found that Covid-19 disrupted essential public health services which people with NCDs rely on to manage their conditions.

In the study, the scientists reviewed almost 50 studies on the synergistic impact of Covid-19 on people with NCDs in low and middle-income countries such as Brazil, India, Bangladesh, Nepal, Pakistan and Nigeria.

According to the study lead author Uday Yadav from the University of New South Wales (UNSW) in Australia, the interaction between NCDs and Covid-19 was important to study because global data showed Covid-19-related deaths were disproportionately high among people with NCDs.

This illustrates the negative effect of the Covid-19 'syndemic' - also known as a 'synergistic epidemic' - a term coined by medical anthropologist Merrill Singer in the 1990s to describe the relationship between HIV/AIDS, substance abuse and violence," Yadav said.

FROM GRABBING LANDS TO ENCROACHING LAKES

The Telangana Rashtra Samiti's ultimate promise of creating 'Bangaru Telangana' was almost synonymous with transforming Hyderabad into a virtual paradise. This made sense because among the key planks on which the separate Statehood struggle was based, creation of jobs and wealth could be realised mainly in Hyderabad.

Distressing images of suffering emerging from the flood-ravaged areas hardly give an impression that prosperity is round the corner. Hyderabad as a world-class city remains a Utopian concept because long-term urban planning is unappreciated or, at least, out of step with government policies.

The neglect of basic infrastructure was attributed to Andhra rulers, either of Congress or of Telugu Desam stock. They were accused of feathering their own nests at the cost of Hyderabad's future. Besides, non-natives were allotted land at throwaway prices for building film industry infrastructure and private hospitals or they had purchased prime land for profiteering and, in at least one instance, an actor had even encroached on a lake.

The pace of development witnessed since the mid-90s was unmatched by cities of equivalent size or population like Ahmedabad, Lucknow and Bhubaneswar. Bengaluru was the only comparable city that surpassed Hyderabad. Until then, the city rested on its past glory.

Post-Independence, the Congress remained unchallenged till N. T. Rama Rao emerged on the political firmament in 1982. Its leaders milked its mineral resources, its land and bagged mega-contracts. They paid scarce attention to the needs of the city's fast-growing population that was putting pressure on land, water, drainage, and roads leading to haphazard growth. An individual or institution was scared of buying land in Hyderabad out of apprehensions about the genuineness of the registration papers or threat of encroachment. A Telugu film, "Ammo Okato Tareeku" has a comedy scene showing a comman selling away the Charminar to a gullible villager.

In real life, Hyderabad has a historical baggage of land records that were never scrutinised or filtered until 1936. When TS Chief Minister K

Former Resident Editor, The Hindu

Chandrasekhar Rao decided to give input subsidy of Rs. 4,000 to each farmer, he found to his dismay that the data of the Agriculture Department did not match with the revenue records. Besides, there were multiple categories of land.

Nizam's lands were known as Sarf-e-khas, while makhta and banjars were lands given away for services rendered to him. These lands were grabbed with the connivance of the high and mighty in the name of building huts for the poor. Ibrahim Khan, who came to be known as the "king of landgrabbers", named then Chief Minister T. Anjaiah and former Ministers G. Venkataswamy and M. M. Hashim as his partners in 1982.

This was the kind of nexus that the TRS was expected to break and usher in Bangaru Hyderabad. But, what really happened has turned out to be quite different. In these many years, land grabbing has been overshadowed by encroachment on lakes.

A concerted effort has not been made to punish encroachers, though their identity is well-known to the local communities. They enjoy political patronage of the parties in power, apart from wielding money and muscle power.

Now is the time to hold the government accountable for trying to dilute GO 111, an executive order issued way back in March 1996 to protect the Osmansagar and Himayatsagar lakes. The order prohibits polluting industries, hotels, residential colonies and other establishments up to 10 kms of their full tank level. Farmers, realtors and big builders, some of whom are close to top TRS leaders, would like it scrapped as they have already encroached on the blame for the city floods at its predecessors' doorsteps. Protecting lakes and maintenance of sluice gates is routine activity. The sluice gates of Fox Sagar lake in Secunderabad had not been opened for two decades and were so jammed that even engineers were unable to open them. It was left to a nearby automobile mechanic to open the gates, indicating official letharry.

