Telangana government will distribute Covid-19 vaccine free of cost to every section of people in the state. He said poor will be given priority in the distribution of the free vaccine in Telangana.

Speaking to The Pioneer,
Health Minister Eatala
Rajender said: "The government is giving free and quality health care already in the form of a variety of vaccines and treatments for people This government is proactive and people oriented. We will give the vaccine (when it comes) for free, to all and first priority will be given to poor".

As per the statement by BJP, the Center will provide vaccines to states at a nominal rate. It is for the state governments to decide if they want to give it free or otherwise as health is a state subject. The National Expert Group on Vaccine Administration (part of the Centre's Covid task force) too had made it clear, in its very first meeting, that states should not chart their separate pathways for procurement.

Amidst all this, only the opposition parties, whether at Centre or states, are crying foul, with the ruling parties unabashedly seeking to make the most of the pandemic, regardless of ethics and the Model Code of Conduct.

The TS Health Minister acknowledged that Covid-19 norms were not being folnorms were not being followed by people because floods. He asked people to clean their hands using a sanitizer after they get relief money, as RBI had hinted at currency notes being carriers of Coronavirus Fatala said "In of Coronavirus. Eatala said, "In the time of crisis like flood, the government will distribute money, which is not wrong. Giving and taking money is not wrong, but people can just clean their hands with a sanitizer, it is not a big issue".

Mentioning that the state had already seen the pandemic peak, he didn't want to predict a 'second wave'. Eatala said that the state was always prepared to handle spike in cases, be it because of floods, winter or any other reason.

Govt imposes stock limits in onion trade

To contain onion prices, the Centre on Friday imposed stock holding limit on retail and wholesale traders till December 31 to improve the domestic availability of the commodity and provide relief to consumers.

Retailers can stock onion only up to 2 tonne, whereas wholesale traders are allowed to keep up to 25 tonne, Consumer Affairs Secretary Leena Nandan said in a press conference.

She said the government had to invoke the Essential Commodities (Amendment) law -- which was passed last month in Parliament -- that allows it to regulate perishable commodities in the extraordinary price rise situation.

onventionally, the political executive is expected to make policies and leave execution to bureaucracy.

This separation worked well as long as the primary role of the bureaucracy was to collect revenue, maintain order and administer justice. During the 1950s, community development programmes were initiated and a major role was given to locally elected representatives - samiti presidents. This experiment can be called India's first wave of grassroots democracy.

However, as community development lost its importance during the 1960s, the role and influence of the samitis dwindled and in the 1970s, bureaucracy started to directly implement burgeoning development programmes.

The increasing role of the bureaucracy in development programmes led to increasing tension with the elected representatives. The standoff was resolved by creating different types of structures at the district-level (e.g. planning participate in execution, as opposed to only policy-making, is vividly brought out in an apocryphal conversation between Pratap Singh Kairon, Chief Minister of Punjab and his Chief Secretary. On being told by the Chief Secretary that the role of CM is mainly to frame policies, Kairon is learnt to have replied that in such a case, he would prefer to implement programmes and leave policymaking to bureaucrats!

The second wave started during the 1980s, culminating in the 73rd and 74th At present there is a new trend in the world to permit people to manage their own affairs directly, and one example is the emergence of citizen assemblies in the USA, Britain, France, Canada and Netherlands

Constitutional Amendments. Similar trends were visible in other parts of the world, too. Around the time when urban and rural bodies were given a Constitutional position in India, the Republic of South Africa (1996) drafted its own Constitution establishing a unitary state with three autonomous but interdependent spheres of government at the national, provincial and local levels.

A noteworthy feature was the creation of a separate list of exclusive subjects for local bodies (e.g. water, sewerage, solid waste management, roads and electricity distribution).

At present there is a new trend in the world to permit people to manage their own affairs directly, and one example is the emergence of citizen assemblies in the USA, Britain, France, Canada and Netherlands. This swing towards a direct role for citizens can be imagined as the beginning of the third wave of grassroots democracy.

DR. SAMEER SHARMA

monitoring in India is done vertically through the bureaucratic hierarchy. This leads to, in the words of Vincent Ostrom, Professor of Political Science at Indiana University, "remote, power-driven form of public administration" and citizens do not take interest in public administration because their preferences and demands hardly count.

The way out is horizontal supervision by citizens. In other words, citizens would directly control and monitor the services that most matter

Ostrom recommends devolving control and monitoring to several citizen groups (also called 'communities of interest') having interest in the provision of a specialised type of government service. As services are provided at multiple levels, these communities of interest could be set up at the locali-ty level, citywide or non-geo-graphically organised, depending on the government service.

The first step is to identify what services should be controlled by the citizens at different levels — village, block and the district. For this, a preliminary assessment of each type of government service has to be done, including the way control is exercised. Next, new service delivery arrangements would follow from this assessment where citizens would exercise control over the government functionaries as well as monitor its provision, with the help of digital technology.

To apply digital technology, each service would be broken down into inputs, activities and outputs.

Let's take the example of sanitation. The input would be attendance of workers and availability of materials. The activities would be workers sweeping streets and collecting garbage from households. The outputs would be clean streets and collection of garbage. All these could be monitored by street cameras and images shared with households interested in clean streets and garbage disposal. Effective control would take place by linking wage performance to a digital poll among citizens concerned to assess the performance of various activities and outputs.

Thus, the way forward to bring about 'real' grassroots democracy is to mutate to a model where citizens monitor and control services that matter to them. The public would directly guide the work of government agencies as they have a stake in the results. Once citizen preferences and demands count, there would be greater scrutiny, leading to efficiency and integrity of services.

TS to procure maize at MSP

PNS ■ HYDERABAD

Minister Chandrasekhar Rao on Friday announced that maize will be purchased at Minimum Support Price (MSP) of Rs 1,850 per quintal for the current Vaanakalam season. The maize will be purchased by the Telangana State Marketing Federation (TS MarkFed) through the purchase centres established in the villages for the paddy procurement. However, the Chief Minister urged farmers not to cultivate maize in the upcoming Yasangi season under any circumstances. He said if farmers do not heed to the repeated advice, the State government will not be responsible for their loss in future. He reiterated that the government was not in a position to purchase maize cultivated in the Yasangi season. He reiterated that the BJP-led Central government was to be blamed for drop in maize prices after it has decided to reduce the import duty from 50 per cent to just 15 per cent. KCR, who held a review meeting on the estimated crop yield during Kharif season at Pragathi Bhavan on Friday, expressed disappointment over some farmers cultivating maize in the monsoon season despite repeated advice from the State government against it, stating that they will suffer losses as maize was not in a poistion to get MSP in the market. He pointed out that the State government was not responsible to purchase maize as farmers went against its advice. However, he stated that the State government was ready to bear the losses which will otherwise affect farmers severely.

The Chief Minister stated that the MarkFed purchased nine lakh tonnes at an expenditure of total Rs 1,668 crore during the recent Yasangi season. "But the maize had no demand in the open market across the country and the entire yield was sold for only Rs 823 crore through open auction, incurring Rs 845 crore loss for TS MarkFed," he said. Further, he explained that though the maize was pur-the final cost incurred for the MarkFed was Rs 2,000 per quintal due to procurement and transportation charges. As the crop fetched only Rs 1,150 per quintal, the MarkFed suffered loss of Rs 850 per quintal.

Observing this, the State government urged farmers not to culivate maize during the monsoon season. Instead, it was suggested that maize can be cultivated as inter crop along with turmeric in Nizamabad, Nirmal, Jagtial and Mahabubabad and other districts. However, some farmers did not pay heed to the advice given by the State government or the agriculture officers and cultivated the maize. Since there is no good orice for the maize, they are on the brink of incurring losses.

"But the Telangana State is known in the country as the only State, which is implementing several pro-farmer, proagriculture polices and schemes. Hence, we have decided to buy the maize," the Chief Minsiter explained.

The delay in hammering out a solution to the problem has adversely affected over 5.50 lakh festival travellers to various destinations in AP and Telangana for Dasara. While the RTCs of both states have been at loggerheads, private bus operators are laughing all the way to the bank. Although inter-state bus services resumed during the unlock period, they are not being run in a full-fledged manner. Due to the conflict between the two RTCs, private players have benefited vastly by running additional trips to various destinations in Telangana and AP.

Concerns are being voiced that the prolonged delay has been causing severe losses to the RTCs of the two states.

Both the states are sticking to their guns, insisting that their RTC should run more number of bus services to the other state. Negotiations at the official level have not made headway so far

Everybody expected that the unlock process would see resumption of RTC buses between the two states. In fact, there are no curbs on RTC's operations in Telangana; yet, bus services have not yet resumed. Both the states are sticking to their guns, insisting that their RTC should run more number of bus services to the other state. Negotiations at the official level have not made headway so far. The undue delay in finding solution to the problem is pushing the RTCs of the Telugu states deeper into losses.

