States can't impose lockdown sans MHA nod

MHA's guidelines call for crowd management, but empowers States to clamp lockdown and night curfew in Covid zones

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The States cannot impose lockdown without approval from the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA). According to new guidelines released by the Ministry of Home on Wednesday, only in containment zones, the States are empowered to impose lockdowns and the list of containment zones has to be updated with the Union Health Ministry.

The Union Home Ministry on Wednesday issued new guidelines asking States to follow the strict directives in crowd management to contain the Covid-19 pandemic. As per the new directions, the States are allowed to impose restrictions like night curfew and reduction of number of people allowed to assemble but can't impose lockdown without approval from the MHA. Only in containment zones, the States are empowered to impose lockdowns and the list of containment zones has to be updated with Union Health Ministry.

The MHA's new directions, titled as 'Guidelines for Surveillance, Containment and 'Caution' will be applicable from December 1 to December 31, directed the States and Union Territories to implement Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) approved by the Union Health Ministry in controlling the crowd management, fines for non-mask wearing, opening of academic institutions etc. These guidelines are to implement 'Covid appropriate behaviour', said the MHA.

"The main focus of the guidelines is to consolidate the substantial gains that have been achieved against the spread of Covid-19 which is visible in the steady decline in number of active cases in the country. Further, keeping in view the recent spike in new cases in a few States/UTs, ongoing festival season and onset of winter, it is emphasised that to fully overcome the pandemic, there is need to maintain caution and to strictly follow the prescribed containment strategy, focussed on surveillance, containment and strict observance of the guidelines/SOPs issued by MHA and Ministry of Health & Family Welfare (MOHFW).

"Local district, police and municipal authorities shall be responsible to ensure that the prescribed containment measures are strictly followed. States and UTs, based on their assessment of the situation, may impose local restrictions, with a view to contain the spread of Covid-19 and implement surveillance and containment," said the MHA's new guidelines. There shall be intensive house-to-house surveillance by surveillance teams formed for the purpose and testing shall be carried out as per prescribed protocol in containment zones.

"Listing of contacts shall be carried out in respect of all persons found positive, along with their tracking, identification, quarantine and follow up of contacts for 14 days (80 per cent of contacts to be traced in 72 hours). Quick isolation of Covid-19 patients shall be ensured in treatment facilities/ home (subject to fulfilling the home isolation guidelines)," said the MHA detailing the SOPs to be followed in containment zones.

The new guidelines directed that the State/UT Governments shall take all necessary measures to promote Covid-19 appropriate behaviour and to ensure strict enforcement of wearing of face masks, hand hygiene and social distancing. "In order to enforce the core requirement of wearing of face masks, States and UTs may consider administrative actions, including imposition of appropriate fines, on persons not wearing face masks in public and work spaces," it said.

"Social/ religious/ sports/ entertainment/ educational/ cultural/ religious gatherings, with up to a maximum of 50 per cent of the hall capacity, with a ceiling of 200 persons in closed spaces; and keeping of the size of the ground/ space in view, in open spaces. However, based on their assessment of the situation, State/ UT Governments may reduce the ceiling to 100 persons or less, in closed spaces," said the

MP Govt mulls increasing jail term provision to 10 yrs in 'love jihad'

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

To formulate a law against Love Jihad, Home Minister Narottam Mishra here on Wednesday convened a meeting on the issue, devising a consensus for increasing jail term from proposed five years to ten years to those who are found engaged in love jihad.

Earlier, the Home minister Narottam Mishra while announcing a plan to bring in a bill to check instances of love jihad had said that the provision will have upto five-year jail-term for offenders.

Including from the Muslim community, several quarters of the society in Madhya Pradesh as elsewhere have raise stiff opposition to the proposed legislation but the BJP Government including the Home Ministers, have stood the ground on the matter. After convening a meeting on the issue at Mantralaya on Wednesday, it was decided that the proposed jail term under the proposed legislation will be increased to ten years. The offenders will now be punished with imprisonment upto five to 10 years. The provisions are part of Freedom of Religion Bill which will be moved in the Cabinet and after a nod, it will be tabled in MP Assembly during the upcoming Winter Session.

With a provision of jail term upto 10 years, the UP Government had on Tuesday cleared a draft ordinance to check 'unlawful religious conversions' and 'inter faith marriages' intended at changing a girl's religion. It also has provision of nullifying any marriage if it was intended to alter girl's religion. Talking to media persons, the Home Minister said that the draft of the bill is ready and will be moved in the Cabinet meeting shortly.

The draft has provision of jail term upto five years to those who solemnise such marriages and the organisations concerned facilitating such marriages will be subjected to cancellation of registration. Inter-faith marriages have to be seeking permission from the collector one month prior to the marriage.

Parents having grievances could lodge police complaints against organisations engaged in conversions. Those aiding and abetting such marriages will also be subjected to penal provisions. The draft was finalised in a joint meeting of Law and Home department on Wednesday.

China cries foul after India bans its 43 more apps

AGENCIES ■ BEIJING

A day after India banned 43 more Chinese mobile apps, including Alibaba Group Holding's e-commerce app AliExpress on national security ground, China on Wednesday said it is firmly opposed to India's decision, claiming the move violated WTO rules.

The ban had come against the backdrop of border tensions with China in eastern Ladakh since May. The banned applications, which include a few dating apps, were a threat to the "sovereignty and integrity of India", an official statement said in New Delhi.

Asked for his reaction to the latest ban on Chinese apps by India, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said, "Since June this year four times India has imposed restrictions on smart phone apps that have Chinese backgrounds under the pretext of national security... This behaviour violates market principles and World Trade Organisation rules, severely undermines the legitimate rights and interests of Chinese companies. China firmly rejects it."

Slow wind deteriorates Delhi's air quality to 'severe' category

Ghazipur landfill fire adds to pollution

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Delhi's air quality deteriorated to the "severe" category on Wednesday due to slow winds after 10 days, Government agencies said. Stubble burning accounted for two per cent of Delhi's PM2.5 pollution on Wednesday.

Meanwhile, political blame game started after a fire broke out at Ghazipur landfill in East Delhi. The fire started early morning and the landfill site smouldered throughout the day with firefighters putting up massive efforts to douse it.

As the national Capital's overall air quality deteriorated, the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) mobile app, SAMEER, said the city's air quality index (AQI) was recorded at 401.

It forecasted winds to pick up and improve the ventilation condition by Thursday.

"The AQI is forecasted to improve towards 'very poor' category by tomorrow and likely stay in the lower end of Very Poor on November 27 and 28," SAFAR said.

Stubble burning accounted for five per cent of Delhi's PM2.5 pollution on Tuesday, six per cent on Monday and 12 per cent on Sunday. It was 13 per cent on Saturday, 15 per cent on Friday and 20 per cent on Thursday.

The maximum and minimum temperatures in the city on Wednesday settled at 24.4 degrees Celsius and 10.4 degrees Celsius with cloudy sky.

Regarding the Ghazipur landfill, Atul Garg, Director, Delhi Fire Services (DFS), said the call regarding fire was received around 9.56 pm on Tuesday following which five fire tenders were rushed to the

SC undoes HC's gag order on Amaravati land scam FIR news

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Wednesday stayed the Andhra Pradesh High Court direction restraining the media from publishing news regarding an FIR lodged on alleged irregularities in land transactions in Amaravati.

A bench headed by Justice Ashok Bhushan said that the high court shall not decide till January last week the pending matter which relates to the alleged illegal land transactions during shifting of the State capital to Amaravati.

The bench, also comprising Justices RS Reddy and MR Shah, refused to stay at this stage the other directions of the HC, including the stay on probe into the FIR. The SC passed the order while hearing an appeal filed by the Andhra Pradesh Government against HC's September 15 order.

The top court, which did not issue notice to chief minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy on the appeal, sought responses from others including the Director General of Police of Andhra Pradesh.

"In the meantime, directions issued in the impugned order dated September 15, 2020 to the extent of following shall remain stayed.

Chennai halts ahead of Nivar's landfall

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Flights operations were cancelled from 7 pm onward at the Chennai airport for 12 hours; metro and buses services suspended, and trains cancelled or diverted as torrential rain and heavy winds continued to lash Chennai and the coastal districts of Tamil Nadu ahead of severe cyclone 'Nivar's' landfall. More than 1.25 lakh people have been shifted to safer places in the State. According to the India Meteorological Department (IMD), the powerful cyclone is likely to cross Tamil Nadu and Puducherry coasts between Karaikal and Mamallapuram around Puducherry around early hours (2 am) of November 26 with a wind speed of 120-130 kmph, gusting up to 145 kmph. Nivar has brought with it heavy rain and strong winds in coastal Tamil Nadu and Puducherry.

"Due to #CycloneNivar aircraft operations at #AAI #Chennaiairport will remain suspended from 1900hrs of 25.11.2020 (today) to 0700hrs of 26.11.2020", the airport said on its Twitter handle.

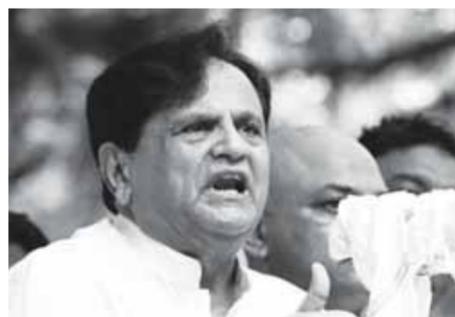

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Senior Congress leader and the party's trusted backroom strategist Ahmed Patel died at a Gurugram hospital in the early hours of Wednesday due to multiple organ failure more than a month after he tested positive for Covid-19.

His son Faisal took to social media to share that Patel died at 3.30 am at Medanta hospital in Gurugram where he was admitted on November 15 after he developed complications.

Patel's family urged all well-wishers to adhere to the Covid-19 regulations by avoiding mass gatherings. The veteran Congress leader had himself announced on Twitter on October 1 that he had tested positive for Covid-19 and all those who had come in close contact of him should also get tested.

Patel leaves behind his wife, a son and a daughter. Patel will be laid to rest at his paternal village and also his birthplace at Piraman in Gujarat on Thursday.

"AP" to his friends and "Ahmed Bhai" to colleagues, Patel was one of the closest aides of Congress chief Sonia Gandhi and her political secretary for a long time. He was the troubleshooter of the Congress and had steered the party out of ticklish situations many a time.

He was the grand old party's pointsman for building consensus on key issues with other parties and leaders and was instrumental in steering two UPA Governments under the Prime Ministership of Manmohan Singh.

A soft-spoken and affable man, Patel was well respected and had friends across the aisle and in different spheres. Patel was currently a member of the Rajya Sabha from Gujarat. He was an eight-time parliamentarian — five times in the Rajya Sabha, three times in the Lok Sabha. His last Rajya Sabha election in 2017 was contested very keenly amid charges of horse-trading. He was currently the Congress treasurer, a post that he occupied thrice.

Patel began his political career by contesting the local body polls in Gujarat's Bharuch district in 1976. He became a Lok Sabha member in March 1977 and was a member of the sixth, seventh and eighth Lok Sabha till 1989. He was elected to the Rajya Sabha for the first time in August 1993.

Patel was a close confidant of Rajiv Gandhi and the parliamentary secretary to the Prime Minister from 1985 to 1986. He later took charge of the Congress's organisational structure both in Gujarat and at the party high-command. Though Patel never became a Minister, he always worked as the background man in the Congress and was at the centre of the party's decision-making till his death.

"Secrets will travel with me to my grave." That was Patel's matter-of-fact response a few months ago when asked if he would pen his memoirs to share his experiences as the party insider with a finger on its power buttons.

Patel's name cropped in several political scams and scandals and he was also undergoing probes regarding which he always claimed that he will come out clean.

Patel could have been the tell-all leader offering insights and information with his inside view of the workings of the Congress and the political world. But he would have none of it.

Children share charter of demands on climate change

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

In India, a week of activities and events were rolled out from National Children's Day on November 14 leading up to World Children's Day (WCD). WCD is a global day of action for children, by children, marking the adoption of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) on November 20 in 1989.

Nirmala Buch, President of CROMP, said that today we are here to testify children sharing the charter of demands on climate change. Let us seriously take what they are sharing with us and help them to make their voices heard and reach to the decision makers.

Pankaj Chaturvedi, BJP spokesperson, Madhya Pradesh appreciated the way of child representatives presented charter of demands related to climate change. We should include climate change action as part of the school curriculum and start teaching the children about it from very younger age. He said it is important for everyone to know the climate laws and help Government to implement it in an efficient way. He requested everyone present at the programme to pledge to take action against climate change, rather just taking about it.

Brajesh Chouhan, Member State Commission for Protection of Child Rights shared that, it is good to see children sharing their views and recommendations. PRATYEK and UNICEF through NINEISMINE campaign empowering the children to identify the root cause of the problem to derive to the conclusions to address it. He shared that as children shared slowly climate change is taking its toll on living beings.

Steve Rocha, Director of PRATYEK said, Childrens are not future, they are present. Their voices should be heard now to make a better future for them. There is no meaning for child rights without earth rights. If there is any disaster or calamities happens, automatically it effects the children and their rights get violated.

Anil Gulati, Communication expert, UNICEF Madhya Pradesh shared, we as an adult have a major role to play in making children's voice heard at the decision-making levels.

Bhil community paintings on display at MPSTM till Nov 30

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

An exhibition 'Shalaka 8', displays the paintings of Bhil Community. The paintings tell the stories of Bhil tribe in beautiful Gond paintings.

The exhibition features the paintings by artist Geeta Baria, a young painter of the Bhil community. The exhibition is being put up at Likhandara Gallery of Madhya Pradesh State Tribal Museum and will be on view till November 30.

Hailing from Bhopal Geeta was greatly influenced by the painting work of Bhil community's leading painter Bhuri Bai. Gita decided to establish herself in her kobbhi Chitra Karma. Seeing aunt-in-law and uncle-in-law often while working, praising their work on various days has become a source of inspiration for her.

Besides, watching Bhuribai drawing was nothing short of a Gurukul's education. The Gita had a deep fascination for pictures and colours since childhood, but due to the economic conditions of the family, neither education nor education has been given any opportunity. Due to family circumstances, the child's excellent childhood desire to play with colours suddenly resurfaced after marriage, and Geeta, a Guru's consort as Bhubai Bai, did not think it appropriate to lose even for a moment.

With complete devotion, he started to try to gradually assimilate the ideas and adornments of the Bhili Chitra traditions from his art guru. As soon as the house works, the Gita starts drawing and does not get up until the picture is completed. Many times he was rebuked for this behaviour, but Geeta's artist mind was not distracted by all these situations and Geeta continued to get all the support of her husband.

With the use of colours over time, the combination of shapes Gita had learned well. In his paintings, mainly the traditional Bhili environment and the fauna of animals and animals are seen.

Punjab to re-impose night curfew from Dec 1

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Amid the grim COVID-19 situation in Delhi-NCR and apprehensions of a second wave in Punjab, Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Wednesday ordered a series of fresh restrictions in the State, including re-imposition of night curfew in all towns and cities as well as doubling of fine for not wearing masks or following social distancing norms, with effect from December 1.

The curbs, which will be reviewed on December 15, also restrict opening timings of all hotels, restaurants, and marriage palaces till 9.30 pm.

Night curfew will remain in force from 10 pm till 5 am, announced the Chief Minister, warning the people against letting their guard down under any circumstances.

Giving details of the new restrictions after a high-level state COVID-19 review meeting, an official spokesperson said that fine for now following COVID-19 appropriate behaviour shall be hiked from the present Rs 500 to Rs 1000.

Given the inflow of patients from Delhi for treatment in Punjab, it has also been decided to review and optimize the beds availability in the state's private hospitals.

The Chief Minister has asked the state Chief Secretary Vini Mahajan to work with the concerned departments to encourage more private hospitals to come on board and earmark beds for COVID-19 care.

To further strengthen the availability of oxygen and ICU beds, Capt Amarinder has ordered the strengthening of the Level II and Level III, with constant monitoring of districts that are not equipped with Level III facilities.

The management practices in Government Medical College and Hospitals (GMCHs) and Civil Hospitals should also be examined in light of the recommendations of the report received from the Expert Group, he said.

The Chief Minister has also directed the Health and Medical Education Departments to make emergency appointments of specialists, super-specialists, nurses and paramedics, to further augment the manpower which was recently strengthened with the recruitment of 249 specialist doctors and 407 medical officers.

The Departments have also been asked to consider preparing fourth and fifth year MBBS students as reserve and back-up, in case needed in the future.

On the testing front, the Chief Minister stressed the need to fully utilize the 25,500 daily RT-PCR testing capacity, and directed targeted and regular testing of potential super spreaders, including Government officials.

The District Hospitals must have 24x7 testing available, and the same must also be made available at other convenient locations where people can easily access the same, he said.

While the increase in contract tracing was a positive sign, steps must be taken to ensure that all these contacts are also tested, said the Chief Minister, adding that the Patient Tracking Officers must also be assigned this task.

To ensure that no deaths take place in home isolation, Capt Amarinder said that the agency hired to look into these cases should keep close tabs on such patients.

"While mortality audit is ongoing, it is a matter of satisfaction that the Department is now collecting reasons for placing patients on ventilator by private hospitals, and there is a referral group available to monitor these patients," said the Chief Minister.

Referring to the reports of early vaccine coming in, the Chief Minister said that while he was happy to note that the database for healthcare workers was ready, the Departments should also look at the other categories of frontline workers who could be prioritized for the vaccine.

Police said that two injured were rushed to hospital where one of them was declared dead. Police said that the accident occurred at Char Imli area at 11.30 pm.

The deceased was identified as Sabir while another man on the bike Babulal is injured severely. The police have registered a case under section 304 A of the IPC and started further investigation.

Himachal CM directs officers to regularly monitor Covid situation

PNS ■ SHIMLA

Himachal Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur on Wednesday directed the officers concerned to regularly monitor the situation and take corrective measures to combat the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Chief Minister while holding a video conference with Chief Secretary, Secretaries and Deputy Commissioners of the state from Jammu took stock of the COVID-19 situation in the state.

Thakur directed that the officers must ensure that COVID patients get proper treatment and people are motivated to adopt social distancing and use face masks in public places. People must also be encouraged to avoid social gatherings as there is a greater chance for spread of the pandemic.

The COVID patients under home isolation must be provided required treatment and their health condition should be monitored regularly, he said.

The Chief Minister said that there is no dearth of oxygen and other health inputs and people need not to worry about it. The SDMs and BDOs must ensure that proper SOP (standard operating procedure) is followed during social gatherings.

He further said that the State Government has launched 'Him Suraksha Abhiyan' to sensitize the people regarding COVID-19 pandemic and to collect information regarding symptomatic COVID population, TB, Leprosy, sugar, blood pressure etc. by door to door campaign in the state. This campaign will be held from November 25 to December 27 throughout the state, he added.