The Telangana High Court observed that only 10 per cent of around 3,000 lakes in and around Hyderabad had been notified. The Court's views must be taken seriously and the audit of all lakes speedily completed.

Special courts must be established for punishing those who had encroached on water bodies to prevent recurrence of tragedies of the kind we witnessed last fortnight.

Many people still reeling under flood impact

NAMRATA SRIVASTAVA

The incessant rain that lashed the city has shown signs of let up, but the people in many colonies in the city are reeling under the impact of the rains. Even though it hasn't rained in Hyderabad since Wednesday, several localities are still facing water-logging issues. Although few people got relief money from local leaders, they complain that the GHMC workers haven't been coming to work regularly.

Md Imraan Uddin, a resident of Tolichowki's Nadeem Colony shares, "The state of our area is becoming worst as the drainage water is getting mixed with the rain water. At some places there is knee length water and at others there is a lot of stinky mud. The situation is such that we are avoiding going out at all costs. The officials have come, however there is no progress in work. Also, those who came once to work were inexperienced and not skilled. They didn't know what exactly to do. It's been five days that the water is just sitting there without any escape route."

Most locals also had to leave the place to find a more secure place. Shares Essa Bahajaj, a resident of Osman Nagar, Shaheen Nagar, "I shifted my family to a relatives place some last week itself when the flood warning was on. My house got flooded even during the first rains. That water was still there on the streets when the second bout of rains hit us. Till now the streets of Osman Nagar are unattended. The Collector came, saw and we never witnessed any worker again. Few people from the colony got Rs 10,000, however that is not enough. The government should quickly get to work and get the water out. When I went to my house, I saw snakes. My neighbors also complained of the same. How long should we stay away from out homes?" Rashed Khan, a local leader

Rashed Khan, a local leader complaint of the official's lethargic attitude as well. "It not impossible for them to do some work. However, despite visiting and speaking to the people the officials haven't asked GHMC to expedite the work. The work should have started at least four days back."

"People are familiar with Covid-19 as a pandemic, but we analysed it through a syndemic lens in order to determine the impact of both Covid-19 and future pandemics on people with NCDs," he added.

According to Yadav, the Covid-19 syndemic would persist, just as NCDs affected people in the long-term.

NCDs are the result of a combination of genetic, physiological, environmental and behavioural factors and there is no quick fix, such as a vaccine or cure," he said. "So, it's no surprise we found that NCD patients' exposure to NCD risk factors has increased amid the pandemic, and they are more vulnerable to catching Covid-19 because of the syndemic interaction between biological and socio-ecological factors," Yadav added.

Journalistic work, they said, cannot be equated to sedition or undermining security.

The associations also accused the Modi government of using the coronavirus pandemic as an excuse to silence its critics. As many as 55 journalists were targeted for covering the pandemic in India between 25 March – when lockdown was first imposed -- and 31 May, the letter noted, citing a report by Rights and Risks Analysis Group.

"The number of cases filed against journalists have increased enormously after the spread of the pandemic. The health crisis is being used as an excuse to silence those who have exposed shortcoming in the government's response to it, while on the contrary it is important for both citizens and the public authorities to have factual information about the situation in order to best respond to the pandemic. A free media is essential to a successful public health response," it

The letter took note of the "enormous increase" in the number of journalists being charged for sedition under Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, with up to three years to life in prison. "In the most recent case, on October 5 a Kerala-based journalist, Siddique Kappan, who was trying to reach the family of a rape victim in the Hathras district of Uttar Pradesh, was arrested and charged with sedition," it

Besides Kappan, the advocacy groups highlighted the sedition cases against senior journalist Vinod Dua, Dhaval Patel, the editor and owner of a Gujarati news portal, Face of Nation, and Kamal Shukla, editor of Bhumkal Samachar. Shukla was charged for sharing a cartoon on Facebook, which referred to the Supreme Court's decision to reject petitions calling for an independent investigation into the mysterious death of special Central Bureau of Investigation judge Brijgopal Loya in 2014.