In the absence of RTC services, private operators have pressed into service 150 services to various destinations in AP and Telangana. The Telangana RTC additionally is finding it difficult to wriggle out of the losses caused to it by the workers' strike last year. RTC district services resumed from May 19 in the state, barring Hyderabad. Subsequently, all services were restored in the state. The income being realised by RTC runs its buses in AP up to a goes largely to meet the fuel distance of 1.52 lakh km per goes largely to meet the fuel costs of the fleet of the RTC buses. The RTC is finding it difficult to pay wages to its employees. The RTC buses of the two states are running their buses up to a distance of 4.04 lakh km per day. If the AP proposal is to be implemented, AP should run its buses up to a distance of 2.12 lakh km per day in Telangana, while TSRTC should run its buses up to a distance of 1.92 lakh km per day in AP. It would pose no problem to the travellers. But the proposal is not acceptable to the Telangana authorities. The bone of contention between the two RTCs is running buses for a distance of over 1.1 lakh km per day.

APSRTC runs its buses in Telangana up to a distance of 2.62 lakh km, while TSRTC day. The difference is 1.1 lakh km per day. As APSRTC is running 1.1 lakh km per day more and that too with more number of buses in Telangana, TSRTC wants it to reduce the route km and the bus services. APSRTC officials have agreed to reduce the route km by 50,000 km per day if the TSRTC can increase its route km correspondingly. Private operators, pending a solution to the problem, will operate their bus services to the detriment of the RTCs of both the states. It is high time Chief Ministers of the both the states intervened to find a lasting solution to intractable problems so that commuters and travellers are not subject to

'POLITICS' IN HOUR OF GRIEF

NAMRATA SRIVASTAVA HYDERABAD

The Government of Telangana has been giving Rs 10,000 as immediate relief to each floodaffected household in the city. However, several politicians, taking advantage of the rain pours in the city, are giving the money to people who supported them during the last elections and are trying to increase their vote banks for the upcoming GHMC elections.

The TRS and AIMIM leaders are giving the money to people who voted for them during the last elections and who they are certain will vote for them in the upcoming elections. In fact, these politicians are distributing to all their supporters, whether or not their house have been affected. I feel that during such a tragedy, such cheap politics should not be indulged in," said Congress leader Feroz

The competition of attracting investors is not between the states world, said IT Minister KT Rama Rao here on Friday. He was participating in a session on 'States-Invested in India' hosted by the Public Affairs Forum of India's 7th National Forum 2020. During the session, KTR said,

"The way out of this pandemic is that the states will have to be empowered and will have to take the lead. Empowerment of states for economic activity and further expansion in industrialization shall be the key." He also mentioned the 3-I mantra - Innovation, Infrastructure, and Inclusive Growth is the key to success.

KTR stated that Telangana was the first state in India to introduce a self-certification policy (TS-iPASS) for investors. He mentioned that it's important to have existing investors happy as they can be the biggest ambassadors of the State across the world." "Six years after this policy was launched, we successfully attracted $28 billion of investments, and 23 per cent of this has come take their policy inputs. We also par-

KTR mentioned that the top five valued technology companies in the world have their second-largest base outside their headquarters in Hyderabad that include - Apple, Google, Facebook, Microsoft, and Amazon. Minister stated that Telangana contributes to 35 per cent of the country's bulk drugs and pharmaceutical manufacturing. "We are the vaccine capital of the world," he added. With 13 sessions and 60+ speakers, the session focused on strategies the industry needs to adopt for an effective public affairs practice.

ONLINE CLASSES

The Novel Coronavirus, which is taking a toll on the people across the globe, has disrupted all the sectors and education sector is no exception. One of the major shifts that have occurred since the nation-wide lockdowns is the move of educational institutes to go online for their interactions, classes and mentoring of students in all areas and disciplines. With students scattered, the online experience has been key to ensure that students continue their learning.

However, students are finding it difficult to learn subjects via online medium, especially mathematics and science. Many students say that they are not facing problems in learning social, languages and other subjects. The students are a worried lot to ask doubts as they are of an opinion that the teacher may chide them.

Even the teachers are least bothered to cross check with the students, it is said.

Following this, parents have approached school managements in this regard. Stating that the problem mainly arose due to the Covid Pandemic, Ramana, a private teacher said, "Online classes are new to both students and teachers. The online mode is not as effective as offline mode. And not every student in the class is bright. Because "These students in general simply keep quiet in class. They are too shy to ask questions and they will not express their problems," he said. "Mathematics and Science subjects are different compared with other subjects. There is no doubt the School education is a foundation for the students. These average students will face severe troubles in future if the foundation is not strong. More so, these students will also face these troubles during their next academic year and it will continue," he further said. When contacted, A Jyothi, Mathematics teacher of Mahathma Jyothibha Phule BC Residential School, Shriguda, said that they are not getting any such complaints from the parents.

PNS HYDERABAD

The Dubbak by-election is going to be an acid test for the BJP and its new leadership in the state to prove that the party's victory in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections is not a fluke. The BJP has been claiming itself to be a viable alternative to the TRS in the state in the 2023 elections. But the party is saddled with the responsibility of proving that it has popular support.

How Bandi Sanjay, who has been given the reins of the state party, faces the first ever elections after he became head of the party in the state? Can the BJP upset the applecart of the TRS in its stronghold of Dubbak? The BJP, which has plans to wrest power from the TRS in 2023 polls, is going to face a major hurdle through Dubbak by-election.

Other political outfits in the state give no priority to the BJP winning four LS seats in the 2019 elections describing the BJP victory as a mere fluke. To rebut the criticism of the TRS and the Congress, the BJP should prove that its victory is not fluke by winning the Dubbak by poll. The BJP seniors see an opportunity in the by-poll to prove that its electoral victory in 2019 LS polls is now a joke, to prove that the Congress is not in the race for power in the state and to prove that the leadership change in the state will impact the poll outcome.

Opting for the out of turn elections to the state Assembly in 2018, TRS managed to win 80 Assembly seats and posted a major victory. But the BJP gave a rude shock to the TRS by winning four Lok Sabha seats in 2019 elections. Moreover, the party showed

The BJP wants to grab the limelight in the state by winning the Dubbak seat, which is described as the stronghold of the TRS. On the other hand, the TRS is banking on the sympathy wave in favour of Solipeta Ramalinga Reddy. However, the BJP begs to differ and quotes the example of Narayanakhed by elections, where sympathy factor did not work. It also argues that in fact people would have sympathy towards Raghunandan who unsuccessfully contesed twice from the seat. The BJP says that the sympathy wave is a thing of the past. The people became more aware. The issues of government's failure to deal with the Corona virus issues, denial of pension to the people of Dubbak till the last minute and distribution of pensions among the people in a huff, denial of fair compensation to the lands acquired from the people of the issue and a strong contender like Raghunandan would be positive factors for the BJP victory. PNS HYDERABAD

The Central Government on Friday released long pending funds of Rs 202.3 crore for the development of National Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari has approved the amount for repairs and maintenance of 868-km of eight National Highways that pass through the State. In a statement, Minister of State for Home Affairs G Kishan Reddy thanked Union Minister Nitin Gadkari for granting the amount and said that the decision was taken immediately after meeting the Union Minister on Friday.

Kishan Reddy said that the amount will be useful for the State to undertake repairs to the highways that were damaged in the recent floods. He said that the amount granted by the Center is 85 per cent more than the proposals sent by the State government. He said that the amount should be used to repair the roads in such a way that traffic will move smoothly without any potholes in future. The Minster reiterated maximum support to the flood-hit Telangana state from the Central government for undertaking rescue. repair and rehabilitation activity.

"KCR is giving 24X7 free power to farmers and giving Rs 5 lakh Rythu Bhima insurance to the farmers. Casting vote to Congress is nothing but dropping it in drainage," he said. Bandi Sanjay Kumar didn't respond to my challenge on pensions, however, the BIP leaders are speaking on jobs, Harish Rao said and added that TRS gave 1.24 lakh jobs after the formation of Telangana state. He questioned the BIP leaders to reveal how many jobs they gave after coming to power. He said that the TRS government will develop Dubbaka constituency in all aspects. The BJP should reveal whether the Central government is confined to Bihar or to the entire nation as it assured that it will distribute Corona vaccine free of cost as poll promise."

He said that nothing will happen with BJP and Congress. Harish Rao urged the voters to cast their vote to Solipeta Sujatha and ensure a huge majority to her. He said that the TRS government is sincere in implementing the assurances given in elections. He said that the state stood as a role model in implementing welfare schemes and development schemes.

