The Union government is not responsible for the institutions which are not started for various reasons: MP YS Chowdary

The charges levelled by Chief Minister Narendra Modi against the government at the Centre should not be taken lightly, said Congress leader Randeep Singh Surjewala.

Reorganisation act has already started in the state. The Union government should be responsible for the institutions, which were not started. The government has to give a suitable answer on these issues. The Centre, what it is expecting from the state government?

He said that if the government in the future fails to provide the assistance of funds, the Centre will also be held responsible.

The same mistake, YS Chowdary and I, said the opposition party leader. He said that the institutions which were started were in the AP Capital region.

AP lists head of states against crimes in women in south

In a move to curb the crime against women, Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy on Friday issued a special order for 38 foreigners to conduct a seminar on 'Violence Against Women' at Indraprastha Apollo Hospitals, Hyderabad. The seminar is aimed at raising awareness among young people about the importance of women's rights and tackling the issue of violence against women.

Jagan Mohan Reddy also emphasized the need for a comprehensive approach to address the issue of gender-based violence. He said that the seminar would provide a platform for experts from different fields to come together and share their insights on how to create a safer environment for women.

The seminar was organized by the International Centre for Human Rights and Governance (ICHRG) in collaboration with the International Centre for Human Rights and Gender Studies (ICHRG). The event was attended by several ministers and officials from the state government.

The seminar covered various aspects of violence against women, including sexual harassment, domestic violence, and violence in the workplace. Experts from different fields, such as law enforcement, judiciary, and academia, were invited to share their views and experiences.

Several measures were also announced during the seminar, including the establishment of special courts to try cases related to violence against women, the mandatory inclusion of gender sensitivity training in the curriculum of schools and colleges, and the creation of a dedicated police station for women in each district.

The seminar concluded with a call for a collective effort to create a culture of respect and equality for women in society. Jagan Mohan Reddy urged everyone to take responsibility and work towards creating a safer environment for women.

Indian Coast Guard
Seminor on maritime law

The Indus River is one of the longest rivers in the world, flowing through Pakistan, India, and Iran. It is a major water resource for millions of people in the region, providing water for agriculture, industry, and domestic use. The seminar aimed to enhance the understanding of maritime law and its application in diverse contexts.

The seminar began with an introduction to the role of the Indian Coast Guard in maintaining maritime security. The participants were briefed on the various challenges faced by the coast guard, including drug smuggling, illegal fishing, and piracy.

The seminar also focused on the importance of international maritime law and its role in ensuring safe and secure navigation. Participants were informed about the relevant regulations, such as the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS).

Indra Kochhar, Commissioner of the Indian Coast Guard, commended the participants for their dedication and commitment to the cause. He highlighted the importance of maritime security in today's world, where the safety of ships and the security of trade routes are critical.

The seminar concluded with a panel discussion, where experts from various fields shared their insights on the role of the Indian Coast Guard in maintaining maritime security. The discussion was moderated by Captain R. V. Reddy, Director General, Indian Coast Guard.
Men with breast cancer face high mortality rates

By RV PREMABHAT

Men with breast cancer across the country are at a much higher risk of mortality compared to women, according to a study published in a recent issue of the Indian Journal of Cancer. The study, conducted in the state of Maharashtra, analyzed the mortality rates among men with breast cancer and found that the mortality rate among men is significantly higher than that among women.

Additional studies are needed to identify the factors that lead to such a difference and to develop strategies to reduce mortality rates among men with breast cancer. The study concluded that men with breast cancer face unique challenges due to their gender and that more research is needed in this area.

AP Chambers urges govt to release Rs 2,500-cr pending subsidies

The Andhra Pradesh Chambers of Commerce and Industries Association (APCCIA) has urged the state government to release Rs 2,500 crore in pending subsidies to the state's small-scale industries.

The chambers have been pressing for the release of these subsidies for a long time, but the state government has been拖拖拉拉. The chambers have called on the state government to release the subsidies immediately to help the small-scale industries which are currently facing financial difficulties.

The state government has been facing criticism for not releasing the pending subsidies, and the chambers have been pressing for an immediate release.
Ajit Pawar wins Baramati with over 1.65 lakh vote margin

Former Maharashtra deputy speaker Udaysing Padvi, who had won from Baramati, finished second with 1,68,243 votes according to the initial results. The NCP chief nephew of NCP chief Sharad Pawar defeated Congress candidate Shriniwas Dadasaheb Patil, who had resigned from the Congress to contest as an independent candidate, by over 70,000 votes.

Ajit Pawar declared that “defectors need to be treated carefully.”

Assembly poll results encouraging

The Congress on Wednesday emerged as the single largest party in Maharashtra and the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) fell behind the Congress in terms of seats won. The party got 105 seats out of the 288 seats while the BJP polled 100 seats and was leading in 22 seats. Congress chief Uddhav Thackeray said that the party was not going to form a government and would work with the other opposition parties to bring down the government.

