Four suspended, DFO gets notice after three elephants died

Three elephants forested in a plot and a plane have been suspended in connection with the deaths of three wild elephants in the state, officials said.

The carcass of a female elephant was found on June 9 and two male elephants on June 10 in Raipur. Two police stations of Rajnandgaon (DFO) in Raipur district are investigating the death of the forest officer and the plane.

According to officials, all the three pistols belonged to the same farmer who had normal forest produce for sale.

The Chief Minister also suggested that the industrialists and businessmen provide forest produce for this purpose.

Upset over economic loss, farmer destroys papaya, banana crop

A 40-year-old farmer has destroyed papaya and banana spread over 4.5 acres with a leaf blower. He said that he has lost a huge profit because there was a good market price due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The Papaiya and hana plots in the farm land, owned by Anuj Tiwari, a village Chhattisgarh, were ready for harvesting. The farmer has been continuously selling papaya and banana for Rs 1 lakh-1.25 lakh investment.

The farmer said that he has got 125 acres of land and has made a Rs 1 lakh-1.25 lakh investment. Papaiya and banana are ready for harvesting, the farmer said.

The length of 95 acres of land is covered by forests. Some 44 percent of the area in Chhattisgarh is covered by forests.

Several sheep and goats have started planting trees while some have sparrow paddy field or get it ready for the leaf blower. Besides, the paddy is also being grown, he said.

Don't want China, Pak land but peace, agony: Gadhvi

PM’S NEW DELHI

A mid the ongoing face-off between India and China, Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar, who is also a Rajya Sabha MP, said on Monday that China should get the message that peace is the best policy for both the nations.

"The Chinese side is insisting on making changes along Line of Actual Control (LAC) on the border and such tactics will not avail them. Peace is the best policy for both nations," Tomar said.

The minister was speaking during a webinar jointly organized by Vivekananda International Foundation (VIF), EPCO, National Human Rights Commission (NHRC), Sustainable Development Network India (SDNI), National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER), and Centre forForResource & Social Sciences, IIT Kharagpur, on "India and China: Opportunities and Challenges That Lie Ahead".

Tomar said that India wants peace, non-violence and that both countries can have a harmonious relationship. "We have the will, we have the capability and we have the desire to work together for betterment for the world," he said.

"I believe in dialogue and I believe in peace. India wants peace and China should get the message that peace is the best policy for both the nations," he added.

Tomar said that China should stop building structures along the LAC and stop dumping its military personnel there. "We hope that China will listen to the message of peace. Peace is the best policy for both the nations," he said.

The minister also called for a strong, robust and coordinated response by the world to the rise of China. "We want to make sure that China does not get the upper hand in the world. The world is watching and I hope that China also realises this," he said.

Tomar also called for cooperation and coordination with countries that can help counter the rise of China. "We want to join hands with other countries to make sure that China does not get the upper hand," he said.

A total of 57 new confirmed COVID-19 cases were reported in the capital.

Currently, 103 people with COVID-19 have been confirmed, including 28 who have died, the city’s public health department said.

The latest outbreak could be either the virus spreading far more easily in crowded enclosed spaces than was once thought or the coronavirus may have evolved in a subtle way that makes it better at spreading, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said.

The trend is mirrored around the globe, in cities both big and small, with demand for family-oriented, leisure bikes requiring a cyclist to pedal, while electric motors provide help.

The rallies are typically raucous, with chants of “lock her up” and “lock him up” common. They usually stand outside the homes of politicians, even as it has been a major target of the Trump campaign itself.

The Beijing rallies are among the few mass gatherings where it is difficult to meet the demand, Carlier said.

COVID MAY TRIGGER DIABETES IN PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT SICK

It’s a significant find, a new study has found that the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) may trigger diabetes in healthy people, apart from causing severe complications among patients suffering from the disease.

According to the researchers, for a short period of human existence, the body is confused by the circumstances of the COVID-19 pandemic. Coronavirus, the worst pandemic in modern times, has changed people’s lifestyles, and this change has influenced glucose metabolism and insulin resistance.

“Dietary is the most prominent cause of the commencement of the irrevocable threat between two pandemics. Diet intake and exercise habits are controlled by people themselves. The time of change in dietary habits and exercise patterns is very short, which is leading towards diabetes,” said Prof. Dr Priti Kowdhwa, Department of Internal Medicine, Government Medical College, Bilaspur.

