Babul episode warrants guidelines for varsities

So great is our collective willingness to digest the indigestible that the ugly incidents in Kolkata's Jadavpur University centred on the protests against Union Minister Babul Supriyo will become less than a footnote in a few days. Campus turbulence is not new either in India or for that matter in most parts of the democratic world. Unlike an earlier era when protests used to be centred on wider issues such as the Vietnam war, recent disturbances seem to be all about free speech. Whether in Jadavpur or Delhi University, whether it involves the Right or the Left, there is an inclination to believe that those with a sharply different point of view should somehow be barred from expressing their point of view. Accusations of fascism, homophobic and racist have marred normal campus meetings and those involved include distinguished writers and scholars.

There is, quite predictably, a temptation to incorporate Thursday afternoon's fracas inside the Jadavpur University campus with the wider battle for political supremacy that is waging in West Bengal. Needless to say the incident is not entirely unrelated and the subsequent war of words and competitive complaints to the police has made it more so. The laudable role of the State's Governor in extricating the Union Minister from protesters may even add a federal dimension to the battle.

It is, however, time to look beyond mundane politics. This incident, as I have mentioned, isn't unique. Similar incidents based on the un-democratic principle of 'no platform' for the other side have troubled Indian campuses. There has also been controversies over the use of campuses by Left organisations, including underground supporters of the Maoist underground and supporters of secessionist movements, for provocative demonstrations. It is time that the university authorities and the Governments arrive at an understanding over what should be allowed and what is prohibited from the campuses.

Should university authorities accord permission for meetings that, say, advocate secessionist? What should be the Lakshman Rekha of free speech?... In the past, life in a campus was guided by restraint, responsibility and good sense. This understanding has clearly broken down. This is why the need for guidelines and codification arises. Let us learn a few lessons from the incidents in Jadavpur last Thursday prosecuted as per the law. Being students should not be a ground for sanctioning irresponsible behaviour. More so since the meeting convened by the ABVP had prior permission from the university authorities.

While judgment on this issue is relatively easy, should university authorities accord permission for meetings that, say, advocate secessionist? What should be the Lakshman Rekha of free speech? This is an issue that warrants urgent attention and even some codification. Things have reached such a pass that such decisions can no longer be left to the good sense of university authorities that are very susceptible to local political pressures.

The second issue that needs some attention is that of police entry into the campus. By convention, campuses have their own security and police is denied entry. In Jadavpur, the Vice Chancellor made a huge issue of it and said that he would rather resign than let the police in. It is fortunate that no one got seriously hurt because otherwise his judgment would have been regarded as both foolish and pig-headed. Yet there was a definite case for the police to come in to the campus for the limited purpose of ensuring the safe passage of the Minister. Having the police inside would not have defiled the campus unless, of course, the police is viewed as goons in uniform. I believe that the wide discretion allowed to university authorities on this matter should be replaced by broad guidelines that are set at the national level. If there can be a FIR on a matter inside the campus, it follows that the police should have some responsibility for maintaining order if the need arises. This is a delicate matter that can easily be misconstrued and that is why the importance of guidelines. To this must be added common sense.

In the past, life in a campus was guided by restraint, responsibility and good sense. This understanding has clearly broken down. This is why the need for guidelines and codification arises. Let us learn a few lessons from the incidents in Jadavpur last Thursday.

Maha, Haryana to go to polls on Oct 21

Counting on Oct 24; EC to announce Jharkhand Assembly election dates later

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Exactly a month from now, BJP-ruled Maharashtra and Haryana will go to polls — the first election since the Lok Sabha elections and the Government's key decisions on Article 370 and triple talaq.

While the polls in the two States will be held on October 21, the counting of votes will be held on October 24. The term of the 288-member Maharashtra Assembly ends on November 9 and that of the 90-member Haryana Assembly expires on November 2. The dates for Jharkhand Assembly polls will be announced later.

Faced with a string of high-profile desertions from their camps to the ruling combine in Maharashtra, the Congress and the NCP have joined hands once again after five years and have stitched up a seat-sharing deal in their bid to stop the BJP-Shiv Sena from returning to power. But then, the BJP and the Shiv Sena too have come together after 2014 to ensure they retain power. The two saffron parties are likely to announce their seat-sharing deal this week. The Congress and the NCP had been in power for three consecutive terms before they lost to the BJP-Sena combine in 2014.

In Haryana, the Congress is exploring a tie-up with the BSP, which has announced its intentions to go it alone and is also cut up with the principal Opposition party for having engineered a defection of six of its MLAs to join its camp in Rajasthan.

In both the States, the BJP is expected to espouse the cause of nationalism among the masses by pitching its "strong" decision to abrogate the special status to Jammu & Kashmir under Article 370. It would also point to its another "bold" decision of banning the triple talaq practice among Muslims to reach out to the women from the minority community.

Soon after the announcement of the poll schedule, leaders of the ruling coalition exuded confidence of winning a second consecutive term in Maharashtra with Devendra Fadnavis asserting he will be back as the Chief Minister. State BJP chief Chandrakant Patil said given the response to the "Mahajanadesh Yatra" of Fadnavis, the BJP-Shiv Sena alliance is likely to get more than 220 seats.

With the BJP taking centre stage even in the Lok Sabha polls contested in 2014 and 2019, the Congress' hold in its strongholds of Vidarbha, Marathwada and Mumbai region has weakened. Similarly, the NCP is struggling to retain its pocket-borough of western campaign in Maharashtra, the Congress-NCP are taking up issues of farmers' suicide, agrarian crisis and the rising graph of unemployment, highest in last 40 years, as its main attacking points against the BJP-Sena alliance in the State.

In contrast, the BJP, which has netted a number of NCP leaders, has attacked Sharad Pawar, saying his period of dominance is over. "Breaking and making parties" kind of politics practiced by the NCP chief is now catching up with his party with the passage of time, said Fadnavis in Mumbai, stepping up his campaign.

The BJP, which won 122 seats in the 2014 Assembly polls, had a vote share of 27.81 per cent, well ahead of the Congress' 17.95 per cent.

Largest crowd for foreign leader in US awaits Modi

After 'Howdy Modi', Trump, PM likely to ink trade deal

PTI ■ HOUSTON

Indian-Americans in Houston are all set to welcome Prime Minister Narendra Modi for the mega "Howdy Modi" event on Sunday, to be attended by 50,000 audience, the largest gathering ever for an elected foreign leader visiting the US, other than the Pope.

The three-hour "Howdy Modi" event in which President Donald Trump will join Prime Minister Modi is being organised at the sprawling NRG Football Stadium, with an impressive history of shows that starred Beyonce, Metallica, U2.

Indian Ambassador Harsh V Shringla previewed the event at NRG Stadium, where preparations were in full swing with

Chandrayaan-2's orbiter doing stellar work: Sivan

Gaganyaan next priority, says ISRO chairman

SUMEET SHARMA/PTI ■ BHUBANESWAR/CHENNAI

The Chandrayaan-2 orbiter's ensemble of eight scientific instruments is performing very well and is expected to continue its stellar work for about seven and a half years, ISRO Chairman K Sivan said on Saturday.

As the prospects of re-establishing contact with "Vikram" lander have virtually ended after the conclusion of 14 Earth days, ISRO said it will take up a study to ascertain what exactly happened to it.

Sivan said after Chandrayaan, ISRO's next priority is Gaganyaan mission.

"We have set a target of achieving it by December 2020; and the second unmanned mission is targeted in July 2021. By December 2021, an Indian will first be carried by our own rocket to space," Sivan said.

In a first, ED attaches 3 chimps, 4 monkeys

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

In a bid to prevent a wildlife smuggler of West Bengal from claiming ownership of three chimpanzees and four marmosets (long-tailed South American monkeys) recovered from him, the Enforcement Directorate (ED) has, for the first time, attached the endangered animals under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

The wild animals have been kept in Alipore Zoological Garden in Kolkata. ED sources said smuggler Supradip Guha will be probed under the money laundering case.

The ED said the first-of-its-kind attachment under the PMLA "enabled" zoo authorities to retain the animals as the smuggler was trying to take them away on forged papers.

An attachment by the ED renders an asset out of bounds for its owner and it can be further confiscated by the agency after the Adjudicating Authority of the PMLA, a quasi-judicial body, approves the attachment within 180 days of seizure.

'Gully Boy' India's official entry to Oscar awards

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Zoya Akhtar's "Gully Boy", featuring Ranveer Singh as an aspiring rapper, has been selected as India's official entry in the International Feature Film category at the Oscars, the Film Federation of India (FFI) announced on Saturday.

"India's official entry for Oscars this year is 'Gully Boy'. There were 27 films in the running this year but it was an unanimous decision to select 'Gully Boy'," FFI secretary general Supran Sen told PTI. The movie, which was released across the country on February 14, also features Alia Bhatt, Vijay Raaz, Kalki Koechlin, Siddhant Chaturvedi, and Vijay Varma. Ranveer said it is a proud moment for the entire team.

CM to flag off Tejas Express on October 4

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath will flag off the country's first private semi-high speed train Tejas Express on Lucknow-New Delhi trunk route on October 4.

Its commercial run will commence from October 6. Booking for Tejas Express has already started and the train will be run by Indian Railways Catering and Tourism Corporation (IRCTC) six days a week.

The fare from Delhi to Lucknow for AC chair car is ₹1,280 and that for executive chair car ₹2,450. The Delhi to Kanpur fare for AC chair car is ₹1,155 and of executive chair car ₹2,155.

The IRCTC has fixed Lucknow to Delhi fare for AC chair car at ₹1,125 and executive chair car at ₹2,310.

The fare has been based on dynamic pricing system and several new features are set to be introduced, including a high-class catering service.

The train will run every day except Tuesdays and start its journey from Lucknow Junction at 6:10 am to reach New Delhi station at 12:25 pm with halts at Kanpur and Ghaziabad.

On the return journey, it will depart from Delhi at 3:35 pm and reach Lucknow Junction at 10:05 pm with halts at Ghaziabad and Kanpur.

However, on the inaugural day on October 4, the train will run late and leave Lucknow junction at 9:30 am.

The train will have 9 AC chair car coaches and one executive class coach to accommodate 758 passengers.

Sources in Railways said on Saturday that reservation for Tejas Express started from Friday evening and around 100 seats were booked immediately for the inaugural run on October 6.

The Railways went for a trial run of Tejas Express on Lucknow-Gorakhpur route on Friday and the train clocked a maximum speed of 110 kmph covering the distance in just over four hours.

Chinmayanand's lawyer fails to file bail application

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

In a major disappointment to rape accused former Union minister Chinmayanand Swami, his lawyer failed to file his bail application because of strike by local lawyers in Shahjahanpur on Saturday.

The Bharatiya Janata Party leader was arrested by the Special Investigation Team (SIT) on Friday and remanded to 14 days' judicial custody by Shahjahanpur's Chief Judicial Magistrate Omveer Singh.

Sources said that Swami Chinmayanand slept for five hours at night in the jail and also meditated for about an hour early Saturday morning.

Denying any special treatment being meted out to the BJP leader inside the prison, Jail Superintendent Rakesh Kumar said on Saturday that Swami Chinmayanand took two meals after being lodged in the prison on Friday afternoon. He said that Swami Chinmayanand went to bed at 10:30 pm and woke up at around 3:30 am and meditated. After the barrack was opened at 5 am, he took a morning stroll inside the jail premises.

After freshening up, Swami Chinmayanand had tea and dalia like other inmates and for lunch, he ate pulse, chapati and vegetables.

Swami Chinmayanand's lawyer Om Singh told the media that the bail application could not be moved before a magistrate as working at Shahjahanpur court was suspended due to strike by lawyers on Saturday.

The lawyers have been pressing for the opening of a bench of Allahabad High Court in Shahjahanpur.

Meanwhile, the victim expressed displeasure over the SIT move of not booking Swami for rape. On Saturday, she claimed that she could not understand the reason for not charging Swami Chinmayanand under Section 376 of Indian Penal Code for rape. She suspected that the girl said that the arrest was probably made on the Chief Minister's intervention but stressed that the functioning of the SIT was unsatisfactory and she would apprise the court about it.

Expressing faith in Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, the girl said that the arrest was probably made on the Chief Minister's intervention but stressed that the functioning of the SIT was unsatisfactory and she would apprise the court about it.

Earlier, in her statement before a magistrate under Section 164 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the complainant had accused Swami Chinmayanand of blackmailing and raping her over a prolonged period.

The SIT on its part booked Chinmayanand under sections

376 (c) (a person in position of fiduciary seducing a woman for sexual intercourse not amounting to rape), 354D (stalking), 342 (punishment for wrongful confinement) and 506 (punishment for criminal intimidation) of Indian Penal Code.

Expressing faith in Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, the girl said that the arrest was probably made on the Chief Minister's intervention but stressed that the functioning of the SIT was unsatisfactory and she would apprise the court about it.

Beside Swami Chinmayanand, the SIT also arrested three acquaintances of the complainant, including two of her cousins, and booked them under sections 385, 506 and 201 of IPC and Section 67 of IT Act for blackmailing the BJP leader for extorting ₹5 crore from him.

Maya expels Ruchi Veera for anti-party activities

Lucknow (PNS): Bahujan Samaj Party chief Mayawati expelled senior woman leader Ruchi Veera from the party for anti-party activities and indiscipline. Veera had contested the 2019 Lok Sabha polls on BSP ticket from Aonla but was defeated.

In 2014, Veera became a Samajwadi Party MLA after winning bypoll but just before the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, she joined the BSP and was fielded from Aonla. Recently, Ruchi Veera had attended a traders' conference organised by the Bharatiya Janata Party and this had irked the BSP brass, leading to her expulsion.

Meanwhile on Friday, Mayawati questioned Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman's bonanza to the corporate sector by slashing corporate tax on companies. "The Union government is terming reduction in corporate tax as historic and claiming that it will end the economic slowdown and crisis. May it be so as the serious crisis that has come over people's livelihood should end. But the basic question is, why did we take such a step earlier which has to be rolled back now?" she asked in tweets.

The BSP chief's comments came hours after Sitharaman announced tax cuts and fiscal reliefs saying that domestic corporate tax was being slashed to an effective 25.17 per cent, inclusive of all surcharges and cess. The move would cost the national exchequer Rs 1.45 lakh crore. The changes have been brought through an ordinance.

Sitharaman said that manufacturing companies set up after October 1 would have the option to pay 15 per cent tax and effective tax rate for new manufacturing firms would be 17.01 per cent.

Lucknow getting ready for DefExpo

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

The state capital is getting ready for the 11th biennial edition of DefExpo India-2020 to be held for the first time in Lucknow. The five-day event will commence from February 4 and end on February 8.

"Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Defence Minister and Lucknow MP Rajnath Singh, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar along with Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath will participate in the function to be held at Indira Gandhi Pratishthan on February 4," District Magistrate and nodal officer of DefExpo India-2020, Kaushal Raj Sharma, said in Lucknow on Saturday.

On February 5, Union Home Minister Amit Shah will host a dinner for around 1,500 dignitaries and cultural programmes will be organised on Gomti Riverfront.

"The defence expo will be organised in Sector 15 of Vrindavan Yojana on Lucknow-Rae Bareilly Road. A tent city will come up with five-star facilities to accommodate foreign and Indian delegates. Besides, representatives of defence manufacturing companies will also be provided all facilities," Sharma said.

A high-level meeting of officials from Defence and External Affairs ministries and UP officials was held recently in Lucknow where the programmes were finalised along with the venue. It was decided that Lucknow would be spruced up and cleanliness would be the prime focus. Tourist places in Lucknow and nearby areas would be decorated while roads would be repaired.

The officials of Chaudhary Charan Singh Airport in Lucknow have been asked to make arrangements for large-scale chartered flights. All rooms of prominent hotels have been booked for delegates and representatives.

This expo will offer an excellent opportunity for the defence industry to showcase its capabilities and promote export potential. The main theme of DefExpo India-2020 will be 'India: The Emerging Defence Manufacturing Hub with focus on 'Digital Transformation of Defence'.

The exhibition will also highlight emergence of Uttar Pradesh as an attractive destination for investment in defence sector and act as a platform for alliances and joint ventures in the industry. Recently, a delegation from UP led by Industries Minister Satish Mahana visited Defence, Security and Equipment Expo-2019 in London and invited defence manufacturing companies to come to Lucknow and invest in UP in the defence industrial corridor.

UP has a strong defence industrial infrastructure with four units of Hindustan Aeronautics Limited at Lucknow, Kanpur, Korwa (Amethi) and Naini (Prayagraj), nine ordnance factory units, including Kanpur, Korwa, Shahjahanpur, Firozabad and one unit of Bharat Electronics Limited at Ghaziabad.

Ministerial-level delegations from foreign countries and visitors from across the country and abroad are expected to visit DefExpo and witness India's emergence as a major manufacturing hub providing attractive opportunities for co-development and co-production of defence equipment and systems not only for our defence forces but also for export.

Tax sops to benefit industrialists: RLD

Lucknow: Hitting out at Union Finance Minister's decision to slash tax for the corporate world, Rashtriya Lok Dal state chief Masood Ahmad said the move would mainly benefit industrialists.

"At a time when the people are reeling under the burden of heavy fuel prices, the Union government's decision to slash tax for the corporate world makes it evident that the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party is not concerned about public woes. Revenue inflow will suffer if prices of diesel and petrol are lowered but it will give relief to people. The government should take measures to lessen the burden on the people," the RLD leader said.

Ahmad said that the state government recently hiked power tariff for small businesses, adding the pressure on them.

"While the government is taking measures to help industrialists, it is not doing anything for the common man, unemployed, farmers, labourers and small businessmen," the RLD state chief said.

Ahmad said that marginal and small farmers were affected the most due to rising prices of diesel, petrol and power. PNS

Eight die in rain-related incidents

Lucknow (PTI): At least eight people were killed in Uttar Pradesh in rain-related incidents, a senior official said on Saturday. All the deaths took place on September 20, UP Relief Commissioner GS Priyadarshi said.

"Eight persons lost their lives in different rain-related incidents in the state, while two sustained injuries," he said in a statement issued here.

Due to snakebite, one person each died in Pilibhit, Lalitpur and Kannauj while two were killed in Etawah, he said.

Two persons died due to lightning in Chitrakoot, while one person died due to lightning in Sonbadra, the statement said. He also said that rivers Ganga, Yamuna, Betwa and Ghaghra were flowing above the danger mark at various places in the state.

Mulayam likely to be allotted Toyota Prado

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Samajwadi Party patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav will return a Mercedes SUV allotted to him by the Estate department and would probably be allotted a Toyota Prado SUV.

The UP Estate department has only two Mercedes SUVs out of which one is being used for Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

Official sources said that the Mercedes SUV allotted to Mulayam Singh Yadav had developed some technical snag and its repairing cost was expected to be around ₹26 lakh.

There has been an exchange of letters between the Estate and Security departments for bearing the cost of repairing and servicing of the SUV allotted to Yadav.

However, both departments expressed their unwillingness to bear the cost of repair citing paucity of funds. Hence it is now being believed that Mulayam Singh Yadav may be allotted a Toyota Prado.

Six killed in blast in Etah firecracker unit

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

A blast in a firecracker unit in Etah led to the death of six persons, including three children, and left several others critically injured on Saturday afternoon.

The injured were shifted to a hospital while police officers rushed to the spot and started investigation to ascertain the cause of the explosion.

The blast occurred in the house of Naresh and Munni Devi in Takiya locality under Mirhachi police station. Munni Devi has a licence for manufacturing firecrackers.

The explosion was so powerful that even the adjoining houses developed cracks on the walls while the one in which the firecrackers were made collapsed.

Those who died in the blast were identified as Munni Devi, Kusjina, Soni, Rajani, Sheetal and an unidentified youth.

The injured identified as Madhuri, Nutan, Meera Devi, Rishabh, Prateek were rushed to a hospital.

Some persons were suspected to be trapped under the rubble and efforts were being made to extricate them.

Meanwhile, in Ranipur area of Mau, a clash over a land dispute resulted in the death of three persons and injuries to four late Friday night.

After the clash between two families over a pond land in Mathia village, tension ran high and additional police force was deployed in the village.

The police said on Saturday that both families had been disputing the other's ownership over the land for the last 20 years. On Friday night, things took an ugly turn when Tuntun Chauhan along with his supporters attacked Shivendra Chauhan.

In the attack Shivendra (50) and his wife Gita Devi (45) were killed while four members of their family, including Shivendra's father, were critically injured.

In retaliation, Shivendra's supporters caught hold of Tuntun Chauhan (40) and lynched him.

The injured were rushed to a hospital in Varanasi, where the condition of all four was stated to be critical.

Senior police officials had reached the village and investigations were underway. PTI

Police raid SP MLA's house to arrest him

Muzaffarnagar: Police on Saturday raided the residence of Samajwadi Party MLA from Kairana Nahid Hasan in neighbouring Shamli district to arrest him on charge of misbehaving with government officials but he was not found there, an official said. Hasan was booked under various sections of IPC including 353 (assault or criminal force to deter public servant from discharge of his duty), 465 (forgery) and 153 (provocation with intent to cause riot) in connection with an incident of September 9. Sub-divisional Magistrate Amit Pal Sharma and the then Circle Office Rajesh Tiwari had stopped the MLA's car and asked for papers when he had allegedly misbehaved with them. PTI

TWO KILLED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Muzaffarnagar: Two elderly men died and three others were injured when a speeding truck hit their car on a highway here, police said on Saturday. The accident occurred on the Meerut-Karnal highway near Vigyana village under Budhana police station limits on Friday evening. While Amiruddin (60) and Shamshuddin (70) died in the accident, the three injured were rushed to a hospital. The truck driver fled the spot.

MAN HELD WITH HEROIN WORTH ₹1.5 CRORE

Maharajganj: A Nepalese national, carrying heroin worth around ₹1.5 crore in the international market, was arrested here near the India-Nepal border, an official said on Saturday. Raj Kumar Yadav (32) was arrested on Friday night during a routine check at Sonauli bus station and 145 gram heroin was found in his possession. Inspector Vijay Raj Singh said, adding that the seized contraband was worth ₹1.45 crore in the international market. Yadav was booked under relevant sections of NDPS Act.

1 STABBED TO DEATH IN CLASH OVER CHILD-LIFTING RUMOURS

Bhadohi: A man was killed and four injured in a clash between two groups in Bhadohi district following rumours of child-lifting. According to police, the trouble started when a tractor hit a tricycle of a physically-challenged person near Gandhi village in Suryava police station area on Friday night and an irate mob indulged in heavy stone pelting in protest. As the tractor driver tried to speed away, locals alerted people in the villages ahead that the tractor was carrying a lifted child. Before those in the tractor could reach their native Danupatti village a stone-pelting mob started chasing them on two-wheelers. When the tractor reached Danupatti, a clash broke out between the locals, who came out in support of those in the tractor, and those who arrived chasing them. During the clash someone attacked one Gulab Chand (52) with a sharp-edged weapon, killing him and injuring four others.

PRIEST, WIFE SHOT DEAD

Varanasi: Two unidentified assailants shot dead a priest and his wife at their house here in the early hours of Saturday, police said. The incident took place at Kali-Mahal locality in the holy city. KK Upadhyaya, the priest of Pisach Mochan Kund, was standing outside his house at around 6 am, while his wife was busy in the kitchen, when the motorcycle-borne attackers arrived there and killed them and escaped, the police said. Preliminary investigation revealed that the incident was apparently a fallout of a property dispute involving Upadhyaya's brothers. PTI

Street food vendor shot dead

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

Throwing an open challenge to Lucknow police, two bike-borne unidentified miscreants on Saturday evening shot dead a roadside vendor and injured his worker near the lane leading to Cantonment police station. The miscreants displayed their muscle power in a brazen manner and fired more than shots, making the passersby run helter-skelter. The Cantonment police claimed that Deepu was shot following a brawl over payment of money for the food that one of the suspects purchased from Deepu's shop.

As per reports, Deepu Verma of Sadar run his stall selling puri-sabzi under the overbridge above Sadar police outpost. His worker was identified as Pushpraj. Around 8 pm, Deepu and Pushpraj were going to the shop on a scooter when intercepted by the miscreants near a bank close to Cantonment police station. Pushpraj told the police that the miscreants trained a pistol at Deepu in full public view and shot two times. "They opened fire once again and this time, I was injured by the pellets," he said.

It surfaced during investigation that Deepu and Pushpraj had a verbal spat with a youth who had reached their shop in a drunken state. The youth had taken bhatoore from the shop and refused to pay. "After taking the food, the suspect tried to trick me saying he had given me Rs 100 even though he had not given me a single penny. An argument ensued during which the youth abused us and also threw away the packet of food," Pushpraj told the police.

He said when the youth abused Deepu, the latter slapped him. "After about an hour after, some men riding a car (WagonR) reached the shop. Deepu was then at a barber's shop. They asked me why was the youth slapped. I told them that he had abused us. They enquired from Deepu and later agreed to leave the place. They also placed an order for 15 puris which we gave them as 'favour,' Pushpraj said.

SSP Kalanidhi Naithani said Deepu died at the KGMU Trauma Centre while Pushpraj was under treatment and out of danger. "Teams are camping at the crime scene and further investigations are on," he said.

Sources said the youth who had picked up a fight with Deepu was a police informer. "After being thrashed, the youth called his friends. Among those who visited the shop in a car, there was also a policeman. After he introduced himself, Deepu became defensive. It surfaced during the interrogation of Pushpraj but the police did not share this with mediapersons," the sources said. They said the WagonR's registration number was yet to be found out.

When asked, Cantonment CO Santosh Singh said the reports were unfounded. "No policeman had gone to Deepu's shop in the afternoon," he said. The CO said the police were hunting for the youth. "It is yet to be ascertained if he orchestrated the attack which claimed Deepu's life or he himself was involved in the crime," he added. A look at the crime scene made the commuters nervous. Two mobile phones and the scooter were lying on the road. Some of the commuters claimed that they spotted blood stains on the road.