Cong: Ensure transparency in distribution of financial aid

PNS HYDERABAD

Telangana Pradesh Congress Committee Treasurer Gudur Narayana Reddy on Friday demanded the government to be transparent in distributing the financial aid to the people who are affected by the floods in Hyderabad in the past two weeks. In a statement, he said that so far there was no clarity on the number of affected people and number of families who have been provided with financial relief so far. He reminded that the government has announced financial aid of Rs 10,000 to each affected family. He demanded that the government should put the details of the affected who have received the financial aid so far in public domain. He alleged that the TRS

Uttam also condemned the TRS government for not extending any help to the farmers who lost their crops due to heavy rains and floods in different parts of the State. He said although the State government has pegged the crop loss at about 13 lakh acres, the farmers' organisations have estimated the losses to be of more than 20 lakh acres costing around Rs 5,000

PNS PNS/DUBBAK

Telangana Pradesh Congress Committee (TPCC) Minorities Department Chairman Shaik Abdullah Sohail on Friday appealed to the voters of Dubbak Assembly constituency to defeat TRS party for its policies 'targeting the minorities of Telangana State'.

Speaking to media persons after participating in the doorto-door election campaign launched in Dubbak constituency, Sohail said that the TRS government would be remembered in history for "causing the maximum damage to minorities, especially the Muslim community, by wearing a fake mask of secularism". Minister 'Chief Chandrashekhar Rao has cheated the Muslims on the promise of giving 12 per cent reservation in jobs and education," he said and also alleged that the CM ruined the Wakf properties and weakened all the institutions associated with the welfare of minorities by starving them of funds and

The Congress leader said that CM would be remembered as a 'destroyer of places of worship' and a 'liar who repeated the same crime after apologising for the first offence. He said more than a dozen places of worship, including mosques and temples, have been demolished by the TRS regime without any fear of people or God. KCR has displayed equal disrespect for all religions and gave prominence only to his superstitious beliefs, he said, added that he doesn't deserve to continue on the post of the Chief Minister which demands true secularism and protection of all places of worship.

Farmers in trouble as rains destroy crops

PNS HYDERABAD

The rains that lashed the state during the past one week have caused extensive damage to the standing crops and damaged crops in at least 14.06 lakh acres, including cotton crop in 7.50 lakh acres, according to the preliminary report submitted by the Agriculture Department.

In the first three days, the rains caused damage to the crops in an extent of 8 lakh acres. Subsequently, the damage to crops increased to 14 lakh acres. An official of the Agriculture Department, who wished to remain anonymous, said that the final report on the crop loss due to the rains is yet to be compiled.

The agriculture authorities have not been revealing the details of the crop loss.

According to information received from sources, paddy crop has been damaged in 5.10 lakh cres and cotton in 7.50 lakh acres. The damage

PM slams Opposition for seeking restoration of Article 370 in J-K

In his first poll rally in Bihar, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday invoked the alleged reign of crime and loot during the 15-year rule of the RJD and also targeted the Opposition for "daring" to seek votes in the state while seeking restoration of Article 370 in Jammu and Kashmir

Modi sought vote for another term of the NDA government under Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, saying he had been working with the JD(U) president only for the last three-four years and that the state had seen much speedier development in this period.

Special immunisation programme for Covid vaccine

The coronavirus vaccine, once available, will be distributed under a special COVID-19 immunisation programme with the Centre procuring the doses directly and making it available for priority groups, official sources said.

According to them, the Centre will procure the vaccine directly to make it available to the priority groups free-of-charge through the existing network of states and districts. States have been asked not to chart separate pathways of procurement, they said. The Centre, with the help of state and union territory governments, has started the process of identifying around 30 crore priority beneficiaries who would be given vaccine dose in the initial phase. This special COVID-19 immunisation programme would run in parallel with the Universal Immunisation Programme, but will use its processes, technology and network of the existing vaccine distribution framework, sources said. The government has demarcated four categories of people for vaccination in the initial phase -- around one crore healthcare professionals including doctors, MBBS students, nurses and ASHA workers, etc.; around two crore frontline workers including municipal corporation workers, personnel of the police and

Also, online training modules are being developed for vaccinators. The digital platform that is being enhanced is Electronic Vaccine Intelligence Network (eVIN), which provides real-time information on vaccine stocks and storage temperatures across all cold chain points in the country under UIP. Under UIP, children, adolescents and pregnant women are currently vaccinated against vaccine-preventable diseases free-of-cost by the state.

"We are prepared with smallsized effigies to be burnt on Dussehra. Arrangements have also been made to maintain social distancing. However, police permission is awaited after which the size of the gath-

In view of the threat of COVID-19 infection, difficulties in keeping the crowd size under 200 and enforcing social distancing, many Dussehra festival organisers here will also resort to using footage of previous years as well as audiovisual and light effects to recreate effigy burning and stream it online.

"We will use previous footage with light and sound effects this year as it will be very difficult to control the crowd and ensure social distancing in view of COVID-19," Ashok Goel of Sri Keshav Ramleela Committee in Model Town said.

Vaccine politics

Perhaps the BJP forgot that as a party in governance, it is answerable to all citizens, not just those of poll-bound States olitical adventurism shouldn't trespass reason. And governance is about contextual maturity. Besides, certain issues are just not meant to be politicised, especially something as serious as the Coronavirus vaccine, a hope that's sustaining the entire nation which could still end up being the worst-hit in the world. That, too, at a time when an effective vaccine is like the proverbial El Dorado, as trials are still going on and there is no proof yet that it would work on a mass scale. Even assuming it does, every citizen, graded according to priority and co-morbidities, has a right to be administered a shot. And any smart Government would try to sound altruistic enough about protecting all citizens, if not mean it, only to reap political gains. Agreed politics is all about making tall claims that are rarely achieved. Still, for all the eloquence, there ought to be some sense of prudence and judgment. Most importantly, no party can advocate anything that is morally questionable. In this sense, the ruling BJP has overreached itself a bit much, promising the voters in Bihar free vaccines, without realising that it is implicitly saying that official benefits will now flow selectively among those who vote for it as a quid pro quo. That sounds as bad as a public threat. Worse, its promise is not just another instance of poll populism — it's an attempt to manipulate the anxieties caused by the most lethal pandemic to have ravaged the world in more than a century. And when somebody like Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman makes the announcement, it shows that the Government is desperate about the poll arithmetic of the party it represents than pursuing holistic policies, that it is cavalier about the demands of science and health protocols and is unconcerned about lives, leave alone being compassionate. However, this isn't the first time the party has made such questionable promises. There was talk that Prime Minister Narendra Modi wanted to launch a home-grown COVID vaccine by August 15 to mark the nation's 72 years of Independence. Apparently, the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) was under pressure to fast-track clinical trials but widespread criticism about compromising efficacy for the sake of political expediency and pressure from scientists ensured that a life and death question was not made a mockery of. Yet the BJP's claim of free vaccine doses has already trivialised a grave issue into a point-scoring exercise. A similar announcement followed in Tamil Nadu, where the elections are due next year. AIADMK leader and Chief Minister E Palaniswami promised the shots on the basis of his proximity to the BJP. In other words, tradeoffs of this nature will be made to buy the allegiance of federal parties. One wonders what the BJP's stand would be in Bengal, where it is seeking to dislodge the Trinamool Congress? But the BJP's fatal flaw has certainly galvanised the Opposition. Delhi Chief Minister and leader of Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Arvind Kejriwal was quick to point out the plight of the people in non-BJP ruled States while National Conference leader Omar Abdullah called the announcement a "blatant populism" that "shamefully exploits COVID fears." He even wondered if the BJP would be paying for these vaccines from the party treasury. So when the Union Minister of State for Health, Ashwini Chaubey, tried to clear the air, it was too little too late. According to him, the Centre had prepared an elaborate plan on distributing the vaccine and identifying those who would be given "preference." He even added that every State would be given free Coronavirus vaccines. But Amit Malviya of the BJP's IT cell further complicated matters when he said that like all programmes, the Centre would provide vaccines to States at a nominal rate. And health being a State subject, the Bihar BJP unit had decided to give it free if elected and that other State Governments, too, can decide to do the same. This is not unexpected, as it has become normal for the ruling dispensation to change its stand on what subjects under the State List can be manipulated by the Centre. Except that the Opposition is not buying this narrative with the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) urging the Election Commission to restrain the BJP from "signing a poll deal using the vaccine."

