The Government of Union Territory of Kashmir on Tuesday termed a vigilance raid conducted by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) as an attempt by the central government to “ail and strangle” the people of the Valley.

The ED had conducted a search operation at the office of Kashmir Press Trust in Srinagar and also at the residence of the authority’s spokesperson.

The government and the press body rejected the charge and named the raid as the latest in a series of attacks on the right to freedom of expression in the Valley.

The move comes amid growing concern about the clampdown on media and civil society in the region.

In a statement, the government said the ED had alleged “misuse of government funds” and “unlawful and illegal use of state resources” in the purchase of a state-of-the-art security camera for the trust.

The government said the alleged procurement violated the Public Procurement Act of 2016 and the State Tender Board Rules.

Mamata Banerjee, chief minister of West Bengal, has been the target of opposition parties' attack, and her actions have raised concerns among some leaders in the region.

The situation in West Bengal has been tense, with political parties and NGOs voicing concerns over the government's policies and decisions. The state has seen a rise in incidents of violence and clashes between different groups, which have been attributed to the ongoing farmers' protest and other political issues.

The government has been accused of using force and violence to silence dissent, leading to widespread protests and public demonstrations. The situation has sparked concerns about human rights violations and the rule of law in the region.

However, the government has denied these allegations, saying that they are being used as a工具 to disrupt the peaceful process of the farmers' protest. The government has also emphasized its commitment to protecting the rights of all citizens and ensuring the safety and security of the people.

The situation in West Bengal remains tense, with both the government and opposition parties continuing to express their views and demands. The situation is likely to impact the ongoing farmers' protest and the political landscape in the region.

Trump warns US ties at stake after deadly strikes

The United States is threatening to sever ties with Iran after a series of attacks in which at least 39 people were killed.

The US Embassy in Baghdad has not commented on the situation, but the Iraqi government has condemned the attacks.

The attacks have raised tensions between the US and Iran, with both sides blaming each other for the violence.

The US has accused Iran of being behind the attacks, while Iran has denied the allegations.

The situation is likely to continue to escalate, with the US and Iran both ready to take military action.

The attacks have also raised concerns about the stability of Iraq, which has been the target of several armed groups in recent years.

The US has been providing military support to the Iraqi government, but it is unclear how long this support will continue.

The situation is likely to remain tense in the coming days, with both sides ready to take further action.

The attacks have also raised international concerns, with UN Secretary-General António Guterres calling for a de-escalation of tensions.

The US has been ramping up its military presence in the region, with US military bases in Iraq and other countries in the Middle East.

The attacks have also raised concerns about the safety of US citizens in Iraq, with the US embassy urging its citizens to avoid the area.

Crystal Palace and third from bottom Aston Villa.

One of the most successful clubs in the world, AC Milan are 11th in the table just six points above the bottom three. The old adage 'too good to go down' should definitely apply in this case.

The 38-year-old will become a free agent following the end of his current contract, which is due to expire next June. "I've decided to leave AC Milan," he said. "I want to find a new challenge and a new experience."

"I feel like I've got unfinished business."

Nigel Pearson engineered a remarkable renaissance at Leicestershire after they took on the mantle of the club that the Tigers claimed the World title in 2011. The Tigers were dominating the English Premier League at the time he was appointed in 2015 and Pearson was given the managerial role on a three-year contract.

He played for the Rossoneri from 2001-2011 scoring 56 goals in 100 appearances and helped the club win the scudetto three times in the 2002-2003, 2004-05 and 2011-12 seasons. The former Sweden forward said that the opportunity to return to AC Milan is "too good to turn down." He played for the club in the 2002-03 and 2003-04 seasons, and scored 14 goals in 28 appearances.

Moyes has now been added to the West Ham board and this could lead to a potential return to the Premier League. The club has been struggling recently and there is a real possibility of relegation come May. Moyes is currently the joint second highest goalscorer in Premier League history, with 100 goals in 269 appearances.

The 56-year-old — who was relieved of his duties prior to the league winning season — arguably laid the foundations for their eventual title success in 2009. In his two stints as manager of the club, Moyes managed to guide the team to two wins and a draw in three matches since taking over.

"This is the moment to get it right," he said. "I'm coming back to a side for free."

"Maybe City aren't at the same level as last year — but they are a fantastic team."

"Against City this is a fantastic test to see where we are," said Moyes who said prior to the match, "this is not an easy pressure test."

"I'm coming back to a special place."

If Moyes can help West Ham avoid relegation, it would be a huge achievement. The Black Cats have finished in the relegation zone on three occasions in the last five seasons, and have avoided the drop twice during that period.

"We've met some times, not a lot in games, but I don't think I've ever seen such a good team," said Bermuda. "Aston Villa have been playing well and they've been tough to beat."

"They call me, " he said. "Maybe I could do it again."

"There's a clause in there and I'm going to make it impossible to ignore."

"There's a clause in there and I'm going to make it impossible to ignore.

"I've decided to leave AC Milan," he said. "I want to find a new challenge and a new experience."

