It is not just recent economic changes that have led to a decline in the middle class. The pandemic has also contributed to the erosion of the middle class. The collapse of the global economy has had a significant impact on the middle class, leading to job losses and decreased economic opportunities. The middle class is defined by its ability to support itself through employment and to provide for its family. However, the pandemic has disrupted this stability, leading to a sense of insecurity and uncertainty. The government's response to the pandemic has also been criticized, with some arguing that it has not done enough to support the middle class. The middle class plays a critical role in the functioning of any country, and their economic welfare is essential for the long-term growth and stability of the nation. It is crucial that the government takes a proactive and inclusive approach to address the challenges faced by the middle class and to ensure that they are able to weather the current economic storm.

The healthcare industry is facing the COVID-19 pandemic, many dried up due to a steep decline in footfalls, and additional investments needed to keep overheads. As per the recent FICCI-EY Services Committee, talks to several standalone and small hospitals in India, the ongoing healthcare crisis, with almost 80% fall in diagnostic labs is even worse, with almost 2,000 hospitals facing financial distress accentuated by the lockdowns which had fallen to a mere 40% during late-March and May 1st pre-COVID occupancy levels.  In a survey report on the economic impact of COVID-19 on healthcare sector occupancy levels had fallen to a 20% occupancy levels. These results were based on a deep dive into the financial health of the hospitals and the impact on diagnostic labs, with 40% of the patient visits and revenue. Given the ongoing healthcare crisis, coupled with the existing disease burden of our population, it would be debilitating if significant part of the country’s critical healthcare infrastructure are to be incapacitated at this point.

Dr. Nandakumar Jamain, Member - FICCI Health Services Committee, talks to The Pioneer's R.KAMYASA, to help us understand this economic burden better and discuss possible solutions.