The BJP's Pankaja Munde, an Independent from Maharashtra, unexpectedly lost from Kurduwadi constituency. According to the initial results, Munde was leading by over 5,000 votes, but the NCP candidate who is a former police officer defeated Congress candidate Dilpreet Singh and BSP's Arun Tiwari by over 70,000 votes.

The BJP's vote share is 34.25 per cent while the Congress has secured 38 per cent of the vote.

The Congress is set to win the next assembly elections, which is scheduled to be held in February next year.

The BJP was also defeated in the Lok Sabha elections held in April and May this year. The party got 40 seats out of the 44 seats in Maharashtra, while the Congress won 31 seats.

The Congress chief also thanked the people of Maharashtra for their support and said that the party would work for the betterment of the people.

The concept of critical thinking is not merely confined to the narrow confines of a classroom. It has been embedded in our ancient heritage and4 is a necessary condition for the development of India's philosophy. For India to progress, all its educational institutions must be the bedrock on which our future. The draft National Educational Policy emphasizes the need for moral and ethical values, and critical thinking to be inculcated from the very beginning. It is a commendable move towards equipping the youth to face the challenges of the 21st century.

Innovation, Science and Economic Development MinisterNavdeep Bains, Defence Minister HarjitSajjan and Finance Minister Bill Morneau will be in the town for the two-day meeting of the Group of Seven, which will be held in Canada.

The fact of the matter is that if we do not tackle the deplorable situation, we will be left with no choice but to follow the footsteps of the other nations that have already imposed a ban on crackers.

Faridabad, Oct 25: The Uttar Pradesh government has imposed a ban on the sale, purchase, storage and燃放 of crackers in the state. The ban comes into effect from midnight on October 25 and will remain in place until November 30. The decision was taken in view of the recent Supreme Court order banning the sale of firecrackers in Delhi and Noida.

According to reports, the government has also directed the police to ensure that the ban is strictly enforced. The penalty for violating the order can range from Rs 10,000 to Rs 50,000 for individuals and Rs 1 lakh to Rs 10 lakh for establishments.

The move is expected to bring down pollution levels and reduce noise pollution. It is also hoped that the ban will lead to a reduction in the use of illegal firecrackers, which are often sold on the black market.

Firecrackers are known to cause health problems, including respiratory issues, ear infections, and hearing loss. They also contribute to air pollution and noise pollution, which can have long-term effects on public health.

In 2017, the Supreme Court had directed the Delhi government to ban the sale of firecrackers in the national capital. However, the ban was not implemented due to lack of legislative support.

In the absence of a statutory framework, the UP government has taken the initiative to ban crackers, which is a commendable move.

Shivpal Singh Yadav, who was the leader of the Samajwadi Party in the state, said that the ban on crackers was a “necessary move” to ensure the safety and well-being of the people of the state.

“Crackers are a danger to our farmers and we cannot afford to take any risks with their health,” Yadav said.

“By imposing the ban, we are ensuring that our children and the elderly are not exposed to the harmful effects of crackers,” he added.

Congress leader and senior party leader, Prithviraj Chavan, also supported the ban and said that it was a “welcome move”.

“Crackers are a major source of pollution and noise pollution in the state. By imposing the ban, we are taking an important step towards reducing these issues,” Chavan said.

The ban on crackers is expected to have a positive impact on the environment and public health. It is also hoped that the ban will lead to a reduction in the use of illegal firecrackers, which are often sold on the black market.

However, the move is likely to be met with resistance from some quarters, who may argue that it is an infringement of their rights.

But the UP government has stated that it is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of the people of the state, and that the ban on crackers is a necessary move.

The UP government has also stated that it will take all necessary steps to ensure that the ban is strictly enforced, and that violators will be dealt with severely.

A number of awareness campaigns will also be launched to inform people about the dangers of crackers and the benefits of the ban.

The man who knew tomorrow

After the revolt of 1857, Sir Syed Ahmad Khan realised that learning English was necessary in order to keep up with the modern changes and contemporaries were against it. However, he saw as an inevitable trend which Indians could not avoid. At that time, most schools and modern arts and sciences were available in English. However, his advocacy of English didn’t mean he ignored Islamic awakening and culture, which he felt was a strong support. After the mid-1850s, he was necessary in order to keep up with the political changes, and that thought of English was very evident in his books, letters, and talks ofدارة’s sister. Sir Syed not only challenged his English education but also wanted his students to be a part of this education. He always found time for academic pursuits. His topics of interest included history, politics, archaeology, journalism, literature, religion, philosophy, and art.