The brawl between Deepu and the youth in question took place behind the Sadar police outpost but the Cantonment SHO and Sadar outpost incharge had no information about that. They came to know this only after a video clip of Pushpraj went viral in social media groups on Saturday night. The attackers waylaid the victim near a bank which is close to the Cantonment police station. Local shop-owners claimed that the man who mediated between Deepu and the youth in question was a constable and was often seen roaming in the locality in civvies.

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

An 18-year-old boy was feared drowned in Gomti river where he had gone to take a dip along with three friends on Saturday afternoon. The Thakurganj police pressed drivers into service but the teen was untraceable till last reports came in. As per reports, Sameer Hasan of Radhagram Colony in Thakurganj, along with his friends Mohammed Anas (17), Furqan (17) and Ahmad (18) — all of Thakurganj — went to the river near Cattle Colony around noon.

The group jumped into the river one after another. Sameer reached the middle of the river first but he began to drown all of a sudden. His friends unsuccessfully tried to rescue him and later came out of the river. They alerted Sameer's family and police were informed about the incident. A team reached the scene and divers were pressed into service. A police spokesman said Sameer could not be traced despite hectic search operations. "Sameer is feared drowned. The divers are still searching for him and the police are overseeing the rescue operation," he said.

The Thakurganj police said the family had not alleged the role of any of Sameer's friends as yet. "If we get any complaint, the case will be investigated on that line," the police said.

Meanwhile, a 55-year-old female sanitation worker of Lucknow Municipal Corporation, identified as Rameshwari of Machhli Mohalla in Alambagh, was crushed to death by a speeding truck at Mawaiya crossing on Saturday morning.

Rameshwari, along with Deepmala and Ratan (both residents of Alambagh), were waiting for an auto to reach their destination. When she was about to sit in the auto, the speeding truck knocked the auto. Those injured were rushed to a private hospital where Rameshwari was declared brought dead while Ratan was referred to the KGMU Trauma Centre in view of his critical condition.

Locals created a ruckus putting the body on the road in Mawaiya and demanded action against the errant driver. They also demanded compensation for the family of the victim. Senior officials of police and district administration reached the scene and succeeded in mollifying the irate protesters by assuring them arrest of the errant truck driver and forwarding their plea for compensation.

Bag containing ₹4.5L stolen from car

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

A bag containing Rs 4.5 lakh and other documents was stolen from a car by which a Bareilly native was travelling in Kakori on Saturday morning. As per reports, Rajat Agarwal of Bareilly had some work in Lucknow and he reached the city along with his driver on Saturday. When he reached Dubagga crossing around 10.45 am, one of the tyres of the car got punctured. He asked his driver to bring someone from a puncture repair shop.

"After my driver left, I was standing near the car when a boy turned up from somewhere. He begged for alms which I refused as he looked sturdy. However, the boy kept pleading to me and I lost my temper. A little later, the boy disappeared from the scene. When I turned back, I found the rear window panes lying broken and the bag missing. Rajat stated in his complaint.

He said he had a hunch that the boy was an aide of the person who stole the bag from his car. "The boy kept begging for alms, making me lose my cool. Maybe, he was diverting my attention when someone was stealing my bag from the car," he told the police. However, the police were yet to register a case. "We are scanning CCTV footages to trace the boy who was begging for alms. Once we track him down, he may give us a clue about the thief," the police said.

Rain makes weather pleasant

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

Lucknow received strong showers on Saturday afternoon, making the weather pleasant. The state capital received 25.4 mm rainfall. The sky which was cloudy in the morning turned dark grey around noon and the heavens opened up in no time. The skies cleared by late afternoon. The sudden downpour caught commuters off-guard, making them rush for cover. The city has been receiving good rains in the past few days with the troughline of southwest monsoon passing through the state.

However, complaints regarding waterlogging poured in from several parts of the state capital, especially the low-lying areas. Lucknow recorded the maximum temperature at 32.4 degree Celsius, which was just a notch below normal. The minimum temperature settled at 25 degree Celsius, which was one degree above normal. The forecast for Sunday is partly cloudy sky with the maximum and minimum temperatures expected to be around 31 degree Celsius and 24 degree Celsius, respectively. Rain and thundershowers are likely at isolated places over the state.

Fraudster posing as circle officer held

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

An impersonator posing as Gomti Nagar circle officer was nabbed from Savvy Grand hotel in Vibhuti Khand police station area following a tip-off on Saturday evening. CO AK Srivastava said they were tipped off that a man claiming to be Gomti Nagar CO was staying at the hotel. "We worked on the information and nabbed him. The accused was identified as Yogesh Shukla of Lakhimpur Kheri. We recovered a fake identity card bearing the name Himanshu Shukla, a fake identity card of Gomti Nagar SHO and two fake identity cards besides a fake stamp of Lucknow SSP, three ATM cards, two passports and a four-wheeler," Srivastava informed.

The CO said Yogesh checked into the hotel on Saturday evening and was traced hours after the news about his fake identity reached the police. He said the police were interrogating him to know his motive. Sources said the accused had used to tell people that the incumbent Gomti Nagar CO had been transferred and he would be replacing him soon. "This way, he had duped several persons," the sources claimed.

Several takers for books on Kashmir, abrogation of Art 370

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

Books on Kashmir and abrogation of Article 370 are attracting the attention of readers at the National Book Fair which is underway at Moti Mahal Lawns. Ashok Shukla, sales incharge of Raj Pal and Sons publishers at the book fair, said: "Kashmir Nama, the history of Jammu and Kashmir from ancient times to the contemporary era, is already selling well."

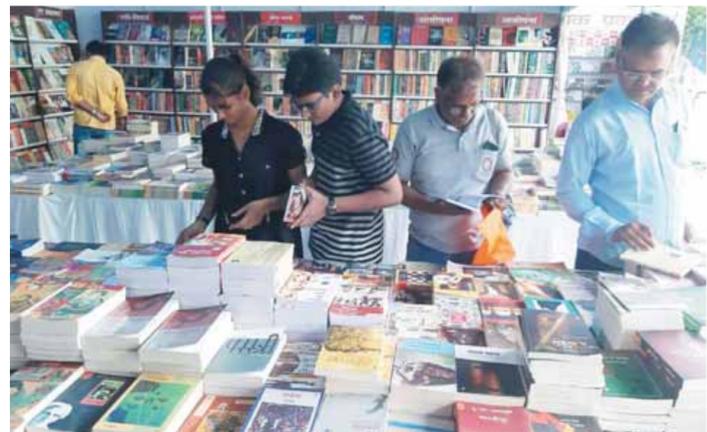

He said that author Ashok Kumar Pandey had taken out a new edition of the book. "The author has added a new chapter to the book on Article 370 and the controversies associated with it. It has given details of the state in the light of history, society and politics," he said. He admitted that the book had received extremely good reviews from well-known critics and the state itself was catching the attention of one and all. He said that after the removal of Article 370, the book had been garnering a lot of interest. "We sold a number of copies at the recent book fair in Gwalior and we are also getting a lot of orders from various parties and book shops. The book came out first in 2017 and is selling well across the country," he pointed out.

Incidentally, the book has been written by an author from Deoria, Uttar Pradesh. "He has carried out extensive research and also visited the place for getting correct details for the book," he added.

Shukla said another book which they had brought to the book fair and was recently published was 'Amritsar 1919', which is a novel based on the background of Jallianwallah Bagh tragedy, and was released in the centenary year of the tragedy at Baisakhi earlier this year.

"The book has been written by Rajneesh Dhawan, who is a native from Amritsar and is currently teaching English literature at the University of Canada," he added.

Asked whether the books on history had gained the interest of readers, with the abrogation of Article 370 and a spirit of nationalism having gripped the country, he nodded in the affirmative. "Most of the readers who have purchased the book are those aged between 40 and 50 years and interested in the developments of such a scale. It can be said that the Central government's move to scrap Article 370 has certainly captured the fancy of readers. Similar is the case with the book 'Jallianwallah Bagh Tragedy, which also has a historical background and is catching the interest of readers," he said.

Shukla said they brought in a combined critique of four of their best-sellers. "This critique was published for those who are appearing for the competitive examinations. These books are also picked up by research scholars," he said.

About the weather, he said that rains had created problems, resulting in less number of football in the morning.

However, key organiser of the book fair Manoj Chandel said though the rains did create problems, the book lovers were back once the skies cleared.

Muslim man plays Sita in Bangladeshi Ramlila

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

It was a Muslim man, Mohammed Ramzan Ali, who played the role of Sita in the 'Bangladeshi Ramlila' which was staged on the second day of Ramayana Mahotsav at Sant Gadge auditorium on Saturday. The programme is organised by Culture department, Tourism department and Indian Council of Cultural Relations (ICCR).

Simple, pastoral and imbued in the shades of folk music, performed in Bengali language, this presentation yet again highlighted another facet of the Ramayana which is performed across the world. The unique aspect of this Ramayana was that it had two Muslim performers. The other presentation was the Ramayana by a troupe from Mauritius carrying the scent of the culture carried by Girmityas into the hinterlands.

Assistant director, Culture department (Bangladesh), Anup Chatterjee told The Pioneer that the Ramayana in their country was very popular in rural areas where there was a lot of communal harmony. "Mohammed Ramzan Ali is unrecognisable after he dresses as Sita. In most of the Ramayanas played in Bangladesh, the roles of women are played by men," he pointed out. Chatterjee said the troupe had performed in India earlier too. He pointed out that the performers were mostly farmers. "When they finish their work in the fields, they switch to the performance mode and programmes such as this provide them the required exposure. These are very poor farmers," he added.

He said they liked Lucknow but did not have time to explore it. Surprisingly, they have not seen any Ramlila in India and the Ramayana which they have seen has been mostly the ones showcased on the small screen. "Programmes such as this one help in bringing about a good relationship between Bangladesh and India," Chatterjee said. YP Singh from the Culture department of Uttar Pradesh said that Ramayana did not waiver from the original story. "Take the case of Sri Lanka to which Ravana belongs. Both Ram and Ravana are treated with respect, but there is not a single temple of Ravana for the fact that he abducted a woman," he added.

'Daughters more caring than sons'

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

"A son is your son till he gets himself a wife and a daughter is your daughter all her life." City folks pledged by this adage while sharing their plans for Daughters' Day falling on Sunday. Mahendra Kumar, a recently retired official who plans to gift a pair of earrings to his daughter, said daughters were extremely caring. "A daughter's voice is so soothing when you return home. She fusses around you and is concerned about your medicines. She reminds you lovingly if you have not taken medicines, which is not the case with sons who take care of you in a different manner. My daughter who is doing post-graduation almost behaves like my mother me when it comes to my health," he said.

Jeetendra Kumar, who runs a private business and has just married off his daughter, said that he really misses her and her thought moves him to tears. "Daughters call you each and every day to inquire about your health while sons are more practical and get busy with their lives. My daughter calls me every single day even though she is settling into a new life. I will be visiting her on Daughters' Day along with her favourite dish," he said. Arpita Singh, who runs a school in Gomti Nagar, said she was always told by other members of her family that she was too lenient with her daughter as compared to her two sons. "I cannot help it. Daughters are like that and they bond with you so beautifully. My daughter and I are like mates and we share everything so much so that we get along like a house on fire. On Daughters' Day, we plan to go out for a movie together and spend quality time," she said.

Meanwhile, all the five branches of SKD Academy celebrated Daughters' Day and made it an unforgettable moment for every student. The day was celebrated with zeal and enthusiasm. The girls were imparted training in self-defence, grooming, personal hygiene and self-security. The event started with a security and safety programme. The students shared their views on Daughters' Day. Principals of all the branches wished every student on the occasion. The speakers stressed that there were successful women in each and every field such as PV Sindhu, Hima Das etc. They stated that one should pay respect to daughters and their achievements. "We must encourage all the daughters to do whatever their interest is," director of the school Manish Singh said.

UPSRTC collaborates with IIM-L for improved services

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ LUCKNOW

Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation has collaborated with Indian Institute of Management (Lucknow) to make a case study on enhancing passenger safety and improve the services. UPSRTC managing director Raj Shekhar said they had a detailed discussion with a team of IIM-L students in two sessions and they were set for a detailed study on enhancement of passenger safety and improvement in services.

Head of Strategic Management, IIM-L, Kshitij Awasthi will lead the case study. In the first phase, a team comprising four students of IIM-L will study in details the existing provisions for passenger safety and passenger services in Uttar Pradesh. The team will study four regions — West UP, East UP, Central UP and Bundelkhand — to assess the present scenario and give the best possible suggestions.

In the second phase, the team will study the best practices of road transport corporations in other states and the best practices followed in other parts of the world which can easily be replicated in UPSRTC. "The time schedule for the case study and presentation of final report is in three months. The report will be presented to UPSRTC in December. After the final presentation by IIM-L team, UPSRTC will shortlist the suggestions to be implemented for improved passenger safety and services," Shekhar said.

Meanwhile, UPSRTC is ensuring all possible activities to ensure that drivers' physical health is maintained to avoid/reduce accidents and ensure safety of passengers.

Looking into the importance of this and the immediate requirement, the UPSRTC HQ is setting up rest rooms in all depots for the drivers of night routes. The managing director inaugurated a rest room for drivers at Kaiserbagh Depot.

"Massive health check up camps were organised in all depots across UP in July and August. Based on the reports, the measures were taken," Shekhar said. Talking about the rest room, he said it had bunker beds along with personal lockers and was spacious enough for 40-50 drivers engaged in night duty.

LARGEST CROWD...

The organisers and volunteers sporting 'NAMO AGAIN' shirts, chanted "NaMo Again" and said they are ready to welcome Prime Minister Modi "wholeheartedly". At a press briefing on Friday, Texas India Forum (TIF) spokespersons Priti Dawra, Gitesh Desai and Rishi Bhutadha briefed media about the event timeline, what to expect and why Houston was chosen for such a mega community event. "The event is a grand celebration of culture and unity of America and India, where attendees will hear Modi speak about the deepening US-India ties strengthened by the confirmations of over 3 million Indian Americans in the US and will lay out his vision of the continuous India's growth and development as he begins his second term following his historic re-election," Dawra said. "First time the leaders of the world's two biggest democracies are appearing together at such an event to share their resolve to build strong partnership," she said. They will showcase the growing US-India geopolitical partnership, commitment to global peace and prosperity through entrepreneurship, hard work and sacrifice of the people of both nations. The presence of these two leaders is also a sign of the positive growing influence of Indo Americans and their invaluable contributions to Texas and United States, the spokespersons said.

Dawra said President Trump's participation in the event shows that he is highlighting his "goodwill and friendship" towards the Indian Prime Minister, the people of India and the Indian American diaspora.

A bipartisan group of senior elected officials, leaders from the US government including, senators, governors, mayors will also attend the event.

"The 'Howdy, Modi' is about the unity of culture and it will bring the entire US and Texas closer than ever, TIF is deeply grateful for this opportunity to bring together such a historic event driven in large part by the diverse community of Americans all over the united states," Dawra said.

Texas accounts for 10 per cent of India-US trade, about USD 7 billion worth of US goods and commodities are moved between Texas and India. Some of the largest companies are setting up their headquarters all over Texas, creating jobs and opportunities for Americans and Indian Americans.

"India is Houston's fourth largest trading partner today just behind Brazil, China and Mexico. It attracts largest influx of Indian population and investment. Houston is uniquely positioned towards this community summit as it is the energy, space and the medical centre capital of the world," she said.

"Howdy, Modi' is the community summit organised by the contributions of over 600 organisations, 1,000 volunteers and attendees representing all the 50 states of the US. "Indian Americans are not just most educated and affluent community in the US, but it is also now recognised for serving across all fields including military medicine and education; highly respected doctors, engineers, entrepreneurs, empowering the US economy," she said.

The spirit and diversity of the Indian community will be showcased by the specially curated cultural programme "WOVEN" at the start of the event, featuring 400 artists, she said. The NRG gates will open at 6 AM to accommodate and seat 50,000 people by 9 AM, after which cultural programme will begin and continue till 10:30 am, and will be broadcast live in Hindi, English and Spanish languages followed by the address of the two leaders. The event will end by 12:30 PM, after which Modi will join a private community reception before heading to New York for the UN General Assembly session and other engagements.

The ED said the State police had booked Guha for "forgery and using forged documents as genuine as he was found using a forged permission letter to illegally transport the wildlife birds purportedly issued by the Principal Chief Conservator of Forests, Wildlife and Chief Wildlife Warden, West Bengal."

The ED took over the case under PMLA based on this police FIR. The agency said its probe found Guha was "running an organised wildlife smuggling racket".

He is a clever criminal and recorded contradictory statements before the customs authorities and wildlife authorities to evade action from both the departments, it alleged.

Guha also obtained fake certificates regarding birth of the three chimpanzees in India, the ED said. "This attachment has enabled the zoo authorities to keep the animals with them. The action by the ED will deter dealers against indulging in illegal trade of animals and wildlife," it said.

The three chimpanzees have become a major point of attraction for the visitors of the Alipore zoological garden in Kolkata and hence, a source of revenue too, the agency said.

It said the seven animals are valued at ₹81 lakh, with each chimpanzee worth ₹25 lakh and a marmoset, a species of small long-tailed South American monkeys, about ₹1.5 lakh.

MAHA...

In Haryana, disarray in the Opposition and internal fighting within State Congress may give the BJP a headstart in the campaign. The Congress high command's capitulation to former Haryana Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda and replacing his arch rival Ashok Tanwar, a Rahul Gandhi appointee, as PCC president with Kumari Selja, has already weakened the Congress challenge in the State. Hooda had threatened to float a separate regional party if Tanwar was not removed as PCC chief.

As against this, the BJP has shored up its campaign by highlighting Prime Minister's leadership and like in Maharashtra roped in many rival leaders including those from Congress and INLD in the State. The caste combination could also play favourably vis-à-vis the Congress which is presently seen as a divided house.

The non-Jat Manohar Lal Khattar's BJP Government could sway Dalits, mainly 'Jatavs', towards the BJP in the light of traditional fear they have from the dominant 'Jats' in the State. Khattar on Saturday said the Opposition is "divided" in the State and claimed that the BJP will win over 75 of the total 90 seats in the next month's Assembly polls. He said that BJP's relation with the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) is cordial in Haryana and the Central leadership will take a call on the fixing of number of seats for the SAD. He said tickets would be finalised before the start of nomination of the papers.

In the 2014 Haryana Assembly elections, the Congress won only 15 seats with the BJP scoring a majority at 47 making 33 per cent of the vote share. The INLD emerged second ahead of Congress with 19 seats.

Akhilesh accuses BJP of cheating Vishwakarma community

Lucknow: Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav on Saturday accused the BJP of befouling Vishwakarma community and said if voted to power in Uttar Pradesh in the 2022 assembly polls, his party would get a temple of Lord Vishwakarma built here on the banks of the Gomti. He also said if the SP forms government in the state, it will restart the tradition of giving a holiday on the occasion of Vishwakarma Jayanti.

Addressing Vishwakarma community members, Yadav said, "The BJP has cheated members of the Vishwakarma community. The respect, which they deserve, have not been accorded to them."

BJP-Sena in Maha aims to trounce Cong-NCP

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Fresh from its spectacular performance in the recent Lok Sabha polls, a resurgent ruling BJP-Shiv Sena alliance goes to the Maharashtra Assembly polls scheduled for October 21, 2019, with a distinct advantage, as it takes on a weakened, weary and somewhat dispirited Opposition Congress-NCP alliance.

Ahead of the first crucial electoral battle being after the Lok Sabha polls in which it walked away with staggering 42 out of the 48 seats in Maharashtra, the BJP-Shiv Sena combine has already outsmarted the Opposition Congress-NCP alliance psychologically by poaching nearly 30 of its leaders and functionaries, including 17 sitting MLAs, and depleting its cadres markedly in the run-up months to the polls.

The two saffron allies — which unlike the Opposition Congress and NCP that have already wrapped up the seat pact between them — may be struggling to arrive at an understanding over the sharing of seats between them. But, the BJP and Shiv Sena are a formidable lot both on paper and on ground — in terms of both resources and reach.

If the percentages of votes polled in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls by the two political formations are any indication, the BJP and Shiv Sena — which decimated the Opposition — are miles ahead of the Congress and NCP. Together, the BJP (27.59 per cent) and Shiv Sena (23.29 per cent) polled 50.88 per cent of total votes, as against the total 31.79 per cent of votes polled by the Congress (16.27 per cent) and NCP (15.52 per cent).

The Congress and NCP are contesting 125 seats each after leaving the remaining 32 seats to their allies. The ruling BJP and Shiv Sena are expected to ink their seat-sharing deal for the polls in the next two days.

In the 2014 polls which the saffron alliance partners had contested on their respective strengths, the BJP had won an all-time high of 122 seats as against 260 out of the total 288 seats it had contested. The Shiv Sena had walked away with 63 seats out of 282 seats it had contested. On the other hand, the Congress bagged 42 seats out of 287 seats it had contested, while the NCP emerged fourth by winning 41 out of 278 it had contested.

The Prakash Ambedkar-led Vanchit Bahujan Aghadi, which suffered a setback last week after the exit of the Asaduddin Owaisi-led AIMIM, is contesting the 2019 Assembly polls as a third front.

The Raj Thackeray-led MNS, which had not contested the Lok Sabha polls but supported the Opposition parties, is yet to take a final call whether or not to contest the Assembly polls. The Asaduddin Owaisi-led AIMIM, Samajwadi Party and BSP will contest the polls in some pockets of their influence.

On his part, chief minister Devendra Fadnis — who is leaving the ruling BJP-Shiv Sena alliance into the Assembly polls — is sitting pretty after having defeated TRS' Saiji Reddy. But subsequently, the PCC chief contested the Lok Sabha election as the nominee of Congress from Nalgonda parliament seat and emerged victorious.

It prompted Uttam Kumar Reddy to tender his resignation as Huzurnagar MLA. Uttam's spouse Padmavathi Reddy, who was an MLA from Kodad segment of the erstwhile Nalgonda district, lost the general elections to the TRS' Bollam Mallaiiah Yadav.

Congress and NCP are contesting 125 seats each after leaving the remaining 32 seats to their allies. The ruling BJP and Shiv Sena are expected to ink their seat-sharing deal for the polls in the next two days Congress leaders have been quietly touring the state, but not in as comprehensive manner as Fadnis has done.

Upbeat as it is after indulging in massive poaching from the Opposition ranks in recent months, the BJP will in likelihood whip up patriotic fervour in by giving national integration spin to the Centre's recent decision to abrogate Article 370 in Jammu and Kashmir, inking of which has already been given both by BJP national president Amit Shah and Prime Minister during their recent public meetings in Maharashtra.

Similarly, the BJP — which thinks that it will encash on the "pro-incumbency" mood prevailing in the State — will go to town with its planks like making Maharashtra a drought-free state by 2024, connecting rivers in coastal Konkan region with those in western Maharashtra, creating water grid in Marathwada region to address the drinking water problems, initiatives like loan waiver and crop insurances taken by the state government to address farmers' distress and the development push it has given in urban areas, including Mumbai, Nagpur, Thane and Pune, through various infra projects including the Metro and expressways.

64 State, 1 LS seats to see bypoll on Oct 21

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Election Commission (EC) on Saturday announced the bypolls to 64 Assembly seats spread across 17 States and Union Territory of Puducherry besides the Samastipur Lok Sabha constituency in Bihar. The bye-elections will be held on October 21 and the counting of votes will be on October 24, the same dates as those for Haryana and Maharashtra Assembly elections.

The Samastipur Lok Sabha by-election was necessitated due to the death of sitting LJP MP Ram Chandra Paswan in July. However, the bypoll for Satara Lok Sabha seat will not be held along with the Maharashtra assembly elections on October 21. Satara MP from NCP Udayanraje Bhosale had recently joined the BJP after resigning from the Lok Sabha.

There was no word on when Jammu and Kashmir would head for elections to elect its legislative body. The state, which will become a Union Territory (UT) on October 31, has been under President's Rule for over a year. Due to J&K's bifurcation into two UTs — Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh — a delimitation exercise is expected to be undertaken there.

In Karnataka, where resignations of 17 rebel MLAs led to the collapse of the HD Kumaraswamy-Congress coalition government in July, bypolls will be held in 15 seats and in Uttar Pradesh, 11 constituencies will go to the polls. The 11 UP assembly seats mostly belong to MLAs who had won the Lok Sabha elections and had resigned as members of the state assembly.

According to the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Sunil Arora, the bypolls in Karnataka will be held on seats, including where sitting MLAs were disqualified recently. Asked why elections to the Jharkhand Assembly were not announced on Saturday when the country was discussing simultaneous polls, Arora said that the issue was not yet settled and added that term of the state Assembly there ends on 9 January. "If the Leader of the House there wants to dissolve the assembly and advance the elections, then it is a separate matter. But why should the commission want to advance it," he said.

Byelections will also be held in five seats in Kerala and 4 in Punjab among others. The other states are Assam (4), Bihar (5), Gujarat (4), Himachal Pradesh (2), Rajasthan and Tamil Nadu (two each) and Sikkim (3). States where assembly bypolls will be held are Arunachal Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Telangana, Madhya Pradesh, Meghalaya, Odisha and Puducherry (one seat each).

These are the first state polls after the BJP's stunning victory in the national election earlier this year, clearing the way for a second term of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. This will also be the first time that elections will be held in Assam after the release of final citizens' list last month. By-elections will be held in four assembly constituencies in the state.

The Samastipur (Bihar) Lok Sabha by-election was necessitated following the death of sitting MP Ram Chandra Paswan of the Lok Janshakti Party in July. One Lok Sabha seat in Maharashtra is currently vacant but CEC Arora said it won't go to polls along with the state assembly elections on October 21.

