In an effort to further strengthen operational readiness at the volatile Line of Actual Control(LAC)in Ladakh, two indigenously designed and produced light combat helicopter (LCH)are mow deployed in Leh. The helicopters manufactured by the Hindustan Aeronautics Limited(HAL) are there to be pushed into service to support the IAF at any spot at the border at short notice, HAL officials said on Wednesday.

The IAF and Army together need around 160 ICHs and the Defence Acquisition Council (DAC) has approved an initial batch of 15 ICHs. After the familiarisation sorties in the rugged mountain terrain of Himachal Pradesh, the Rafales are likely to conduct practice flights in Ladakh in the coming weeks, sources said. The Rafales came to India from France on July 29 and are now undergoing paces in Indian conditions. The jets are stationed at the Ambala air base. Given the ongoing tension at the LAC with more than three-month old stand-offs and the Chinese increasing its military strength there, the IAF has also taken measures like deploying most of its frontline fighter jets at the forward bases all along the 4,000 km long LAC. They include SU-30s, Jaguars and MIG-29s.

A significant proportion of patients of aplastic anemia (around 30 per cent) die before any definitive treatment is initiated. sminster and Prime Ministers relief fund often due to lack of proper documents, she added. Delay means, risk of contracting fungal infections and increase in drug-resistant bacterial infections increase which further hamper the treatment, point out Dr Ravi Shankar and Dr Savitri Singh in the study. Though the Union Health Ministry, after few days of lockdown period, issued directions for continuing treatment for essential health services including reproductive and maternal health services, newborn care, severe malnutrition, and NCDs including cancer care, palliative care, dialysis, and care of disabled, unfortunately those with Aplastic anemia got ignored.

This despite of the fact that these patients are at the highest risk of death following a break in the treatment of few weeks, notes Dr Radhakrishnan.

Because of the closure of offices and absence of staff, during the lockdown period, there was delay in sanction of usual grants due to the lock-down of offices and inability in generating documents such as income certificate from the tehsils.

"For instance, Suresh and Manish, both our patients received the Government grant after around 3-4 months of applying for the same. But both had died before they could reach the hospital for treatment," lamented the hematologist.

Women legal heirs

SC allows daughters to claim their rights on parental property with retrospective effect in a landmark ruling iving hope to millions of women, who have traditionally been denied a share in their parental property owing to the cultural preference for a son and the idea of "keeping the wealth within the family", the Supreme Court has said that daughters now have a birthright to parental property with retrospective effect. In essence, this allows women to challenge past injustices, coercion and denials and claim restoration of their economic rights. A three-judge Bench headed by Justice Arun Mishra ruled that a Hindu woman's right to be a joint heir to the ancestral property does not depend on whether her father was alive or not when an old segregatory law was amended in 2005. The Hindu Succession (Amendment) Act, 2005 gave Hindu women the right to be coparceners or joint legal heirs with men but did not clarify whether it could apply retrospectively. Not only does the ruling take away the gender bias from inheritance, one that has disempowered girls socially and led to their differential upbringing and value systems, the court also lauded daughters as more suitable and responsible heirs who deserve a share of parental legacy. "A son is a son till he takes him a wife...a daugh-ter is a daughter all of her life," Justice Arun Mishra said while reading out the order "A daughter remains a loving daughter throughout life," he added, emphasising the compassionate nature of women as care-givers. This also clears the decks for settling countless appeals on the issue that have been pending before different High Courts and subordinate courts on whether the amendment would be time-bound or not. Now that its applicability is crystal clear, this will not only open the floodgates for thousands of ancestral property-related disputes that had been put to rest but will also give women and their children, especially those who are not too well-heeled or financially independent, a fallback cushion. Traditionally, women have been denied a share in their fathers' property in the belief that a girl's share is given to her in the form of dowry and that one day she would inherit the property of her in-laws. Some enlightened families may have been reformist of their own accord but this has largely been the accepted social code. Yet it has been erroneous, for most women have been denied a share in the in-laws' ancestral property after the husband's death. Another draw-back among women so far has been their poor or no legal awareness of their status as rightful stakeholders in family affairs. Even if they were aware of their rights, most women have been hesitant to claim their share in family estates as that would have meant going against their own flesh and blood for a piece of land or house. Plus, with most women in India brought up in a patriarchal society, they were made to believe that in case of a marriage going south or their single status, they would be support-ed by their father and in his absence, by the brother. Hence, most of them, over the years, have meekly given up their rights on property in exchange for this familial anchor While mindset changes will only come with time, the ruling of the apex court unfetters those who are willing to stand up for their coparcenary rights.