He felt that the Muslims of India would be in jeopardy if they were not literate. Muslims were the first to create the modern alphabet, but it was the Hindus who had popularised it. Sir Syed published a lot of literature including many writings that promoted a liberal, rational and practical approach to the Muslim society.

Sir Syed also had forward-looking views on women and their role. He was strongly against the abolition of the British East India Company’s East India Act, which allowed women to own property. Instead, he advocated for a more modern and liberal approach towards women. Sir Syed also promoted women’s education, which was unheard of at the time. He believed that education was the basic need for a person to contribute to society.

Sir Syed also proposed a modern take on Islamic education, which included the study of modern subjects like science, mathematics, and languages. He also supported the idea of vocational training and job-specific education.

Sir Syed’s ideas on education were supported by the Government of India, which was led by the British. The NDA Government is going to upgrade 1.5 crore households in both urban and rural areas. A good recovery in rural areas hinges on the health and sanitary infrastructure. Poor rural and urban sanitation facilities within the village and in the house are a major reason for the spread of many diseases. The Government is going to upgrade 1.5 million primary health centers by 2022 to ensure that the needy can get comprehensive healthcare facilities.

The goal of crafting a $3 trillion economy by 2027 is only achievable if rural India grows by 21 per cent per annum. In spite of increased access to education and nutrition, rural economic self-sufficiency continues to hover at 60 per cent of the national income. Once a predominantly agrarian economy, rural India is more diversified, with a balance of agricultural and non-agricultural production. Agriculture’s contribution to GDP has decreased from 17.6% in the 1960s to 15.5% in 2018. Urbanisation rates have increased over the last two decades, its contribution to GDP is 66.6%.

India’s economic recovery depends on rural growth. Investment, employment, support and exports in rural areas. A good recovery in rural areas is essential to the country’s GDP. It is the engine of growth in the economy. The government should invest more in rural areas to boost economic growth. Consumption growth at the bottom of the pyramid is one of the ways to promote rural income and employment. Consumption growth is an important engine for rural economies. Consumption, employment, and exports are three crucial drivers of rural growth.

Apart from the large quantum of jobs that will be created, the Government's investment in rural infrastructure will help in the development of rural areas. The Government should focus on rural areas to get out of the current economic slowdown and push the economy towards recovery. The Government needs to accelerate rural development to truly benefit from India's demographic dividend.

The Government could better utilise its resources if it adopted a pro-poor policy approach. The Government should focus on rural areas to get out of the current economic slowdown and push the economy towards recovery. The Government needs to accelerate rural development to truly benefit from India's demographic dividend.

India jumps 14 spots to rank 63rd on World Bank’s ease of doing biz

Prime Minister Narendra Modi in India, propelling the country to the top 100 among 190 countries in the ease of doing biz. The World Bank’s annual report, the Doing Business 2020, was released in June, and India jumped 14 spots to rank 63 rd among 190 countries in the ease of doing biz, which is the first time in a row that the country has achieved this feat.

According to the report, the Doing Business 2020 index is based on the World Bank Group’s Doing Business project, which monitors the efficiency of the business environment. The report is based on data and information provided by 190 economies and measures various aspects of the business environment, including regulations, taxes, and labor markets.

India’s rankings in the 2020 report include:
- Rank 63 among 190 economies
- Rank 125 in the ease of paying taxes
- Rank 119 in the ease of getting credit
- Rank 124 in the ease of starting a business
- Rank 129 in the ease of enforcing contracts

India has made significant improvements in the ease of doing biz in recent years, with the country’s ranking improving from 118 in 2015 to 63 in 2020. The government has implemented several reforms, including the introduction of the Goods and Services Tax (GST), which has simplified the tax system and reduced compliance burden for businesses.

The report also highlights India’s progress in reducing the time and cost of doing biz, with improvements in key areas such as registering a business, getting electricity, and obtaining credit. The government has also made efforts to improve the business environment, with initiatives such as the Atal setu, which is a one-stop portal for entrepreneurs to access various government services.

India’s performance in the Doing Business report is a testament to the government’s commitment to improving the business environment, with the aim of creating a conducive environment for businesses to thrive and contribute to economic growth.

As India moves towards the goals of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the country continues to make progress in improving the ease of doing biz, with a focus on creating a business-friendly environment. The government has also announced several measures to address the current global economic slowdown, with a focus on the business environment, which is crucial for growth and development.}

India’s corporate gift industry usually works overtime in the run-up to Diwali to meet a market demanding for the best corporate products. The season also provides an opportunity for businesses to express gratitude towards clients and employees alike. However, the pandemic has altered the gift-giving culture, with companies adopting digital solutions to meet the demand for corporate gifting.

India’s corporate gift industry is expected to see a surge in demand this Diwali, with companies looking to retain employees and express appreciation towards clients. The industry has also diversified its offerings, with digital gifts becoming increasingly popular.

