in the midst of all the din created by parties that has earned India the dubious title of a divided nation, Delhi stands as a calm outlier. AAP has significantly changed perceptions...
A phenomenon is developing among segments of the campus community. In just a few weeks, students have turned to threats, vandalism, and violence to express their feelings and beliefs. This is happening in the most politicised campuses in the world, such as Delhi's Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU), and in other universities around the world. In JNU, the protests are against the police and paramilitary forces who have been deployed on campus. The police are accused of brutality and use of excessive force, as they are blocking young minds and refusing to allow a speaker from the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) to address the students. This is happening in the United States, where students have been protesting against the Trump administration's policies, including its immigration policies, and in the United Kingdom, where students have been protesting against cuts to higher education. In all these cases, the students are expressing their dissatisfaction with the current political situation, and they are using their voices to demand change. This is a worrying trend, and it is important that we address it and work towards finding peaceful and constructive solutions.

Gold imports dip 6.77% during Apr-Nov 2019

Gold imports, which have a flowing on the current account deficit, fell by 6.77 per cent during April-November 2019, according to data from the Commerce Ministry. The country imported 309.92 tonnes of gold worth $13.81 billion during the period, compared to 333.76 tonnes valued at $14.61 billion in the corresponding period last year.

The decline in gold imports is largely the result of the government’s initiative to check the smuggling of gold, implemented last year, to curb the country’s current account deficit. The government has also been trying to restrict imports of gold through different measures, including the introduction of an import duty of 10 per cent in July 2019.

To tackle the growing problem of smuggling, the government has also introduced new regulations on the import of gold, including the requirement for all importers to obtain a licence from the government before importing gold.

The Commerce Ministry data also shows that the country imported 17.53 tonnes of silver in the April-November period, valued at $44 million, compared to 22.09 tonnes worth $61.63 million in the corresponding period last year.

The country’s total imports, including gold and silver, amounted to $86.88 billion during the period, compared to $88.24 billion in the corresponding period last year.

Additionally, the RBI has also reduced the reserve ratio for gold and silver to 26 per cent from 30 per cent, which is expected to make it cheaper for importers to bring in these metals.

A RETRO APPEAL

Fans hold on to paper plans, citing comfort and confidence

In a digital and increasingly paperless age, fans of paper planners remain enthusiastic and steadfast in their commitment to the medium, refusing to go fully digital in favor of anything less. While some may argue that digital planning offers greater convenience and organization, there are a multitude of reasons why loyal fans of paper planners continue to hold on to this traditional method of keeping track of their lives.

Some fans believe that paper planners offer a more tactile and engaging experience, allowing them to appreciate the physical act of writing in their planner and the satisfaction of crossing off tasks and events. Others find that paper planners allow for a more flexible and adaptable system, enabling them to make notes and adjustments on the fly without the need for a computer or internet connection.

Still others maintain that paper planners offer a level of privacy and security that digital planners cannot match, as they don't require an internet connection to access and organize information. Finally, some fans simply prefer the nostalgic and comforting feel of a paper planner, finding comfort in the familiarity and reliability of this time-honored method of keeping track of their lives.

In the end, the decision to use paper planners or digital planners is a personal one, with both methods offering their own unique benefits and drawbacks. As long as fans continue to make their choices based on what works best for them, the debate between digital and paper planning will no doubt continue to rage on.

Bridging the gap

Modern society might have surpassed many crossovers but real progress can only be attained when science and wisdom go hand-in-hand.

About religion, science is not the competitor; science is the tool. — de Montmessin

Science and religion, both deal with the unknown. Understanding the unknown is a process. The one with a better understanding of the unknown, dominates. Science is a process, religion is an art.

Science deals with the material world. Religion deals with the spiritual world.

Science is history of nature as a process. Religion is history of nature as a result.

Science is the process of discovering the truth. Religion is the result of discovering the truth.

Science is the process of accumulating facts. Religion is the result of interpreting the facts.
