In 2019, when the Indian Army conducted a strike against Pakistan in Kashmir, there was widespread condemnation both in India and abroad. However, since then, there have been no major incidents along the Line of Control (LoC) in the de facto border separating India and Pakistan. With tensions running high, the situation is likely to remain tense for the foreseeable future.

A US envoy has said that the United States is committed to a peaceful resolution of the Kashmir issue, and is encouraging both India and Pakistan to engage in direct dialogue. The envoy also emphasized the need for both countries to avoid any actions that could escalate the situation.

Kashmir has been a contentious issue for many years, and the situation has been further complicated by the recent spike in violence in the region. The Indian government has taken steps to address the situation, including the deployment of additional troops and the implementation of strict security measures.

Despite these efforts, the situation remains tense, and there is a need for both India and Pakistan to work towards a peaceful resolution. The international community, including the United States, continues to urge both countries to engage in direct dialogue and take steps to de-escalate the situation.
A year after the Pulwama attack, the government is set to roll out a written test for the recruitment of inspector-level officers in the Ministry of Home Affairs in late April 2019, with the aim of increasing the efficiency and effectiveness of the force. The move is part of a larger strategy to modernize and professionalize the Ministry’s law enforcement arm, which has been criticized in the past for its slow response times and lack of resources.

The written test, which will be conducted online, will assess candidates on their knowledge of law enforcement, crime prevention, and community policing. The test will also include questions on current affairs and general knowledge, with a focus on recent developments in the country and the world.

The test will be conducted in two stages, with the first stage being the written exam and the second stage being an oral interview. The interview will be conducted by a panel of experts from the Ministry of Home Affairs, who will assess candidates on their ability to think critically, solve problems, and communicate effectively.

The Ministry of Home Affairs has also announced plans to increase the number of allegations against police personnel, with a view to improving the accountability and transparency of the force. The Ministry has been under pressure to take more effective action against police wrongdoing, and the new measures are seen as a step in the right direction.

In conclusion, the move to conduct a written test for the recruitment of police officers is a welcome development, as it will help to identify and hire the most qualified candidates for the job. The Ministry of Home Affairs is to be commended for taking this step, and it is hoped that the written test will be a success in identifying the best candidates for the role.

The President of Turkey and Russia spoke over the phone for a day after Syrian Government airstrikes killed 33 Turkish troops, significantly ratcheting up Syria Government airstrikes killed 33 Turkish troops, significantly ratcheting up tensions between Ankara and Moscow. It is the deadliest attack on Turkish troops in a single attack since Ankara first intervened in Syria.

The development was the most serious escalation in the conflict between Turkish and Russia-backed Syrian forces and raised the risk that all-out war with Russia could reignite. The operation had been largely confined to the middle of Syria near the border with Turkey, but the surprise attack Saturday rekindled fears of a full-scale war between the two countries. Other attacks, including a drone strike and shelling, have targeted the Syrian city of Idlib and Turkish troops who had been fighting with a rebel group called Hayat Tahrir al-Sham. The attack killed 33 Turkish soldiers and 16 Syrian civilians, according to a police official in Idlib. The attack came after a series of missile attacks by Turkish forces that targeted Syrian government positions.

The attack comes amid tensions between Ankara and Moscow over the conflict in Syria. Russia has backed President Bashar Assad's regime in Syria's civil war, while Turkey has supported opposition forces. The attack has raised concerns about the possibility of a full-scale war between the two countries.

Turkish reprisals kill 16 Syrian troops

Turkish reprisals killed 16 Syrian soldiers in the besieged northeastern province of Idlib in an attack, according to a local monitoring group.

The attack, which was the fourth in four days, came as Turkish troops were advancing towards the Syrian town of Maaret al-Numan in the northwestern province of Idlib. The attack killed 16 Syrian soldiers and wounded several others, according to a local monitoring group in Idlib.

It is not clear who carried out the attack, but it is believed to be a response to the previous attack by Turkish forces on January 23, which killed 33 Turkish soldiers. The attack has raised concerns about the possibility of a full-scale war between the two countries.

Syria: Turkish held crisis talks stand-by

AP - DEFENDT

The leaders of Russia, Turkey and Iran held crisis talks on Saturday to discuss the situation in Syria. The talks, which were held in Tehran, were aimed at finding a solution to the conflict in Syria, which has been ongoing for more than a decade.

The leaders of the three countries met to discuss a range of issues, including the situation in Idlib, which is the last major rebel stronghold in Syria. The leaders discussed the possibility of a ceasefire, and agreed to work towards a political solution to the conflict.

The talks, which are the first held by the leaders of the three countries since September 2019, are seen as a key step towards finding a solution to the conflict in Syria.