Digital gifts such as e-gift cards, virtual experiences, and virtual events have become popular among businesses, with companies looking to extend the Diwali spirit virtually.

Despite the pandemic, the corporate gift industry remains resilient, with companies looking to adapt to the changing market dynamics. The industry is expected to see growth in the coming years, with businesses looking to adopt innovative solutions to meet the demand for corporate gifting.
Disability has not stopped this 11-year-old Prem Madhav Bali from bagging laurels at various global-level competitions and becoming the Junior Model International 2019, finds SATEESH REDDY

There are many things in life that we may not be able to do, but our disability stops them from doing all the important things. If we have a strong will and a support system for those with disabilities, then we can act on what is possible. One such inspiring story is about Prem Madhav Bali, one of the most remarkable Indian children.

Though hearing-impaired, he has been bagging laurels at various international competitions by holding modelling, shooting and being featured in television serials. He has been a Green card holder since the age of 9. He won the Junior Model International Competition 2019 held in Dubai in the Pre-Teen category. He participated in the finals after winning the All India Junior Model International Competition 2019 held in Kolkata. Speaking to The Pioneer, Prem Madhav Bali’s father Skand Bali, Principal of 12P, says, “Prem has been hearing-impaired since birth and we have got to know about the problem when he was an infant. It was an unpleasant discovery when we were old enough to start modeling this year and he started getting the inspiration from Salman Khan for it. Apart from modeling he is also very good at shooting films and TV shows. He has appeared in many wide and small films. He has won many state and national-level competitions. He is a very confident child and he never feels his disability to take over him. He will reach new heights in the years to come.”

Prem’s mother, Shreya Bali, says, “Even when he was 4, he did not have any stage fear and always knew he will become an actor. He started learning dance from an early age and was trained in Kolkata for the national-level modeling competition where he performed so well that he was especially the formal route is tricky. Now, he is conquering the fashion industry in the glamorous world. It is capable of making the ordinary person special. We are also giving him exposure so that other fields besides modeling is left for him.” Shreya adds. “Prem is also very competitive. If any other children fall ill and do not go for their auditions, he acquires about their health and always misses them. He receives now, he is practicing speech therapy to improve his voice.

The internal of Prem is big, he is the one who participates from across the globe and emerged as the champi- one. It has given him the confidence to achieve more. Recently, Prem won awards like the Most Talented Child Artist, Best Asian Child Artist, Best Actor Award, Grand Prix, award and more in modeling, shooting and film acting.

One of the better biryanis I had, other than the popular Venkata was the Grand hotel. It is old school and culturally rich being the oldestIranian restaurant since 1933. While the Grand served them in a very fancy but in it, it is very reminiscent of cooking spicy ‘Andri’ or ‘biryani’ style. It doesn’t call to the ‘biryani’ lover that he has conquered the street food culture in Hyderabad which is very different from the other cities. He has a lot of discussions about food, especially the local food, and how he has been so successful in doing everything in balance. Eat food but in moderation and it is very healthy to eat food. Hyderabad is a special class of its own, and it is very diverse. Having said that it comes with a caution that he urges the people to try other foods to see art in cooking. On the other hand, the chef speaks about his love for Hyderabad cuisine and street food, he says, “The Hyderabad cuisine is very diverse because you get all kinds of food. LECTURER TURNS DIRECTOR TO BRING US NANI’S HIT

It is not every day that one finds someone leaving a comfy foreign job to pursue a career in films. But Sailesh did exactly that. He speaks to NAGARAJ GOUD about his journey from Sydney to Film Nagar to meet Nani about creating a hit film.

Earlier this May, actor Nani, at a promotional event of Pawan Kalyan’s Do, announced the first production venture of his production banner, NTV Movies. Wall Poster Cinema, with actor Vidyut Jamwal. Bringing the project out of the pages, on Thursday in Hyderabad, Nani signed the start of the film. The PM, Nani, who is producing the film along with his friend Prasanthi Tipparaju, sounded the clapboard for the first shot.

This film will mark the directorial debut of Sailesh. Speaking to The Pioneer, Sailesh billed it as a commercial entertainer that would keep the audience glued to their seats all through its running time. It would be predominantly shot in Hyderabad, while we might cut out other places for some portions.

“We are planning to wrap up the shooting in 6 to 7 months. The cast and crew, after finishing the schedule with occasional breaks for the three stars in between. I’m narrated the film to Vigneshh back long back. Felt it has top half of priorities.” Of the few stars Rahul Sharma will be the film’s leading lady. This is her second successive signing after Arjunrahman’s Natpad. "I think I have found myself in learning the new craft and taking risks in the industry,“ Saideh said. However, the latest is that the director got busy with a storyline with his friend Prashanthi Tipparaju, sounding the clapboard for the first shot.
