Arrest PC if needed: Court to ED Praful summoned over

Judge allows agency to quiz Chidambaram in Tihar jail today deal with Mirchi's wife

The trial court on Tuesday permitted the Enforcement Directorate (ED) to interrogate and arrest, if necessary, former Finance Minister Chidambaram in the INX Media bribery case. Armed with the order, the ED is expected to take Chidambaram in its custody on Wednesday.

After this development. even if Chidambaram's bail petition in the Supreme Court in the CBI case is favourably disposed, he might end up spending Diwali behind bars.

Trial court judge Ajay Kumar Kuhar on Tuesday evening passed the order allow-ing the ED to interrogate Chidambaram in Tihar jail on Wednesday and arrest him if necessary. The court said three ED officials can interrogate Chidambaram on Wednesday after 8.30 am and asked the jail superintendent to make arrangements in this regard.

arrangements in this regard.

The former Finance Minister's judicial custody in the INX Media corruption case, which was filed by the CBI, ends on October 17. Since his arrest on August 21, he has till Tuesday spent 54 days in custody — both of the CBI as well as judicial — in nine

After the court passed the order, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta and Special Public Prosecutor Amit Mahajan, appearing for the ED, sought permission to question

Senior Congress leader and former Finance Minister P Chidambaram after being produced in the Rouse Avenue Court in connection with the INX Media corruption case in New Delhi on Tuesday

Chidambaram in some space available on Rouse Avenue court premises. The court, however, said, "It's not in the dignity of this person that you interrogate and arrest him here in public view." The court also rejected Chidamabram's peti-tion against the production

Chidambaram on Tuesday sought bail from the Supreme Court in the INX Media cor-ruption case saying the CBI wants to keep him in custody to humiliate him. The court will hear on Wednesday the arguments of Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, representing the CBI. Citing his attempts to meet to two crucial witnesses, the agency reiterated that Chidambaram should not be given bail. Justice R Banumathi headed Bench will resume hearing on this petition on Wednesday morning and the ED is expected to make arrest early in the morning. After the trial court's permission to the ED, Chidambaram's bail petition in the apex court has literally became useless. The ED will get maximum 15 days custody of Chidamabaram following which he may be remanded in judicial custody till he gets bail in the ED's case.

Senior advocates Kapil Sibal and Abhishek Manu Singhvi, appearing for Chidambaram, told a 3-judge bench headed by Justice R Banumathi that there were no allegations against their party colleague or his family mem-bers of having ever tried to approach or influence any wit ness in the case.

Sibal told the Bench, also comprising justices AS Bopanna and Hrishikesh Roy, that Chidambaram is in cus-tody for last 55 days and the Delhi High Court had rejected his bail plea in a "strange way".

Chidambaram, 74, was arrested by the CBI on August 21 and is lodged in Tihar jail under judicial custody in the corruption case.

The CBI had registered an FIR on May 15, 2017 alleging irregularities in a Foreign Investment Promotion Board (FIPB) clearance granted to the INX Media group for receiving overseas funds of ₹305 crore in 2007 during Chidambaram's tenure as the Finance Minister.

Thereafter, the ED lodged a money-laundering case in this regard in 2017. Chidambaram moved the top court challenging the Delhi High Court's September 30 verdict denying him bail in the INX Media case lodged by the CBI.

Sibal told the Bench on Tuesday that earlier the ED had argued before the apex court that they want custodial inter-rogation of Chidambaram, but later they opposed his applica-tion filed in the trial court to surrender in the money laundering case.
"Bail should be granted to him (Chidambaram). They (CBI) want to keep me in jail to humiliate him," Sibal argued

ED to question NCP leader on Oct 18; Patel claims case 'unsubstantiated'

TN RAGHUNATHA MUMBAI

nother senior Minister Another sellor manner Government landed in trouble on Tuesday as the Enforcement Directorate (ED) summoned Praful Patel for questioning on October 18 in connection with an alleged property deal between him and Hajra Iqbal, the wife of late Iqbal Mirchi, an erstwhile close aide of Karachibased underworld don Dawood Ibrahim.

As it readied itself to arrest former Union Minister P Chidambaram on Wednesday for custodial interrogation in the INX Media case, the ED prepared the ground for the questioning of former Civil Aviation Minister Praful Patel on allegations of quid pro quo in a property deal with late Iqbal Mirchi's wife Hajra.

Official sources said that at its office in Mumbai on October 18, the ED would record Patel's statement under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) in connection with a deal between a real estate company promoted by him, his wife and late Mirchi's wife.

The ED documents have revealed that Millennium

Developers Pvt Limited, a company promoted by Patel and his wife, constructed Ceejay House and transferred its third and fourth floors to Mirchi's wife Hajra Iqbal in 2007 "towards beneficial interest of Mirchi in the land on which the structure is built". Patel and his wife own a sig-nificant number of shares in Millennium Developers Private Limited However, Patel dismissed the case, saying, "It is an old case and since I am on election tour, I am not privy to the documents. But I can tell you that the allegations against me are false and unsubstantiated."

Talking to mediapersons here, he said, "Documents may have been leaked to media. Obviously, you are in possession of some papers which may have never been brought to my attention."

The ED is investigating several property deals, including Ceejay House at Worli in south-central Mumbai, which was reportedly owned by Mirchi's first wife Hajra Memon. Ceejay House is constructed on a plot allegedly owned by Iqbal Mirchi. The ED's contention is that Patel redeveloped Ceejay House in 2005. The ED considers the

The ED's move to question to Patel comes in the wake of the grilling of Mukhtar Memon, an alleged key person who handles various properties of Mirchi in Mumbai. Memon is the brother-in-law of Mirchi.

In his interaction with the media, Patel said that the matter was under investigation and the issue is if the "person at Ceejay House is linked with me". The building, according to Patel, was there in 1970. "After my father's death, there was dispute in the family among 21 co-owners. The Mumbai High Court was asked in 1978 to take charge and look after the property," Patel said.

According to the list of Mirchi's properties located in India and the UK, Ceejay House was constructed in 2006-07 as a joint venture (JV) between Mirchi and Millenium

Developers Pvt Ltd.

The ED probe has revealed Mirchi had bought/developed several properties in India and abroad from the proceeds of crime generated through various illegal offences.

The NCP is seeing the action against its leader as "political vendetta" in the run up to the Maharashtra Assembly polls.

Scheme violators to cough up ₹4K

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

fter women commuters, Atwo-wheelers have been exempted from the odd-even scheme which will be rolled out from November 4 to 15, Transport Department offi-cials said on Tuesday, adding that the penalty for the scheme violation has been hiked from ₹2,000 to ₹4,000. Unlike last year, the private CNG vehicles will not be exempted from the car rationing scheme this year.

"The Delhi Government will engage 2,000 private buses during the odd-even period to bear the the additional load at ₹50 per kilometre. We have also met with Uber and are going to meet other cab operators and strictly warned them for not indulging in indiscriminate surge pricing. Uber has committed to us that they will not permit more than 1.5 times the regular fare during the period," Transport Minister Gahlot said.

Besides, the Government will deploy civil defense employees to make commuters aware about the scheme.

According to the scheme, vehicles will ply on the road on alternate days as per the last digit of their number plates. Vehicles with number plate ending with even numbers: 2, 4, 6, 8 and 0 will ply on "even" dates, while vehicles with odd numbers 1,3,5,7,9 will play on "odd" dates.

Earlier, on Saturday, the AAP Government exempted women from the odd-even scheme.

"Keeping the security of women in mind, we have decided to exempt women from odd-even scheme. All women driving cars or and those with women drivers carrying children below the age of 12 will be exempted," Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Keiriwal had said earlier.

Bharat Ratna for Savarkar in Maha BJP manifesto

Sankalp Patra wants highest national award for Phule also, promises 1 crore jobs

TN RAGHUNATHA MUMBAI

The bestowal of "Bharat Ratna" upon social reform-ers Jyotiba Phule, Savitribai Phhule, and freedom fighter Veer Savarkar, creation of one crore jobs in five years, making Maharashtra "drought-free" in five years and ₹5 lakh crore nvestment in infrastructure sector are among the promises made by the ruling BJP in its manifesto for the State Assembly polls.

In its manifesto "Sankalp Patra" released three days after its ally Shiv Sena released its manifesto "Vachan Patra", the BJP has also promised houses to all the homeless in the State by 2022, pure drinking water to each household, to set up a grid for Marathwada to solve water problem in the region and to provide job opportunities to one crore women by bringing them under "Mahila Bachat Ghatak" scheme.

Releasing "Sankalp Patra" along with the party's working president JP Nadda, Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis said. "On our return to power in the State, we will recom-mend to the Centre a proposal to bestow 'Bharat Ratna' upon social reformers Jyotiba

In a first of its kind imitative, the BJP has promised to set up an independent authority to repair all kinds of roads. The ruling party said it would connect the entire Maharashtra by internet through Bharat Net and Maha Net.

"We will register all kinds of labourers at one place and bring them under the ambit of the social security... We will undertake a special rehabilita-₹1 lakh crore on infrastructural tion programme for the retired soldiers, families of martyred soldiers and officials who died during the call of duty," the BJP manifesto said.

RBI stopped printing 2K notes since Apr 1 to prevent hoarding

PNS NEW DELHI

The Reserve Bank of India has not printed a single ₹2,000 note from April 1 onward this year. The move is seen an attempt to curb stockpiling of black money.

The RBI confirmed this in response to an RTI reply in which it said that soon after the demonitisation, the Central bank printed 3,542.991 million ₹2,000 notes to match with the demand after the existing ₹1,000 and ₹500 notes were cancelled in October 2016

As per the RTI reply, the volume of printing of ₹2,000 notes came down drastically in the following year as the bank went in fast gear to print currency notes of other denominations. In 2017-18, only 111.507 million notes were produced, which was further reduced to 46.690 million notes 2018-19, said the RBI.

Earlier, the RBI had refut-ed the reports of withdrawal of ₹2,000 notes but many experts feel that the stopping produc-tion in the financial year will lead to withdrawal of the high value note in near future.

Prakash purb events at Sultanpur Lodhi

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Finally breaking the deadlock over the main events to celebrate Guru Nanak Dev's 550th prakash purb, Punjab Government on Tuesday offered to hold functions at Sultanpur Lodhi on November 11 and 12 under the Akal Takht's "patronage" with the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee's (SGPC) "support".

As the politico-religious slugfest continued over the celebrations, the Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Tuesday spoke to the Akal Takht Jathedar Giani Harpreet Singh on phone. Besides, his Cabinet Ministers — Charanjit Singh Channi and Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa — met the head priest to convey the State Government's proposal.

The development comes a day after the Akal Takht Jathedar had once again asked the Shiromani Akali Dal (Badal) and the Congress-led Puniab Government to end their war of words on the celebrations.

After the meeting, the Akal Takht Jathedar expressed hope that the events would be organ-ised jointly while reiterating that the hat leaders should avoid political rhetoric.

It has been learnt that the Chief Minister has left the decision on the Akal Takht, and it has been decided that the Jathedars of all five Takht would slated to be held on November

Cong spreading rumours about Art 370: PM

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH/CHARKHI DADRI/KURUKSHETRA

 $B_{\text{ond day in a row, Prime} \atop \text{Minister Narendra Modi kept} }$ his campaign pitch focused on national security and took a swipe at Congress leaders, who, he said, were spreading 'rumours' about the Government's decision to scrap Article 370.

He said, "The entire country is standing with Jammu & Kashmir with this decision (to scrap Article 370). But some Congress leaders are spreading rumours about this decision in the country and abroad".

"Bangkok, Thailand,
Vietnam... You (Congress) are free to import abuses from wherever you want, say what you want. But please, don't backstab India that is moving forward," PM Modi said

The Prime Minister did not explicitly explain the reference to the south-east Asian countries. But it is seen a reference to the buzz on social media about Rahul Gandhi's recent trip abroad.

Modi also dared the Congress to announce that it would bring back Article 370 when it comes to power if it was so convinced that the decision to scrap the provision wasn't in public interest.

BATTLEGROUND HARYANA

The PM who spoke about the steps that his Government had taken for ex-servicemen and defence personnel, told farmers that he had started working on stopping water flowing into Pakistan that rightfully belongs to the people of Haryana and Rajasthan. He said India would not allow its water to flow to Pakistan. "For 70 years, the water which belongs to India and the farmers of Haryana flowed to Pakistan. Modi will stop this water (from flowing into Pakistan) and bring to your houses," the Prime Minister said in an election meeting.