Assembly bypolls in West Bengal are not being held now as the state government had cited the Durga Puja festivities to postpone the exercise. They will also not be held in Uttarakhand now as panchayat elections are already underway and the state machinery is occupied with the exercise, CEC Arora said. In some other seats, by-elections are not being held as respective high courts are hearing election petitions and the matters are sub judice, he added.

In Kerala, Stakes are high for the three major political formations — the ruling Left Democratic Front (LDF), opposition Congress-led United Democratic Front (UDF) and the Bharatiya Janata Party-led National Democratic Alliance or NDA.

The gazette notification for these polls will be issued on September 23, last date of nominations is September 30, date for scrutiny of nominations will be done on October 1. Candidatures can be withdrawn up to October 3. The CEC said that the notification for the polls will be made on September 27. The last date of filing nominations is October 4. The scrutiny of nominations will take place on October 5 and the last date for withdrawal of nominations is October 7.

The EC has decided to use EVMs and VVPATs in all the polling stations and for this adequate numbers of EVMs and VVPATs have been kept ready. As is the practice, voters will need to carry valid identity cards. Electoral Photo Identity cards (EPIC) shall be the main document of identification. However, separate instructions will be issued to allow additional documents for identification of voters.

In Kerala, Stakes are high

BJP, TRS slug it out to wrest Huzurnagar seat from Cong

PV KONDAL RAO ■ HUZURNAGAR

October 21 is likely to become a turning point in the history of Telangana politics with the Election Commission announcing dates for the bypoll in the constituency.

Though, the ruling TRS is trying to clinch the seat from the Congress and spring a surprise, the national ruling party, BJP is leaving no stone unturned to grab the seat, the bastion of grand old party. The TRS has already announced Saiji Reddy as the candidate for the seat, while a war of words between the senior leaders of Congress is reflecting that party's mood in the wake of by-elections.

During December 2018 general elections, the PCC chief N Uttam Kumar Reddy has retained the seat by defeating TRS' Saiji Reddy. But subsequently, the PCC chief contested the Lok Sabha election as the nominee of Congress from Nalgonda parliament seat and emerged victorious.

It prompted Uttam Kumar Reddy to tender his resignation as Huzurnagar MLA. Uttam's spouse Padmavathi Reddy, who was an MLA from Kodad segment of the erstwhile Nalgonda district, lost the general elections to the TRS' Bollam Mallaiiah Yadav.

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Over 10-crore electorate will be eligible to cast their vote in the coming Assembly polls in Maharashtra and Haryana for a total of 378 seats.

As per Election Commission (EC) data, there are 1,82,98,714 voters in Haryana. Of this, 1,81,91,228 are general electors and 1,07,486 are service voters who will vote for the 90 assembly seats in the state. In Maharashtra, there are 8,95,62,706 voters, of which 8,94,46,211 are general electors and 1,16,495 are service voters who will vote for the 288 Assembly seats in the state.

According to Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Sunil Arora, a total of 19,425 polling booths will be set up for people to cast their vote in Haryana. There has been an increase of 19.58 per cent of polling stations, the number of station was 16,244 back in 2014. Up from 90,403 in 2014, the number of poll booths where people can cast their vote in Maharashtra has gone up to 95,473, reflecting an increase of 5.61 per cent.

In Maharashtra, 54 seats are reserved for Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribe while 17 are reserved in Haryana for them. According to the CEC Arora, the upper limit for expenditure on the election campaign is Rs 28 lakh for each candidate.

Over 1.66 lakh VVPAT (voter-verified paper audit trail) machines will be used in the assembly polls in Maharashtra and Haryana. Referring to the use of paper trail machines, Arora said that on the lines of the Lok Sabha polls, the commission has mandated that VVPAT slips count of five randomly selected polling stations in each assembly constituency of Haryana and Maharashtra will be done for verification of the result obtained from the electronic voting machines (EVMs).

The polling stations where the count is taken up are selected by a draw of lots after the election and before counting. The commission also reiterated that while some EVMs fail to function due to "mechanical, structural or physical defect" including faulty switches, broken button, faulty connection, these never record a "wrong vote".

CEC Arora also said that special security arrangements have been made for the LWE affected areas in Gadchiroli and Gondia in Maharashtra.

Besides announcing the assembly election dates, CEC Arora also spoke about the environmental concern that the election campaigns bring with them. Regarding the same Arora said, "Election campaigns impose an environmental cost upon us. We appeal to political parties to avoid the use of plastic and use only environment-friendly material in their campaigns." Arora also mentioned that the EC has brought down more than 5,000 polling booths on the ground floor from the first or second-floor level on the request of several political parties from Maharashtra.

According to the CEC, both Haryana and Maharashtra are sound-fitting in terms of poll preparation. All types are arrangements are being made for the voters. Candidates will require to fill all the columns in their poll form. The Election Commission is privileged to play a role in democracy."

Announcement for bypolls adds zing to TN's festive season

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

The festival season in Tamil Nadu got peppered on Saturday with the Election Commission of India announcing that the bypolls from the Assembly constituencies of Vikravandi in Villupuram district and Nanguneri in Kanyakumari district would be held on October 21.

The by-election in Vikravandi was necessitated by the death of the sitting DMK lawmaker K Rathamani of the DMK in June 2019. Nanguneri constituency fell vacant following the resignation of Vasanth Kumar of the Indian National Congress who was elected to the Lok Sabha from Kanyakumari in the May 2019 General election.

The point being debated in Tamil Nadu is whether the DMK-led UPA would be able to continue its dream run. Though the final results in the by-polls would not create any threat to the Edappadi Palaniswami-led AIADMK government, it will be a morale booster to the Opposition parties as the State is gearing up for elections to local bodies which were due in 2016 itself.

In the 234-member strong Tamil Nadu Assembly, the AIADMK has 122 members while the DMK-led Opposition has 109 members. M K Stalin, president, DMK, told journalists on Saturday that his party would contest Vikravandi by-poll leaving Nanguneri to alliance partner Congress. The DMK-Congress front is hoping to retain both the seats taking advantage of recent events like the arrest of P Chidambaram, former union finance minister in money laundering case and the accidental death of Subasri, a young techie who lost her life when a larger than life size hoarding installed by a former AIADMK municipal corporation councillor in connection with the marriage of the latter's son's marriage.

Though it is more than a week, the police had failed to arrest the culprit who is on the run. This has added to the woes of the government.

The DMK-led alliance had swept the Lok Sabha election from the State winning 38 out of the 39 seats which were at stake.

Navy Chief embarks on 4-day B'desh visit to boost maritime ties

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Aiming to further consolidate maritime cooperation between the two countries, Navy Chief Admiral Karambir Singh on Saturday began a four-day-long visit to Bangladesh.

During the visit, Admiral Singh will hold extensive talks with his Bangladeshi counterpart Admiral Aurangzeb Chowdhury, besides meeting the other service chiefs and senior military officials, the Indian Navy said.

Sources said the two navy chiefs are expected to deliberate on regional security scenario including China's growing forays into the Indian Ocean region and its military assertiveness in the South China Sea.

"The visit is intended to consolidate and enhance the bilateral maritime relations between India and Bangladesh," a Navy statement said.

Admiral Singh will visit several key military establishments including the Khulna Shipyard Limited, Bangladesh's naval bases in Chattogram and Khulna and address cadets at the Bangladesh Naval Academy (BNA). In addition, he will participate in the first anniversary celebration of Bangladesh Institute of Maritime Research and Development (BIMRAD), the Navy said.

The Bangladesh Navy is an active member of Indian Ocean Naval Symposium (IONS), a forum for maritime cooperation among navies of the littoral states of the Indian Ocean Region.

There has been increasing cooperation between Indian and Bangladeshi navies and they regularly engage through staff talks, annual defence dialogue and other operational interactions.

Navy to name 7th frigate in P17A series as Mahendragiri

New Delhi: The Navy has planned to name the seventh ship in the P17A frigate series as 'Mahendragiri', senior officials said.

The first of the seven frigates, christened 'Nilgiri', is slated to be launched in Mumbai on September 28 in the presence of Defence Minister Rajnath Singh.

The first ship under P17A borrows its name from an old frigate of the Navy, INS Nilgiri that was named after Nilgiri Hills.

Five more ships of the Nilgiri-class, an upgrade of Leander-class, were also named after other hill ranges of India. The six ships were built a few decades ago and have been decommissioned.

These six ships were called — 'Nilgiri', 'Himgiri', 'Udaygiri', 'Dunagiri', 'Taragiri' and 'Vindhyagiri'.

"The first P17A frigate 'Nilgiri' will be launched on September 28. Since, it is named after the previous frigate which was part of a series of six ships, so the remaining names will also follow till the sixth ship," said Vice Admiral G Ashok Kumar, the vice chief of the Navy.

"For the seventh frigate, we have identified one more in the series — 'Mahendragiri'," he said.

He said this recently during an interactive session held here ahead of the commissioning of Navy's second Scorpene-class submarine INS Khanderi. The commissioning of 'Khanderi', launch of 'Nilgiri' and inauguration of an aircraft carrier drydock are all scheduled to take place on September 28 in Mumbai.

The first Scorpene in a series of six, 'Kalvari' is named after the first Kalvari of the Navy. The first Kalvari, commissioned on December 8, 1967, was also the first submarine of the Indian Navy. It was decommissioned on May 31, 1996 after nearly three decades of service.

The Kalvari-class submarines in the past were a variant of Foxtrot-class submarines, four of which had served in the Navy from late 1960s onwards — 'Kalvari', 'Khanderi', 'Karanj' and 'Kursura'.

"Names have a historical background, and many ships have been follow-on of some other ships in the past. So, the name is being repeated," Kumar said.

A contract with French company Naval Group (earlier called DCNS) was signed in 2005 for the supply of six submarines.

The six submarines, designed by the French naval defence and energy company, are being built by Mazagon Dock Ltd in Mumbai as part of Project-75 of the Indian Navy.

The state-of-the-art features of this Kalvari-class Scorpene submarine include superior stealth and the ability to launch attacks on the enemy using precision guided weapon.

Married women happier than those in live-in relationships: RSS survey

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which, in a way, celebrates bachelorhood as most of its 'pracharaks' keep off conjugal lives, has conducted a survey that claims that married women are "happier" than those in live-in relationships. Its findings will be released on Tuesday.

RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat will release the survey, conducted by a Sangh-linked organization 'Drishti Stree Adhyayan Prabodhan Kendra' (DSAPK) based in Pune, Maharashtra.

The findings of the survey were discussed at the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh's coordination meeting in Pushkar earlier this month, sources in the

RSS said. The Supreme Court has ruled that any couple living together for a long term will be presumed as legally married unless proved otherwise. It has also allowed physical relationship between two grown-ups as legal. It was earlier used to be categorized as adultery.

As per the survey, married women have a very high level of happiness, whereas the level of happiness was lowest in women in live-in relationships.

The findings of the survey will be released after Bhagwat's interaction with the foreign media.

RSS publicity in-charge Arun Kumar in an official statement released on Saturday said Bhagwat's interaction with the foreign media is a routine exercise.

Centre, States debate reforms in NEP draft

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Centre and the States on Saturday held detailed discussions and debated various reforms proposed in the new National Education Policy (NEP) draft that has been much delayed and much awaited.

The meeting of the HRD Ministry's Central Advisory Board of Education (CABE) and Education ministers from states was chaired by Union HRD Minister Ramesh Pokhriyal 'Nishank'. The heads of autonomous organisations, vice chancellors of universities, HRD secretaries for higher education and school education R Subrahmanyam and Rina Ray, along with senior officials of the central and state governments also attended.

Further, Nishank's deputy Sanjay Dhotre, Minister of State for Culture and Tourism Prahlad Singh Patel and Minister of State for Youth Affairs and Sports Kiren Rijiju also attended the meeting.

"The house had detailed deliberations on several recommendations and reforms proposed in the NEP draft. There were valuable suggestions given by the education ministers of states, who are equal partners in policy formulation and felt that their inputs are critical so that the proposed NEP can be a catalyst to achieve the goals of equitable access to quality education while ensuring affordability of education and instilling greater accountability," a senior HRD official said.

Nishank said in the spirit of "cooperative federalism" both the central and state governments interact and engage in a healthy and enriching dialogue to bring out a robust policy that will empower our youth to meet the challenges of the 21st century," the minister added.

Nishank also released the All India Survey on Higher Education (AISHE) 2018-19 according to which the Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER) in higher education has increased from 25.8 in 2017-18 to 26.3 in 2018-19 while in absolute terms the enrolment increased from 3.66 crore to 3.74 crore students.

"GER for SCs has also shown a growth from 21.8 to 23.0 and STs from 15.9 to 17.2. In terms of increase in the number of universities, they have grown from 903 (2017-18) to 993 (2018-19) and total higher education institutions from 49,964 to 51,649 in the same corresponding period. The number of faculty increased from 13.88 lakhs to 14.16 lakhs," the survey report said.

"The meeting today was convened to discuss the draft so

Farmers end protest on assurance

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The farmers camping at the Uttar Pradesh-Delhi border since Friday ended their protest on Saturday evening after Union Agriculture Ministry assured action on five of their 15 demands. According to Rajendra Yadav, UP in-charge of the Bharatiya Kisan Sanghathan, a delegation of farmers met Agriculture Ministry officials on Saturday afternoon who agreed on 5 of the 15 demands following which they have ended their protest. "The Ministry officials told us that the Prime Minister and the Agriculture Minister are not in the city and as soon as they will be available, the remaining 10 demands will be discussed," said Yadav.

"The officials also assured us to look into our demand for insurance schemes for crops, farmers and their families. The officials also said that they will also see possibilities into 14-day payment window for sugarcane, making rivers pollution-free and involvement of farmers in the crop rate determination," said Yadav.

Hundreds of farmers from various parts of Uttar Pradesh

(UP) started their march on Saturday morning from Sector 69, Noida, towards Kisan Ghat in New Delhi, to raise their demands of payment of sugarcane crop dues, full loan waiver and making electricity free for farming amongst others.

However, they were stopped at the Delhi-UP border on Saturday while a delegation was allowed to meet officials at the Krishna Bhavan. The farmers are protesting under the banner of Bharat Kisan Union (BKU).

The security was beefed up along the Delhi-Uttar Pradesh border in the wake of the protest march, launched by the farmers on September 17.

The farmers who had stayed in Noida on Friday were at Delhi Gate, on the Delhi-Ghaziabad border, around noon, causing an obstruction in traffic along the route. "Traffic is obstructed in both carriage-ways from Ghazipur Border UP Gate on NH-9, NH-24 towards Nizamuddin due to the farmers' rally," the Delhi Traffic Police tweeted.

While in Noida, the farmers held talks with government representatives but those failed to materialize on Friday.

They are on their way to Kisan Ghat, the memorial of the former Prime Minister and farmers' leader Chaudhary Charan Singh, in the national capital. Among their other major demands is the implementation of the Swaminathan Committee's recommendation.

Heavy security, including paramilitary forces, was deployed on the route of the march. Farmers were expected to enter Delhi from Ghazipur border via NH 24.

Alok Kumar, the Joint Commissioner of Police, Eastern Range-Delhi at Delhi-UP border near Ghazipur, said, "We are coordinating with UP police. In the afternoon that the protestors have been stopped at Delhi-UP border but the traffic situation was normal. One delegation has gone to meet officials in the national capital."

The UP Government has set October 31 as the deadline for sugar mills to clear dues of cane growers, UP State Minister Suresh Rana said, warning strict action against defaulters. The agitating farmers later in the day called off the protest after the Government assured them.

MoS Babul forgives JU student who pulled him by hair

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

In a humane gesture Union Minister Babul Supriyo on Saturday pardoned the student who had pulled him by his hair at Jadavpur University on Thursday evening when hundreds of Left wing students gheraoed him for more than five hours requiring Governor Jagdeep Dhankar to personally move into the campus to secure his release.

The singer-turned-minister forgave the accused after his ailing mother begged pardon over social media. Bengal BJP president and another senior leader Sayantan Bose had earlier threatened to have located the boy's and address and threatened him and his comrades with a payback. "Those who have done it will not be spared and their hands will be broken," Ghosh said.

Soon after the student's mother begged for the boy's life and career in the social media prompting Supriyo to write "maasima (auntie) I have already forgiven your son. Neither have I complained to the police nor have I allowed any other person to do that. So don't worry nothing will happen to him. Just take care of your health and ask your son to learn from his mistakes. Take my pranam!"

Cong appoints Supriya Shrinete as spokesperson

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Congress on Saturday appointed former television journalist Supriya Shrinete, who was the party's candidate for Maharajganj in the Lok Sabha polls, as a spokesperson.

Congress president Sonia Gandhi has approved the appointment of Supriya Shrinete as spokesperson of All India Congress Committee, a statement issued by the party's communication department chief Randeep Surjewala said.

Until a few months ago, Shrinete was a TV journalist. She is the daughter of former Congress MP Harsh Vardhan. She lost to BJP's Pankaj Chaudhary in the Lok Sabha polls from Maharajganj. Her father Harsh Vardhan was a two-time MP from the seat.

The Congress had recently also appointed Sharmistha Mukherjee, the daughter of former Congress veteran and President Pranab Mukherjee, and Anshul Kumar, the son of former Speaker Meira Kumar, as its spokespersons.

Court rejects pre-arrest bail plea of Rajeev

PNS ■ KOLKATA

In yet another setback to top West Bengal police officer Rajeev Kumar, the Alipore District and Sessions court on Saturday rejected his anticipatory bail plea after the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) said he was breaking the law by evading its summons in the Saradha chitfund case.

Meanwhile, having failed to trace "absconding" IPS officer, the CBI on Saturday summoned five staff employed in his bungalow and his personal assistant for interrogation, sources said.

"Mr Kumar's staffs were asked questions on whether he had been visiting the residences of other IPS officers. His driver was also asked as to which address he used to frequent these days. Others were asked to report on whether his wife (a senior IRS officer herself) had been in touch with Kumar," CBI sources said.

Pak targets forward posts in Poonch

PNS ■ JAMMU

The Pakistan Army on Saturday targeted forward Indian posts in two different sectors of Poonch with heavy mortar shelling.

According to ground reports, first incident of ceasefire violation was reported in Shahpur and Kerni sectors around 9.45 am and after a brief gap Pak army targeted forward posts and civilian areas in Balakote area of Mendhar around 4.15 pm. Ground reports claimed, intense shelling was reported in the area late Friday night as well.

Defence spokesman in Jammu, Lt-Col Devender Anand said, "Pakistan army initiated 'unprovoked' ceasefire violation along the line of control in Shahpur and Kerni sectors of Poonch around 9.45 am."

Several civilian areas were also targeted by the Pakistan army during intense shelling in the forward area. Defence PRO also said, "The Pakistani Army initiated ceasefire violation by firing of small arms & shelling with Mortars in Balakote area of Mendhar. Indian Army retaliated befittingly."

At least 19 animals including 12 Buffalo's and 7 goats perished in Pakistan firing along the line of control in Balakote area of Mendhar sector late Friday night.

Defence PRO in Jammu said, "Pakistan army had initiated firing late Friday night in Balakote area around 11.45 pm."

He said Indian army retaliated strongly and effectively. The firing in the area continued till 2.00 am. Official sources claimed, a total number of 19 animals including 12 buffalo's and 7 goats were killed in Pakistani firing.

We'll return to power in Maha: Fadnavis amid speculation about the differences between the ruling saffron alliance partners over the sharing of Assembly polls, Maharashtra Chief minister Devendra Fadnavis on Saturday expressed confidence that the BJP and Shiv Sena would soon ink the seat-sharing deal between them and return to power in the State Assembly polls.

PN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Speaking during an interview at India Today conclave, Fadnavis said, "We will have an alliance with the Shiv Sena for sure. The talks on seat sharing are going on. We don't dictate terms to Shiv Sena. We are friends. We do take decisions in a united manner. There are several aspirants in both the parties and both of them will definitely try to please them till the last moment"

Queried about the possibility of Shiv Sena youth president Aditya Thackeray becoming the deputy chief minister in the event of the saffron alliance returning to power in the state, Fadnavis said: "It is good to see Aaditya Thackeray taking active part in politics. His father or grandfather stayed away from electoral politics. It does not mean he also should follow them. He understands the political situation well. After all, he has to take the reins of Shiv Sena one day"

Congress-NCP will recapture power in Maha: MPCC chief

Mumbai: Maharashtra Pradesh Congress Committee (MPCC) chief Balasaheb Thorat said on Saturday the Congress-NCP alliance would recapture power in the State.

In a statement issued after the declaration of schedule for the State Assembly polls, Thorat said, "During the last five year, the BJP-Sena Government has reversed the process of development in the state. There is a lot of resentment among people against BJP-Sena Government. People want a change. Voters will bring the Congress-NCP and their allies back to power with a thumping majority"

Thorat said during the last five years, the State had recorded highest number of farmer suicides. PNS

Pak national apprehended close to IB

Jammu: A Pakistani national was apprehended in one of the forward villages of RS Pura, close to the International Border, on Saturday evening by local residents and later handed over to the police.

The identity of the Pak national has been established as Basharat Ali S/O Mohd Rafiq, R/O Village Al Jattan, Sialkot. Joint teams of interrogators are currently questioning him to ascertain the motive behind sneaking inside the Indian territory.

So far police has not ruled out the possibility that the apprehended Pak national may have been acting as a local guide to help small group of infiltrators sneak inside the Indian territory.

Meanwhile, alert was sounded in the area while interrogation of Pak national was still going on.

Official sources claimed, Basharat Ali, roaming in RS Pira area had taken lift from a local resident and he dropped him near village Chandu Chak ahead of village Abdullah. After some time, a local woman in the area raised an alarm after she detected presence of an unknown person in the courtyard of her home. PNS

NRC phobia grips Bengal, 4 dead

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Even as Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee allayed fears of National Register for Citizens (NRC) being enforced in Bengal a mass phobia of losing citizenship claimed at least four lives in as many days, sources said, adding while one person in North Bengal committed suicide having failed to trace his land deeds and other documents three persons died of heartattack for the same reasons.

The mass fear of NRC coincided with a Government drive to rectify voters' ID cards and digital ration cards. Mistaking the Government move to rectify the cards for a lead-up to the invoking of the NRC dreaded for its track record in Assam, lakhs of people crowded in front of panchayat and BDO offices to get their particulars entered or rectified in their respective documents.

"One Annada Roy died committed suicide at Moynaguri in Jalpaiguri district after he failed to find out his land deeds — probably washed away in floods" — considered important for NRC, sources said. Mantu Sarkar at Balurghat died of heart attack as he too failed to trace his supportive documents and repeated visit to Government offices yielded no result.

Similarly Sahida Biwi of Hingalaganj and Mantu Mandal of Matia in North 24 Parganas succumbed to heart attacks as they failed to get their ration cards done despite standing in long queues for the past several days, sources said.

Meanwhile, even as the Government opened special camps to handle overflowing crowd in all parts of the State the Chief Minister iterated in a tweet that there rectification of voters' cards or ration cards were just a routine procedure and had nothing to do with the NRC.

Banerjee who had repeatedly criticised the way NRC was invoked in Assam throwing out lakhs of Bengalis from the list said, "I can assure you that NRC will not happen in Bengal. We will not allow it come to this place. Bihar and other States have already rejected it and so have we."

Accusing the BJP of using the NRC as a political tool to polarise the electorate she said, "It is only that the voter list is being renewed and ration cards are being digitised and corrected, so I would just ask to get these done and not panic for the NRC as we will not allow that to come in Bengal."

She said, "For invoking NRC in Bengal they (BJP) will have to first kill me."

Vaishno Devi shrine gets gold-plated entrance gate

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

After Golden temple in Amritsar, the cave shrine of Mata Vaishno Devi, is all set to welcome pilgrims with a magnificent view of gold-plated entrance of the 96 feet long traditional cave on the occasion of Navratri festival beginning September 29.

In addition, shrine board authorities have decided to decorate the bhawan shrine with imported flowers and fruits to create 'festive' look and provide 'spiritually' stimulating atmosphere to the pilgrims during their stay.

This year, Mata Vaishno Devi Shrine Board authorities have also decided to illuminate 13 km long serpentine track connecting Katra base camp with colorful lights during the Navratri festival to attract rush of pilgrims.

The nine day long Navratri festival is being organised by Shri Mata Vaishno Devi Shrine Board and District Administration, Reasi in collaboration with Tourism department and active participation of local community/ Tourism and Trade Industry of Katra, NGOs.

Community Kitchen services (langar) will be extended to the pilgrims along the yatra track where they will be served freshly cooked food for those observing 'fast' as well.

To ensure safety of pilgrims, elaborate security arrangements have been made by the security grid in and around Katra town, base camp of yatra.

State police and para military forces have been deployed in adequate numbers to secure the yatra route and important installations. The entire Katra town, bhawan area, and yatra track has been covered with CCTV cameras to monitor the activities of pilgrims and any other suspicious movement. X-Ray scanner machines and other pilgrims visited the cave shrine during the Navratri festival. He said, "to attract rush of pilgrims we are going to decorate the bhawan area, from Manokamana Bhawan to the main temple, with imported flowers and fruits."

He said, "we are importing the rich quality exotic flowers from Thailand, Holland, Malaysia, Singapore, Ooty, Palampur and Uttar Pradesh."

Sharing details of the 'golden gate' project which was in the pipe line for a long time, CEO Simrandeep Singh said, "work on the ambitious project was sanctioned under the new 'donation' policy adopted by the Shrine board."

He said for a long time devotees were raising the issue of installing 'golden gates' replacing 'marble gates' outside the cave shrine.