It is no secret that access to property empowers women economically, provides them with a sense of security and self-worth and strengthens their decision-making powers. Research shows that ownership of property by women has reset the asym metry in gender relations, resulting in reduced domestic violence, both physical and psychological. Owning assets also gives women caught in abusive relationships an exit route, which they might not have had otherwise, particularly if they are not finan-cially independent. All in all, this judgment is a reassertion of the constitutional value of equality to women in personal law without any pre-conditions. However, one aspect that is being largely ignored in the media over the jubilation on this ruling is that there is a flip side, too. Coparcenary right is an undefined liability and any liability of the father, including the family debt and other dues, will be extended to daughters as well. So, it is not just about the right, it is about inheriting responsibility as well. Besides. what of women in other religious communities, who are governed by separate per-sonal laws in several matters, including inheritance rights? While Hindus, Sikhs, Buddhists and Jains are governed by laws on property rights codified in the amended Hindu Succession Act of 2005, Christians and Parsis are governed by the Indian Succession Act, 1925. Property rights of Muslims — both Shias and Sunnis — are yet to be codified. Till we uniformly address gender inequalities in the area of inheritance and have a representative civil rights framework for women across the spectrum, they would be subjected to abuse.

Kamala blooms

Kamala Harris is the third woman to stand for Vice-President of the US. Can she do better than the earlier two?

amala Harris' selection as the running mate of Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden is a momentous one. She is just the third woman to stand for Vice-President of the United States after Geraldine Ferrero in 1984 and Sarah Palin in 2008 but the first woman of colour to do so. This, four years after Donald Trump unexpectedly defeated Hillary Clinton, the first female US presidential candidate for the White House. In India, too Harris' nomination is being celebrated since he mother was a Tamilian. Yet, it's not her origin but what she represents that might just tilt the scales.

Biden has been less than charismatic and Harris' activism and focussed campaigns on the Afro-American cause give the Democrats a sales pitch to fall back upon, that of upholding civil rights. Not new really, but tested enough. And likely to find some resonance when race relations have taken centrestage following the killing of George Floyd by a White officer. Besides, the Black community has been the worst affected by Trump's selective pandemic management. In all issues, be it of race, gender, healthcare and law enforcement, Harris has maintained a centrist record. But her indaturate and take indicatement, maris has maniament a definist record. But her drive has helped her push walls so far. Which is why Trump made his discomfort very much visible by calling her "extraordinarily nasty." He also accused her of being "the meanest, most horrible" of all US Senators.

With the US extremely fractured today, Harris possibly stands the best chance ever of having a woman occupy one of the top offices. That said, everyone expected Hillary Clinton to win in a landslide in 2016 and we all saw what happened. With Biden's mental acuity being questioned by many and Trump mobilising the Republican base, it would be fatal for the Democrats to take things for granted, particularly in some crucial battleground states which Trump snatched unexpectedly. While Harris was brought up single-handedly by her mother, after her parents divorced when she was five, and her father, the Jamaican-born economist Donald Harris, did extensive work in India, she identifies herself as a "Black" woman to build her political capital. Despite several in the Indian community urging her to recognise her heritage she has consistently sought to downplay it. Incidentally, she is distantly related to India's External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar. So while many in the Indian diaspora will celebrate her nomination, her politics is more often than not at variance with Indian interests. Indeed, she is as guilty as several other politicians of making some major policy flip-flops over the years. But with global geopolitics undergoing a sea change over the past few years and with China increasingly asserting itself, her views on India might change as well.

Politics of defection

MLAs jumping ship and resort politics are condemnable. There's a lot that our elected representatives need to learn from what Gandhi had expected of them

ne can easily recall umpteen instances of MLAs changing their ideological and political loy-topical loy-to democracy.

Why isn't there all-round condemnation of the Rajasthan drama of MLAs being herded from one hotel to the other — under strict State security — as unconstitu-tional, unethical and immoral tional, unethical and immoral? Even known groups of retired bureaucrats — who suddenly appear on the scene to showcase their concerns about the erosion of social cohesion, religious amily and constitutional propriety — never thought it fit to condemn this derogatory practice of herding of elected representatives. Do they find this practice to be in sync with the Constitutional framework and in consonance with moral and ethical considerations?

Constitutional framework and ethical considerations?

In 1922, Gandhij/ had written in a letter that Swaraj would not bring happiness to his people. He had said that four things would weigh heavily against it. Three of them were injustice, burden of administration and treachery of the rich. The fourth, that surprised me the most when I came to know about it, related to "defects of elections." How could he write about defections in 1922? I was told the Mahatma had studied the British election system very thoroughly. Gifted with a prophetic futuristic vision, he could anticipate the shape of things so accurately.

I often wonder whether the MLAs in Rajasthan, who enjoyed a comfortable all-expenses-paid stay in luxury hotels, even remember that they are inheritors of the legacy of Mahatma Gandhi, Lal Prasad and other stalwars of the freedom struggle. These worthy elected representatives are, in fact, panch parmeshwars of democracy. They are occupying a seat, the incumbent of which is bound to the Constitution by an oath of affirmation.