He said the farmers of Haryana and Rajasthan have the rights over the water that is flowing to Pakistan and was not being stopped by earlier Indian Governments. "Modi aapki ladai ladega (Modi will fight your battle)," he assured the people at the rally. The Prime Minister said that Chinese President Xi Jinping during their informal summit in Mahabalipuram, told him that he had watched the Aamir Khan-starrer Dangal "which showcased excellent performance of daughters of India". "During my recent India". "During my recent informal summit with Chinese President Xi Jinping, he said to me that he had seen 'Dangal' which showcased excellent performance of daughters of India.

I felt really proud of Haryana on hearing this," he added. Praising Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar, Modi said: "'Beti Bachao Beti Padhao' campaign would not have been effective without the support of Haryana villages." Playing an emotional card, the Prime Minister said: "I don't come to Harvana for election rallies, I don't campaign for the BJP in Harvana, I don't ask for votes in Haryana. Haryana itself calls me. I can't stop myself from coming here. You have given me so much love."

Confident of his party's return to the second consecutive term, the Prime Minister said the BJP was going to form the Government again in the State. He said this Diwali should be dedicated to "our daughters".

"We will have two types of Diwali this time. A 'diya' (earthen lamp) Diwali, and a 'kamal' (lotus) Diwali. We should dedicate this Diwali to our daughters and celebrate their achievements."

"It's clear, the BJP has decided to serve Haryana again, these people have decided to let BJP serve them," he added. Haryana has been witnessing change due to a "dou-ble engine" of development, according to the Prime

"The double engine of Modi in Delhi and Manohar Lal Khattar in Haryana has resulted in unprecedented development of the State," he said.

In his speech in Thanesar he said the Centre was making all arrangements to celebrate the 550th birth anniversary of Guru Nanak Dev. founder of the Sikh faith, across the world.

"The whole country is busy with the 550th birth anniver-sary celebrations of Guru Nanak Dev and the Centre is making all arrangements to celebrate this event across the world," Modi said.

"I am happy that the Kartarpur Corridor (project) is going to complete," he said, adding that his Government had got the opportunity to rectify, to some extent, the "political and strategic mistake" that took place seven decades ago. "I am hopeful that Parkash Purb will bring joy," Modi said.

The corridor will connect Darbar Sahib in Pakistan's Kartarpur with Dera Baba Nanak shrine in Gurdaspur district in Punjab. It will facilitate visa-free movement of Indian pilgrims who will have to just obtain a permit to visit Kartarpur Sahib, which is located in Pakistan's Narowal district across the Ravi river.

BJP faces tough battle in Jat, Muslim belts; Cong sees advantage

m he\ Bharatiya\ Janata\ Party}_{
m (BJP)\ may\ have\ an\ advan-}$ tage in the Haryana Assembly polls but the ride to power may not be without hurdles

The party is facing a tough battle in Jat-dominated central Haryana, Muslim-dominated southern part of the States and areas adjoining Delhi. Understanding the political calculation of South Haryana, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and senior Congress leader Rahul Gandhi recently addressed rallies to woo the voters in their favour. Modi raised national issue while Rahul spoke on local issues like unemployment, farmers' distress among others.

South Haryana is an underdeveloped region of and has dearth of water, road, transport and protracted demand of University and educational institutes. Successive Haryana governments have discriminated in development of South Harvana, 'Neglect' of Rewari-Mahendergarh-Gurgaon belt in terms of development works, government jobs, public trans-port especially roads and supply of water and power are demands from a long time period.While caste still remains the single biggest factor, other major factors are likely to influence the elections to the 90-seat Haryana assembly, which goes to the polls on Oct 21.

Of the 14 seats in south Haryana, comprising Gurugram, Mewat, Rewari and Mahendgarh districts, four of the eight sitting MLAs in the region, including Haryana PWD Minister Rao Narbir Singh, have been denied ticket Some BIP leaders who have in Mewat as a sizable Muslim population here has either backed Congress or Indian National Lok Dal (INLD) in the past. BJP has little hope in Punahana seat in Nuh district where Nauksham Chaudhary is the candidate. It has pinned all its hopes on Zakir Hussain and Naseem Ahmed in Nuh and Ferozepur Jhirka seats, respec-

of key 1857 rebellion leader Rao Tula Ram, enjoys huge action against dissidents

Caste dynamics and prior-Caste dynamics and priorities, an ever-present factor in Haryana politics have been reflected in the list of candidates for both the Congress and the BJP. Both the parties claim that they have the support of both Jats and Muslims.

The contest is largely twoway between BJP and Congress, as the INLD is now both divided and decimated. While the BIP is flush with resources and the morale is creating roadblocks.

BJP has always been weak

Inderjit Singh, descendant support in the region, also known as the 'Ahirwal belt', dominated by the Yadavs. Seeking ticket for his daughter Arti Singh Rao from Rewari, Inderiit Singh has been sulking after the high command decided not to field the family and the relatives of the sitting MLAs and MPs. He is also upset over the party not accommodating enough number of his supporters. Amid reports of Inderjit Singh not being happy with the treatment meted out to him in the party, he is also said to have met former Haryana Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda a few days back. With the sitting MLAs being denied ticket, BJP has sent out a clear message of high, the Congress is unable to remove dissension from its state leadership. Unlike Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan, where the BJP governments were laden with antiincumbency and corruption charges, the Manohar Lal Khattar government remains unaffected by either. The Congress faces a very difficult Congress faces a very difficult task if it wishes to pose a credible challenge to the BJP.

For long, Jats, who constitute around 27 per cent of the population, have dominated the politics of the state. Hisar, Bhiwani, Mahendragarh, Rohtak, Jhajjar, Sonipat, Jind and Kaithal form the heart of Haryana's Jat belt. In 2014, Congress was restricted to its family bastions of Rohtak, bastions of Rohtak, Sonepat and Jhajjar winning 15 seats. Chautala's INLD registered better success by winning in pockets of Sirsa, Fatehabad, Bhiwani and Mewat belt. The chasm between Jats and non-Jats has become more pronounced since the Jat reserva-tion agitation in February 2016.

While Congress and INLD are trying to focus on local governance issues, BJP is banking on Khattar's clean record and PM Narendra Modi's charisma.

claimed that jobs and educational institutions were earlier cornered by two districts of Rohtak and Sonepat—family boroughs of Hoodas.

"Abki baar, sattar paar (this time, cross 70)" this is the confident call of BJP which stormed a largely-Jat domi-nated political landscape of Haryana in 2014. BJP's major gains in 2014 came from this region spread from Chandigarh, Panchkula, Ambala, Yamunanagar, Kurukshetra, Karnal and Panipat. Behind the clear safwave was BJP's unique social engineering experiment as give a voice to non-Jat Punjabi-speaking baniya community, which had long been politically insignificant. Once again, BJP is unabashedly banking on upper caste and baniya-khatri votes. This posibanya-Khaut votes. This posi-tioning has been strengthened by projecting Khattar as the unchallenged leader in the State. After some initial fumbling during the lat quota agitation in 2016 and the Ram Rahim case, Khattar has managed to make a mark. BJP is playing the nationalism and development cards to good

BJP's assessment is that it is facing a challenge in the Rohtak-Sonipat region and may lose some seats to Congress. Union minister Narendra Singh Tomar and BJP general secretary in-charge of the state Anil Jain are camping in this area to improve the party's prospects. BJP candidate Meena Narwal is on a weak wicket in Kharkhauda reserved seat in Sonepat. After losing in the Lok Sabha elections, Congress leader Bhupinder Singh Hooda is giving the party a tough fight in other seats of this region as well. Anil Jain, BJP general secretary in-charge of Haryana said that nationalism is a big issue as 10.6 per cent of defence forces are constituted by people from the state. "Many of them have made the supreme sacrifice for the country in Kashmir," he added.

The BJP has made national security, nullifying Article 370 in Jammu and Kashmir and corruption-free govern-ment its poll agenda. Congress leaders, however, maintain that issues in the state polls are dif-ferent. Former chief minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda dismisses the BJP challenge and has trashed the performance of Khattar nment."Whatever they may claim, people have made up their mind to oust this nonperforming government," he added. The former Haryana chief minister has not only raised development issues of his constituency but of entire Haryana. Hooda claims that the BJP government has shown bias while releasing develop-ment funds for his area. He said that the BJP has stopped all development works in his con-titude. From 2015 to 2014 stituency. From 2005 to 2014, when he was the chief minis-ter, the constituency had witnessed unprecedented development. "The BJP government has been working as an event management company which is focusing only on performing events rather than under-standing the basic issues. Corruption has increased and jobs have been sold. The BJP government has not complet-ed even a single promise of its won nine, ally SAD got one, while Congress got four. Khattar government's action against Ram Rahim Singh and other dera heads may cost BJP some Dalit votes, which have always been divided between Congress and BSP.

Sources in the BJP said the party brass does not want the cadre to get complacent and all efforts are afoot to fight with all its might. BJP chief Amit Shah and working president JP Nadda are holding rallies across the State. Focus has been laid in Jat dominate constituencies and South Harvana. PM Modi will hold four rallies, three of his rallies were organised at Ballabhgarh in Faridabad and Kurukshetra and Charkhi

In Hisar, though ex-Congress state unit chief Ashok Tanwar quitting the party will help BJP, the road is tough due to Jannayak Janata Party (JJP) and Indian National Lok Dal (INLD). Kuldeep Bishnoi (Congress) is also a strong condidate against Tik-Tok star and BJP nominee Sonali Phogat. Caste politics has always a part of elections in Adampur which is dominated by the Jat community. Adampur has been a pocket borough of the Lal Clan and a Congress bastion. The politics of Adampur, particularly the Vidhan Sabha, is mostly dominated by the Bishnoi family. The Adampur Assembly electorate has brought in Bhajan Lal and his family members 13 times in a row since 1968.

Though BJP has fielded estler Yogeshwar Dutt in Baroda (Jind), sources said it is not an easy battle and the party will have to make a strong effort to pull through. The party is also facing some rebellion in Faridabad and Gurugram where those who were denied a ticket are covertly opposing the BJP candidates. BJP is faced with the same problem in Rewari and a few other neighbouring constituencies.

The political challenge for the International wrestler Babita Phogat that BJP has fielded in Dadri Vidhan Sabha constituency will be no less than what she faced in the sporting arena. Major contestants in this constituency are tants in this constituency are Satpal Sangwan of Jannayak Janata Party (JJP), Major Nirpender Sangwan of Congress, Babita Phogat of BJP and Somvir Sangwan of BJP rebel contesting as an independent candidate. Denied independent candidate. Denied ticket by national political parties, including the BIP and the Congress, the unsuccessful applicants of these parties have jumped into the poll fight, making the contest for the Dadri Assembly seat multi-cornered. In 2014, Congress was restricted to its family bastions of Rohtak, Sonepat and Jhajjar winning 15 seats. ## Regional players battling for survival in State politics

NISHU MAHAJAN CHANDIGARH

As the electors of Haryana braces for the October 21 State Assembly polls, their crucial vote will decide the fate of regional parties, which are looking at a risk of going into oblivion after their dismal run in the past elections. While the Bharativa Janata Party is looking to retain power in Harvana, another national party-Congress is hoping for a comeback in the state. However, the State Assembly polls is no less than a matter of survival for the regional parties including Indian National Lok Dal, Jannayak Janta Party, Bahujan Samaj Party, Aam Aadmi Party among others. The 90-member Haryana assembly will go to polls on October 21.

Apart from national parties—BJP and Congress, the regional players in the fray for 2019 assembly polls are Indian National Lok Dal-Shiromani Akali Dal alliance, IIP, AAP, BSP, Loktantra Suraksha Party

(LSP) and Swaraj India. The three regional players—JJP, LSP and AAP-- will contest the Haryana Assembly polls for the first time. These three political parties had failed to impress in Lok Sabha polls held earlier this year.

The data with Election

Commission shows that ascend of the BIP in the state in past election has pushed the regional parties to the wall.

In the year 2014, the BJP had roared to power recording absolute majority for the first time on its own in Haryana, recording a vote share of 33.24 percent. This was a huge jump from saffron party's vote share of just 9.05 percent recorded in 2009, 10.36 percent in 2005, 8.94 percent in 2000 and 8.88 percent in 1996 State Assembly

While the saffron party had managed to win 47 seats in 2014 Assembly, it had never won more than 16 assembly seats or was polled more than 10.8 percent votes in any of the past Haryana assembly elections.

From four MLAs in 2009 to 47 in 2014, the BJP has now set its eyes on winning '75 seats' in 2019 assembly polls.

The poll results in Harvana suggests that other political parties have failed to hold their ground as their vote share continued to decline in the past several election cycles.

According to the political observers, leadership crisis and factionalism in opposition par-ties have also led to the strengthening of BJP in the state.

