Singh urged the progressive farmers to adopt innovative technologies and practices to reduce the problem of stubble burning.

With this, the government has taken several measures to address the issue, including providing subsidies for the purchase of technology and equipment to farmers.
Syria: Kurds may be releasing ISY prison inmates in Syria to get US involved

Washington: President Donald Trump suggested on Tuesday that the US may be releasing prison inmates in Syria to get US involvement in the war in the country.

The president did not elaborate on the details of his comments, which come as US forces are withdrawing from the Kurds in northeastern Syria.

Trump said during an interview with Fox News: "We are getting close to having a deal that would allow us to get more involved in Syria."

He added: "We are discussing prisoners, and we will make a deal that allows us to get involved."

Trump's comments come after reports that the US is planning to release up to 100 ISY prisoners in Syria to get US forces involved in the conflict.

The US has been seeking to reach a deal with the Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF), which includes the US-backed Kurdish-led People's Protection Units (YPG), to allow US forces to remain in Syria.

The SDF, which has been fighting ISY in Syria, recently captured the key city of Raqa from the group.

The US has been fighting ISY in Syria since 2016, as part of its broader strategy to defeat the group globally.

Trump's comments come amid growing concerns that ISY could resurge in Syria, particularly as US forces withdraw from the country.

Prohibitory orders clamped in Ayodhya

Kushwah Saurav

On November 12, 2020, the government in Ayodhya clamped prohibitory orders to prevent any form of protest or demonstration in the area. The move was taken in response to a series of protests by various groups in the region, including the Hindu Munnani and the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), who have been calling for the construction of a Ram temple on the site of the demolished Babri Masjid in Ayodhya.

The prohibitory orders were issued after a series of communal clashes in the area, which have left several people dead and injured. The government has been under pressure to make a decision on the future of the site, which is considered sacred by Hindus.

In a statement, the government said that the prohibitory orders were necessary to maintain law and order in the area and to prevent any further violence.

Farmers burning stubble in fields will be deprived of Govt facilities: Nishad

Praveen Pratap Singh

In a major move, the government has announced that farmers who burn stubble in their fields will be deprived of certain government facilities, including loans and subsidies. The decision is aimed at reducing air pollution and promoting sustainable agriculture practices.

The move comes in the wake of a spate of stubble burning incidents across the country, which have caused widespread outrage and protests from various quarters.

In his announcement, Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar said, “Those farmers who burn stubble in their fields will not be eligible for any government assistance or loan. This is a clear message to the farmers that their actions will have consequences.”

The government has also said that it will take strict action against anyone found guilty of burning stubble.

Irrigation minister deepak wadhwani said that the government will also introduce a new law that will make burning stubble a criminal offense.

“Burnt straw is not a form of protest. It is a matter of law and it will be treated as such,” Wadhwani said.

The move has been welcomed by environmentalists and experts, who have praised the government for taking a strong stance on the issue.

Meanwhile, farmers have criticized the move, saying that it will further cripple their livelihoods and leave them with no alternative but to burn their stubble.

“We are already facing a lot of problems due to the lockdown and the lockdown has taken a toll on our livelihoods. Now, the government wants to add more pain to our lives,” said Ram Singh, a farmer from Haryana.

The government has said that it will provide alternative methods of disposing of stubble, including bio-digesters and composting plants, to help farmers find more sustainable solutions.

India-China talks help Mahabaliappuram regain lost glory

Kumar Chellappan (India), Sushant Joshi (China)

India and China have recently held talks to resolve the long-standing border dispute between the two countries. The talks were held in a border town, Mahabaliappuram, which had been under Chinese control for several years.

During the talks, both countries agreed to continue negotiations and work towards a peaceful resolution of the dispute. The talks were attended by high-level officials from both sides, including military commanders and diplomats.

India has been seeking the return of Mahabaliappuram to Indian territory, while China has been resisting any territorial concessions. The talks were held to explore areas of mutual agreement and to find a way forward.

PM Modi's 'false propaganda' on Article 370 will not succeed: Rameshwar Prasad Yadav

PM Modi's false propaganda on Article 370 will not succeed, Congress General Secretary Rameshwar Prasad Yadav said today.

Speaking to reporters at the National Congress Headquarter, Prasad said that the Prime Minister, who has been talking about the restoration of Article 370, has been doing this during the past one year, but the fact is that it has not been able to achieve the desired result. The former Congress leader said that the Prime Minister has been talking about the restoration of Article 370 in the run-up to the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, but the result was the defeat of the BJP-led government.

Prasad said that the Prime Minister has been using this issue to gain political mileage, but the fact is that the people of Jammu and Kashmir have not been benefited by it.

He said, "The Prime Minister has been talking about the restoration of Article 370, but the people of Jammu and Kashmir have not been benefited by it. The Prime Minister has been using this issue to gain political mileage, but the reality is that the people of Jammu and Kashmir have not been benefited by it."

Prasad also said that the Prime Minister has been talking about the restoration of Article 370 in the run-up to the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, but the result was the defeat of the BJP-led government.

Retail inflation scaled 14-month high

Retail inflation climbed to a 14-month high of 3.99 per cent in August from 2.99 per cent in July, data released by the Central Statistical Organization (CSO) showed on Monday.

The wholesale inflation, however, remained below 2 per cent at 1.98 per cent in August, compared with 2.12 per cent in July, as core inflation also moderated to 2.31 per cent from 2.72 per cent.

The headline inflation figure inched up above the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) mid-term target of 4 per cent and above the government's official target of 6 per cent for the third straight month.

The RBI had raised its inflation projection for the current year to 4.5 per cent from 4 per cent in its August monetary policy.