He urged the people of the state to provide wholehearted support to the health workers by providing them accurate information about their diseases and health parameters.

The Chief Minister also directed the officers to make foolproof arrangements for proper maintenance and clearance of roads in the state in wake of ensuing snowfall.

He said that adequate arrangements of men and machinery should be made available at strategic points so that people do not face any inconvenience.

The Chief Secretary Anil Khachi assured the Chief Minister that administration would spare no efforts to check the spread of COVID in the state and SOP would be implemented in letter and spirit.

HRTC BUSES STILL NOT PLYING ON 47 PERCENT ROUTES

Himachal Road Transport Corporation (HRTC) buses are still not plying on 1,724 out of its total 3,708 routes. The HRTC has incurred losses worth Rs 450 crores due to this.

Stating this, Transport Minister Bikram Singh on Wednesday said that HRTC buses are currently running on 1,984 routes (53.5 per cent) after services were suspended in March to check spread of COVID-19.

Of the functional routes, 1,713 are within Himachal Pradesh and the rest outside, Singh said. 55 buses are plying for Chandigarh, 24 for Delhi and 11 for Haridwar, he added.

The Minister said the HRTC has incurred losses worth Rs 450 crores till now due to the COVID. The State Government has provided the corporation financial help of Rs 353 crores, he added.

Punjab farmers gather at State's border with Haryana for 'Delhi Chalo'

MONIKA MALIK ■ CHANDIGARH

Braving the inclement weather and undeterred by the hurdles created by Haryana Government, Punjab farmers along with their family members, including women and children, riding on tarpaulin-covered tractor trolleys, rations that could last for months, besides other things on Wednesday started gathering and camping at the state's borders after being halted by the Haryana police en route their 'Delhi Chalo' march.

Haryana Government literally placed stumbling blocks in the farmers' way towards the national capital, as a part of all-India's 'Delhi Chalo' agitation, by placing huge boulders along with double barricading to seal all main entry points from Punjab to prevent the farmers from marching to New Delhi.

Denied entry, hundreds of farmers from far-flung areas of Punjab, including Ferozepur, have started gathering at the inter-state borders, while announcing to sit on dharna right there is stopped from proceeding towards Delhi.

A large number of farmers have reached main entry points into Haryana — including Shambu, Ghanaur, Dera Bassi, Khanauri, Pehowa, and Jakhai. In fact, farmers stated reaching Dabwali border in Bathinda and Khanauri in Sangrur since Tuesday night. As per reports, Khanauri is expected to witness maximum number of farmers gathering, followed by Doonwali on Bathinda-Sirsa border near Dabwali.

While the Haryana police is allowing movement of vehicles, it is stopping the tractors, vehicles carrying flags of farmers' associations.

"We have all along been saying that we would stage peaceful protest. We don't want any confrontation. We only wanted to protest against the farm laws. If they would not allow us to move towards Delhi on Thursday, we would sit on dharnas at the borders," said Bharti Kisan Union (Ugrahan) president Joginder Singh Ugrahan.

Haryana Government literally placed stumbling blocks in the farmers' way towards the national capital, as a part of all-India's 'Delhi Chalo' agitation, by placing huge boulders along with double barricading to seal all main entry points from Punjab to prevent the farmers from marching to New Delhi

BKU Ekta Dakaunda president Jagmohan Singh Patiala said that the designated routes include Lalru (Chandigarh-Delhi highway), Shambhu (Amritsar-Delhi highway), Patiala-Pehewa, Patiala-Chika, Patran-Khanauri, Munak-Tohana, Ratia-Fatehabad, Talwandi-Sirsa, among others. "If we are stopped on our way to Delhi, we will start indefinite dharnas right there under the call of 'Dera Dalo-Ghera Dalo' programme," he added.

Protesting against the Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar's decision to halt the farmers, the farmers put on fire his effigies at no less than 50 places across Punjab. "Khattar's effigies were burnt for his government's decision to seal off Haryana's borders, arresting about 80 Haryana farmers, attacking farmers with water cannons to suppress the farmers' agitation by force," said Patiala.

The farmers' leader said that the BJP-led Haryana

Government was becoming an obstacle in the way of farmers which is undemocratic.

Patiala said that lakhs of farmers from across Punjab are enthusiastic to travel to Delhi in spite of rains and cold weather conditions. "Their trolleys are waterproof and fitted with speakers. Apart from this, arrangements for rations, fuel, utensils, blankets, tarpaulins and other essential items have also been provided as required... They are ready to leave with two months' ration and all the necessities," he added.

It has been learnt that farmers from south Malwa region of Punjab would start gathering at Talwandi Sabo on Wednesday night and would move towards Haryana on Thursday. The farmer organizations have planned to reach Delhi via Doonwali and Talwandi-Rori routes in Bathinda and via Sardulgarh in Mansa district.

Preamble of Constitution to be read in all depts in Haryana to observe Constitution Day today

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

It further revealed that Directorate of Enforcement Lucknow Zonal office is also investigating this issue and a number of cases are registered in Noida and other States," he added.

Fire breaks out at Ghazipur landfill in East Delhi

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

Political blame game erupted after a fire broke out at Ghazipur landfill in East Delhi resulting in deterioration of air quality on Wednesday. The fire started early morning and the landfill site shouldered throughout the day with fire fighters putting up massive efforts to douse it.

According to Atul Garg, Director, Delhi Fire Services (DFS), the call regarding fire was received at around 9.56 PM on Tuesday following which five fire tenders were rushed to the spot.

"Later, three more fire engines were dispatched to douse the fire. The fire was at different places at the landfill. The operation is still going on," said Garg.

Meanwhile, another official said that the cause of fire at different locations might be due to the garbage collectors who dumped garbage here and set it on fire.

"DFS had informed this practice of garbage collectors to authorities several times but the garbage collectors keep on repeating the same putting lives of nearby residents at risk and causing pollution levels to spike in the city," he said.

Delhi's overall air quality deteriorated to the severe category from "very poor" on Wednesday morning.

Delhi Police rejects request of farmers to protest in National capital against farm laws

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The Delhi Police has rejected all requests received from various farmer organisations to protest in the national capital against the Centre's new farm laws. Police said that action will be initiated if rules and guidelines issued in a wake of COVID-19 are not followed.

According to Dr Eish Singhal, the Public Relation Officer (PRO), various farmer organisations have requested for permission for protest in Delhi on November 26 and 27.

"Police have conveyed to them in writing also and through various media also that the protest is not permitted in view of the latest DDMA guidelines. When the condition is good, they can seek due permission and exercise their right of protest in Delhi. For now, they are requested to cooperate with Delhi Police and not indulge in any kind of protest. If despite of our appeal they turn up to Delhi, then the legal action will be taken against them," said Singhal.

Meanwhile, a senior police official said that the main focus of police will be on Uttar Pradesh's Ghazipur border, Chilla border and DND.

"Following the call from farmers' march and no permission from the authorities, heavy deployment of police personnel is already there and the checking will take place round the clock. The paramilitary force is also placed. Police will also check the other small borders of the district," said the senior police official.

The farmers will reach Delhi on November 26 through five highways connecting the city as part of their 'Delhi Chalo' march call. Taking to Twitter, the city police said requests have been rejected for any such gathering in the national capital.

"Please co-operate with Delhi Police in ensuring no gathering in Delhi amid coronavirus, failing which legal action will be initiated as per law," said the Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP), New Delhi in its tweet.

The All India Kisan Sangharsh Coordination Committee (AIKSCC), Rashtriya Kisan Mahasangh and various factions of the Bharatiya Kisan Union have joined hands and formed a 'Samyukta Kisan Morcha' to press the central government to scrap the three farm laws.

The protest has the support of over 500 farmer organisations.

Coast Guard seizes 100 kg heroin meant for terrorism

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

In one of the major drug hauls in recent times with ramifications of narco-terrorism, the Indian Coast Guard seized more than 100 kilos of heroin in Tamil Nadu on Wednesday. The drug was recovered from a Sri Lankan boat which had received the consignment from a dhow in Karachi.

While investigations are on, officials said here the haul was the result of nearly nine day long operation. It ended in the seizure in the high seas south of Thoothukudi. Six crew members, reportedly Sri Lankan nationals, were detained and their questioning was on, they added. Officials from various agencies were now questioning the detained crew.

Preliminary probe indicated that the crew members told the Coast Guard the contraband was transferred to the Sri Lankan vessel Sheny Duwa on the high seas near Karachi by a Pakistani dhow. The consignment was to be ferried to western countries and Australia, sources said.

It was suspected Pakistan was sending the consignment to fund terrorism in several nations. The Lashkar-e-Tayyaba (LeT) and the Hizbul Mujahideen (HM) in the past used narcotics to fund their terror campaign in Kashmir.

The search of the Sri Lankan boat also led the Coast Guard to the recovery of five 9mm pistols and a satellite phone set. Moreover, the contraband was concealed in an empty fuel tank on the boat, officials said.

The seizure on Wednesday was carried out by Coast Guard (ICG) ship Vaibhav. Other ships of the force including Vikram, Samar, Abhivav and Aadesh and a Coast Guard Dornier aircraft were also involved in anti-smuggling operations, despite rough sea conditions.

A similar seizure was conducted by the Coast Guard last year and foiled an attempt by Pakistan to smuggle heroin worth over ₹500 crore.

The narcotics were recovered from a boat in October last year off Porbandar.

After being intercepted, the boat crew set the vessel afire and also tried to destroy the drugs. The Anti-Terrorism Squad of the Gujarat police arrested nine Iranians from the boat, the officials said.

The Iranian boat was loaded off the Gwadar port in Pakistan. Occupants of the boat set it ablaze as the Coast Guard and ATS personnel closed in. The boat sank off the Gujarat coast near Porbandar.

The interrogation of the detained crew revealed one Pakistani national named Hamid Malek had sent the consignment, which was loaded in the Iranian boat off Gwadar port of Pakistan.

The seizure came about after the ATS had received a tip-off that an Iranian boat will make an attempt to smuggle in heroin along the Gujarat coast.

The ATS contacted the Coast Guard and the Marine Task Force of the Gujarat police to launch an operation.

Prez, V-P, PM condole death of Ahmed Patel

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

President Ram Nath Kovind, Vice President M Venkaiah Naidu, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, former Prime Minister Manmohan Singh and a host of leaders including Congress president Sonia Gandhi and BJP chief JP Nadda condole the death of senior Congress leader Ahmed Patel and hailed his contribution to his party and public life.

Kovind said he was distressed to learn that Patel is no more. "An astute Parliamentarian, Shri Patel combined the skills of a strategist and the charm of a mass leader. His amiability won him friends across party lines. My condolences to his family and friends," he tweeted and later at a public function he paid tributes in the midst of his speech.

Patel, 71, died at a Gurugram hospital in the early hours of Wednesday due to multiple organ failure more than a month after he tested positive for COVID-19. Son, who leaves behind his wife, son and daughter, is the second senior Congress leader to have died due to COVID-related complications in two days. On Monday, former Assam chief minister Tarun Gogoi died in Guwahati.

In a statement, the Congress said party workers across the country are deeply pained by Patel's demise. As a mark of respect, the Congress party flag will fly at half mast for the next three days, the party said.

Vice president Naidu said he was deeply saddened. "He was an able parliamentarian and always maintained cordial relations with leaders across the political spectrum," the Vice President Secretariat tweeted quoting Naidu.

Prime Minister Modi said Patel's role in strengthening the Congress will always be remembered. "Known for his sharp mind, his role in strengthening the Congress would always be remembered. Spoke to his son Faisal and expressed condolences. May Ahmed Bhai's soul rest in peace," Modi said in a tweet.

Union ministers Amit Shah, Prakash Javadekar, Rajnath Singh and Smriti Irani were among the others who condole the death of the Congress' key strategist.

Several top Congress leaders expressed grief, with Sonia Gandhi mourning the loss of an "irreplaceable comrade" and Rahul Gandhi saying Patel "lived and breathed Congress" and stood with the party through its most difficult times.

The Congress president said in her message that Patel, who served as her political advisor for years and was AICC treasurer, had dedicated his entire life to the Congress.

"I have lost an irreplaceable comrade, a faithful colleague and a friend. I mourn his passing and I feel deeply for his bereaved family to whom I offer my sincere feelings of empathy and support," Sonia Gandhi said. "It is a sad day. Shri Ahmed Patel was a pillar of the Congress. He lived and breathed Congress and stood with the party through its most difficult times. He was a tremendous asset," Rahul Gandhi said in his message.

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra described him as not only a wise and experienced colleague to whom she constantly turned for advice and counsel but also as a friend "who stood by us all, steadfast, loyal, and dependable to the end".

The chief ministers of Congress-ruled States—Rajasthan's Ashok Gehlot, Punjab's Amarinder Singh, Chhattisgarh's Bhupesh Baghel and Puducherry's V Narayanasamy and a host of other party leaders paid tributes to the leader who always maintained a low profile.

BJP chief J P Nadda said, "Deeply anguished to hear about the demise of veteran Congress leader Shri Ahmed Patel ji. I pray for strength to the family members and his supporters at this hour of grief. Om Shanti."

While Home Minister Amit Shah said the news about the death of Ahmed Patel who made a significant contribution to the Congress party and public life is too sad, the Defence Minister Rajnath Singh said Patel was a seasoned leader, who made remarkable contribution to his party and to public life. "Ahmed Bhai had friends across party lines. My thoughts are with his family and well-wishers in this sad hour," Singh tweeted.

Chief Ministers of Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal, Jharkhand, Delhi Yogi Adityanath Mamata Banerjee, Hemant Soren and Arvind Kejriwal also mourned Patel's demise and admired his virtues.

Foundation stone for new Parliament building to be laid in first half of Dec by PM

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The foundation stone for the new Parliament building is likely to be laid in the first half of December by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Besides, around five statues, including that of Mahatma Gandhi as well as Bhim Rao Ambedkar that are present in the existing Parliament complex, are expected to be temporarily relocated due to the construction work. The construction of the new building is likely to be completed by October 2022. The new Parliament building, which is triangular in its design, will come up at plot number 118 of the Parliament House estate.

According to sources, although December 10 is the proposed date of laying the new Parliament building's foundation stone, the final date would depend on the PM's availability.

The relocated statues will be reinstalled at prominent places within the new complex once the project is completed.

Tata Projects Limited (TPL) had won the contract to build a new Parliament building for ₹861.90 crore in September.

As per the design by HCP, the new Parliament complex will have a total of six entrances: a ceremonial entrance for the PM and the President; a ceremonial entrance for the Lok Sabha Speaker, one for Rajya Sabha Chairperson, and MPs; another entrance for MPs; as well as two entrances for the public.

As per the plan, the new parliament building will have separate offices for all MPs and as a step towards creating "paperless offices", it will be equipped with the latest digital interfaces. The new Parliament building is a part of the Central Public Works Department (CPWD) and central government's Central Vista Project.

The Central Vista Project helmed jointly by the CPWD and the Centre also included a complete revamp of Rajpath — a 3 km long path between Rashtrapati Bhawan and India Gate. The Modi government had kick-started the process of bidding while focusing on the need of a new Parliament building earlier this year.

Kovind urges lawmakers to engage in healthy dialogue

PNS ■ NEW DELHI/KEVADIA (GUJARAT)

President Ram Nath Kovind on Wednesday said elected representatives should engage in a healthy dialogue in Parliament and legislative Assemblies and refrain from using unparliamentary language during debates in the House. Use of unparliamentary language and indiscipline in the House by elected members hurts the sentiments of people who elect them, Kovind said addressing the inaugural session of 80th All India Presiding Officers' Conference at Tent City in Gujarat's Kevadia village, near the Statue of Unity in Narmada district.

"It is expected from elected representatives that they remain committed to democratic values. The biggest challenge for elected representatives and democratic institutions is to fulfill the expectations of people. I believe that people of this country expect that their elected representatives to follow parliamentary norms. People get hurt when their elected representatives use unparliamentary words or indulge in indiscipline in Parliament or in the Assembly," Kovind said.

Vice President M Venkaiah Naidu and Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla were also present on the occasion and addressed the session. Naidu talked about the judiciary process and cited some judgments that gave a distinct impression of the judiciary's overreach. The higher judiciary deciding on Diwali fireworks, denying the executive any role in the appointment of judges through collegiums, invalidating the National Judicial Appointments Commission Act seeking to enforce accountability and transparency were some of the instances of judicial overreach cited by the vice president.

Naidu stressed that the legislature, the executive and the judiciary are bound to work within their respective domains as defined in the Constitution.

Naidu said harmony lies in each organ doing its job, without interfering with that of the others. This warrants a spirit of mutual respect, responsibility and restraint. Unfortunately, there have been several instances of crossing the boundaries," Naidu who is also the Chairman of Rajya Saha stated in his address at the 80th All India Presiding Officers' Conference.

Talking about the executive, the vice president said there have been cases when rules framed under the delegated "subordinate legislation" violated the provisions of the original legislation passed by Parliament. Expressing concern over the frequent disruptions in the legislatures, Naidu said the "decency, dignity and decorum" of the temples of democracy will be upheld only through adherence to three "Ds" — debate, discuss and decide.

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla stressed on harmonious coordination between the legislature, executive and judiciary. Addressing the Conference, he said constitution provides the basis for the functioning of parliament and state assemblies according to people's aspirations. In a democracy, there can be a difference of opinion among institutions. But with improvement in procedures, constitutional provisions and democratic norms, solutions can be found, he said.

Sidhu likely to be back in Punjab Cabinet

PNS ■ NEW DELHI/CHANDIGARH

After months of strained relationship, crickete-turned-politician and Amritsar MLA Navjot Singh Sidhu is likely to be back in the Punjab Cabinet. The former Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha MP had quit his parent party BJP over differences and joined the Congress before the 2019 Lok Sabha elections.

Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh, who had axed Sidhu from his cabinet early this year, invited the former Indian skipper over lunch at his official residence in Chandigarh triggering speculation that Sidhu may be re-inducted into the State Cabinet.

Both leaders have not been on the best of terms since May last year when the Punjab CM accused the former cricketer of the "inept handling" of the Local Government Department, claiming it resulted in "poor performance" of the Congress in urban areas during the 2019 Lok Sabha polls.

Sidhu was stripped of key portfolios in a cabinet reshuffle, after which he resigned from the state cabinet and stayed away from all Congress activities.

In between, there were also rumours that Sidhu can join Aam Admi Party which did not materialise as the famous television humorist had put conditions that he should be announced as the party's Chief Ministerial candidate when the next assembly elections in Punjab was to be announced.

According to sources close to the chief minister, both leaders spent an hour together at Amarinder Singh's residence and shared thoughts on various issues. "It was a warm and cordial luncheon meeting that saw Captain Amarinder and Navjot Singh Sidhu discuss a host of important political matters of Punjab and national interest. The two leaders spent a pleasant over an hour sharing thoughts on vital issues," said the sources.