The EC data reveal that there is a surprising degree of instability and decline in the relative appeal of national party Congress and INLD, which was once a major regional play-

The Congress' vote share was 20.61 percent in 2014 State Assembly polls, a decline from 35.11 percent in 2009 polls and 42.46 percent vote in 2005

For the INLD, there is a continuous downfall in vote share from 2000 assembly polls. It recorded 29.61 percent vote share in 2000, 26.77 percent in 2005, 25.81 percent in 2009 and 24.73 per cent in 2014. In 2014, the BJP had won

47 seats, INLD secured 19 seats, Congress managed to win 15, Haryana Janhit Congress (merged with Congress) won two, one each won by Shiromani Akali Dal and Bahujan Samaj Party and five independents were elected to the 90-member State Assembly.

Prior to this in 2009 assembly polls, the Congress had won 40 seats, INLD 31, HJC 6, BJP 4, BSP 1 and independents won eight seats.

The BSP had won one seat each in past four assembly polls while its vote share had declined to 4.52 percent in 2014 from 6.74 in 2009 assembly elections. The BSP's vote share was 5 44 in 1996, 5 74 in 2000 and 3.22 in 2005.

While talking to The Pioneer, Kulwant Singh Nehra, Assistant Professor, RBI chair at Chandigarh-based Centre for Research in Rural and Industrial Development (CRRID) said, "The infighting in Congress and leadership crisis in INLD have weakened these political parties while 'Modi factor' has strengthened the BJP in Haryana in the past five years. Also, strong polarization of non-Jat vote has been working in favour of BJP and is a big disadvantage to regional parties."

"A regional party -- Haryana Vikas Party-- founded by former Chief Minister Bansi Lal had managed to woo the voters in 1996 assembly polls and had later merged into the Congress in 2004. Another regional player-Haryana Janhit Congress founded by former Chief Minister Bhaian Lal had failed to impress the voters and it had merged with the Congress in 2016," he said.
Nehra said, "INLD was once a strong regional player but after its chief OP Chautala went to prison in 2013 and then party's split last year, this regional party is now battling for its survival in state's politics. There are several regional parties like JJP, BSP, AAP and LSP in the fray. But apart from IIP, others are unlikely to make a major impact on the voters this time,"

"On most of the assembly seats in Haryana, the contest is either two-cornered or three-cornered with BJP, Congress and JJP being the major players," Nehra said.

"In the past one year, many prominent leaders from various political parties have joined the ruling BJP, helping it gaining a distinct advantage over its rivals in the elections," he added. Notably, the saffron party had won all 10 parliamentary seats in Haryana in general elec-

2014 2009

Not only in assembly polls but the BJP's vote share had also witnessed increase in Lok Sabha polls. The saffron party got 58 percent vote share in 2019 parliamentary polls against the vote share of 34.7 per cent in 2014 and 17.21 per cent in 2009 general elections.

Even as the Congress' vote share increased to 28.42 percent in Lok Sabha polls 2019 from 22.9 percent in 2014 polls, the party had failed to register a victory even on a single seat in the state.

The INLD's vote share declined to dismal 1.89 percent in 2019 from its vote share of 24.4 per cent in 2014. The AAP's vote share had also declined to 0.4 percent in 2019 LS polls from 4.2 percent in

On the other hand, the BSP had got a vote share of 3.64 per-

Capt confident of Cong sweeping all 4 bypolls

Punjab Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Tuesday said that he was 101 per cent confident of the Congress sweeping all the four bypolls in the State

At the same time, he lashed out at the Akalis for their criticism of his government over failed promises, pointing out that all promises were being fulfilled, in stages, and the remaining would also be implemented as the fiscal situation of the state improves. "Even in my previous term, I had ensured the fulfilment of all promises," he pointed out.

The Chief Minister, on a road-show to campaign in favour of party's candidate for Dakha bypolls Captain Sandeep Sandhu, described him as a committed worker with the welfare of the people close to his heart. The mood was in favour of the Congress as the people want development, which his government was delivering to them, he added. Interacting with journal-ists during the roadshow, Capt Amarinder also lashed out at Pakistan over the imposition of 20 dollars fee on Indian pilgrims visiting Kartarpur Gurdwara via the Corridor, saying that it was tantamount to putting a

"How will the poor pilgrims pay this amount," he asked, pointing out that all the devoees would be placing 'chadawa', in any case, at the gurdwara of their own volition. The Sikh religion propounds 'khulle darshan' ticket on visiting the gurdwara.

To a question on the final programme with regard to the Kartarpur Corridor inaugura-tion, the Chief Minister said that it was being worked out with Islamabad by the Government of India.

"Punjab Government is working closely with the Centre to ensure that all infrastructural and other works for the historic event are completed well in time. I hope that Pakistan too would meet its promised dead-line to make the 550th prakash purb truly historic for the Sikh ommunity," he said.
On Delhi Chief Minister

Arvind Kejriwal's statements blaming Punjab and Haryana for the high level of pollutions in Delhi, Capt Amarinder said that though the stubble being burnt in Pakistan and the north ern states was carrying pollu-tants to the national capital due to the westerly winds, it was only a small part of the problem.

The bigger issue is that Delhi had more pollution of its own than Haryana and Punjab put together," he said, accusing Kejrwal of trying to diver blame to the other states to hide his own failures. Notwithstanding this, however, his government was taking all possible steps to ensure that the few misguided farmers who are still burning paddy straw in Punjab also put an end to the damaging practice, said the Chief Minister.

| NSUI condemns Khattar's 'shameful' remarks

Chandigarh: Castigating Haryana CM Manohar Lal Khattar for his "shameful" remarks, the National Students Union of India's (NSUI) Punjab unit president Akshay Sharma on Tuesday demanded his unconditional apology while warning the BJP that people will teach them a lesson in the forthcoming Assembly polls.

"The sheer arrogance of those who have ruined the country in last five years with their mindless policies will be served a lesson in these elections," said Sharma while speaking to the media on the sidelines of a havan yagya being per-formed by NSUI Punjab unit "to pray to God for blessing Khattar with some good sense". He added that shameful comments against Congress working president Sonia Gandhi reflect their medieval mindset, and "nothing less than an unconditional apology from Khattar would do".

Lashing out at BJP for the monumental financial mess, the NSUI leader said that the unemployment was wrecking havoc with lives of masses while BIP was singing songs of their fictional success.

PARLIAMENT RENOVATION

LS Secretariat seeks MPs' suggestions

The Lok Sabha Secretariat has sought suggestions from MPs on changes needed in the present structure of the Parliament and the scale of renovation required in the new scheme of things where Government is set to remodel and develop the whole area in and around it, to be completed by 2022.

The suggestions were sought in a letter sent to the Lok Sabha members on October 11. According to the plan, the Government would also redevelop the 3 km-stretch of the Central Vista spanning from Rashtrapati Bhavan to India Gate.

The letter said, "... There is active consideration regarding either renovation of the exist-ing Parliament building or construction of altogether a new Parliament building within the given premises.

It sought suggestions from the members to "rectify the drawbacks or faulty features" causing inconvenience in their day-to-day functioning in the existing building.

They have also been asked to suggest features or facilities which should be provided in the new building to make it "foolproof".

CR Patil directs to cut facilities in illegal abode of MPs

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Putting further pressure on VIP squatters, the Lok Sabha Housing Committee chairman CR Patil on Tuesday issued directions to cut electricity, water and gas supply in the accommodation illegally occupied by MPs. The committee, chaired by BJP MP CR Patil, decided to approach Delhi Police to ensure that the ex-MPs vacate the accommodation allotted to them in Lutvens Delhi.

According to the rules, former MPs have to vacate their bungalows within one month of dissolution of the previous Lok Sabha. #### Army Chief pitches for inclusion of indigenous technology in armed forces

New Delhi: Army Chief Gen Bipin Rawat on Tuesday pitched for greater inclusion of indigenous technology in the armed forces and asserted that India will fight and win the next war with home-grown solutions.

In his address at the 41st DRDO Directors Conference, he also said the development of weaponry and other systems should be done keeping "future warfare" in mind. "And, if we are looking at contours of future warfare, it may not necessarily be contact warfare. So, there is realm of non-contact warfare. We need to start looking at development of cyberspace, space, laser, electronic warfare and robotics. And, along with that Artificial Intelligence (AI)," Rawat said."And, if we do not start thinking on it now, it will be too late," he said. He praised the Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) for its achievements in the last few decades and said India is making great strides in research and development. "We are confident the services will greatly benefit from it," he said.

"India is one of the largest importers of weapons and ammunition, and after 70 years of Independence, it is not a very proud statement to make. But in the past few years, it is changing. DRDO is striving to ensure our requirements of services are met with home-grown solutions," Rawat said. PTI

Scientists warns of wasp causing loss to Jamun tree growers | ICAR devise kits to detect, | SC quashes Delhi HC order

ARCHANA JYOTI . NEW DELHI

Indian Scientists have warned that a Jamun berries and seed-eater wasp, scientifically known as 'A. kerrichi' is fast spreading its wings, threatening to inflict losses on Jamun tree growers.
Commonly found, evergreen Jamun is an economically important tree in India, which also has medicinal properties. Its berries and seeds are much sought after for their antioxidant, antiinflammatory, anti-microbial and free-radical-scavenging properties.

However, the tiny but a potential pest of Jamun, A kerrichi, an eulohid seed borer which was reported from the agricultural fields in Pune way back in 1957, has been recently found seriously damaging the berries in Jamun trees (S Cumini) in fields in Karnataka's rural Bangaluru

The result of the study conducted by the scientists from ICAR-Indian Institute of Horticultural Research, country's leading institute in Bangaluru is published in the latest journal of the Current Science. The scientists have called for spraying botanical pesticides as heavy infestation of jamun fruits by the wasp renders the berries unmarketable and hence loss to the farmers The authors of the study noted that A kerrichi was ini-tially reported from Pune, Maharashtra in 1957 "Resides this, no reports that highlight the economic importance and nature of damage of this eulophid seed borer in Jamun are available, possibly due to its limited distribution/occurrence

"However, in the recent past, several incidences of A terrichi attacking S. cumini fruits causing extensive crop loss have been noticed in farmers' fields in rural Bengaluru, says the study that provides experimental details of the ning management interventions. "In Jamun both whole fruit as well as seed are economically important. Considering the vast damage it can cause and the ability to build up in huge numbers (85 per fruit) in over-critical fruit stages that are susceptible to the pest for planlem to Jamun growers. Further larval feeding affects seed viability and rate of germination As the critical stage for infestation is G2, application of safe botanical pesticides at this stage may help reduce seed borer infestation," said the scientists.

They had randomly collected A kerrichi infested jamun fruits in different developmental stages from the infested trees. The collected fruits were separated into five groups, namely G1-G5 based on their size, colour and hardness. Observations on fruit diameter, length, mesocarp thickness and seed diameter from all the phenological stages (G1-G5) were made and recorded daily.

It was noted that heavy infestation of jamun fruits by A kerrichi had rendered the fruits unmarketable.

The scientists included P D Kamala Jayanthi, BR Jayanthi Mala and Anjana Subramoniam(Division of Entomology and Nematology) and A Rekha (Division of Fruit Crops) from the Bangaluru based institute.

Earlier this year, more than 100 children died in Bihar's Muzaffarpur due to an outbreak of acute encephalitis syndrome (AES).

This diagnostic kit has

The government and ICAR would now work towards mak-ing this kit available in village and block levels, he said. Talking about the second kit to diagnose 'bluetongue', Mohapatra said the disease is found in cattle and goats and is even cause of death of these animals. "We are the first country in the world to develop a diagnostic kit for bluetongue disease," he said, adding that it can also provide export opportunities in long-term. Mohapatra, who is also the secretary of Department of Agricultural Research and Education, said the two kits would help in controlling these diseases at very early stage and prevent them from spreading.

The disease is widespread among sheep, goats, cattle, buf-faloes and camels in the country and is even cause of death of these animals.

restraining IT department taking action against Gautam Khaitan

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday quashed the Delhi High Court's interim order restraining the Income Tax (IT) department from taking any action against VVIP chopper scam accused Gautam Khaitan, against whom a sep-arate black money laundering case has been lodged, saying it was "not sustainable in law".

The apex court set aside the May 16 order of the high court which had also said that the black money law cannot be allowed to operate with retrospective effect from July 1, 2015.