The Chief executive Officer of Mata Vaishno Devi Shrine Board, Simrandeep Singh said that during this festival, various events will be organised which will attract audience from the length and breadth of the state and country.

He said the Navratri festival will be inaugurated by the Governor Satya Pal Maikil on September 29 in Katra. A cultural procession showcasing rich cultural heritage of Jammu & Kashmir will be taken out from main roads of Katra every day. Devotional song competition, Hasya Vyang kavi sammelan, wrestling competition, special play on Mata Ki Kahani will be organised during the festival days.

This year, wrestlers from Pakistan have not been invited to participate in the wrestling competition. Owing to sour relations between the two neighboring countries, the organisers of the event have not been inviting them to participate in the competition during Navratri festival in Katra since 2013.

Govt accepts resignation of Madras HC Chief Justice VK Tahilramani

New Delhi: The resignation of Madras High Court Chief Justice VK Tahilramani has been accepted, according to a Government notification.

Her resignation has been accepted with effect from September 6, it said. She had resigned after the Supreme Court collegium declined her request for reconsideration of transfer to the Meghalaya High Court. Justice V Kothari has been appointed as the acting chief justice of the Madras High Court, another notification said.

The transfer of Justice Tahilramani from the Madras High Court to the Meghalaya High Court had snowballed into a major controversy with lawyers in Chennai as well as in her home state of Maharashtra coming out in protest against the Supreme Court collegium's decision in this regard.

Later on September 12, the apex court had come out with a statement, saying that each of the recommendations for transfer of Chief Justices and Judges of various high courts was based on "cogent reasons".

Without naming Justice Tahilramani, the statement issued by the office of apex court's Secretary General Sanjeev S Kalgaonkar had said the reasons of transfer of judges were not disclosed in the interest of the institution but the apex court collegium would not hesitate to disclose them in the circumstance it becomes necessary. Hotel industry welcomes GST cuts on hotel room tariffs

The hotel industry has welcomed the reduction in GST on hotel room tariffs, saying that it will provide a major fillip to the hospitality and tourism sector and is a step in right direction.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Friday announced nil tax for hotels room tariffs of up to ₹1,000 per night. Hotels charging ₹1,001 to ₹7,500 per night would be levied with 12 per cent tax as against the existing 18 per cent.

Similarly, the tax on room tariff of above ₹7,500 has been slashed to 18 per cent from the existing 28 per cent. Also, tax on outdoor catering has been reduced to 5 per cent from existing 18 per cent with input tax credit, Sitharaman had said.

"The amendments in corporate tax rates and rationalisation of GST are all steps in the right direction," Indian Hotels Company Ltd (IHCL) MD and CEO Puneet Chhatwal said in a statement.

There has been a positive development from the GST panel meet as it has recommended that 18 per cent GST rate is now applicable for hotel tariff up to ₹7,500 per night starting October 1, 2019, he added. "This gives the hospitality sector a much needed boost and we expect it to propel tourist inflows which will positively impact our bookings," Chhatwal said.

Fillips like this also help create new jobs so as to boost economy, make companies globally competitive and align to vision of the Government with boosting tourism, making hospitality increasingly viable as an investment opportunity for India, he added.

"We believe this would catalyze further growth for not just IHCL but the hospitality sector as a whole," Chhatwal said. In similar vein, Shangri-La Group, Middle East, India and Indian Ocean Executive Vice President John Northen said: "We welcome this progressive initiative by the Government. A lower GST rate for the luxury hotel sector will boost revenues and spur demand further among travellers."

'Tax cut to have minor impact on fiscal deficit'

PTI ■ MUMBAI

The ₹1.45-lakh crore tax giveaway is unlikely to widen fiscal deficit much as the shortfall will be met through increased tax collections due to higher growth which the massive tax cuts are expected to achieve, Niti Aayog Vice Chairman Rajiv Kumar said here on Saturday. On Friday, the Government had announced tax cuts for corporates by 10-12 percentage points, bringing down the effective corporate tax to 25.17 per cent inclusive of all cess and surcharges for domestic companies. The new tax rate will be applicable from April 1, involving a revenue loss of ₹1.45 lakh crore this fiscal.

"I don't think tax cuts will leave a gaping hole in the fiscal numbers. There will be some, which will be minor," Kumar said at an 'India Today' event.

Budget had estimated fiscal deficit at 3.3 per cent of the GDP for the current fiscal but many analysts have pegged it overshooting by at least 70 bps to 4.1 per cent as the quantum of the giveaways is worth 0.7 per cent of the GDP.

Significantly, it can be noted that neither the finance minister or her senior cabinet colleagues who talked to the media after the announcement took questions on the shape of fiscal deficit numbers post the tax cuts.

Even, Reserve Bank Governor Shaktikanta Das had lapped it up as growth boosting just a day before warning the government that it has no leeway to undertake any fiscally expansionary measures.

It can be noted that while the GST collection has been ebbing below the desired ₹1 lakh crore mark all through the year expect one month, the direct tax mop-up for the first half lagged way behind the target. It grew a paltry 4.7 per cent in H1 of this fiscal at ₹5.5 lakh crore against a budgeted target of 17.5 per cent growth in collections for the full year.

Kumar said direct and indirect tax revenues are expected to go up with growth picking up after these tax cuts.

"There is buoyancy in growth. In the past, our tax buoyancy has been very good. Therefore, both direct and indirect tax collections will go up with growth," he said.

POST US TROOP DEPLOYMENT

Will turn attacking country into battlefield: Iran

Tehran: Any country that attacks Iran will become the "main battlefield", the Revolutionary Guards warned Saturday after Washington ordered reinforcements to the Gulf following attacks on Saudi oil installations it blames on Tehran.

Tensions escalated between arch-foes Iran and the United States after last weekend's attacks on Saudi energy giant Aramco's Abqaiq processing plant and Khurais oilfield halved the kingdom's oil output.

Yemen's Huthi rebels have claimed responsibility for the strikes but the US says it has concluded the attacks involved cruise missiles from Iran and amounted to "an act of war".

Washington approved the deployment of troops to Saudi Arabia at "the kingdom's request," Defence Secretary Mark Esper said, noting the forces would be "defensive in nature" and focused on air and missile defence.

But Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps commander Major General Hossein Salami said Iran was "ready for any type of scenario".

"Whoever wants their land

Chief of Iran's Revolutionary Guard Gen Hossein Salami speaks in a ceremony displaying pieces of the American drone shot down by the Guard in the Strait of Hormuz in June, in Tehran on Saturday to become the main battlefield, go ahead," he told a news conference in Tehran.

"We will never allow any war to encroach upon Iran's territory. We hope that they don't make a strategic mistake," he said, listing past US military "adventures" against Iran.

Salami was speaking at Tehran's Islamic Revolution and Holy Defence museum during the unveiling of an exhibition of what Iran says are US and other drones captured in its territory. It featured a badly damaged drone with US military markings said to be an RQ-4 Global Hawk that Iran downed in June, as well as an RQ-170 Sentinel captured in 2011 and still intact.

The Guards also displayed the domestically manufactured Khordad 3 air defence battery they say was used to shoot down the Global Hawk.

"What are your drones doing in our airspace? We will shoot them down, shoot anything that encroaches on our airspace," said Salami, noting Iran had defeated "America's technological dominance" in air defence and drone manufacture.

His remarks came only days after strikes on Saudi oil facilities claimed by Yemen's Huthis, but the US says it has concluded the attack involved cruise missiles from Iran and amounted to "an act of war".

Saudi Arabia, which has been bogged down in a five-year war across its southern border in Yemen, has said Iran "unquestionably sponsored" the attacks. The kingdom says the weapons used in the attacks were Iranian-made, but it stopped short of directly blaming its regional rival.

"Sometimes they talk of military options," Salami said, apparently referring to the Americans.

Yet he warned that "a limited aggression will not remain limited" as Iran was determined to respond and would "not rest until the aggressor's collapse."

The Guards' aerospace commander said the US ought to learn from its past failures and abandon its hostile rhetoric.

"We've stood tall for the past 40 years and if the enemy makes a mistake, it will certainly receive a crushing response," Brigadier General Amirali Hajizadeh said.

The United States upped the ante on Friday by announcing new sanctions against Iran's central bank, with President Donald Trump calling the measures the toughest America has ever imposed on another country.

Washington has imposed a series of sanctions against Tehran since unilaterally pulling out of a landmark 2015 nuclear deal in May last year. It already maintains sweeping sanctions on Iran's central bank, but the US Treasury said Friday's designation was over the regulator's work in funding "terrorism".

Iran denies successful cyber attacks on oil sector

Tehran: Iran denied on Saturday its oil infrastructure had been successfully attacked by a cyber operation, after reports of disruptions to the sector online.

"Contrary to Western media claims, investigations done today show no successful cyber attack was made on the country's oil installations and other crucial infrastructure," the government's cyber security office said.

The statement did not specify which reports it was addressing.

NetBlocks, an organisation that tracks internet outages, tweeted early Saturday that "network data show intermittent disruptions to internet connectivity in #Iran."

But it said the cause was unclear and impact limited, affecting "online industrial and government platforms" and specific providers.

"Data are consistent with a cyber attack or unplanned technical incident on affected networks as opposed to a purposeful withdrawal or shutdown incident," it added. AFP

TRUMP SLAMS WHISTLEBLOWER STORY AS 'PARTISAN HACK JOB'

Whistleblower and Trump phone call: What we know

Washington: A mysterious whistleblower, a telephone call between President Donald Trump and a foreign leader, and military aid to Ukraine.

Here's what we know about the latest political firestorm swirling around Washington:

On August 12, an unknown whistleblower in the US intelligence community filed a complaint with Michael Atkinson, the Inspector General of the Intelligence Community (ICIG), regarding a matter of "urgent concern." The identity of the whistleblower and the nature of the complaint have not been publicly revealed.

After reviewing the complaint, Atkinson determined it was "credible" and forwarded it on August 26 to the acting Director of National Intelligence, Joseph Maguire, a Trump appointee.

The Democratic-led House Intelligence Committee is demanding that the whistleblower's complaint be turned over but Maguire has declined to share it.

According to The Washington Post, the complaint concerned a "promise" Trump made in a recent phone call with a foreign leader.

The phone call in question, according to US media reports, was a July 25 conversation between Trump and Ukraine's newly elected President Volodymyr Zelensky.

According to The Wall Street Journal, Trump repeatedly pressured Zelensky in the call to investigate Hunter Biden, the son of Joe Biden, Trump's main potential 2020 reelection rival.

Hunter Biden in 2014 joined the board of Burisma Holdings, a Ukrainian gas firm accused of corrupt practices, but he has not been personally accused of any wrongdoing.

The Journal said Trump urged Zelensky "about eight times" during the call to work with Rudy Giuliani, his personal attorney, on a probe into Hunter Biden.

At the time of the conversation, the United States was holding up $250 million in military aid for Ukraine, but the Journal said Trump did not mention the assistance during the conversation.

Three committees in the Democratic-controlled House of Representatives have demanded that the White House turn over a transcript of the call.

The committees claim it may include evidence of Trump and Giuliani's efforts to "improperly pressure" Ukraine to help his reelection bid.

They accused Trump and Giuliani of trying to coerce Ukraine, in exchange for military assistance, into conducting a "politically motivated" investigation into Hunter Biden.

"If the President is trying to pressure Ukraine into choosing between defending itself from Russian aggression without US assistance or leveraging its judicial system to serve the ends of the Trump campaign, this would represent a staggering abuse of power," the Democratic committee chairmen said.

The US military aid package for Ukraine, which is battling pro-Russian separatists, was finally approved by the White House last week.

Trump for his part has insisted there was nothing upward about the telephone call.

"Virtually anytime I speak on the phone to a foreign leader, I understand that there may be many people listening from various US agencies, not to mention those from the other country itself," he tweeted on Thursday.

"Knowing all of this, is anybody dumb enough to believe that I would say something inappropriate with a foreign leader while on such a potentially 'heavily populated' call," he said.

"I would only do what is right anyway, and only do good for the USA!"

Speaking to reporters at the White House on Friday, Trump described the story as a "political hack job" and said former vice president Joe Biden is the one who should be investigated. "It was a totally appropriate conversation," he said of the telephone call.

"It was actually a beautiful conversation."

Trump claimed he didn't know the identity of the whistleblower but said he was a "partisan person." Giuliani, the former mayor of New York, also took to Twitter to defend Trump.

"A President telling a Pres-elect of a well known corrupt country he better investigate corruption that affects US is doing his job," he tweeted. AFP

China is threat to world: Trump

Washington: Expressing concern over China's growing military might, US President Donald Trump said the Communist nation is a threat to the world and blamed his predecessors for not stopping it from stealing America's intellectual property to bolster its defence capabilities.

China has hiked its military spending by seven per cent to $152 billion as Beijing aims at countering America's push into the disputed South China Sea.

"Obviously China is a threat to the world in a sense because they are building a military faster than anybody and frankly they are using US money," Trump, who was accompanied by visiting Australian Prime Minister Scott Morrison, told reporters here on Friday. Trump said the US Presidents before him allowed China to take out $500 billion a year and more than that.

"They have allowed China to steal our intellectual property and property rights and I'm not doing that," he said. According to the president, the two countries were very close to having a trade deal. "We work very closely, had intellectual property, all of the tough things work negotiated and then at the last moment, they said we cannot agree to this," he alleged, referring to the abrupt collapse of the trade deal with China early this year.

"I said that's all right we are charging you 25 per cent tariffs and then it's going up and it will continue to go up. Frankly we are making so many hundreds of the numbers that we are taking in to our treasury...Look at the great reports that came out two days ago on retailing, on consumers, on numbers that nobody believes," he added.

The world's two largest economies are locked in a trade war since Trump in March last year imposed tariff hikes of up to 25 per cent on $250 billion of Chinese goods. PTI

UK's Labour Party in turmoil as vote to oust deputy ditched

London: A vote to oust the deputy leader of Britain's main Opposition Labour Party was ditched Saturday after a big backlash to the proposal prompted Jeremy Corbyn, the party's leader, to intervene.

The surprise attempt to abolish the role of deputy leader by one of Corbyn's close allies caused uproar among many Labour members and has overshadowed the start of the party's annual conference in the southern England city of Brighton.

Corbyn has tried to put a lid on the row by proposing that Labour carry out a review of the role, currently held by lawmaker Tom Watson, who has clashed with the leader on a number of issues, notably Brexit.

The proposal to get rid of the deputy's role had been scheduled to be put to a vote Saturday of Labour's governing body, the National Executive Committee.

The move against Watson has laid bare the divisions in the party — Watson has espoused a number of viewpoints that have offended many of Corbyn's left-wing supporters but have appealed to the moderate wing of the party.

Heading into the conference on Saturday, Corbyn tried to put a brave face on the row and said he enjoyed working with Watson.

"The NEC agreed this morning that we are going to consult on the future of diversifying the deputy leadership position to reflect the diversity of our society," Corbyn said.

Questioned by assembled reporters, Corbyn refused to say when he first knew about the attempt to oust Watson, nor whether he had full confidence in his deputy.

Watson told BBC radio before the proposal was ditched that the attempt to oust him was akin to "a straight sectarian attack on a broad-church party" and that he believes his position on Brexit was behind the move.

He said the move against him came as a shock and that he was in a Chinese restaurant in Manchester Friday evening when he found out about it.

The row exploded Friday when Jon Lansman, the founder of the pro-Corbyn grassroots Momentum group, proposed a motion for Watson's job to be scrapped.

Lansman said in a tweet he welcomed Corbyn's proposal to review the role of deputy leader and added that the party needs "to make sure the deputy leader role is properly accountable to the membership while also unifying the party at conference. AP

Kashmir in focus as Imran Khan leaves for UNGA

Islamabad: Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan on Saturday left for New York on a week-long visit to attend the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) session during which he is to make Kashmir the focus of his address and interactions.

He will share Pakistan's perspective and position on the Jammu & Kashmir issue and on its current human rights and related dimensions, a Foreign Office statement said.

Imran Khan is being accompanied by Foreign Minister Shah Mehmood Qureshi, Advisor on Finance Hafeez Shaikh and Special Assistant on Overseas Pakistanis Zulfikar Abbas Bukhari.

Imran Khan will hold several bilateral meetings with his counterparts from various nations and participate in high-level UN summits on climate change, sustainable development, universal health coverage and financing for development.

He will also attend and speak at high-level side events co-hosted by Pakistan and Turkey on countering hate speech and on environmental protection and poverty alleviation, co-hosted by Malaysia and Pakistan. A trilateral summit meeting of Pakistan, Malaysia and Turkey will be held on the General Assembly sidelines.

He will interact with a cross-section of international media outlets and hold meetings with editorial boards, the Foreign Office spokesperson said.

He will also avail the opportunity to articulate Pakistan's perspective on some key contemporary issues, especially the centrality of the Jammu & Kashmir dispute. IANS

HK protesters, police face off in renewed clashes

Police face a burning barricade during protests in Hong Kong on Saturday

Hong Kong: Protesters in Hong Kong threw gasoline bombs and police fired tear gas Saturday in renewed clashes over anti-government grievances.

Reporters saw at least one person arrested after violence erupted following an afternoon march by several thousand people in Tuen Mun, a district in the northwest of the Chinese territory. Hong Kong is in the fourth month of sometimes violent protests that occur every weekend. They started with opposition to a proposed extradition law and have expanded to include demands for greater democracy.

Most protesters in Tuen Mun were peaceful but some threw gasoline bombs and bricks toward police who faced them down the street.

They appeared to fall short of the police and there was no indication anyone was hit. Police with anti-riot helmets and shields responded by firing tear gas. In the evening, protesters gathered at a shopping mall in another district, Yuen Long.

Some threw gasoline bombs in the street but there was no indication anyone was injured. Elsewhere, scuffles were reported as government supporters heeded a call by a pro-Beijing member of the Hong Kong legislature to tear down protest posters at subway stations. AFP

Over 100 held in Paris 'yellow vest' protests

Paris: Over a hundred demonstrators were arrested at yellow vest protests in Paris on Saturday as about 7,500 police were deployed to quell any violence by the movement and its radical, anarchist "black blocs".

There were also fears that the demonstrators could try to infiltrate a march against climate change in the French capital.

The yellow vest movement erupted 10 months ago and blindsided President Emmanuel Macron, whom protesters accused of being out of touch with the needs of ordinary French people.

"What are we doing? We are assembling just to say that we can't make ends meet. (The protest) is not only against the president, it's against the system," said a woman protestor who did not give her name.

The weekly demonstrations — Saturday was the 45th — prompted Macron to loosen the state's purse strings to the tune of nearly 17 billion euros (18.8 billion) in wage boosts and tax cuts for low earners, but tapered off over the summer. AFP

Rambo lives on

RAMBO: LAST BLOOD
ing: Sylvester Stallone, Paz Vega, Sergio Peris-Mencheta, Adriana Barraza, Yvette Monreal, Genie Kim, Joaquín Cosío, Oscar Jaenada
Rated: 8/10

Sly. 73. Still rippling in enough ways to nullify the effect of wrinkles and eye bags. Seemingly the last of the sizzling and iconic Rambo series, The Last Blood is expectedly reflective and a journey wrapper for Sly who has dominated worldwide imagination in his 50-plus years on the screen as just two characters: John Rambo and Rocky Balboa, the latter drawing more eyeballs if at all a comparison is made.

As it is reflective so it is excruciatingly violent too, perhaps to make maximum impact or maybe because it showcases a war weary warrior who knows to strike only with utmost power. So don't flinch when he yanks out a beating heart after squaring up his legendary blade on the villain; don't be surprised if the atrocities on his kin are unimaginable despite the very obvious censor cuts; don't be surprised that the introspection often takes over the action which comes in late into the movie.

Sly is in a self-indulgent but brooding mood here and jobs like pulling out people alive from a tsunami have become routine for him.

There are relationships that get honoured, there are scars that keep getting thrown into the screen through his walking nightmares and there are plenty of one liners that are spoken by his soulful eyes.

Yes Rambo has all along been a silent type of fighter and words do not come easy to him.

Here, so engagingly ending the journey after a young and dishing John Rambo first launched Hollywood's rescue mission with a bandana, a bow and arrow and lots and lots of rippling muscles showcasing the signature vest, an aged John talks more than he has in all the four films put together over a period of more than three decades.

But you forgive the verbal intrusion for his is Sly — Old, introspective, lonely, traumatised and yet the ultimate defender.

Sweet and lots of fun moments

THE ZOYA FACTOR
ing: Sonam K Ahuja, Dulquer Salmaan, Sanjay Kapoor, Angad Bedi, Sikander Kher
Rated: 6/10

Is it luck or hard work that gets one ahead in life? Lots of people out there will tell you that it is luck. Some may say that it is sheer luck that got them where they are today. But most would agree that it is a combination of both — hard work and luck — in this order. But what would one say if someone insisted that it was only sheer hard work that counts?

This is the backdrop of The Zoya Factor. Weave in a love story around cricket and one has a winner. Then there is the fact that Sonam K Ahuja plays characters that are light, fun and sweet to a T. She knows how to carry herself in any outfit and look good. Here, she plays a junior copy writer with an ad agency, thinks she is a loser, hates cricket but falls in love with the captain of the Indian team played by Dulquer Salmaan, a playback singer who predominantly works in Malayalam cinema. There is bound to be fun moments.

Director Abhishek Sharma, also the screenwriter who has Parmanu: The Story of Pokhran and Tere Bin Laden, to his credit, has done a passable job. The good part is that he doesn't drag the whole luck versus hard work debate.

Overall, The Zoya Factor is sweet and has lots of fun moments to keep one entertained.

Miles to go for this star kid

PAL PAL DIL KE PAAS
ing: Karan Deol, Sahher Bambha, Aakash Ahuja, Kamini Khanna
Rated: 5/10

While it is absolutely wrong to compare one actor with another, more so, if that actor happens to be a star kid, but the truth is that there is no hall pass even if you are a third generation actor. Add to that mix the fact that your grandfather has some great movies to his credit — Sholay, Blackmail, Dharam Veer and Yadon Ki Baaraat to name just a few — it comes even tougher to prove your worth in the first attempt.

Pal Pal Dil Ke Paas (PPDKP) that marks the debut of Karan Deol, Sunny Deol's son, unfortunately fails to make the ripples that one would expect from the son of an actor who made quite an impression with Betaab which released in 1983. The problem with PPDKP is not that this Deol kid can't emotate and his dialogue delivery falls flat; the issue is not that he doesn't have dhai kilo ka haath, not that he doesn't land a few punches that need a mention here; the problem with this movie is the storyline.

Sunny Deol, who is also the director here, needed to launch his son with a storyline that was fresh like the two leads who make their entry in the industry.

Therefore, this star kid has miles to go before he can even make a ripple. Better luck next time!

'Gully Boy' India's official Oscar entry

Zoya Akhtar's "Gully Boy", featuring Ranveer Singh as an aspiring rapper, has been selected as India's official entry in the International Feature Film category at the Oscars, the Film Federation of India (FFI) announced on Saturday.

The movie, which released commercially across the country on February 14, also features Alia Bhatt, Vijay Raaz, Kalki Koechlin, Siddhant Chaturvedi, Vijay Varma and Amruta Subhash.

"Gully Boy", produced by Ritesh Sidhwani and Farhan Akhtar, features Ranveer as an up-and-coming rapper who sets out to achieve his dream by rhyming about his life on the Mumbai streets.

"India's official entry for Oscars this year is 'Gully Boy'. There were 27 films in the running this year but it was an unanimous decision to select 'Gully Boy', FFI secretary general Supran Sen told PTI.

Celebrated actor-filmmaker Aparna Sen was the head of the jury for this year's selection committee.

"The energy of the film was infectious. It will speak to the audience," Aparna said on "Gully Boy" being the final pick of the jury.

FFI president Firdausul Hasan said the screening process for the Oscar selection started on Monday and ended on Saturday.

He also revealed that apart from "Gully Boy", other Bollywood films competing for the Oscar entry were "Badhaai Ho", "Andhadhun", "Article 15", "Uri: The Surgical Strike", "Badla", "Kesar" and "The Tashkent Files".

Farhan took to Twitter to congratulate the team behind the film, which was one of the most critically-acclaimed Hindi movies of 2019.

"Gully Boy has been selected as India's official entry to the 92nd Oscar Awards. #ranveerayeaga. Thank you to the film federation and congratulations #Zoya@kagtiireema @ritesh_sid @RanveerOfficial @alia08 @SiddhantChaturvD @kalkikanmani & cast, crew and hip hop crew," he wrote.

Kalki also expressed her excitement on the movie's Oscar selection.

"Woweeeeeeeee! That is just the best Saturday evening news!" she tweeted.

Amruta, who played Murad's (Ranveer's character in the film) mother Razia Ahmed, said she is overwhelmed.

"My first film 'Shwaas' was also India's entry to the Oscar and now 'Gully Boy'. I'm so overwhelmed. The film is near to my heart. I am thrilled, happy and excited.

"The subject, the making of the films is so universal. I am sure it will resonate and touch the hearts of everyone. It is great that this film will be representing us," Amruta told PTI.

Writer Keema Kagti said that the team is "thrilled" with the selection.

Varma, whose portrayal of perceptive and enterprising Moeen in the film earned him critical acclaim, said getting selected for the Academy Awards is a big deal.

"We are going to Oscars... This is a big deal. It is very special. This was unexpected. I am jumping in joy. We are happy that the whole nation has chosen our film and it is very exciting," the actor said.

No Indian film has ever won an Oscar. The last film from India that made it to the final five in the Best Foreign Film category list was Ashutosh Gowariker's "Lagaan" in 2001.

"Mother India" (1958) and "Salaam Bombay" (1989) are the other two Indian movies to have made it to the top five.

Assamese film "Village Rockstars", directed by Rima Das, was India's official submission to the Oscars last year.

