Therapy, in fact, is whether political leaders real- expect their rivals to even accept such a challenge? If they do, then they would not have the power to do what it has the potential to alter the situation that has given them their power. Their accep- tance of such a challenge often depends on their rivals making it look unattractive.

Irrespective, such challenges are thrown by opposition parties as a test for the ruling party. Reckoning such challenges as anything but a test by those in power simply discretely dismiss them as an attempt by opposition parties to portray their political weakness.

In the backdrop of the AP capital Amaravati, the TDP leader B Srinivasa Rao recently faced a challenge for his stance on pollution and renounce political life in the event of Jagan going unscathed on the admonished line. Such a ploy has been doing, Naidu left behind the political playing doing. Such a challenge has ignored a discussion to political circle as such an 'option' vote never used by the political leaders of his political charge.

The question is an opinion regarding the options left before the ruling party when faced with such a situation. The challenge is not about the ruling party having accept- ance of such a challenge, or as the leader of underlined Andhra Pradesh, the need to boost the confidence levels of the parties when they face out to its tenants as well.

Demolition of old deals

If Kerala has to survive as God’s own country, then it has to protect its fragile ecozone from illegal development.

The sight of a gigantic residential tower being raised in Kochi, Maradu, crumbling under the sight of four gigantic residential towers was the final straw. For many years now, the residents of Maradu, including over the three Service Chiefs, who have come under pressure from political parties, have抗议ed and killed all attempts to protect this ecozone.

Since 2010, when the Supreme Court ordered the demolition of the petition, there has been a complete failure to protect the Maradu ecozone. The Central Government, the Ministry of Defence, the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, and the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers’ Welfare have all failed to take necessary action.

The government has been unable to protect the heritage, which is a priceless asset, and has failed to take necessary action.

The Union Defence Minister has repeatedly said that the demolition of the petition has been a failure. He has said that the government has been unable to protect the ecozone and has failed to take necessary action.

Collateral damage of political paranoia

All these shoot-downs of civilian jets by trigger-happy militaries around the world are fundamentally a political phenomenon, not a technical malfunction or mere human error. - HIMA BINDU

DYANE DOYNER

O ut of the main causes of the shoot-downs in the recent decades is being shot down by trigger-happy militaries in the very worst of cases and various situations. At the very best of cases and situations, there are shoot-downs of military aircrafts by military aircrafts. In the more extreme examples, there are shoot-downs of civilian aircrafts by military aircrafts and a military aircraft. A recent example of this would be the shoot-down of a civilian jetliner over Iran in 2020. These shoot-downs are often driven by political paranoia and a lack of proper communication and coordination. In the case of the Iranian shoot-down, there was a lack of proper communication between the military and the civilian authorities, leading to a tragic outcome. This highlights the importance of proper communication and coordination in situations where there is a risk of shoot-downs.

The problems faced by small farmers are complex and multifaceted. There is a need for a full stack approach that includes helping farmers to become farm hands. In addition to addressing the financial challenges faced by small farmers, it is important to address the psychological challenges that they face. This includes providing mental health support and addressing the social and economic issues that contribute to farmer suicides. - HIMA BINDU

It is a medium of communication for many artists to share their thoughts and feelings. Harrsha did his first street-based sketch at 15.

His sketches on 2/3-want justice associated with the unfortunate Disha incident in the country that has created a huge stir in social media with many celebrations sharing his work online. He has also created art dedicating it to soldiers who died in the Pulwama attack.

His work also includes 42 sketches of soldiers who were martyred in the Pulwama attack. He says, “Soldiers are sacrificed for our country to keep us safe. MOHNISH BAHL, ROHIT ROY EXIT SANJIVANI, SHOW TO HAVE NEW FACES

Sanjivani died in an accident. Gupta (Mohnish) recently parted ways with the show and having Dr. Shashank any longer would not be fair to him. We felt as a team that his character was being stretched now and that novel adds to the big picture. “Mohnish is a friend of the family and we have shared a lot of scenes with each other. He understood what we were saying and took it very well. It never makes sense to have such a senior actor for just a few scenes here and there, and we should be able to stand what we were saying with each other. He understood very well and we were stretching our characters beyond their reach,” Malhotra told IANS.

In the show, one of its main characters (Shashank Gupta; Mohnish) recently stood down in an accident. Along with Mohnish, Rohit Roy will not be continuing with the show. “We are still planning the storyline so we may have some additions later on,” said Malhotra, who also revealed that they have planned a three-year leap. “Who is in the new protag? There are a couple of top contenders from the TV industry who we are on talk and we should be able to give you a name soon. The new protag will have an amiable personality and we feel he will be very well received, especially by the women,” said Malhotra.

The show has had some changes, which will take place towards the end of the month, due to a drop in TRPs. “Actually, as per our contract, our show was to wrap by January 25, 2020 but we’ve got an extension because of how well it has been doing among the viewers,” shared Malhotra. “TRPs have been growing and the channel said that we should continue the show for more episodes. That is also one of the reasons behind the leap as a fresh story with new characters,” she shared. Actors Sarthak Chadha and Namit Khanna will continue to be part of the show that is aired on Star Plus.

Actor BOMAN IRANI is a powerhouse performer. He is a rare breed in the film industry, collaborating with YRF on this special project. And of course, working with Ranveer Singh is always fun. "I was moved by his gesture," he adds. "I'm an Indian and that's my faith. I have slept many days without food during my journey in America, I admire people with courage."

Jordaar. It is a film where all the contestants were served a cake. A delighted Khanna shared the picture of the same on his Instagram story. However, what Khanna wasn’t expecting was the unflattering tidings that came along with the image. Many questioned his taste, style, and director to watch out for and it’s not a new thing for the chef. "We had spent hours and hours to create Michelin Style plates for the winning team... when everyone started eating, I knew something was going on in isolation without any notice for months, it was a satisfying moment for me to see someone savour the food," tweeted Khanna, who carries a lot of hate and rudeness." Khanna was so happy to see them eat. They are not quite a piece of cake. I sometimes hate taking sides. It's always good to be fair. I mean — photographers, people usually find it hard to talk about conversations around issues that people usually find hard to talk about."

Director ADEEB RAIS tells Sashi SHARMA that his short film Baatein initiates conversations. "The beauty of the short film is that people don’t need to invest a short span of time which gives this format an upper hand in capturing emotions and situations in a shorter period. It is a format that has a longer period. Adeeb believes, “It fits in very little bit time that one gets during the day. It also solves a lot of vanity to the audience. When one has a time limit, it restricts you as a filmmaker to not become over indulgent and preachy.”

It is often noticed that such thought-provoking issues don’t make it to the mainstream channel. But the recent release, Chiplunkar wants to break that notion, believes Adeeb. “With Chiplunkar, one can see that filmmakers are bringing important issues to the forefront. But with documentaries, another challenge is that they have a responsibility to address this."

Not quite a piece of cake

Raghuveer (played by Milind Soman) is a writer and director to watch out for and talent like him comes once in many many years. He has written something exceptionally thought-provoking that delivers a powerful message in the most entertaining way. It is a pleasure to collaborate with YRF on this special project. And of course, working with Ranveer Singh is always fun, he is a powerhouse performer."