A three-judge bench headed by Justice Arun Mishra asked the high court to decide the petition pending before it on its own merits and unin-fluenced by the observations of the top court.
The bench, also comprising justices M R Shah and B R Gavai, said that the scheme of the Black Money Act is to "provide stringent measures for curbing the menace of black money" and various offences have been defined and stringent punishments have been provided under the law

"It would further be relevant to note that sub--section (3) of section 1 of the Black Money Act, itself provides that save as otherwise provided in this Act, it shall come into force on 1st day of July, 2015. A conjoint reading of the various provisions would reveal that the assessing officer can charge the taxes only from the assessment year commencing on or after April 1, 2016. However, the value of the said asset has to be as per its valuation in the previous year," the bench noted in its 13-page verdict. "As such, we find that the high court was not right in holding that, by the notification/order impugned before it, the penal provisions were made retrospectively applica-ble," the bench said.

It noted that the Black Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015 was passed by the Parliament on May 11, 2015 and it had received Presidential assent on May 26, 2015.

Cong performance; will win both seats: Pilot

Rajasthan Deputy Chief Minister Rand State Congress president Sachin Pilot on Tuesday said Mandawa and Khinwsar Assembly bypolls will be the test of the work done by his party Government and claimed it will win both the seats with "huge" margins.

The bypolls were necessitated after Khinwsar (Nagaur) MLA Hanuman Beniwal and Mandava (Jhunjhunu) MLA Narendra Kumar (BJP) were elected to Lok Sabha in

"The bypolls are the test of the work of the Government and we are prepared for that. We will win the seats with huge margin. When the Congress was in opposition for five years, we won all bypolls and this time, we are in the Government and there is no reason for not winning life of people better. We ought to do whatever is possible to help people at personal, social and administrative level," he said.

Pilot said it is important for every public representative to stay cted with people.

While Congress has fielded for-mer MLAs Rita Chaudhary in Mandawa and Harendra Mirdha in Khimsar, the BJP has given ticket to Sushila Sigra in Mandawa and is contesting the bypolls in alliance with MP Hanuman Beniwal's Rashtriya Loktantrik Party (RLP) on Khimsar where Beniwal's brother Narayan Beniwal is the alliance

Rajasthan bypolls to test UP Govt doing away with 25,000 home guards

The Uttar Pradesh Government is doing away with 25,000 home guards, saying the State cannot afford the new allowances the Supreme Court has asked it to pay.

The daily allowance for the home guards is now ₹672, up from the ₹500 before the court order in July.

The Government said this would have cost the State an extra expenditure of ₹10 to ₹12 crore every month

It, therefore, decided not to deploy home guards meant for security at police stations and traffic signals. The home guards are not permanent employees and are recruited on a casual basis. Officials said a large number were taken on in April. The Supreme Court in July, however, meant a hike in the cost of deploying them. According to an order issued by Additional Director General (ADG) BP Jogdand, "The decision not to deploy 25,000 home guards was taken on August 28 this year in a meeting chaired by the Uttar Pradesh chief secretary.

The home guards were deployed through a government order dated April

Home Guards do not have any fixed monthly salary and are paid based on the number of days of duty. Till now they have been expected to work for 25 days but the government decreased it to 15 days.

Uttar Pradesh Director General of Police OP Singh said this step has been taken due to the extra financial burden on the police department following the Supreme Court order and it is a temporary one. "After the Supreme Court order, the police department would have had to bear the extra burden of ₹10 to ₹12 crore per month. This decision of not giving post-ings is a temporary one, and if and when required they will be called for duty," the DGP said.

Assembly bypolls.

Opposition leader and former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, state Congress president Dinesh Gundu Rao and senior party functionaries attended the meeting.

Elections are due in 15 constituencies after the resignation and subsequent dis-qualification of 17 MLAs, comprising 14 Congress MLAs and three JD(S) MLAs.

The annual budget of MNREGA is ₹35,000 crore and the Modi Government cut corporate tax worth ₹1.25 lakh crore in a single day, Gandhi said.

Referring to Defence Minister Rajnath Singh's France visit, he said the latter did a puja of the Rafale fighter jet (while taking symbolic delivery of the first aircraft). "But ₹35,000 crore were stolen from the jet deal. The media will not write about this because it is being controlled by industrial-

Your money is given to the media so that they publicise Modi," he alleged.

Maharashtra has the opportunity to solve all these problems by voting for the Congress and NCP, he said. "We will install a govern-ment which will work for the poor, farmers, labourers, and small and medium businesses," he added. At a rally at Arvi in Wardha district, Gandhi accused the Modi Government of weakening all pro-poor schemes of the UPA regime, including the MNREGA, RTI Act, Right to Food and the land acquisition bill."BJP made fun of MNREGA which had given a boost to the economy," he

The GST's purpose was to finish off small and medium businesses, the Congress leader claimed."Don't let this happen in Maharashtra. Let's stop this here," he said.

Maha BJP manifesto repetition of old promises, says Cong's Deb

The All India Congress Committee women's wing president Sushmita Deb called the BJP manifesto released on Tuesday for the Maharashtra Assembly polls as a repetition of old promises.

Creation of one crore jobs in the next five years, providing houses for all by 2022 and ushering in USD 1 trillion economy are the key promises made in the ruling

"It is a classic case of repetition of old promises. The reason is simple. Promises of 2014 remain unfulfilled. This explains why after five years, BJP-Shiv Sena Government has no concrete achievement to showcase," she said at a press conference here.

Deb said agriculture sector had worsened, unemployment had risen sharply, crimes against women had seen a severe spike and promise of clean drinking water remain

While the BIP-Sena Government promised double-digit growth in agriculture, the actual rate was a mea-gre 0.4 per cent, which had led to eight farmers committing suicide every day, she claimed. "The BJP's manifesto promises one crore jobs over the next five years. This is yet another jumla given sharp rise in unemployment which has tripled under this Government. In fact every third young per son in urban areas is today less," Deb said. She said 2000 factories had shut down and Maharashtra was no longer the preferred destination and lagged behind Uttar Pradesh and Jharkhand in ease of doing of business. Abridged Tender Notice No. HWH-I-15-19-20 (Open Tender)-for Crime against women were rising sharply, including a 300 per cent increase in cases of abduction besides 11 rapes reg-istered every day, Deb stated, adding that the Devendra Fadnavis government had not used a single rupee from the

Rane-led MSP merges with BJP, Sena miffed

TN RAGHUNATHA MUMBAI

In what came as a snub to the Shiv Sena, the Maharashtra Swabhiman Party (MSP), headed by former Chief Minister Narayan Rane, merged with the ruling BJP, in the presence of Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis.

Undeterred by the stiff resistance from its ally Shiv Sena to the entry of Rane and his two sons, the ruling BJP went ahead and allowed the MSP's merger with it at an election rally organised for Sr Rane's son Nitesh and the BJP candidate at Kankavli Assembly constituency in Sindhudurg district.

While Nitesh had joined the BJP and filed his nomination from his new party early this month, Sr Rane, his another son and former MP supporters formally entered the BJP. their Speaking at Nitesh's cam-paign rally, Chief Minister Fadnavis heaped praise on Sr Rane saying: "Narayan Rane has a special place in Maharashtra politics. He is well-versed in many subjects. In way, he has been a part of the BIP ever since he went to Rajya Sabha early last year with the BJP's support".

"All were waiting for this (merger) for a long time. It has finally happened today.

There is hardly any competition here. The BJP will benefit hugely with the Ranes' entry to the party," Fadnavis

Meanwhile, the Shiv Sena leadership has not taken kindly to the MSP's merger with the BJP. Sena President Uddhav Thackeray, who will be campaigning in Kankavli and Savantwadi constituencies, is expected to spell out his stand on the MSP's merger with the BJP. On its part, the Sena - notwithstanding its alliance with Sr Rane — has put up its candidate against Nitesh Rane. In ssence, the fight would be between the Sena and BJP in Kankavli constituency.

Fadnavis said that Nitesh would win the Assembly polls with a thumping margin. He, however, advised Nitesh, known for his losing his cool on some pretext or the other, to restrain himself and learn to remain calm. There had been speculation in the State political circles that he would join the BJP along with his two son Nitesh and Nilesh. His entry to the BJP was being resisted by its ally Shiv Sena for a very long.

He had earlier announced that he would join the BJP on October 2. Rane made an announcement about merging the MSP with the BJP, while campaigning for his party candidate Rajan Teli. "The BJP is getting strong in Konkan region. My son Nitesh and his supporters joined the BJP ear-lier. I will merge my party with the BJP in the presence of chief minister Devendra Fadnavis on October 15," he

Having been associated with the Shiv Sena since early seventies, Rane had emerged as a senior leader in the party and was made the chief minister of Maharashtra, a post he held between February 1, 1999 and October 17, 1999 when the Sena-BJP alliance was ruling the State.

NCP MLC, ex-MLA join BJP

Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) MLC Ramrao Wadkute and former party MLA Bappu Pathare joined the BJP on Tuesday, ahead of the next week's Maharashtra

president IMIM Almiivi Asaduddin Owaisi has said "" Pachtra" Bharat is "not a Hindu Rashtra' and they will also not let it

His comments came after RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat last week said the Sangh is firm on its vision that "Bharat is a Hindu Rashtra". Addressing an election rally on Monday night in Kalyan town of Maharashtra's Thane district for party candidate Aiaz Moulavi Owaisi said a section of society wants to paint the entire country in one colour, but "we see Hindustan in multiple colours, it is the beauty of Hindustan"

"Bharat is not a Hindu Rashtra, and Inshallah, we will not allow it to become so," he said.

Alleging that the Shiv Sena was against the green colour, he said, "Change your spectacles and you will see the green colour in the National flag also."

He said Bharat is unique pluralism. There is no other country in the world as Bharat and "we are proud of it". "I want to tell those in the RSS that we are not living here on your sympathy. If you want to measure the index of my happiness or sorrow, you Constitution has given to us," Owaisi said.

Opp claims trees chopped for PM's Oct 17 Pune rally

PTI ■ PUNE

Opposition parties in Maharashtra have alleged that some trees located on the campus of Sir Parshuram (SP) College in Pune were chopped on Monday for Prime Minister Narendra Modi's October 17 rally, which will be held on the college ground.

The college authorities on Tuesday denied the allegation saying only certain branches hanging dangerously were cut for the safety of students who play there, which has nothing to do with the PM's event.

NCP MP Vandana Chavan allege around the ground, where the rally will be held, were felled by the college administration.

"As per the information with us, trees were cut from the stems which is unacceptable," alleged Chavan.

president Madhuri Misal, one of the trustees of Shikshan Prasarak Mandali (SPM) which runs the SP College, refuted the allegations saying chopping of trees had no connection with the PM's programme.

After Savarkar. BJP may propose Bharat Ratna for Godse: D Raja

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Slamming the BJP for moot-ing Bharat Ratna award for V D Savarkar, Communist Party of India general secretary D Raja on Tuesday said the ruling party may even propose the honour for Mahatma Gandhi's killer Nathuram Godse.

The election manifesto of Maharashtra BJP, released on Tuesday said the party will ask the NDA Government at the Centre to confer India's highest civilian award on Vinayak Damodar Savarkar, popularly known as Veer Savarkar.

"This is biggest irony of our times that while we are all cel-ebrating the birth centenary of Gandhiji, the BJP is seeking Bharat Ratna to Savarkar, who was an accused in his assassi-nation case," Raja told PTI here

"The day may not be far off for BJP to demand Bharat Ratna to Gandhiji's assassin Nathuram Godse. This is part of their agenda," the CPI leader said.

PAPER WITH PASSION = Pakistan slips up

Though it may not be blacklisted, it does slide further on compliances required for countering terror at FATF akistan may not be blacklisted by the Financial Action Task Force (FATF), the inter-governmental forum that links terror funding to freezing international aid, but India's persistent campaign against it nursing terror hubs has clearly paid off. It now appears that Pakistan could slip into the "dark grey" list, a severe warning to take correctives, as it has but fulfilled only six of the 27 conditions of compliance to evade curfew altogether. Besides, the common cause on terror hubs impacting domestic politics that India has managed to drum up around the world, particularly winning US endorsement on this effort, means Pakistan has few friends. In August, the FATF's Asia Pacific subgroup placed it in the "enhanced blacklist" for its failure to meet global standards. Yet its Prime Minister Imran Khan has been lobbying hard for the overall FATF vote, diverting attention from the terror factory at home to Kashmir, forging a new Islamic alliance with Turkey and Malaysia for a crusade-like stance against the Western world, still dangling the Taliban sword to keep the US invested in its relevance for Afghanistan and playing on Chinese anxieties about the Indo-US axis. And while Pakistan may scrape through this time, requiring just three members' support to escape a funding ban, it has still got away by being a strategic counterweight for others' geo-political concerns rather than attempting any course correction at home. What else explains the renewed push for militancy in Kashmir? That problem continues and can only be beaten by now normalising life in the Valley. Discontent cannot be allowed to fester under lockdown for Pakistan's no-risk benefit schemes.