One wonders how many of them are aware of that eternal eye-opener sentence by Mahatma Gandhi: "It, instead of insisting on rights, everyone does his duty, there will immediately be the rule of order established among mankind." Are such herded stays part of the duty of the elected representatives? Do they not realise that they are being presented in public as weaklings, who would not be able to resist monetary temptations if allowed to move out of the hotel? If these worthies could sit together with their family members, including their children, and seek their opinion on being made a part of the "pliable group", one is confident they would get the right advice. No child would like his parent to be treated as a saleable commodity. Many of them may have read or attended speechs where references were made to a query put before Mahatma Gandhi: What is your message to the people? He replied, "My life is my message." Would our MLAs my message. Would our MLAS be in a position to tell their chil-dren that they could derive strength from their experiences? It appears that everyone — right from the Chief Minister to the Speakers; the party in power to those in the Opposition; and all others who matter — have their interpretations of the Constitution and Constitutional propriety. It is worthwhile to recall that under the Government of India Act of 1935. elections were held in 1936-37 in various provinces and provincial Governments were formed. All Ministers of the then Congress Government had resigned in November 1939. Gandhij was ever vigilant, he consistently expressed his opinion on how legislators and Ministers should be performing their new duties and they should always think about the welfare of the people. He was, in a way, educating the legislators and Ministers in those days when his overarching presence on the scene itself was a deterrent against anyone breaking the norms. "The holding of any office in the Congress Government must be in the spirit of service, without an art in simplicity which he who runs may see. It does not require money to be neat, clean and dignified. Pomp and pageantry are often synonymous with vulgarity? It is indeed a pity that our young ones are witnessing a political world in which — exceptions apart — elected representatives, Ministers and legislators have forsaken the Gandhian philos-ophy, ideas and dreams. They are doing all this knowing it fully well that it would hurt the Mahatmás memory. When reports emerge of legislators' assets multiplying by a factor of say 500, the com-mon man's reaction is obvious — it would definitely be devoid of respect, confidence or a con-

of respect, confidence or a con nect. In 1937-39, those who nect. In 1937-39, those who became legislators and Ministers were men and women who had entered the freedom struggle — not a political party but a national movement that offered only sacrifice, toil, sufferings and jail terms. Elections and legislative positions came just by chance. But allurements were still there and senior leaders were alert to guide and to "examine the utility value of the legislators."

"examine the utility value of the legislators."

And for the Ministers, the guidelines were: "The Ministers are [the peoples] servants. They can do nothing against the express wishes of the people. They will not stay in office a day longer than the people wish." There is much more for the Chief Ministers, Ministers and the legislators to ponder over. Are the Gandhian ideas totally out of bounds for those who still wear to be the inheritors of his swear to be the inheritors of his out of bounds for those who still swear to be the inheritors of his legacy? If not, how could they ignore Gandhijf's words and deeds? "This office-holding is a step towards either greater presenting or its total loss. If it is not to be a total loss, the Ministers and the legislators have to be watchful of their own personal and public conduct. They have to be like Caesar's wife, above to the conduct with the conduct with the conduct with the conduct with the conduct have to be like Caesar's wife, above to the conduct with the

The least people expect from their legislators is that they do not surrender courage of conviction that a citizen can be proud of, particularly those who are in public life and are expected to enjoy the trust and confidence of their electors. There is a lot for the elected representatives to whom Gandhiji advised not to "arrogate to themselves greater knowledge than those experienced men who do not happen to occupy the ministerial chairs." Obviously, this applies equally to every elected person.

Language discrimination

In the repeated invocation of culture in the National Education Policy, (NEP) — the distaste of its frequent repetitions apart — one finds a long-term strategy to resurred a particular culture in India. The civilisation that flourished between 3300 BCE and 1300 BCE in South Asia, popularly called the Harappan or the India Valley civilisation, is an important era in our recorded history, And 600-700 years after the Harappan civilisation wand, a new culture evolved with the arrival of the Eurasian Steppes pastoralist groups. A new language and thestyle emerged, a new culture and the ancient Harappan civilisation were unlike each other in every aspect. Researchers have converged on the view that the present-day gods; religion, literature and traditions in most of India are adaptations from the Brahmidical Vedic culture, which was rooted in cast e system and rituals, and not from the ancient Indus Valley civilisation. There are, therefore, reasons to doubt the loud advocacy of culture, heritage and traditions in the loud autocacy or comment.

The NEP professes, "the three-language formula will continue to be implemented while keeping in mind the Constitutional provisions, aspirations of the people, regions and the Union and the need to promote multi-lingualism as well as promote antalonal unity." The actain here is, "the three languages learned by children will be the choices of States, regions and, of course, the students themselves so long as at least two of the three languages are native to India." This eliminates English as the second language automatically as it is not treated as a language native to the country, incidentally, both English and Hindustani (Hindi and Urdu) belong to the indo-European language lamity. This prescription puts South India at a great disadvantage. English has been the link language for this region for over a century, though Tamil, Tellugu, Kannada and Malayalam are of the Dravidian language family. The phenomenal growth of the knowledge-based industry in the South is credited mostly to its proficiency in English. The three-language formula, with a prescription tagged to it, would be detrimental to economic growth.