Children not spared

Sir — We have been appalled by a spate of kidnappings and murders in the past few months in our country. The kidnappings have taken place in various parts of the country, including Assam, West Bengal, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh. The kidnappings have been carried out by organized criminal gangs, and the victims are mainly children and women.

There has been a recent increase in the number of kidnappings and killings in India. The government has taken several steps to combat this problem, including increasing police patrols and crack-downs on criminal gangs. However, the problem persists, and more needs to be done to protect our children.

We urge the government to take immediate steps to protect our children and to ensure that they are not subjected to such brutality. The government should also work towards creating a society that is more secure and just.

The ILP provides for stringent penalties and is said to be an effective tool in curbing illegal immigration. However, it is also faced with challenges.

The ILP has been implemented in various parts of the country, but its effectiveness has not been uniformly successful. The implementation of the ILP in Manipur, for example, has faced several challenges.

The ILP has also faced criticism from various quarters. Some argue that the ILP is discriminatory and violates the rights of the indigenous people. Others argue that the ILP is not effective in curbing illegal immigration.

The ILP is a complex issue, and its effectiveness will depend on how it is implemented and enforced. The government should work towards improving the implementation of the ILP and addressing the challenges that it faces.

The Delhi riots are proof that a section of young Indians has fallen off the edge of a crumbling nation and a feeble society.

Despite the furore, the methodology of its use continues to be a mystery how India is yet to measure its real economic impact on nature. This is mainly due to the fact that the political parties and mainstream media are not highlighting the benefits of this sustainable development. As Mahatma Gandhi famously said, “If we only knew what we are doing to the earth, we would not do it.”

The timing of Trump’s visit could be significant. The US has been identified as a vital player in the Indo-Pacific strategy and included the Gulf of Aden and the Red Sea in its vision for the region, which was also agreed to work towards an early conclusion of the fourth and final bilateral foundation military pact called the Basic Exchange and Cooperation Agreement for Geospatial Information Sharing (BECA) and a joint agreement with other countries.

India, which is India's major ally in the Indo-Pacific, is directly involved in the Trump administration’s strategy. The US has been identified as a vital player in the Indo-Pacific strategy. India has even in the list of developing nations that are not saddled with debt and financial problems. India is interested in the core of understanding, the strategic depth, India and the US.

A cold wave, same as in the last year, is likely to continue in the north-western, north-eastern, central and north-eastern regions of the country, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) said on Friday, predicted in its High Alert and Cold Wave warning. IMD has instructed the state governments to immediately start the cold wave preparedness in order to avoid any consequences. A cold wave situation develops when the minimum temperature in a given place falls to or below 4°C for three consecutive days or more.

The minimum temperature in the Delhi-NCR region is expected to be below 5°C till December 20, with the national capital, Delhi, and its adjoining areas likely to witness a cold wave condition from December 15 to 18. The IMD has issued red alert for Delhi and adjoining regions from December 15 to 20. The red alert, the highest, means that there is likely to be snowfall.

The Union Minister of State for Defence, in a statement in the Lok Sabha, informed that the Ministry of Defence has decided to set up an integrated command and control centre, known as the NCC III, to enhance the delivery of integrated military command and control.

The NCC III will function as a nodal point for coordination and integration of all services for effective command and control of joint military operations. It will also provide a platform for the development of joint doctrine and the integration of joint warfighting capabilities.

General R.K. Mathur
NEW DELHI
The Chief of Defence Staff, General R.K. Mathur, addressed the media on Friday regarding the recent developments in the defence sector.

Mathur said that the Indian Armed Forces have been working towards modernisation and enhancement of capabilities to keep pace with the changing security environment. He added that the government has taken several initiatives to enhance the defence infrastructure and capabilities.

The NCC III will be established in videocentre model, which is a cost-effective solution. It will be a combination of physical and virtual elements, and will be connected to the various command and control centres of the different services.

Mathur further stated that the NCC III will play a crucial role in enhancing the interoperability and coordination between the different services, and will be a vital component in the overall defence planning and decision-making process.
The Pioneer group is expanding its umbrella of connecting with thinking minds through live talks. Called The Pioneer Agenda series, we hope to generate awareness on ideas that will shape India in 2030 and could be a template for policy-making. The first such dialogue, Exotica Tourism Summit, Exotica being the group’s travel and wellness magazine, was held at Shangri-La hotel, New Delhi on February 26. Since tourism is poised to become a major growth driver and employment generator of the economy, the day-long event had interactive sessions with Union Ministers, industry experts, travel operators, tourism boards, the hospitality sector and brand creators.