So what are India's obstacles? The recent incremental push in bilateral relations with China has meant that it has come around to agreeing with our viewpoint of combatting terror without referencing Pakistan. How else could it justify its own clampdown on Uighur Muslims? And though it dragged its feet at the UN. it did assent to designating Masood Azhar as a global terrorist. But as the new president of the FATF, China isn't expected to ignore concerns of its all-weather friend Pakistan. It has wriggled a bit here and there but cannot abandon its ally given its strategic interests in the region. Direct transactional benefits with China will frankly take a long time to mature as significant tradeoffs on Pakistan. Of course, there are two more nations, Turkey and Malaysia, to deal with. Both are now spearheading a new-Islamic axis as India has stepped up diplomatic engagement and is building on mutual understanding with the UAE and Saudi Arabia. In fact, India has made significant inroads in the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation (OIC), which has traditionally been opposed to it on Kashmir. But with the UAE and Saudi Arabia inviting India as an "observer" in its last edition, the OIC has warmed up a bit albeit Malaysia and Turkey continue to support Pakistan. In fact, Khan is now advocating a trilateral forum for a neo-Islamic world distinct from the traditional pan-Islamism. This leadership challenge to religious legacies has not gone down well with even Saudi Arabia of late. India, too, has now given up the charm offensive with both Turkey and Malaysia and is hitting back economically. It is reviewing imports of palm oil and other products from Malaysia in response to its Prime Minister Mahathir Mohammed's United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) speech on Kashmir. With that country hosting radical Indian Islamic preacher Zakir Naik, there are some creases of discomfort. Reports say that following Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan's address on the Kashmir issue, India pulled out of discussions with Anadolu Shipyard, which intended to tie up with with us for building a 45,000-tonne fleet support ship. Simultaneously, India is also building bridges with the ring states around Turkey and Malaysia — Cyprus, Armenia and Greece around the former and Indonesia around the latter. India is now pegging its diplomacy on sound economic sense and that's delivering results, particularly in one-on-one negotiations in a multilateral world. It is demanding that sensitivities be shown to it in return, considering some of these nations are defaulting on rights records too Turkey in Syria and China in Hong Kong, Tibet and in Uighur-dominated Xinjiang. In fact, India has stayed away from commenting on these issues until now, when it has condemned Turkey's action against Syria. Smart reasoning and corresponding posturing might change the way the world perceives our concerns.

Wild chase

The aberrant behaviour by a lion at a wildlife park in Karnataka shows why we need a tourism protocol s if the existing threats to wildlife in the form of illegal poaching, encroachments And culling were not enough, a new provocation comes from intrusive tourism. Unknowingly or out of curiosity, tourists are heckling animals so much during safaris that the latter are now displaying aberrant behaviour. The latest such instance was captured by one of the passengers aboard a jeep at the Atal Bihari Vajpayee Zoological Park in Bellary, Karnataka, in August, which went viral this week. An aggressive male lion is seen chasing a jeep full of visitors until the driver accelerated enough to outpace him. It was sheer luck that the tourists managed to escape the wrath of the lion, who was hellbent on pouncing upon them. Now the king of the jungle is usually gentle when not on the hunt, even unperturbed by human behaviour. Besides, by virtue of park tourism, lions have become quite immune to human attention. So it was quite strange that Keshri, the lion in question, would become hostile unless he was teased or provoked. Turns out he had just been brought to the park and was yet to settle down. Clearly, he was not used to tourist behaviour and should not have been exposed to visitors either. Particularly, when he was yet to demarcate his territoriality and be sure of his limits, he was but expectedly insecure. In the age of daring selfies and their virality, tourists are not just happy taking routine shots but want a dramatic film sequence. And when they cross limits of admissibility, they run the risk of a chase or attack. Be it big cats or elephants, several videos of them raging after tourists have circulated on social media. In July, a similar video was captured as bikers were chased by a tiger at the Muthanga Wildlife Sanctuary in Wayanad, Kerala.

Our big cats are stressed in their fragmented habitats, some of which do not have enough roaming stretches, prey bases or transit corridors to deeper forests. Human encroachment and development have resulted in frequent man-animal conflicts. Hemmed in from all sides, such aberrant behaviour is being reported all too frequently now, even from reserves like the Kruger National Park, Tourist behaviour, therefore, should be respectful of protocol and mindful of the peace any sanctuary guarantees the wild. For example, protocol calls for the visitors to maintain a certain distance from the animals during an encounter, which is definitely not followed either by them or unscrupulous tour operators hellbent on selling a "sighting." With greater interest comes greater responsibility.

The great wall of nature

The proposal for a 1,400km-long green corridor along the Aravalli range, which is still in the planning stage, is a remarkable step forward in greening the country rmer Prime Minister of India IK Gujral was one of the most scholarly and well-read leaders we have had. At a public function organised by this writer, he mentioned that the battle of Panipat took place at that location only because it was the southernmost location, which had an open area suitable for warfare. According to him, right from the Khyber Pass to Panipat, the entire terrain was heavily forested where conventional warfare of that period was not possible.

A recent news report mentioned that the Government is planning to build a 1,400 kilometre-long "great green wall" of India. If this project receives official sanction and is backed by innovative institutional arrange ments for its implementation, it would mark a remarkable step forward in greening India because we, as a nation, have failed to seize the importance of greening our degraded and deforested land.

The Green India mission was one of the eight key missions included in the National Action Plan on Climate Change. The purpose of this operation was to protect, enhance and restore India's decreasing forest cover and act on the growing extent of climate change through a combination of mitigation and adaptation measures. Unfortunately, the mission has been grossly under-funded. A report by the Parliamentary Committee, titled, 'Performance of the National Action Plan on rerrormance of the National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC) pertaining to Ministry of Environment, Forest & Climate Change (MoEFCC); quotes MoEFCC as stating that the "budget allocation of ₹47.80 crore for FY 2017-18 is grossly insufficient. The committed liability of FY 2015-16 and 2016-17 is ₹89.53 crore, which is more than the budget allocation of FY 2017-18."

Expansion of population and encroachments by humans on forest land and the habitat of other species have not only reduced forest cover since independence but has also led to poor forest density even in those areas, which are regarded as forest land. The proposed "green wall" of India is planned to establish a green belt from Porbandar to Panipa and would help restore degraded land through afforestation, particularly along the Aravalli hill range, which covers Gujarat Rajasthan, Haryana and Delhi.

It is well-known that the Aravallis have been heavily degraded in several areas, particularly in Haryana, as a result of the nexus between politicians and the builders' lobby The establishment of the "green wall" would provide an effective barrier for dust coming from the deserts in Western India and Pakistan. It is now well-established that dust from deserts can travel large distances as has been seen with dust from Saudi Arabia travelling to northern parts of Europe. This writer has always advised officials in the Middle East, including a former Saudi Oil Minister, Please convert your oil wealth to soil health."

Recently, the Conference of the Parties (COP 14) of the United Nations Convention

to Combat Desertification as a follow-up to that event, India can and should set an example for other countries that are threatened with desertification.

The UNCCD is an agreement to combat desertification and mitigate the effects of drought, based on long-term strategies and national pro-grammes, supported by international cooperation and partner-ship arrangements. It was in 2006 that in order to gather support for the convention, the UN declared that year as the "International Year of Deserts and Desertification.

The convention has thus far been ratified by 190 States and the European Union (EU). However, on March 28, 2013, Canada became the first country to withdraw from it but reversed this arrangement on March 21, 2017.

In hosting COP14 of the convention, India made a major impact on this expanding problem in different countries of the world. Prime Minister Narendra Modi in his address to this conference stated: "I call upon the leadership of UNCCD to create a global water action agenda, which is central to land degradation neutrality strategy."

The Intergovernmental

Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) recently published a special report on climate change, deserification, land degradation, sustainable land management, food IT IS WELL-KNOWN THAT THE ARAVALLIS HAVE BEEN HEAVILY DEGRADED IN SEVERAL AREAS, PARTICULARLY IN HARYANA, AS A

NEXUS BETWEEN POLITICIANS AND THE BUILDERS' LOBBY. THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE 'GREEN WALL' WILL PROVIDE AN EFFECTIVE BARRIER FOR DUST COMING FROM

fluxes in terrestrial ecosystems The report states, "The level of risk posed by climate change depends both on the level of warming and on how population, consumption, production, technological development and land management patterns evolve. Pathways with higher demand for food, feed and water, more resource-intensive consumption and production and more limited technological improvements in agriculture yields result in higher risks from water scarcity in drylands, land degradation, and food insecurity.

It further states: "Many activ ities for combating desertification can contribute to climate change adaptation with mitigation cobenefits as well as to halting biodiversity loss with sustainable development co-benefits to society...Preventing desertification is preferable to attempting to restore degraded land due to the poten tial for residual risks and malptive outcomes."
The UN system, as is widely known, is currently under-funded and is actually facing a serious crisis. For several years now, there has been a growing realisation that the UN system needs to be restructured and reformed, starting, of course, with the composition of the permanent members of the Security Council, of which India should have been admitted as a member years ago.

In the case of the UN

Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC),

the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) and the UNCCD, there are distinct overlaps. Clearly, actions under one convention would have implications for the other two. The drivers of change underlying these three conventions are common. namely the increase in human society's ecological footprint as Gandhi*ji* had warned us about all his life. It is to be considered whether a comprehensive convention, which covers climate change, loss of biodiversity and desertification, may be far more effective than fragmented actions being taken under each of these conventions.

As far as India is con-cerned, the advance of desertification has negative implications for the country as a whole. To that extent, therefore, the "great green wall", which is being considered, would be an excellent initiative. However, just as in the case of acid rain in North America, which crosses national boundaries and, therefore, required a regional solu-tion, it would be important for South Asian nations to cooperate on activities, which involve similar initiatives in Pakistan. Afghanistan and Bangladesh as well. Given that nature respects no political bound-aries, we need to promote common solutions to problems that are regional in nature. Terrorism should give way to terra-ism.

It is also interesting to note that many indigenous tribes have been praying for the protection of the Amazon rainforest as thousands of wildfires continue to destroy it. People often turn to prayer in difficult times. Such prayers not only lead to positive results but also strengthen relationships among people. The prayers for the Amazon and the protests have attracted the attention of the global population. One hopes that such admirable activities continue to inspire people around the world. P Senthil

Misleading policy

Sir - Economists have forever been negotiating between the twin poles of wealth and poverty. In 1776, Adam Smith postulated that the existence of economic prosperity, more than the persistence of poverty, must be paid attention to. An eon was spent on identifying the conditions necessary for wealth creation. Then an era was spent on the distribution of income tween capital and labour.

Finally Nobel Prize-winning onomist Angus Deaton delved into the cause, spread and measurement of poverty. But looks like Indian-American economist Abhijit Banerjee has analysed the problem with poverty with an experimental approach. The randomised controlled field trials (RCTs) adopted by him has helped find out what works and what doesn't to fight poverty.

The traditional way of measuring wealth on account of the country's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) is misleading. It probably further skews the distribution of wealth and accentuates income disarity. We have journeyed long from exploring the creation of wealth to the distribution of income to now Nobel prize winner Abhijit

 This refers to the editorial, "Bangla pride" (October 15). The appointment of former cricket team captain Sourav Ganguly as the head of the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) is welcome. In fact, he may just be the person the cricket administration needs right now to set things right. It's good to learn that on his priority list are first class players, who are the foundation for a strong pool of talent for the national team. Other issues like the absence of an Indian umpire in the elite panel of ICC and reducing the gulf between women and men in cricket should be given importance. Ganguly must also ensure that financial management in the BCCI becomes more transparent. He has his task cut out.

Fight pollution collectively

Carpooling, using public transport, segregating waste to reduce burning, choosing not to burst firecrackers at Diwali can make a big difference he Diwali season comes with many debates: Does a ban on firecrackers make a difference? Could we have prepared better? Has the national Capital's air pollution decreased? What can Delhiites do to help bring it down?

