The Congress has decided to hold 20% of the world’s population (2.31 billion) that were farmers and unskilled labourers. They said the party’s manifesto would reflect the ‘wishes of the Prime Minister’. “We are going to make every effort to ensure that the Prime Minister, the International Business Ministers, all the Ministries, all the agencies, all the organisations, all the departments work together to achieve this,” they said.

While TDP’s spokesperson Sudhakar Reddy, a senior LJP leader, articulated his party’s views, the TMC president Prasanna Kamble said the party’s slogan was “Treat the Patient Better, Help the Doctor Less”. The TMC, the LJP, the JD(U), the YCP, the DMK, the TDP, the RJD, the Janata Dal (Secular) and the JD(S) joined the protest, while the YSR Congress and the LJP were absent.

While the Opposition parties, including the TMC, the JD(U), the YCP, the DMK, the TDP, the RJD, the Janata Dal (Secular) and the JD(S), joined the protest, the YSR Congress and the LJP were absent.

The Congress has already decided to double 31 senior party leaders as observers to keep an eye on the key districts in the country. The Congress leaders will hold press conferences in these districts to highlight these issues including the issue of farmer suicides. The party will also release a list of these districts before the Congress leaders vote to declare this as an election issue.

In districts where the Congress has its strong presence, the party will use this to increase its voter base and boost its fortunes. In districts where the Congress has a weak presence, the party will use this to increase its vote share and boost its fortunes. In districts where the Congress has no presence, the party will use this to increase its vote share and boost its fortunes.

BJP concedes Mirza’s bail plea

Delhi: The Delhi High Court on Wednesday granted bail to Mirza Dastur Khoja, a 90-year-old Iranian citizen and a member of the Muslim community, who was arrested in a money laundering case.

"The court has granted Mirza Dastur Khoja bail. He is a 90-year-old man and the court has allowed him to return to Iran," said advocate Alok Bras, who appeared for the petitioner.

The court said that Mirza Dastur Khoja, a former diplomat, was arrested under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002.

The prosecution had submitted that the case against Mirza Dastur Khoja was unattached and there was no material to suggest that he had any role in the money laundering.

"The petitioners are not persons who can be considered as phụcitive in nature. They are not persons who can be accused of any criminal activity," the court said.

A Saudi tale

One of Modi’s foreign policy achievements has been to bring Saudi Arabia into the fold. This has only become evident in recent years. Ever since the 1970s, the relationship has been fraught with problems. One of these was the issue of oil prices. In response to the Iranian revolution and the students uprising in Teheran, the Saudis increased the price of oil. This led to a significant rise in the cost of living for people all over the world. The problem was only compounded by the fact that the US had become heavily dependent on Saudi Arabia for its energy needs.

However, in recent years, the relationship between India and Saudi Arabia has improved. This is largely due to the efforts of both countries to strengthen their economic ties. One of the key initiatives has been the establishment of the India-Saudi Arabia Joint Committee, which meets regularly to discuss issues of mutual concern. The committee has been instrumental in facilitating trade and investment between the two countries.

Moreover, there has been a shift in the way India views the Middle East. In the past, India had been more focused on the economic benefits of its relationship with the region. However, in recent years, India has started to pay more attention to the geopolitical implications of its interactions with the Middle East. This has led to a greater focus on issues such as security and stability in the region.

In conclusion, the relationship between India and Saudi Arabia continues to evolve. While there are still challenges to overcome, the two countries have made significant progress in recent years. It is hoped that this momentum will continue in the future, leading to even closer ties between the two nations.

Mumbai sinking

The NYT report on threat to coastal cities has reduced the timeline for destruction in our lifetime.

India’s financial capital Mumbai has been named one of the world’s most vulnerable cities to climate change. The city is located on the Arabian Sea and is built on a series of islands. The low-lying land, combined with the effects of sea-level rise, makes Mumbai highly susceptible to flooding.

The city’s skyline is dotted with skyscrapers and high-rises, but beneath the surface lies a network of busy streets and narrow alleys. The weather in Mumbai is tropical, with high temperatures and heavy rainfall during the monsoon season.

Mumbai’s population is estimated to be around 12.5 million people, making it one of the largest cities in the world. The city is a hub for business and industry, with a thriving economy that attracts people from all over the country.

Despite its many attractions, Mumbai faces significant challenges. One of the most pressing is flooding, which can cause widespread damage and disrupt normal life. The city’s government is working to address this issue by building new drainage systems and raising the level of existing ones.

