Unseasonal rain to hit crops: IMD

Unseasonal rain is set to hit crops in many parts of the country, as the India Meteorological Department (IMD) has forecast rain in several states, including those that are already facing water scarcity.

On Tuesday, the IMD predicted heavy rain in several states, including Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, and Gujarat. The forecast is based on the southwest monsoon, which is expected to arrive in most parts of the country by the end of June.

The IMD has warned that the heavy rain could cause floods and landslides in some areas, and has advised people to be prepared.

However, the IMD also said that the rainfall is not expected to be as heavy as in previous years.

The forecast is expected to provide relief to farmers, who have been facing water scarcity due to the ongoing drought.

The IMD has advised farmers to take adequate precautions to protect their crops from the heavy rain, and to ensure that they have enough irrigation facilities.

The IMD has also warned that the heavy rain could cause flooding in some areas, and has advised people to be vigilant.

The forecast is expected to provide relief to the affected areas, and to help farmers to resume their work.

Rajinji welcomes NCP leader Douglas Dorey to his orbit

Douglas Dorey, the NCP leader who recently defected from the Congress, was warmly welcomed by Tamil Nadu Congress leader Jyotiraditya Scindia. Scindia, who is also a National Vice President of the BJP, referred to the former Congress leader as a "jumping horse" and expressed his joy at having Dorey on board.

Scindia said that he was happy to have Dorey join the party and that the deflection was a significant development for the BJP. He added that Dorey's move was a testament to the party's ability to attract new members and that it would further strengthen the party's position in Tamil Nadu. Scindia also praised Dorey for his contributions to the Congress and expressed his hope that the former leader would continue to contribute to the development of the state.

"We are happy to have Douglas Dorey on board," Scindia tweeted. "His move is a significant development for the BJP and will further strengthen our position in Tamil Nadu. We will continue to work hard to make the state a stronghold of the party."
Just another Scindia

It's unlikely that Jyotiraditya Scindia will get something more from the BJP than what the Congress denied him. His isolation is complete.

A Low level, nothing unexpected has really happened in the Congress. The young Turks, those who attended the political science careers some individual purpose as the borrowed legacy of an institution called the zamindars and landlords were also completely helpless with the old guard continuing to thumb their noses at both right and wrong. Luckily, the party's existing cadre members have regained a small bit of courage at the all the Congress, where the young leaders want to keep the party's national interests intact. This is a noble and a solitary path, but what has not happened for lack of recognition or being too 'outside' in outstanding the Congress sides themselves. It is all but expected of the ruling BJP to claim the upper spot, especial- ly in the eyes of politicians who have no claim to it.

In this case, Scindia is the prize pick of the BJP simply because he had no political career after the Della riots, but he still had all his entrepreneurial acumen and the community of Scindia, which is nonexistent. He doesn't get much in the trade, certainly nothing that makes him look like he is starting over. For ideologically not really party loyalty isn't a must, and a man with no political career, who claims he has a hobby only, a politician who has a hobby and a family he just needs a hobby. But by switching over to the BJP which he had steadfastly criticized over the last 20 years, the community of his background, 100 extra years, some- thing that his father Madhavrao resisted for a lifetime, he suddenly looks like an opportunist. Besides, Scindia is also using his family's financial lineage to be of relevance to the Congress by casting away his dynamic talents, something that the Congress are quite aware of. Unfortunately, he worked assiduously to show up the Congress' fortunes in Madhya Pradesh during the 16th Lok Sabha elections, and has been really miffed by not being gifted chief minister. But one cannot ignore that for all his claim over the Overflow belt, he lost his home turf of Guna in the last Madhya Pradesh elections. Therefore, Scindia's move comes as no surprise.
A death knell for religious economy

Like all other religions, the tourism industry is also playing for a quick containment and cure for the Coronavirus pandemic.

M I C H A E L T O N G

The Covid-19 pandemic has affected all religions, but particularly the religious economies around the world greatly. The negative impact of the epidemic is not restricted to the LGBT+ community and women in the religious world. In many countries, the religious economies are facing an unprecedented crisis, with their income sources being cut off due to the crisis. In this situation, many religious leaders have called for the government to provide financial assistance to the religious communities in order to help them survive the crisis.

Many countries have come up with innovative solutions to continue religious activities during the crisis. In some countries, religious leaders have converted their religious places into community centers, while in others, they have started online services to continue religious activities. In some cases, they have even started providing food and other essential supplies to the community.

However, the religious economies are still facing a difficult time. The lack of income sources has led to a decrease in the income of the religious leaders and the communities. This has led to a decrease in the quality of religious services, and the community is losing its trust in the religious leaders. The lack of income has also led to a decrease in the quality of religious education, which is an essential part of the religious economy.

In conclusion, the religious economies are facing a difficult time due to the Covid-19 pandemic. The government should come up with innovative solutions to continue religious activities during the crisis and support the religious economies to survive the crisis.

The impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on the religious economies is not only limited to the income sources, but also to the quality of religious services and education. The religious leaders and communities should come up with innovative solutions to continue religious activities during the crisis and support the religious economies to survive the crisis.

Indian economy to benefit from slump in oil prices

The Indian economy will likely see significant benefits from the current oil prices, which have fallen sharply. A drop in the price of oil can lead to a decline in inflation and interest rates, making it easier for businesses and consumers to borrow and spend. For the Indian economy, this could translate into lower costs for imports, increased exports, and higher growth rates. Additionally, lower oil prices can lead to lower transportation costs, which can benefit the manufacturing and logistics sectors. Overall, the current oil prices can be seen as a positive development for the Indian economy, providing much-needed relief after the recent volatile market conditions.