&The use of sedition laws to harass independent, critical journalists is not only a gross violation of the country's international commitments, it is also an attempt by the government to silence any criticism," they added. ## Organ donation takes a hit

Transplants steadily making a comeback in Hyderabad

The pandemic has led to a significant drop in treatment for non-Covid chronic ailments that require surgeries including organ transplants. Organ donation sees a steep fall in Telangana with just 40 donors coming forward as against 134 donors in 2019.

Since the beginning of lock-down in March 2020 till date, the number of transplants has declined. About 24 of the 40 donors were recorded in the first three months of the year. In May, July and August there were no donors while April and September saw 3 donors.

Since 2013, this is possibly the year with lowest number of donations after the launch of state-run organ donation scheme Jeevandan. Just about 155 organs and tissues were retrieved until September 2020 as against 462 in 2019. Doctors are hopeful that the organ donations and transplants will pickup. It was only in September that nearly 18 transplant surgeries were conducted. The risk of Covid infection kept people away from not only donations but also transplants.

Dr G Swarnalatha, in-charge of Jeevandan and senior nephrologist at NIMS said, "Every field has been affected by Covid and so was Jeevadan. We had 4 to 5 donations in October. It has not reached to pre-Covid status but it is slowly improving. In next few months possible first half of next year, it will come back to near normal.

The recipients initially had apprehensions and hospitals were also not taking up trans-

With the relaxation of the lockdown, people started real-ising that the delay in surgery would do more harm than good for these patients. The highest organs donated were kidneys followed by cornea and liver. There were about 8 lung and 5 heart transplants this

The doctor acknowledged that this is the year with the lowest number of transplants, but pointed out that hospitals are also getting prepared with dedicated staff and area.

Dr Swarnalatha said, "There were apprehensions about transplant from recipient's point of view as well, but now they have accepted that they have to live with Covid. There is preparedness from all areas. Initially focus was on managing Covid patients and all the resources like doctors and ICU in hospitals were directed towards it. Now the staffers are comfortable treating Covid patients, so the non-Covid resumed. We are trying to balance, as Covid management has evolved."In post-Covid world, Jeevadan is also trying to use digital platforms to create awareness. Dr Swarnalatha said, "Initially we used to have awareness programmes, physically going to different places. Now we are using digital platform. Awareness is continuous process but it is more of hospital getting prepared to balance.

Whether granting freedom to farmers to sell their produce anywhere in the country or creating thousands of farmer producer organisations, whether completing stalled irrigation projects or improving crop insurance scheme or 100 per cent neem-coating of urea or soil health card...the aim is to strengthen the agriculture sector so that farmers do not have trouble in farming. He launched the state government's Kisan Suryoday Yojana (KSY) aimed at providing day-time electricity to the farmers in the state for irrigation and farming purposes.

welfare department. Besides, he launched the recently-completed ropeway project on Mount Girnar, a major tourist and pilgrim site near Junagadh city in the state. The 2.3-km long ropeway is being touted as the longest temple ropeway in Asia. Modi held the opposition responsible for the delay in completion of the Girnar ropeway project.

The project was proposed in 1983, and was delayed due to various reasons, most importantly due to the environmental concerns, before the UPA government granted it conditional approval in 2011.

"Had they not created hurdles in the Girnar ropeway project, it would not have got stalled for so many years. People and tourists should have got its benefit a long back," he said.

'As a nation, we all should think of the loss caused to the people and the country when such projects (Girnar ropeway) of public importance are stalled for a long time," he said, adding that the new project will facilitate the pilgrims and tourists, and create job opportunities for the locals.

'More people will visit (a place) only when modern facilities are provided to tourists. Tourists want ease of living, ease of travelling," he said.