"I feel like I've got unfinished business."

Norwegian told reporters in Melbourne on Monday that she had no plans to compete in the women's singles event at the Games. Sharapova has not played at the Games since 2004 and has not won a singles event since 2012. She is currently ranked 24th in the world and her best singles result since 2012 was a quarter-final appearance in the 2013 Australian Open.

"There's only so much time left for me, " she said.

"I have no doubt about my ability to compete and to be successful."

However, with confidence at a low ebb during his second spell at West Ham, he somehow managed to turn the club's fortunes around and lead them to the Premier League title this season. He has signed an 18 month contract with the club, which will run until January 2021.

"We've got to go for it and we've got to believe," he said. "We've got to believe in the players and we've got to believe in the team."
Ed ALPHA GOEL lists digital trends that can be seen in the education sector this year

Educators who are not willing to adapt to the technological revolution run the risk of becoming redundant. Upgradation of skills will enable educators to widen the technological pool of students and then leave the choice of utilising the skills up to them.

Trends

The world is all set to face a new normal. The benefits of digital technologies and platforms have been highlighted in the last few months, and the impact of COVID-19 has accelerated the need for upskilling workforce. Many companies and organisations have announced plans for remote working, and the workforce has been forced to adapt. This presents an opportunity for educators to rethink their teaching methods and embrace new technologies.

1. Re-emphasize teaching goals

In the current scenario, the focus should be on skills that are in-demand in the industry. This means that educators need to be aware of the latest trends and adapt their teaching methods accordingly. The goal should be to help students develop the skills they need to succeed in the job market.

2. Game-based learning

Game-based learning has become increasingly popular in recent years. It involves using games to engage students and help them learn. This approach can be used in a variety of subjects, from science to math to history. It can be used in the classroom, online, or even at home.

3. Artificial intelligence

Artificial intelligence is changing the way we learn. It is being used to provide personalized learning experiences, help students identify their strengths and weaknesses, and even automate some of the administrative tasks associated with teaching.

4. Hybrid learning

Hybrid learning combines traditional classroom instruction with online learning. This approach allows students to learn at their own pace and provides flexibility for educators.

5. Virtual and augmented reality

Virtual and augmented reality are being used to create immersive learning experiences. This technology can be used in a variety of subjects, from history to science to art.

6.终身学习

终身学习, also known as lifelong learning, is increasingly important in today’s rapidly changing world.终身学习, also known as lifelong learning, is increasingly important in today’s rapidly changing world. It involves continuously learning and adapting to new situations and technologies. This approach can help students stay relevant and competitive in the job market.

In conclusion, educators need to be aware of the latest trends and adapt their teaching methods accordingly.终身学习 is increasingly important in today’s rapidly changing world. This approach can help students stay relevant and competitive in the job market.
Reshaping Learning in New Year

There has been a sea change in recent years with innovations like role play, peer teaching, and gamification that are changing the present education system, says MEENAL ARORA

The recent years have witnessed a sea change in the education sector, not only in terms of increased enrollment and improved learning. The teaching-learning process has been transformed by innovations such as flipped classroom, virtual reality, and gamification. In addition, there has been a shift towards online learning, which is now being widely adopted by students and educators alike.

Innovations like flipped classroom and gamification have revolutionized the way students learn. Flipped classroom involves students watching lectures or reading materials at home and then using class time for discussion and problem-solving. This approach has been shown to improve student engagement and retention.

Gamification, on the other hand, uses game elements such as points, badges, and leaderboards to make learning more engaging and enjoyable. It has been found to improve student motivation and retention.

Online learning has also become more accessible and affordable with the advent of online platforms like Coursera and Udemy. These platforms offer a wide range of courses from different universities around the world, allowing students to learn at their own pace and from anywhere in the world.

The future of education is undoubtedly going to be online, and the trend is only set to continue. With the increasing emphasis on technology and innovation, it is clear that the education sector is undergoing a major transformation. However, it is important for educators to adapt to these changes and ensure that the education system remains relevant and effective.

In conclusion, the future of education is bright with the advent of new technologies and innovative teaching methods. It is important for educators to embrace these changes and work towards creating an education system that is truly effective and relevant.

DoT meets telecom operators, vendors to discuss 5G trials

A day after the government said all operators will be eligible to participate in upcoming 5G trials, the Department of Telecommunications (DoT) met with a select group of service providers and equipment vendors, including Huawei, to discuss the way forward. The meeting was chaired by Telecom Secretary Anupam Shrivastava and attended by the heads of some operators and equipment vendors.

A Huawei executive, who was present at the meeting, declined to comment on the proceedings. Telecom Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad on Tuesday said the government has clearly stated it’s open to hiring equipment from China, though security was paramount.

Several power plants miss emission norms

New Delhi (PTI): Several power plants, which had been allowed to restart thermal power plants that were closed in the previous financial year, have failed to meet emission norms, according to a CEA report. The report said that while 56 power plants were allowed to start thermal power plants that were closed in the previous financial year, only 19 plants were able to meet the emission norms.