The 92nd Academy Awards will be announced February 9, 2020.

MUSBA HASHMI speaks with VIVEK SRIVASTAVA about how English entertainment is changing with new content as well as remakes of classic shows

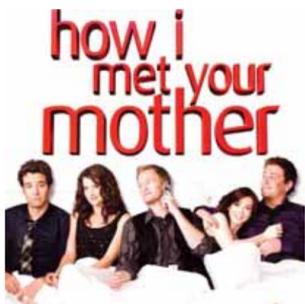

From the adaptation of Hollywood shows like Hostages, 24 to remakes like The Office, the foreign content which once didn't have many takers, now makes for an interesting watch for the audience. So much so that the producers are in no mood to stop experimenting or getting inspired from the Hollywood series even though we have been watching Indian versions of the Hollywood films for quite some time now. But, the trend of remaking shows for TV is new.

To add value to content, Romyed Now, a part of The Times Network which have channels like Movies Now, MN+, has gone through a refreshed brand identity with the introduction of originals, new shows and movie premieres. The channel unveiled its refreshed identity with its first original show The Love Laugh Live Show.

Vivek Srivastava, President — Strategy and Business Head, English Entertainment Cluster says that this refreshed identity of Romyed Now will re-energised content to offer viewers an unparalleled and complete English Entertainment viewing experience. "The Love Laugh Live Show marks our debut in originals and will explore various categories across travel, food, beauty and lifestyle, bringing two exciting shows a quarter to the viewers," he adds.

Though there are more remakes and adaptations of foreign shows, the number of original English content remains very low. Srivastava has a take on this. "The reason why makers don't risk making more original English language shows is because of the diverse Indian audience. It will be very odd to see a show in which all the characters speak English. Therefore, they prefer making shows with a pinch of Hindi in it. It is to retain the traditional element and connectivity with the audience. Also, if we are making a show for the premium households than English can be dominant in that but if we are making a show for the mass households then Hindi or regional languages have to be there," he says.

There is a reason why English channels are not bringing in the latest shows that air in the US. "We are bringing the latest shows as well but unfortunately what we remember are the evergreen shows. Also it takes a lot of time for the foreign shows to get registered in India. But yes, at this point of time, the classic works better than the new shows," Srivastava tells you.

The market penetration for these shows at present is the Tier-I cities but this is about to change. "We are now planning to penetrate into Tier-II and III cities as well," he says.

But, will they work as good as in Tier-I cities? "If a film like The Lion King can do so well in the Tier-II and -III cities, then I see no reason that these shows will not do good in them. The audience is changing and is opening up for newer content. I believe they will do better," he tells you.

And this latest fad for the English entertainment content is not going to end anytime soon. "English entertainment has long way to go. We are the second largest English speaking country with about 10 per cent English speaking population, which means the language is set to grow. The choice of content has become far more global and the audience will start consuming this content at a greater rate soon.

"Apart from the English channels which have been promoting the English content aggressively from the past few years, there are some digital mediums too that are coming up with English content and is changing their entire offering on the basis of some of the English shows. This in itself is an indicator that English content is here to stay," he tells you.

SUITS SERIES FINALE

With Katrina losing her job too after Samantha's wrongful termination, Harvey and Louis will go to any extent for Faye to leave their firm alone even if it means going up against Mike himself in court. Unaware of their intentions, Mike is certain to go all out in the next court hearing after having received a subpoena from Harvey himself. It remains to be seen how many metaphorical casualties it will take for Faye to finally be shown the door. At this point, we are not even sure if she will hold up her end of the bargain.

The series finale also teases not one but two weddings. While Louis and Sheila are finally united, Darvey fans might just have got what they've been eagerly awaiting as Harvey discovers his mother's unsent letter containing his grandmother's ring and a hint that Donna has always been his girl.

Will the dream team be able to join forces or will it all come crashing down? Catch the Suits Series Finale exclusively in India on Colors Infinity on 25th September 2019 at 12pm.

NEW SHOW

Close on the heels of successful drama series like Criminal Justice, City of Dreams and Hostages, Applause Entertainment announced the completion of their latest drama-thriller, Your Honor. The original Israeli series was created by Ron Ninio and Shlomo Mashiah, and distributed by Yes Studios. Produced for Applause Entertainment by Spherorigins, the series is headlined in India by Jimmy Sheirgill.

Dark, gripping and morally complex, Your Honor is set in Ludhiana, Punjab. It tells the story of Bishan Khosla (Jimmy Sheirgill), a respected circuit court judge, known for his uncompromising honesty, and on the cusp of a big promotion. After his troubled teenaged son Abeer Khosla (Pulkit Makol) is involved in a hit-and-run accident, Bishan is about to turn Abeer in to the police, when he learns who the accident victim is. What happens next is a disturbing downward spiral of events, as Bishan, in his attempt to protect his son, uncharacteristically obstructs justice to cover up the truth.

Speaking about his role, Jimmy Sheirgill says: "My role in Your Honor takes a chance with his own reality, the substance of the story is what convinced me to take up the part. The length an individual can go, burning all the bridges and principles for the ones he loves, is truly compelling. I'm glad that I am a part of this show with Applause Entertainment."

WITNESS REAL DEEWANE GROOVING

The three dapper men on Dance Deewane will take over the stage with their wooing act. Shashank Khaitan, Arjun Bijlani and Tushar Kalia will be seen doing something that will set new standards for the reality shows. The young, talented and sporting men will set the stage on fire with their stunning and breath-taking moves, while performing around a pole on the Bollywood dance number Saaki Saaki.

It so happened that one of the contestants Kalpita's breathtaking performance couldn't keep Arjun from making the contemporary king Tushar add his oomph to the moment. He asked Tushar to try some moves on the pole but as seconds passed, Arjun Bijlani and Shashank Khaitan too excitedly joined him seamlessly sliding their way around the pole making it a visual treat.

SONU LENDS HIS VOICE FOR 8D TRACK

Star Plus is all set to take audiences on a trip of the never heard tale of friendship of two unique entities and divinities, the two gods from Hindu mythology — Shiva and Vishnu. This is the first time ever in the history of television where a show will narrate the tales of friendship between the two Gods and thereby maintain nature's balance.

With this unique proposition, Star Plus sets new notes of devotion with beautiful 8D renditions of three two beautiful tracks dedicated to Shiva & Vishnu. Known to give mythology a refreshing angle, the channel has associated with Sonu Nigam to lend his voice for the track. The song has been crafted beautifully with soulful lyrics and who better than Sonu Nigam to sing for Lord Vishnu. The track has been composed by Puneet Dixit who has created multiple songs for various television shows. This is also the first time, Sonu Nigam has recorded a 8D audio track. 8D audio is essentially an effect applied to a stereo track where songs have been edited with special reverb and mixing to make it seem like the audio is moving in a circle around you. This experience can only be achieved by wearing headphones and creates the illusion of a 360-degree space. The makers have chosen this special audio technology to heighten the delight factor amongst audiences all over as they delve into the unseen story cape of the two Hindu deities.

After enjoying access to Star shows before TV at 6AM, for the first-time Hotstar VIP users can catch an exclusive preview of the much-awaited show Namaah. The first episode of the mythological magnum opus is now streaming on Hotstar VIP, days before its TV premiere. The star-studded magnum opus features Vikas Manaktala, Savi Thakur, Chhavi Pandey and Yukti Kapoor; and promises to be a visual treat for viewers.

OFFERS FOR SANGEETA'S PET

Actress Sangeeta Kapure who is recently being seen in the popular television show, Yeh Rishtey Hain Pyaar Ke essaying the role of Nidhi Rajvanshi is being loved by the audience. Besides her love for her work, Sangeeta is also deeply in love with someone else. Well, before you guess, let us tell you, it is her pet dog Sarrow.

Sangeeta's pet Sarrow is with her since it was less than a month. The actress has shared a picture of her dog on social media which was adored by the netizens and also her friends from the industry. Sarrow got noticed by the production house and got connected with Sangeeta to cast her Dog in an upcoming serial. Where Sarrow would be playing the best friend of the lead. The overall concept of the television show was based on the friendship between a guy and his pet. However, Sangeeta loved the concept, but at the same time she was very worried about her Doggy because of the set lights, the lights are so powerful that it can affect the eyes of animals and it would be very tiring as Sangeeta's pet is 8 years old now, because of this problem she said no to the production house.

A new study has found that only four out of 429 persons named 'traffickers' in police files relating to over 100 cases of human trafficking, have been convicted in the past decade. MUSBA HASHMI tells you more

TRAFFIC ALERT

There is an adage — Little thieves are hanged but great ones escape. It holds true to today's era where the most dangerous criminals are never traced. Or even if they are, it's mostly too late.

A new study has found that only four out of 429 people named as 'traffickers' in police files related to over 100 cases of human trafficking, have been convicted in the past 10 years. This provides enough evidence to understand why human trafficking continues to grow unabated in the country.

The study, carried out by analysing case documents such as chargesheets, FIRs and police general diaries related to 198 human trafficking cases, found that out of 429 named offenders only less than one per cent were convicted with punishments ranging between five and seven years of imprisonment. The study revealed that 68 traffickers have been given bail, and in investigations linked to five traffickers, the case has been continuing for over a decade now.

"The low conviction and high acquittal figures cast doubts in the efficacy of investigations by law-enforcement agencies in human trafficking cases," says Snigdha Sen, who conducted the analysis by studying legal documents availed from courts and police stations of cases involving over 173 survivors of human trafficking from West Bengal and Andhra Pradesh.

"The findings reaffirm that traffickers enjoy a high degree of impunity because of the lacklustre investigations. The lack of retribution encourages them to carry on with their criminal activity leading to a surge in human trafficking," Sen adds. She collaborated with several organisations like HELP from Andhra Pradesh, Goranbose Gram Bikash Kendra from West Bengal and Partners for Anti Trafficking (PAT) — a consortium of eight community-based organisations in West Bengal. These organisations have come together to work for the rehabilitation and protection of survivors under the access to justice programme Taffeesh.

That 31 out of the 429 traffickers are repeat offenders accused in multiple cases of human trafficking and all their victims were children and adolescents, shows the level of impunity they enjoy in the absence of proper law enforcement. These 31 have committed 91 (19 per cent) of the total number of crimes.

"Impunity is one of the key reasons why West Bengal is not being able to arrest human trafficking despite several initiatives by the Government, the police and NGOs. Currently, traffickers who are in the business of recruiting girls and young women in this State and selling them in Maharashtra, Delhi, Telangana or Goa, have little accountability. As they grow wealthier, they recruit others to join them in spotting, recruiting and trafficking vulnerable children and adolescents. The reason these investigations are so prolonged and prosecution so weak is that over 99 per cent of these cases are investigated by the local police which has restricted time and resources. They restrict their investigations to their area and do not take the investigations to destination States to look for evidence to show nexus between traffickers in West Bengal and pimps and brothel owners in destination States," says Roop Sen, co-researcher and a human rights activist, who has been working on human trafficking issue for over 20 years.

These facts clearly indicate how these wrongdoers thrive without being brought to justice, not to mention the agony of the survivors who fall prey to such crimes.

A case in point is Salma Khatun (name changed) who was trafficked at 13 years of age. "I know that the traffickers involved in my case are enjoying impunity. But I am surprised and disheartened to know that the status is almost the same in most other cases. It's now normal for traffickers to roam free without any fear," says Khatun, who is now 22 years old. She is a member of survivors' leaders collective Bandhan Mukti from where, she says, she draws courage to continue her fight.

But not all is lost here. A ray of hope in such cases is Nusrat (name changed), a survivor whose trafficker was recently convicted for a five-year jail term. "I could not imagine that it would ever be possible to get him punished through a trial conducted via video conferencing. But it happened, and the criminal is in jail now. I would have been much happier had the trafficker got life imprisonment," she says.

Another survivor Shivani (name changed), who is now associated with Andhra Pradesh-based survivor leaders collective Vimukthi recalls the trauma she went through. "I returned home after spending four years in a shelter home but I am stigmatised by my community. People treat me and my family as anti-social elements while the trafficker who made me suffer so much roams free. I want these traffickers to get punished," she says.

According to the 2016 National Crime Records Bureau data, 45 per cent of the children ended up as forced labourers as domestic workers or in small industries such as textile and firecracker workshops. Another, 35 per cent of them were trafficked for sexual exploitation, 4,980 of whom were sold to brothels and another 162 for child pornography.

Rakesh Senger, Executive Director, Kailash Satyarthi Children's Foundation, says the reason behind the low conviction rate of traffickers is the loopholes in the Immoral Trafficking Prevention Act, 1956.

"We are now demanding a holistic law for sex trafficking. This includes the different ways used, including new methods. In the current Act, there is a thin line between sex workers and brothel owners so the conviction becomes even more difficult. We have proposed certain changes in the Act under the Trafficking of Person, Prevention, Protection and Rehabilitation Bill, 2018. This Bill is yet to be passed by the Lok Sabha. We have demanded more convictions and a formation of a special court for such issues. We have also demanded that the brothels should be sealed immediately after the raids. Also, an anti-trafficking cell should be deployed at district and State levels so that no crime goes unreported. There should be a special rehabilitation fund to help improve the lot of survivors," he says. The number of minors are high in these trafficking cases, he adds.

The trafficking methods are changing with the Internet trafficking coming in. Online clients are taken to a brothel which is built in such a way that it becomes difficult to differentiate between it and a guest house. Here, even if the police conducts raids, there is no evidence to prove that the place is a brothel and not a guest house.

"Even the victims don't want to speak up in such cases because they are made to believe that this is their normal. Even if they try to escape there is no way out. There is no place they can seek shelter in," Senger says.

The other method of trafficking that is prevalent in the slums is through shopkeepers who sell chocolates laced with weed to youngsters. This is called bhola link. Since it is in a chocolate form even the parents don't stop their children from eating this. When children consume this, they faint and can be easily be kidnapped for trafficking. To stop children from falling prey to such traps, more awareness should be created in the form of workshops where the children are taught the pitfalls of eating such detrimental substances.

"In 2017, a 17-year-old girl from Delhi was lured by a marriage proposal and kidnapped from Gurugram. The girl was sold to different sex traffickers in Gurugram. The horrific part in this case is that the girl's parents were themselves into the business of sex trafficking and they were the ones who sold the girl in the name of marriage. The girl somehow managed to escape. But that was not all. The traffickers again kidnapped her near Jhajhar. That was when she realises that there is no escape until she reports the crime. Then, somehow she managed to come to us for help," Senger recalls.

Another such case is of a brothel in Pune where a 20-year-old boy fell in love with a 17-year-old sex worker. "The girl was from the North-East working in a brothel in Pune. When the boy visited the brothel he fell in love with the girl and decided to take her out from her living hell. He reached out to us for help. We found that the girl hailed from a village in the North-East and her friend had kidnapped and sold her to the Pune brothel. We rescued and sent her to a shelter home," he tells you.

FACTSPEAK

- One third or 162 out of 429 traffickers are female.
- 50% or 216 traffickers are from the age group of 25 to 45 years.
- 28% or 118 traffickers are between 25 and 35 years, while two — one boy and one girl — named traffickers are minors.
- The myth that traffickers are mostly the family members has also been busted
- Largest group of the traffickers (34% or 148) were neighbours, while 31% or 131 were completely unknown to the survivors.
- Only 7% or 30 traffickers were from family members, including extended family members.

Not that these Government-run shelter homes are anything less than a prison, the reason being poor maintenance. "The quality of life in these shelter homes is bad with poor hygiene and infrastructure. In any case they are over populated and there are no living standards," Senger says.

According to advocate Pooja Sareen, these shelter homes are beset with illegal activities. "These shelter homes are a hub of crime, more so as the authorities know that the children living there are either orphans or their parents don't know where they are. Hence, they are exploited," Sareen says. Most of the victims are from West Bengal, Jharkhand, Odisha, North-East and Nepal.

It's not only the traffickers who are involved in the crime but some corrupt police officials too. "The Government penalises trafficking for commercial sexual exploitation through the ITPA with a penalty of seven years to life imprisonment. India prohibits bonded and forced labour through the Bonded Labour Abolition Act, the Child Labour Act, and the Juvenile Justice Act. Also, the Indian Penal Code uses Sections 366(A) and 372 to penalise kidnapping and selling of minors into prostitution, respectively.

Penalties under these provisions are a maximum of 10 years imprisonment and a fine. Yet, sex trafficking largely goes unreported, unattended and is seldom in the limelight. Thousands of children and women are forced into prostitution. These sex workers are made to service clients both in Indian and abroad. It's a cruel nexus that rarely surfaces.

"Things go worse for victims due to corrupt officials. They protect brothels, traffickers and brothel keepers from arrest.

Law is often manipulated. Usually, there are no efforts made to tackle the problem of Government complicity in trafficking workers for overseas employment. The bulk of bonded labour heads for the Middle-East for illegal and inhumane trafficking of Indian workers," Sareen says.

Minors are kidnapped and trafficked on fake IDs and documents. "We have failed as a system rescue such victims despite them being brought into metros from all corners of India and pushed into flesh trade day in and day out.

"Many of the pubs in posh localities flourish close to residential colonies. Prostitutes and pimps are a part and parcel of this trade. This happens under the nose of the police and often with their collusion. I can tell you of cases where residents have raised the issue with the police regarding these illegal activities but all goes in vain," Sareen tells you.

Senger highlights the immediate need for more counsellors to help the survivors overcome the trauma. "The survivors need counselling. Many times the survivors don't speak of their trauma for months. During this time, their shelter home inmates play a key role. These survivors often talk to inmates as they feel they are the ones who will understand them better because they too have gone through a similar situation," he tells you.

To help tackle such issues, Sareen suggests that the police should raid places like spas, bars and pubs more often and that the Government should keep a close eye on them. There should be a special squad to check out the NGOs, shelter homes, child and women welfare organisations which claim to safeguard women and children.

Virat Kohli's familiar exuberance and pep talks drowned the chatter around Rishabh Pant as India prepared to play South Africa in the third T20 International here on Sunday, seeking a 2-0 series verdict.

The comprehensive seven-wicket victory in the second game, which was built on the back of a fine comeback by the bowlers and a Kohli masterclass, is history now and the team is looking for another commanding performance before the Test series gets underway.

The opener in Dharamsala was a washout.

Against a fairly new-look South African side that seems to lack the resources required to counter the home team's firepower, India will surely fancy their chances of an encore, at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium.

Embattled wicketkeeper-batsman Pant could not deliver in the last match and as he continues to struggle with the bat, he remains under scrutiny.

Pant has divided opinions — many questioned his temperament, shot-selection and the resultant slump in form — while others refused to be harsh on him considering the talent that he possesses.

The 21-year-old could be boosted by words of encouragement from legends such as Sunil Gavaskar, who has also stated that the time has come for India to look beyond Mahendra Singh Dhoni, with little more than a year left for the T20 World Cup in Australia.

But the Pant sub-plot is unlikely to significantly impact the Indians' prospects in the final game of what effectively became a two-match affair after the washout in the hill town.

The South Africans had no answer to Kohli's batting at Mohali's IS Bindra Stadium in the second T20I, and with the next game being hosted at a ground where he is too familiar with, the Indian captain will be eyeing another good outing.

But before Kohli, his deputy Rohit Sharma and Shikhar Dhawan will be standing up to the Kagiso Rabada-led pace attack with optimism, the size of the ground only aiding stroke-makers like the two openers.

The terrific Indian trio could again be a thorn in the Proteas' flesh, with Rohit especially looking to make up after failing to translate his start into a big knock in Mohali.

While Pant will be hoping for a reversal in his fortunes, India have the likes of the extremely talented Shreyas Iyer in their middle-order, followed by Hardik Pandya and Ravindra Jadeja.

The Indian team management may have taken heart from the fact that pacers such as Deepak Chahar and Navdeep Saini put their hands up in the absence of regulars Jasprit Bumrah and Bhuvneshwar Kumar.

They may not have years of international experience behind them but the likes of Washington Sundar, Chahar and Saini showed that they can challenge the South Africans.

New captain Quinton de Kock will again have to shoulder the bulk of responsibility with the bat and he will hope for support from the likes of David Miller and Reeza Hendricks.

De Kock might have to change the manner in which he handled his bowlers in the second match, introducing his spinners late in the innings despite the Indians easily tackling his fast bowlers.

TEAMS (FROM):
India: Virat Kohli (captain),

Rohit Sharma (vice-captain), Shikhar Dhawan, KL Rahul, Shreyas Iyer, Manish Pandey, Rishabh Pant (wicket-keeper), Hardik Pandya, Ravindra Jadeja, Krunal Pandya, Washington Sundar, Rahul Chahar, Khaleel Ahmed, Deepak Chahar, Navdeep Saini
South Africa: Quinton de Kock (captain), Rassie van der Dussen (vice-captain), Temba Bavuma, Junior Dala, Bjorn Fortuin, Beuran Hendricks, Reeza Hendricks, David Miller, Anrich Nortje, Andile Phehlukwayo, Dwaine Pretorius, Kagiso Rabada, Tabraiz Shamsi, Jon-Jon Smuts.

I am sure team management will give youngsters long run: Dhawan

PTI ■ BENGALURU

Senior opener Shikhar Dhawan on Saturday expressed optimism that the team management will give the youngsters a fair run to establish themselves going into next year's World T20 in Australia.

Captain Virat Kohli recently made it clear that the youngsters will have to prove themselves in the "four or five" opportunities they get.

"(While) trying out youngsters, it is good to give them a good run because when new players come in, it takes time for them to express themselves. Young boys are taking these opportunities with both hands. I am sure the team management will give them a longer run," Dhawan said on the eve of the third T20 International on Sunday.

He said the senior players are "always open" to helping their younger teammates like Shreyas Iyer or Rishabh Pant, who is currently battling indifferent form.

Seen as one with a bright future after Test tons in demanding English and Australian conditions, Pant is now feeling the heat for his shot-selection and temperament, with some calling for the inclusion of Sanju Samson or Ishan Kishan at his expense.

"Any time, any youngster wants to discuss something with us, we are always open to help them, always there for them," Dhawan told reporters on the eve of the third T20 International against South Africa.

"For senior players like us, say someone like Rishabh comes in to bat or Shreyas coming in, we make sure we do the communication with them and make sure they are comfortable and not nervous. We make them think what is needed at that particular moment," he said. Dhawan added: "That's what we do even when I am batting with Rohit or Virat, we keep discussing and that is very important. Communication is very, very important."

He hoped that youngsters will get a decent run to prove their mettle in international cricket.

The southpaw said the ongoing series against the Proteas and matches scheduled in the near future will be the perfect platform for youngsters such as Washington Sundar and Deepak Chahar to build their confidence in the lead-up to the T20 World Cup.

Both players have impressed in recent times with their performance and attitude.

"Washington is bowling really good, giving us the breakthroughs and also choking the batsmen. He has got very good control and variety as well."

"Even Deepak Chahar, he swings the ball both ways and at the same time, he has pace as well. It is the perfect platform for them to perform and build the confidence for the T20 World Cup," Dhawan said.

The senior batsman, whose World Cup in England was cut short by an injury, looked in fine touch during his match-winning partnership with skipper Virat Kohli in the second T20 against South Africa at Mohali.

"I have been playing well. I got a break and came back and even in West Indies, I didn't score many runs, but I was muddling the ball nicely. For me, it's normal, it happens, four-five innings can go here and there. I know that my process is very strong, I am a keen observer of whatever I am doing."

"I will make sure I do everything in a detailed manner, and yes, sometimes some strategies don't go your way, sometimes they do. It is part of the journey, I have always backed myself, I know the hard work I have put in, and I know that things will go good for me."

Shikhar also confirmed that he will turn up for his state side Delhi in the upcoming Vijay Hazare Trophy.

"Now even after this series, I am going to play Vijay Hazare as well. I am looking forward to that. I make sure that whatever cricket I play, I play with all my heart whether it's Ranji, Vijay Hazare or the Indian team," Dhawan said on the eve of the third and final T20I against the Proteas.

"I had free time since I was not in the Test team, so thought rather than sitting at home or training, play matches which is good for my confidence and my skill levels."

"Match practice is the best practice so I thought it's a good opportunity for me to go and express myself. I was not part of the Test team so I had the opportunity."

PNS ■ LUCKNOW

Bangladesh edged past India by five runs (DLS) in the 2nd match of the Under-23 ODI series at Bharat Ratna Atal Bihari Vajpayee Ekana International Stadium on Saturday.

Electing to bat, Bangladesh had scored 149 runs for the loss of two wickets in 36 overs before rain halted the play. After a long break due to rain, umpires cut short Bangladesh's innings and set India a target of 218 runs in 36 overs.

Chasing a tricky target, Indian openers gave a decent start, adding 77 runs in 15.3 overs, before Tanveer Islam caught Yashasvi Bhpendra Jaiswal (34) in front of the wicket.

Three runs later Madhav Kaushik (34) fell short of his crease while trying to sneak a run. After that skipper Priyam Garg and wicket-keeper BR Sharath (55) dominated the visitors bowlers and added 79 runs in 10.2 overs before later was bowled out by Sumon Khan.

Then Ritwik Roy Chowdhury joined Priyam in the middle. Ritwik never looked comfortable at the wicket and finally got run out on the throw of Sabbir Hosan. Sumon then got the prized wicket of skipper Priyam when India needed 10 runs of 8 balls.

Skipper's departure and intelligent field placement by Bangladesh's skipper made it tough for Indian batsmen to score runs as they fell short by five runs in the end.

The performance of pacers Pooja Vastrakar and Mansi Joshi will be watched keenly when the South Africa women take on Board President's XI in their second warm-up match here on Sunday.

The first warm-up match, which was scheduled on Friday, was abandoned due to inclement weather.