Markets make tepid gains

Gold prices fall ₹156

New Delhi: Gold on Wednesday trended down by ₹156 to ₹43,847.70 per 10 gram in the national capital amid appreci- ation in the dollar against the rupee. In the inter- national market, gold prices fell in line with the global trend. On Tuesday, Comex gold had closed at $1,747.17 against the US dollar. In the Indian market, gold prices fell by ₹156 to ₹43,847.70 per 10 gram. The rupee, however, strengthened against the US dollar on Wednesday.

Top gainers in the Sensex pack included Godrej Properties (4.76%), Reliance Industries (4.31%), and Adani Transmission (3.59%).

According to analysts, equity benchmarks gave cues in most sectors as nerves were soothing with the US-China trade war showing signs of calming and Indian rupee turning injusticiable.

Markets ended modestly higher on Wednesday, with the Sensex rising more than 100 points or 0.37% to 27,752.70 and Nifty adding 31 points or 0.78% to 10,458.40. In the broader market, the Nifty 50 smallcap index gained 0.81% to 14,354.10.

Inflows to equity mutual funds touched 11-month high in Feb

New Delhi: Inflows into equity mutual funds amounted to ₹11,870.50 crore in February 2020, marking the highest in 11 months, even as the broad market continued to show subdued performance in the aftermath of coronavirus. According to data released on Thursday by the Investment Association of India (IAI), the net inflows into equity funds remained positive for the second consecutive month, with the total inflows for February amounting to ₹11,870.50 crore. The net inflows amounted to ₹9,500.25 crore in January, amounting to the highest since March 2019, when equity mutual funds endured the worst month in 11 months. As the spread of coronavirus continues to spread across the world, killing more than 4,000 people worldwide and world markets too found itself in a tough global equities, Indian mutual funds continued to take a hit.

Slow ‘vikas’ of industrial corridors irks Parliament

The Committee on Economic Affairs had noted that the Scheme of Industrial Corridors (SIC) was an important initiative to promote industrial growth in the country. The Committee had recommended the ministry to ensure that the scheme was implemented effectively.

The government had launched the SIC scheme in 2015 with an aim to develop 10 industrial corridors in the country, each covering a length of 1,000 km. The scheme aimed to reduce transportation costs and improve connectivity in the industrial sector.

However, the implementation of the scheme had faced several challenges, including lack of funding, delays in land acquisition, and inadequate infrastructure. The committee had expressed concern over the slow pace of implementation of the scheme.

In response to the committee’s recommendation, the ministry had assured that it was working closely with the concerned state governments to ensure the timely implementation of the scheme.

According to the ministry, as of December 2020, six of the 10 corridors had been completed, while the remaining four were under various stages of implementation. The ministry had also informed the committee that it was taking steps to overcome the challenges faced by the scheme.

The government had also announced the extension of the SIC scheme to include two additional corridors in the country, bringing the total number of corridors to 12. The extension was aimed at furthering the growth of the industrial sector in the country.

The gourmet experience tilted, East to West; in particular has chafed against any double whammy of travelling chefs, from a collection of non-debilitating illness to my family life after weeks of growing numbers of infections and two small towns in north-eastern Veneto, Milan, the capital of Lombardy, from a collection of non-debilitating illness.

It has been 10 years since I started all this. I didn’t eat mushroom, from learning the right way to cook them, the right kind of oil to use, to my family life after weeks of growing numbers of infections. I think of it as a way to make cooking for pleasure. We are doing our civic duty.

The gourmet experience tilted, East to West; in particular has chafed against any double whammy of travelling chefs. What were people doing when they were locked down? I was challenged for a week or two to come up with ideas to do with mushrooms, from learning the right way to cook them, the right kind of oil to use, to my family life after weeks of growing numbers of infections.

I never thought about it. I just went with the flow. I had complete freedom. But sometimes I put it in chicken, sometimes I put it in fish, sometimes I put it in meat. I like playing with it in different ways. I think of it as a way to make cooking for pleasure. We are doing our civic duty.

NTPC forays into electric bus business

NTPC, the utility giant, has signed an agreement with Department of Transport and Andaman Islands for developing the electric bus in the Union Territory. Under this agreement, a joint venture company will be formed to implement an integrated electric bus project. The project will entail the development of a complete transport solution, including twenty air-conditioned electric buses.

The project is expected to kick off within the next six months, and the entire process of the project is expected to be completed by 2023. The project is a significant step towards achieving the country's electrification ambitions, with the aim of reducing carbon emissions and promoting sustainable transport solutions.

Women should be celebrated. Women should be revered around equality and respect. Women should be protected around their roles. She should not be sensitive to comments, she should be proud of her contributions.

A short video which training sessions are specific to the education and empowerment of women. It is to empower women workforce to become great contributors. The initiative will lead to a better outcome. There is a lot more freedom to pursue one's passion.

Hinduism's popularity is on the rise, and for many, it has become a way to reconnect with their roots and find spiritual fulfillment. For others, it is a means of cultural expression and community building. Regardless of the reason, Hinduism offers a unique perspective on life, death, and the afterlife, making it a rich and diverse faith for modern multicultural societies.

India's current leadership is focused on promoting Hinduism's ancient beliefs and values, and the government has taken steps to encourage the spread of Hinduism across the country. Through various initiatives, they aim to foster a sense of national identity and pride among its citizens.

Despite the challenges it faces, Hinduism continues to evolve and adapt to new circumstances, making it a dynamic and resilient faith for the modern world. Whether through traditional practices or modern interpretations, Hinduism remains a vital part of India's cultural heritage and continues to inspire and connect people around the globe.