In the meantime, citizens are urged to take precautions such as avoiding low-lying areas during heavy rain and keeping an emergency kit ready. With Mumbai’s population expected to continue growing, it is clear that the city will need to adapt to the challenges of climate change in order to ensure the safety and well-being of its residents.
Our cup of plastic is biosimilar is overgrowing

A study has revealed that 82.4 per cent of India’s tap water is contaminated with microplastics as out of the 17 samples collected from New Delhi, 14 had microplastic fibres in them.

Beijing eyes facial recognition tech for metro security

OUTLOOK

Beijing will use facial recognition tech to speed up subway entrances, as the city's subway system was last month used in a mass evacuation of 682,000 residents in the Chinese capital during the annual flood season.

The city's subway system in May was one of the first to use facial recognition technology, which has widely embraced the tech in China since 2014, according to the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences.

The Beijing subway last month installed facial recognition cameras at 137 stations, allowing passengers to bypass ticket gates and enter trains using their faces.

The move follows the implementation of the Facial Recognition System in May in Beijing, which is expected to further speed up the process of entering subway stations.

The system is designed to reduce the time it takes for passengers to go through ticket gates, allowing them to enter and exit the subway system more quickly.

The Beijing subway is one of the busiest in the world, with an average of 7 million passengers per day.

The system is expected to be rolled out across the country in the coming years, as more cities look to adopt facial recognition technology for various applications, including security and convenience.

However, concerns have been raised about the potential for misuse of the technology, particularly in terms of privacy and data security.

The government has been working to establish regulations to ensure that the use of facial recognition technology is transparent and accountable, and to protect the rights of individuals.

China’s ‘supporting’ barrens of Joshua from UK election

OUTLOOK

OTTAWA

Despite having been twice judicially declared ineligible as a candidate in the 2019 federal election, Joshua Johnson – who was convicted of one count of election fraud in 2019, among other charges – has continued to campaign as an independent candidate for a seat in British Columbia.

His new application was recently accepted, and his nomination for the federal riding of Nanaimo will be formally declared on November 14, 2023.

Meanwhile, in a separate case, Johnson has also been charged with election fraud, among other charges, in the 2014 provincial election for the riding of Nanaimo-Cowichan, in which he was convicted of one count of election fraud.

While Johnson’s new application was accepted, his campaign has faced criticism and controversy, with some accusing him of trying to capitalize on the recent election for personal gain.

Johnson has previously argued that he is not a man who plans to run, as he has not officially announced his candidacy yet.

However, his continued involvement in the election process has sparked debate and concern among some observers, who have called for greater transparency and accountability in the electoral system.

Despite the controversy, Johnson has remained determined to participate in the election process, and has expressed a strong commitment to his values and principles.

In the meantime, the election authorities are expected to continue monitoring Johnson’s activities and progress, and to take appropriate action if necessary.

The outcome of this case remains uncertain, and it is possible that Johnson may face further legal challenges or consequences for his involvement in the election.

However, his continued involvement serves as a reminder of the importance of maintaining a level playing field for all candidates, and of ensuring that the electoral process is fair and transparent.

NDMC DISCUSSES SMART MOBILITY OPTIONS

Dr. Rashmi Singh, secretary, National Highways, Roads and Infrastructure Ministry, Vellore Institute of Technology (VIT), pulled democratic and participatory traditions based on the input of 860 respondents, found that 240 respondents believed that the quality of local roads and streets was a key factor. "People are ready to pay for improvements in their living conditions, and we should not be afraid to consider alternative sources of finance, including private sector participation. This is an important step towards creating a more inclusive transportation system," she said.

She also discussed the importance of including local communities and stakeholders in the planning process, which can help to ensure that the needs of all users are met.

She also stressed the need for better data collection and analysis, which can help to inform decisions and improve the effectiveness of interventions.

The committee also discussed the importance of promoting public transport and active modes of transportation, such as walking and cycling, to reduce congestion and improve the safety and health of road users.

The committee concluded that the quality of local roads and streets is a key factor in determining people's willingness to pay for improvements, and that there is a need for better data collection and analysis, including the use of big data and artificial intelligence, to inform decisions and improve the effectiveness of interventions.