Earlier, Sidhu had made a public appearance at a "tractor rally" against the Centre's farm laws in Moga last month where party leader Rahul Gandhi, Amarinder Singh and others were also present. Sidhu attended the "tractor rally" after AICC general secretary Harish Rawat met him at his residence in Amritsar.

India gets two predator drones from US to boost recce along LAC

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

In an effort to enhance surveillance capabilities and detect movement of the adversary especially on the Line of Actual Control (LAC), India has acquired two predator drones from the US. In the months to come, 18 more such sophisticated drones will be inducted into the Indian Navy.

The two drones were made operational earlier this week by the Navy in south India. These drones have an endurance capability of more than 30 hours and can relay top quality visuals to the Navy. Besides getting deployed in the Indian Ocean region there, security establishment also plans to use these machines in Eastern Ladakh and eastern sector of the LAC covering Arunachal Pradesh and Sikkim, source said here on Wednesday.

They said the Predator drones were acquired through the emergency route in the wake of the nearly seven month long stand-off on the LAC in eastern Ladakh. The two drones were procured under lease agreement valid for more than a year.

A US crew was assisting the Navy in maintenance and technical issues handling the drone.

Harsh Vardhan calls for robust Covid vaccine manufacturing, delivery module in country

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

As the world waits with bated breath for a vaccine to combat Covid-19, Union Health Minister Dr Harsh Vardhan, on Wednesday sought the help of innovators and industry to create a robust Covid-19 vaccine manufacturing and delivery mechanism.

In a message, delivered at the inaugural session of the Global R&D Summit 2020, organised jointly by FICCI and the Department of Science and Technology, Vardhan said research and innovation has become a way of life and their outcomes have been helping a wide range of industries and communities to develop various solutions such as the latest delivery App to safer cars to breakthrough treatment for illnesses.

"The current pandemic has only reinforced our belief in innovation and research and development. They are not only helping in better disease management but also making our nation resilient and self-reliant," the Minister said. He cited the example of how industry in the country used the opportunity created by the Covid-19 pandemic to produce five lakh PPE kits per day from scratch. "As the world raises to find a cure and vaccine for Covid-19, India is looking to be self-reliant in both - vaccine and its mass production. Called as the pharmacy of the world, India has the largest capacity to produce Covid-19 vaccines," he added.

India, with second-highest coronavirus cases after the US, has at least five vaccine candidates under human trial, of which three candidates are undergoing advanced Phase-2/3 clinical trials to establish safety and efficacy.

Gururaj Deshpande, founder of Tejas Network and many other successful firms, said directed research, by universities to solve specific problems for industry, will not lead to breakthrough innovations.

"We need to find a way so that the industry seeks good thinkers, good innovators and rub shoulders with them to see how their problems can be solved. The Governments on the other hand have to reduce the friction and encourage people to make these connections," Deshpande said.

Swami Gaud joins BJP ahead of local bodies polls

TRS leader has met JP Nadda

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

TRS leader and former Chairman of Legislative Council Swami Gaud has joined the BJP ahead of local bodies elections in Hyderabad.

The BJP leadership was trying, for sometime, to rope in the important TRS leader to spread saffron wings in the state.

Gaud has met key central leaders including BJP president J P Nadda.

Party leaders Bandi Sanjay and union minister G Kishan Reddy reportedly had earlier met Swamy and invited him into the party.

He was made MLC and chairman after formation of separate Telangana state. His tenure as MLC from Medak-Nizamabad, Karimnagar and Adilabad constituency ended last year.

ED files chargesheet in Bitumen scam

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate on Wednesday filed supplementary Prosecution Complaint (chargesheet in police parlance) against accused firm Classic Coal Construction Pvt Ltd and others under money laundering charge for confiscation of attached properties and award of punishment in connection with the bitumen scam worth several crore.

The prosecution complaint under Prevention of Money Laundering Act was filed before the Special Judge (PMLA), Ranchi against Classic Coal Construction Pvt. Ltd, Classic Multiplex Pvt Ltd and their directors Dilip Kumar Singh and Kumar Pranav in a case of bitumen scam in Jharkhand.

"The Prosecution Complaint has been filed before the Court with a prayer for confiscation of attached properties totalling to ₹1.83 crore apart from awarding punishment to the accused persons," the ED said in a statement.

The attached assets include three immovable properties in the form of a commercial property and a residential property, both at Ranchi and a plot in Ramgarh, held in the name of the accused firms and the erstwhile Managing Director of the Company, Late Pawan Kumar Singh, it said.

The ED initiated investi-

CBI raids locations in 2 graft cases

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The CBI on Wednesday conducted searches at various places in Bihar, Tamil Nadu, Kerala in connection with two separate cases registered against accused including Chief Engineer (Railways), Assistant Director, India Tourism (Government of India) and others related to possession of disproportionate assets and other case for accepting bribe.

"During searches, cash of Rs one crore (approximately), documents related to investment, jewellery etc. have been recovered at the premises of the accused, family members, other private persons/suspects," the CBI said in a statement.

MT of bitumen for road works and got payment in connivance with the departmental engineers on strength of these fake/forged bills to the tune of Rs. 6.88 crores, the ED said.

Investigation under PMLA revealed that this ill-gotten money was used to create assets and to meet miscellaneous expenditure pertaining to the company and its directors. After identification of Proceeds of Crime, two Provisional Attachment Orders attaching assets worth ₹2.08 crores and 1.83 crores were issued.

Earlier, a Prosecution Complaint was filed and now this supplementary complaint has been filed for conducting trial against accused.

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

India's Covid-19 caseload went past 92 lakh with 44,376 new cases reported in a day, while the number of recoveries surged to 86.42 lakh, the Union Health Ministry said on Wednesday.

The number of total coronavirus cases rose to 92,22,216 in the country, while the death toll due to the disease climbed to 1,34,699 with 481 new fatalities, said the Ministry. According to the health ministry, more than 70 per cent of the deaths occurred due to comorbidities.

The active caseload shot up to 4,44,746, an increase of 6,079 cases from Tuesday, even though it remained below five lakh for the 15th consecutive day, accounting for 4.82 per cent of the total cases, it added.

The number of people who have recuperated from the disease surged to 86,42,771, pushing the national recovery rate to 93.72 per cent, while the Covid-19 case fatality rate stands at 1.46 per cent.

August 7,30-lakh mark on August 23 and 40-lakh mark on September 5.

It went past 50 lakh on September 16, 60 lakh on September 28, 70 lakh on October 11, 80 lakh on October 29 and 90 lakh on November 20.

According to the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR), over 13.48 crore samples were tested for Covid-19 up to November 24, including 11,59,032 on Tuesday. The 481 new fatalities include 109 from Delhi, 49 from West Bengal, 33 each from Haryana and Uttar Pradesh, 30 from Maharashtra, 24 from Kerala, 22 from Punjab and 21 from Chhattisgarh.

Of the 1,34,699 deaths reported in the country so far due to the disease, Maharashtra accounts for 46,683, followed by Karnataka (11,695), Tamil Nadu (11,639), Delhi (8,621), West Bengal (8,121), Uttar Pradesh (7,615), Andhra Pradesh (6,956), Punjab (4,653) and Gujarat (3,892).

Woman abducted, raped for 14 days in Kota

Kota (Raj): A 20-year-old woman has accused a man of abducting and raping her for 14 days while keeping her in his captivity in a jungle near Mandana town of Kota district, police said on Wednesday.

In her complaint lodged at the Anta police station in neighbouring Baran district, the woman said she was able to approach the police after her father managed to rescue her from the 22-year-old man's captivity on November 22.

The woman said accused Phoralal Odd, a resident of Kapren town in Bundi district, abducted her on November 9 from her maternal uncle's village where she had gone to attend a marriage in the family, said Anta police station SHO Umesh Manaria.

He said the woman alleged that the man abducted her on his motorcycle when she had gone to the field to answer the nature's call and took her to a jungle where she was held hostage by the man and was raped repeatedly, said the SHO.

She told police that during her captivity, one day she managed to call up her father who rescued her, said the SHO, adding the father, however, had not lodged any complaint with the police when her daughter had gone missing.

The SHO said on the woman's complaint, the police have lodged an FIR against the man for kidnapping and rape and is trying to nab him.

The woman was earlier examined medically and her statement was recorded by a magistrate, said the SHO. PTI

Muslims react with caution to UP Govt's Ordinance against conversion for marriage

Lucknow: With the Uttar Pradesh government clearing a draft ordinance to deal with religious conversions solely for marriage, Muslim leaders on Wednesday reacted with caution, saying it should be ensured that it does not infringe upon the constitutional right to freedom of religion.

The Uttar Pradesh government on Tuesday approved a draft ordinance to curb forcible or "dishonest" religious conversions including those for the sake of marriage, which could land violators in jail for up to 10 years.

The good thing is that the draft ordinance does not use the term "love jihad" and the forced conversion which has been termed as illegal and punishable is something that is already held as crime in the Muslim law, senior member of the All-India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB) Khalid Rashid Farangimahli told PTI.

In the Quran also, Allah has said force in religion is not justified, so we have no objection to punishment over it, he added.

"Love jihad" is a term coined by a section of Hindu groups for Muslim men allegedly forcing women to convert in the guise of love and marriage.

"We are of the opinion that for peace and communal harmony, it is needed that Muslims and Hindus marry in their own communities. We have no objection to whatever we have seen in the ordinance," Farangimahli said.

The AIMPLB member stressed that whenever any law is enacted, it is based on the intention that there would not be any discrimination with anyone.

"We also expect that this law will not be used wrongly. The legal experts will have to see that the law does not raise a question mark on the constitutional right to freedom of religion for all Indians. Otherwise, we have no objection to this law," he said.

Shaista Amber, president, All-India Muslim Women Personal Law Board, however, said there was no need for such a law. "If anyone is getting married on the basis of deceit and forcibly getting the other person converted, there should be a stringent law for it and we already have laws for it. There was no need to bring a new law," she said. PTI

Bengal Govt decides to cut 30-35% of Class X-XII syllabus

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ KOLKATA

Bengal Government has decided to slash the syllabus for Class X and XII by about 35 percent for the coming Board exams in early 2021.

Quoting expert committee reports State Education Minister Partho Chatterjee on Wednesday said "considering the pandemic situation we had referred the issue of academics to the expert committee which has suggested that the syllabus for Classes X and XII be reduced by 30 to 35 percent... accordingly the Government based on the expert committee reports has decided to reduce the syllabus for the next year's board examinations for the two classes."

Junaid Azim Mattu elected Srinagar Mayor for 2nd time

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ JAMMU

Junaid Azim Mattu on Wednesday became Mayor of the Srinagar Municipal Corporation (SMC) for the second time in a row.

Mattu polled a total number of 44 votes in a house of 70 members while his nearest rival Sheikh Imran could garner only 7 votes. Nineteen other members abstained during voting. Mattu was ousted from the same post through a no-confidence motion in June 2020.

Previously associated with the Peoples Conference, Mattu contested the polls as an independent candidate with tacit support from the like minded corporators.

During the polling the rival candidate created ruckus inside the house and prevented members from casting open ballots.

On the intervention of the election authorities and security personnel deployed for election duty the situation was contained.

Thanking his supporters Mattu said, "I am happy they have trusted me once again and voted in my favour to lead the SMC".

Taking a dig at the National Conference for creating road blocks and preventing him from contesting the polls, Mattu said first they went to the court to stop these elections but when their plea was rejected they tried to scuttle the democratic process. He said, "I am happy I won the polls." Democracy prevailed, he added.

Mamata vows to win polls even from prison

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday said even if the saffron Government in the Centre put her behind the bars she will win the 2021 Assembly elections from jail.

Launching her election campaign quite early from Bankura district where her party Trinamool Congress conceded all the seats to the BJP in 2019 general elections the Chief Minister said BJP, which is "the biggest abhishap" (curse) on the nation is planning to put behind the bars by employing the central agencies but I dare them to do so. I challenge them to get me arrested if they have courage... I will win the elections from inside the prison."

Calling the BJP a "not a political party but a garbage of lies," Banerjee said whenever the elections came they rake up the chit fund and Narada pay off issue to intimidate our leaders.

"They set central agencies after her before the elections raking up the Sharada (chit fund) and Narada issues... but I am not afraid of them and am ready to go to jail if they... let them arrest me if they have the courage to do so... I will win from jail," the Chief Minister said citing how RJD patriarch Laloo Yadav maneuvered his party to near-victory in Bihar from jail.

"Though they jailed Laloo Yadav he ran his party well from inside the prison and brought to a near situation of winning," Banerjee said accusing the BJP of horse-trading. What was promptly interpreted by the political experts as her diminishing trust on the party colleagues Banerjee said she had not appointed district observers for her party as "I am the observer in all the districts and all the seats," accusing some TMC leaders for being in touch with the BJP.

"There are some leaders who are with us in the day time and with the BJP during the night... this will not be tolerated," she said.

Accusing the Marxists of providing the support base for the BJP, Banerjee said "yesterday's CPI(M) are today's BJP... these CPI(M) men are joining the BJP to avoid arrest but they must understand that the BJP will never come to power in Bengal."

The TMC displaced the Left Front in 2011 and ever since it has been in power in Bengal amid accusations of corruption, nepotism, falling law and order etc.

Reacting to Banerjee's statements Bengal BJP president Dilip Ghosh wondered why the Chief Minister was afraid of going to jail.

Kerala records 6,491 fresh Covid cases; toll touches 2121

Thiruvananthapuram: Kerala on Wednesday registered 6,491 fresh Covid-19 cases and 26 deaths, taking the total caseload to 5,78,132 and the toll to 2,121.

There are 3,14,676 are under observation in the state, of which 2,98,616 people are in home or institutional quarantine and 16,060 are in hospitals," she said adding 1,853 people were admitted to various hospitals on Wednesday. PTI

Maha sees 6,159 new cases

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

In a spike witnessed in the number of deaths and infections after a gap of two days, Maharashtra on Wednesday logged 65 deaths and 6159 new infected cases.

A day after Covid-19 deaths remained static at 30 for the second consecutive and the infections rose to 5439 in the state, the number of deaths more than doubled and infections rose by 720 to touch a figure of 6159.

With 65 fresh deaths, the Covid-19 toll in Maharashtra climbed from 46,683 to 46,748. Similarly, with 6159 fresh infections, the total infected cases jumped from 17,89,800 to 17,95,959.

As 4844 more people were discharged from various hospitals the number of people discharged from the hospitals on Wednesday after full recovery since the second week of March this year went up to 16,63,723. The recovery rate in the state dropped marginally from 92.69 per cent to 92.64 per cent.

Of the 65 deaths reported on Wednesday, Mumbai accounted for a maximum of 17 deaths, followed by 11 deaths in Satara, 8 in Nagpur, 6 in Pune, 4 in Beed, 3 in Raigad, 2 each in Thane, Jalgaon, Solapur, Jalna and Yavatmal and one death each in Nashik, Dhule, Sangli, Sindhudurg and Gondia. In addition, one person from outside the state died in Maharashtra.

With 17 fresh deaths, the Covid-19 toll in Mumbai rose from 10,708 to 10,725, while the infected cases went up by 1,144 to trigger a jump in the total infections in the city from 277,453 to 278,597.

Meanwhile, the number of "active cases" total cases in the state went up from 83,221 to 84,464. The fatality rate in the state dropped from 2.61 per cent to 2.60 per cent.

Pune district, which continued to be the worst-affected city-district in Maharashtra, saw the total number of cases increase from 3,47,789 to 3,48,814, while the total number of deaths in Pune increased from 7298 to 7304.

Thane district remained in the third spot - after Pune and Mumbai - after the total number of infections rose from 2,36,390 to 2,37,180 while the total deaths mounted from 5437 to 5439.

Of the 1,04,56,962 samples sent to laboratories, 17,95,959 have tested positive (17.17 per cent) for COVID-19 until Wednesday.

Currently, 5,29,344 people are in home quarantine while 6980 people are in institutional quarantine.

People flout Covid protocol, run regular biz pushing positive cases to new high in Raj

Jaipur: Rajasthan, which was once being lauded for its effective containment of the Covid 19 hotspots, is witnessing a steep rise in Covid cases as the suspects have been operating their shops and businesses regularly, pushing the cumulative positive cases to a new high.

Arun (name changed), a medical shop owner, had his wife and children tested Covid positive but he was seen sitting at his shop selling medicines, steamers and various drugs regularly to other patients.

When asked why he has not quarantined himself, he said, "This is a chain which started a month back and is still continuing in my home; initially my wife was infected, when she turned negative, my son tested positive and now my daughter is Covid positive. I can't think of sitting idle inside my home for over a month and not doing anything as tests, CT scans and other such diagnosis have already added more to my regular expenses."

He is not the only one. A garment seller died in Jaipur due to lung infection. A week before his death, he and his sons were attending to customers at their shop.

"My father died due to lung infection. As the season changed, he contracted a cold. It took a turn for the worse and he passed away," his son said.

Other shopkeepers in the locality said that the family hid the information and did not reveal his real Covid status. The stories of people flouting the Covid 19 protocols do not end here.

There are many patients who are not going for testing but are simply following the prescriptions being circulated on WhatsApp while continuing their regular routine. Monica (name changed), who runs a kids garment shop, has been regularly attending to her customers despite having a cough and cold. She has also been taking the drugs prescribed by doctors which include azithral 500 mg, zincovit and limee for the last four days.

"Will take these medicines for five days and shall be ok," she said.

ANS contacted CMHO Narottam Sharma in this context and he said, "People have been coming to us after five days of test-positive. We have to tell them that their quarantine period is 14 days so don't come to us before 14 days for another test."

People, it seems, have lost their senses and hence are adopting this approach, he said when IANS informed him of such suspects who have been running their regular business despite having Covid positive patients at home. "We are adopting random sampling and those caught shall be acted against strongly," he added.

On Tuesday, the state had 3314 cases out of which 656 cases were reported from Jaipur, on November 23, 3232 cases were reported from Rajasthan out of which 599 were from Jaipur, on November 22, 3260 Covid cases were reported.

Health Minister Raghunath Sharma said on Monday that the state is registering over 3,000 Covid-19 cases daily for the past few days, calling it a second peak of coronavirus in the state. Taking precautions is the only way to save oneself from this pandemic, Sharma said, adding that there are many reasons for the spike in the number of Covid cases. IANS

Rats kill, eat newborn baby girl in Aligarh

Aligarh: A newborn baby was eaten and killed by rats in a hospital in the Atrauli area of Aligarh district. The victim complained to the SDM about this injustice. The SDM has given assurance of providing justice to the victim's family.