Staff health is company's asset

We will survive this contagion but the key to this is adaptation. Till that happens, all firms must take care of their employees

HIMA RINDU KOTA

The pandemic has changed the way we perceive every aspect of our daily lives as we struggle to adapt to a new normal. The World Health Organisation's (WHO) statistics on the magnitude and scale of the outbreak have a mind-numbing impact. There are currently 1.97 crore active cases around the world, in 216 countries. The most disturbing aspect is that global casualties have crossed the seven lakh mark. India has 2.2 million active cases and there have been 44,000 deaths. Needless to say, some aspects of the Indian economy and the corporate landscape have changed forevre, and that includes the way businesses are conducted.

The economy is in turmoil and the corporate sector is having to bend over backwards to ensure that businesses stay viable. As to bend over boxwards to ensure that businesses stay viable. As companies struggle to find balance in these critical times, lay-offs have become common, instilling lear and insecurity among the remaining employees who, in addition to their own work, are being pilled up with the duties of their erswhile colleagues. These conditions are stressful and a drain on the psyche of the employee as she flights fears of unemployment, financial insecurity and rising expenses. In these conditions, the mind and body are being stretched to their limits with major collateral damage to human health. This staff distress is unfortunately paving the way for what is being increasingly termed as "non-Coronavirus casualities." According to data compiled by a group of researchers led by public interest technologist GN Thejesh and Kanika Sharma, 338 deaths have been recorded on account of the lockdown-spured unemployment, financial distress and isolation. The work from home (WH+I) conditions are also making it an uphill task for the Human Resource departments of firms to gauge the physical and psychological health of their staff. Sometimes problems like depression are identified too late in the day.

used unletts to mins to gauge the physical and psychological relative of their staff. Sometimes problems like depression are identified too late in the day.

The Bengahru-based Suicide Prevention India Foundation (SPIF) conducted a study on the rising spate of suicides in the country and the results are not reassuring. The study based its findings on the responses received from 300 therapits, who found that suicide ideation and self-harm intentions have risen sharply during the pandemic. Out of this, 76 per cent of the people feared job loss. Additionally, 30 per cent of the patients of the therapits have already inflicted some sort of self-harm. This data is alarming to say the least and does not bode well for the future of the corporate sector. Recently, people have been experiencing a slew of emotions due to social isolation, change of litestyle and loss of personal income. In a recent study of 673 workers in Clina, their mental health showed disturbing signs with a significant proportion recording conditions of post-traumatics stress disorder, moderate or severe anxiety, depres-ususions spirs with a significant projocion recursing contions of post-farumatic stress disorder, moderate or severe anxiety, depression, stress and insormia. Other psychiatric symptoms that are prevalent are worries about physical health, anger, discrimination during the outbreak, paramoid ideations, hallucinations, suicidal thoughts, adorbol usage and intent to burt others. In the COVID-19 scenario, the corporate sector is already learning the ropes quickly and is trythe cuprolate securi is anteary learning in or tropes quickly and its by-ing to maintain employee health. But haemorrhaging profits and lay-offs tell a different story. There needs to be a turnaround in the man-ner employee mental and physical health is being managed, not only in the best interests of the company but for the larger good of the economy as well. There are a slew of measures being taken across the global corporate landscape which can have a direct relevance for India. Many businesses around the world are taking the current to indica, wally obtainesses about to be with all examing the current stressful times as an opportunity to connect with their employees and are comforting them. Health and fitness are being accorded priority over productivity. This, among other things, showcases the humane side of the management.

In order to secure the health of the employees, the Indian cor-humane side of the management.

In order to secure the health of the employees, the Indian corporate sector must encourage its staff to share their daily exercise routines with Human Resources managers and instead of over-burdening the employees with work-related Zoom and Skype calls, they must focus on some rest and recreation interactions, too.

The critical aspects impacting the health of any employee are broadly three. Fear of job loss, financial insecurity and a rising work-load. The corporate sector must design rehabilitating measures that seek to address these three issues, but for this, financial well-being of the companies is a must and this is where timely Government assistance comes into the picture.

There is no saying when this mayhem will get over. But once things start becoming clearer, would businesses return to their normal self or will the 'new normal' become? Although we may not like the answer, the "new normal" is likely to stary. However, humans are known to adapt. That is the underlying strength that ensures the survival of our species. We will survive this contagion but the key to this is adaptation. Till that happens, it is the responsibility of all firms to take care of the mental and physical health of their staff.

