The culture of ‘media-trial’ needs to be eschewed!

In a civilised society, every element — from government officials to bureaucrats, from corporate leaders to politicians, from media persons, but similar actions can be witnessed by the public. The fact is that there are at least three distinct layers of media: mainstream, social and community. The mainstream media, including print and broadcast, have their primary role in informing and educating the public. Social media, on the other hand, can be a powerful tool for spreading awareness and mobilising public opinion. Community media, such as local newspapers or radio stations, can provide important information to local communities.

Media freedom is not enough, says journalist

In recent years, the Indian media has witnessed a marked decline in its ability to hold the government and private sector accountable. The media has been accused of being too close to the powerful, and of being influenced by advertising revenue. The Indian government has also been known to use its power to silence the media, particularly during periods of political tension.

Journalist Rekha in the subsequent clause: “Freedom of the press is the cornerstone of any democratic society. It is essential for the protection of other fundamental rights. Without freedom of press, other rights such as the right to information and the right to education are at risk.”

The need to strengthen the role of NGOs

NGOs are a vital component of any democratic society, providing important services to the public and playing a critical role in ensuring social justice. The government should support NGOs by providing them with financial and logistical support, and by creating a conducive environment for them to operate. The government should also work with NGOs to develop effective strategies for addressing social problems.

The need to strengthen the role of the judiciary

The judiciary is the final arbiter in any democratic society, and its role is to ensure that the laws are applied fairly and impartially. The government should ensure that the judiciary is independent and free from political interference. The judiciary should be supported by providing it with adequate resources and by ensuring that it has the necessary autonomy to perform its functions.

The government should ensure that the police force is adequately trained and equipped, and that it has the necessary resources to perform its functions. Hderabad Cyclists’ Group is encouraging the habit of walking and donating too, by conducting a home fitness challenge to raise funds to fight the COVID-19 crisis, finds V SATEESH REDDY

Marathons at home, for a cause

Hyderabad Cyclists’ Group has organised a unique initiative called the ‘Own Walking Challenge’ to raise funds for Chief Minister Relief Fund to fight the Coronavirus crisis. As part of the initiative, the HCG members participated in 5km, 10km, 20km, 42km walking challenges, where more than 100 members of the group have completed the challenge and donated some amount to the cause. This is in first of its kind initiative where every participant must complete the walk inside their homes.

Speaking to The Pioneer, RavinderNandanoori, founder of the Hyderabad Cyclists Group, says, “The world is fighting the virus and many have been helping the government tackle the pandemic. The group has also organised various innovative activities during the lockdown. I wanted to do something during this time of fights and I thought that 12 km is something that I can do.”

At home, it is very only. 12 hours of nonstop walking inside our homes needs great patience. I completed 12 km in 10 hours. After this, we don’t have much space to walk and we need to think quietly about the comforts. We can think our walking distance using various applications.

After completing his own walking challenge, Ravinder put up the challenge to the group to do the same. He said, “I asked HCG members to complete various home walking challenges including 5km, 10km, 20km, and 42km. After completion of the challenge, the members can donate some amount. We do not want to take any risks, hence we will not attempt walking more than 10km. Athens can do a continuous 12-hour challenge.”