Modi said the world's tallest Statue of Unity attracted more than 45 lakh tourists before the pandemic.

"Look at the Statue of Unity dedicated to Sardar Saheb (Vallabhbhai Patel). The world's tallest statue is becoming a huge tourist attraction. Before the coronavirus outbreak, over 45 lakh people had visited it. It is a big achievement in such a short time. It has been reopened (recently), and the number (of tourists) is increasing fast," he said. The Statue of Unity was inaugurated in October 2018.

Lauding the state government over the Kisan Suryoday Yojana (KSY), Modi said India has become a leading country in both solar production and consumption.

"Gujarat was the first state in the country that framed a detailed policy for solar energy a decade ago. In 2010, when a solar power plant was inaugurated in Patan, nobody had imagined that one day India will show the way to the world for 'One Sun, One World, One

Modi lauded the state's initiative in taking water to house-holds under the 'Nal Se Jal' scheme.

Urging the farmers to save water, he said, "As the KSY has been launched, all have to repeat the mantra- 'Per drop, more crop'.

'As farmers will get electricity during the day, they should also focus in saving more water," he said, adding that daytime power supply will make things easier for farmers to set up micro-irrigation.

Changing lifestyle is increasing heart complications, Modi said, adding that the heart hospital will provide facilities to the people of Gujarat and others.

In his address, Chief Minister Rupani targeted the anti-Gujarat people" for stalling the Girnar ropeway and the Sardar Sarovar project. 'We all know that in the past, anti-Gujarat people tried to create hurdles in many projectslike Narmada and Girnar ropeway so that Gujarat, Modi and BJP do not get the credit. But luckily for us, when Modi became the PM, both the projects were realised," he said.

"It (the Punjab incident) may not hurt the RJD because that is how things were when they were in power," Sitharaman told reporters while flaying Lalu Prasad Yadav's party for the "jungle raj" during its rule in Bihar during 1990-2005.

Second wave of Covid could hamper nascent recovery: RBI

PNS MUMBAI

RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das has said the risk of a second wave of COVID-19 could put sand in the wheels of the nascent recovery while his deputy M D Patra opined that it might take years to regain the output lost on account of the pandemic.

These views were expressed by them during the meeting of the newly constituted Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) held from October 7 to 9. The newly appointed independent member of the ratesetting panel Shashanka Bhide said uncertainties relating to COVID-19 pandemic will impact growth and inflation scenarios in the next two to three quarters. Das also said the decision to cut benchmark repo rate would depend upon the evolving situation with regard to inflation which is currently above the tolerance level of the central bank, according to the minutes of the meeting released by RBI on Friday. "I recognise that there exists space for future rate cuts if the inflation evolves in line with our expectations. This space needs to be used judiciously to support recovery in growth," Das said.

As per the central bank's assessment, headline inflation would moderate in the second half of the current financial year and further in the first quarter of the next fiscal.

Inflation remained above the upper tolerance threshold of 6 per cent since June, with signs of aggravation of price pressures. The government has asked RBI to keep inflation at 4 per cent (+, - 2 per cent).

Speaking about the risks to growth, Das said there are downside uncertainties that could put sand in the wheels of this nascent recovery. "Primary among them is the risk of a second wave of COVID-19. Private investment activity is likely to be subdued, even as domestic financial conditions have eased significantly," he noted. In the first quarter of this fiscal, India's GDP contracted 23.9 per cent.

Deputy Governor Patra said that India has entered a technical recession in the first half of the year for the first time in its history.

"GDP is an aggregative indi-cator of economic activity and hides the extent of human misery and the loss of social and human capital caused by the health crisis.