EVs not the best choice

The FAME policy is pumping ₹10,000 crore of taxpayer money into an industry which is strategically counter-productive. It needs a broader definition of e-mobility and innovations in sustainable storage

The Delhi Government recently announced its electric vehicle (EV) policy aimed at faster adoption of cleance vehicles in the national Capital. This policy is on the same lines as the Centre's Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Electric Vehicles or FAME-II scheme, 2019. Under Centre's Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Electric Vehicles or FAME-II scheme, 2019. Under centre's and up to 73,000 of for e-autos, e-rickshaws, goods carriers and up to 73,000 of for the Addition to the existing incentives provided by the Centre.

The good thing about Delhis EV policy is its detailing but it falls apart when it comes to fund allotton to the existing incentives provided by the Centre.

The good thing about Delhis EV policy is its detailing but it falls apart when it comes to fund allotton. FAME-II offers an incentive of 71,51 halt to electric four-wheelers with an ex-factory price cap of 75,1000 for three-wheelers, including e-rick-shaws and 72,000 for e-two-wheelers. E-buses can claim subsidy up to 750 lakh at a rate of 72,000 KWH battery capacity.

Given the incentives being offered, two questions should be considered. First, are EVs environmentally sustainable? Second, are they viable options for the Indian economy in the long-run? The answers to both these questions are debatable.

To produce an Internal Combustion Engine (ICE) whick, 10 metric tonnes of CO2 are released in the atmosphere and it is the same for an EV without the battery. Manufacturing of a 30 KWH battery releases 5.3 metric tonnes of CO2 are released in the atmosphere and it is the same for an EV without the battery. a significant tendency is observed to capture such reserves through mergers and accustions. The taw mertail comprises approximately 60 per cent of the total cost of manufacturing Li-so habete is. So, the price is not likely to decline if we use more of these batteries, unlike what we had observed for other electronic items like computers, solar panels and LEDs. The price of these batteries will increase in future if demand exceeds a cetain limit as the price of raw materials will rise. For instance, the price of lithium increased from $8,500 per tonne in 2015 to $17,000 per tonne in 2018. Similarly, the price of cobalt rose from $30,000 per tonne in 2018. Similarly, the price of cobalt rose from $30,000 per tonne to $55,000 per tonne in 2015 and 2018. These increases were in anticipation of a growing EV market but later their price dropped on its dismal performance. India does not have any lithium reserves, supply chain or an ecosystem to manufacture Li-son batteries in order to ensure a steady supply. So EVs are not an economically-viable option for the country.

Both FAME and the Delhi EV policy talk about setting up public EV charging stations around Delhi's congested roads. This would require vast swathes of public land to serve a handful of wealthy womers and violates the basic principles of public good. Plus, parking is a major instain in Delhi is neither advisable nor safe.

The China factor: Li-ion batteries account for almost 50 per cent of the cost of an EV. While China has a thriving lithium chemical, battery call manufacturing capacity is in our neighbouring country. On top of that, our neighbouring country. On top of that our neighbouring country. On top of that,

Chinese companies have unparallel control over battery raw materials and processing facilities. At present, almost all roin batteries used for EVs are imported from China. This means incentives aimed at Indian manufacturers are directly going to Chinese battery producers. For example, buying a §15 lahk PV (with Lion batteries) in India means a transfer of 7.5 lakh to China, including §3 lakh of the taxpayers' money. The amount could go up to $1 crofe of an e-bus Strategically, too, over-dependence on China is dangerous and given the current geo-political scenario, it is not advisable to take such risky steps.

The way forward: FAME or other steps. The way forward: FAME or other State Government clean vehicle schemes are an excellent platform to promote indigenous production of EVs. They should stick to the principles of Atmanirbhar (self-relant) Bharat to promote localised production at global standards and stop incentivising unsustainable means of storage technologies.

Unbundling of EVs. Separating the vehicle from its fuel, i.e. batteries, is a necessary condition for the development of the EV market in India. At present, EVs away a low-capacity engine with superexpensive fuel options. This is an absurd arrangement and makes a mockery of fair competition. It is like British Petroleum selling cars for their oil or Ford digging oil wells for their can, leading to inefficiency in both the segments.

