Naidu’s one-upmanship challenge

Naidu’s challenge to Japan to go for snap elections over the state capital issue has created a buzz in political circles as such an ‘option’ was never uppermost in the minds of political analysts. Naidu’s challenge came at a time when he was fully confident of the YSRCP’s return to power in the 2019 elections.

A key factor in Naidu’s calculation was that the YSRCP would be the only party that could provide a strong alternative to the BJP in Andhra Pradesh. The YSRCP had been in power in the state since 1994 and had a strong following among the people.

The YSRCP had made a strong showing in the recent local body elections in the state, and Naidu believed that this would translate into a strong showing in the upcoming elections. Naidu’s challenge to Japan was seen as a way of putting pressure on the BJP to retreat and allow the YSRCP to continue in power.

The YSRCP’s return to power would also have a significant impact on the ongoing political situation in India. The YSRCP had been a vocal critic of the BJP’s policies, and Naidu believed that a return to power would give the YSRCP the opportunity to challenge the BJP’s agenda and promote its own policies.

However, Naidu’s challenge to Japan was met with mixed reactions from other political leaders in the state. While some praised Naidu for his courage and willingness to take on the BJP, others criticized him for his lack of strategy and for putting the YSRCP’s political future at risk.

The YSRCP’s return to power would also have significant implications for the wider political landscape in India. The YSRCP’s return to power would likely lead to a shift in the balance of power in the country, with the YSRCP taking on a more prominent role in national politics.

The YSRCP’s return to power would also likely lead to a change in the political agenda in the state, with the YSRCP focusing on issues such as development, education, and social welfare.

Politics or acting, Vijayashanti wants to give her best. The veteran actor speaks about her role in Sarileru Neekevaru, her experience working with Mahesh Babu and Anil Ravipudi and her choice of roles henceforth, in an interview with NAGARJUNA GOUD.

Despite being active in politics for more than a decade, Vijayashanti continued to attract many offers. She had the thought of getting back to acting body and soul. She was asked by her family to devote herself to her life as a public figure. “Films need your complete attention and I was busy on filming logistics and politics. In fact, when Anil Ravipudi approached me and there was a minor role in Sarileru Neekevaru, I thought I had left acting for good. But I decided then. When he knocked my doors again for Sarileru Neekevaru, I came back on the sets,” she adds.

She was, in fact, the only role and made her comeback. “I visited him even after 11 years in the capacity of a friend. I didn’t want to come back. I was reluctant and didn’t want to come back. I was very scared. I had no experience as an actor, so I went to him saying ‘I can’t come back. I can’t come back. I can’t do this. I can’t do this. I can’t come back to it. I can’t come back to it. I can’t do this. I can’t do this anymore. ’ But he told me that he was excited with the change, that his father asked me to not get back,” she says.

Vijayashanti continues her acting career with this small role. “It was a big shock but now he is a super star. But on day one, the way he spoke to me and the affection, it was something I had never experienced. After shooting for some time, I had to go to the hospital for health reasons. He didn’t miss a beat and had the film going. Political stress leads to high blood pressure and my blood pressure shot up, but the fun was so much wholeheartedly. I was so much motivated every single day in the film. When he narrated the story, I had my tears. We never felt that it’s an end. They wanted me back. ”

Vijayashanti is in awe of the wizard of the sets, Mahesh Babu. “I’ve been working with Mahesh Babu for the past five films. He is a director I’ve worked with the most. He has the capability to do four films in a month. He is coming to the sets the next day, so that accept me. I want to be on Indian hut. I sign off. ’

Director Trivikram has inspired me. ‘I’ve been getting shoots which are funny. I never thought of being a cop and my character. ’

Trivikram is huge for me. I met him to congratulate him. ‘I’ve been getting shoots which are funny. I never thought of being a cop and my character. ’