This year the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Government announced a series of measures to tackle air pollution, including the odd-even vehicle rationing scheme; distribution of masks to prevent PM10 intake; a community pyrotechnic show for Diwali; mechanised road-sweeping; a tree plantation drive and a pollution plan for 12 hot spots. In September, Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal said that according to the air quality data of the last four years, the pollution levels in Delhi had reduced by 25 per cent. While the data is still being examined, this indicates a positive step in the fight for a cleaner Delhi. In the past, there have been many claims and counter-claims over the impact of the odd-even scheme implemented in the Capital. While some studies indicated that it was a success, others claimed that there was no impact, and still others contended that it was impossible to isolate vehicular pollution from Delhi's data sets. However, the one thing all studies agree on is that the odd-even scheme will not succeed without a robust public transport system and without restrictions placed on heavy vehicles and two-wheelers, which make up the majority of Delhi's vehicular traffic. In the past, the scheme provided exclusions for two and three-wheelers, trucks, taxis and cars used by VIPs. These exemptions, and the limited hours of the odd-even scheme, made it harder to define the success of the project, especially as two-wheelers have the highest emissions levels. At the moment, the Delhi Metro and bus fleet are not equipped to keep up with the existing demand from commuters, let alone the demand that will be generated during vehicular rationing days. However, the undeniable benefit of the scheme is decreased congestion on the city's roads. This cuts down the number of hours citizens spend in their cars and the pollution caused by congestion. The scheme is a step in the right direction but it alone cannot solve the problems of vehicular pollution.

Given these concerns, the next logical solution would be to con sider electric vehicles (EVs) and particularly electric public transport. Several cities around the country have committed to electric bus fleets and feeder buses and should these measures be implemented, they will certainly have a positive impact on air pollution. However, cutting down on tailpipe emissions is only half the battle. As long as EVs are powered by traditional electricity, they still contribute to fossil fuel emissions, just perhaps not in the same city they are driven in. EVs are a step in the right direction but not enough to tackle the air pollution crisis, unless they become solar powered in the future.

Like the different sources of the problem, the solutions to our air quality issues are also varied and complex. Pollution does not acknowledge State or city boundaries and our solutions must transcend these as well. Central and State Governments must work together to ensure heavy industrial and vehicular activity is kept outside cities; equitable and environmental solutions for stubble burning are implemented as quickly as possible; industrial activity is heavily regulated and fuel emission standards for vehicles continue to advance Most importantly, this Government needs to ensure that air quality is monitored adequately and that the data is shared so that the benefits of schemes like odd-even can be evaluated.

At the moment, the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) has a woefully incomplete monitoring network, with data gaps for many pollutants and locations. The newly-released National Clean Air Plan (NCAP) fails to include many of the Indian cities that require policy action and doesn't give local authorities the enforcement power they need to penalise offenders. As citizens, it often feels like there is little we can do beyond voting for the right candidate every few years Installing air purifiers, limiting physical activity and wearing masks outside allows those who can afford it a break from the air pollution but it does not solve the issue. Each individual can take certain proactive actions: Carpooling and using public transport cut vehicular emissions. Ensuring that waste is segregated before it is discarded cuts down waste burning as does limiting open garbage and leaf burning in the winter. During Diwali, choosing not to burn firelast decade in New Delhi

However, it is clear that only stringent policy can create the kind of widespread change that is needed to tackle air pollution. To make this happen, citizens must encourage their representatives to take action through their votes and their voice. Elections will be held in several States soon, including Delhi. We must make our priorities known to our leaders by raising our voices and demanding a better standard of air quality from our representatives

A double-edged sword

While cities that experimented with free public transport achieved positive results for a while, sustaining them beyond a few years proved to be a problem

elhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal's announcement on offering free public transport to women has sparked off a debate across the country about the financial periods and the state of the formance and pricing of public transport. As cities across the world struggle to keep the Mass Rapid Transit System (MRTS) and other modes of public transport financially viable, scholars and operators alike are trying to arrive at an economical-

According to an estimate by the Delhi Transport Corporation and the Delhi Metro, women constitute around 30 to 35 per cent passing to the best of the passing the best of the passing the sengers in both buses and the trains. This comes to about 14 lakh women per day on the buses and 800,000 women per day on the metro. The Delhi Government is assuming that the scheme will see a rise of 50 per cent in female ridership, resulting in a decrease in the number of vehicles on the city's roads and improved safety for those vulnerable sections who cannot afford public transport otherwise.

Impact studies in cities that have experimented with a free public transport policy indicate tan-gible benefits such as higher ridership, less traffic congestion, better air quality, savings on printing, ticket-punching technology and the people engaged in ticket sales. Free public transport promises intangible benefits, too, such as a stronger democracy, higher citizen participation, better liveability and a vibrant economy. However, it is easier said than done. Cities like

Tallinn in Estonia and Châteauroux and Aubagne in France experimented with free public transport in the past and achieved positive results for a while. Sustaining the results beyond a few years, however, proved to be a problem. Also, while the combined effect of free service and happier commuters can significantly increase ridership, public transport can also experience a rebound effect, resulting in crowding and poor service quality due to a large demand response. Such a response can result in a higher tax burden for the transport

The key to operating a free public transport is to identify alternate sources of revenue to is to identify afternate sources of revenue in finance it. Sustaining a free transport policy in the long-term, especially during times of economic volatility, can be highly strenuous. The city of Châteaurouxin, France could generate returns on public transport in 2003, 2004, 2005 and 2007. However, 2008 onwards, the returns declined. The city of Hasselt in Belgium had to wind up its free public transport policy after a few years as the Government could no longer support its financ-

So, the big question is, can Indian cities afford free transport for their citizens, given the burgeoning population of the country?

Cities in India face a severe shortage of public transport. City peripheries and low-income neighbourhoods often remain unserved and even if a network of buses and local trains and so on exists, the frequency of service is low, rendering it ineffective. Free or otherwise, the absence of public transport results in last-mile connectivity problems for the poor. Addressing the inadequacies of the country's public transport network will require huge capital investments and considering the amount of expenditure it entails, it could be too much of a burden on the State Governments to then generate funds for operating expenses.

However, the good news is that, though it appears impossible at present, there are solutions worth exploring. Given that State Governments are finding it difficult to provide even partial support in the form of subsidies and grants to public transport agencies, relying on budgetary support to the form of subsidies and grants to public transport agencies, relying on budgetary support to find of feet the property of the form of the first part of th port to fund a free transport policy seems very difficult at present. Running free public transport may or may not be possible but every city must have at least an affordable transport system. There are a few strategies for long-term funding and cost-cutting that could be explored for achieving Cross-utility subsidy: Although it's not very popular in the country, cross-utility financing is prevalent in many parts of the world, including Europe and North America.

There are many ways to enforce a cross-utility subsidy like imposing a levy on utility use or cross-subsidising a loss-making utility by a profit-making one. The loss-making transport depart-ment of the Brihanmumbai Electric Supply & Transport (BEST), for instance, was, for a long time, cross-subsidised by revenues generated by the profitable electricity department. If imple mented in a prudent manner, cross-utility subsidy can offer a long-term solution for funding public transport.

Targetted subsidy: Grants often fail to benefit the desired user groups. So, the solution lies in introducing selective subsidisation for carefully identified beneficiaries. It is a difficult thing to pull off but one can take heart from the fact that over 10 million customers in India gave up their Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG) subsidy in response to the Government's plea. If people are made aware about the purpose of a subsidy, there will be many who will give it up if they don't require it. At any rate, the Government should explore targetted subsidies to offer affordable public transport to the needy and the vulnerable Dedicated transport fund: Many experts have emphasised the need to exempt public bus transport corporations from the motor vehicle tax. For many bus corporations, the operational losses are almost equal to what they pay as motor vehi-cle tax. While there is a sound rationale behind taxing vehicles that generate huge negative exter-nalities like emissions and congestion, imposing a similar tax on public buses is draconian. On a 'per passenger kilometre" basis, public transport is more efficient and causes lower emission and congestion than private vehicles. Moreover, the tax gets directly passed on to the commuters as part of the fares they pay. Foregoing the tax will also make fares more affordable and improve the financial accessibility of public transport.

New performance indicators: There is also a need to develop new performance indicators for evaluating public transport corporations. These indicators must mainstream social and environmental goals. Currently, public transport opera-tions in the country are guided primarily by financial parameters like earnings and cost-per-kilo-metre. Now, more emphasis needs to be placed on the intangible socio-economic benefits such as time savings, improved productivity, lower congestion and improved livelihood opportunities that public transport enables. Changing the way public transport corporations are assessed will also change the manner in which they operate and the goals they prioritise in service delivery.

While financial performance is critical for operating public transport, increasing the fare is not the best solution. The approach to the problem will change once it is realised that the objection of the control of the problem will change once it is realised that the objection of the control of the contro tive of operating public transport is not to generate revenue but to offer affordable services to citizens. The need of the hour is to find innovative solutions to make public transport affordable

Thackeray clan see a s(o)nrise? XX7:11

The timing is perfect for Thackeray scion Aditya to make his electoral debut with the BJP-Sena alliance poised to win the Assembly polls. The young Thackeray represents the changing political scenario and the Sena's evolving culture ow would the late Sena chief Bal Thackeray have reacted to the idea of his grandson Aditya entering electoral politics when the Thackeray clan had scrupulously kept out of it for decades? He would have chuckled.

So far, the family has run a powerful political party in Maharashtra without contesting elections. The youngest Thackeray, Aditya breaks that tradition in the forthcoming Maharashtra Assembly elections by contesting from the Worli seat in

Balasaheb had once told me he had taken three decisions - he would not contest elections, would not write his autobiography and would not take any Government post and he had stuck to them till the end of his life

After the first Shiv Sena-Bharatiya Janata Party Government (BJP) was formed in 1995, Balasaheb often quipped that he ruled the State via "remote control." Balasaheb's son Uddhav Thackeray surprisingly not only kept the party alive but also followed the "remote control" policy of his father.

However, the 29-year-old Aditya is different in this sense and he represents the aspirational Maharashtrian youth. His imagemakers are trying to project him as a suave, English-speaking Sena leader. Nine years ago, Balasaheb himself introduced his grandson to the political world in October 2010 and also named Aditya the head of the party's newly-created youth wing.

The timing is perfect for the Thackeray scion to make his electoral debut, with the BJP-Sena alliance poised to win the Assembly polls this Aditva stated the obvious in an interview recently, "I chose this election because I thought this was the right time." There is a vacuum in the youth leadership in Maharashtra, which he hopes to fill. As a child, Aditya used to trav-

As a child, Aditya used to travel with his father and grandfather and became interested in politics from then on. "If you have to do something good for society, politics is the way. I have been thinking of my jour-ney for the last five years. We did several agitations. How to serve Maharashtra better, Shiv Sena style? I have always thought that I should join my party legislators", says Aditya.

Prior to this electoral contest, he had undertaken a Jan Ashirwad yatra in July to thank the voters for has multi-lingual posters. He does the 2019 success but his real intention was to gauge the public mood for his own debut.

The young Thackeray represents the changing political scenario and also the evolving culture of the Sena. Much has changed since the days of Balasaheb. The party's clout in Maharashtra politics has certainly diminished. Politics has changed, the voters have changed and the Sena, too, has become a junior partner in the coalition, as compared to the earlier days of dominating the Sena-BJP alliance.

Aditya is experimenting with a different kind of politics, trying to change the old narrative. The Sena's image has been that of a muscular political party and he would have to change this if he wants to succeed. The Sena is no more a rabble-rousing party.

In the past it used to launch agitations against the South Indians, Gujaratis, Biharis and Muslims. Today, in a bid to woo non-Maharashtrian voters, his campaign not mention religion or Hindutva and instead prefers to raise bread and butter issues like employment and development.

He talks about the ban on plastic, beach cleaning and the environment. Aditya is more cosmopolitan, modern and open to new-age elec-toral politics. He is accused of being comfortable with the Page 3 set but he is also trying to appeal to the ordinary youth.

econd, Aditya is emulating his grandfather by building a base among the youth. The senior Thackeray had a devoted youth following all his life. As long as he was alive, every Vijayadasami day, thousands of youth had attended his meeting at the Shivaji Park. Now, Aditya is targeting the millennial voters. He is being projected as a sensitive, modern, young leader, who is flexible and open to new ideas. Third, it was the family's considered decision to support Aditya's elec-toral plunge. Bal Thackeray could run the Government through remote control. Uddhav, too, managed to do that but Aditya, encouraged by his mother Reshmi, believes that the days of "remote control governance" are over and one needs to be in the system.

Above all, the Sena wants to strengthen itself on the ground fear-ing that the BJP might subsume the party. The family feels that the junior Thackeray's presence in the next Cabinet would give them some Aditya is poised to win the Worli seat, if Dame Luck smiles at him, he might even become the Deputy Chief Minister. Though Uddhav says now, "The first step in politics doesn't mean that you have to become the Chief Minister of the State. He has just entered politics, this is just the beginning." He would push for his son when the time comes.

Aditya wants to prove that he is t just another son of a powerful political family but a grassroots leader in his own right. The Assembly contest will be his acid test.