Make it consumer-centric: At present, EVs are policy-centric. They hardly consider consumers as end-users and rather aim to cater to the needs of development activists. Consumers need flexibility in choosing a fuel source, mileage, durability and so on. Their mobility requirement also varies from a few kilometres to hundreds of kilometres in one run. They possess varied tastes, concerns and limitations. Unless consumers are given such flexibility and choices, EV sales in India won't pick up. For a typical middle class/upper middle class family, a car is an aspiration and an investment with reasonable resale value. At present EV's have no resale value, hence, it is unjustified to expect a customer to invest hard-aerned money in an untested, it is unjustified to expect a customer to invest hard-aerned money in an untested, it is unjustified to expect a customer to invest hard-middle to the control of the contr

If the Centre's biggest agenda is the revival of the economy, then it can only be achieved by implementing the Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyaan. We may get some idea if we analyse the progress of our neighbouring nation, China. In 1987, its Gross Domestic Product (GDP) was almost equal to India's GDP at $279 billion. Then, in December 1978. Deng Xiaoping announced the "Open Door Policy" and it was a major turning point for the Chinese economy. Beijing experienced 15 per cent growth year on year at a time the global economy was not every growing, dipping to a rate of three per growing, dipping to a rate of three per global economy was not even ing, dipping to a rate of three per

Now, given the global anger against Beijing due to the spread of the Coronavirus contagion, nations are looking to shift their manufacturing businesses and supply chains out of China. This is another opportunity for India to attract global Ousinesses and supply thains out of China. This is another opportunity for India to attract global Ousinesses like Beijing did.

It might take time, maybe five-six paraminimum to savour the fruits of an atmanifohm (self-reliant) Bhanat instead of the very next quater his many people ear hoping. If we want to act on self-reliance, we need to focus on all segments of manufacturing, starting from big manufacturing, starting from big manufacturing to the self-reliance of the manufacturing starting from big manufacturing. However, unless we invest in Research and Development (R&D), unless we create products that are better and more economical than products made around the world and in China, we can't sell them in internal or global markets. If we want to make Atmanirbhar Bharat more than a slogan, then we need to provide capital-rich global players an equal footing for their investment and have an open and consistent trade policy; an easy land acquisition policy; cheap and skilled labour and a consistent power supply.

skilled labour and a consistent power supply.

According to the Government, the five pillars of the Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyuan focus on the economy, infrastructure, the system, a vibrant demography and the creation of internal demand. An economy is the sum total of many small components of business, starting from the consumer, markets, traders, banks, utility companies, manufacturers, Government policies and institutions. Hence, any leakage of resources will not bring about effective use of the same.

Infrastructure always remains a talking point in our country but no

Infrastructure always remains a talking point in our country but no one has ever worked seriously towards developing it. As a result of this, many infrastructure projects have been delayed by as much as 20-s start firing together in the 25 years. It is difficult to believe that projects conceptualised at a cost of $20 crore in 1968 cost $200 crore in 2010 and are still pending. If we are really interested in an Almanurbhar Bhanat, then fiscal self-discipline mandatory and it must start from Government departments. Plus, meed to fix responsibility for time and cost overruns in order to get work done on time. India still lacks good infrastructure and Almanirbhar Bhanat will nobe possible if we don't connect all the dots.

Consistent Government policies on trade and taxation are key to crating any manufacturing base as it takes time to reap the benefits of the same. The Government must announce policies for 15-20 years which can't be changed by any new Government of the future. Projects of national importance must not be scrapped or altered by a new set of Ministers.

Another key component that must be aligned is demography. Though India is a democratic courty and everyone has the right to follow their own free will, if we want to make India atmanirbhar, then we need to have a "India First" policy.

Self-reliance is not a short race, rather it is a marathon and can be completed only when all engines starting in the desired direction and in synchronisation with each other. Start-ups can act as a catalyst and be stakeholders in manufacturing, service delivery and a support element in creating a consensus among the masses for this mega project.

The Government will act as the agent to expedite and bind the entire process by easing policies around it.

agent to expedite and bind the entire process by easing policies around it. Involve all stakeholders and give adequate compensation to them. If this is implemented, then it can be the biggest employment generator, forex earner and a huge support to the Indian economy.

To achieve a 55 trillion economy from a $2.8 trillion one in about flow years, we need to achieve a growth rate of more than 15 per cent per annum. It can be done only by firing all engines of growth, including MSME and big industries.

Global cues, profit bookings closed equity market lower Globally, major Asian markets have closed on a mixed note. However, European indices like the FTSE and CAC conded higher.

Index-wise, h. NSE Nity50 closed at 11,308.40, down by 14.10 points, or 0.12 per cent, from the previous close. The Sensex closed at 38,369.63, lower by 37.38 points, or 0.10 per cent, from the previous close of 38,407.01. In the list of major events and people of 2020, a new name has been added — Binod — which has become the buzzword for netizens and social media users. The trend began after a video by the YouTube channel, Slayy Point, in which its creators Abhyudaya Mohan and Gautami Kawale are seen roasting the comments section of popular videos, went viral. Titled, Why Indian Comments Section is Garbage, it highlighted how even asinine and silly entries get hits and "likes". In this case, a user called Binod had simply typed in his name in the commentary chat and had still elicited seven likes. And then Binod trolled several notable social media handles with what can best be described as mumbo jumbo but still got noticed. So much so that it generated memes.

The #Binod memes so hogged the memes.