The larger concern is that the political parties will still get away making wild claims during the Bihar elections, the results of which will be announced in November. And no trial results will be available before December, leave aside the prospect of a rollout by the beginning of next year. Would the voter bet on something that has still not seen the light of day? The Government should instead focus on the vaccine administration process and set up a seamless cold chain infrastructure, both of which are humongous challenges. Vaccine preservation is a tricky business as wide swathes of vials could go bad if safety norms are not adhered to and the temperature controls are not monitored strictly. The COVID vaccine has to be stored at temperatures lower than other known vaccines. The Serum Institute has already raised questions on the Government's ability to keep aside ₹80,000 crore for the rollout. Is the Government equipped to handle this without roping in the private sector? If so, how much will the private sector be ready to subsidise costs? Besides, how will those at risk be mapped, considering that most Indians have a heavy disease burden and comorbidities? Vaccine distribution and administration will be no less of a logistical challenge than the general elections and will require the Centre and States to work together. So before it promises the moon, the BJP should realise that gravity is rude and it alone would land with a thud if it doesn't pursue collaborative politics on COVID for its own good.

Filthy air?

US President Donald Trump has a point about Indian air quality and it is no laughing matter eople living in north India, particularly Delhi, under truly choking conditions would not really disagree with US President Donald Trump's statement about India's air being filthy. They should hope that this ultimate repudiation of our ambient quality and pollution in a US presidential debate might force the Central and State Governments to finally do something about it. Like it or not, Delhi's air knocks years off the lives of its citizens and if farmers want the sympathy of the urban populace and the media over the new Acts, they will not get it till they stop burning stubble that leaves a haze and blocks sunlight every morning. The persistently poor air quality in India is now officially a global joke and our politicians' reluctance to deal with the issue holistically because they do not want to irritate their agricultural votebank is an even bigger one. Hundreds of crores have been raised as green cess in Delhi; why is this money not being used to subsidise agricultural machinery for farmers in North India so that they can get rid of crop waste in an eco-friendly manner? The lives of our children are being ruined by chronic pulmonary conditions such as asthma and politicians are trying to blame everything under the sun but the most obvious cause. They can't even attack the automotive industry anymore as it has moved to very low emission BS-6 vehicles now. There could soon be medical evidence to prove a direct connection between high levels of pollution and the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic. Say what you will about Donald Trump, he does speak about a lot of things without filtering them through political doublespeak. He was proven right about China and he is absolutely right about Indian air quality.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has the political capital to do something about this and he must because inaction on this front will taint his legacy. The right to clean air should be a given and like it or not, this impacts the poor and underprivileged whom Modi and even Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal claim to stand for the most. The chattering classes with access to air purifiers can afford to live with it. So whether Trump remains in office or the US gets a 46th President, the time for Indian politicians to act is now.

Recall Frontier Gandhi

Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan was a rare example of community transition, who showed how easy it was to shed the cult of violence and walk the path of peace

ndia completed the yearlong celebrations of the 150th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi on October 2. One had the privilege of participating in several learned deliberations on the relevance of Gandhian ideas in the present context. In most of these, it was rather a unanimous conclusion that Gandhi's principles, values and his life could give a healing touch to suffering humanity in a world characterised by wars, violence, distrust, hatred, fundamentalism, terrorism, arms race, hunger, poverty, ill-health and much more. Peace, non-violence and religious harmony remain elusive commodities. And Gandhi successfully demonstrated a nonviolent path to human dignity, harmony and liberty. He could influence leading personalities within and beyond India, who plunged headlong into creating a peaceful world by following his values and successfully achieving attitudinal transformation within their communities and nation

The life of Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan, also known as Bacha Khan and Frontier Gandhi, presents one of the most scintillating examples of achieving a rare community transition from violence as a cult to the path of peace and love as the value of total commitment. His name may appear just as unfamiliar to most young Indians as his role as a stalwart in the Indian freedom struggle, and after Independence, as a fighter for his people in Pakistan, that he waged till his last breath on January 20, 1988. He finds little resonance even in India for various reasons.

In July 1942, Jawaharlal Nehru issued a statement on the happenings in the Frontier Province now in Pakistan - clearly indicating how scarce the news from there was, and that too, was "often tainted and contained many wrong allegations." Nehru had personally experienced difficulty, during Province, in sending out proper news through normal agencies or otherwise. He further observed that restrictions on such news being sent out were stricter in the Frontier Province than elsewhere in India. He then revealed a painful truth: "The result is that the people in the rest of India know little of what is happening in this highly important part of the country." In this very statement, Nehru wrote about Frontier Gandhi. He said: "Few people know about the work that Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan has been carrying on during the last six months. He does not believe in ostentation but he has gone to villages seeing his people, organising them and encouraging them in every way. Thus, he has covered the entire province."

Apart from numerous impediments from various quarters, Khan also had to face false propaganda of vested interests. Born in 1890, he was greatly touched by the devastating misery of his own people which, he concluded, was due to the lack of education and consequent ignorance. He started schools and the British did not like it. He was 19 when he was first imprisoned and then it was a life in and out of jails of the Britishers, and then the Government of Pakistan. His historic movement, Khudai Khidmatgar, was launched to overcome poverty and banish the British from India. He was, till the end of the freedom

Khan was inspired by Gandhi's message of non-violence and he knew how difficult it would be to convince his "freedom-loving" Pathans to execute the idea. He had the courage and conviction to accept the challenge and he achieved this miracle. The type of attitudinal transformation achieved by this charismatic personality could only be termed unparalleled. He gave a new interpretation of force, courage and valour to his people and the community. This, he could do through his creative leadership, deep and thoughtful interpretation of Islam as a religion of peace. He was a man with a universal message of brotherhood and camaraderie. He knew how vibrant the cultural heritage of his people and the region was, and how this cradle of learning and culture sank "into a state where there was no room left for such good work such as education and learning."

While India was celebrating the birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, an erudite scholar of post-Independence history, RNP Singh, was searching literature and sources in libraries and institutions to put up an authentic account of the great Gandhian, Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan. And how India ignored his contributions which had the potential to bring forth peace not only to the erstwhile North-West Frontier Province Baluchistan but to the entire Middle East region, and even beyond.

Singh has established, based on his study, how great was the measure of wrong done to this frontline freedom fighter and an exceptional devotee of Gandhi. In his seminal work, Durand line: Did India Fail Frontier Gandhi, Singh very succinctly summarises: "He was among the very few leaders of undivided India who, by dint of their sincere effort and selfless service to their people, rose to eminence and earned a niche for themselves in the top political hierarchy of the country. Yet in spite of having earned a place among the galaxy of eminent leaders, Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan never advanced his claims to recognition in the Indian context." Öne could say without hesitation that India failed Bacha Khan, his Pakhtoon people and the NWFP. There is no other way out of this but to follow the path shown by Gandhi and Bacha

During the freedom struggle, Gandhi tried his best to persuade the Muslim League and Mohammad Ali Jinnah to give up the two-nation theory. He failed in his persuasion and India suffered the ghastly tragedy of the Partition. And we still need persistent efforts to strengthen our efforts to cement the age-old mutual harmony between the two major com-Inspired by the increasing influence of Gandhi, whose persona and ideas had begun to influence the remote North-Western part of the empire and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, young Bacha Khan opened schools for both boys and girls. He organised young people under the banner of servants of God — Khudai Khidmatgar — who, contrary to the prevalent tradition, decided to follow the Gandhian path to achieve freedom for India and its people. To these highly motivated and committed people, his message was, "The fundamental principles of all religions are the same though the details differ because each faith takes the colour and flavour of the soil from which it springs... I cannot contemplate a time when there will be one religion for the whole world." And this came from a devout Muslim who never missed a namaaz and who also had "the spirit of brotherhood" innate in himself more than many so-called orthodox Muslims.

Religious fundamentalists and protagonists of the twonation theory, expectedly, disliked him and his approach and inflicted numerous cruelties on him and his followers once they came to power. The persona of this Frontier Gandhi, sufferings that he endured even after Independence, must be revealed to young Indians, who are working for religious amity as the core value that could lead India to its destination of honour and acceptability in a strifetorn world.

What happened to Bacha Khan or what was done to him is summed up by Mohammed Arif Khan in the foreword to the treatise by Singh: "As an Indian, I feel that what we did to Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan and the Pashtuns in 1957 was very unfair. The Pashtuns had voted in 1946 for a united India but the decision of the Indian leadership reduced them to being subservient to the breakers of Indian unity. The result was that Khan and his followers were treated as traitors and he spent more time in jails of Pakistan after 1947 than in British jails before 1947." All this happened in spite of the fact that the top Indian leadership of the freedom struggle was fully aware of the significance of Bacha Khan's contribution and his unflinching commitment to a united India. Sadly enough, India was divided Even Gandhi, who had declared that Partition could take place only over his dead body, accepted it. All that the great Bacha Khan could say to the Indian leadership that had accepted the Partition of this great country was: "You have thrown us to wolves." He and his people were left at the mercy of those who never liked him for his liberal stance on Indian culture, history and his progressive ideas about religious harmony and social cohesion.