Benchmark indices log gains for third day

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Indian equities continued their winning run for a third session in a row on Tuesday as trade deal front and consumer demand revival hopes in the upcoming festive season enthused investors. The BSE benchmark Sensex rallied around 421 points during the day but pared some gains towards the fag-end of the session and settled 291.62 points, or 0.76 per cent, higher at 38,506.09 week high for the index.

Similarly, the broader NSE Nifty rose over 87 points, or 0.77 per cent, to settle at 11,428.30. The market rally was mainly driven by auto and Top gainers in the Sensex pack were Vedanta, M&M, ONGC, Hero MotoCorp, Maruti Suzuki and HUL rising up to 3.79 per cent.

On the other hand, Bharti Airtel, Infosys, Tata Motors, HCL Tech, Tech Mahindra and Bajaj Finance fell as much as 2.53 per cent.

Of the 30 scrips on the Sensex, 24 shares closed with gains and 6 with losses.
Sectorally, BSE auto emerged as the top gainer with 2.36 per cent rise. Other top performers were metal, bankex. power and FMCG — rising

1.56 per cent. On the other hand, BSE telecom, teck and IT indices fell up to 2.15 per cent.

In the broader market, BSE largecap outperformed the benchmark Sensex by rising 0.79 per cent. BSE midcap index also gained 0.72 per cent but smallcap index slipped 0.11 per cent.

In the last three trading sessions, the Sensex has added 625.69 points or 1.64 per cent and the Nifty has gained 193.75 points or 1.71 per cent.

"Green shoots from US-China trade talks added positivity while outperformance in domestic auto stocks in expectation of festival demand further lifted the sentiment. FIIs are net buyers in the last two days given stability in global market. Start of O2 results is mixed but some tailwinds on future earnings outlook will help the market to maintain the momentum," Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Financial Services, said.

Experts are also of the view that the central bank will continue with its accommodative policy stance and may go for further rate cut in the policy review of December 2019, as retail inflation moved up in September.

No trade disputes with US: Goyal

Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal on Tuesday said India and the US do not have any trade disputes and both nations have huge bilateral trade and investment potential.

Speaking during a minis-terial panel discussion at India Energy Forum here, Go, said, "There is no (trade) dis-Forum here, Goyal pute (with the US). We had certain disagreements, but I dont where there are no disagree-ments at all. I think we welcome some 'nok jhok' (argument). Little bit of uncertainty helps in taking things for-ward."

Goyal's comments assumes significance in view of recent withdrawal of Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) or trade tariff incentives on Indian when both countries are negotiating a trade agreement.

Goyal was of the view that his discussion with his US counterpart helped improve the bilateral relations further.

Referring to the with-drawal of GSP by the US, Goyal said, it could be a "dis-pute in the eyes of some, but I think it opened up an oppor-tunity for me to have a dialogue with my colleague (US trede with my colleague (US trade wonderful discussions.

tial with US Energy firms he said, "There is huge potential on the gas side and also in nuclear energy. The US and India have a robust relation-ship, which has huge potential going forward... We should not look at incremental growth in our relationship. We should be looking at a quantum leap. We have set half-trillion-dollar (trade) target (with the US)."

Goyal said that there is huge potential of energy exports from the US to India and business is going on with the US on oil, gas and nuclear fronts. Total Indo-US trade in 2018-19 was around USD 88

Trump has signed an exec-utive order that empowers his administration to slap sanctions on Turkey.

The treasury department has already placed Turkish Defence Minister Hulusi Akar, Interior Minister Suleyman Soylu and Energy Minister Fatih Donmez on its sanctions list, while Trump in a letter to Speaker Nancy Pelosi of the US House of Representatives has declared the Turkey issue a national emergency.

On Wednesday, Ankara launched a cross-border assault on Kurdish fighters after the US decided to withdraw troops from Syria, a move criticised by the Republicans, with some terming it a "betrayal" of the Kurds.

'This (executive) order will enable the US to impose powerful additional sanctions on those who may be involved in serious human rights abuses, obstructing a ceasefire, preventing displaced persons from returning home, forcibly repatriating refugees or threatening the peace, security or stability in Syria," Trump said in a

85 civilians killed, 373 wounded during Afghan election campaign: UN

Kabul: Hundreds of people were killed or wounded in violence related to Afghanistan's recent presidential election season as the Taliban sought to undermine the democratic process, a UN agency said on Tuesday.

The United Nations Assistance Mission in Afghanistan (UNAMA) reported that 85 people were killed and another 373 wounded in election violence during the period from June 8 to injured. Children accounted for more than one-third of the victims.

Despite the high toll, Afghan security forces said election day was a success because the Taliban failed to pull off any large-scale attacks that stole the headlines. The majority of Taliban attacks involved the use of rockets, grenades and mortars, as well as homemade bombs planted near polling otember 30. centres, including schools, the Con polling day alone, 28 centres, including schools, the report found. AFP

Territory not becoming a police state: Lam

Hong Kong: Hong Kong's leader said on Tuesday that "it's totally irresponsible and unfounded" to suggest the semi-autonomous Chinese territory is becoming a police state as her Government grap ples with protests now in their fifth month.

Carrie Lam has defended Hong Kong's 30,000-strong police force, now widely detested by protesters for its riot-con-trol methods and nearly 2,600

also said that she challenges every politician to ask them-selves what they would do if faced by the scale of violence seen in Hong Kong.

The protests started in June over a contested extradition bill that would have allowed some criminal suspects to be sent for trial in mainland China and have snowballed into an antigovernment, anti-police and anti-China movement.

The protests have increasingly ended in violence between hardcore demonstrators and police. Police on Monday said a homemade, remote-controlled bomb intended to "kill or to harm" riot control officers was detonated as they deployed against renewed violence in Hong Kong over the weekend. Police say the device exploded not far from a police vehicle, but no one was injured.

An 18-year-old was to appear in court Tuesday facing a charge of intentional wounding for a slashing attack Sunday with a sharp blade, described as a box cutter by Hong Kong media, that cut a police officer's neck and severed a nerve. AP

Brexit deal 'possible this

week': EU's Barnier

Luxembourg: EU Brexit negotiator Michel Barnier said on Tuesday that a deal with Britain could be reached this week, but warned more tough talks are still needed. British and EU officials are racing to reach a deal on Britain's exit terms before a summit of EU leaders starting on Thursday, as Prime Minister Boris Johnson seeks to fulfil his vow to take Britain out on October 31.

As he arrived in Luxembourg to brief the other 27 EU states on the state of the closed-door talks, Barnier struck a cautiously upbeat note.

"This work has been intense all along the weekend and yesterday because even if the agree-ment will be difficult — more and more difficult to be frank it's still possible this week," Barnier told reporters.

"Obviously any agreement must work for everyone — the whole of the United Kingdom and the whole of the European Union. Let me add also that it is high time to turn good intentions into legal text." AFP

TIPTOP Ace UPSC IES interview

It is vital for engineering aspirants to crack the interview round. AKHAND SWAROOP PANDIT tells you about the tips and tricks that will help students

Qualifying for the interview of UPSC engineering services, which is the final stage of selection has always been a dream for its aspirants. Everyone wants to perform their best at this stage. Afterall, the selected candidates are among the 0.5 per cent who manage to crack the IES examination. Nearly 1 lakh students compete for around 600 vacancies every year for different engineering branches. While the written test evaluates the technical knowledge of the candidates, the IES interview gauges their personality combined with their field-related knowledge. The interview also tries to bring out qualities like intuitive powers, spontaneity, practicality, soft skills, leadership qualities, confidence level and team spirit of the marks and a set of rigorous questions that ultimately decides the fate of those 0.5 per cent candidates whether they can manage to get through one of the most sought-after engineering recruitment examinations. Sounds gruelling? Fret not! All you need is a well-defined plan and some extra efforts to tackle all your apprehensions and give your best shot. Here is a list of preparation tips and tricks for the upcoming IES crucial thing is to fill the DAF very carefully. Because, a lion's share of the interview questions will be based on your own profile such as your previous job experience, hobbies, your hometown, college and others. You cannot afford to go wrong while answering those questions and stick to the information while you are talking at the inter-

Pay attention while filling the Detailed Application Form (DAF):

Focus on current affairs: The candidate must stay updated with the latest national and international affairs. So flip through the news and news pieces and take quizzes as much as possible.

Keeping the knowledge about your subjects and the final year college project in place: The interview board pays a lot of attention to a candidate's technical and subject know-how. So make sure you get your basic concepts right and prepare two/three of your favourite technical subjects and their practical applications as you will be asked questions about your understanding

Emphasise on the tricky questions: The interviewer might ask questions related to your state/city and its historical importance, your hobbies, your weaknesses, the reason behind joining IES and much more. These questions should be answered tactically to avoid creating any negative impression on the panel. For instance, while talking about your weaknesses, direct your answers smartly towards your strengths.

Never create answers: Not sure about your answer to a particular question? Say it clearly to the interviewer. Never try to say anything negative or create answers to some thing you are not sure about. It will only create a negative impact and Groom yourself well on the Ding, the First impression is the last impression. So, make sure you are formally dressed and well-groomed for the interview as this will create a lasting impression on the inter viewer from the time you enter the interview room.

Remember, it is the selection day so give your best shot at the interview with patience, confidence and clarity. This will increase your chances of getting through the interview with utmost success.

'Need for engaging education mores'

Experiential learning enables children to organise their pattern of thought and transform them into action more effectively, says MANDAR NATEKAR nowledge is believed to be tran-Kscending international boundaries overcoming regional barriers more widely and quicker than ever before. People along with their chil-dren are travelling the globe providing the young ones an enhanced exposure to experiences and more opportunities to learn new things. Educators believe that there is a need to scout for more innovative ways for children to gain relevant knowledge and skills in an easy and impactful Experiential education is one such well-structured methodology of learning. It enables children organise their pattern of thought and transform it into action more effec-tively. It helps them understand their existing environment and be tter prepare scenarios, as they grow older. Being a parent or guardian, one would observe that when children return from school they are more likely to initiate discussion about what all transpired that day rather than sharing what was actually taught in the classroom. Such is the power of an experience that allows more retention and can leave an ever-lasting impact on a child's mind, over and above any traditional method of the core of a child's learning process. This methodology helps breakdown complex knowledge into simpler content that is engaging and quick to learn. As we know, in a traditional classroom setup the dominant mode an experience based environment learning goes beyond the classroom and forces a child to use cognitive abilities in combination with physical skills to take a desired action. This brings out various aspects of a child's personality to the forefront and helps them recognise their skills and interests in unique ways.

When a child is rewarded for taking a particular action, it encourages them to further undertake those tasks repeatedly, therefore becoming better with each play. Experiential education starts school to a Museum, voluntary work in the local community, or project oriented visits to National parks were widely used across the globe as real-life scenarios informative and fun for children. Later we saw that there truly was a need for more engaging means of learning for children. This gave rise to digitalisation of classrooms, educational toys, show events, and edutainment or theme-based parks with newer attractions. To complement these means, technologies like recorded audio headsets, audio books, simulated games can also be used to give on-ground learning a new dimension altogether.

Conference on de-stressing exams

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

With the aim of creating strong strategies and roadmaps to make school examinations less stressful, the Northwest Accreditation Commission, USA (NWAC) hosted a conference titled De-stressing Examination organised by Council of Boards of School Education in India (COBSE) last week. The conference was inaugurated by former UGC Chairman Professor Ved Prakash. The event gave special focus on De-Stressing Examination on the lines of Draft National Education Policy 2019.

Director General of National Testing Agency (NTA) Vineet Joshi also attended the conference and spoke about the importance of coordination among all the boards and NTA, to enable proper verification of students at the application stage of exams conducted by NTA. Dr Sanvam Bhardwai, Controller of Examinations, CBSE gave a detailed presentation on the way CBSE is bringing about a change in the evaluation and examination process to reduce the stress.

"The biggest challenge in front of educa-tors today is to come up with a curriculum that has a futuristic orientation. The education boards do not only have the responsibility of certifying students, but they also have the responsibility to prepare the children for tomorrow's world. Students must not be educated on age-old patterns rather they should be made future-ready," Ved Prakash said on the

Science & technology expo

Around 1000 students from over 10 schools visited the Techno Blizz, an open house and science and technology exhibition at the Department of Electronics and Instrumentation Engineering (EIE) at Tech Park in SRM Institute of Science and Technology, Kattankulathur

A total of around 14 labs were set up with various kinds of instruments, prototypes and equipment to help students understand the intricacies of electronics and instrumentation engineering. A few of these displays were developed by the students and faculty of the EIE Department.

This Techno Blizz was done in collaboration with Indira Gandhi Centre for Atomic Research (IGCAR), Kalpakkam.

