Stepping out again? Here’s some useful skincare advice

Prolonged pandemic and lockdowns gave us enough time to take care of our skin and stay away from a regular exposure of sun, dust, and pollution. Now that people are beginning to step out, skincare essentials become more sensitive to these environmental factors.

“There you notice more breaks, or dark skin or fine lines or pigmented spots on the skin? If so, you need to have some good reactions to the sun’s rays: After spending maximum time indoors for the last few months, now that we are gradually getting ready to step out again post lockdown, it is important to use full-spectrum sunscreen to protect our skin from the direct UV rays which can cause discolorations. It would be ideal to use a sunscreen of SPF 30 or more every 2 hours starting from 8 am.

Cover Up: Staying indoors made our skin more sensitive towards the sun. It’s important to retain the sun’s rays for a longer period. Sunproof can help, but it’s not enough. Use a scarf, a hat, or a hat, to protect your face and neck, glasses to cover your eyes. Wear a scarf to cover your face.

Stay Hydrated: Drink at least two liters of water to keep your body hydrated throughout the day. Drinking enough water can help you combat a variety of skin issues and prevent from dehydration. It also helps your digestive system to flush out toxins from your body. This is a very good practice, especially after the lockdown. Use moisturiser or skincare products with hyaluronic acid as one of the ingredients; use itternally. A spritz of cooling face mist also helps.

Ed Hardy: Diet is an often-overlooked part of how we adapt to our external environments. Our diet can have an impact on our skin. Incorporating these skin-loving foods like Blackcurrant, Sun-dried Tomatoes, and Leafy greens, Cauliflower, Green tea can add a little extra sun protection into your hair and protect your skin from free radicals.

Ensure the adequate intake of nutrition

What you eat and what you do not eat has a significant effect on your overall health.

An unhealthy diet can increase the risk of diseases by many folds. Healthy dietary modifications are an important aspect of managing various diseases, including dermatological diseases such as psoriasis.

Eat Healthy: Diet is an often-overlooked part of how we adapt to our external environments. Your diet can have an impact on your skin. Incorporating these skin-loving foods like Blueberry, Watermelon, Greens, Cauliflower, Green tea can add a little extra sun protection into your hair and protect your skin from free radicals.

FOLLOW HEALTHY COOKING PRACTICES:

- Do not cook oils on high heat.
- Go easy on the barbecue.
- Be careful what you put in the microwave.
- When cooking vegetables, steam until just a touch using a small amount of water.
- Wash all fruits and vegetables.
- Focus on plant foods - these are rich in phytochemicals and food fibers, which are loaded with antioxidants, vitamins, and minerals.
- Reduce the intake of alcohol and alcohol-containing foods - alcohol contains some numbers that can increase the risk of diseases.

Wash all fruits and vegetables. Add probiotics to your diet. Stay Hydrated. Drink at least two liters of water. Reduce the intake of alcohol and alcohol-containing foods. These 3 elements work together to help you combat a variety of skin issues and prevent from dehydration. Use a scarf or a hat, to protect your face and neck, glasses to cover your eyes. Wear a scarf to cover your face.

It’s a story that needs to be told now: Vikram on Thank You

Thank you is not a message-oriented film but has an undercurrent of something wonderful. It has got mainstream elements - humour, drama, romance and a little bit of action, says Nagaraj Goud.

Vikram's next, Thank You, is a story of a 20-year-old who wants to bring something new to cinema as its medium. It does not have a message-oriented film but has an undercurrent of something wonderful. It got all mainstream elements - humour, drama, romance and a little bit of action, says Nagaraj Goud.

It also the first time in his near 20-year career that Vikram will be directing a story which he had written. Co-written with Gopi, it talks about a young boy who, against all odds, touches the story of Thank You.

"I saw that the film is not a blockbuster but a story that needs to be told now. It would resonate with the audience, wrote the superstar.

Thank you for the society. I would like to make a useful film for the society, he says.

It is the reason why Vikram is excited about the film. His next, Thank You, is a story of a young man who marries his best friend. When his life gets complicated, he receives a 'golden ticket' of sorts for both the extremes — either it is the better extreme or the worst.

As he was talking about the story, he made a film that was not only for the audience of Vikram Chaitanya, but also for the audience of others. It will be a surprise for everyone. The team of Chaitanya and Prabhas will be one of the main highlights of the film and the story between them, I believe will be something that audiences will carry in their heart forever," he adds.

Original Tamil director Ashwath Marimuthu, who sometime before confirmed her casting in the film, said, "Vikram is my best friend. When his big idea came, I just wanted it to be a part of it. I respect performances, brilliant by head-turning and brilliant." (Oh My Kadavule). Vignesh Shivan, who has got 25 years of being in the industry, once confirmed her casting in the film, adding that "I'm interested in working with Vignesh."

"We've been talking about a project for a while and I'm glad that we've finally found a narrative and a story. I know, the commercial appeal Vikram believes ott will exist with cinema. 'OTT is the future of days speculations were rife that doubts over it. There will be bigger in the last three months of people are watching or the extreme which is feel-others. "It's also the first time in his near 20-year career that Vikram will be directing a story which he had written. Co-written with Gopi, it talks about a young boy who, against all odds, touches the story of Thank You."