BJP's new low

Sir — The BJP has sunk to a new low by promising free Coronavirus vaccine shots for the people of Bihar. This only proves that the party is fearful of being defeated and hence is selling the fear of the pandemic to the people. The fact of the matter is that the Coronavirus vaccine is not the private property of the BJP and it cannot decide which States can have free access to it. Its leaders need to realise that they are also in power at the Centre and the entire country's well-being is their concern and not limited to the States that are or might be under their rule. If they want to give away free vaccines, then they will have to do so in all the States and not only in Bihar. After the dismal performance of the Janata Dal (United)-BJP coalition in handling the pandemic, the returnee migrants' issues and not to forget the floods, the NDA is offering free vaccines to woo the electorate. It should instead focus on improving the conditions in core sectors like education, employment and healthcare.

he Karnataka High Court rightly said that an "attack on anybody's daughter is an attack on our daughter." The observation came in the context of upholding the trial court's order of sentencing seven accused to life imprisonment for the gang-rape of a law student on the Jnana Bharathi campus in Bengaluru in 2012. The court noted that the difference between the 2012 Nirbhaya case and the gang-rape of the law student was that in the former, the girl died but in the latter, the survivor discontinued her studies and traumatised, returned to her homeland in Nepal.

The High Court has recommended amending provisions of the Indian Penal Code to include capital punishment for gang-rape in addition to the existing provisions of life imprisonment with fine. The death penalty already exists for rape-cum-murder cases, as in the Nirbhaya case, but is not applicable for cases of gangrape in which there has been no death. However, studies don't prove that the death penalty is a deterrent. It could also lead to perpetrators making sure that their victims are left dead or in no state to make a complaint or recognise them. Also, in a larger number of cases, the accused is known to the victim and the looming fear of the former being handed out a death penalty could stop one's family from reporting the crime. Hence, we need to strengthen the process of rehabilitation.

Noxious haze

Sir — Once again, US President Donald Trump has made a critical reference to India during a presidential debate. Earlier. he had questioned India's Coronavirus data amid criticism of his handling of the pandemic. And recently he called India's air "filthy" while claim-carbon emission." Contrary to Trump's claim, the US stands second in the world in terms of carbon emission. It leaves a bigger carbon footprint than the majority of the world's population. However, in terms of his comment on India's poor air quality, the truth is that he was just stating a known fact. New Delhi has indeed been blanketing that the US has the "lowest ed in a noxious haze. Smoke from stubble burning in its neighbouring States, vehicle fumes and industrial emissions have been turning the Capital's air toxic every winter. It was the world's most polluted capital city for the second straight year in 2019, according to Swissbased group, IQ AirVisual. Additionally, according to the State of Global Air 2020 study, that was released on October 21, air pollution caused the death of 4,76,000 new-borns in 2019 and nearly two-thirds of the deaths came from harmful fumes emanating from cooking fuels. The study also highlighted that more than 1,16,000 Indian infants died due to air pollution in 2019. So, while Trump's comment might sting, the Indian Government should take the poor air quality of India, especially Delhi, seriously. The blame game between the Centre and the States needs to stop and adequate steps should be taken.

An exaggerated clampdown

The youth in the streets of Lagos may not realise that their rebellion could endanger a corrupt system, but those who benefit from it certainly do he young Nigerians who were protesting at Lekki Toll Plaza in Lagos recently were not the African touring company of Les Misérables. Lekki is one of the poshest suburbs of Lagos, full of gated communities and most of the protesters were literate, media-savvy youths who reeked of urban cool. The army killed them anyway. Or maybe it killed them precisely because of who they were. IZZY@theleventh, who does not explicitly say he was there, tweeted: "They removed the cameras two hours before, turned off the street light and the LED billboard and deployed soldiers to open fire at the crowd singing the national anthem...they brought tanks!!

Over 78 people are dead. The Nigerian Army then began to put the dead bodies in their trucks."

The numbers may be exaggerated: One eyewitness told the BBC he had counted about 20 bodies and at least 50 injured after the soldiers opened fire. Official sources have denied that anybody was killed, or that the army was even there. But Channels Television has videos showing men in Nigerian Army uniform walking calmly up to the barricade and firing into an angry but non-violent crowd. The massacre comes after two weeks of protests, mostly in southern Nigeria, that were initially targeted on the Special Anti-Robbery Squad (SARS)

Almost all Nigerian police forces are corrupt and brutal, but SARS specialised in robbing, torturing and sometimes murdering prosperous and trendy young people. If you were young, had hair of a different colour or tattoos, and were in a flashy car, you stood a statistically significant chance of having an unpleasant encounter with SARS. The protests began two weeks ago after pictures allegedly showing a man being beaten to death by SARS circulated on social media. Muhammadu Buhari, a military dictator 35 years ago and now back at 77 as Nigeria's elected President, recognised the danger and acted fast. Within two days he abolished SARS, promising it to replace it with a kinder, gentler force — but the protesters had heard that story before, and besides they had already moved on to broader targets.

Nigeria is a powder keg at the best of times, and with lengthy lockdowns this is not the best of times. Protests exploded across southern Nigeria, and not all were non-violent. On October 19 a mob burned a police station in Yaba, another upscale suburb of Lagos, and 120 km to the east in Benin City armed crowds freed more than a thousand prisoners from two jails. The State claims that the protests have been infiltrated by criminals and in some places that is clearly true, but that's not why the ruling political class is panicking. That's not why they shot down well-educated, trendy but law-abiding young people in Lekki. It's because those in power fear a youth revolt that could not only transform the country, but Nigeria, Africa's most populous nation (200 million people), is really two countries. The southern, mostly Christian half, with all the oil and ports and most of the industry, is around 95 per cent literate. Only one of the 19 northern, mostly Muslim States is over 50 per cent literate, and half the young women in the northern region have no formal education whatever. Naturally, relative prosperity shows the same disparity. Only 27 per cent of the southerners live below the poverty line and 72 per cent of the northerners do. Yet it is young southerners who are on the brink of revolt. because it is the political domination of the north that keeps the ruling kleptocracy in power.

It starts with the army, whose officer corps has been dominated by Muslim northerners since colonial times. That is why Muslim military dictators and elected presidents from the north have ruled Nigeria for 38 of the 60 years since independence, but even Christian presidential candidates from the south are in hock to northern interests. The traditional rulers and religious authorities of the north control the big banks of voters that can be sold to the highest bidder, and it is in their interest to keep those voters ignorant and obedient. The southern kleptocrats, who buy the votes, have an equally strong interest in the system as it lets them go on stealing: One-third of Nigeria's oil revenues over the past 50 years have ended up in foreign bank accounts.

The young men and women in the streets of Lagos may not realise that their rebellion could endanger an entire corrupt system, but those who benefit from it certainly do. Which is why their response has been so extreme. What happens next matters a lot, because 25 years from now Nigeria will have overtaken the US in population and become the third-biggest country in the world. It would be nice if by then it was a stable, well-educated democracy where prosperity extended beyond the south.

Dangerous delay

In a country where a majority of patients are diagnosed in the later stages of the disease, the Coronavirus outbreak is further hampering diagnosis and treatment of cancer

orty five-year-old Ayesha (name changed), a resident of a small town in west Uttar Pradesh (UP), first spotted a tiny painless lump in her breast in April this year. However, the Coronavirusinduced lockdown and the fear of catching the infection in a healthcare setting prevented her from seeing a doctor. Even when the lockdown was eased, her family was too scared to travel to Delhi to seek medical consultation. By the time she reached an oncologist four months later, her aggressive cancer had already hit Stage III, diminishing the chances of her survival.

Unfortunately, Ayesha is not a lone case of a seri-ously-ill patient being deprived of timely treatment due to the ongoing contagion. While we will never be able to collate data of how many such patients suffered delayed diagnosis and treatment this year, it is evident that the number is significant. Patient attendance in oncology clinics fell significantly in the initial months of the pandemic. The number of new cases diagnosed continued to remain relatively low even several months after the total lockdown had been eased. Breast Cancer Now, a British charity organisation, estimated that due to the contagion almost a million British women had missed a screening appointment. This might have led to thousands of cancers going undetected. For a country like India, where a majority of breast cancer detections still happen in the later stages of the disease, the Coronavirus outbreak has further hampered diagnosis and treatment, and is likely to negatively impact survival rates from the disease.

Rising disease burden in India: Breast cancer is the most common form of the disease among Indian women and accounts for an estimated 28 per cent of all cancers. In fact, a woman is diagnosed with it every four minutes while another dies of this disease every 13 minutes in the country. In 2018, it is estimated to have claimed as many as 87,000 lives in India. The incidence of the disease has increased dramatically over the last 25 years due to multiple factors, including increasing urbanisation, adoption of unhealthy lifestyles (smoking, drinking, junk food consumption and so on), increased use of plastic utensils and microwave ovens, rise in obesity, drop in physical activity levels, delayed age of child-bearing and reduced breast-feeding.

