India in 3rd stage? The jury is out

A mass controversy has erupted in Punjab, whether or not India is in the third stage of the pandemic. While a study by the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) cited instances where COVID-19 patients did not establish contact with someone who picked up the infection from abroad, the Centre denied it was a case of community transmission in stage 3 of an outbreak. As the chances of positive cases are rising, states are toying with the idea of imposing cluster outbreak rules. The Centre also aligned with Punjab Chief Minister Captain Amarinder Singh who raised the possibility of the third wave.

WHO backtracks, says it’s cluster spread in India

The Centre has now denied mass community transmission in its State and announced extension of containment zones in states where such measures have been found necessary. However, the Centre’s announcement on extension of the cluster outbreak rules came only after Punjab, because the state had insisted on a third wave of the pandemic. The Centre had said this was because there was no need to panic.

Punjab 2nd state to extend Covid lockdown by 17 days till May 1

Punjab is the second state after Delhi to extend the Covid-19 lockdown. While the Punjab Government on Friday said the lockdown will remain in force till May 1, amid concerns that other states and Chief Ministers are looking into ways to extend it, the Centre also aligned with Punjab Chief Minister Captain Amarinder Singh who raised the possibility of the third wave.

Op SHIELD yields results, random tests soon, says Delhi Minister

With the Supreme Court allowing the Centre to conduct coronavirus surveys and testing, the Cabinet has decided to conduct surveys and testing in the capital. The move is expected to help the Government in assessing the situation in the national capital.

PM to consult CMs today, to take extension call tomorrow

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is likely to announce on Sunday the decision on continuation of lockdown after his interaction with Chief Ministers on Saturday. The Prime Minister has already informed the Centre that the three-week lockdown would be extended by one week to contain the virus.

All government offices to be closed from Tuesday

The Prime Minister has announced that all government offices will be closed from Tuesday. The move is expected to help in containing the spread of the virus.

No classes till June end; HRD mulls e-classroom

The Centre said on Thursday that no classes would be held till June end. The decision on continuation of the lockdown would be announced by the Prime Minister on Saturday following his interaction with chief ministers.

Biden vs Trump

The race to win the White House this November has come down to two old men. White, not perfect men.

According to some scenarios, one scenario is that the president of Donald Trump. Biden is the incumbent in the Oval Office. If the economy is in a pandemic, the president's popularity has been undermined. Meanwhile, the misuse of the power of the US government during the pandemic and social unrest, and other issues, have led to massive protests. At the same time, Trump has been under pressure to act.

In addition, Trump has been under pressure to act.

In conclusion, the outcome of the election will depend on how effectively the candidates address the key issues affecting the American people. It will be a crucial election for the future of the United States.

Australians are bowled over by bowler's bowling

Australian paceman Pat Cummins believes he was lucky to play in the Indian Premier League behind closed doors as it would reduce a degree of "scrappiness" into daily life for the constituting pandemic.

The 26-year-old star player of the year - he took 12 wickets in the 10-match tournament - insisted on March 29 until April 15 that the standard was not as high as usual, although the atmosphere in the bubble at the hotel was not as good as expected or evenCould smell the buildings.

Another problem for Cummins was that the IPL is broadcasting overseas.

The Archer of the tournament - Cummins is contracted to the Kolkata Knight Riders and has a lucrative overseas
