPs in creating sustainable urban development. However, there is still a need to address the challenges that arise in implementing PPPs, including regulatory hurdles, funding constraints, and lack of expertise.

BSNL NUMBER PORTABILITY POSITIVE SO FAR IN FY20

PINS NEW DELHI

State-owned Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd (BSNL) is a major player in the number portability space. A recent news report suggests that the number of consumers moving to other networks than those leaving is increasing. In a move that is positive for BSNL’s national telecom integration plan, the BSNL board of directors under the chairmanship of Sanjay Kumar Singh Chauhan, approved the new proposal for number portability in a meeting held in Mumbai on November 15.

In this regard, Chauhan said: “We have not put any brake on this process. It is a government decision to improve the quality of services. This move will lead to the breakdown of mono-service models and will bring healthy competition in the sector.”

The proposal aims to make the service more consumer-friendly by removing barriers to switching service providers. The plan will enable BSNL customers to enjoy the benefits of their choice of telecom service provider. Customers can choose from a variety of options, including fixed-line, mobile, and broadband services, and can change their service provider at any time.

However, objections may still arise from the telecom service providers concerned. The telecom service providers may raise concerns about the impact of the new proposal on their revenue streams. They may argue that the proposed changes could affect their business models and revenue generation. In response, the government may need to provide support to the affected service providers.

Overall, the new proposal for number portability is a positive step towards improving the quality of services and increasing competition in the telecom sector. It will benefit consumers by providing them with more choices and better services. The government may need to monitor the implementation of the new proposal and address any concerns that arise.

Homebuyers’ body to MP: Stop IBC changes

PINS NEW DELHI

Homebuyers’ body FICCI has written to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to intervene and stop any proposed amendments in the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) that are adverse to the interests of the homebuyers, who have been victims of non-completion of homes by developers.

The FICCI letter to Finance Minister said: “We wish to draw your attention to the fact that in response to the homebuyers’ demand to be included in the list of secured creditors in the IBC, the government has decided to make the IBC legislation more homebuyer-friendly. Indian developers are simply not interested in completing the homes that they have sold and the homebuyers are left holding the bag.”

The letter added: “We would like to request you to take urgent steps to create a homebuyer-friendly IBC. To this end, we request you to immediately direct the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Board of India (IBBI) to issue a revised list of secured creditors. We would also request you to take all necessary steps to make the IBC legislation more homebuyer-friendly.”

Just let it go...

Hyderabad

The environmentally conscious Frozen 2 checks all boxes expected from a Disney movie. But watching the Telugu version with Priyadarshi, Nitya Menen and Sitara bringing the characters closer to home was a double delight, writes KRAMYA SREE

Frozen was built around the idea of not letting one’s emotions take over, so no matter how flawed his/her feelings are, who we are as a human being stands out.

The movie starts off with Anna (Kristen Bell) bringing Elsa (Idina Menzel) back to the palace where she grew up. In a quest to solve continual power issues in Arendelle.

But, a strong voice is distracting Elsa, calling her to the forest. In a scene, talking to Elsa, her sister Anna, along with Kristoff, Olaf and the other animals, a beautiful song, will set off the jungle in search of answers to questions about Elsa.

An attempt at unfolding a powerful line of dialogue, the storyline makes it appear that the filmmakers wish to send a message about nature. The film also sees Elsa discovering the truth about her powers while facing more difficult and environmental issues.

It is incredible to see nature as an integral part of the overall storyline. The film, directed by Chris Buck and Jennifer Lee, has won accolades for its heart-warming storyline.

The plot revolves around Elsa and Olaf from Arendelle, which sets the basis for Frozen. The characters come to life in a comedic way, bringing in laughs and joy.

The characters are forced to create handcrafts and decorative items for the snow Queen. Their unique amicable relationship with animals is a highlight.

The film tells the story of Elsa and Olaf and their relationship with animals.

The characters come to life in a comedic way, bringing in laughs and joy. The film offers a message of preserving the environment.

The film also sees Elsa discovering the truth about her powers while facing more difficult and environmental issues.

The filmmakers have done justice to Elsa with heart and soul. Baby Sven who died in Frozen isn’t even worth a mention. The dedication to bringing cuteness in the theme sound makes it a true gem.

Frozen 2’s success story is on the rise, with its third film — Frozen 3 — expected to release in 2020.

The film set a new benchmark for the film, and its third film will be even better. Frozen 3 is expected to release in 2020.

KALYAN DHEV TO STAR IN A ROMANTIC COMEDY?

The Pioneer

Hyderabad | Friday, November 22, 2019

upercop Kalyaan Dhev will undergo a surgical procedure on Chiru today for the removal of an implant in his leg that was inserted after he suffered a fracture in 2016, following a fall of 14 feet from the favourite corner of his Chennai office. The injury had led him to donate his Ambani-Endowed Kalyaan Dhev Scholarship to underprivileged girls. On his return after the film commitments, there had been a postponement in the removal of the implant. The surgical procedure, closed for Friday, will be performed at the same hospital in Mumbai. The actor, who is currently in Goa, is doing shooting for his upcoming movie in the countryside.

Michael Madsen to act with Anushka, Maddy

isney+Hotstar actor Michael Madsen, who has been a regular fixture in Quentin Tarantino’s films such as Reservoir Dogs, the Kill Bill series and The Hateful Eight, will be playing the role of a retired police captain. Richard Mishaan, whose film production company Mishaan Rassett Films produced the show, revealed that he was invited by the film producers, ‘T’Gang’, to do their next project. Madsen doesn’t have a release date yet. ‘Important roles don’t get exaggerated by other films. If the makers are waiting for a window to announce the release date, it may likely the film will arrive early next year’ said a source. Deepik-Siddharth is the film’s music director.
Pink Revolution in City of Joy

The pink ball feels like heavy hockey ball*

PTI KOLKATA

Indian cricket will finally try the pink revolution that could take on a new meaning in day-night Test cricket. The International Cricket Council has given its final approval for the inaugural Test series to be played in India from November 22 to November 26.

It took India a new 14th Test against Zimbabwe in the year 2003 to inaugurate pink ball Test cricket. India has now given the green signal for pink balls to be used in a day-night Test.

India will open its day-night Test series against Bangladesh on Monday at Eden Gardens in Kolkata. The match will be played in front of 28,000 spectators.

A special pink ball will be used for the Test match. The pink ball will be used in India's three Test matches against Bangladesh and Sri Lanka.

The pink ball will be filled with water and will be used in the day-night Tests.

Practice match would have been helpful: Mumtom

In a recent interview, Under-19 India captain, Shubman Gill, said that the practice match would have been helpful in the Test series against Bangladesh.

Shubman Gill said, "The practice match would have been helpful. It would have given us a feel of the conditions, the pitch, and the way the bowlers are approaching the deliveries."

Pacers will be not so effective under lights

New Delhi: Pace bowler Chahar, who has been ruled out of the India Test squad as a precautionary measure against the pink ball, said that the pacers will not be as effective under lights.

"The pink ball will be challenging for us. The pacers will not be as effective under lights," Chahar said.

DHAWAN HASN'T WINNE

PTI KOLKATA

Sourav Ganguly, BCCI president, has confirmed that Dhawan will not play the Test series.

"Dhawan is not playing the Test series. He has not recovered from his injury," Ganguly said.