India also has a high mortality rate because a majority of the patients are still diagnosed in the late stages of the disease and a significant proportion of them are not able to get appropriate treatment. Another worrying trend is an increasing incidence of the disease in younger women. Shockingly, nearly half of the patients in urban India are less than 50 years of age. Poor awareness about symptoms, lack of a universal and comprehensive screening programme, social taboos and embarrassment to discuss the issue are the main reasons behind delayed diagnosis as well as the resultant high mortality. Unfortunately, the prevailing situation due to a worldwide pandemic has impeded diagnosis and treatment of a number of non-Coronavirus diseases, including all types of cancers. Already a neglected subject, women's health has further been relegated to the back-burner as families delay medical consultation and avoid visiting healthcare facilities or undergoing regular disease screening.

Pandemic or not, do not put health issues on the back-burner: The Coronavirus is a long-term problem, which is likely to stay with us in the near future. While containing the pandemic and ensuring treatment of all infected people must be a high priority, adequate policy measures need to be taken to ensure that other serious diseases are not neglected in the process. Governments as well as healthcare providers, both have a role to play in achieving this. It is important to educate people about the importance of not neglecting their health conditions and prevent interruptions in treatment modalities, too. It is equally important to ensure continuation of unimpeded non-Coronavirus services in hospitals while also instilling confidence among people about the safety of hospitals and clinics, especially outpatient departments (OPDs). However, the silver lining in the dark cloud is that thanks to advanced diagnostic and treatment modalities, survival rates of breast cancer patients have increased significantly globally. While survival depends on a number of factors such as the type of cancer, stage at the time of diagnosis, the quality of treatment, in the US it is estimated that up to 90 per cent of women survive five years after diagnosis and 84 per cent manage to survive 10

HIGH MORTALITY RATE BECAUSE A MAJORITY OF THE PATIENTS ARE STILL DIAGNOSED IN THE LATE STAGES OF THE DISEASE AND A SIGNIFICANT PROPORTION OF THEM ARE NOT ABLE TO GET APPROPRIATE TREATMENT. ANOTHER WORRYING TREND IS AN INCREASING INCIDENCE OF THE DISEASE IN YOUNGER WOMEN. SHOCKINGLY, NEARLY HALF OF THE PATIENTS IN URBAN INDIA ARE LESS THAN 50 YEARS OF AGE. POOR AWARENESS ABOUT SYMPTOMS, LACK OF A UNIVERSAL AND COMPREHENSIVE PROGRAMME, SOCIAL TABOOS

However, in India, the survival rates remain abysmally low for reasons mentioned above. Increased awareness and health literacy, regular screening after 40 years of age, adoption of a healthy and active lifestyle sans smoking or excessive drinking, timely and appropriate treatment can help improve survival rates in

New-age technologies can help navigate the Coronavirus pandemic: The adoption of new-age technologicallyadvanced methods further helps improve the quality of life of patients. Now, surgical treatment does not mean removal of the whole breast in all patients. It is possible to offer a breast conservation surgery in nearly 60-70 per cent of the patients either upfront or after chemotherapy. Similarly, complete removal of armpit nodes, a procedure done routinely in all patients until a couple of decades ago, has given way to sentinel lymph node biopsy in which only a few nodes need to be tested for the presence of the tumour. If these sentinel nodes are not involved in the disease, one does not need to remove the remaining nodes, thus bringing down the rate of shoulder dysfunction as well as lymphedema (swelling of the arm) significantly. Similar to surgery, personalised systemic therapy (chemo, hormone, immune and targeted therapy) has enabled us to avoid more toxic treatment in patients with a good biology tumour. Two patients with the same size of tumour can have very differhelp predict the risk of cancer relapse in the early stage of breast cancer with a high degree of accuracy, stratifying patients into low and high-risk categories, based on their tumour biology. Those patients who fall in the low-risk category have very limited risk of relapse and may be able to avoid chemotherapy. Cancer patients face a higher risk of catching the Coronavirus infection as well as suffering from its complications because of their immuno-suppressive state as a result of the disease itself and due to chemotherapy. These prognostic tests that can help them avoid chemotherapy, if used judiciously, can kill two birds with one stone - patients can avoid chemotherapy, which is immunosuppressive, and avoid visits to the hospital to undergo chemotherapy.

Radiation therapy has also undergone a complete metamorphosis over the decades and modern machines enable us to deliver more precise radiation (thus sparing adjacent organs like the lungs and the heart from a high dose of radiation) and in a shorter interval of time (as less as two weeks as compared to the usual five weeks in a select group of patients).

In more good news, researchers in Canada have developed a new, inexpensive technology that could save lives and money by routinely screening women for breast cancer without exposure to radiation. The system, developed by researchers at the University of Waterloo, uses harmless microwaves and Artificial Intelligence software to detect even small, earlystage tumours within minutes.

By comparing the tissue composition of one breast with the other, the system is sensitive enough to detect anomalies less than one centimetre in diameter. A negative result could amickly rule or while a positive result would trigger referral for more expensive tests using mammography or magnetic resonance imaging. In addition to reducing patient wait times and enabling earlier diagnosis, the device would eliminate radiation exposure, improve patient comfort and work on particularly dense breasts, a problem with mammograms. However, this technology will take a while to come to India as it is still at the nascent stage.

In the end, people have to realise that while the Coronavirus is a serious pandemic, they must not neglect their overall health, compromise on regular checkups and doctor consultations or delay cancer treatment. However, all hospital visits must be undertaken with complete precautionary measures that are the new normal now.

Closure of budget private schools looms large

With apathy, low Government allocation and high-handedness, school education is becoming nobody's baby ndia's unaided private school education is collapsing as thousands Lof institutions have closed down and many others are struggling to survive. This may cost the nation over ₹1.75 lakh crore a year, as the Coronavirus-induced lockdown has harmed the education sector immensely. Though the mention of private education conjures up images of swanky private schools with worldclass facilities and sky-high fee structure, these are also in crisis today.

However, it is the online, low budget schools that have been the worsthit by the pandemic. These schools penetrate rural areas, small towns or low-income localities of metros, according to the State of the Sector Report on Private Schools by the Central Square Foundation (CSF). As tion unaffordable.

per the recently released Household Social Consumption on Education in India Report, the aggregate household expenditure on private schools is approximately ₹1.75 lakh crore, almost equal to the e-commerce sector. Also, about 50 per cent of the total school enrolments are in private Though almost all schools, Government or private, are under stress due to the lockdown, the worst sufferers are the virtual informal schools. With or without Government recognition, they serve the hinterland of the country. They have improved school enrolment, especially in rural areas, where the number of students attending private schools has increased from four per cent in 1993 to 26.6 per cent in 2017-18.

The CSF says that the struggle for the survival of private education in the country is intense. Even under normal circumstances, it is not easy for private schools to attract students and during the Coronavirus era, the situation has worsened further as parents refuse to pay fees. Plus, the digital footprint has made online educa-

So most such schools have either closed down or are facing closure as they are neither able to pay their teachers nor can they afford infrastructure costs. Some had planned expansion in early March and taken loans. Many have gone into severe debt and even after closure, are in distress. Most of these are entrepreneurial ventures by innovative individuals. In Fatehpur, Uttar Pradesh, a shopkeeper's son started a school that followed the concept of "pay ₹1 a day." However, since the students are not coming to school, entrepreneurs like him have little option but to close down operations.

The impact on society is severe as these virtual schools employ mostly iobless youth at low salaries. The payment is on a daily or hourly basis. But each school sustains at least 100 people on an average. The youth prefer to opt for such jobs for sustenance as well as for the prestige they enjoy in their neighbourhood due to it. In villages or semi-urban areas, such schools have become the first choice for parents, as they are perceived to be better than Government schools due to the overall care that a child is online education has largely come a find brick and mortar schools more given as the teachers (trained or not) are from the neighbourhood. This is making education more mass-based as the official system has many limitations and despite some recent efforts, suffers from delivery problems. Recruitment of teachers itself is flawed as the disclosures from VYA-PAM in Madhya Pradesh and by the UP Government have shown. The Yogi Adityanath Government also found that the district officials interfered in "Basic Shiksha" schools and issued orders for severing these from the district administration. Plus, cropper in all such institutions. The pandemic gave rise to the need for having a digital infrastructure and due to their low budgets, the unaided private schools claim that they are neither able to match up with elite schools nor with the State-run schools, for which the content is aired through television and radio channels and other Government-run platforms. To make matters worse, parents do not consider online teaching to be proper education. They do not pay the schools because their wards are not going there. Apart from that, they find online teaching expensive due to the high internet costs. Another problem they face is that each child needs a smart phone or computer, which they cannot afford. Apart from this, many children do not find online teaching interesting as there are many glitches and teachers, too, find themselves struggling due to the lack of eye contact. Plus, students mostly switch off the video mode because of the poor network across the country and to reduce unaffordable data use.

