IVF circular: ‘no need for any panic as the situation is under control,’ said a statement from the CMD. More than 3.08 lakh new cases and 10,042 new deaths were reported in the last 24 hours, taking the total caseload to 2,28,08,795 and the death toll to 2,53,389.

The Port of Visakhapatnam (VP) witnessed a decline in the import of coal. Along with the 188 rakes, 513 rakes (about 1.9 million tonnes) of coal reached the port in June. The import of coal during the nationwide lockdown from March to May is only 855 rakes (about 3.5 million tonnes) of coal. According to the statement from the CP, the import of coal is expected to reach 2,500 rakes by the end of July.

About 235-61 acres of wasteland in the visakhapatnam Port area allocated to Amar Rajahpet Private Limited. The company is required to pay an amount of Rs. 1.04 lakh as the port fees and Rs. 2.04 lakh as the port tax.

JAGAN IN A QUANDARY OVER ABOLITION

AP Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy has been facing a dilemma ever since the government announced a decision to abolish the legislative council, which was expected to create difficulties for the ruling party. The opposition YSR Congress Party has been accusing the government of trying to create a ‘political vacuum’ by abolishing the council.

The government’s move to abolish the legislative council has sparked a controversy in the state, with opposition leaders saying it is an attempt to create a political vacuum. The government has defended its decision, saying it is aimed at ensuring good governance.

The council was one of the two legislative organs in the state, along with the assembly. It was established in 1954 and had been functioning ever since.

The move to abolish the council has been met with mixed reactions in the state. While some people have welcomed the decision, saying it will help in ensuring good governance, others have expressed concern that it could create a political vacuum.

The government has justified its decision by saying that the council is not necessary for ensuring good governance and that its abolition will help in ensuring efficient governance.

The move to abolish the council has also been seen as a way to consolidate power in the hands of the ruling party. The opposition has accused the government of trying to create a political vacuum by abolish the council.

Ban on China apps

The People’s Republic of China has proven itself not only to be unfair. This fallout was evident since July 2 when news that India has banned 59 Chinese-made apps did not come as a shock for many. It was the culmination of the unfolding of events on June 15. High-population states like Telangana, Sikkim, and West Bengal have been banned. Some of these apps count India among their largest markets.

India, for example, is the biggest market for TikTok and the ban on TikTok is expected to hit hard in the fledgling Indian creative and tech industry. TikTok has been valued at $30 billion, with a valuation of $10 billion coming from India alone. It is quite likely that this will have a significant impact on the Indian creative and tech industry that is still trying to establish itself on the world map.

The flip side of this is the positive. India has a long history of taking stand-alone decisions and not relying on others for its own food grains and medicines. This is something that we have to adopt in a more proactive way. India must become self-sufficient in everything and not rely on others for anything.

We are going through an unprecedented crisis. This is unprecedented in two ways. It is unprecedented in terms of its impact and it is unprecedented in terms of the way it has come to India.

This is not the first time that India has been subjected to a severe crisis. The first time it was in 1947 when India was partitioned and thousands of Indians were killed. The second time it was in 1971 when India was invaded by Pakistan and thousands of Indians were killed. The third time it was in 1998 when India conducted a nuclear test and thousands of people were killed.

In all these cases, India has undergone losses and pain. But this is the first time that India has undergone a crisis of this magnitude and duration. India has never faced a crisis like this before.

Arrest the delinquent cops
The brutality committed by P. Jayaraj and Fenix is unacceptable. It is high time that policemen in India also learnt to fear if they violate it.

Utpal Guha

The dawdling tax revenue at both the Centre and the States, both of which have still not fully appreciated that they are being taxed to a fare-thee-well in the GST regime, is the result ofdesktop savers offering a few per cent interest on their deposits, which is tantamount to putting money at the mercy of the taxman. Revenue from the personal income tax has been going down as tax evaders are switching to the GST for their tax avoidance. The Centre and the States are going to have to do something about this before it is too late.

It is high time that the Centre and the States got serious about the delinquent cops. It is the responsibility of both the Centre and the States to ensure that all police personnel who commit custodial deaths have to be arrested. If the police want to enjoy the protection of the law, they must not be allowed to murder people.

Akshay’s ‘Sooryavanshi’, Ranveer’s ‘83 confirm theatrical release dates

Ranveer Singh is looking forward to wrapping up his digital duty for ‘83, and now that he has completed filming for the biopic, he’s raring to go. Sources reveal that Ranveer and team ‘83 are all geared up for a digital release on Christmas this year.

In Rohit Shetty’s upcoming cop drama, Ranveer Singh plays Kapil Dev, the legendary cricketer who steered the Indian cricket team to their first World Cup win in 1983.

The announcement comes at a time when a slew of films will release on Diwali while 2020 pandemic, delayed due to the COVID-19 lockdown, has been widespread. Akshay Kumar-starrer ‘Sooryavanshi’, which stars Deepika Padukone,Priyanka Chopra Jonas, and Katrina Kaif, has been scheduled for December 4, 2020. The release is highly anticipated, with the film being the first major release post-lockdown.

Rohit Shetty’s cop drama, ‘Sooryavanshi’, has been confirmed to release on Christmas, 2020. Akshay Kumar, who plays the role of IPS officer Veer Singh, has been shooting for the film amid the ongoing pandemic. The film is said to be a sequel to Rohit Shetty’s previous films, including ‘Simmba’ and ‘Singham’. Akshay’s character, Veer Singh, has been a fan favourite, and the actor has been looking forward to bringing him back to the big screen.

Alia Bhatt-starrer ‘Sadak 2’, which stars Ranbir Kapoor and Shraddha Kapoor, has also been confirmed for a Christmas release. The film is a sequel to the 1991 film ‘Sadak’, and is said to be an investigative limited TV show.

The announcements come at a time when cinema halls will reopen, multiplexes will welcome back audiences, and filmmakers are gearing up to release their films. The pandemic has disrupted the film industry, with many projects being delayed or cancelled. However, with the vaccination drive gaining momentum, there is hope that the film industry will bounce back soon.

The recent success of web series like ‘Sadda Haq’ and ‘Special Ops’ has created a huge opportunity for actors working directly on the streaming platform. Actors not only in the traditional theatrical route, and going for a digital release, but also in the traditional theatrical route, are looking to make a comeback. The film industry is looking to make a comeback, and filmmakers are looking to make the most of the situation.
