After criticism, RS marshals back in traditional uniform

In a move after the new rectifier female uniforms of the Rajya Sabha were introduced by Speaker Harivansh in their new uniform backed by their colleagues in the Opposition, the Rajya Sabha Marshal (RS Marshal) of India on Tuesday reversed the order to allow marshals to revert to their traditional uniform. The move comes on the back of criticism from some members of the Rajya Sabha who had expressed concerns about the new uniforms being impractical and less respectful. The decision to allow marshals to wear their traditional uniform was welcomed by some members who had previously raised concerns about the new uniforms. The move is expected to ease the pressure on the Rajya Sabha authorities to reconsider their decision on the new uniforms. However, the decision also faced criticism from some members who argued that the new uniforms were designed to be more functional and provide better visibility for the marshals. The debate on the issue continues as the Rajya Sabha authorities decide on the future of the new uniforms.

US Def Secy fires Navy chief over SEAL row

WASHINGTON

Defense Secretary Mark Esper has removed Navy Secretary Richard Spencer, according to a Defense Department official. Esper's move comes after the White House involved the resignation of Spencer after dispute behind his back.

Spencer had been one of the leaders of the military's efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East. He had replaced Chief of Staff Mark Milley, who was removed in September 2019. Esper had been preparing for a visit to the Middle East, where he was expected to meet with regional leaders and discuss the situation in Afghanistan.

Spencer's ouster was announced shortly before Esper's departure for the trip, which is expected to last several days. The official said Esper had decided to make the change in the wake of the latest developments in the region.

The move comes as the US military faces growing threats from Iran and other countries in the region, and as the US continues to withdraw troops from Afghanistan.

Spencer had been serving as Navy Secretary since April 2018 and had been in the position longer than any other secretary of the Navy.

The official said Esper had acted after several weeks of consultation with President Donald Trump and other high-level officials.

The official said Esper had been in contact with Trump throughout the week and that the president had been supportive of the decision.

Spencer's ouster comes amid a dispute between Esper and Navy officers over the fate of Navy SEALs. Esper had been pushing for the Navy to establish a new special operations force, while Navy officers had been pushing for the Navy to retain its current structure.

Spencer's departure could lead to further changes in the military leadership, as Esper is expected to announce additional personnel changes in the coming weeks.

A Navy official said Esper had been in frequent contact with Trump throughout the week and that the president had been supportive of the decision.

Certain provisions of both the draft seed Bills as well as the Pesticide Management Bill need to be amended to prevent MNCS from swamping farmers farmers' bodies are concerned that the provisions in the Pesticide Management Bill could become a shield for the Multinational Companies (MNCs) and that the definition of “farmer” has been weakened. The original definition of “farmer” excluded all persons who simply moved around the “agriculture” by producing or processing and sold on contract or undertaken sharecropping. The new definition of “farmer” has now been narrowed down to include only those persons who own cultivable land or any other category of farmers who are engaged in the agricultural activity as may be notified by each State Government. Hence, imposing unnecessary conditions under the new Act is illegal.

At present, apparently, inflation of about 6.1 to 6.3 per cent is being maintained. It is likely to be spread because of a sub-

Annual inflation in the world has been remarkably lower at 3-4 per cent, more or less. However, it is a good sign that the government has taken measures to control inflation. In the first half of the year, the inflation rate was 4.8 per cent, which is significantly lower than the target of 6 per cent. However, there are some concerns about the future of the economy. The government has announced a budget that includes measures to boost growth and create jobs. The budget focuses on infrastructure development, tax reforms, and fiscal discipline. Some economists believe that these measures will help boost the economy in the long run. Others are more cautious and suggest that the government needs to be more aggressive in its stimulus efforts.

In conclusion, it is important to note that the current economic situation is complex and the government needs to take a balanced approach to its policies. The government must continue to monitor the economy closely and adjust its policies as needed to ensure stability and growth. It is also important for businesses and consumers to remain optimistic and take steps to ensure their own financial stability.

In the biggest privatisation drive ever, the Union government is to sell its 26% stake in state-run oil giant Indian Oil Corp (IOC) and 10% each in its oil marketing companies Oil and Natural Gas Corp (ONGC) and Bharat Petroleum Corp (BPCL) to raise as much as ₹25,000 crore.

With the proceeds of the three deals, the government aims to pay off its outstanding debt of ₹16.85 lakh crore to the tune of ₹25,000 crore.

Some analysts believe the government could add another ₹5,000–10,000 crore to the proceeds by selling non-core assets such as real estate holdings and the Assam Oilfields Employees provident fund.

The Portuguese coach hugged his players as they stepped out onto the pitch for the first time in over a year as world number one. "I'm incredibly happy to end it," said the manager.

"We aren't looking to get revenge. We want to win because that's how we need to show how good we are." said Sarri, "if a player who has won something doesn't want to win another title, then there is something wrong with him, not with the team."
New Zealand said comprehension was amongst their very last after not taking five wicket lead in their first Test at Bay Oval on Monday. The White Ferns left nine for 91 overnight and, in the final day of the three-day match, scored enough to win by 68 runs.

“The captain and team were disappointed with the batting, and we know that the wicket needs to be changed,” New Zealand skipper Devine said after the match.

To lose the toss and to be 50 behind in the first innings was not ideal,” Devine said. Williamson did.

“Scary stuff. I have never had a chance to play against the pink ball in New Zealand in an unbeatable version in the Test and spanned their home strides to win,” said a delighted Ganguly, the captain.