Joshi and Pooja Vastrakar have been named in the T20 squad and a good show on Sunday at the Lalbhai Contractor Stadium here would give them the much needed momentum before the five-match T20 tournament begins here on Tuesday.

Eyes will also be on 15-year-old opener Shafali Verma, who has been picked in India's T20 squad.

Skipper Sushma Verma and her deputy Devika Vaidya would also be more than keen to put up a splendid show and impress the national selectors.

On the other hand, the South Africa women would be looking to get some match practise and also test their reserve players as the first game was a washout.

Squads: BPXI: Sushma Verma (captain & wicket-keeper), Devika Vaidya (vice-captain), Vanitha VR, Shafali Verma, Priya Punia, Jasia Aktar, MD Thirushkamani, Madhuri Mehta, Tarannum Pathan, Sushree Dibyadarshini, Tanuja Kanwar, Bharti Fulmali, Mansi Joshi, Renuka Singh, Pooja Vastrakar.

South Africa women: Sune Luus (Captain), Anneke Bosch, Tasmin Brits, Nadine de Klerk, Shabnim Ismail, Sinalo Jafta, Ayabonga Khaka, Lara Goodall, Lizelle Lee, Nonkululeko Mlaba, Tumi Sekhukhune, Nondumiso Shangase, Mignon du Preez and Lara Wolvaardt.

'We are here to play in traditional South African way'

PTI ■ BENGALURU

Vice-captain Rassie van der Dussen on Saturday said they are here to compete in the "traditional South African way" even though the team currently touring India lacks the firepower of the previous visiting outfits.

The Proteas lost the second T20 International by seven wickets after the series opener was washed out.

The new-look team will have a chance to draw level in the third and final game at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium on Sunday, which will be followed by a three-match Test series.

"We got a young squad now but we came here to compete in the traditional South African way, try hard, play hard," Van der Dussen told reporters on the eve of the game.

"We have got young guys in the squad and we are not going to stand back for anyone. That's the emphasis, results go your way or not, that's sometimes you are not sure what's going to happen. We knew it's going to be tough, India is one of the strongest team in the world, and we know we are embracing their challenge."

One of South Africa's rare success stories from the ODI World Cup in England, van der Dussen said some of his teammates' experience of playing here in the last Test tour will help the visitors in the upcoming engagements.

"The last Test tour did not go well but the guys who were here have learnt a lot of lessons and we definitely are better prepared this time," he said.

He was asked about his team's challenge of bowling to India's top three comprising skipper Virat Kohli, his deputy Rohit Sharma and Shikhar Dhawan, and he admitted that the task is very difficult.

"We have got young guys in the squad and we are not going to stand back for anyone. That's the emphasis, results go your way or not, that's sometimes you are not sure what's going to happen. We knew it's going to be tough, India is one of the strongest team in the world, and we know we are embracing their challenge"

"They are probably three of the best T20 batters in the world and the world has ever seen. Virat and Rohit are the two leading run scorers at the moment in international T20 cricket."

"It's a great challenge for young bowlers coming here and bowling to these guys. But like I said, we know what the challenge is. If we want to get a win, we have to nullify this kind of players."

He said the team is missing the services of long-serving leg-spinner Imran Tahir. "Imran Tahir is obviously massive for us. He has been so good, he has retired from one-day cricket so he is going to focus on T20 cricket, and we know he is a big weapon for us."

"The challenge for other bowlers is that we don't have the luxury of a guy like that, who can come in and bowl four overs for 20, and maybe take one or two wickets."

Van der Dussen scored 311 runs in the World Cup and showed composure in the face of constant criticism the team attracted for its poor showing.

"It's been an unbelievable 12 to 14 months for me. The challenge for me going forward would be to maintain the form that I have had and keep improving as a player and winning games for the team. That's something I pride myself in."

Asked about the team's targets in the lead-up to the T20 World Cup, he said the challenge is to learn the lessons quickly.

"We have a young team. Guys are absorbing and learning everything quickly. We have got some 18 more games leading to the T20 World Cup next year. The challenge for us is to learn those lessons very quickly and make sure in some years time, we are one of the top sides of the world."

Masakadza quits cricket with no regrets

AFP ■ CHITTAGONG

Zimbabwe captain Hamilton Masakadza could not hold back the tears when announcing to his players that Friday's match against Afghanistan would be his last in internationals.

The 36-year-old was given a guard of honour by both sides as he came in to bat in Chittagong and then hit 71 off 42 balls to take Zimbabwe to an impressive seven-wicket victory — their first over Afghanistan — in the Twenty20 match.

Masakadza ended his 18-year international career with a blistering five sixes and four fours.

"Obviously it was super special. To lead the team to the win was really special," he said late Friday.

Masakadza, who has played a key role in Zimbabwe's faltering progress in international cricket since making his debut in 2001, acknowledged the emotions got the better of him before the game had even started.

"I started tearing a little bit in the morning trying to get through the team talk with the boys," he said.

"I am not someone who wears his heart on his sleeve but I think this is the one thing that brought a few emotions out of me."

"Even when I tried to tell the guys and the team before I made the official announcement, I barely got through three sentences so it's been a really emotional time for me," he said.

Masakadza set a world record on his debut against the West Indies when he became the youngest Test century scorer at 17 years and 254 days.

His record survived barely three months before being broken by Bangladesh's Mohammad Ashraful.

He was also Zimbabwe's first black player to score a first-class century.

Masakadza later took a three-year break in his international career to pursue studies, and returned with the national team in turmoil over player disputes with the national federation.

The troubles affected his career and he had to wait until 2011 to score his second Test century, against Bangladesh, after Zimbabwe ended a five-year self-exile from Test cricket.

Masakadza, who played 38 Tests, 209 one-day internationals and 66 T20 internationals said he was leaving with no bitterness.

"I have been going through a lot of emotions today, but regret is not one of them. I am really thankful, thankful to the board for giving me the chance to play as long as I have," he said.

Friday's game was Zimbabwe's last in the three-nation series. Bangladesh will play Afghanistan in the final on Tuesday.

Abid Ali, Shinwari, Iftikhar Ahmed recalled

PTI ■ ARACHI

World Cup discards Abid Ali, Iftikhar Ahmed, Muhammad Rizwan, Usman Shinwari and Muhammad Nawaz have been recalled to Pakistan's ODI squad for the upcoming home series against Sri Lanka.

The new head coach and chief selector, Misbah-ul-Haq, told the media that he was looking to build separate ODI and T20 squads.

"Our performances in one-day cricket have been inconsistent. I think we need to improve our bowling and fielding a lot for the 50-overs cricket as we lost matches before and in the World Cup even after putting up 300 plus totals," Misbah said.

All five players were overlooked by former chief selector Inzamam-ul-Haq and ex-head coach Mickey Arthur for the World Cup. But Misbah said they were straightforward selections for this series.

"Iftikhar Ahmed is a batsman who can also bowl off-spin and provides the captain with necessary bowling depth as Sri Lanka boasts a few left-handers in their ranks. "M o h a m m a d Nawaz has been performing well in domestic matches."

Despite their strong performances, Mohammad Rizwan, Usman Shinwari and Abid Ali were unlucky to miss out the World Cup squad," he said. Misbah also underlined that the batsmen have been doing a good job at posting 300 plus totals regularly, but the team traditionally relies on its strong bowling unit.

The former Pakistan captain also said that he felt skipper Sarfaraz Ahmed had undermined his batting potential in recent matches.

"I have spoken to him and I have told him he needs to be batting regularly because he is the sort of batsman who can quickly change the game."

Misbah added that the side was not going to underestimate its opponents because 10 Sri Lankan players refused to tour Pakistan citing security concerns.

"These are the only 50-over matches we play this season and we want to make their optimum use. Over the course of my cricketing career, I have realized there are no easy games and there are no easy opponents."

Asked why he had not included any new players in the squad, Misbah said he had no issues with selecting new players but the Pakistan team was not a laboratory to test players.

"We will only pick those players who have the required fitness and who have performed enough to be given serious consideration. In the past, we have seen we picked players prematurely and after one or two matches they found it difficult to cope with the pressures of international cricket."

Pakistan will host Sri Lanka for three ODIs and as many T20s from September 27 to October 9.

Silver worth its weight in Gold

Panghal ends 2nd at world c'ships

PTI ■ EKATERINBURG

Indian boxer Amit Panghal's phenomenal campaign in the men's world championships ended with a Silver medal after he went down to Olympic champion Shakhobidin Zoirov of Uzbekistan in an intense 52kg category final here on Saturday.

Panghal lost 0-5 but the scoreline was hardly a reflection of the fight he put on against the more fancied Zoirov.

In the course of his stupendous run, the second-seeded Indian became the first male boxer from the country to finish second in the world event. The nation achieved its best-ever medal haul of two. Commonwealth Games Silver-medallist Manish Kaushik (63kg) had signed off with a Bronze after losing in the semi-finals earlier.

Once again up against a taller and more muscular opponent, Panghal gave it his all but fell short when it came to connecting accurately. The Asian Games and Asian Championships Gold-medallist nonetheless achieved a historic feat.

In a bout that was mostly about counter-attack, both Panghal and Zoirov were wary of each other in the opening three minutes.

The action picked up a bit in the second round and Panghal tried hard to capitalize on his rival's low guard.

However, in Zoirov, Panghal met his match in pace and the Uzbek had no trouble dodging Panghal's lunging efforts.

The final round was when the two boxers decided to attack each other more intensely and even though Panghal was more aggressive, it was Zoirov who managed to land more scoring blows.

The Silver here marks a new high for the boxer from Rohtak, who has been simply unstoppable since breaking into the national scene with a Bronze in the 2017 Asian Championships.

Zoirov, despite being unseeded here, was always going to be a tough challenge as he also has to his credit Silver medals in the Asian Games and the Asian Championships.

Before this year, India had never won more than one Bronze medal at a single edition of the world championship.

This time, India was among nine countries, out of a total of 78, which had their boxers in the finals. Uzbekistan topped the finalists count with four boxers.

"This is a reward for the effort that BFI (Boxing Federation of India) has put into re-modelling the entire structure of the sport so that our boxers get the best of training and can confidently perform on the world stage," BFI President Ajay Singh said.

"With less than a year to go for the 2020 Olympics, these performances are a major boost. BFI will ensure and encourage them in every possible way so that they can carry this form into Tokyo to bring back medals for the country," he added.

Phenomenal Panghal: From late-comer to world-beater

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

He is the first to a historic milestone in Indian boxing but there was a time when Amit Panghal would come in last. The last to knock on the training halls, the last to report back from camp leaves.

The pint-sized dynamo from Rohtak became the first Indian male boxer to claim a Silver medal at the World Championships, which concluded in Ekaterinburg on Saturday.

Speaking about it, Panghal (52kg), an Asian Games and Asian Championships Gold-medallist, recalled with hearty laughter the times he "frustrated" coaches with his approach, which meant carefree to him but reckless to them.

"It's true, I used to leave the camp on weekends (off days), I just didn't have the patience. The coaches used to be furious at me but then that was me at that time. We just didn't have enough chhutti (holidays) and I was always tempted to make the most of whatever I could manage," the 23-year-old Indian Armyman said.

"Oh, we used to be so frustrated with him. He wouldn't come back from leave on time, wouldn't show up for training on time. But then he had this amazing eye-catching game, we just couldn't have given up on him despite the indiscipline," recalled national coach C A Kuttappa.

The time they speak of was 2016, and a year later Panghal made quite a statement with a Bronze medal on debut in the Asian Championships.

"I am so grateful to the coaches who didn't give up on me. Because of their patience, I began taking my game more seriously and there came a time when I went home just once a month, that too after the coaches would tell me to take a break," Panghal said.

But old habits die hard and Kuttappa, who fondly calls Panghal bacchu (child), revealed that even at the just-concluded world championship Panghal showed up late once for a training session.

"I told him to pay 1000 bucks and only then we would let him in," he said with a chuckle.

Panghal couldn't help laughing about it either but he also pointed out a major change in his approach.

"Now I am the last to leave the training hall. Everyone leaves but I keep at it, I force them (the coaches) to be with me even on off days for training. They tell me bas kar yaar, hum jaa rahe hain ab. My attitude to training has changed quite a lot but even now I am harassing coaches," he quipped.

"Earlier, I would leave (the training hall) without even cooling off but I am more patient now. I wait for my body to adapt before signing off. I adhere to the procedure with sincerity now," he added.

Speaking of adapting, Panghal has had to make major adjustments to excel in the 52kg category after a stellar run in the 49kg division. During the transition, he candidly confessed that he was unsure about how the change would pan out for him.

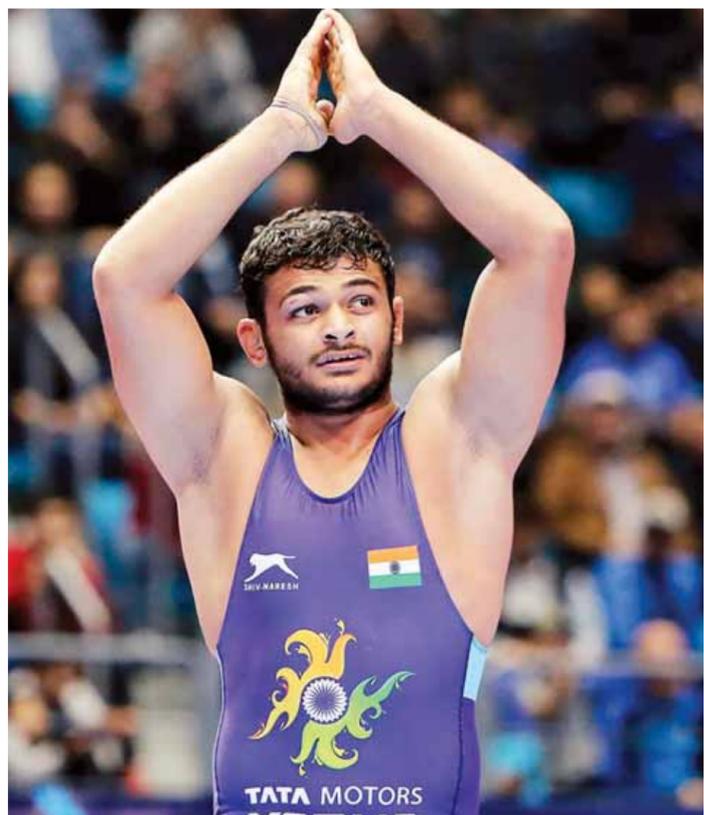

"It hasn't been as difficult as I first thought. But it has taken time for me to fit in," he said.

"Abhi bhi kahaan itna adjustment huwa hai (I haven't adjusted completely). I am only 65 to 70 per cent there in realising my full potential. I have managed to add power in my punches to negate the height disadvantage. It's crucial because I am mostly up against taller guys. But I am still a work in progress," he added.

Panghal prefers to be humble about his achievements and prefers to describe his phenomenal rise since 2017 a combination of some luck and loads of hard work.

Deepak's double delight

Punia to fight for Gold at Worlds today after booking Olympics quota

PTI ■ NUR-SULTAN

Reigning junior world champion Deepak Punia placed himself in line for the senior world title by reaching the 86kg final apart from booking his Tokyo Olympics quota, here on Saturday.

Competing in his maiden senior world championship, Deepak moved to the final with a commanding 8-2 win over Switzerland's Stefan Reichmuth.

He will fight for the title against 2016 Rio Olympics 74kg Gold medallist Hassan Yazdanicharati of Iran today. Yazdanicharati had also won 2018 Jakarta-Palembang Asian Games 86kg Gold.

It has been a steady progress for Deepak, who won the World Cadet title in 2016 and became junior world champion only last month in Estonia. He can now emulate double Olympic medallist Sushil Kumar who is till now the only Indian to have won a World Championships title in 2010.

The 20-year old Deepak also ensured that India will return from the World Championship with its best ever performance as the country is now assured of four medals.

Punia and Ravi Dahiya have already won a Bronze medal each. All of them qualified for the Tokyo Olympics as well.

Rahul Aware can make it even better if he wins today's Bronze medal bout in the 61kg non-Olympic category. He lost his semifinal bout 6-10 to Beka Lomtadze of Georgia.

India had returned with three medals in 2013.

Deepak's all-round ability — defence, attack, stamina and awareness on the mat — played a key role in his memorable performance.

"I had genuinely hoped for a medal and Olympic quota. So, it is a double delight for me. My seniors like Sushil Kumar and Bajrang Punia inspire me," Deepak said.

"I felt a bit under pressure when I fought with the Kazakh wrestler (in quarter-finals). He had beaten me in Italy early this year and I was a bit apprehensive about fighting the home wrestler because of the Bajrang bout (controversy)," he added.

There was no action in the first period of the semifinal with Deepak gaining a 1-0 lead on activity clock.

In the second period, Deepak pushed out Reichmuth and took the Swiss down for a 4-0 lead. He lost two points but another takedown and expose move clinched it for Deepak.

The 20-year-old Deepak, who trains at Chhatrasal stadium in Delhi, had booked the quota after prevailing 7-6 in a tense semifinal against Colombia's Carlos Arturo Mendez.

With one minute to go, he was trailing 3-6 but pulled off a takedown and then an expose move to take 7-6 lead in the dying moments of the tense bout.

Also doing a commendable job was Aware who reached the Bronze medal round in the 61kg non-Olympic category after reaching the semifinals.

Both Deepak and Rahul overcame rough Kazakh wrestlers en route the semifinals.

Aware lost a pacy semifinal 6-10 to Beka Lomtadze of Georgia, the European championship Silver medallist.

Meanwhile, Jitender lost his 79kg quarterfinal while Mausam Khatri lost his first round in 97kg to reigning Olympic champion Kyle Frederick Snyder to go out of the championship since their opponents failed to reach the finals.

Leclerc on pole at Singapore

AFP ■ SINGAPORE

Ferrari's Charles Leclerc secured pole position for the Singapore Grand Prix on Saturday as he looks to claim a stunning hat-trick of wins after triumphs in Belgium and Italy.

The 21-year-old will be joined on the front row by championship leader Lewis Hamilton in a Mercedes, with Leclerc's teammate Sebastian Vettel rounding out the top three, ahead of Red Bull's Max Verstappen and Valtteri Bottas.

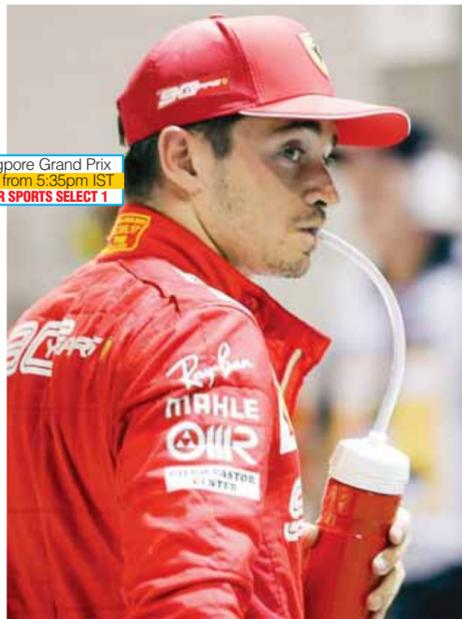

Despite winning the last two races on power-friendly tracks, Ferrari had been given little chance of competing under the floodlights at the demanding 23-turn layout in Singapore. But Leclerc and Vettel tore up the script to gatecrash what was expected to be a Mercedes and Red Bull party.

"I'm extremely happy about today. It was a good lap but I lost it a few times," Leclerc said after completing a 1:36.217 second final lap.

"I have to thank the team. We brought some new bits that worked properly. I worked hard after a bad Friday and today it paid off," added Leclerc, who recorded his fifth pole position of the season.

Hamilton holds a 63-point lead over Bottas of Mercedes in the title race with seven rounds remaining.

The Briton said he would adopt an aggressive approach to today's race in search of a ninth victory of the season, as he seeks a sixth world cham-quickest in the first half of the final part of qualifying until Leclerc and Hamilton edged past him.

"The final attempt should have been better but I was able to improve run by run. Maybe I peaked too early," Vettel said.

Red Bull's Alex Albon will start sixth on the grid, ahead of Carlos Sainz, Daniel Ricciardo, Nico Hulkenberg and Lando Norris.

"I don't know where Ferrari picked up their pace but they did a great job," said Hamilton, who lapped in 1:36.408. "I'm really happy to be on the front row with them. Tomorrow we can be aggressive."

Man City hit eight in Watford demolition, Spurs rocked by Leicester

AFP ■ LONDON

Manchester City powered to their record Premier League win as the champions scored five times in the first half of an incredible 8-0 thrashing of Watford, while Leicester enjoyed a VAR-assisted 2-1 victory over Tottenham on Saturday.

Inspired by Bernardo Silva's hat-trick, Pep Guardiola's side ripped Watford to pieces at the Etihad Stadium, eclipsing a 7-0 success against Norwich in 2013 which stood as their previous biggest top-flight win.

Although City fell one goal short of equalling the biggest Premier League margin of victory — Manchester United's 9-0 demolition of Ipswich in 1995 — their swaggering display was the perfect way to erase the bitter taste from last weekend's shock defeat at Norwich.

Second-placed City move to within two points of leaders Liverpool, who face Chelsea at Stamford Bridge on Sunday.

"When you shoot on target five times for five goals — the quality of players we had made the difference," Guardiola said.

"What I like the most is normally when it's 5-0 at half time the second half is not serious, it's boring but we did the opposite and we were more aggressive and made a very good second half.

"People still don't understand, journalists, pundits, former players, losing games is part of life. We can lose the games but the important thing is the approach and how we react?" City had crushed Watford 6-0 in last season's FA Cup final and they picked up where they left off at Wembley with a goal inside the first minute at the Etihad Stadium.

Kevin De Bruyne played a superb ball in from the right, leaving David Silva with the simple task of poking home from close range for his first goal of the season.

The champions doubled their lead in the seventh minute after Watford keeper Ben Foster conceded a penalty with a foul on Riyad Mahrez.

Sergio Aguero coolly slotted in the spot-kick for his eighth goal in six games this term.

Guardiola had rested Raheem Sterling, but even without their star winger City were rampant and they made it three in the 12th minute when Mahrez's free-kick hit Watford's Tom Cleverley in the head and deflected past Foster.

Astonishingly, City scored again in the 15th minute, De Bruyne's corner nodded on by Nicolas Otamendi for Bernardo to head home.

By the time Otamendi finished off Aguero's cross in the 18th minute, City had established the fastest 5-0 lead in the Premier League era.

The joint biggest half-time lead in Premier League history wasn't enough for City and stumbled before flicking home put Tottenham ahead.

However, the game swung Leicester's way after Tottenham defender Serge Aurier's goal midway through the second half was ruled out by the finest of margins for offside by VAR.

The hosts built on that lift immediately as Ricardo Pereira equalised before James Maddison struck the winner from long range five minutes from time.

By contrast, Tottenham have now won just two of their first seven games of the season in all competitions and Mauricio Pochettino admitted the VAR controversy had played a role in their latest flop.

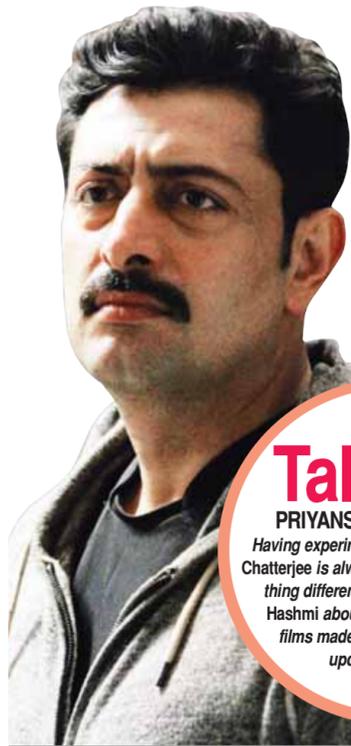

Pochettino bemoaned the momentum swing given to Leicester by the long stoppage in play prior to Aurier's strike being ruled out for an extremely marginal offside against Son Heung-min.

"The emotion of the game changed. The belief it gave to Leicester made things happen differently in the last 10 minutes," Pochettino said.

"I'm only going to say that we all accept that system in the game and now I am not going to complain."

Burnley beat Norwich 2-0 at Turf Moor, with New Zealand striker Chris Wood scoring in the 10th and 14th minutes.

Sheffield United piled pressure on Everton manager Marco Silva, whose side were booed off after a 2-0 defeat at Goodison Park, the damage done by Yerry Mina's 40th-minute own goal and Lys Mousset's 79th-minute strike.

Talktime
PRIYANSHU CHATTERJEE
Having experimented with different roles, Chatterjee is always on a look out for something different. He speaks with Musba Hashmi about his take on the kind of films made today, inspiration and upcoming projects

'Casting procedure should be streamlined'

■What is your role in Little Baby?
I play Dushyant Singh, a cop. The story is about a father and his 19-year-old daughter, Sasha. The film talks about generation gap. Sasha doesn't share a good rapport with his father, both of them go through a lot of ups and downs in their relationship. How both resolve is what the film is about.

■What prompted you to play this role?

It is a very different character from what I have done before. The story is interesting and it has a catch. I always look for projects where I enjoy my work and do something different. This film was up my ally.

■You debuted with Tum Bin. How did you get on board for that?

I was always a movie buff. Acting was always on my cards. This took me to Mumbai where I gave auditions for Tum Bin. After auditioning three-four times, I was finally selected for it.

■What is your take on the kind of films being made today?

A lot of content-oriented films are being made today. The scripts are fresh and unique. People are making a lot of biopics which is a good thing. It is good to see our history and to know the untold stories of some of the greatest people of our country. It makes for an exciting watch.

■What was the most challenging project for you?

Pinjar was the most challenging one because it was a period drama. I hadn't done period dramas before. To relive the time of partition, to bring in the reality and to get the emotions right was challenging.