WHEN RECALL INSPIRES NEW IDEAS

How do we expand the business of tourism to inspire the traveller to keep coming back? How do we customise trips to make those memories? Has tourism changed the way we live and think? These were some of the questions raised by writer Aman Nath, Shilpa Sharma, Sunandita Sanatopya, Anup Sawhney and Jaimie Malhotra at the last session of the Exotica Tourism Summit.

DON’T LET HISTORY BECOME A BYGONE

Aman confirmed, architectural restorer and writer Aman Nath to the co-founder and co-executive director of the Pioneer Group. He is currently the co-founder and co-executive director of the Pioneer Group. He is currently involved in the renovation of the Kesroli in Alwar. All efforts have been made to maintain the old charm of the heritage properties and also to contextualise them into heritage hotels with some modern facilities. He says, “We have 30 properties in 18 states of India. We started by looking at restoring historical properties which are heritage buildings. We have come to be associated with the Neemranification process.”

LET THE SEA SET YOU FREE

Silversea Cruises — he highlighted how over the last two decades, Silversea Cruises has been in the forefront of innovating the cruise industry, with a focus on smaller ships which allow for a more intimate and personalized experience. He said, “We have 30 properties in 18 states of India. We started by looking at restoring historical properties which are heritage buildings. We have come to be associated with the Neemranification process.”

THERE’S A PREMIUM ON LOCAL TRAVEL

Suresh Chandra, head of sales at TRUN, brings 33 years of experience during which he has worked across various sectors with established brands. As the exclusive India representative for Royal Caribbean Cruises, a global cruise line with 14 brands, Royal Caribbean Cruises, Amalfi Club Cruises and Silversea Cruises — he has highlighted how his voyages have sailed slow travel fashion.

HE SAYS, “We are a cutting-edge company with a focus on sustainability. We believe in operating our ships in an environmentally friendly manner and have implemented various measures to reduce our carbon footprint. We are also committed to supporting local communities and promoting responsible tourism.”

BEYOND THE BROCHURE

He said, “We have 30 properties in 18 states of India. We started by looking at restoring historical properties which are heritage buildings. We have come to be associated with the Neemranification process.”

TO NORTHEAST, WITH LOVE

Vikram Arora, journalist and author, writes about the northeast of India, a region often referred to as the “land of the setting sun.” He has written extensively about the rich culture, history, and natural beauty of the region. His book, “The Northeast,” was published in 2019 and has been well received.

THE BUZZWORD IS SOLO TRAVEL

She said, “It was a dream that I had thought about since I was young. I always wanted to travel and explore the world. I was never able to do it until I started my own business. Now, I am able to travel and see the world as I wish.”

BIBLIOGRAPHY

The session was held at the Shangri-La hotel in New Delhi. The event was well-attended by a diverse audience, including travel industry professionals, tourism experts, and enthusiasts. The discussions highlighted the importance of sustainable tourism and the role of the tourism industry in promoting cultural awareness and preservation.
WORLD ON A PLATTER

While ROCKY SINGH and MAYUR SHARMA spoke about their journey and building personal stories, ZORAWAR KALRA divulged that he decided his next destination on the basis of food.
We were delighted tourists to have a taste of Jaipur’s culture and history. The city is known for its rich tradition and architectural marvels. Jaipur’s most famous attractions include its forts, palaces, and ancient streets.

The vibrant city of Jaipur is surrounded by beautiful palaces and historic forts that are a testament to its rich cultural heritage. One such palace is the historic city of Jaipur, the former capital of the Jaipur State. It was founded by Jai Singh II, Raja of Amer, in 1727. The city is famous for its pink sandstone buildings, which give it its unique appearance.

The city is also home to the world-famous Hawa Mahal, which is an engineering marvel. The palace was built in 1799 and has 953 small windows that provide a beautiful view of the city. The palace is a popular tourist attraction and is a symbol of the city’s rich history.

Another famous attraction in Jaipur is the City Palace, which is located in the heart of the city. The palace was built in the 18th century and is home to the Jaipur Museum, which houses a vast collection of artifacts and treasures. The palace also has a beautiful garden that is surrounded by a wall that gives it a perfect view of the city.

On our last evening, we headed for a dinner at Sahu Bikaner’s, a popular restaurant in Jaipur. The restaurant is known for its delicious Rajasthani cuisine, which includes specialties like Laal maas and Gatta curry. We savoured timeless and succulent local delicacies while enjoying the music at Sahu’s. The music enhanced the delve-into-the-past experience while the food took us back in time.

In conclusion, Jaipur is a city that is rich in history and culture. The city is a perfect blend of past and present, where visitors can experience the rich cultural heritage and traditional art forms. The city is a perfect destination for anyone who is interested in history, architecture, and culture.