Pilkhuni resident Rajesh Kumar son of Sukhpal Singh said that his wife Sapna Devi gave birth to the baby in Kirti Hospital on Ramghat Road, Atrauli on Sunday evening. Both mother and child were healthy. After some time, the doctors asked to keep the baby in the freezer etc. and asked to pay the money. After some time, the doctors informed the family that the girl had died. The relatives were surprised that the girl was completely healthy. The staff did not give any satisfactory response on asking the cause of the girl's death. When the relatives of the dead girl saw the dead body, their senses flew away. The face of the newborn girl was cut in such a way as if a bug or a rat has bitten. Seeing the deranged face, the family of the victim heated up and started creating a ruckus at which the hospital staff pushed them out of the hospital and did indecency with the victim's family. It is alleged that only after depositing the outstanding money, the dead body of the girl was handed over to the relatives and the woman was discharged. The victim side has complained about the injustice done to the SDM. The SDM has given assurance of providing justice to the victim's family. PNS

Bengal's Leader of Opp Abdul Mannan tests Covid +ve

Kolkata: Leader of Opposition in the West Bengal Assembly, Abdul Mannan, has tested Covid-19 positive and was admitted to a private hospital in Kolkata on Wednesday.

According to hospital sources, the Congress leader is currently stable and underwent a computerised tomography (CT) scan test. He has co-morbidities, including diabetes, and a mild respiratory infection. IANS

BJP workers assault on-duty policeman

PRADEEP SAXENA ■ ALIGARH

A dispute broke out between the police and the BJP worker at Mohalla Naurangabad in the Gandhi Park area. It is alleged that BJP worker, resident of Manik Chowk (formerly Mahavirganj BJP Mandla) and zinc businessman Manish Gupta, along with his partner, tore the policeman's uniform and kicked the inspector. Later somehow the police took both to the police station. Three BJP MLAs reached there on the news. Later, they compromised on the intervention of the MLAs.

From the IG level, Inspector Manikant Sharma of Gandhi Park police station has been called for line. At the same time, a case has been registered against both the accused.

Two parties were having dinner at a function in a hotel at Mukhiya Ji's Dharmsala in the Naurangabad area. Suddenly there was a fight between the two sides on something. A person from one side was recognized as BJP worker Manish Gupta. The people called the police. Shortly, the soldier and the police reached the spot. According to the police, at the time they arrived, Manish and his fellow Awadhesh were found assaulting a man named Virendra. When he was stopped by the soldier Rajkumar, he beat him and tore the uniform.

831 new corona cases reported in Andhra Pradesh

Amaravati: Only 831 new Covid-19 cases were reported in Andhra Pradesh on Wednesday, taking the gross to 8,64,674.

The number of active cases fell below the 13,000 mark to 12,673 after 1,176 patients got cured in 24 hours ending 9 am on Wednesday.

Six deaths were reported, the lowest daily count in about five months now.

The total recoveries increased to 8,45,039 and the toll to 6,962, according to the latest bulletin.

Only three districts reported between 100 and 150 fresh cases, four districts between 50 and 100 while six others added less than 50 cases each in 24 hours. PTI

Police assaulted while out to arrest accused

Aligarh: Inspector and two soldiers, who went to Udaipur village to catch the accused under Pocco Act, were beaten up by the family members & villagers of the accused with sticks. The inspector tried to make a video, but his mobile was snatched away. The attackers fled by seeing more police forces who arrived on the information. The victim has filed a report at the police station.

On October 3, a teenager filed a case against Ajit, son of Kripal Singh, Sachin and Bablu son of Babulal, resident of Udaipur village, for molestation and assault under the Pocco Act. Since then the police was looking for the accused. SSI Yogendra Singh Dhama said that the in-charge Virendra Singh of Barka police station received information from the informant that an accused Ajit had come to the village. He went to Udaipur to catch him along with soldier Dharamvir and Rajiv Kumar. Police apprehend Ajit from his house. Then the family and the villagers of the accused surrounded the inspector and the two soldiers and started beating them with sticks and rescued the accused. When the inspector tried to make a video, the mobile was also snatched away.

On information, SSI Yogendra Singh reached with the Force. But by then the accused had escaped. In the fight, both the constables and the soldier were badly injured. Inspector Virendra Singh has filed a case against Udaipur resident Babulal son of Kare Singh, Ajay son of Kripal Singh and Sachin son Babulal. PNS

Summoned for questioning, Sena MLA Sarnaik goes into quarantine

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

A day after ten of his family members were raided and his son Vihang was detained by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) for questioning, influential Shiv Sena MLA and real estate development Pratap Sarnaik on Wednesday did not appear before the ED, saying that he had gone into quarantine on his return from Goa.

Fifty-six-year-old Sarnaik, who was not present when the ED raided the residences of his two sons and eight other premises at Thane and in Mumbai, was reportedly away in Goa.

Sarnaik, who met Shiv Sena MP and spokesperson Sanjay Raut at the office of Shiv Sena newspaper "Saamana", went into quarantine. His family sources said that Sarnaik and his son Purvesh had quarantined themselves at their Bandra flat in north-west Mumbai.

In a letter submitted to the ED at its Mumbai on his behalf, Sarnaik's brother-in-law told the investigating agency that Sarnaik was currently in quarantine, while son Vihang was attending to his wife Anita who has been admitted to Thane's Jupiter Hospital. He urged ED that Sarnaik be given one week's time to appear before the ED.

Reacting to Sarnaik's "failure" to appear before the ED for questioning, BJP leader Kirit Somaiya wondered if Sarnaik was "scared" of either Covid-19 or ED or money-laundering and benami transactions.

Sarnaik and his family members are being investigated for their links with TOPS GRUP, a security service provider company owned by Rahul Nanda. On his part, Nanda has gone on record, saying that Sarnaik was his friend for the past 25 years but had not invested in his company.

The case registered by the ED against Nanda and Sarnaik is based filed by two senior employees of TOPS GRUP, who were terminated from service for alleged misappropriation of money. In their complaint, the two employees had alleged that Nanda had "diverted" money to an off-shore trust and his company had indulged in alleged irregularities in the acquisition of a firm in the UK The Shield Guarding Co Ltd for Rs 140 crore in 2017. On his part, Nanda has told the ED that he had set up a trust in Mauritius as per laws.

On Tuesday, the ED conducted simultaneous raids on two residence and eight other premises of Sarnaik and his family, and detained his son Vihang for questioning. Soon afterwards, a political controversy broke out in the state, as the ruling MVA partners slammed the BJP for "misusing" its official machinery to get at them on the occasion of their government celebrating first anniversary in office.

Pratap Sarnaik is a three-time MLA from Ovala-Majiwada constituency in Thane, and is a real estate developer and the Chairman of Vihang Group of Companies with interests in varied sectors.

Within hours after the ED carried out raids at ten Sarnaik's family premises, including son Vihang Sarnaik's residence at Hiranandani Estate, at Thane and Mumbai, NCP chief Sharad Pawar joined other MVA leaders, including Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut and Maharashtra Congress president Pratap Thorat in accusing the BJP of using the central investigating agencies for settling its political scores.

Accompanied by a huge posse of Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) personnel, the ED officials carried out searches at the residences of Sarnaik's son Vihang and Puvesh and eight other premises belonging to Sarnaiks. Pratap Sarnaik was not present when the raids took place.

After the raids, the ED officials detained Vihang whom they took to their office where they questioned him for more than six hours, before letting him off late in the evening.

Dubbing the ED raids on Sarnaik's premises as an act of "political vindictiveness", Shiv Sena spokesperson and MP said: "The raids carried out on the premises of Sarnaik were an act of political vindictiveness. If you want to arrest our people, please go ahead and do. We are not scared of anyone. If you (BJP) have guts, please fight against us openly rather than using the central investigating agencies our people."

Without naming the BJP, Raut said that the party should forget about its dream of returning to power in Maharashtra for the next 25 years "no matter how much pressure it exerts on us or spreads terror through agencies"

In a sharp criticism of the BJP over the raids conducted on Sarnaik's premises, NCP chief Sharad Pawar said: "What we are witnessing in the state today is an act of desperation. Instead of responding to questions being raised by the people (about the lack of governance), the ruling party at the Centre is using its official machinery against its opponents. This is not done. Our MVA government is about to complete its first anniversary in office. Having realised that it won't return to power in the state, the ruling BJP at the Centre is misusing its official machinery against its political opponents."

Two held for raping teenage girl

PTI ■ THANE

Two persons have been arrested from Bhiwandi town in Thane district of Maharashtra for allegedly raping a 16-year-old girl, police said on Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the news of arrest of the duo on Tuesday night led to violence in their residential area, an officer said, adding that unidentified miscreants damaged some stalls.

"The accused duo were booked on the charge of rape and under provisions of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act," DCP, Bhiwandi, Yogesh Chavan told reporters.

An era ends in Congress

With the passing away of Ahmed Patel and Tarun Gogoi, the old order has receded further. Rebuilding just got tougher

Perhaps, the Congress is in its lost year indeed. Perhaps that's the trigger for that emboldening moment among its legacy holders to rescue the party. Electorally, it is quite done with trying to make a difference. Organisationally, it has been torn asunder like never before. And now an era that justified its bigness and relevance has ended with the passing away of two of its senior and indispensable leaders, Ahmed Patel and Tarun Gogoi. Both were organisation builders who used dissent as an opportunity to strengthen and glue the party further. But Patel's loss is indeed irreplaceable as the Congress has lost its Chanakya. And the Gandhis, their lone warrior and the gatekeeper, who kept them safe and convinced everybody else that the party indeed needed them. A self-effacing man, who masterminded the shrewdest backroom strategies, he ran the party much like the late Pranab Mukherjee ran the Government under successive Gandhis, from Indira to Sonia. But he never let his ambition show unlike the latter, helming the party through crisis after crisis, propping up Governments with coalition partners when the numbers seemed impossible, raising funds and building a worth that would be bigger than any chair. He became the party, the Gandhis the representable face. That doesn't mean he was a courtier, far from it. Or that he was shy, being socially one of the most accessible of Congressmen. He was just sagacious and discreet that made him the most trustworthy leader and the party's ablest troubleshooter. He got the job done. A fact that he put to good use to build connections within the party and outside. He was accessible to cadres, had his ear to the ground and addressed their grievances, a quality that junior leaders are yet to imbibe, believing in data analytics than the human connect. A failing described by the well-meaning and weathered senior leader Ghulam Nabi Azad as "five-star" culture. In fact, Patel was the bridge in the perennial tussle between the old guard and the young Turks, between the Congress and its allies in the coalition era and between the party and the Opposition. And he endeared himself to corporates, a fact that even compelled Rahul Gandhi to bring him in as Treasurer though the latter was not too close to him unlike his parents. Patel never went public, choosing to settle matters in private, his last manoeuvre being calming the 23 senior "letter writers" and keeping the party leadership out of an ugly spat. In short, he embodied all that held the Congress together. And he had deep political foresight, winning the Bharuch seat swearing loyalty to Indira Gandhi in 1977, post-Emergency, when the tide was against her even in her own party. Rajiv Gandhi noticed his deliverer capabilities and made him party general secretary, a most wanted post back then. Then he became part of the first family circle. Obviously, he was left out in the cold after Rajiv's assassination but he never embarrassed PV Narasimha Rao despite being sidelined or chorused the then Prime Minister's critics. He had that stabilising quality. By the time Sonia Gandhi warmed up to politics and was ready for the 2004 Lok Sabha election, Patel became her strategist and advisor, finding relevant talk points in the campaign that demolished the "India Shining" blitz by the Atal Bihari Vajpayee Government. And despite the Modi wave, Patel made sure that the Congress at least had a moral victory by narrowing the BJP's margins in the Gujarat Assembly elections or clinching his own Rajya Sabha victory. But the best part was that for all the Congress' appeasement politics, Patel never ever played the Muslim card himself. Personal heft and consensus-building were also the virtues of Tarun Gogoi, who steadied the party's presence in Assam in the post-militancy years as Chief Minister, ensuring development, peace and growth and rescuing a ravaged State from the brink. Both these stalwarts did pull the party out of its morass and kept it on course.

The problem with the Congress now is that none of them is around to steer it back. The senior leaders are understandably adrift, unable to convince the leadership that the party should now give up the culture of nomination and restore organisational democracy first before renewing and rebuilding itself. Sonia, bereft of fresh ideas and now Patel, continues to be reluctant about anything that could challenge the continuity of the Gandhi bloodline at the helm of affairs. And with divisions so sharp, anybody with a prescriptive formula to revive it is usually considered a rebel than a well-meaning loyalist or dismissed as a defector, usually to the other national party. Yet the dynastic entitlement has outlived its purpose in a politically empowered India, one that sees no potential in the leadership of Sonia's children but would certainly believe in a rebuilt party. The Congress last held CWC elections 1998 and holding one now would keep the field workers and grassroots leaders invested in the party. All of them are currently cut off by a sedimentary layer of loyal courtiers, who are interested in simply playing along as long as their posts are secure. Yet State leaders like Chhattisgarh's Bhupesh Baghel and Punjab's Amarinder Singh have proven that they are able organisers and can even articulate and take a stand on national issues. If the Congress wants to stick around, this is its last chance to self-correct, rise above ego, value honest counsel and appear selfless in the interest of a larger political legacy. Unless its leadership just wants to exist for the sake of it. Dynastic stubbornness would have to give way to reason, wisdom and reconciliation. And if Rahul Gandhi still wants the adulation, he has to earn the confidence of the rank and file to be elected, not foisted, in the hardest of times. At least, he would have made a brave choice.

Beating Twitter?

While the makers of Tooter are hoping that a home-grown social network can take off, that bird has long flown

This is not the first time a new social network has popped up to take on the might of Twitter. A few months ago another network called Mastodon created a buzz and while many, particularly those of a certain liberal persuasion, populated the site, sadly its fate wasn't very different from the animal it was named after. The latest site to float up on your device is called Tooter, which is really just a rebadged version of the social network called Gab in the United States (US). While its makers claim it to be Indian or swadeshi, it turned out that even the "Terms Of Service" were copied almost verbatim from the American service. Without disparaging the efforts of those trying to create a new service, it would be good if Indian software engineers could create a new social network, one that integrates the best of the others and adds features, rather than blithely copying another product. On this front, India would be well served to learn from the Chinese internet experience.

That said, can Twitter or Facebook ever be replaced? There is an argument that says yes, given their monolithic power now as opinion makers themselves. Twitter has, in particular, played a dubious role in restricting access to certain information during the US election, or so the losing candidate, President Donald Trump, alleges. Then again, one could argue that without Twitter, Trump's popularity would never have soared. It is important that services like Facebook and Twitter, which are transnational, should come under some sort of regulatory mechanism and should not become some extra-constitutional force in nations like India. That said, the arguments for free speech and misinformation make for a dubious grey area and territories have to be clearly demarcated by the Government of the day. Also, a lot of the lamenting about Twitter being right or wrong for one side or another disguises the fact that it is what it is because of such issues and cannot be equal to the electorate. Much of what goes on in social media is happening at a level that the elite, on either side, have little or no idea about, on messaging applications like WhatsApp. Yes, social networks should be subjected to Indian regulations and it may not be a bad idea to create an Indian social network, but clearly, Tooter, like Mastodon, isn't the answer.

Bengal's revival

It is possible to make a quick start in reviving the State's economy without large investments but through governmental will and management

PRAFULL GORADIA

If I were still a resident of West Bengal, my first priority in the coming Assembly elections would be to retain the identity of our State. It should not in any way get compromised by Bangladesh or its concerns. We need to recall that on the eve of the Partition of 1947, Sir Abdul Rahim and the popular peasant leader, Fazlur Rahman, had come to Calcutta to convince Netaji's brother Sarat Bose that a united Bengal should be the third dominion besides Hindustan and Pakistan. The Communist Party then began to support the idea of an undivided Bengal. Qaid-e-Azam Jinnah also backed it because a Muslim-dominated Bengal would willy nilly side with Pakistan rather than India.

When it comes to song, music, language and literature, all Bengalis take pride in them. But when it comes to memories, most Bangladeshis would recall their social oppression at the hands of the zamindars and their camp followers. Many remember that even when they were invited to dinner at wedding celebrations, they would be asked to sit separately and after meals were expected to clear their clay thalis. This hierarchical rift ran so deep that a united Bengal would eventually be torn from within. In conversation a few years ago with some acquaintances from Dhaka, I was surprised to find that they resented how East Bengal was not given Calcutta during the Partition, although the city was, as it were, a stone's throw from Jessore. They believed it was unfair of the British to change the allocation at the last minute, and while conceding Lahore to Pakistan, they had done grave injustice to them. Calcutta was sought after because it was an economic hub and a port city; it supplied all the raw jute and the merchant princes of Kolkata reaped the benefit of jute mills and many other industries.

Mohammad Ali Jinnah was anxious to acquire Calcutta and the impression was that he was a capable negotiator. But obviously, he lost out, perhaps because his lungs were failing and his heart was set on getting Pakistan. The interests of East Bengal had a lower priority for him. Incidentally, the Qaid had never visited East Bengal until February 1948. The only so-called industry given to it was the Sylhet district, which was rich in tea gardens. Bangladesh has very few economic means, other than subsistence resources, such as rice and fish. That is why, it needs to follow the Japanese model of importing raw materials from overseas and converting them into products with high technology for export. It is difficult for any people to have such techno-entrepreneurial genius as the Japanese. The legend of Sonar Bangla is now threatened because six of the western districts no longer receive the rainfall of yesteryears and they badly need river water from India. The other misfortune is that most of the land is low-lying and the sea level is rising. According to scientists, in two decades' time, 17 per cent of Bangladesh's land area is expected to be submerged. All these factors make Bangladeshis the highest number of migrants to other parts of the world. But West Bengal has borne the brunt of this influx.

My heart throbbled with delight when a few years ago, Mamata Banerjee, with all the fury at her command, threw a sheaf of papers on the Lok Sabha Speaker's table. She was then demanding an infiltrator-free West Bengal. The State has limited land and plentiful people and its resources have undoubtedly been stretched over the years, the refugees bulging that burden. Then the many industries — small, medium and heavy — that the State was proud of rapidly turned into industrial graveyards thanks to trade unions and poor management in years past.

Bengalis are a gifted people and certainly intelligent right down to the illiterate. If for nothing else, for their talent, the State deserves a better economy. A revival is overdue and it should soon set a new economic agenda. Setting up a new industry is like creating a brand, which would have to compete in this age of globalisation. On the other hand, education is a sphere in which Bengal enjoys a natural advantage as well as reputation. The first major thrust should be in the field of schools, colleges and universities. There is scope for developing a big knowledge economy because the catchment area can sweep UP, Bihar, Nepal, Assam and the Northeast, as well as Bangladesh. None of these regions is able to provide young people with quality education.

I would begin with medical studies. With efficient management and capable doctors, as many hospitals as possible across the State could be improved by deploying professional managers supported by medics. Let the doctors do their own specialised work. Management and medicine/surgery should not be mixed up. Thereafter, medical colleges along with as many hospitals as possible could be set up. The significant investment would largely be in creating medical colleges. The World Bank could lend the money since the Government could guarantee the loans. There should be an option, wherever possible, for expanding the hospital and adding another college, considering the best of technology is already available in India.