A team of scientists and engineers from the Nuclear Research Centre displayed scientific models and explained to students the basic functioning of the center. Speaking about the Open House, Head of the Department, Dr A Vimala Joseph said: "The two-day event provided information about the department and SRMIST at large. The children also got hands-on experience and insight into the different aspects Electronic Instrumentation engineering through orientation and working models."

he 28th IEEE Conference 1 on Robot and Human Interactive Communication (RO-MAN 2019), which kicked off on Monday here, hosts a series of technical talks, special sessions, workshops, tutorials exhibitions and awards function during the four-day-long event. With the theme "Responsible Robotics and AI for the Real World" — experts and delegates underlined the importance of developing responsible technology in an era where robotics and AI are social as well as private lives.

The four-day conference from October 14-17, 2019 brings in all dimensions of research and development in intruding various aspects of our Robotics and AI.

This is the first time IEEE Ro-MAN Conference is taking place in the Indian subcontinent. The idea is to connect the Indian and international communities in the fast-growing sector of Robotics & AI. Nearly 205 high-quality papers are being presented in 25 oral ses-sions and one poster session spread over four days.

Banking sector puts a lot of emphasis on development of skills. This is the reason why it attracts the best talent, says PROF AMIT GOYAL

The banking and financial services have always been the most preferred employment sector for the best students across the world. Over 10 international banks like Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan and American Express and 30plus Indian banks like ICICI. Yes, Axis, IDBI, Kotak, HDFC and Citi are regularly seen scouting for talent at Indian campuses. The tradition of IIMs shows that top students have always had a bias towards working in the banking sector.

A Deloitte survey on Popularity of working in Banking conducted in 2013 found that students seeking banking jobs are motivated by learning and earning prospects of banking sector. Top factors that are attached to banking sector jobs which make it a career of choice

TRAINING & DEVELOPMENT

We are living in the knowledge society and the real talent of today values continuous learning and development. Inherently, finance and banking are information driven industries. People working here are always learning and dealing with new and innovative practices that make the jobs inter-esting for them. Also, being a people oriented sector, banks put a lot of emphasis on devel-oping professional skills of its people. This makes it the foremost reason why banking sectors attracts the best talent across the world.

FINANCIAL STRENGTH

The huge capital norms and the backup of central banks make banking and financial service companies very strong and stable.

The fact that they are dealing with the public money gives them a lot of Government protection. Strong regulations block the entry of non- serious or weak players in the sectors. These factors put together make banking jobs a lot more secure and stable.

GOOD FUTURE REFERENCE A student who once

becomes a banker is able to reap benefits for his entire career. A banking job of a few years in the beginning of an individual's career makes it a good career reference for the future. Experience as a banker helps a

PRESTIGE

Bankers or anyone else dealing with money have always commanded a higher social status in all cultures and societies, since time memorial. The prestige that is attached with a banking job both global and rural. The respect and prestige of being a banker is therefore a strong intrinsic reason for a lot of talented candidates to seek a banking career.

WHAT WILL YOU BECOME?

The banking sector is growthe banking sector is grow-ing and so are the opportunities therein. There is no one size fits all profile in banking. Banks offering different types of ser-vices recruit candidates with varying skillsets. The role of a clerk in a fully computerised branch has already become redundant.

Most people are recruited in office profile and are required to have specialised domain knowledge. The curriculum and pedagogy is carefully designed to prepare our stu-dents for these profiles. During the course of study, the corporate relations department helps a student in identifying the most suitable profile according to their strengths and aptitude.

WHERE WILL YOU WORK?

There are many categories of Banking Financial Services and Insurance companies in India where one can work like Wealth Management, Bank &

NBFC, Asset Management, Fintech, Brokerage, Insurance, Accounting & Taxation, and Rating Agencies.

Students have many designations like Trade Finance Manager, Trade Desk Manager, NRI Banking Officer, Financial Planning, Service Delivery offi-cer, Relationship Manager, Management Trainee, Business Banker, Credit officer, Forex Officer, Credit Analyst, Risk Analyst and Operations Executive to name a few.

HIGH FUTURE EARNINGS

The average salary of a fresher in BFSI sector is ₹2-₹2.5 lakh per annum, with three-five years of experience can earn ₹5-₹6 lakh per annum and with 10plus years experience one can get ₹10 lakh per annum. The trends show that after making a ground hold for about two-three years in banking industry people tend to grow faster in this sector.

It is notable that good stu dents are usually forward looking and prefer jobs which give them higher future growth than immediate salary.

'Soft skills are just as essential at workplace'

Having an edge over the others can go a long way in building a successful career. Hence, human skills are important, says RACHIT JAIN

In a professional world of cut-throat competition and performance-based assessments, soft skills might appear to be an understated requirement. However, one cannot do without them. A candidate might be programmer, an engineer, a writer or a sales person, but he is first a human being with an emotional quotient. Human skills are technically not considered a part of professional talent; yet even the best professional talent is futile without essential soft skills. You might be the best developer in the organisation, but if you are insincere, unable to communicate well with the team, lack the ability to collab-orate and fail to maintain a good equation with your clients, your technical ability or hard skills is going to get you only so far.

Increasingly, organisations are realising that without the necessary human skills, professional talent too has its limitations. If an employee lacks technical skills, training and experience can help improve it. However, when it comes to attitude and aptitude, these are soft skills that can't be taught or ingrained Why soft skills matter?

Between two employees who are equally good at their work, which one will you choose o service a client? One who is approachable doesn't lose patience easily, communicates seamlessly and greets everyone with a smile or the one who often turns irritable?

It is not difficult to understand why soft skills are important than hard skills. Soft skills include a series of personality traits that enable an individual better navigate his environment and handle difficult situations with grace. These human traits include social and communication skills, sincerity towards commitment, emotional intelligence, negotiation, conflict resolution as well as people to people skills. Empathy, patience, flexibility, tolerance and an ability to communicate in difficult situations without arousing tempers are very important skill sets.

Can soft skills be quantified?

It is difficult to quantify or judge soft skills in an individual at the time of recruiting. There aren't many tests to judge skills like communication or even sincerity. However, if you accord the due important to soft skills, there are subtle ways in which you can assess these during recruitment.

This includes keeping a close eye on the way the individual communicates, the sincerity and maturity he displays throughout the process. If a candidate takes more than a week in responding to your requirement of sub-mitting some documents, you get gauge a lack-adaisical attitude behind it. Also important is to watch for the written communication with the candidate that gives a fair idea about the maturity of expression and sensibility of thought of the individual.

As a recruiter, nobody wants to be flooded with resumes from a job portals listing nonhuman or mechanical skills like years of experience, this degree or that course. What I am looking for are the people who are actively searching jobs in the job position offered and are able to show some passion towards it. This is why we have tried to design innovative Talent Boards that display list more than just the technical skills of an individual.

Our algorithms do not just rank candidate profiles based on a series of technical skill tests but also try to extract exceptional insights into a candidate's skills, attitude, pro-activeness and sincerity by analysing the smart data behind the candidate's activity on the algorithm. Combining the human element with data creates a smart data pool of talent that is much more representative of a candidate's skill set than a simple resume is.

As there arises a greater shift in organi-sational attitudes towards analysing soft skills during recruitment, we will witness a greater proliferation of similar algorithms and psychometric tests that lay equal value on quantifying soft skills and aptitude. We will also have more organisations investing in building soft skills among their employees through psy-chological skill training and team building here was a time when data-based predictions powered decision-making for marketers and financial analysts on the back of detailed insights, be it regarding demand forecasting or predicting defaulters in loan repayments.

Today, Predictive Analytics (PA) is becoming a trend. In HR it means a technology which learns and draws insights from existing data and uses it to map future trends and behavior to enable effective and efficient HR management and decision-across industries look not only for talented also those who will make a great culture fit in their organisation. The PA can help determine which candidates are a better fit along with delineating various factors involved in such decision-making.

Predictive social media analytics and sentiment analytics are some of the solutions that can look at non-numeric data, such as feedback surveys, social media content and others to gauge the engagement level of employees.Leveraging the insights collected from these systems, organisations can come up with relevant strategies to bolster employee engagement while delivering superior employee experience.

All organisations incur recruitment cost and it goes waste when the selected candidate does not join the workforce. In addition to losing money, it can also negatively affect an employer's brand. The PA will assess historical data to unearth possible renege and help managers take the necessary decisions. It also helps in predicting the attrition before it happens. It will also look at an organisation's data to identify factors that have the most significant influence on an employee's flight risk.

Managers can then use this data and address these issues before they cause an employee to leave. Google is one of the first companies to effectively utilise predictive analytics in its hiring process.

The above examples of predictive analytics are not limited to predicting the future trends but also predicting the category — whether the candidate is suitable to be hired or not. The PAs is used to classify the performance of employees as high, medium and low. HR managers analyse a large number of variables and with the help of technology are able to predict the performance of employees. This way HR managers can use statistics and technology to make better decisions. The PA where classification is done, may use past known group the employees with similar behavior categories: high medium and low performing, without resorting to the traditional normal curve. The companies who have started using PA in HR use one or more statistical procedures like Regression-Linear and logistics, Decision tree, Random Forest, Cluster Analysis, Neural nets etc. In view of this, there is no doubt that analytics can be a powerful data-driven tool for organisations to anticipate performance outcomes and develop pro-active strategies in Human Resource Management. The writer is Sangeeta Shah Bharadwaj, Professor

But the likes of Nigeria, Jersey and Singapore insist they are not going to just make up the numbers as they bid to give cricket a boost in their countries.

There was already a shock in the Asian regional qualifiers, with Singapore reaching this stage ahead of Nepal, the world's 13th-ranked outfit.

Island team Jersey are playing in their second consecutive qualifier, having fallen short four years ago despite surprise victories over Hong Kong and Nepal.

"For Jersey, it would probably be the biggest thing that has happened in our sporting history," admitted captain history," admitte Charles Perchard.

ndia snatched a 1-1 draw from the jaws of defeat against much Llower ranked Bangladesh to dent their chances of qualification in a Group E Asian Qualifiers for the FIFA World Cup tie at the packed Vivekananda Yuba Bharati

A first-half strike from Saad Uddin in the 42nd minute helped Bangladesh take a shock lead against India, who are 83 places above them and drew 0-0 against Asian champions Qatar in their last game.

The hosts had a flurry of chances to peg back with Anas Edathodika's shot headed out by Mohammad Ibrahim on the goalline in the second half. It was only in the 88th minute that centre-back Adil Khan headed in a goal to equalise.

Bangladesh too, could have doubled their advantage as Mohammad Ibrahim's shot found the crossbar in the second-half and Adil made a goalline clearance.

The result means India move to two points from three games after losing their campaign opener to Oman. Bangladesh, who prior to this game had lost both their matches against Afghanistan and Qatar, logged their first point but remained at the bottom of the five-team group.

But against the run of play, Bangladesh nosed ahead three minutes before halftime. Skipper Jamal Bhuyan swung in a delectable free kick for Saad to nod in past Gurpreet who failed to catch the ball in the 76th minute as India threw the kitchen sink at their lesser fancied rivals.

The effort paid off as Adil powered in a header from Brandon's corner at the near post to send the crowd into raptures.

Chhetri dribbled past two defenders soon after but the 35year- old's shot was weak as the sta-dium reverberated with his chants.

The packed 65,000 spectators were left high and dry in the end as India could not record a win which was expected. The result means Bangladesh, ranked 187,

The game was stopped twice and I know for some people that won't be enough, but I think we were as a group on board with that process."

In a statement, The English Football Association said their players "were subjected to abhorrent racist chanting" and called on UEFA to investigate immediately.

Tyrone Mings was one of

"At the beginning of the year, my target was to reach the top 50 and after this win I would be close to that. I still have few events left in the year. If I can do well break into top 30 early next year."

Lakshya will play the Saarlorlux
Open Super 100 (Oct 29-Nov 3) next, before participating in two International Challenge events at the Irish Open (November 13-16) and Scottish Open (Nov 21-24). He will also play the Syed Modi International Super 300 (Nov 26-

Former Australia skipper Rickey Ponting believes Steve Smith should get another chance to lead the national team once Tim Paine's time

"It's the million-dollar ques tion: when Steve Smith's ban is up will he go straight back into the captaincy or will he not?" Ponting told 7NEWS.

"To be honest I think it's up to Tim how long he plays.

world. Whether that's as captain or not that's up to the hierarchy at Cricket Australia to make that decision. I've been on record already - when Tim's time is up I'd like to see Steve Smith have another go.

"I think he probably feels like there's unfinished business there as far as his captaincy's concerned. He's got to want to do it and obviously then the authorities have to say yes or no," he added.
