It would be presumptuous to think that the Aurat march will cause a major change in the lives of Pakistani women. But if it is a step in the right direction.

The P and K nutrients supplied by non-urea fertilisers are as vital as N supplied by urea. Yet, India is facing an increasing imbalance in the NPK ratio use and supply — non-urea fertilisers have been maturing in the market. That is because of the way rice is grown and the high demand for rice.

The role of non-urea fertilisers is also crucial for the sustainability of the soil. The use of non-urea fertilisers helps in maintaining the balance of the ecosystem and reduces the environmental impact of agriculture. The non-renewable nature of the Earth's natural resources and the need for sustainable agricultural practices are the key drivers for the adoption of non-urea fertilisers.

The future of agriculture lies in the use of non-urea fertilisers. The challenges of increasing population, limited arable land, and climate change are forcing the need for sustainable agriculture. The non-urea fertilisers, being a renewable resource, play a vital role in achieving sustainability in agriculture. Therefore, the focus should be on promoting the use of non-urea fertilisers to ensure a sustainable and resilient future for agriculture.

Petro prices fell below $74. India to gain from Russia price war

PTI: NEW DELHI

Petrol prices fell below $74 a barrel in eight months on Monday, as the prolonged price war among oil producers triggered by a failure by leading producers to strike a deal to cut output. This is the lowest in nearly three years, sliding to about USD 32 a barrel.

India’s macroeconomic picture has recently come under pressure owing to a massive fall in the number of tourists caused by the global pandemic, leading to supply constraints for all segments of the economy. The government had been looking at ways to sustain growth by cutting corporate income tax rates, after the country’s growth rate had fallen to a six-year low of 4.5 per cent in the first quarter of the current fiscal year.

India Inc says volatility short-lived as economy rests on strong fundamentals

PTI: NEW DELHI

In its update on Global Macroeconomic Landscape for March, Moody’s Investors Service said it expected the Indian economy to return to growth in the second quarter of fiscal 2020-21, as the authorities take all necessary steps to mitigate the impact of the pandemic.

Moody’s said the Indian government’s focus on infrastructure spending to stimulate the economy and provide direct relief to the citizens would help in reducing the impact of the pandemic. The report also said that Moody’s had revised its expected GDP growth for fiscal 2020-21 to 5.4 per cent from 6 per cent earlier.

For India, which imports 80% of its oil, the lower oil price would mean a substantial saving on its balance of payments deficit. This is critical for India’s economy, which already depends on inflows of foreign capital.

India’s oil bill plunged over 20 per cent from the February price of $70.59 a litre, the Energy Ministry said on Monday, which was the result of lower crude prices and the coronavirus pandemic, which has led to a fall in demand.

Oil company officials said there were no signs of an easing of the global oil glut in the coming days. They said that even if crude prices moved up in the next 7-10 days to above $30 a barrel, there was no indication that there would be a breakup of the price war among the leading oil producers. This was borne out by the news that Saudi Arabia had launched an all-out war with Sunday’s biggest exporter of crude oil.

In the United States, the Dow Jones Industrial Average sank 1,400 points and the NSE Nifty tumbling as the country’s economy remains on the sword of a pandemic. The country’s economic growth is expected to fall in the range of 9.5-11% this year, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) said in its January report.

India’s manufacturing output contracted 39.3% in January, and the trade deficit widened to $18.2 billion in January from $13.2 billion in the same month last year. The current account deficit widened to $5.9 billion in the first quarter of the year, according to the Reserve Bank of India’s (RBI) annual report.

India’s current account deficit would widen to $18 billion in fiscal year 2020-21 from $12.5 billion in 2019-20. This is expected to worsen further as the coronavirus pandemic continues to cause a fall in demand.

In the global economy, a steep fall in footfalls in the first week of March that occurred due to the coronavirus impact on the US and European economies led to a fall in crude oil prices. This was followed by a failure by leading oil producers to strike a deal to cut output.

In India, diesel prices were cut by 32.20 per cent on Monday as falling crude prices helped in reducing the impact of the new coronavirus but Moscow refused to stop production.

The Indian rupee was quoted at Rs 70.59 a dollar as of 12:30 pm, while the Sensex and Nifty tumbled to their lowest levels in the last four months and the Rupee hit a near two-year low of 76.59 against the US dollar on Monday as falling crude prices helped in reducing the impact of the new coronavirus but Moscow refused to stop production.

The dollar index, which gauges the greenback’s strength against a basket of six currencies, slipped 0.80 per cent to 97.46 on Monday. The rupee appreciated 0.37 per cent against major trading currencies as a collapse in the market due to the coronavirus impact on the US and European economies led to a fall in crude oil prices.

India’s macroeconomic picture has recently come under pressure owing to a massive fall in the number of tourists caused by the global pandemic, leading to supply constraints for all segments of the economy.

The government had been looking at ways to sustain growth by cutting corporate income tax rates, after the country’s growth rate had fallen to a six-year low of 4.5 per cent in the first quarter of the current fiscal year.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has lowered the benchmark lending rate to 4% from 4.4% in February, and the cabinet has cut excise duties on petrol and diesel in the coming days.

In its update on Global Macroeconomic Landscape for March, Moody’s Investors Service said it expected the Indian economy to return to growth in the second quarter of fiscal 2020-21, as the authorities take all necessary steps to mitigate the impact of the pandemic.

Moody’s said the Indian government’s focus on infrastructure spending to stimulate the economy and provide direct relief to the citizens would help in reducing the impact of the pandemic. The report also said that Moody’s had revised its expected GDP growth for fiscal 2020-21 to 5.4 per cent from 6 per cent earlier.

For India, which imports 80% of its oil, the lower oil price would mean a substantial saving on its balance of payments deficit. This is critical for India’s economy, which already depends on inflows of foreign capital.

India’s oil bill plunged over 20 per cent from the February price of $70.59 a litre, the Energy Ministry said on Monday, which was the result of lower crude prices and the coronavirus pandemic, which has led to a fall in demand.

Oil company officials said there were no signs of an easing of the global oil glut in the coming days. They said that even if crude prices moved up in the next 7-10 days to above $30 a barrel, there was no indication that there would be a breakup of the price war among the leading oil producers. This was borne out by the news that Saudi Arabia had launched an all-out war with Sunday’s biggest exporter of crude oil.

In the United States, the Dow Jones Industrial Average sank 1,400 points and the NSE Nifty tumbling as the country’s economy remains on the sword of a pandemic. Don't have words to express my joy: Satish

The voice of players and coaches could ideally be heard without addition of words, and these players had every reason to refer to the CWG and even thinking about the novel Corona virus which has been on the top of the list. The voices of players and coaches were not to be shared without the CWG. There hasn’t been a better phase, far been the best of my career. Pradeep Kumar is an Asian Games bronze-winner at the Asian Championships (2015 and 2019). He qualified for his maiden Olympics. Wow! That’s quite some achievement.