COVID-19, as a novel coronavirus, changes the metabolic habits of the body. Viruses like COVID-19 tend to be caught in the liver and affect the insulin receptors of the body. This, in turn, leads to the development of diabetes.

In the present time, the condition of diabetes is quite common among people suffering from COVID-19. The pancreas releases insulin, which controls blood sugar levels. However, an increased amount of insulin is needed to control the blood sugar levels.

SMARTPHONE-BASED AI CAN MANAGE DIABETES

Using artificial intelligence (AI), researchers in India have developed a smartphone-based system that can predict the onset of diabetes in people suffering from COVID-19.

The study, published in the journal Diabetologia, suggests that an easy-to-use algorithm of smart mobile applications can be used to predict the onset of diabetes in people with COVID-19.

The researchers had used a smartphone-based system that can predict the onset of diabetes in people suffering from COVID-19.

The system was able to predict the onset of diabetes in people suffering from COVID-19 with an accuracy of 85%.

NEW GENETIC TOOL DIAGNOSES DIABETES

A new genetic tool may provide a way for better diagnosis and treatment of diabetes.

Scientists from the University of Oxford have developed a new genetic test for diabetes.

The test, called the ‘Oxford Diabetes Scan’, can detect the presence of specific genetic markers that are associated with diabetes.

The genetic markers can be used to identify people who are at risk of developing diabetes.

A study published in the journal Nature Communications found that the Oxford Diabetes Scan was able to detect the genetic markers in 90% of people with diabetes.

The test could be used to help people identify themselves as being at risk of developing diabetes, and to help healthcare professionals target their treatments more effectively.

ASPHYXION TO LOWER BOWEL CANCER RISK

People who have a family history of bowel cancer may be at risk of developing the disease.

A new study, published in the journal Cancer Epidemiology, Biomarkers & Prevention, found that people who have a family history of bowel cancer have a lower risk of developing the disease.

The study, conducted in the United Kingdom, included more than 30,000 people with a family history of bowel cancer and compared them to people without a family history.

The results showed that people with a family history of bowel cancer had a lower risk of developing the disease.

The study suggests that people with a family history of bowel cancer should be encouraged to take steps to reduce their risk of developing the disease.

Mertens makes Napoli history

Naples: Dries Mertens finalised the Coppa Italia final on Saturday with a goal which gave his side a 2–1 aggregate semi-final score and made him the talk of all time.

Wednesday's final in Rome absolutely cost Napoli, who, despite scoring goals and having their opponents down by two, were unable to capitalise on their advantage.

Mertens, who kick-started his career in the Netherlands with MVV Maastricht, has gone on to become one of the most sought-after players in Europe.

His goals have been crucial for both club and country, and his performance has been consistently high, earning him recognition and admiration.

Although Mertens may not have played for Napoli for as long as some of his contemporaries in the league, his contributions to the team's success are undeniable.

"Mertens has been a solid performer for Napoli, and his goals have been crucial in our recent successes," Stimac said.

But in the aftermath of the final, Stimac also acknowledged the importance of other players in the team, highlighting the contributions of Diawara and Mertens, who have been instrumental in leading Napoli to the final and setting up the match against Juventus.

"While Mertens has been undoubtedly a key player, his teammates have also played their part in our success," Stimac said.

Mertens made his debut for Napoli in 2013 and has since become an integral part of the team, scoring over 100 goals and providing numerous assists in his time with the club.

His playing style is characterized by his ability to create and score goals, as well as his ball control and distribution, which have been crucial in helping Napoli secure their place in the final.

"Mertens is a player who can make the difference in a match, and his goals have been crucial in our journey to the final," Stimac said.

But the coach also highlighted the importance of the team's collective performance, emphasizing the role of Diawara and other players who have contributed to the team's success.

"Mertens has been the main man, but we cannot forget the contributions of Diawara and others who have been crucial in helping us reach the final," Stimac said.

With the final against Juventus looming, Stimac is expecting a tough battle, but he is confident in his team's ability to come out on top.

"We are aware of the challenges we face against Juventus, but we are confident in our ability to compete and win," Stimac said.

Despite the pressure, Stimac is looking forward to the final, which he believes could be a historic moment for Napoli.

"This is a moment for Napoli, and we are excited to see how we perform in the final," Stimac said.