■Do you have any regrets?

No. I don't think too much about anything. Once you have done something, it's done; you can't redo or undo it. The time has gone. There's nothing that you can do about that. I believe in moving on and learning from my mistakes.

■How has your journey been?

MY INSPIRATION IS MY FAMILY AND PARENTS. IF YOU TALK ABOUT ACTING, THEN THERE ARE A LOT OF GREAT ACTORS WHO CONTINUE TO INSPIRE ME — AMITABH BACHCHAN AND NASEERUDDIN SHAH TO NAME A FEW

It has been an amazing one. There were tough times and there were good times too. I don't worry about anything. Good and bad things are a part and parcel of life. One should not fear it. Instead, we should just take what life has on offer for us with both hands.

■If not an actor, what else would you have been?

I couldn't imagine myself in any other profession but acting. But, if so was the case I would have been an accountant then.

■Who is your inspiration?

My inspiration is my family and parents. If you talk about acting, then there are a lot of great actors in the industry who continue to inspire me. Amitabh Bachchan and Naseeruddin Shah to name a few.

■What does acting mean to you?

Acting is just any other craft or skill. There's no end to learning it. It helps bring out the different sides of your personality through different characters. For me, it is like a sea with no end. No one can reach the bottom of it, it's endless.

■There are a lot of talks about the difference in pay scale. What is your take on that?

It is the case in every sector today. It is not merely related to acting. That is how marketing works. This difference in pay scale has nothing to do with one's calibre or capability. At the end, this is how the industry works and we have to digest this bitter pill. There's nothing one can do about this.

■One change that you would like to see in the industry for actors and other working professionals?

I would want the casting process to get a little more streamlined. Because there are a lot of talented actors and when they don't get work, I feel bad. If the casting process will become more streamlined, it will open the doors to more opportunities for the fresh actors in the industry.

■Apart from acting, what keeps you busy?

I like spending time at my home. Also, I love reading books.

■What are your upcoming projects?

My web series — Cold Lassi Aur Chicken Masala, has just been released. Then, Little Baby will release on September 27, 2019. Then there is one film — Sridevi Bungalow which will release this year.

Pushing musical limit

SHALINI SAKSENA speaks with digital audio service providers who talk about what the listeners want, the challenges and growing popularity of podcasting

From listening to songs on LP to radio to audio cassettes iPods to digital music service providers, people who love to listen to music have never had it better. This streaming has been evolving over the years with the most changes coming in the last five years.

Streaming has fundamentally revolutionised the business of music and the experience for creators and fans alike. Today, it's an expression of individuality, a global platform of cultural exchange, a social form of engagement, and a way to enhance moods and moments.

With the rapid Internet penetration, more and more people are moving from illegal means of music streaming to free, legal platforms. However, in India that journey is still far from over, but it is believed that easier access to streaming services, in-app personalisation, ability to discover music, and the general experience of using intuitive apps will lead to more users shifting to legal music streaming in the near future.

Amarjit Batra, Managing Director India, Spotify tells you that there are challenges here. "When we talk about India, the country's rich heritage, diversity of cultures and multiplicity of languages, and access to global cultures translates to a huge range of preferences, necessitating agility in delivering a unique experience for each user. With over 50 million songs and three billion playlists, we are creating an experience that's constantly refreshed," Batra says.

Consumers today aren't just looking for favourite tracks, but for newer recommendations based on what they already listen to, or sometimes, new sounds altogether." Our AI framework ensures that users are offered curated audio experiences that are new, yet familiar," Batra says.

Second, is piracy. This stems from the fact that we are a price conscious market, and to address this, we introduced an industry leading free tier, and multiple subscription based tiers that make sense for our local users. Third, is the devices and quality of network connectivity across the country.

Batra tells you that the future of audio is limitless. Therefore, there is potential growth of podcasts as a new form of audio storytelling is garnering steady popularity amongst the urban audio streamers in the country.

"Podcasts are an intimate form of storytelling, and listeners are invested in it because it's almost like someone talking to you. Globally, we've seen a 50 per cent podcast audience growth Q-on-Q; while its still early days in our country, we have seen trend around content themed to self-motivation, true crime, mythology and education," Batra says.

The top five most streamed podcasts are On Purpose with Jay Shetty, Views with David Dobrik and Jason Nash, The Misfits Podcast, Audio Book and Sleepy.

What is that the listeners want today? "A few interesting insights has highlighted that the user mentality in India has matured from just consuming favourite songs and familiar artists to experiencing music that is more personalised through taste-specific discoveries and recommendations. While Bollywood reigns supreme in consumption, GenZ is curious and open to expanding their taste in music. They are discovering new artists and genres, contributing to a significant rise in K-POP, Punjabi, Hip-Hop Latin Pop, and EDM. The consumer is spoilt for choice and they will go to brands that listen to them, engage with them, give them audio content in a way that is personalised, intuitive, and brings a seamless user experience," Batra explains.

Agrees Prashan Agarwal, CEO Gaana. "Listeners expect something new each day. We have launched several industry-first steps in that regard — be it making the app interface live in 12 languages, being the first music app to introduce in-app voice assistant, introducing sing-along lyrics on the player page, smart downloads, where the app will automatically download a premium user's favourite tracks based on their listening history. We have launched aana videos recently," Agarwal says.

He opines that the country's music streaming space has evolved significantly in terms of content consumption and tech innovation. "On the content consumption side, while Hindi continues to be leading the consumption — regional music now contributes to 35 per cent of the overall consumption, led by Punjabi music at 15 per cent at Gaana. "On the tech front, the most remarkable innovation is in widespread voice search adoption and cutting-edge tech like AI and Machine Learning that now help us offer a more personalised music experience," Agarwal says and tells you that they are steadily making their way into podcasts and the originals space.

"These genres allow us the flexibility to be creative and cater to certain niche audiences that we wouldn't have otherwise been able to reach, while offering us a great way to retain users over a longer period of time. The content consumption patterns of these niche categories also show immense promise to be integrated into the mainstream in about a year or two. That is exactly why even they require a great deal of front-loaded investment, we are committed to both," Agarwal says.

'It's important to be versatile'

SHALINI SAKSENA speaks with singer-composer VISHAL MISHRA about his latest video, with 4 million views, in which he features

■What is your latest track about?

The song is called Takda Rava. This is my second single. The song is very close and special to me since this is the first time I am doing a fusion of R&D and Pop; this had not been done in the country for a long time. The last time, I did Sajna Ve and Kaise Hua, people wanted me to do a Punjabi song. But I wanted to do something that reflected me, my independent music must showcase what my personality is. Hence, Takda Rava happened. It has a beautiful guitar solo. I am also part of the video where I am dancing.

■How was the experience of being in front of the camera?

This is the second independent single. Also, I have been shooting for my songs. People say I am camera friendly though I don't believe them. I like to meet people, I like being on the sets. I like to be part of different vibrations. If people like it, I think it is worth it. Overall, it has been a great experience.

■Would you agree that it is important to be versatile?

It is very important to be versatile. It is important to cater to the people's expectations. This is because the moment you don't do this, when people are eyeing you, there is a line that you have to meet every time. People expect your music to work every time. Your intent has to be correct all the time. I only make music that makes people comfortable.

■Is it tough to do this all the time?

Not really. People are too similar. We do the same thing, just the mannerism may be different. There is no pressure of a different expectation. I make music that makes me comfortable and the people. I hope that it acts as a companion for the people.

■You have sung many romantic numbers. Has that been a coincident?

I have sung many dance numbers as well like Ghungroo and Rafta Rafta. But sometimes, the romantic songs become big and household songs and people start associating you with that genre.

■Is the independent music reaching saturation?

There is so much that is happening in this space. It is great time for any kind of music. Now, independent singers are being given space in Bollywood like Guru Randhawa, Badshah, Neha Kakkar and Honey Singh. I am happy to sail on both boats — indie and playback.

■Do you find it tough to sing for other composers?

Not really. I am a singer-songwriter. I don't understand this categorisation. People should be treated as musicians. But we are a bit finicky here in India. In the West, there is no categorisation. I recently, sung for MM Kreeme. If I get a song which I want to be part of, I have to be choosy since I don't want to over cook my voice. I sing only a few on my songs as well. It is a conscious decision.

■Is the industry facing any challenges?

There are so many releases, this is both a curse and a blessing. To fit good talent is tough since even bad music can reach you. People are prone to get attracted to it.

■What next?

I have released 13 songs, I am about to release 13 more. There is Saand Ki Aankh. I am also doing two indie songs as well.

WEEKLY NATTER

SPIKE LEE AND ANUPAM KHER IN ONE FRAME

Actor Anupam Kher is currently in the US, where he is busy with the shoot of his show New Amsterdam. The versatile star has been gaining accolades for his performance in the show and the success of his recent book Lessons Life Taught Me, Unknowingly.

Amid a busy schedule and handling his work in the US and back home in India, the actor decided to visit the ongoing US Open Tennis Championship where he got a surprise.

Anupam Kher bumped into acclaimed Hollywood director Spike Lee. The Academy Award-winning filmmaker, whose film BlacKkKlansman, got multiple nominations at the Oscar and won the Academy Award for Best Adapted Screenplay.

Anupam Kher's Bollywood work has reached global status and Spike Lee too was aware of his films.

CLEAN UP THE COASTS

With the seasonal changes growing each year — hotter and longer summers and lashing monsoons — we can see the effects in our daily lives! In order to work towards a better environment, this International Coastal Clean Up Day, Terence Lewis joins hands with Afroz Shah to clean up the Versova Beach in Mumbai.

The ace dancer, choreographer and reality show judge was seen actively helping volunteers clean up the beach location as they cleared the remnants of plastic and other synthetic materials that result in marine pollution.

Urging people to give up the use of plastic, Terence says: "We are a country that worships Nature as our God and we have forgotten that the ocean is the cradle of the origin of life! This is a situation which is not going to change over night but we will collectively need to take efforts to beat the raising levels of pollution to make a better tomorrow. In order to beat this, let's make a conscious effort to minimise the use of plastic and non-degradable materials."

DREAM COME TRUE MOMENT FOR ABHILASH

Actor Abhilash Chaudhary who was seen in Paltan and Tubelight will be playing pivotal role in The Zoya Factor. It stars Sonam Kapoor and Dulquer Salmaan in lead.

Talking about the film and his role, he said: "The film is about a novel with the same name written by Anuja Chauhan. I can't say more about the film's story but if you read the book it's all about a girl Zoya, superstitious things and Cricket. My character is of an opening batsman of Indian Cricket Team in the film, Shivi, he is an attacking batsman."

On talking about his rapport with costars: "Dulquer Salmaan is a fantastic personality. He is humble and down to earth. Director Abhishek Sir was too good, he creates a cool and friendly environment during the shoots. And working with Sonam Kapoor I can say it's a dream come true for me. I saw her in Sawariya and since then I m a big fan of her. When I got to know that I am going to shoot with Sonam, I was left stunned.

Chaudhary will also be seen in Commando 3.

PRIORITISING STRATEGIC ECONOMIC COOPERATION

The Vladivostok Summit held earlier this month consolidates two decades of calibrated decisions by India and Russia to give a forward-looking agenda to their bilateral partnership in three core areas — economic, energy and defence cooperation

The 20th India-Russia Summit at Vladivostok on September 4-5, 2019 marked the first visit by an Indian Prime Minister, Narendra Modi, to the Russian Far East. It placed the port city and its surrounding region in the eye of a bold joint initiative to energise “strong, multifaceted trade and economic cooperation as the foundation for further expanding the range of India-Russia relations”.

Speaking at the Joint Press Conference with President Putin, India's Prime Minister emphasised that the partnership between India and Russia was based on “trust”. The basis for this “trust” is rooted in the first India-Russia Summit held in New Delhi in October 2000, when the two countries signed a Declaration on Strategic Partnership. At that time, Russia was emerging from a decade of political and economic downturn following the disintegration of the Soviet Union. India was emerging from the first phase of her momentous economic reforms. The overall objective of the India-Russia partnership was designed to create strategic autonomy for both countries.

The first summit took place after India's nuclear weapons tests of May 11-13, 1998, and newly elected President Putin's pledge on May 7, 2000 to make Russia “a country that its citizens are proud of and is respected internationally”. The decision taken by former Indian Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee and President Putin to institutionalise the India-Russia Summit mechanism annually has withstood the test of time. At Vladivostok, India and Russia asserted that in “successfully coping with the turbulent realities of the contemporary world” they have “never been and will not be susceptible to outside influence”.

Rejecting “unilateral coercive measures not based on international law”, the Summit called for “strengthening” multilateralism and underlined the “primacy of international law”. Prime Minister Modi said that “both countries understand that we need a multipolar world to achieve peace and stability”. Russia reiterated its support for India's permanent membership of the UN Security Council. At their joint press conference, both leaders underlined the bonds that link India and Russia together, with President Putin highlighting the deep mutual interest in “each other's culture, history and moral values”.

The Summit consolidated two decades of calibrated decisions by India and Russia to give a forward-looking agenda to their bilateral partnership in three core areas — economic, energy and defence cooperation. In each area, the two countries prioritised the role of investments, manufacturing, employment and technology as catalysts for their burgeoning partnership. They agreed to integrate innovation in high technology products in telecommunications, pharmaceuticals, robotics, artificial intelligence and nanotechnologies into this framework.

ECONOMIC COOPERATION

The potential of economic cooperation to strengthen the “special and privileged strategic partnership” between India and Russia has remained largely untapped, despite several initiatives taken over the past 20 years. Bilateral trade has gradually increased from $1.5 billion in 2000 to its current annual level of about $11 billion, well short of the declared target of $30 billion by 2025.

The Vladivostok Summit resulted in a joint initiative to utilise the “immense energy of the private industry”, in Prime Minister Modi's words, to turn this situation around. In addition to energy and defence cooperation, the economic partnership would target the pharmaceuticals, agriculture, civil aviation, railways, ship building, space, education and tourism sectors. The new strategy unveiled at Vladivostok integrates four supportive measures to increase Russian business participation in the Make in India programme, along with an increased Indian business participation in investment projects in Russia.

First, a bilateral inter-governmental agreement on the promotion and protection of mutual investments is to be negotiated to anchor this initiative. Second, steps would be taken to address non-tariff barriers to bilateral trade, including through broader discussions on a Trade Agreement between India and the Eurasian Economic Union. Third, coordinating support would be rendered by the investment offices of Russia in India and India in Russia. Fourth, the India-Russia Strategic Economic Dialogue mechanism set up after the 2018 New Delhi Summit would be geared to promote “cohesive and mutually beneficial cooperation in core sectors”.

Building on the initial attempts made in 2001 to bring the states of India and provinces of Russia into the framework of economic cooperation, the Summit envisaged interaction between Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Haryana and Goa with the 11 provinces of Russia's Far East to provide depth to this process. Prime Minister Modi mentioned the “coal industry, the diamond industry, the lumber industry, as well as agriculture and tourism” as the specific focus of this interaction, which could impact on “exploring cooperation on temporary placement of skilled manpower from India” in Russia's Far East.

The broad vision behind India's historic economic engagement at the highest level with Russia's Far East was brought out by Prime Minister Modi at the plenary session of the Eastern Economic Forum at Vladivostok on September 5, 2019. He said: “India will provide a $1 billion line of credit to further contribute to the development of the Far East. This is the first time that we are giving a line of credit to a particular region of a country. My Government's Act East Policy has actively engaged with East Asia. Today's announcement will prove to be the take-off point of the Act Far East policy and it is my firm belief that this step adds a new dimension to our economic diplomacy. We will be active participants in the development of the regions of our friendly countries according to their priorities.”

ENERGY COOPERATION

The primary objective of India-Russia energy cooperation has been India's quest for energy security, and Russia's interest in exporting its huge energy reserves on a long-term predictable basis to India, one of the biggest importers of energy in the world. The Vladivostok Summit discussed partnership in nuclear, oil and gas sectors within this framework, integrating it with the new thrust on economic cooperation.

Both leaders stressed civil nuclear cooperation as an “important component of strategic partnership”. Prime Minister Modi emphasised the significance of “localisation of nuclear power plants” with reference to the new reactors being constructed by Russia at Kudankulam, which will strengthen India's nuclear reactor construction capabilities, including in manufacturing and in expanding her pool of skilled manpower. President Putin highlighted bilateral cooperation in Kudankulam as a “flagship joint project” and anticipated that “at least 12 Russian-designed nuclear power plants will be built within the next 20 years” in India. This would provide the basis for an increase in nuclear trade and technological cooperation between Russia and India, including in “joint manufacturing of equipment and fuel”. The Summit welcomed the success of India-Russia cooperation in constructing the Rooppur Nuclear Power Plant in Bangladesh, which motivated them to look at similar joint cooperation projects for nuclear power in third world countries.

It is significant that during the past 20 years India and Russia have been able to outline such a forward-looking nuclear energy partnership, which is in consonance with their international legal obligations on the peaceful uses of nuclear energy. Russia reiterated its strong support to India's membership of the Nuclear Suppliers Group.

India's investments in the oil and gas sector of Russia have crossed $15 billion, including her stake of $2.7 billion in the Sakhalin-1 project in Russia's Far East from 2001. Russia's Rosneft-led consortium, which acquired India's Essar Oil (since renamed as Nayara Energy) for $13 billion in 2017, is expected to expand the capacity of India's second largest oil refinery at Vadinar in Gujarat, which currently refines 20 million tonnes of oil annually.

An agreement on Hydrocarbons cooperation for 2019-2024 was announced during the Summit, which welcomed the implementation of mutually beneficial long-term partnerships between India's Consortium of Oil and Gas Public Sector Undertakings and Russia's Rosneft, and between Gas Authority of India Limited (GAIL) and Russia's giant Gazprom. The projects being implemented included Vankorneft and Taas-Yuryakh in eastern Siberia, the location of one of Russia's largest oil and gas reserves, and a contract for long-term supply of Russian Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) to India.

This approach is designed to create a strategic alignment for the supply and processing of Russian energy to India. A long-term predictable arrangement will mitigate the current volatility in supply and prices in global energy supplies to India. The impact of this emerging alignment will be felt in emerging partnerships in the inland and maritime transportation, port modernisation and energy processing sectors.

DEFENCE COOPERATION

President Putin accompanied Prime Minister Modi on a tour of the Zvezda ship-building complex near Vladivostok, which enabled the two leaders to spend two hours together in the informal discussions. This continued a practice initiated with their meeting in Sochi in May 2018. The Russian leader's public references to the “many Russian made ships” in the Indian Navy including the aircraft carrier Vikramaditya and leased nuclear powered submarine Chakra were significant markers for the Summit agreement on preparing “a framework for cooperation on reciprocal logistics support”.

At the Summit's joint press conference, Prime Minister Narendra Modi termed the “steps that are giving our defence cooperation a solid foundation of co-manufacturing” a boost to Indian industry. President Putin emphasised the important role of “joint projects in India” to illustrate that “Russia does more than supply weapons to India”.

A significant takeaway from the Vladivostok Summit for future defence cooperation was the agreement for manufacturing spares of Russian/Soviet-origin equipment in India. This agreement represents a sustainable solution to a long-standing problem that has festered for almost two decades on the ground. By upgrading India-Russia defence cooperation, opening the doors for joint development and production of military equipment, components, and spare parts, as well as after-sales service activities, a visible economic dimension has been added to defence cooperation. At the heart of this new activity will be Russian participation through investments in joint ventures and technology in the Make in India programme, with its “spin-off” benefits for employment and technology diffusion.

THE GEOPOLITICAL DIMENSION

The objective of prioritising economic cooperation to boost the India-Russia partnership will be require a supportive geo-political framework, especially for connectivity between India and Russia's Far East.

The reference to an “open and inclusive Indo-Pacific region” in Prime Minister Modi's address to the Eastern Economic Forum was accompanied by the announcement of a new maritime route between Chennai and Vladivostok to “increase connectivity between the regions”, which would traverse the South China Sea. Despite Russia's reported hesitations on officially using the term “Indo-Pacific”, the Summit declaration's reference to consultations on “integration and development initiatives in the greater Eurasian space and in the regions of the Indian and Pacific Oceans” denotes an emerging strategic convergence between India and Russia on an “inclusive” Indo-Pacific regional strategy. This would incorporate not only maritime connectivity in the Pacific, but also critical maritime connectivity routes in the western Indo-Pacific such as the straits of Hormuz and the Red Sea, as well as connectivity projects such as Chabahar in Iran and emerging maritime routes using the Arctic.

The Summit declaration identified cooperation in the Arctic and cyber security as emerging areas for India-Russia partnership. Russia's long experience in deep sea fishing and deep-sea mining could provide the building blocks for the concept of the Blue Economy of the Indo-Pacific, as part of India's SAGAR Indian Ocean strategy articulated by Prime Minister Modi in March 2015. Incorporating these areas into the special and privileged strategic partnership between India and Russia could catalyse the emergence of India as a maritime power.

The book is a well-argued account of how the caste system in India has been distorted by the self-styled liberals who take the gullible for a ride under the pretext of a casteless society, writes KUMAR CHELLAPPAN

The complexities of caste system

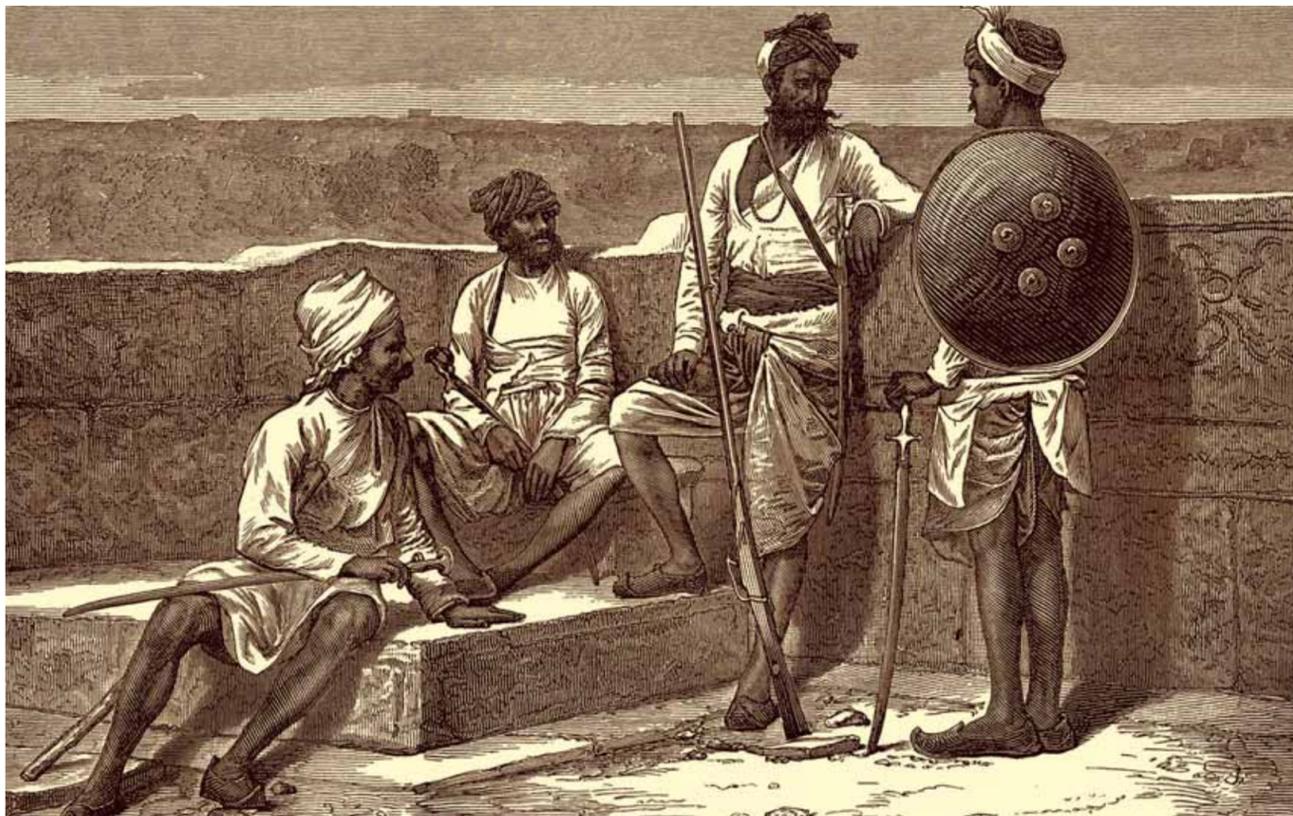

A 131 page book packed with shocking but well researched facts, data and information. That's how "Caste As Social Capital", authored by Prof R Vaidyanathan can be described. The data painstakingly collected by Prof Vaidyanathan and presented in an articulate manner points at a big reservation fraud. The book is an account of how the caste system in Indian has been distorted, mutilated and misinterpreted by the self styled liberals who have taken the gullible for a ride under the pretext of salvation and casteless society.

The modern English education introduced in the subcontinent by Thomas Babington Macaulay during the colonial rule of British has succeeded in creating generations of Indian youth suffering from serious inferiority complex. They have not read Sanskrit or Kalidasa or Megha Sandesham and hence are ignorant about the rich Indian heritage. For them, what matters is the manufactured and distorted history inculcated in the Indian psyche by the Macaulay designed education. "Our English schools are flourishing wonderfully... The effect of this education on the Hindoos is prodigious. No Hindoo, who has received an English education, ever remains sincerely attached to his religion... It is my firm belief that, if our plans of education are followed up, there will not be a single idolater among the respectable classes in Bengal thirty years hence..." Macaulay wrote to his father in 1836. Needles to say, the modern day Indians have done Macaulay proud by living a life as scripted by him way back in the 1830s.

While the colonial masters aided by evangelists and proselytisers had a free run all over the country, the great truth about the rich cultural heritage of this nation lies buried thousand fathoms deep. Prof Vaidyanathan, through his book is trying to bring the real picture out in the public domain.