The #Binod memes so hogged the limelight that even brands like Airtel, Paytm, Netflix and Tinder didn't leave any stone unturned in making it their new marketing word. While the dating app tweeted, "Yes, Binod is on Tinder, the digital payment app changed its Twitter username from Paytm to Binod for a short period. Food-ordering app Swiggy tweeted, "We think Binod will be the first person to call and wish us at 12 tonight," celebrating its birthday. Reality show Bigg Boss' Twitter handle also posted, "Now who's saying Binod is a contestant this year?" Other handles such as Mumbai Police, Nagpur Police and Jaipur Police used the word for awareness of traffic rules and safety. Well, it sint the first time a bizarre trend has got unprecedented attention from netizens. Who wouldn't remember the viral "Selfie Maine Le Li Aaj" by Dhinchak Poolgo or "Hello friends, chain peelol" or even trends like #IHaveA]oke and #MyQuarantinelnSixWords! But why does such content grab attention? "Yes, there have been bizarre trends in the past. However, I think that things that strike a chord among the audience grabs their attention. For instance, Binod has just a 30-second presence in our video. Even then, not the rest of the video but 'Binod' grabbed eyeballs. It completely depends on the viewers. We present a platter but it could be bust the term for comments.

With Coronavirus being the permanent trending hashtag on social media over the past few months, hashtag Binod cent after this video, rappers like that DJ Snake and Honey Singh would be using the term for comments.

of a video, which, in turn, surprisingly grabbed even more bizarre comments. Is this, then, the new theatre of the absurd? Says Gautami, "There's no formula or tutorial about how to go viral or how to start a trend. It depends on the audience, their preferences and likes and when we see the audience talking about it constantly, that's when the content trends. I think platforms like Twitter and YouTube play a huge role in spurring the growth of such trends among the masses."

So why is it important to note what comments are being posted? Is it any kind of marketing strategy? Abhyudaya refuses. He says, "Well, no! It's not any kind of marketing strategy. Binod's comments were solely for entertainment because there is no such thing as trend because there is no such thing as trend marketing."

Binod even raided the Prime Minister's Twitter handle. What did the disruption mean? He adds, "We heard about it and checked PM's Live. People were commenting 'Binod' everywhere. We could then say that's the power of Binod (laughs). I think Binod for them came as a voice of licentiousness in these times of lockdown. We are overwhelmed that it's a trend and people are communication. that it's a trend and people are commu-nicating through Binod rightfully, meaning that it's in the 'Janta's hands' (in hands of the citizens). Well, the *Binod raids have even reached the comments section of some international artists and Nasa Live sessions! But beyond grabbing eyeballs, a few laughs and generating some revenue for creators, is there any point to this dumbed down pursuit of time-kills?

POWER OF THE YOUN

Choreographer ASHLEY LOBO says that the International Youth Day this year has helped young people find balance without their peers and props at home. By TEAM VIVA

Por choreographer, Ashley Lobo, there is no energy as that of youth on his dance floor. He loves their moves, their hope, and the vibrancy they bring to any class. On International Youth Day, Ashley stressed that it is the youth which is embracing the 'new normal' and helping the not-so-savvy world adjust to the digital age, which has swamped all of us.

tal age, which has swamped all of us.

He says, "Being at home and not with their peer group is not how the youth would have ever imagined their lives but given their proximity to gadgets and the online world, they are doing a pretty good job. I miss their vibrancy in my studio since offline classes are stopped. But when youngsters dance, it is obvious that they like to be free and that spirit is visible in whatever they do."

The pandemic has affected youngsters profoundly, for better or for worse. Through videos and virtual means, youth across the country have been express ing themselves in unique way and it is believed that the per and it is believed that the performing arts are only helping to liberate them even more. For Ashley, in the art form of dance, there is, after all, no perfection, only being one with the self and passion by dancing from the heart. "I have seen students over the years feel relaxed and happy after a dance session. This is because during the class stress levels drop and the endorphins take over. This, in turn, makes the mind calm. It can be an extremely therapeutic and spiritual experience. When one dances, one connects to the music and to the self. In that one moment, you become one with moment, you become one with yourself and the universe and that strain is the best mantra to get over the pandemic blues," adds he.

that strain is the dest inflate as of et over the pandemic blues, adds he.

Ashley, who has choreographed for Bollywood films such as Dhoom, Jab We Met, Cocktail, and many others, feels its important for the youngsters to be guided properly and the importance of discipline should be instilled early. 'And then, be it a crisis, pandemic, or any other trouble, you will always see the young rise above and show the discipline in every facet of life,' he says.

The current imbroglio which has stopped dancers worldwide from running riot on the dance floor and forced to channelise their energy online is seeing guite a bit of heft in the youth. Despite being confined to channelise their energy online is seeing guite a bit of heft in the youth. Despite being confined to their homes and missing their friends, the youngsters are doing wonders with dance and the arts. 'They will become stronger once this is all behind us because even now the youth in my online classes can find balance in dance through the turbulence of the global pandemic. That is the power of the young and restless,' says Ashley.

