Breathing new life

One hopes that the management transfer resulting from divestiture of PSUs will result in better performance. However, much will depend on the new management, and it remains to be seen if it will be able to handle the new challenges that will arise. The government needs to create a conducive environment for businesses to thrive and grow.

Musharraf's political initiatives

Musharraf's continued moves towards stability and international engagement are important for the country's future. His recent speech in London about the need for a democratic transition in Pakistan is a positive sign. However, it is crucial that the international community supports these efforts and works towards a peaceful resolution.

The government needs to ensure that the new management of the PSUs is capable of handling the new challenges that will arise. The country needs a stable and prosperous future, and the government needs to take steps to achieve this goal.

Kaviraj Urs from Vijayanagara, BJP candidate for the bypoll, is expected to lose the seat, as the party is yet to finalize its strategy for the bypolls.

In a statement on Thursday, the BJP said: “We have taken note of the recent developments in the state and have decided to form a new committee to look into the matter. The new committee will be formed in the coming days.”

The Assam Public Works (APW), the original petitioner in the Supreme Court for updating the National Register of Citizens (NRC), on Wednesday welcomed Union Home Minister Amit Shah's announcement that the NRC process would be updated in the State.

The Cong, however, opposed the move. Former Chief Minister Tarun Gogoi, who was a petitioner in the Supreme Court, said that the decision to update the NRC would be an abuse of power.

The APW has been a petitioner in the Supreme Court since 2015.

The APW, however, is not the only party that has been a petitioner in the Supreme Court. The All Assam Students' Union (AASU), the Assam Pradesh Congress Committee (APCC), and the Assam Pradesh Mahagathbandhan (APMB) are also parties to the case.

The APW has been involved in the NRC process since 2015 and has consistently fought against the idea of updating the register.

The APW's stance is that updating the NRC would be an abuse of power and a violation of the principle of natural justice.

The APW has also been critical of the government's approach to the NRC process, accusing it of being biased and unfair.

The APW has been a vocal opponent of the NRC process, and its members have been involved in protests and demonstrations against the government's plans to update the register.
India Inc hails decision to defer spectrum dues

India Inc on Thursday welcomed the Government's decision to defer payment of Rs 52,500 crore in auction instalments on a one-year moratorium basis, which was earlier under the scanner. The move is expected to ease cash flows for the telecom service providers, which have been facing stress.

The Government's decision comes after it agreed publicly to defer the payment of the instalments. This is the third time the deferred payment has been proposed by the Government, with the first instalment due in 2012 and the second in 2014.

The Government had earlier said that the deferred payment would be for a period of 10 years, after which the operators would have to pay 20% in the first year, 40% in the second year and 40% in the third year.

India Inc therefore expressed its appreciation for the Government's decision to defer the payment of the instalments in full. "We believe this decision will help the telecom operators to take the much needed break that they need," said a spokesperson of India Inc.

The decision would also help the telecom operators to stay in business for a longer period of time, which would subsequently help the Government to recover the money it has already paid to the providers.

"We are pleased that the Government has taken this decision to defer the payment of the instalments in full," said another spokesperson of India Inc.

The decision would also be beneficial for the Indian economy, as it would help the telecom operators to continue their operations and provide services to the people. This would also help the Government to recover the money it has already paid to the providers.

Pink Revolution in City of Joy

Indian cricket will finally embrace the pink revolution as the country plays its first day-night pink ball Test against Bangladesh at the Eden Gardens in Kolkata on Saturday. The historic Test has been made possible after the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) reached a deal with the Indian government to allow women’s cricket to be played in Kolkata.

The day-night Test at the iconic Eden Gardens will kick off at 3pm and will have a 30-minute break during the first session.

Bengaluru: Captain Mithali Raj on Thursday said that her side didn’t get a practice game to prepare before taking on India in their day-night Test match.

“We did not get an opportunity to play a practice match and that was the conundrum that (when it was decided) nobody could do anything about. The end result was that it wasn’t played normally. But definitely if you have any Test match with the pink ball, you have to play practice match,” Mithali Raj said on the eve of the Test.

The current Bangladesh team has made their Test debut after a 10-year gap due to women’s cricket being discontinued during the country’s domestic seasons of Duleep Trophy under lights, the domestic women’s league and the domestic women’s Twenty20 league. The pink ball Test for the country, “the skipper said.

The skipper urged his bowlers to be more careful while facing the pink ball, which is likely to move more in favour of a more experienced bowler.

It’s being about mental preparation. It’s about the idea in a play session by session. It’s about maths, it’s about learning from the Test,” Mithali Raj said.

Mohammad Shami had the sole responsibility of dragging Bangladesh on day one. The pace attack along with the spinners was too good for the Indian openers. Soon after the third over, Shadman Islam, Taijul Islam, Shafiul Islam, and Shadman Islam took the lead.

Mithali Raj said, “We made some mistakes in the field as it was our first ever Test under lights. We don’t hope to rectify our mistakes, the skipper said.

Ahead of the Test, BCCI Vice-President and other senior committee members will do a tour of the stadium and ensure all arrangements are in place for the Test under lights.