There is a crying need not for ordinary schools but for excellent ones with hostel facilities. The

New Education Policy (NEP) should be used as the lodestar for these schools to come up in the private sector with improved facilities. The land could be allotted by the State or there could be private-public partnerships. A similar strategy should be followed for colleges and universities. This would restore Bengal's pride as the seat of intellect.

Next, the Government should attend to sub-Himalayan West Bengal. There is space for a splendid international airport in and around Bagdogra, which is near the town of Siliguri. This is the place for proceeding to either Darjeeling, Kalimpong or Gangtok in Sikkim. The most glorious mountains in the world form the backdrop of these hill stations. Darjeeling is at 6,000 ft, and another 6,000 ft above that is Sandakphu, which is motorable, too, and from where one can view the Everest on a clear day. World class hotel groups and enterprising airlines could be lured with promises of support, a stable law and order situation and assurance that any obstacles in their path would be removed. Himalayan Bengal would become a brand in itself for Nature has indeed done its best to give North Bengal an unparalleled beauty. It is, therefore, possible to make a quick start in reviving the economy of West Bengal without undue large investments but with governmental will and excellence of management.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Best of luck, boys

Sir — Cricket is also a game of luck and like any other sport has its ups and downs. India's top-most spinner has been neglected and put under quarantine by the Indian cricket board despite showing superb performance with the ball in all the three formats of the game.

The International Cricket Council (ICC) decennially honours some of the most prolific names in men's and women's international cricket. These players are voted for by respected members of the cricket fraternity and the general public.

Virat Kohli and Ravichandran Ashwin are two Indians among seven players nominated for the prestigious "Player of the Decade" category. Ravichandran Ashwin is the only bowler in the ICC "Player of the Decade" repertoire. He finished the decade with the most number of wickets across formats (564). Let us all wish that the ball rolls in favour of India's top spinner and our captain Kohli, too, bags the prestigious honour. Let both the men walk into the hall of fame.

Maharashtra's COVID plan a good move

It is good that the Maharashtra Government has made it compulsory for all travellers coming to the State from other parts of the country to carry RT-PCR negative reports. Due to the second wave of COVID-19, the State Government has issued new Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) to contain fresh triggers for a pandemic spread. Just like in international travel, fliers to Maharashtra should get themselves tested 72 hours before boarding. Those passengers who do not have the RT-PCR test reports will have to compulsorily undergo tests at the airports at their own expense. The Airports Authority of India has been requested to check the report before allowing the passengers to board flights.

People arriving in the State via train will have to carry an RT-PCR negative test report from a sample collected 96 hours before their scheduled arrival in Maharashtra. Those rail passengers who do not have an RT-PCR report will be screened for symptoms at the alighting railway stations. And only passengers without Coronavirus symptoms would be allowed to go home.

For those travelling by road, the District Collectors of the State's border districts shall make arrangements to ensure that people are tested for symptoms, including body temperature. Those with Corona symptoms will have to undergo an antigen test and will be allowed entry in the State only if the report is negative. People with COVID-19 symptoms would be turned back.

This is being done as Maharashtra's COVID-19 tally has risen to 17,84,361 infections with 46,653 deaths. It is the first State under the Shiv-Sena-Congress-NCP rule to introduce such tough restrictions through notifications. This is a step in the right direction as the State will have to clamp down on imported infections if it has to get a grip on the pandemic on its own turf.

Better sense prevails

Sir — We appreciate the LDF Government in Kerala for bowing to public opinion and agreeing to put on hold the regressive Ordinance empowering the police to prosecute persons disseminating "defamatory content." Unlike other Governments, the Leftist Government in the State listened to sane voices, realised the scope of potential abuse of the Ordinance and made amends by keeping it in abeyance. One wishes that the Centre, too, would pay heed to the voice of the people on undemocratic laws. Clearly, the text of the law was not drafted by those with a clear understanding of the niceties of constitutional provisions. A staggering ignorance of the landmark rulings of the Supreme Court on criminal defamation was writ large on the Ordinance that had to be put in cold storage. The State Government may have had the good intention of curbing defamatory social media posts. But then the Ordinance, in the form in which it was promulgated, was seen as an attempt to gag the freedom of expression, which is the bedrock of democracy. The phraseology of the Ordinance, built on sweeping generalisations, did not indicate either discernment or sensitivity and gave the police blanket powers of crackdown.

The State cannot be seen to be arrogating to itself or arming itself with arbitrary powers in the guise of curbing abusive or offensive online content. Had the Ordinance been shown to Sitaram Yechury or the Politburo, the Kerala Government could have avoided the embarrassment of promulgating such a dubious law. Better sense has prevailed in the nick of time and saved us another round of Left-Right whataboutery.

A different ball game altogether

It is crucial to understand the financial behaviour and practices of SMEs which are totally separate from those of larger firms

HIMA BINDU KOTA

Although capital is a scarce resource for any business, it is even more scant for small and medium enterprises (SMEs). Therefore, cash flow and working capital management are the most crucial challenges of organisations in general and SMEs in particular. Working capital is short-term in nature and refers to the funds required for the daily functioning of a firm. In business parlance it consists of accounts receivables (debtors and any pre-payments, stock or inventory) and accounts payable (creditors and short-term provisions). The lifeline of any enterprise is the flow of cash and other liquid assets through a business cycle — a journey of collecting receivables from the debtors to pay off the creditors. This is also known as the cash conversion cycle. The efficiency and, therefore, the success of a business depends upon how fast the goods are converted into cash.

SMEs differ in many ways from large firms in terms of their financial behaviour and decision-making, mainly because of their characteristics and ownership. This ultimately reflects in their financial habits. So, what are the factors that affect the availability of capital to small enterprises? One of the most important issues is the size. According to researchers, during the start-up phase, the owner's personal savings are an important source of funds. Young and small firms do not have an established track record and may be characterised by informational opacity, making banks and other financial institutions reluctant to lend to them. In general, firms which are less than four years old, rely more on informal sources of funding.

However, when the SMEs increase in size and become larger, they have a greater network of banks willing to fund their business. The firm's ability to deal with multiple banks and other credit agencies generally grows with size, too. So, they rely more on long-term debt and external financing, including bank loans.

Second, the type of ownership is another important determinant for the source of funding. Any SME with a concentrated ownership, like in a proprietorship, should be more prepared to use bootstrap financing, as it would have greater difficulty in accessing a formal source of credit. From the lender's perspective, in such SMEs, there is no clear distinction between the owner and the firm, information asymmetry is prevalent and an ability to provide collateral is missing. On the other hand, a private limited SME may be viewed by financing agencies as more structured and credible. As a result, formal financing options are freely available to it. Third, the location of the start-up makes a huge impact. A firm's proximity to the banks has an influence on its ability to gain external funding. Research also suggests that one of the reasons for a company's failure is poor location that prevents customers and suppliers from reaching it. Therefore, despite high rentals, SMEs prefer to move to urban areas for the sake of better infrastructure and the ease of raising external finance.

Fourth, several researchers have provided evidence that the sector where the SME is operating has an impact on the short and long-term debt available to it. For example, short-term credit is used more in wholesale and retail trade as compared to manufacturing SMEs. Whereas the construction sector, hotel, hospitality and mining industries appear to depend more on long-term finance. And finally, availability of assets plays an important role in raising funds. From a lender's point of view, collateral, which is also known as the lender's second line of defence, is highly relevant while approving loans. Researchers Ono and Uesugi studied the Japanese SME loan market and found a positive relationship between the use of collateral and the ease of access to bank loans and external financing. It can also be understood that firms with lower tangible assets would face difficulties in accessing funds.

Additionally, the characteristics and gender of the owner too influence a firm's capability to raise external funding. According to several researchers in different countries, men and women differ in the way they raise cash for their businesses. There is empirical evidence that women entrepreneurs start their business with a smaller start-up capital, in fact less than half of the amount used by men. In addition, women also face discrimination from banks and other financial institutions. This is evident from the higher rates of interest charged from women entrepreneurs, the requirement of additional collateral, higher loan denial rate and so on. The age of the owner, too, impacts the personal financing preference. Older SME owners are less likely to take additional finance into their firms. Younger owners tend to use a variety of external cash sources like loans, overdrafts, credit cards and personal savings.

SMEs are the backbone of any growing economy. Therefore, it is crucial to understand their financial behaviour and practices which are very different from the financial management of large corporations. This would help policymakers come up with ways to improve the external financing scenario for such firms, as stronger SMEs make a stronger economy.

A case for natural gas

Consumption of one fossil fuel over another will, on its own, not offer a long-term solution to climate change, but employing less emission-intensive fuels can reduce pollution significantly

JONATHAN SYIEMLIEH

As the winter approaches, Delhi-NCR is under its annual envelop of smog. Caused by an unhealthy combination of low wind speed, change in wind direction, dip in temperatures and stubble burning in parts of North India, air pollution is back in the headlines and our daily lives. According to a study of 28 cities by IQAir and Greenpeace Southeast Asia, air pollution in Delhi-NCR was linked to the loss of an estimated 24,000 lives and 5.8 per cent of its Gross Domestic Product (GDP) in the first two quarters of this year, despite a strict COVID-19 lockdown since March. In fact, the linkage between rising air pollution levels and increase in COVID-19-related cases and deaths is being confirmed by several studies from around the world.

A recent study published in Cardiovascular Research, which was the first of its kind to distinguish between fossil fuel-related and other human-generated sources of air pollution, estimated that long-term exposure to air pollution has been linked to an increased risk of dying from COVID-19. The study estimated that about 15 per cent of deaths worldwide from the virus could be attributed to long-term exposure to air pollution. In Europe, the proportion was about 19 per cent, in North America it was 17 per cent and in East Asia about 27 per cent.

A recent study by Harvard University indicated that an increase of only one microgram per cubic metre in PM2.5 is associated with an eight per cent increase in the Coronavirus death rate. Long-term exposure to chronically-high PM2.5 levels weakens the ability of the lungs to fight off infections, therefore making people more susceptible to COVID complications.

In 2016, the national Capital ranked third on a list of cities around the world reporting close to 15,000 deaths due to air pollution. Shanghai was ranked first among the cities with most premature deaths at 17,600, followed by Beijing with 18,200 premature deaths due to PM2.5 pollutants. A study undertaken by Lancet Planetary Health the following year stated that Delhi had recorded the highest annual population-weighted mean PM2.5 levels in its air. Further, in 2019, the World Air Quality Report, compiled by IQAir, listed Delhi on top of the list of the capital cities with most polluted air for the second consecutive year with annual PM2.5 levels nearly 10 times the limit prescribed by the World Health Organisation (WHO). Other prominent NCR cities were also listed among the top 10 cities in the world with most polluted air.

Source apportionment studies, such as the ones conducted by IIT Kanpur (2013-2014) and National Environmental Engineering Research Institute (2017), have pointed out that secondary particles are a significant contributor to PM10 and PM2.5 concentrations in Delhi-NCR, with industrial point sources being the top four major contributors to PM2.5. Polluting fuels such as coal, diesel, pet coke and heavy fuel oil used by industries in Delhi-NCR are a major reason for this.

In such a dismal scenario, natural gas provides a good alternative to not only meet the energy needs of industries, but also as a less polluting option that can contribute to addressing environmental problems. The burning of natural gas for energy results in lower emissions of greenhouse gas (GHG), Carbon Dioxide (CO2) and nearly all types of air pollutants in comparison to burning coal or other fossil fuels to produce an equal amount of energy. However, natural gas has not seen much penetration in industries, especially those situated in Delhi-NCR. According to British Petroleum, India's share of natural gas in the energy mix is lower than many large economies. It had reached a mere 6.2 per cent in 2019; this when the Government aims to raise the share of natural gas in the country's energy mix to 15 per cent by 2030.

Switching to natural gas and displacing polluting fuels has contributed to lower GHG emissions and improved air quality in New York, Toronto and Beijing, according to a 2015 report by the International Gas Union (IGU). The benefits of increasing the use of cleaner-burning natural gas in the industry were acknowledged and put into force by policymakers in Northern China in 2017 where the shift from coal to natural gas in industries led to extensive reduction in GHG and air pollution. In Turkey, the industry around Istanbul, too, witnessed a reduction in air pollution as a result of switching from coal-lignite to natural gas in the early 2000s.

According to the 2019 World Energy Outlook special report analysis, an estimated 98 per cent of natural gas consumed today has lower life cycle emissions intensity than coal, when used for power or heat. The analysis incorporates both CO2 and methane emissions and indicates that, on an average, coal-to-gas switching reduces emissions by 50 per cent when producing electricity and by 33 per cent when used for heating purposes.

The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI) in 2019 had assessed the potential and impact of a switch to natural gas from heavier polluting fuels among Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) units operating in Delhi-NCR. Data collected showcased the presence of thousands of MSME units operating in this region and using a variety of fuels ranging from coal to low sulphur heavy stock, light diesel oil, wood, bagasse, rice husk, other biomass fuels, high-speed diesel and natural gas. By and large, MSMEs were found to be disinclined to migrate to natural gas owing to high upfront costs such as connection costs and security deposit, limited access to natural gas and economic viability in terms of increased unit price compared to other fuel options. To add to this, end users were also charged a conversion cost and had to bear the cost of internal piping infrastructure.

Obtaining the right of way and other clearances from State/local Government to lay natural gas pipelines also contributes to delays in setting up adequate pipeline infrastructure. Notably, micro units among MSME clusters in Delhi-NCR were found to be located in non-conforming areas and were especially not in favour of switching to alternative cleaner fuels as this would entail putting themselves under the ambit of regulatory compliances.

However, a switch to natural gas in MSMEs is not without precedent. The case of Uttar Pradesh's Firozabad glass bangle industry is a prime example of how switching from coal and wood to natural gas, coupled with the adoption of energy-efficient technologies, can reduce energy consumption and GHG emissions. Similarly, the Morbi-Wankaner area in Gujarat witnessed immediate reduction in air pollution as a result of the local ceramics industry shifting from coal to natural gas in 2019, following an NGT order the same year. The area recorded a 75 per cent reduction in PM2.5 levels, 72 per cent reduction in PM10 levels and an 85 per cent reduction in sulphur dioxide (SO2).

Further, in case of a shift to natural gas at a metal casting unit in Faridabad, Haryana, the learnings have highlighted that along with fuel switching, there is also scope for further reduction in energy consumption if MSME units follow best operating practices to improve energy efficiency. This requires understanding of technological best practices and their assimilation and adaptation to meet the needs of individual MSME units.

The provisions for upgrading and introducing new clean technologies in MSME regulations can be capitalised in favour of natural gas augmentation in their energy mix. However, the diverse Government departments that have programmes and schemes related to enhancing clean energy measures in this sector are working in silos. It is important to achieve proper coordination among departments and link related programmes and schemes on clean energy, energy efficiency, technology upgradation, database generation, reporting and monitoring and capacity-building. This could ensure effective targeting and a confluence of actions at the intended delivery point.

There is an opportunity for natural gas penetration in the MSME sector provided the prices are rationalised, energy efficiency measures are put in place and proper regulations imposed to restrict consumption of polluting fuels. A policy directive from the Central Government to enforce the ban on usage of non-clean fuels like coal, wood and so on could be introduced in a phased manner. The city gas distribution companies could also be mandated by the Centre to completely erect the gas pipeline infrastructure in urban areas.

With the overall objective of increasing the adoption and usage of natural gas in the MSME sector, adopting a cluster-based approach would make natural gas penetration more effective. The Central and State Governments can play an important role in this area by facilitating the creation of necessary infrastructure and greener investments to ensure reliable and affordable supply of natural gas to MSMEs. Unabated consumption of one fossil fuel over another will, on its own, not offer a long-term solution to climate change, but employing less emission-intensive fuels such as natural gas can result in significant reduction in both CO2 emissions and air pollution.

GWYNNE DYER

All the usual caveats apply: Don't go out and celebrate. Don't let your guard down because it is still going to be a long haul. This winter will be "hard", warns Ugur Sahin, co-founder and CEO of BioNTech, the German company that announced the first effective COVID-19 vaccine recently. "The vaccine can't be rolled out fast enough to reduce infections much in the current wave," he says.

The publication on November 16 of positive results for a second vaccine, this time by the US company Moderna, strengthened the optimism as did the fact that the AstraZeneca vaccine is also ready to roll out, even if it does have an average efficacy of just 70 per cent. Clearly, this Coronavirus can be beaten, and there are nine more potential COVID-19 vaccines already in the third and final stage of human trials.

But again, the riders: There will be at least half a million more COVID-19 related deaths this winter — or over a million if people don't observe the lockdowns and other restrictions like social distancing and use of sanitisers and face masks that are meant to contain the spread of the virus.

"What is absolutely essential," says Sahin, "is that we get a high vaccination rate before autumn/winter next year." That's when it could really be over. And yet there is cause to celebrate, because of the 11 vaccine candidates that were already in third-stage trials, both the front-runners are "messenger ribonucleic acid" (mRNA) vaccines, an entirely new approach that allows a much faster response to novel viral infections.

Traditionally, new vaccines took around ten years to be developed, tested and approved for general use. For the new mRNA vaccines, it has been ten months. It's a revolutionary science at work here.

After Chinese scientists posted the full genetic sequence of the COVID-19 virus online on January 10, says Drew Weissman of the University of Pennsylvania, "we were making RNA within a week or so". Weissman then supplied that RNA to both BioNTech/Pfizer and Moderna.

RNA carries the genetic instructions from the nucleus of the cell to build whatever protein is needed, and for the past decade researchers have been trying to fabricate "messenger RNA" that could be inserted into human cells. The mRNA would then use the cell's own genetic machinery to make vaccines and other medically useful proteins.

By 2018, several companies had cracked the problem of getting the mRNA past the body's immune defences. With the full RNA sequence of the new Coronavirus in their possession, all they had to do was choose which bit of the Coronavirus RNA to use in the vaccine.

Obviously not the whole thing, or it would rebuild the entire virus in the cell. Just a harmless segment of the virus' RNA, copied millions of times by the vaccinated person's cells, would alert the body's immune system and train it to destroy any invading virus with that sequence. Scientists chose the "spike" that the virus uses to attach itself to the human cell.

Several companies had mRNA vaccines ready for testing within two or three months, and the results have been spectacular. BioNTech/Pfizer has just reported 95 per cent efficacy for its vaccine and Moderna has reported 94.5 per cent success.

Even better, both BioNTech/Pfizer and Moderna included all major ethnic groups and a significant number of elderly people in their third-phase trials. All categories responded well to the shots (which is not always the case with trial vaccines).

Yet another mRNA vaccine in third-phase trials could be even better because it will be far cheaper than the BioNTech/Pfizer vaccine (priced at ₹2,896 for two shots) or the Moderna jab (priced at ₹5,495 for two shots) if it pans out. At Imperial College in London, Robin Shattock's team is working on a "self-amplifying RNA" vaccine that may require as little as one-hundredth of the amount of vaccine.