The students and their parents affordable and fruitful because apart from learning from books and the teachers, the children learn language skills, etiquette, discipline, interaction with peer groups, use of a library and social behaviour. So parents, despite their low incomes, do not mind paying for education at brick and mor-

As per a Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation report, Indians pay 12 times the money for pre-primary education at a private school. The number decreases to about three times at the higher secondary level. A majority, 70.8 per cent students, pay less than ₹1,000 monthly fee, while 45.5 per cent pay less than ₹500. The monthly median fee in an elementary unaided school is ₹958 in urban areas and ₹500 in rural India. Schools complain that at least onethird of the parents default in paying this minimal amount also. The closure of budget private schools can adversely impact "education for all" and multiply unemployment. With apathy, low overnment allocation and highhandedness, school education is coming nobody's baby. (The writer is a senior journalist)

World shares gain after last Trump-Biden debate

World shares and U.S. futures advanced Friday after President Donald Trump and his challenger former Vice President Joe Biden faced off in their second and final debate before the November 3 election.

Stocks rose Friday in Paris, London and Tokyo but declined in Shanghai. The debate over, investors will again be focused on hopes for another round of aid for the U.S. economy.

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi said progress was being made on talks to deliver more stimulus but it remains unclear if Democrats Republicans will manage to set aside their differences to provide help for businesses and millions of people who have lost their jobs during the coronavirus pandemic. In their debate late Thursday, Trump and his Democratic challenger Biden managed a more substantive exchange than during their first raucous clash several weeks ago. There were no major market-moving

Rupee ends 7 paise lower against $

PNS MUMBAI

The rupee depreciated 7 paise to close at 73.61 (provisional) against the US dollar on Friday even as the domestic equity market was trading with significant gains.

At the interbank forex market, the local unit opened weak at 73.62 against the US dollar and remained stressed for majority of the session before closing at 73.61, a loss of 7 paise over its previous close. During the session, the local unit witnessed an intra-day high of 73.46 and a low of 73.67 against the US dollar.

It had settled at 73.54 against the greenback in the previous session on Thursday. According to forex dealers, positive sentiment in the domestic equity market and weakness in US dollar overseas restricted the rupee's fall.

Research- Currency, Emkay Global Financial Services said, "As we get close to the US election day, uncertainty over the outcome will keep USD-INR spot afloat. On the domestic equity market front, BSE benchmark Sensex was trading 151.26 points higher at 40,709.75 and the broader NSE Nifty rose 45.25 points to

Pandemic likely to delay penetration of EVs

PNS NEW DELHI

The coronavirus pandemic is expected to delay the penetration of electric vehicles in India, as low affordability and the government's priority on reviving existing conventional automobile industry shift the focus away from EVs in the interim, according to rating firm Ind-Ra.

The passenger vehicles (PVs) segment of e-mobility will face a double whammy, as consumers would be wary to buy a costlier EV than an internal combustion engine (ICE) vehicle, while original equipment manufacturers (ÖEMs) would refrain from incurring high Capex, India Ratings and Research (Ind-Ra) said in a statement.

"Low affordability and the government's priorities on reviving the otherwise suffering auto industry could shift the focus away from EVs in the interim," it added

Reduced affordability and lower economic activities due to the pandemic could result in the automobile industry recording a decline in sales of over 20 per cent year-on-year for the second consecutive year in FY21, the agency said.

This is likely to impact the sales of EVs, which are costlier than an ICE vehicle. Twowheelers have benefitted from rural demand and shift to personal mobility, and the segment could be the least impacted with regard to electrification due to better pricing and model choices, it noted.

Delhi govt okays 100 models of vehicles

PNS NEW DELHI

The Delhi government has approved more than 100 models of vehicles, including 45 makes of e-rickshaw and 12 of four-wheelers, for subsidy under the new electric vehicles policy, Transport Minister Kailash Gahlot said on Friday.

"Vehicles priced up to Rs 15 lakh will be eligible for the purchase incentive(subsidy), besides exemption of road tax and registration fee. Electric Rs 15 lakh will not get subsidy but will be eligible for road tax and registration fee exemptions," he told a press conference.

The minister launched a website having details of approved models, dealers, subsidy disbursal process as well as the network of 70 charging stations across the city. The 100 approved models of electric vehicles include 45 of e-rickshaws, 14 of twowheelers and 12 of fourwheelers. He also said 36 manufacturers have been registered with a network of 98 dealers across the city.

Buffer stock onion to states/UTs

In a bid to cool down retail onion prices that are ruling over Rs 75 per kg in some places, the Centre has stepped up efforts and asked states and union territories to take the kitchen staple from the central buffer stock for retail interven-

As per data maintained by the Consumer Affairs Ministry, retail onion prices in Mumbai were ruling at Rs 86/kg, Chennai at Rs 83/kg, Kolkata at Rs 70/kg and Delhi at Rs 55/kg on October 22. "We have stepped up efforts to check the price rise. We have requested state governments and union territories to take onion from our buffer stock for retail intervention," Consumer Affairs Secretary Leena Nandan told PTI. Assam, Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Chandigarh, Haryana, Telangana and Tamil Nadu have shown interest and taking a total of 8,000 tonnes of onion from the buffer, she said, adding that the ministry is awaiting response from offering onion from the buffer stock stored at Nashik, Maharasthra, at the procured rate of Rs 26-28 per kg to states who wish to lift the stock on their own. For others who want it to be delivered, the offered price would be Rs 30 per kg, she added. Besides this, the secretary said that cooperative Nafed, which is procuring and maintaining the onion buffer stock on behalf of the government, is offloading the stock in wholesale mandis across the country.

Tesla testing 'full self-driving' vehicles

PNS DETROIT

Earlier this week, Tesla sent out its "full self-driving" software to a small group of owners who will test it on public roads. But buried on its website is a disclaimer that the USD 8,000 system doesn't make the vehicles autonomous and drivers still have to supervise it.

The conflicting messages have experts in the field accusing Tesla of deceptive, irresponsible marketing that could make the roads more dangerous as the system is rolled out to as many as 1 million electric vehicle drivers by the end of the year. 'This is actively misleading people about the capabilities of the system, based on the information I've seen about it," said Steven Shladover, a research engineer at the University of California, Berkeley, who has studied autonomous driving for 40 years. "It is a very limited functionality that still requires constant driver supervision." On a conference call Wednesday, Musk told industry analysts that the company is starting full selfdriving slowly and cautiously

"because the world is a complex and messy place."

It plans to add drivers this weekend and hopes to have a wider release by the end of the year. He referred to having a million vehicles "providing feedback" on situations that can't be anticipated.

The company hasn't identified the drivers or said where they are located. Messages were left Thursday seeking comment from Tesla.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which regulates automakers, says it will monitor the Teslas closely "and will not hesitate to take action to protect the public against unreasonable risks to safety."

The agency says in a statement that it has been briefed on Tesla's system, which it considers to be an expansion of driver assistance software, which requires human supervision.

On its website, Tesla touts in large font its full self-driving capability. In smaller font, it warns: "The currently enabled features require active driver supervision and do not make the vehicle autonomous.

Daimler rebounds after lockdowns

PNS FRANKFURT

Daimler AG, maker of Mercedes-Benz luxury cars and Freightliner trucks, saw third-quarter profit rebound as the company clamped down on costs and as auto sales recovered after the coronavirus lockdowns of earlier in the year. Highly profitable vehicles such as the GLE, GLE and GLS sport-utility vehicles boosted earnings, as did the economic recovery in China, said CFO Harald Wilhelm. The existing version of the S-Class luxury sedan also did well even though it is being replaced by a new model, Wilhelm said. The company now expects full-year operating earnings to equal those from 2019, before the virus. Previously it said it expected to make a profit below last year's.

NBFCs: Include us as beneficiaries

PNS MUMBAI

Non-banking financial companies (NBFCs) have written to the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to include them as beneficiaries for availing funds under on tap targeted longterm repo operations (TLTRO) scheme.