PEACE, PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

A series of road and highway projects is on the cards to give impetus to growth in Jammu, Kashmir and Ladakh. By ASHOK TANDON

T Syama Prasad Mookerjee, founder of the Bharatiya Jana Sangh (predecessor of the present day Bharatiya Janat Party), sacrificed his life spearheading a nation-wide Satyagraf Inon-violent agitation) demanding complete integration of the state of Jammu & Kashmir into the Indian Union. Dr Mookerjee had defied the entry-permit order of the government on the J&K border on May 10, 1953 and courted arrest chanting. The NDA government of Prime Minister Narendra Modi on August 5, 2019, revoked the special status granted to the state of Jammu & Kashmir under Article 370 of the Indian Constitution. It enabled people of the state to access all central government programmes and laws including right to reservation for disempowered, right to education and right to information, besides Minimum Wages Act and Minority Act.

ly significant state keorganisation ract, 2019, dividing the state into two Union Territories — Jammu & Kashmir and Ladakh.

Since then the NDA government, over the last one year, has been grappling with a series of challenges on various fronts, including border security, constructive engagement with international community on the J&K issue and domestic political resistance to converting the state into two union territories. And then there was stupendous challenge of fast-tracking all round development ensuring peace, prosperity and welfare of the people and providing corruption free governance in all the three regions.

The central government converted these challenges into an opportunity to undo the betrayal inflicted upon the people of J&K as well as Ladakh in the name of Article 370 by the family-run political parties who ruled the state for most of the last seven decades.

PMS personal appeal to the youth in the region, particularly the misguided elements in the Kashmir valley, "to be a part of this historic journey and walk together for a greater cause" has shown tangible results on the ground.

With both J&K and Ladakh as union territorics [dammu & Kashmir not permanently) directly under the centre, the Modi government unfolded an ambitious roadmap of peace and progress ushering in a new era of inclusive development and transparent governance in the entire region.

The Team-Modi adopted an inte-grated approach to build a state-of-the-art infrastructure and unleashed fast-track social welfare and employ-ment generation schemes, especially among the Small, Medium & Micro Enterprises, (MSME), including cot-tage, handicraft, handloom and hor-ticulture enterprises.

Good quality all-weather roads and national highways enhancing the hitherto lacking inter-region and intra-region connectivity has gone a long way in promoting and creating fresh employment opportunities in the post-bifurcation period.
A region-wise performance audit of the promises made, over the last one year, gives a fairly good account. Although a complete transforma-tion in the landscape of this beauti-ful region will be on canvas once all tul region will be on canvas once all the ongoing projects, especially sev-eral strategically important national highways, including tunnels in the tough terrains, become operational capable of coping with extreme weather conditions.

KASHMIR

The Road Transport and Highways Ministry, with its arms like the NHAI and NHIDCL, in concert with the BRO and the state PWD, are with the BRO and the state PWD, are currently engaged in completing a series of projects which will give impetus to growth and help the start-ups in establishing producer companies with focus on further development of sericulture, cold water fisheries, woodwork, cricket bats, saffron, handicrafts and horticulture produce.

The ongoing projects include Srinagar-Jammu-Lakhanpur high-way, the Qazigund-Banihal tunnel and Srinagar ring road.

JAMMU
Jammu, with rapidly growing rail and road connectivity, including the Jammu ring road, is getting a huge boost to its economy with flourishing religious tourism and start-ups in businesses like wood grain work, mills, basmati rice trade, rice mills, carpets, electronic items and electric goods.

LADAKH

Ladakh is witnessing an unprecedented boost to the infrastructure development with all-weather roads and highway network coming up in a big way in difficult terrains and strategic locations. Domestic and international tourism promotion has been given a big push.

Sky seems to be the limit of central financial packages to Ladakh resulting in a phenomenal growth in its farm-based economy through enhanced agriculture and livestock activities. An augmented irrigation facility for horticulture and cash crops has improved productivity putting additional money in farmers' pocket.

crops has improved productivity putting additional money in farmer's pocket.

Last but not the least, the abrogation of Article 370 and bifurcation of he state into two union territories has given the local communities in all three regions greater sense of participation in public discourse. It is discernible with the youth in the valley joining security forces and civil services and excelling in the field of education and sports.

Today there is greater awareness about women rights and girls education in Kashmir as well as in Ladakh. People are coming forward to join hands with local administration in isolating anti-social elements and exposing Pakistan-sponsored attempts at radicalisation of youth.

Max Bupa — one of the standalone health insures, has introduced 'ReAssure' — a comprehensive health insurance plan that provides unlimited sum insured for any type of hospitalisation including the ones related to COVID-19. This allows consumers to make as many claims as required for themselves or for family members covered in the same policy, for same or different illness in a year, at no additional cost.