The mRNA technique may mean that future pandemics can be dealt with far more quickly. The vehicle is already available and waiting to carry the next vaccine. Just "plug and play" for any future Coronavirus, as one researcher puts it. (We have had three new Coronaviruses in the last two decades.)

Pfizer boss Albert Boura goes even further to say: "It is the greatest medical advance in the last 100 years." Well, maybe, though a vote taken today would probably plump for antibiotics instead. But we are only beginning to see the potential of the mRNA technique. There are already trials under way for a wide variety of other illnesses.

COMBATING RAPE CULTURE IN NEPAL

The Oli Cabinet has approved an ordinance proposing stricter laws on rape. Thankfully, lawmakers have let go of their demand of incorporating regressive provisions like the death penalty and chemical castration. Such provisions, if included, would have dealt a body blow to the principles of the modern criminal justice system. (Kathmandu Post editorial)

Pak host to largest number of UN proscribed terrorists: India

United Nations: India has reminded Pakistan, the "host to the world's largest number of UN proscribed terrorists and entities", of Abbottabad, the garrison city where al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden hid for years and was killed, in a hard-hitting response as Islamabad's UN envoy gave a "dossier of lies" to Secretary General Antonio Guterres.

India's Permanent Representative to the UN, Ambassador T S Tirumurti on Tuesday tweeted that the "dossier of lies presented by Pakistan enjoys zero credibility".

"Concocting documents and peddling false narratives is not new to Pakistan, host to the world's largest number of UN proscribed terrorists and entities. Remember Abbottabad!" he said.

The Indian Ambassador's tweet was in response to Islamabad's UN envoy Munir Akram meeting Guterres to hand over the dossier from the Pakistan government that alleged India was promoting terrorism in the country.

In his stinging tweet, Tirumurti made a reference to the Pakistani garrison city of Abbottabad, where bin Laden was hiding for years and was killed in an operation by the US Navy Seals in May, 2011.

Foreign Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla on Monday briefed top envoys of key nations, including the US, Russia, France and Japan on the planned terror attack by Pakistan-based terrorist group Jaish-e-Mohammed (JeM) in Nagrota in Jammu which was foiled by security forces on November 19.

The heads of missions were provided with a comprehensive "information docket" giving the details of the incident, and also a list of items and ammunition recovered from terrorists, clearly indicating their Pakistani origins.

The envoys were sensitised about India's concerns regarding Pakistan's sustained efforts to "destabilise" the situation in Jammu & Kashmir and to "subvert" upcoming local elections and democracy in the union territory, sources said.

Four suspected JeM terrorists, who were hiding in a truck, were killed by security forces near Nagrota in an encounter on Thursday morning after which the government asserted that a major terror attack was foiled by the Indian security forces. India is all set to join the powerful UN Security Council as a non-permanent member for a two-year term beginning January 1, 2021.

Jaishankar hails contributions of Indian diaspora in Bahrain in strengthening bilateral ties

Manama: External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Wednesday virtually interacted with the members of the Indian diaspora in Bahrain via video conference and appreciated their valuable contributions to the strengthening of the bilateral ties.

Jaishankar is on a two-day visit to Bahrain from November 24 to 25. It is the first leg of his six-day three-nation tour to Bahrain, the United Arab Emirates and Seychelles, beginning Tuesday. The visit is seen as important as it comes in the midst of the coronavirus pandemic that has wreaked havoc across the world.

"Glad to interact virtually, with members of the Indian community in Bahrain. Thank them for keeping India's flag flying high. Appreciate their valuable contribution to the strengthening of our bilateral ties," Jaishankar tweeted soon after the online interaction.

Earlier in the day, he visited the centuries-old Lord Sri Krishna temple at the Bahrain capital, Manama.

"Began the day with darshan at the 200 year-old Shree Nathji Temple at Manama. A testimony to our time-tested and close bonds with Bahrain."

Proud of Indian diaspora's achievements, contributions to society: Dutch PM to India's envoy

PTI ■ THE HAGUE

Noting that the Netherlands is home to one of the largest Indian diasporas in Europe, Dutch Prime Minister Mark Rutte has said that he was proud of their achievements and contributions to the society.

In a letter to India's Ambassador to the Netherlands Venu Rajamony, who completes his term this month, the prime minister cited the seven-decade-long Indo-Dutch bilateral relations and said that both the countries were working together closely on different fields including water, agriculture and renewable energy.

Biden seeks swift Cabinet votes, but GOP Senate stays silent

Washington: As President-elect Joe Biden started rolling out his administrative team, one voice has been notably silent: Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell.

Senate Republicans will hold great sway in confirming or denying Biden's Cabinet nominees, regardless of which party controls the narrowly split Senate after runoff elections.

But key Republican senators, including the GOP leader, are keeping quiet, for now, choosing their battles ahead.

In announcing his national security team, Biden appealed Tuesday to the Senate to give the nominees "a prompt hearing" and "begin the work to heal and unite America and the world."

The soonest the Senate would consider the nominations is Inauguration Day, Jan. 20, when past presidents often have been able to win swift confirmation of top national security officials shortly after taking the oath of office.

But with President Donald Trump still disputing the election, McConnell is setting the tone for Senate Republicans by not publicly congratulating Biden or acknowledging Trump's defeat.

He wants to give the president time to contest the vote, even as Trump's legal team has been losing most of the cases.

Analysis: Biden prioritises experience with Cabinet picks

New York: President-elect Joe Biden has prized staying power over star power when making his first wave of Cabinet picks and choices for White House staff, with a premium placed on government experience and proficiency as he looks to rebuild a depleted and demoralized federal bureaucracy.

With an eye in part toward making selections who may have to seek approval from a Republican-controlled Senate, Biden has prioritized choosing qualified professionals while eschewing flashy names. Even the most recognizable pick — John Kerry — lacks the showmanship that has defined the Trump era.

In sharp contrast to President Donald Trump, who openly distrusted the very government he led, Biden has showcased a faith in bureaucracy that was born of his nearly five decades in Washington.

He's made hires with the deliberate aim of projecting a sense of dutiful and, even boring, competency.

Surrounding himself with longtime aides and veterans of the Obama administration, many of whom have already worked together for years, Biden has so far rolled out a team of careerists with bursting resumes and little need of a learning curve.

Trump vents about election as agencies aid Biden transition

Washington: President Donald Trump insisted on Tuesday that he is not giving up his fight to overturn the election results, but across the federal government, preparations were beginning in earnest to support President-elect Joe Biden's incoming administration.

Within hours of the General Services Administration's acknowledgement Monday evening of Biden's victory in the Nov. 3 election, career federal officials opened the doors of agencies to hundreds of transition aides ready to prepare for his Jan. 20 inauguration.

And on Tuesday, Trump signed off on allowing Biden to receive the presidential daily brief, the highly classified briefing prepared by the nation's intelligence community for the government's most senior leaders.

An administration official said logistics on when and where Biden will first receive the briefing were still being worked out.

Biden, in an interview with "NBC Nightly News," said he was also working out a meeting with the White House's coronavirus task force and vaccine distribution effort.

Switzerland sets post-Brexit quota for British migrants

Geneva: The Swiss government says up to 3,500 migrants from Britain will be given permits to live and work in the Alpine nation next year, when Britain's post-Brexit transition with the European Union expires.

Britain's departure from the EU means that it isn't covered by Switzerland's freedom of movement agreements with the 27-nation bloc.

The Swiss government said Wednesday up to 1,100 British citizens will receive long-term residency permits.

A further quota of up to 1,400 short-term residency permits valid for up to one year will also be made available.

Russia sees record number of virus deaths again

Moscow: Russian authorities have registered a record number of coronavirus deaths for a second straight day.

The government coronavirus task force reported 507 new deaths on Wednesday, the country's highest daily toll.

The previous record of 491 deaths was reported on Tuesday. A total of 37,538 people have died from the coronavirus in Russia, according to the task force.

Russia has been swept by a rapid resurgence of the outbreak this fall, with numbers of confirmed infections and deaths hitting new highs almost daily and significantly exceeding those reported in the spring.

US lawmaker expresses concern over Chinese construction along Indian border

Washington: Expressing concern over reports of China's illegal construction activities along the Indian border in Ladakh, an influential US lawmaker has said that America will always continue to stand with India and oppose any "revisionist efforts" by the Chinese government or anyone else to challenge the peace and stability in the region.

India and China are engaged in a bitter stand-off on the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in eastern Ladakh since May.

"I am aware of and concerned with the public reports surrounding Chinese military construction along the disputed border with India. If these reports are true, and I hope they are not, China's continued military provocations will continue to escalate tensions in the region," Democratic congressman Raja Krishnamoorthi said on Tuesday.

"The United States will always continue to stand with our Indian partners in the Indo-Pacific region while opposing any revisionist efforts by the Chinese government or anyone else to challenge peace and stability," he said.

The Indian-American Congressman from Illinois issued the statement in response to reports of satellite images showing Chinese construction activities in eastern Ladakh.

EU says first virus vaccinations possible by Christmas

Brussels: A top European Union official said on Wednesday that the first citizens in the 27 nation bloc could be vaccinated against the coronavirus by Christmas, but she warned that member countries must urgently prepare their logistical chains for the roll-out of hundreds of millions of doses of the vaccines.

Claiming that "there's finally light at the end of the tunnel," European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen told EU lawmakers that "the first European citizens might already be vaccinated before the end of December." The commission, the EU's executive arm, has agreements with six potential vaccine suppliers and is working on a seventh contract.

LVB to become DBS Bank India from Friday

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Crisis-hit Lakshmi Vilas Bank (LVB) will merge into the Indian arm of Singapore-based DBS Bank on Friday, leading to removal of all restrictions, including withdrawal cap of ₹25,000, which the RBI had placed on the lender earlier this month.

The RBI notified the effective date of merger soon after the Union Cabinet headed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi approved the Scheme of Amalgamation of LVB with DBS Bank India Ltd (DBIL).

All the branches of LVB will function as branches of DBIL with effect from November 27, 2020. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) said in a statement.

"Customers, including depositors of the Lakshmi Vilas Bank Ltd will be able to operate their accounts as customers of DBS Bank India Ltd (DBIL) with effect from November 27, 2020. Consequently the moratorium on the Lakshmi Vilas Bank Ltd. will cease to be operative from that date," it said.

DBIL is making necessary arrangements to ensure that service, as usual, is provided to customers of LVB, the central bank added. The RBI had superseded LVB's board on November 17 after the private sector lender was placed under a moratorium. Meanwhile, the government issued a gazette notification which notified the Lakshmi Vilas Bank Limited (Amalgamation with DBS Bank India Limited) Scheme, 2020.

All employees of LVB shall continue in service and be deemed to have been appointed at the same remuneration and on the same terms and conditions of service as were applicable immediately before the close of business on November 17, 2020, the gazette notification issued by the Department of Financial Services said.

Earlier in the day, the Union Cabinet approved the merger of LVB with DBIL, providing comfort to 20 lakh customers of the bank which was put under the moratorium.

Lakshmi Vilas Bank shares bounce back, jump nearly 5%

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Shares of Lakshmi Vilas Bank bounced back on Wednesday after falling for almost a week, rising by nearly 5 per cent following the government approval for merger of the crisis-ridden bank with DBS Bank India Ltd (DBIL). In early trade on Wednesday, the stock had tanked 4.79 per cent to ₹6.95, its lower circuit limit as well as one-year low, on the BSE. However, it recovered all its lost ground in the afternoon trade, gaining 4.79 per cent to close at ₹7.65 -- its upper circuit limit. On the NSE, the scrip rose 4.79 per cent to close at ₹7.65. Earlier in the day, it had fallen 4.79 per cent to ₹6.95.

Kerala, West Bengal accept Centre's borrowing option to meet GST shortfall

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Kerala and West Bengal have accepted the Centre's borrowing proposal and will get ₹10,197 crore through the special window to meet GST revenue shortfall.

These are among the states that had opposed the borrowing plan.

"Governments of Kerala and West Bengal have communicated their acceptance of Option-1 to meet the revenue shortfall arising out of GST implementation, states are also entitled to get unconditional permission to borrow the final instalment of 0.50 per cent of Gross State Domestic Product (GSDP) out of the 2 per cent additional borrowings permitted by the Centre under Atmanirbhar Abhiyaan.

This is over and above the special window of Rs 1.1 lakh crore.

On receipt of the choice of Option-1 from Kerala and West Bengal governments, the Centre has granted additional borrowing permission of Rs 4,522 crore to Kerala and Rs 6,787 crore to West Bengal.

Markets tumble from record highs on profit-booking; Sensex sinks 695 pts

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Equity markets' record run screeched to a halt on Wednesday as investors pocketed gains in banking, finance and IT counters amid a mixed trend overseas.

Snapping a three-day winning streak, the 30-share BSE Sensex slumped 694.92 points or 1.56 per cent to finish at 43,828.10. The index touched a lifetime high of 44,825.37 in the opening session. Similarly, the broader NSE Nifty touched a record intra-day peak of 13,145.85, before ending 196.75 points or 1.51 per cent down at 12,858.40.

Kotak Bank was the top loser in the Sensex pack, skidding 3.22 per cent, followed by Axis Bank, Sun Pharma, HDFC Bank, Bajaj Finance, Asian Paints, Bharti Airtel, Infosys and Tech Mahindra.

Only three index components closed in the green -- ONGC, PowerGrid and IndusInd Bank, jumping up to 6.25 per cent. Global equities were mixed after the US Dow Jones Industrial Average breached the 30,000-mark for the first time in the overnight session on COVID-19 vaccine optimism.

Reports that US President-elect Joe Biden would appoint former Federal Reserve chair Janet Yellen as Treasury Secretary also cheered investors.

"The market rally which was led by developments on vaccine and FPI inflows came to a halt today due to profit booking across sectors in the second half of the trading session.

While western markets continued its positivity, being encouraged by news on vaccine developments and ease in the US political risk.

Rupee rises 10 paise to 73.91 against US dollar

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Rising for the fourth straight session, the rupee appreciated by 10 paise to close at nearly a month high of 73.91 against the US dollar on Wednesday as positive development on the coronavirus vaccine front enthused investor sentiment.

At the interbank forex market, the domestic unit opened at 73.98 against the greenback and witnessed an intra-day high of 73.88 and a low of 74.02.

The local unit finally closed at 73.91 against the American currency, registering a rise of 10 paise over its previous close.

On Tuesday, the rupee had climbed 10 paise to close at 74.01 against the US dollar.

The domestic unit had closed at 73.87 against the greenback on October 28.

Traders said risk appetite increased on news that US President-elect Joe Biden plans to nominate former Federal Reserve chairwoman Janet Yellen as treasury secretary.

Moreover, a weak American currency in the overseas market also supported the rupee.

'Govt should incentivise production, usage of eco-friendly cement'

IANIS ■ NEW DELHI

The Government should incentivise the manufacturing and usage of eco-friendly cement, according to a stakeholder in the sector. Himanshu Verma, Founder & Chairman of Navrattan Group said that the Centre, along with the cement industry, must push harder for an eco-friendly alternative to regular Portland cement. "Along with creating more public awareness, I would also suggest that the government should incentivise the manufacture and usage of such cement so as to give people more reasons to indulge in this practice," he said.

Verma was the view that eco-friendly cement is the future of the industry.

"We are at the crossroads of the future, with Covid-19 pandemic, global warming, environmental degradation, etc. The only way out of it is to go green," said the Chairman of the green cement manufacturer. He also noted that along with incentives, the government should reach out to the manufacturers with proper regulations. On the demand scenario of eco-friendly cements, Verma said that Indian cement industry is the second-largest producer in the world and considering that cement buying is not an "impulse-buy" commodity, its rising demand in both urban and rural milieu is a strong indicator of a robust economic activity nationally. For September and October 2020, the industry reported consecutive double-digit growth, he said.

"By 2030, the cement consumption is expected to be more than double. The present production capacity will have to work overtime to match that demand and, in doing so, it is highly likely that India will become the world's largest producer of concrete," he said.

He noted that India will be producing more cement than China by 2030 which may also lead to more threat of pollution. Keeping the downside in mind, he hopes that people would go for eco-friendly cement.

Banking operations to be hit on Nov 26 due to farm strike

Chennai: Banking operations will be affected across the country on Thursday with about 4.5 lakh bank employees joining the nationwide strike called by the central trade unions, said a top official of the All India Bank Employees Association (AIBEA).

The strike was called to protest against the "anti-people policies" of the Central government. "Employees of 12 public sector banks, nine private banks, nine foreign banks, all Regional Rural Banks and most of the Cooperative Banks will be participating in the strike," AIBEA General Secretary C.H. Venkatchalam told IANS.

India IT, business services market to reach $13bn this year: IDC

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The IT and Business Services market in India is expected to grow annually by 5.4 per cent to reach $13 billion by the end of the year, an IDC report said on Wednesday.

In the first half (January-June period), the India IT and Business Services market grew by 5.3 per cent (on-year) as compared to the 8.9 per cent growth in the first half last year, according to the IDC's 'Worldwide Semiannual Services Tracker-IH20'.

When it comes to only IT Services, the market contributed 77.4 per cent in the first half this year and grew by 5.9 per cent (on-year) compared to the 9.3 per cent growth in IH2019.

"In IH20, the role of IT

Services vendors gained higher prominence, as organisations increasingly approached them to help ensure business continuity by putting in place various technologies, solutions, best practices and frameworks," said Garima Goenka, Market Analyst, IT Services, IDC India.

Apart from ensuring business continuity, the role of IT service providers have also been towards helping organisations to achieve a higher degree of tech resilience, adaptability and digital transformation maturity, to become future-ready.

According to the IDC, the IT Services market will begin picking up momentum gradually from 2021 onwards and is projected to grow at a CAGR of 7.2 per cent between 2019-2024, to be valued at $13.4 bil-

Never forget why you started: Rao

Actor RAJKUMMAR RAO has shared words of wisdom in his latest post on social media.

"Never forget why you started," Rajkumar captioned an image he recently posted on Instagram.

Rajkumar's latest film Ludo released digitally. The Anurag Basu directorial is a dark humour anthology comprising four stories.

Abhishek Bachchan, Fatima Sana Shaikh, Rohit Saraf, Aditya Roy Kapur, Pankaj Tripathi and Sanya Malhotra are also seen playing important characters in the film.

He has Badhaai Do and Roohi Afza coming up.

Slowly but surely, India and Indianness are foraying into the world of showbiz in the West, and much of it has to do with the country's growing presence in the OTT space. The success of Netflix's Delhi Crime winning the 'Best Drama Series' award at the 48th International Emmy Awards is, as Shefali Shah rightly said, "a cherry on the sundae", but Indian stories and talent of the digital space have been making a strong impact the way Bollywood or our mainstream cinema never really did.

The show becomes the first Indian programme to win an International Emmy. Writer-director Richie Mehta's seven-episode series has Shefali Shah in the central role of DCP Vartika Chaturvedi, and narrates the story of investigation in the aftermath of the heinous Delhi gang-rape of December 2012.