What "Caste As Social Capital" tries to tell the readers is that despite the protests by the Left and Liberals against the Indian caste system, it has more advantages than disadvantages. And the most shocking disclosure made by Prof Vaidyanathan is that the Reservation System practiced in India is a big fraud perpetrated on the Hindus of India by forces which want the annihilation of the Sanatana Dharma.

The Mandal Commission recommendations were implemented in early 1990s by politicians with selfish motives.

Though there were widespread agitations against the recommendations that "robbed" a major chunk of seats in educational institutions and government jobs from the merit category and placed them at the disposal of communities categorised as Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribe, Other Backward Communities and Most Backward Communities, the mainstream media sought to downplay the same to suit their business interests.

How many among us remember the martyrdom of Rajiv Goswami, the New Delhi youth who tried self immolation to protest against the then VP Singh government's decision to implement the Mandal Commission Recommendations. India was not the same after the implementation of those recommendations. Prof Vaidyanathan says that the recommendations were erred and out of sync with reality. The quota and per cent of reservation announced by the Mandal Commission were based on flawed numbers, facts and figures. The last census in India was held in 1931 and the recommendations of the Commission were based on the data collected in that census. For more than six decades, there were no caste census of any kind in India and setting apart 27 per cent quota for OBC against the findings of the 1931 census was against all norms, says the professor.

The government brought in reservation as an act of atonement for the kind of discrimination the SC, ST and the Backwards had to allegedly suffer in the hands of the upper caste and Brahmins, so goes the argument. But a research by renowned Gandhian, Dharampal, has proved that there was no discrimination of any kind against the SC, ST and the OBCs at any time of the history.

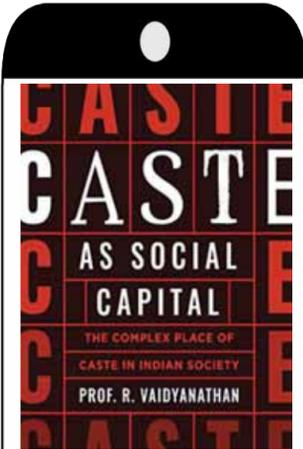

"Dharampal discovered that a fairly detailed survey of school and college education has been undertaken by the British administration in the erstwhile Madras Presidency Area. According to the survey conducted between 1822 and 1825 in the Madras Presidency (that is, the whole of the Indian States of Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh, and parts of Odisha, Kerala, Karnataka, and the union territory of Lakshadweep), 11,575 schools and 1094 colleges were then in existence in the Presidency and the number of students in them were 157, 195 and 5431 respectively," writes Prof Vaidyanathan. Shudras (backward castes) constituted 70 to 80 per cent of the students in Tamil speaking areas, while the per cent of backward caste students in Oriya speaking areas was 62 per cent!

Interestingly, share of the Brahmins in Tamil-speaking areas of the Madras Presidency were a mere 13 per cent in South Arcot and 23 per cent in Madras. That much for the leaders who demand still more reservation for the backward, SC and ST sections of the population!

Another report by J Dent Secretary, Fort George, dated February 21, 1825 states that out of 1,88, 680 scholars in all the collectorates of Madras Presidency, Brahmins made up 23 per cent while Shudras constituted 45 per cent.

The author has successfully demolished all the arguments put forward by the political leadership justifying the need for continuation of reservation, and that too the most unscientific and crude form of reservation. "The assumption made by the Mandal Commission based on the 1931 Census and other parameters that more than 50 per cent of the population belongs to OBC may not be true any longer. The National Sample

CASTE AS SOCIAL CAPITAL
Prof R Vaidyanathan,
Westland Books, ₹299

Survey 2003 suggests that the OBCs may only constitute around 36 per cent of the population and not 50 per cent as was assumed earlier. If one excludes Muslim OBCs, then the figure falls to 32 per cent, according to the NSS. The National Family Health Statistics conducted in 1998 suggests that the population of OBCs is around 32 per cent which is fairly close to the NSS figures," (Page 10-11, Caste As Social Capital).

While demolishing and exposing the flaws in the claims by the powerful pro-reservation lobby, Prof Vaidyanathan has argued that the caste system in India is not that bad and has done a lot for the economic and social upliftment of the poor and the downtrodden. The days of Marx and Engels who argued that religion is the opium for the masses are long gone. The religions are alive and kicking. Caste and religions are the ultra modern social networking institutions, more progressive and advanced than the five-star clubs we see in metropolitan cities, membership of which is a coveted honour for social upward mobility.

"Caste As Social Capital" is a must read for all those who shun castes and religion as well as for those who find solace in them.

Translated from Bengali by Tun Tun Mukherjee, The Parrot Green Saree is the story of two women, two generations and two worlds moulded out of memory, expectations, and desires. Set primarily in the United States, this is also the story of displacement and loss, of a remembered homeland, of political and personal battles, of individual freedom. And it is about rebirth (in Bengali, the novel was titled Phoenix).

A few well-meaning folk who visit me hold my hand, weep some, and say they're sorry for me. I don't know what to do, so I pat them gently on the thigh (ladies only) and say, "Don't worry, it'll all be okay. They look at me strangely and mumble that I'm strong.

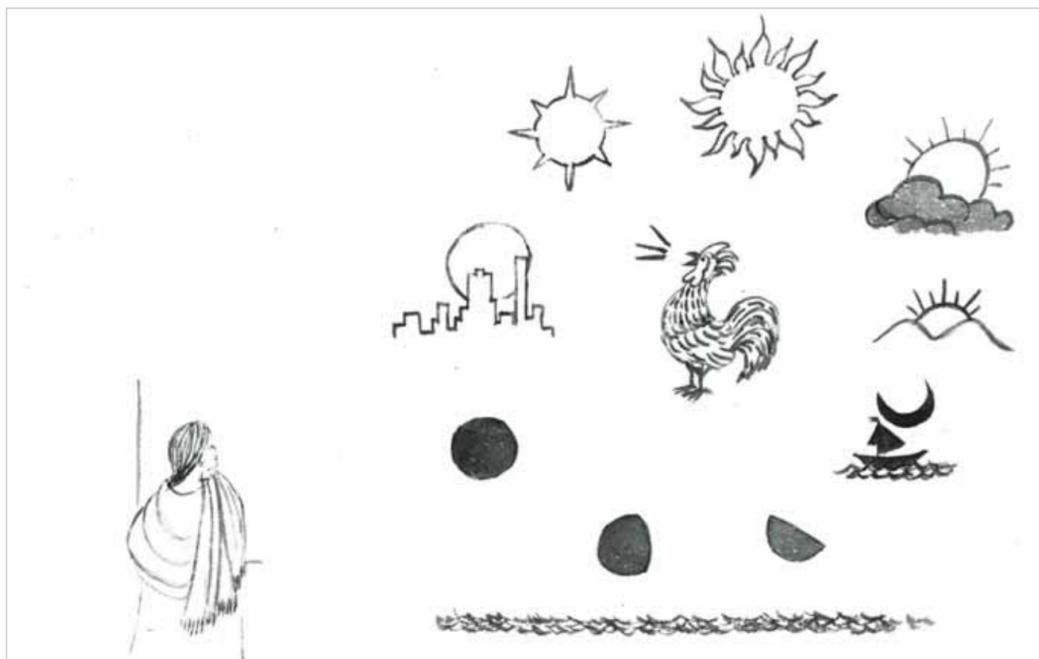

I've always been strong-hearted and proud of it. So am I not sad? When I was first diagnosed with Stage One of an aggressive type of breast cancer, I was stunned and disappointed in myself but quickly found my resolve. I chose to fight cheerfully, selecting the best doctors, eating healthy, praying hard, sending out affirmations to the universe, with a deep belief and faith that I'd be okay.

Then I learnt hope was a bad thing.

A year later, I was told my breast cancer had grown back and metastasised (metastasis is when your cancer has spread from its primary site to the rest of your body; it is also called advanced cancer, and the jury is out on its cure.) I googled it on my phone and to be doubly sure, on my laptop. It said the same thing. Now I became unimaginably sad. But I bit my lip and kept my chin up in front of the traitors (doctors) and the caretakers (family). Like every bad Bollywood film ever, I gulped and told the husband that something had gone into my eye. And then came the waterworks. I cried into the pillow, at the mirror, into the curtain, in the shower and to a few friends who caught me offguard. The rest I avoided. As much as it's important to cry your share, I also believe there's a time to grieve and a time to snap back. Self-pity is a bottomless pit. So now I've crawled out, and walk noisily around the house with a shawl draped around my shoulders like Rajesh Khanna in Anand, scolding the husband and teaching him for the two-hundredth

Dukh, Dard and a Season of Hope

ANANYA MUKHERJEE lost the fight to cancer on November 18, 2018, but her book is one of hope and courage, not only for those living with cancer, and their caregivers and loved ones, but for anyone determined to live life on their own terms despite adversity. Excerpt:

time how to fold a towel correctly, with the right side up. I'm past my Dukh.

Do I have Dard?
Oh yes, of all kinds that come with an illness like this one. But heartbreak and bikini wax still top my list in the 'most painful' charts.

Do I have Hope?
Difficult to say. It's a long answer. The husband says, "Try starting from the conclusion.' I pretend I haven't heard.

I stay on the nineteenth floor of an apartment in Thane now and though Ka the crow doesn't visit here (quite a long flight from Bandra, with all the planes coming in the way), there's a Crazy Cock down in the slum nearby that crows shrilly all day. For decency's sake, let's call it the Crazy

Rooster. I hear his vociferous crowing first at the crack of dawn, then he calls boisterously to the neighbourhood at 10.39 a.m., next I record his loud-speaker-like pitch at 1.21 p.m., then he yells his lungs out at 3 p.m. and so on, all bloody day. Clearly his body clock is screwed. Then I suddenly remember it's spring, my favourite season, a season for craziness and hope. My sukhdikh ki saathin, Neha Khullar, is visiting me. We stand at my bedroom window and look out at the dull blue water of the Thane creek. I tell her that its stillness unnerves me. She listens carefully, then cracks a joke like friends do to distract; I throw my head back and laugh. The sun sets between the brown-green hills and a silver moon rises above the water, just like a watercolour in motion. We stuff our faces with food, giggle into the night and look at the highway traffic till 2 a.m., till Crazy Rooster goes off again.

To be able to breathe, walk noisily, listen to a rooster crowing, scold a husband, laugh with a friend and look at something so beautiful, is in itself a miracle. This time I'm not banking on the hope of a better tomorrow. I'm just glad to have had a beautiful spring day. A day of life is still life!

Arif Khan vs secular politics frozen in 1986

Arif Mohammad Khan, who rose to fame by quitting the Congress in protest against the then Rajiv Gandhi Government's stand on the Shah Bano case, was once again in spotlight recently due to two momentous events in the Indian polity.

First, because of his vociferous support to the passage of the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Act, 2019 (hereby 2019 Act), by the Narendra Modi Government, which abolished the practice of instant triple talaq among Hanafi Sunni Muslim population. The 2019 Act is both a personal and political victory for Arif Khan's relentless struggle against attacks and vilification by the conservative and fundamentalist Sunni Muslim religious bodies over four decades. The second reason for his grabbing the headlines is Arif Khan's appointment as the Governor of Kerala, ending his political oblivion, particularly from the Government office. The critics, mostly from secular and Muslim intelligentsia and political spectrum, have seen the gubernatorial appointment as a reward for his support to the 2019 Act and accused him of being an opportunist. Such criticism is perfectly understandable as Arif Khan has long defied the "secular framing" of a politician with Muslim identity as primarily representative of Muslim community and understanding of Indian politics in terms of secularism vs communalism.

Beyond these two immediate contexts, a more serious reason for public attention lies in his constant refusal to play the role of "Muslim politics" in accordance with the rule book of "secular politics" and of so-called "secular" political parties. In this political tradition, both "secular politics" and "Muslim politics" complement each other; wherein "secular politics" tends to demonstrate its sensitivity towards accommodating the religious demands of Muslim community to affirm its secular identity in exchange for Muslim electoral support but without allowing the Muslim political agency to wear the mantle of Indian nationhood. One consequence of this interplay of secular politics and Muslim politics is that Muslims have become "other" of Indian nationhood more due to internal dynamics of "politics of Muslim identity" and less due to larger external Indian political process. None other than Arif Khan in contemporary times signifies the dilemma of a Muslim politician to appropriate his Indian national identity while either performing the constitutional duty as elected/nominated member of Parliament to represent Indian people or even in participating in public debates as an ordinary (Muslim) citizen. Throughout his political career and scholarly engagement spanning more than four decades, Arif Khan asserted his Indian identity in public role while being proud of his Islamic/Muslim heritage, and forcefully intervened in the matters of national importance, including the issues connected with Muslim community from the vantage of Indian citizen and national unity. His scholarly work Text and Context: Quran and Contemporary Challenges (2010) reveals this approach. Rooted in Indian ethos, he did not shy away from reflecting critically on the role of State administration in the 2002 Gujarat riots and Goa speech (April 2002) of the then Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee. It is this sense of belonging to the "idea of India" mediated through his inclusive understanding of Islam and India's plural ethos that Arif Khan forcefully opposed the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act, 1986 (hereby 1986 Act), brought by the then Rajiv Gandhi Government (of which he himself was a part), at the cost of his political career, and he also took initiative in convincing the Modi Government to enact the 2019 Act. In both instances, Arif Khan primarily acted from the point of view of constitutional and Islamic values and ethics. For him, the 1986 Act constricts the constitutional right to life of divorced Muslim women and thus violates the constitutional and Islamic notion of justice; while the Act of 2019 expands constitutional right of equality to Muslim married woman, at least to an extent that the law protects Muslim married woman from arbitrary exercise of pronouncement of instant triple talaq and its immediate effect on dissolution of marriage. This explains his vociferous opposition to the former and support to the latter. Interestingly, in both circumstances, Arif Khan emerged as "anti-Muslim" figure in the Muslim collective imagination, primarily shaped through pan Indian network of Muslim religious clergy and its control over Muslim religious institutions including mosque, dargah, khanqah, madrassa, and maktab. With his "anti-Muslim" tag, Arif Khan quickly lost his relevance for the "secular" political parties, which are accustomed to express secularism primarily through deference to Muslim/Islamic identity. Almost all secular political parties, whether national or regional, save for a brief moment with Jan Morcha and BSP, shunned Arif Khan in post-1986 phase for his refusal to play "Muslim politics". Arif Khan as "anti-Muslim" figure in the collective Muslim imagination rests on the ground that he legitimises the interference of (non-Muslim) Government in the domain of Muslim personal law/Islamic jurisprudence, which today mostly flows from closed, narrow, insular, hierarchal, modern legalistic vision of Islam. Herein lies the dilemma of "Muslim politics": should it be guided to use Indian Constitution, democracy and secularism only for the purpose of expansion and consolidation of Islamic religiosity and identity at the cost of Indian national identity?; or should it be envisioned as an integral part of larger Indian political process to strengthen the constitutional opportunity structure to empower themselves as well as to democratise its internal structure by injecting the State mandated reform? Unfortunately, it is the former that has dominated Muslim lives and as a consequence a vast section of Muslims has failed to utilise the latter. Arif Khan has always preferred the latter course of Muslim public action without subscribing to the identity-centred discourse of Muslim politics. However his "reformist politics" collapsed in 1986 Act with the complete abdication of the modern state in upholding the decision of Supreme Court and injecting democratic reform among the Muslim community. One consequence of the political exit and later political marginalisation of Arif Khan is the weakening of reformist voices within the community on the one hand and increasing assertion of conservative Islamic religious groups in the political domain of the country on the other. The increasing Islamisation of Muslim spaces, strengthening of Muslim religious boundary and lack of reformist process within the community — all combined — have significantly contributed to the "process of otherisation" of the community and produced "siege mentality", incapacitating a large section of Muslim youths from participating in the developmental process. The test of a liberal-secular-democratic state lies in the protection of well-being of the minority community and ensuring a representation in the power structure of the country. It does not lie in its reluctance to carry out the meaningful reform in the domain of personal laws belonging to minority community on the ground that it must come from the community first. By pursuing this line of argument for decades, the Indian state contributed to the strengthening of conservative religious voices among the Muslim community and indirectly kept a large number of Muslims away from the politics of development. A liberal state has constitutional mandate and duty to undertake those measures that enable the people to become more equal and capable to exercise the freedom of choices. From this point of view, the 2019 Act, irrespective of political intention of the Modi Government, is a welcome move. Interestingly, while a good section of "secular jamaat" had openly come out in support of Arif Khan in 1986 for his fight against the capitulation of Congress Government before Muslim fundamentalist bodies, particularly the All India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB), today the same secular jamaat is circumspect in extending their support to Arif Khan for 2019 Bill. It is partly because of the fact that in 1986 the "secular jamaat" had found in Arif Khan a struggling liberal Muslim politician. With the Modi Government, Arif Khan ceases to be a liberal Muslim figure and hence not worthy of support of "secular Jamaat" irrespective of the merit of legislation. In the context of the 2019 Act, a section of media personalities from "secular jamaat" deliberately framed Arif Khan as "Muslim leader of a Muslim community" despite his well established track record of conducting himself as one of Indian national leader, and then tried hard, though unsuccessfully, to squeeze him for implications of the Modi rule for the well-being of Muslim community! Given such secular obsession with politics of Muslim identity, it is not difficult to agree with Arif Khan's observation that Indian secular politics has remained frozen in 1986.

It is his sense of belonging to the idea of plural India, mediated through his inclusive understanding of Islam, which made Arif Mohammad Khan a crusader for Muslim women's rights, opposing the 1986 Act that superseded the Supreme Court's Shah Bano judgment. However, the increasing Islamisation of Muslim spaces, strengthening of Muslim religious boundary and lack of reformist process within the community have significantly contributed to the "process of otherisation" of the community and produced "siege mentality", incapacitating a large section of Muslim youths from participating in the developmental process

PERSPECTIVE

Brexit widening UK-Northern Ireland chasm

The exit of Britain from the EU would weaken the bloc. The UK being one of the wealthiest and influential nations, its departure might impair the cohesiveness and effectiveness of the EU. Further, it may trigger more such exit demands from some other members, delivering a potential threat to the survival of the EU. International Monetary Fund (IMF) has already warned about the economic impact of Brexit — reducing trade, investment and economic growth — on the entire the EU region. It would make the mega investors nervous and could spark a sharp drop in the stock markets and volatile swings in the currency exchange rates across the continent.

What haunts Northern Ireland at the moment is none other than Brexit, which is gradually opening up the old wounds of the historic Good Friday Agreement. The very idea of Brexit has destabilised politics by forcing people to take sides between Britain and Ireland

MAKHAN SALKIA

Since June 23, 2016, when the final Brexit vote took place and the majority of the Britishers took a hard decision to leave the EU, the sign of elation has already died down in the polity, economy and society of Britain. Since then two Prime Ministers — David Cameron and Theresa May — had to resign for not being able to manage either the post-Brexit political crisis or the complex negotiations with the EU. Today Britain is at a crossroads and the EU is divided.

What makes the Brexit process more complicated is Britain's relationship with Northern Ireland. Currently, the UK is a part of the EU's customs union and the single market. The problem is that if Brexit at all happens, it will have to leave both the market and the bloc. Once this happens, the status of the UK-Northern Ireland border will turn into a customs border, coming along with traditional checks and controls. This will entail entirely a new system, full of restrictions and creating new problems for both the traders and the common people. In addition to practical and business hurdles, what concerns the people of Northern Ireland most is the new psychological and political situation that might emerge out of the Brexit. In December 2017, in a European Council meeting, the UK and the EU adopted a joint report, wherein the former pledged to avoid a hard border. But the most unfortunate part of this process is that Cameron and May could not map out a plan to resolve the Northern Ireland border issue. As the Brexit confusion mounted, the EU insisted on adding a "backstop" provision to the withdrawal agreement. This simply means that if the UK can't offer any alternative arrangements, then this backstop idea indicates that Northern Ireland will continue to remain in the EU customs union and full regulatory alignment with the single market, mainly for goods. This essentially eliminates all the upcoming checks and controls heralded by a new post-Brexit scenario. The British Government's stated claims, such as leaving the EU's customs union, single market, preventing a hard border with Northern Ireland and ensuring a countrywide approach to Brexit, seem completely unimaginable by the new administration of Boris Johnson. He is running out of time, ideas and political commitment in this high stakes stand-off. Brexit has potential to affect the historic Good Friday Agreement or Belfast Agreement signed on April 10, 1998, between the UK and the Irish Government and most of the political parties in Northern Ireland on how Northern Ireland should be governed. It made it clear to the international community that Northern Ireland will remain part of the UK unless there is consent of the majority of the people in this part of the island. Thereafter, the creation of an assembly with a power-sharing executive largely ensured the representation of both the warring communities — the Protestants and the Catholics — in policy making. Again the EU membership of both Ireland and the UK made this fragile peace more viable by enabling quick communications and by reducing physical, psychological and most importantly, economic barriers for the benefit of this small island. However, the sad part of the Belfast Agreement is that it has not been able to bring forth a durable solution to the most intractable constitutional questions looming large over the Northern Irelanders. What haunts Northern Ireland at the moment is none other than Brexit, which is gradually opening up the old wounds of the historic Good Friday Agreement. The very idea of Brexit has destabilised politics by forcing people to take sides between Britain and Ireland. At least for more than two decades of the Agreement, people who fought for establishing their religious identities were able to take a break from their identity politics of the past: the Unionists remained part of the UK and felt reassured that the province's future could only be changed through an open poll whereas the Nationalists Irish had a greater say in local affairs. But today, the inconclusive and the most confusing Brexit process has reignited the old passions and caused polarisation along the Orange (Unionists) and the Green (Nationalists). Finally, what brings home utter chaos is all but the policy decisions and political uncertainty of the Johnson Government. It is making peace more fragile in Northern Ireland. At the core of the famously unwritten Constitution of the UK is the principle that the PM is there in office as long as he enjoys the confidence of the House of Commons. It's not clear at all whether Johnson has that crucial support. And this is wreaking havoc for Northern Ireland.

BHARAT BHUSHAN PADMADEO

Empower your mind for success

A young graduate, having failed to taste success at many qualifying examinations for different jobs, came asking the other day in a state of desperation: "Sir, what is in store of my destiny? Any luck to get a job in near future? I have tried to put in best during the last three years, but with no luck. Suggest me some puja that may help a poor man like me secure my future." Young man, destiny is not blind, as it doesn't necessarily play out by default in course of usual run of life. Remember, destiny indicators — the reflection of Karmic imprints carried over from the past — are stored in our memory as seed-thoughts. And a seed, though carrying potential to bloom out into a plant, remains inert till it gets a congenial ground, and is then duly nurtured with water and nutrients (chemical or natural fertiliser). Similarly, seed-thought-seeds may offer you with an opportunity when time is ripe for it. Success, however, may still elude, if you are not well geared up to encash the opportunity available. In so far as remedial measure is concerned, belief driven puja mediated by pundits can't help much. The pundit can neither strike upon your inner realms of mind to checkmate its vagaries and optimise your potential, nor manipulate the mindset of the unknown recruiters. The only viable method is to look within yourself, identify, acknowledge and then address the fault lines. Also, improve your focus, sharpen intelligence, and optimise indwelling potential. Empowered thus, you may be able to perform well at the examinations and interviews. That carries better probability of success. You may be putting in long hours towards your studies, which gives a feel that you have endeavoured enough. But bear in mind; physical efforts alone would not suffice. Quality efforts are needed. Should you lack focus, which your astrological chart clearly indicates, you may fail to absorb the subject matters attended. Obviously then, you may not be able to answer well, the questions asked. So, instead of exploring your destiny indicators, and seeking extra-terrestrial support through belief driven pujas, better figure out your own shortcomings through self-reflection, and address them. Often, a disoriented mind is not able to dispassionately identify the inherent fault lines. Let me help you through a look at your astrological pointers.

Lagna lord Venus, and 11th lord Sun identified with fulfillment of desires, occupy the career signifying 10th house. The 10th lord Moon in the 6th house implies success in efforts and against competitors. Moon also beautifully aligned to fiery Mars, makes out an ambitious person bounding with energy. All put together strongly promise a good job. Even government job is not ruled out as would presence of the Sun in the 10th imply. On top of that even benevolent Jupiter occupies the 11th house. Despite such strong indicators, what then stands in the way of its fruition? Mind signifying Moon occupies a dual sign Pisces, which means you have a vacillating mind. You may be continuously breeding thoughts and randomly flirting from one to the other. Also, you are subject to mood swings. Such a distracted mind doesn't let you remain focused to your priority preferences. Moon being trine to the Sun is indicative of a comfort loving person, not keen to take pains. That doesn't let you take timely initiative. How can you expect gain without pain? Here again, Moon locks horns with Uranus, which accounts for his mercurial temperament and erratic conduct. Also, Moon is ill-disposed off to mischievous Neptune. This, in the first place makes you stick to delusional perceptions and beliefs, distanced from ground realities. Second, habitually an escapist who keeps pushing off initiatives to tomorrow. You may not acknowledge truth on its first appearance. Instead, you may prefer continuing with your own line of thinking on hope against hope till pushed to the wall. Saturn's opposition to Mercury speaks of a fixated one-track mind. If all that would not be enough, Mars placed adverse to Jupiter signals an inflated ego, which binds you to self-defined dos and don'ts. Your narrowed vision doesn't let you look beyond even for reality check. So, better get over your habit tendencies, cultivate push, sharpen your intelligence, and improve your focus by following the process suggested. The good thing is that he acknowledged his fault lines and expressed his willingness to reform. Should you sincerely follow the process suggested, I am sure, you may secure a job sooner than later, as already promised in your chart.