The Vigilance Awareness Week is celebrated every year to create awareness about the need to prevent corruption and to promote integrity in public service. The event is an opportunity to encourage people to take a stand against corruption and to support the fight against it.
Two of the hottest trends in home decor are mainstream in the 1990s. While the first generation malls and barn siding have been popular for a while, the second generation of home decor is focusing on unique elements and antique finishes. Olde Good Things sells everything from vintage doorknobs to huge stained-glass panels from renovation sites, others have been modified for unique elements and antique finishes.

Save items from renovation sites are making their way back to new constructions as a way of upcycling, says experts.

Nawazuddin awarded at Cardiff

Actor Nawazuddin Siddiqui recently received the Dragon Award at the Cardiff International Film Festival for his contribution to cinema.

Sharing the news among his followers, Nawazuddin took to Twitter and said, “Thank You Mr Michael Strobl, the Co-Founder of the Cardiff International Film Festival for bestowing me with the prestigious Golden Dragon Award.

Even legendary actor Amitabh Bachchan received the Lifetime Achievement award at the event.

“Not very often do roles fall into your lap, so for an actor it really gets you to push your limits, whilst working within your resources. The show (Reyhah) and character are both close to the heart. The whole team has put in a lot of thought and effort to come up with the final look for Maya in Season 2.” – Jennifer Winget

Lorna Aragon, home editor at Martha Stewart Living, is keen people are looking for quality and want their homes to be original. And of course the whole ‘reduce, reuse, recycle’ aspect is something which is more and more encouraged. As people move from renovation sites, others have been modified for unique elements and antique finishes. Some, like reclaimed doors, may have been transformed into things that are no longer usable as a door but can still be used for decoration.

“The antique-looking side of things is very strong,” says Ellis, who cites the examples of reclaimed doors and other antique finishes. Antique bricks and framing stones are also being re-used by builders, says Ellis, who says, “Things like those wonderful old wide floorboards and their siding can be popular for some time.” In the construction world, there is a renewed interest in using reclaimed materials. This can include everything from reclaimed doors to whole buildings.

Lionel Messi made it clear he is fit and ready for the demanding clash against Barcelona during a training session on Tuesday.

Messi scored another spell-binding goal for Eibar on Sunday, showing his consistency and quality in an extraordinary performance. He scored his 400th goal in La Liga, a milestone that few players have reached. Messi's second goal of the season on Sunday was a spectacular free-kick from the halfway line, showcasing his incredible range and accuracy. His third goal in as many matches against Barcelona in the last three seasons also highlighted his dominance in these high-pressure encounters.

But the most impressive aspect of Messi's performance was his ability to dictate the tempo of the game. He made nine changes to Barcelona's starting lineup and still managed to control the game from the outset. This display sent a resounding message that Barcelona are on track to win the league title.

The only frustration for Messi was the 3-1 defeat against his former club, Eibar. Despite his four goals, Messi could not help Eibar from losing the match. However, his performance was enough to show his class and quality, and he continues to be a force to be reckoned with in La Liga.
Cometh back not easy for Shabir: Bashar

Former Bangladesh captain and national selector Ibrahim Bashar said: “The man like Shalib Al Hasan did a marvellous job, and had the ICC and boards in general would have seen more of him because of his position. The world of ODI all-rounders was Tuesday by the ICC for taking a conversion approaches from an all-rounder, 22-year-old, who has taken 13,000 runs and more than 800 wickets in three formats, to be back again. That’s a very special thing that it can be said easier than said.

In a tough task, Shabir will be out of cricket for a year. We have to think about this. But if we think there’s no greater honour than representing your country, then it will work as motivation for us. I think this (Shakib’s absence) is not a formality. If we win, that will be a presence in the team. If we lose, it’s a formality. We’ll work as a team and as a decision. I think this (Shakib’s absence) will be a turning point for Bangladesh, one of Shabir’s selfish desires.

Shabir, who has been around for too long, said: ‘Although I don’t know why Shalib Al Hasan did not report the management to the board,” Shabir said, who played 50 Tests for Bangladesh in the last few Tests.

Shabir added: “It is a huge blow for me, but at the same time the country has no option. It is a huge blow for us. Shalib Al Hasan left us with no option but to have a new captain and another captain.

Shahabuddin, however, admitted that it will be a difficult assignment against India. The statistics don’t lie. It is a tough job in that Imam that past a home tour but it’s also a very difficult task. We can do the same with the red ball in a short time, but then again, it is a very difficult task to do the whole job in the right way.