"I am completely ecstatic, euphoric and all the possible superlatives in the thesaurus that I can recollect now. It's just amazing! I feel so proud to be a part of Delhi Crime. This win is like a cherry on the sundae but irrespective for me, Delhi Crime has always been a winner since the day I started work on it. I knew that this show is a very special one. The Emmy has put us on the global

AN INTERNATIONAL HIT

With Delhi Crime winning the 48th International Emmy Award, Indian stories and the talent pool on the OTT space are gradually making a strong impact globally, the way our mainstream cinema never did platform and we feel extremely proud of the honour," Shefali said.

"This is a BIG one for us, a big one for India. Thank you for the endless love and support that has flowed our way for the show. I am so honoured to be a part of something that is so real and relevant that it put us on the global map. Thank you for the nominations and the experience, Emmys. Congratulations to the supremely deserving team behind Delhi Crime," she added.

In his acceptance speech, writer-director Mehta thanked all the producers, the OTT platform Netflix that streams the show, the casting crew and the cast, with a special mention of Shefali Shah, his parents and wife, the Sundance Film Festival, and the Delhi police team headed by "Neeraj Kumar and the amazing Chhaya Sharma" that helped them bring the show alive. "The project was led by women, it was financed and put together and released by women, this crime was solved by women, this is for the courage of those women and all the women who not only endure the violence that so many men inflict on them but then are tasked with solving the problem," said Mehta.

He paid a special tribute to the victim and her mother. "Finally the fearless and tireless hero of all mothers and her daughter. Not a day goes by when I don't think about you both and what the world subjected you two to. And I hope none of us ever forget that," he said.

The fictionalised crime drama series also features Rasika Dugal, Adil Hussain, Rajesh Tailang, Avijit Dutt, Gopal Dutt, Jaya Bhattacharya, Denzil Smith and Yashaswini Dayama in pivotal roles.

"Delhi Crime will always be close to the heart for how the narrative examines the lives of women in a patriarchal society through (characters) Vartika, Neeti, Chandni, while reminding us that we as a society allowed a heinous crime like the 2012 rape case to happen," said Rasika.

WE'RE OUR OWN ENEMIES

Actor WINSTON DUKE talks about how the characters in the horror film, Us, explain that monsters are just some ghostly creatures we create in our minds, rather they're very much like us. By TEAM VIVA

'TB continues to be one of the most devastating public health issues in our country. With just under 40 per cent of diagnosed cases in people under 30, there is an urgent need to clear misconceptions around it and drive a perception change. MTV Nishedh Alone Together conveys this message in a unique and impactful way.'

Miss World 2017 MANUSHI CHHILLAR, who will make her Bollywood debut through Prithviraj, opposite Akshay Kumar, says she's a vegetarian and loves it.

On International Meatless Day, she said, "For me, being a vegetarian was more of a personal choice. It has been and will always be a way of life for me because my parents are vegetarians and I have inculcated this through them. However, they never forced this on me. I made my choice after I realised that it suits for me remarkably and makes me feel fitter, healthier. Plant-based diet works better for me & I am a firm believer of it."

Bieber upset with Grammys

Singer JUSTIN BIEBER has earned four Grammy Award nominations for his album Changes, including Best Pop Solo Performance (for Yummy), Best Pop Duo/Group Performance (Intentions featuring Quavo), Best Pop Vocal Album, & Best Country Duo/Group Performance (for his feature on Dan + Shay's 10,000 Hours).

Bieber, post announcement, wrote a letter to the Academy on Instagram, talking about how his mission to make an R&B album was not honoured properly.

"To the Grammys," he wrote, "I am flattered to be acknowledged & appreciated for my artistry. I am very meticulous & intentional about my music. But I set out to make an R&B album. Changes is an R&B album. Alas, it isn't being acknowledged as that."

What did you make of the US script?

I thought it was really bold and creative, and the most original piece I had read around that time. I felt so privileged to even be asked to look at the material. Well, it being Jordan Peele's was an added bonus. I have been his fan since his sketch comedy days, the early days on Mad TV, and his own show, Key & Peele. To see him transition into the narrative storytelling realm, I felt, 'Of course! He's been a genius for years. Can't wait!'

To know it came from him, and to consume that material at the time, I sat there quiet for a few minutes, thinking, 'I saw this, I saw that, this means that, this means this... Oh my goodness, it's a big conversation.' I wanted to be part of that conversation. And that is why I jumped right on to the film. More than anything else, I said, 'I want to be a part of the conversation that this film evokes.'

'I WANTED GABE TO SEEM THE CLOSEST TO THE AUDIENCE THROUGH HIS ABILITY TO BOTH BE IN IT AND ALSO STAND OUTSIDE IT AND MAKE IT FUNNY. HE'S ABLE TO TURN A MOMENT THAT FEELS REALLY TRAUMATIC AND TERRIBLE AND FIND SOME SEMBLANCE OF HUMOUR IN IT'

Did Jordan suggest you horror or any other genre films to watch before making the film?

I think, for each of us, we wanted something totally different out of the experience. Mine was, because I wasn't very familiar with the genre, an aversion to horror as a genre for a while. I enjoyed the scary films, the parody ones, because I understood that. All these tropes definitely didn't benefit people who looked like me, so I never really got attached to the genre. But after reading the script, I knew I wanted to be a part of this new world because it turned everything on its head.

Was there something you wanted to bring to Gabe Wilson?

I wanted Gabe to seem the closest to the audience through his ability to both be in it and also stand outside it and make it funny. He's able to turn a moment that feels really traumatic and terrible and find some semblance of humour in it.

I also wanted Gabe to be the perfect avatar for the audience and a construct that reminded the audience of themselves. I wanted them to talk about Gabe when they went home and see themselves in him with a blind comfort. Gabe is so comfortable and privileged. The fact that he thinks he can solve it all with a baseball bat! It's fascinating. He aspires to be like his friends who are so much more comfortable. It's his ambition and tied into his need to ascend to the American dream. Then you realise that the American dream is so flawed and insecure, their house is literally made of glass and it doesn't protect you. You see it and you say, 'they are us.'

You also had to play another completely different character than Gabe. How did you work out the differences?

We rarely did both on one day. I think we only did that on one or two days that I was filming because it was so taxing. Jordan made that possible with the schedule. He'd never book it for both on one day. It was really helpful to have someone in your corner supporting you with a schedule. He'd schedule certain things later in the shoot, so you have time to prepare. I think for Lupita, a lot of the climax for her happened at the end of shooting, which helped her have all the experiences beforehand, put them in her body and then demonstrate it.

Do you think Jordan's history as a performer helps him be a director of actors?

Deeply. He understands the process, how we need it and gives us a lot of room for it. He respects it and creates space for us to do whatever we need to do. He doesn't try to force you into his process. He's like a gardener and he understands he has different flowers. Some need more sunlight and water, some need less.

You were working with Evan and Shahadi. How were they as fellow performers?

They were brilliant! They came prepared and ready to act, play and be daring. It was really good to just watch them be free and learn what fearlessness looks like. As kids, they've got nothing to be afraid of. We were all very pleasant on set so they felt comfortable. They wanted to have lunch with us everyday and most days, we did. Both Evan and Shahadi were so committed to their roles, always showing something new. It was a great collaborative effort. Jordan relied on a lot of different people to bring a lot of dimension and character to these roles. It was a cast of greatness.

Filming something like this, you have a lot of intensity. Is it something that sticks with you?

It was hard to let go. I think I was going through a lot of stress. I went on to do two other projects immediately after this. I don't think I shed the characters of Us before I went to do the other jobs to do my regular process of taking them off. I didn't realise that until New Years, when I finally had a vacation and got to sit and meditate and realise I'd never removed Gabe from my person. I'd been walking around with so much baggage, no wonder I was so stressed! I literally have felt like I'm fighting for my life.

Us* loosely falls into horror. But how does it differ within the genre?

I think there is so much commentary on it. In particular, we've been saying a lot about how we're our worst enemies. It's very interesting because our monsters aren't creatures. They don't have wings, they're not ghosts or werewolves. They're not things, they're people. They're your monsters. They're not just "them." They're "us."

(Us premieres on November 29 at 1 pm and 9 pm on Sony PIX.)

'I have no regrets'

From the art of acting he exuded in Paar, Sparsh, Pestonjee, Jumoon, Mirch Masala or Jaane Bhi Do Yaaro, to the unforgettable screen presence of mainstream roles in Masoom, A Wednesday, Jalwa, The Dirty Picture or the Ishqiya films, 70-year-old Bollywood veteran Naseeruddin Shah has been there, done that.

The much-feted actor has been equally at home on screens big and small (some feel his role in the TV serial Mirza Ghalib is his best ever), and has recently forayed the OTT space with the series Bandish Bandits, too.

In a career spanning over four decades, there have been instances when he failed to create magic on screen but he says that he has no regrets. "I don't have a single regret in life. Yes, I have made mistakes but I have overcome them. I have put them behind me and moved on with learnings. I would be a fool to keep regrets in life. I have acted in several ghastly films. I ate some of them. I might have not enjoyed working for those films but I don't regret having done them. Each and every decision of mine has taught me something or the other," Shah said.

The Dev Deepavali, literally translates to "the Diwali of gods" or "the festival of fights of gods", is the festival of Kartik Purnima celebrated in Varanasi, Uttar Pradesh. It falls on the full moon of the Hindu month of Kartika and takes place 15 days after Diwali. On this day, the gods are believed to descend to earth to bathe in the Ganges. The main rituals performed by devotees consist of the Kartik snan (taking a holy bath in the Ganges during Kartika) and deep daan (offering of oil lighted lamps) to Ganga in the evening.

Karmic events, recently, did the first-of-its-kind installation Glory of Benaras at Vegas Mall. They recreated the divine 'ghats of Benaras' in the mall. Temple structure, intricately designed carvings, pillars, water bodies, twinkling lamps and ornate bells all form a part of the huge installation.

Harsh V Bansal, director of the mall, says, "Diwali on the ghats of Benaras is the most mesmerising sight to behold this year. We wanted to make sure that the Mall gives a one of a kind experience to our patrons. We invested in this thrilling structure, especially to give an unusual experience that the mall industry has never done before."

Gunwant Singh, MD, Karmic Events Pvt Ltd, says, "The temple is about 68 ft in length, 40 ft in width and 40+ ft in height. The installation was made possible because of 140 skilled artisans, who worked with dedication for 40 days and handcrafted the entire structure. The creation was ideated to make sure that our patrons feel the same spirituality and positivity they would feel on the ghats of Benaras."

CHHATTISGARH FIGHTS MALNUTRITION

The Mukhyamantri Suposhan Yojana, which was launched to curb malnutrition and anaemia, has been a huge success in Bijapur district. There has been a drastic 10 per cent fall in cases

One out of every three children in India is malnourished, making us one of the leading nations in terms of malnourished children. According to the 2018 Global Hunger Index, India ranked 103 out of the 119 qualifying countries, with a score of 31.1, which is high enough to ring the bells for serious concern for hunger deprivation. The nation houses 46.6 million stunted children, one-third globally, as per the Global Nutrition Report 2018. Approximately half of all the under-five child mortality in India is credited to undernutrition.

The crisis of malnutrition is alarming and needs immediate attention. Any leading nation can't accomplish the economic and social development goals of the society, without addressing the basic issue of malnutrition and laying an emphasis over making its populace mentally, physically and emotionally healthy.

Chhattisgarh steps up in its battle against malnutrition

For a heavily forested and tribal-dominated state of Chhattisgarh, the issue of malnutrition came as a challenge in front of the newly formed state government led by the Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel. Under his leadership, the Chief Minister's Suposhan Abhiyan was launched on October 2, 2019 in the state to eradicate malnutrition from its roots.

Decrease in malnourished children in the state

According to the data received from the weight festival in the scheme launching last year, about 4,92,000 children were malnourished in the state, out of which more than 67,000 children have become free from it. Thus, there has been a 13.79 per cent decrease in malnourished children, which is a major achievement in the state's war against malnutrition.

Bijapur Suposhan Mission

Malnutrition has been an enigma in the Bijapur district of the state since time immemorial with the dominant presence of anaemia among women of the region. Scientists claim that the initial 1,000 days of an individual's lifespan, from the day of conception till s/he turns two, is crucial for physical and cognitive development. But a majority of children, adolescent girls, pregnant women and infant mothers of the district are anemic with decreasing nutritional levels. Thereby, a malnourished mother is more likely to give birth to malnourished children, forming a vicious cycle with the birth of underweight children and the pattern continuing for ages thereafter.

Concerning the figures of the Weight festival 2019, a total of 3,632 children have been categorised as seriously malnourished and 7,100 children fall under the category of moderately malnourished in the district. Bijapur stands at a malnutrition percentage of 38.50 per cent, which is both disturbing yet challenging. The district has a population of 2,55,230 citizens, out of which 49.6 per cent i.e. (1,26,594) are women, according to the 2011 census.

As per the National Family and Health Survey (NFHS) 2015-16, there are 86,970 anemic women aged between 15 and 49 years, constituting for 68.7 per cent of anemic women in the district, out of which, the percentile of anemic pregnant women stands at 47.9 per cent. 51.3 per cent of infants from the age group of six months to 59 months are anemic. The alarming figures of malnutrition, maternal mortality rate, infant mortality rate and anaemia, reckoned the district administration to come up with this mission to combat malnutrition.

Benefits under the mission

Under this campaign, supplementary nutritious food in the form of eggs, ladoos, chickpea, jaggery and nutritious biscuits are provided to the identified children, women, lactating mothers, school dropouts and anemic women aged between 15 to 49 years. All the children and school dropout girls are provided with warm nutritious food. With this, 27,883 children, 4,663 lactating mothers, 10,811 anemic women aged between 15 to 49 years, 2,751 school dropout girls, with a whopping total of 46,108 people of the district have been benefitted.

Establishment of Nutrition Rehabilitation Centres in Bijapur

Nutrition Rehabilitation Centres (NRC) are being established in the district hospital and four development blocks, with the collaboration of Health Department under the scheme, for the speedy recovery and health improvement of severely malnourished children. Additionally, with the aid of one district hospital, five community centres and 10 primary health centres, health check-ups are conducted regularly for pregnant and lactating mothers and malnourished children of the district.

Reduction in malnutrition levels within 13 months in the district

The mission started bearing fruitful results within 13 months with the revival of 2,779 severely/moderately malnourished children, getting free from the cycles of undernourishment. Due to the constant efforts and the objective set out by the CM to eradicate malnutrition from its roots, a drastic 10 per cent reduction has been witnessed in the levels of malnourishment in the district.

The malnourishment rate has come down from 38.50 per cent to 28.52 per cent with the number of malnourished children decreasing from 10,732 to 7,953. The anganwadi workers of the district are provided with regular training for the successful implementation of the scheme. Additionally, kitchen gardens are being established in all the anganwadi centres with 276 (fixed wire fencing) and 819 kitchen gardens being established in the workers and assistants premises. Papaya and drumsticks are being planted in the gardens of the beneficiaries to encourage them to avail proper nutrition. Awareness is created through social participation of the Self Help Groups in the gram panchayats of the villages, where information is disseminated regarding proper nutrition and health.

Distribution of dry ration material amid lockdown

Amid the closure of all the anganwadi and mini anganwadi centres for the prevention and control of COVID-19 in the state, distribution of dry ration material such as wheat flour, rice, pulses, gram, potatoes and soybeans had been ensured. Additionally, children were also weighed regularly by anganwadi workers by visiting their homes.

Bijapur is one fine example of the successful implementation of the Mukhyamantri Suposhan Abhiyan in the state. The World Bank has also appreciated the control and prevention of COVID in the state and the distribution of take away ration conducted by anganwadi workers in the state.

Eradication of malnutrition is a community campaign and involves citizens participation and cooperation for the achievement of its goals. It is a time taking process but Chhattisgarh will fulfill its goals in terms of providing people with nourishment and proper nutrition.

Union Minister inaugurates automated tower car parking

The Union Power Minister RK Singh and LG Anil Bajjal in the presence of BJP Delhi President Adesh Gupta, LOP Delhi Legislative Assembly Ramvir Singh Bidhuri and Mayor Anamika inaugurated Delhi's first fully-automated tower car parking at Green Park near the Metro Station through video conferencing on Wednesday.

Singh congratulated SDMC for selecting the most feasible new-age parking system to overcome the parking in and around the Green Park. He further expressed confidence that the Tower Parking Project will certainly contain pollution in the area. He offered to provide expertise, consultancy and help of his Ministry in providing boost to the innovative actions in future. While giving detailed description of the projects being executed by his Ministry in and around Delhi, he expressed hope that the projects will go a long way in accelerating the pace of development in the city and providing facilities to the citizens.

Deputy Mayor Subash Bhadana, Chairman Standing Committee Rajdutt Gehlot, Leader of House Narendra Chawala, Commissioner Ganesh Bharti, DC South Zone G Sudhakar and other senior officials were also present.

Bajjal said that this sort of vertical parking is the most appropriate in congested markets and populated colonies as it requires just 1.50 sq metre space to park a car in comparison to 30 sq metre required in conventional parking. He said that all three MCDs should come up with effective parking area management to deal with the parking problem in their jurisdiction. While giving details of the project, he said that the new era steel structured modular designed tower parking is flexible and hence, can be installed at another place. It is eco-friendly, accommodates maximum number of cars in minimum space, allows faster parking and retrieval, has customised parking solutions, comprehensive fire safety, is fully safe and has parking through lifts.

Bharti while welcoming Union Minister referred to the achievements and ongoing major projects of SDMC and said that SDMC has taken major steps to increase the number of parking sites. The tower parking project is another initiative to develop useful property over a limited sized plot. He further informed that the plot area of parking is 878 sq metre. The total cost of the project is ₹18.20 crore. The height of the towers is 39.50 metres and there are 17 floors in each tower, accommodating 17 cars on each side of the car lift, totaling to 34 cars in each tower. At a time, the tower can accommodate up to 136 cars. Each tower accommodates eight SUVs from the first level to the fourth level and 26 sedans from the fifth level to the 17th. The parking facility is available for 32 SUVs and 104 sedans in total in all the four towers.

He further informed that there is an automated ticket dispenser with boom barrier at entry and exit of the parking and there will be parking charges as per SDMC notified rates — ₹20 per hour, ₹100 for 24 hours, ₹1,200 day pass (monthly) and ₹2,000 day and night pass (monthly).

He added that the operation, maintenance cost and requirement of manual labor will be lower than the conventional parking. The retrieval time of the vehicle in the tower parking will be 150 seconds.

Anamika stated that the SDMC has been completing its project in spite of limited recourse and a paucity of funds. She said, "Such projects will prove to be beneficial in lessening the pollution levels and fuel consumption. Moreover, parking vehicles in the automated car parking will be easy and convenient than those in conventional parking. It will also suffice the car parking need of the residents." She added that the possibilities are also being explored to use the facade for generating revenue for using it for advertisement purposes.