To ensure comfortable liquidity conditions in the system, the RBI on October 9 announced to conduct on tap

TLTRO worth Rs 1 lakh crore. The central bank had said the liquidity availed by banks under the scheme has to be deployed in corporate bonds, commercial papers and nonconvertible debentures issued by the entities in specific sectors. Banks can also use the funds to extend credit to these specific sectors. The central bank made sectors such as secured retail, micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) and drugs, pharmaceuticals and healthcare, eligible for deployment of funds availed under on tap TLTRO. In a letter written to RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das, Finance Industry Development Council (FIDC), a representative body of (NBFCs), said while sections including agriculture, MSME and retail are covered, NBFCs have not been included as a sector which could avail funds

under the on tap TLTRO

exchange reserves touched a life time high of USD 555.12 billion after it surged by USD 3.615 billion in the week ended October 16, according agriculture agri-infrastructure, to RBI data. During the latest reporting week, the rise in total reserves was due to a sharp rise in Foreign Currency Assets

(FCAs), a major component of the overall reserves. FCA jumped by USD

3.539 billion to USD 512.322 billion, the data showed. Expressed in dollar terms, FCAs include the effect of appreciation or depreciation of non-US units like the euro, pound and yen held in the foreign exchange reserves. The country's reserve position with the IMF declined by USD 11 mn.

he rising trend: One stitch at a time

t's not just the kids and artsy youngsters loving the sewing machine, homemakers are enjoying adding their creative touch to home décor amidst all the time they now have at hand, men learning to fix their shirts, buttons and grandmothers making cute little clothes for their grandchildren, the demand for sewing machines is on the rise in India. What is heartening to see, is that the craft is being recognised as being gender agnostic and many men are now exploring and honing their creative skills on the sewing machine in their leisure

Parveen Sahni, Senior VP, Usha International, talks about growth of sewing machines industry in India, sewing as a therapy and more. The sewing machine industry has seen a renaissance of sorts in the last two decades with consumers rediscovering the advantages of sewing, in tandem with the evolutions of the sewing

The lockdown has led to the surge in DIY hobbies especially for making their own masks and PPE kits. Many people have taken to public platforms to express how sewing helped them fight off anxiety and stress machine itself — from the manual black machines of the yore today we have a slew of high tech automated sewing machines. This entire transformatinites. This entire transformation in perception and the new age machines has set off a revival of sewing as an art and hobby and Do-It-Yourself (DIY). Likewise, Usha too has also evolved to traverse the entire spectrum of the market, anticipating consumer needs aligned with the changing consumer demographics.

Praveen explains, "While the sewing machine industry in India is substantial, currently the unorganised sector contributes about 60-70% of the business. However, this is changing very significantly in favour of quality brands in the organized sector, given that consumers are realizing the need for quality products and hassle-free after sales service support, as well as value additions like skill training and teaching tutorials — basically the whole value proposition that is offered by trusted and established brands."

With people busy navigating unchartered waters as the pandemic unfolded, working remotely in the absence of professional and social contact, self-isolation due to fear of infection, all began to play chaos in our lives. Anxiety, stress and the strain of dealing with new realities began to take a toll on mental health. In a scenario like this, creative hobbies and passions have played a huge role in helping aid mental wellbeing. Sewing is one such hobby that is as much fun alone as it is with

It keeps you busy and as you lose yourself in the moment — unleashing your creativity, doing what you are loving — it helps the brain relax and release the feel good hormones helping lift your mood instantly. Sewing gives you a sense of purpose, a sense you a sense of purpose, a sense of accomplishment, a sense of happiness and joy that goes a long way in evoking positivity. Many people have taken to public platforms to express how sewing helped them fight off anyiety and stress. off anxiety and stress.

The lockdown has led to the surge in DIY hobbies especially for making their own masks and PPE kits. He says, "Even before the pandemic driven lockdown, adoption of automated sewing machines and industrial garment machines was seeing an upswing in India — for both apparel and nonapparel manufacturing — contributing to the growth of the sewing machine market. As for the demand from the home consumer — it is fueled by the growing numbers embracing sewing as a hobby irrespective sewing as a hobby irrespective of age group. Part of this is led by parents who want to inculcate sewing skills amongst kids to give them a creative outlet and reduce time spent on TV/mobile screens." He goes on to add that many are picking up sewing as a creative outlet to deal with the stress from masks to accessories. clothes, and home décor, as

Ryan Reynolds on casting his vote for first time in the US

ollywood star Ryan Reynolds confessed on social media that he has cast his vote in the US for the first time. However, it was the footwear fetish his wife, actress Blake Lively, revealed in the image that made the post viral.

The actor shared the update on Instagram page. "This is my first time voting in America. I'd like to thank my wife Blake for making my first time so gentle and loving. It was super scary at first, then exciting and now I'm a little tired. But proud. #VoteEarly." Revnolds wrote alongside a picture of him and Lively with their election ballots.

In the image, the Deadpool star keeps things casual in a button down with sleeves rolled up and trousers. Lively wears a plaid coat with a turtleneck.

"It was Ryan's first time. He was understandably scared. It all hap-pened so fast. Like, really fast. He wept. I pretended to weep. Then he called all his friends," Lively wrote sharing the same pictures, but with one difference.

In her image, she had drawn heels on her bare

"Can you tell I was so happy to get outta a onesie and vote. Sure it was an absentee drop off ballot with a mask covering my look. But dammit I exercised my right to vote. And to not wear shoes that ruined my outfit," she wrote.

Reynolds also shared the photo, on which his wife had doodled brown boots on. "... I don't see the issue," the Deadpool star quipped.

In another image

shared on Instagram, Lively drew on a pair of brown boots and tagged Louis Vuitton.
Reynolds, who reportedly became an American citizen in 2018, shares three children with Lively. They are Inez, four; James, two; Betty, one.

The source notes the biggest challenge the makers face right now is whether Rana will reprise Koshiyum (Prithviraj) or not. "Rana has given his nod to the project when Ravi was attached to act but with Pawan on board, equations will change. However, the makers are hopeful of the lanky actor's participation. He had returned to Hyderabad on Thursday night after his honeymoon and Sithara chief Naga Vamsi will be speaking to him shortly," the source states.

Furthermore, the source informs that makers are planning to wrap up the film in 35-50 days, with the majority of the filming set to take place at Pollachi, Tamil Nadu. "The chances of this film going to floors early next year are more. Release-wise too, it will be Pawan's next after Vakeel Saab," the source concludes.

With the embarrassing loss, CSK are all but out of reckoning for the play-offs with just six points from 11 games, while MI jumped to the top spot with 14 points from 10 matches.

Bowling in tandem, Boult

(4/18) and Bumrah (2/25) reduced CSK to 21 for 5 inside powerplay with three and two wickets respectively and CSK never recovered from there, limping to 114 for 9, largely thanks to

Sam Curran's 52. Chasing 115 for a win, Kishan (68 not out), opening in place of regular skipper Rohit Sharma who missed out due to a hamstring injury, and Quinton de Kock (46 not out) knocked off the required runs in just 12.2 overs.

The duo toyed with the CSK bowling attack on a dreadful day for the MS Dhoni-led side to

The left-handed Kishan, who has not had a substantial score after his knock of 99 against Royal Challengers Bangalore, was at his attacking best as he smashed six fours and five sixes during his 37-ball innings. The South African de Kock played second fiddle during his 7-ball innings which had five fours and two sixes.

Earlier, Boult and Burmah roduced a devastating paceowling spell in tandem to restrict CSK to 114 for 9.

Put in to bat, CSK were five wickets down inside powerplay overs with Boult and Bumrah taking three and two wickets respectively. CSK could reach to 114 for 9

thanks largely to Sam Curran's enterprising half-century. The young Englishman mixed caution with aggression to top-score with 52 (47 balls, 4 fours, 2 sixes) in an otherwise pathetic display by CSK batsmen.

Boult eventually picked up four wickets for 18 runs, 13 of those coming in the final over. Bumrah (2/25) and leg-spinner Rahul Chahar (2/22) picked up two wickets each while Nathan Coulter-Nile ended with 1 for 25.

Incidentally, Curran's 43-run partnership for the ninth wicket with Imran Tahir (13 not out) was the highest partnership of the CSK innings which showed the rest of the batsmen in poor light. CSK had a horror start and slipped to 3 for 3 after two overs and lost two more wickets before the powerplay ended.

It all started with Ruturaj Gaikwad, back into the side, being trapped LBW in the opening over bowled by Boult for a Ambati Rayudu fell to a short ball from Bumrah, gloving an easy catch to de Kock. N Jagadeesan followed him to the pavilion off the next ball, poking at one to be caught by Suryakumar Yadav.

Faf du Plessis, the only CSK to batsman to shine this season so far, edged one to give de Kock his second catch of the night.

Skipper Dhoni's (16) poor run continued as he fell to leggie Rahul Chahar while going for a big one off a tossed-up delivery after having smacked a six of the previous ball.

Ravindra Jadeja (7) hit a boundary before pulling one straight to Krunal Pandya at mid-wicket to give Boult his third wicket and leave CSK in tat-

Clarity about role key to Morris' success

DUBAI: For all-rounder Chris Morris, cricket without pressure is boring and he feels the clarity over his role in the Royal Challengers Bangalore set-up ly so far in the IPL.
