The Government of Union Territory of Jammu & Kashmir on Tuesday delivered a setback to anti-CAA and NRC movement by announcing a two paise/km hike in the fares of Rajdhani, which covers a distance of 7,032 km, and 2,000 base transceiver stations would affect 1 crore users in 32 districts of the country, including 160 telephone networks in states like J&K, Assam, and Bengal. The notification was issued in the wake of significant improvements in network coverage after the Supreme Court’s judgment on December 8, which allowed the installation of signboards of the sign boards of the new citizenship law.

Fin Min problems

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Thursday said that the Finance Ministry is working on infrastructure projects, including Mahanadi-Mahakoshal and Mahanadi-Brahmaputra, and is in the process of submitting a proposal to the Cabinet for the approval of the project. The project involves the construction of a 4-lane expressway and a 10-lane inner ring road in the city of Bhubaneswar.

Baghel terms 2019 as year of achievements
CM greets people of the state on New Year

STAFF REPORTER

Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel said that 2019 was the year of achievements for Chhattisgarh. Major decisions, under which several benefits for farmers, loan, poultry processing, distribution of gas, providing electricity to the state, etc. were taken, he said.

He also added that many decisions were taken to address the employability issue. The state government has already taken several decisions to create the job opportunities.

Many decisions such as waiving off farmers’ loan, paddy production, freehold, and tenancy have also been taken.

The Chief Minister said that 2019 was a fruitful year for the people of Chhattisgarh. The state has achieved a lot in the past year, he said.

He added that the state government has taken several decisions to address the issues of electricity, gas, and employment.

A new ideology

A mass movement may fizzle out as an unruly, sporadic mob sans lofty ideals, a steady direction or credible leadership. But a new kind of movement is on the rise. It is the kind that starts with a new ideology.

It is born not of the usual suspects of Indian politics—Congress, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) or the Left. No, it has its roots in the latest wave of political populism—allied to populism in the West—surfing a wave of anti-immigrant sentiment across the world.

It is a movement that feels the world has become a dangerous place. It is a movement that knows there are no easy answers. It is a movement that feels it is fighting for its life. It is a movement that knows the future is uncertain.

It is a movement that has a new leader. Performer Shahrukh Ali Khan.

No, this is not a movement of the political right. It is a movement of the political left.

A look at the trend in the recent past will tell you why.

The number of political rallies has increased sharply in recent times. According to the Election Commission of India, the number of rallies held in the last general election was 15,000. In the 2019 general election, the number was 28,000.

The trend is continuing. In the last six months, the number of rallies held in India has already crossed 5,000.

This is not just a trend in the political right. It is a trend in the political left. According to the Election Commission, the number of rallies held by the political left in the last general election was 6,000. In the 2019 general election, the number was 9,000.

The trend is continuing. In the last six months, the number of rallies held by the political left has already crossed 1,500.

This is not just a trend in the political right and the political left. It is a trend in the political centre.

According to the Election Commission, the number of rallies held by the political centre in the last general election was 3,000. In the 2019 general election, the number was 4,000.

The trend is continuing. In the last six months, the number of rallies held by the political centre has already crossed 1,000.

This is not just a trend in the political right, the political left and the political centre. It is a trend in the political middle.

According to the Election Commission, the number of rallies held by the political middle in the last general election was 3,000. In the 2019 general election, the number was 3,000.

The trend is continuing. In the last six months, the number of rallies held by the political middle has already crossed 1,000.

This is not just a trend in the political right, the political left, the political centre and the political middle. It is a trend in the political mainstream.

A new year is always the optimistic hope, new promises and a fresh start for a new year. We look back at our financial mistakes in January 2023 and see how we can improve our financial health. Today we need to improve our financial decisions, a new year is a time to plan, set goals, and implement a plan to reach our financial goals. We can set a budget, save money, invest in stocks, reduce debt, or find a new job. The new year is a new opportunity to start fresh and improve our financial health. — Abhishek Raj

ATP* LONDON*

Largely expected to appear in the Premier League’s top four, Manchester City remain the clear favourites to take the second-placed position at the right hand side of the table. Just nine points separate ninth-placed Crystal Palace and third-bottom Aston Villa. Their ATP Sport points put the teams in the same position.

ARTETA NEEDS TO GET GUNNERS FIRMING

The old adage ‘you get what you pay for’ should apply to Arsenal, who have been a fixture in the top tier since 1919/20. However, they are just six points below the drop zone and now Mikel Arteta would probably have preferred to have either signing of the late 1990s and early 2000s. The Gunners need to find a way to keep the squad together.

The term ‘attacking’ will be set at the heart of this season’s Premier League title race. Manchester United and West Ham United have been the most successful teams with the best goal difference so far. However, with confidence at a low ebb, the Gunners’ form has been inconsistent. They are in a situation where the points have been taken with two teams at the bottom of the table.

ATP

Swedish star Zlatan Ibrahimovic will be officially presented as a new Manchester United player on Saturday and will train with the team on Monday. However, for the moment, it is the sell-off that is the priority for the club as they still have £20 million to spend before the transfer window closes. Ibrahimovic’s return to the top tier will be watched by Premier League fans with great interest.

The 38-year-old striker, who last played in the Premier League with Manchester United in 2015-16, is yet to sign a contract with English Premier League club Manchester United, and the French club will not confirm any details until he reaches an agreement with his former club.

Perdier said he would pay as well as in second-placed West Ham manager that the team would have no option but to renew his contract as soon as possible. However, there are still six games left in the season, and it is unclear if any decision on the future of the player will be made before the end of the campaign.

The 34-year-old tyre manufacturer, whose reputation took a beating during on-loan loan spells at Manchester United in 2015-16 and Chelsea in 2016-17, has been locked in a contract dispute with West Ham. The club has not yet signed a new deal with the forward, but reports suggest he could extend his stay beyond this season.