MV Iyer assumes charge as director of GAIL

MV Iyer assumed charge as Director (Business Development) of GAIL. Earlier, he was working as the Executive Director (Projects) with the company.

An electrical engineer, Iyer has 33 years of rich experience in GAIL in projects execution amounting to ₹40,000 crores, including current projects worth ₹25,000 crores spanning 16 states, 150 districts and City Gas Distribution (CGD) projects in six cities.

He is also the director in one of the company's new joint venture Indradhanush Gas Grid Limited (IGGL) for implementation of North East Gas Grid.

New NCR experience

A ground plan of night market under the Madhuban Bapudham Yojana is ready. By A NIRWAN

The road map of vehicle free zone night market has been prepared in NCR's Madhuban Bapudham Yojana, which is going to be developed in GDA's 1234 acre area. It is also preparing to open other types of commercial centres in this market besides street food dishes.

The market will also serve as a picnic for those who don't get enough family time as they reach home late. Due to this, plans to open a special type of night market by 11 pm are also being considered. The model is taken from Gangtok where markets are opened till late night for picnics and food. They also plan to build 198 shops and 25 kiosks to promote small shopkeepers. Apart from this, a commercial centre named Central Plaza will also be built on 150 acres of land. GDA Secretary, Santosh Rai said that entry of any vehicle in this market will be prohibited so that people are roam around freely without any hindrances. Police will look after the law and order. In this regard, the police administration will be urged to create a checkpoint keeping safety in mind. Madhuban Bapudham police station has already been activated. A budget of ₹100 crore has been made for the construction of roads so that there is no problem for the people coming to this area. Parking for 400 vehicles will also be made. Apart from this, food corners will be developed and a separate wedding zone is being created for street food. Auditorium and conference hall will also be constructed there.

A smarter tomorrow

Almost half a dozen schools run by the Municipal Corporation in the city will be made smart schools soon. In all these schools, the details of all the activities related to the studies of the students will be kept through the schooling education app. The login details of the app will be with the concerned school principal. In the app, the data of all the students studying in the school will be fed and complete information about the status of their studies will also be available from the website. The special feature is that when a child's performance falls his information will be there in the app and the details of what steps the teacher has to take for qualitative improvement in that child will also be available.

In the marathon meeting held by Mayor Asha Sharma and Municipal Commissioner Mahendra Singh Tanwar with the principals of these schools in the municipal auditorium, the issue of implementing this app was discussed and it was decided to implement this app for qualitative improvement in education. The municipal administration feels that government schools should also be smart so that parents admit their children in these schools instead of private ones.

Talking with the principal in the meeting, Asha said that the modern era demands teaching with new technology. Now new education system will be used and smart class will be run in all corporation schools. The teachers working in these schools will be trained with new teaching methods. Computer labs will be made in all schools and children will be taught through lab tabs. It was also said in the meeting that a list of children who have smart phones should be prepared and linked to the school app. Only children from class six to twelve will be linked with this app.

The mayor promised to provide all the facilities so that students passing out from these schools can take the name of Ghaziabad Municipal Corporation high. She said that there is no dearth of talent here, we have to motivate them to achieve their goal. Additional Municipal Commissioner RN Pandey was also present during the meeting.

Faculty of SRM-AP recognised by Stanford University

Dr Imran Panha from the Department of Biology, SRM university-AP is recognised among the top two per cent scientists/researchers across the world by Stanford University researchers.

Recently, an article has been published in PLOS Biology by Stanford researchers on the highly cited researchers in 22 different fields and their subfields. In the biotechnology field, 1,074 scientists/faculty members were identified and Dr Imran is one amongst them. From India, only 77 scientists/faculty members could achieve this honour.

This is an admirable achievement for a young faculty. Dr P Sathyanarayanan, the President of SRM University-AP honoured Dr Imran for bringing this scientific laurel to the university. Overall, of the top 1,60,000 scientists from different fields of Science & Technology, India hosts 2,313 scientists/faculty members. This list comprises of the prominent and illustrious scientists from India.

Dr Imran's primary research focus is to produce renewable energy from microalgae. His team is trying to develop integrated microalgal bio-refinery to produce high-value compounds like phycobiliproteins, carotenoids along with biofuel and bio-fertilisers from microalgae. Apart from this, he is also interested to understand algal-bacterial interaction, particularly isolate and characterise the microalga associated bacteria and finding their role in growth enhancement and inhibition in microalgae.

KL 'would love to keep' in next three WCs

PTI ■ SYDNEY

India's white-ball vice-captain KL Rahul on Wednesday said he would be happy to keep wickets in the next three global ICC events if given an opportunity even though the team management has not yet spoken to him about it.

Rahul has now pipped specialist wicketkeepers Rishabh Pant and Sanju Samson as the No 1 glovesman in the limited overs format. Three ICC events — two back-to-back T20 World Cups followed by the marquee ODI World Cup — are scheduled in the next three years.

The 28-year-old's keeping does provide the team the option of having an extra batsman or bowler.

"It helps the team combination a little more and it's something I would love to do...If the opportunity presents itself and I can keep in three World Cups, I would love to do it for my country," Rahul said ahead of the limited-overs series against Australia starting November 27.

Has the team management spoken to him about keeping in ICC events?

"Nothing has been told to me and we are not thinking that far as a team. Obviously World Cups are important and that is a long-term vision for every team and country," he said.

"I think for me, we are just taking one game at a time. So if I put up consistent performances with bat and gloves, it gives us an option of playing an extra bowler or an extra batsman," said the stylish Karnataka batsman.

In the ODIs, Rahul has been batting at No 5 and has opened in the T20 Internationals, and he admitted that his position in the line-up will depend on formats.

"What the team wants from me and what combination sits better," said Rahul.

"Obviously, the last ODI series (against New Zealand) that we played, I batted at No 5, it's a role that I have enjoyed and (I am) happy to play whatever role the team gives me."

Mahendra Singh Dhoni's keeping was in a different league and the way he guided spinners went a long way in India's white-ball success.

Would he be able to chide a Kuldeep Yadav or Yuzvendra Chahal like Dhoni could, if he takes upon a similar role?

"Look obviously, nobody can fill MS Dhoni's place. He has shown us the way and how wicketkeeper-batman role is performed."

"With Kuldeep, Yuzi (Yuzvendra Chahal) and Jaddu (Jadeja), we have a decent friendship and obviously I will go and give them a feedback as to what is a better length if they are doing something wrong and anybody in wicketkeeper's role will have that responsibility," he said.

Rahul loved the role of an ODI keeper against New Zealand and hopes to continue with the good work.

"I did one series in New

I am blessed with certain skills and power-hitting is not one of them: Rahul

SYDNEY: The tag of being a power-hitter is quite sought after in international cricket but India's K L Rahul has no qualms admitting that he does not fit the bill and neither does he crave for it.

Known for his classical batting, Rahul said that even if he has to score at a high strike-rate of 160 to 170, he can do it minus the blitzkrieg.

"I wouldn't call my batting power-hitting, that's something I honestly feel like I have not been able to do or not what I am blessed with," Rahul said on the eve of the first ODI on Friday.

"I am blessed with certain skills and I try and play the role I feel the team requires me to play at that particular moment. If that means scoring runs at 160-170 strike rate, I try to do that to the best of my ability and if it's the other way around, I will try to do that," he added.

He hasn't played 50-over cricket regularly for India save for the past one year and is happy that he is in a situation where he has been in good form as far as white-ball cricket is concerned.

"...I have never got a long run like this. So yeah, it feels good that I am contributing to team's win and playing my role pretty well. Happy that I can put up consistent performances."

Talking about the Australian team, Rahul was all praise for Marnus Labuschagne but refused to call him an unknown entity.

"...I don't think he is unknown anymore. He is in the top 5 and he has been getting a lot of runs in the last 12-15 months or before the Covid in the games that he played. He has been really consistent for his side.

"We have watched how Marnus played and fingers crossed hopefully, he won't score that many runs against us. We will have a plan set, we have a top quality bowling attack so it will be a good challenge for him and our bowlers as well."

Rahul also feels that his IPL teammate Glenn Maxwell is equally dangerous, terming him a great team man.

"Yes of course, he (Maxwell) will (be dangerous). That's one of the reasons why we picked him in our IPL franchise because he is a quality player."

"He is a gun fielder, he is always there to support his teammates. He will be eager to get out in Australian colours and perform for his country as well."

Zealand and quite enjoyed it and hopefully I can be better at reading the game and give bowlers and captains some good feedback for the bowlers and the captain."

Have great respect for Indian bowlers: Langer

PTI ■ SYDNEY

Australia coach Justin Langer on Wednesday said he has great respect for the formidable Indian bowling line-up but his team's batsmen have become familiar enough with their tactics to be ready for the challenge they will throw up in the upcoming series.

Langer said the contest would likely be an exciting one thanks to the two teams being evenly-matched.

"Well, we know Jasprit Bumrah, world-class bowler, (Mohammed) Shami, really good opening combination. We have great respect for that and guys have seen a fair bit of them, through the IPL and the last couple of summers," Langer said in a virtual media conference on Wednesday.

"We have played 14 ODIs against India in the last few years and it's seven all," he added.

India are touring Australia with a lethal bowling attack, led by pace-spearhead Jasprit Bumrah, and comprising Mohammed Shami, Navdeep Saini and Shardul Thakur.

The spin department features Yuzvendra Chahal along with Kuldeep Yadav and Ravindra Jadeja.

Langer said the Australians would be ready for the challenge.

"...Our guys have seen a lot of each other and that's what I love about the contest, you see which teams are growing, which players are growing. We have played a bit against each other now.

"So, we have great respect, great respect for their spinners, great respect for Bumrah, Shami, their other bowlers (Navdeep) Saini."

"Our guys know they are going to be on their toes all the time in all forms of the game against the Indian bowling attack. But they are working hard, they have seen a bit now and they will be ready for it," the 50-year-old asserted.

Langer sidestepped queries on India missing star opener

Rohit Sharma and pacer Ishant Sharma due to injury, saying that it was not his concern.

Rohit and Ishant, who suffered injuries during the IPL, are in danger of missing the Test series.

"It is not our business, we have our own challenges, we will come together for the first time as a group on the morning of the game, so it's up to India who they choose," he said.

"One thing, we have zero control or say in who India picks, they can pick whoever they want, we have our own challenges, so India whoever they put out on the park, we will be ready to take them on," he added.

Greg Barclay elected new ICC Chairman

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

New Zealand Cricket (NZC) head Greg Barclay has been elected as the ICC's new Independent Chairman after he comfortably defeated Singapore's Imran Khwaja to succeed India's Shashank Manohar.

The voting was carried out during ICC's annual quarterly meeting on Tuesday. The electronic voting process involved 16 board of directors — 12 from full member (Test playing nations), three associate countries and one independent female director (Indira Nooyi of PepsiCo).

"It is an honour to be elected as the Chair of the ICC and I would like to thank my fellow ICC Directors for their support. I hope we can come together to lead the sport and emerge from the global pandemic in a strong position and poised for growth," Barclay said.

"I look forward to working in partnership with our Members to strengthen the game in our core markets as well as grow it beyond that ensuring more of the world can enjoy cricket," he added.

The Kiwi won 11-5, receiving the all important winning vote from the embattled Cricket South Africa in the second round of voting.

He had received 10 votes to Khwaja's six in the first round last week, but as per existing rules the winner needs 11 — a two-thirds majority of the 16-person ICC Board as the 17th member is CEO Manu Sawhney who is without voting rights.

Barclay, an Auckland-based commercial lawyer, has been a director of NZC since 2012. He is currently serves as NZC's representative on the board of the ICC but will step down from the position.

Both bilateral and ICC events important: Barclay

DUBAI: The concept of 'Big Three' doesn't exist for new ICC chairman Greg Barclay, who firmly believes that both bilateral as well as ICC events can peacefully co-exist helping the game's ecosystem.

The 'Big Three' was a concept where India, Australia and England were supposed to earn the lion's share of global body's revenue.

In the run up to the election, New Zealand's Barclay said a perception was created that he gives importance to bilateral cricket over everything else but that is not important, said the administrator from New Zealand who has also had BCCI's backing.

"The ICC runs world class events. If you look at what happened with the women's T20 all the way through the final, the ODI World Cup last year, they were amazing events.

far from the truth.

"There has been a lot of misrepresentation in the media around that (that I am in favour of bilateral cricket over world events. But the fact is, of course I am an advocate of bilateral cricket, it is the lifeblood of cricket in all countries...," Barclay said in a video posted on the ICC website.

"...Countries playing each other on a regular basis, sustained competitive relevant competition is what drives fan engagement. It is what drives the development pathways, it is a vital part of cricket."

But that doesn't mean that the world events are not as important, said the administrator from New Zealand who has also had BCCI's backing.

Aus Open most likely to be delayed

AFP ■ MELBOURNE

The Australian Open will likely be delayed by one to two weeks, officials said on Wednesday, as talks continue over staging the tournament in Melbourne, which has only recently emerged from months of coronavirus lockdown.

A delay for a week or two to the first Grand Slam of the year, scheduled to begin on January 18, was now "most likely," said Martin Pakula, the Sports Minister of the Victoria State Government.

"I still think it's much more likely that it will be a shorter rather than longer delay," Pakula said.

The "very complex negotiations" were still under way but he remained confident it would go ahead in the early part of 2021.

Australian Open chief Craig Tiley had originally wanted players to start arriving in Australia from mid-December so they could undergo a mandatory 14-day quarantine before playing traditional warm-up events.

But the plan was thrown into doubt by Victoria state Premier Dan Andrews, who reportedly will not allow players to arrive before January, which would make it all but impossible to hold the high-profile ATP Cup and other tournaments the start of the Open.

Juve, Barca, Chelsea, Sevilla advance in CL

They are the first teams to make it out of the group stage, doing so with two games to spare

AFP ■ LONDON

Juventus, Chelsea and Sevilla all claimed last-gasp wins as they qualified for the Champions League last 16 on Tuesday, while Martin Braithwaite grabbed a double in Barcelona's 4-0 victory at Dynamo Kiev as they also secured a place in the knock-out rounds.

They are the first teams to make it out of the group stage, doing so with two games to spare, on a night which saw Erling Braut Haaland, Neymar, Cristiano Ronaldo and Bruno Fernandes all get among the goals.

There was no Lionel Messi for Barcelona, with the Argentine rested for the trip to Ukraine, but Ronald Koeman's side got the job done to make it four wins from four in Group G.

All the goals came in the second half, with Sergino Dest opening the scoring before Danish striker Braithwaite added another and then converted a penalty to make it 3-0.

On as a substitute, Antoine Griezmann wrapped up the win on the night young centre-back Oscar Mingueza, Brazilian midfielder Matheus Fernandes and teenage American winger Konrad de la Fuente were all blooded in the first team.

"We've achieved our objective," said Koeman. "We looked hungry and scored four goals. Important players were able to rest and the youngsters deserved their minutes."

LATE STRIKES

Juventus joined Barcelona in qualifying from Group G but the Italian champions needed a stoppage-time header by substitute Alvaro Morata to beat Ferencvaros 2-1 in Turin and seal their progress.

Albanian international Myrto Uzuni put the Hungarians ahead but Ronaldo drilled in the equaliser before half-time, meaning he has scored in 15 consecutive Champions League seasons.

Chelsea are through from Group E after edging Rennes 2-1 in France, with Olivier Giroud coming off the bench to head in an injury-time winner. Serhou Guirassy had cancelled out Callum Hudson-Odoi's breakthrough opener.

16 of Europe's elite club competition and did so with a 2-1 win over Krasnodar in Russia, in a rare game played before a sizeable crowd.

Sevilla and Chelsea are level on 10 points but Frank Lampard's side go to Spain next week, when the winner will secure top spot.

Manchester United are in pole position in Group H after a first-half

"They are pinnacle events no doubt about that. I would need to say they (bilateral and global events) need to work in conjunction with each other, one can't sit in isolation to the other. I am very conscious of the delicate ecosystem that crickets sits on."

Referring to game's powerful nations India, Australia and England, Barclay said he doesn't believe in the 'big three' concept.

"There is no big three as far as I am concerned. I don't subscribe to it at all. All members are important and should be treated equally."

"I do accept concerns of members could be different... I do accept that some of those bigger countries can provide certain outcomes to the ICC along the lines of hosting and revenue so again we need to take that into account and recognise that but there is no big three," he insisted.

Australia's head coach Justin Langer on Wednesday asserted that there would be no room for abuse when his team takes on India in an upcoming series but he expects plenty of banter between the two evenly-matched sides.

Langer, who had a reputation of being an aggressive player himself, said that in the last couple of years, the Aussies have had lots of conversations about behaviours both on and off the field.

Australia have copped quite a bit of criticism for its players' win-at-all-costs mindset in the past which even led to a thorough examination of the side's attitude and ethics.

"People say you get nervous coming to Australia, I'm not sure it's about the chatter. It's because they're coming up against very, very great players," Langer said in an online media interaction on Wednesday.

"If you're facing Warney (Shane Warne), Glenn McGrath or bowling against Steve Waugh, Adam Gilchrist or Ricky Ponting I think that makes you more nervous than a few words that might be spoken," he recalled.

"...Anyone who has watched the last couple of years we talk about our behaviours on and off the field and we talked about there's no room for abuse. There's plenty of room for banter and having that competitive instinct."

Langer said that given the great cricketers, who will be playing the series, the competitive energy would be intense enough on its own.

"The captain Tim Paine has a great sense of humour, we love what VK (Virat Kohli) was doing, there's a great sense of theatre to it. At the end of the day, I can promise you the pressure on the cricket field has nothing to do with the words spoken, it's the person you're up against."

"We're lucky in this series there'll be a lot of great cricketers and that's enough intensity let alone any words spoken," added the head coach.

Grandhomme ruled out of Windies Tests

WELLINGTON: New Zealand all-rounder Colin de Grandhomme has been ruled out of the upcoming Test series against West Indies due to bone bruising in his right-foot. He will be replaced by Daryl Mitchell.

Left-arm spinner Mitchell Santner has been named Ajaz Patel's cover for the first Test starting December 3 in Hamilton after the latter's left calf tear didn't improve enough in time.

Santner has also been named as the captain of Black Caps for the third T20I to be played on Monday. He will take over from Tim Southee (who's been rested for the game) and will become the eighth T20I captain for New Zealand, said New Zealand Cricket.

"The unavailability of Colin and Ajaz has obviously had a flow on effect to our T20I squad who are providing the replacement players for the Test squad," head coach Gary Stead said.

"It's disappointing for Colin to be ruled out of the Tests completely and he'll now target being fit and available for the Boxing Day Test at Bay Oval. Ajaz will join the team in Hamilton to have treatment and train. We will make a call on the second Test in Wellington closer to the time," he added.