"Nonetheless, if the projections hold, the level of GDP would have fallen approximately 6 per cent below its pre-COVID level by the end of 2020-21 and it may take years to regain this lost output," he

While voting for keeping the interest rate unchanged, RBI Executive Director Mridul K Saggar expressed concern that if current real negative interest rates fall further, it may generate significant distortions that could adversely affect aggregate savings, current account and medium-term growth in the

There are many workers who risk their lives just so that we can keep going. They are mostly never noticed. Women waste pickers are among one of them. The Body Shop and Plastic For Change have launched Project NARI which aims at making a difference in their lives. MUSBA HASHMI speaks to these frontline workers to bring you a report

At 23. She has seen the worst

lastic is merely a matter of waste for us, but to them it is as precious as it can be. Meet a woman waste picker, Roopa who has been collecting waste from a landfill in Pachanady for about a year

A mother to a young daughter and having a big family to take care of, Roopa had no option but to join her mother in the profession after her husband met with an accident, that left him bed-rid-

"Collecting waste at the landfill is very much a part of my family's history - my grandparents used to do it, then my parents and finally I got into it as

Fortunately, Roopa doesn't have to go through a lot of indifferent behaviour from the society and doesn't hold any grudges against anyone, but there are a few incidents that did bother her at some

"I didn't face any real issue from my community, but when I would visit my grandparents — during the time I used to collect waste from the landfill — their neighbours used to insult me. They called me names. They asked me if I didn't have a better job to do. Some even behaved like we were untouchables. But I stood strong and doesn't let their taunts make much difference in my life. I bravely stood my ground and told them that what we were doing was honest labour and that there is nothing to feel ashamed about. What kept me going all this while was the belief that no job is big or small and every occupation deserves equal respect," Roopa tells you.

Spending atleast seven hours at the landfills, surrounded by every kind of waste, under the scorching sun, earned Roopa, not more than ₹500 a day. Only if we would be able to imagine the ordeal she had to go through "All what we could do with this money was to eat food and cover ourselves," she says.

During COVID, she says, the prices of the material we would collect from landfills and sell to scrap shops plummeted and so our income reduced dramatically. We didn't even have proper rations at home.

Though there were a lot of apprehensions in Roopa's mind when she took up the job, she never had any fear of catching infections. "Before COVID-19, it didn't hit our mind that we could fall sick. It was only when the pandemic hit that we realised about the danger that lies ahead of us," she explains.

Not that she never felt like quitting. There were a dozen times when she thought of giving up the job and do something else.

Roopa, a 23-year-old waste picker, who is now working as a Quality Engineer with Plastic For Change

I DID NOT FACE ANY REAL ISSUE FROM MY COMMUNITY, BUT WHEN I WOULD VISIT MY GRANDPARENTS, THEIR NEIGHBOURS USED TO INSULT ME. THEY CALLED ME NAMES. I STOOD STRONG AND DID NOT LET THEIR TAUNTS BOTHER ME — ROOPA

"Since I had completed my PUC, I had initially refused to go to the landfill because I wanted to get a better job, but because of our family's financial circumstances I was forced to help support my mother and start collecting waste along with her. I did it with a heavy heart. There were quite a few times in between when I wanted to give up this job, but then I was laid back each and every time because of these financial issues," she tells

However, not all is lost in Roopa's story. Her life changed when Plastic for Change identified her and extended a helping hand to her and family. "Plastic me build a house for my family," she says.

For Change reached out to me and offered me a job role as a Quality Engineer at their factory. Ever since I have started working with them, all the insults that I had received in my life, stopped right then and there. I love my new job and I couldn't have asked for more. It gives me a feeling of pride that I am able to do something different in life now and can make way for a bright future of my children," she tells you with a smile.

She adds that the initiative by The Body Shop and Plastic For Change has helped her in many ways. "Whether it was the new jobs we were offered or the PPE kits we received and the installation of the water supply — the intervention of these brands is making a difference in our community," she tells you.

Having seen all the hardships in her lives at an early age, Roopa feels that everyone should be treated equally, regardless of their background. "I hope that my children doesn't have to go through all that I had to endure while growing up. It is disturbing. It torns our confidence into shreds. I wish my children get best of the education and grow up to do a job that they like. I just want them to make and earn a better life for themselves with all the respect from the society and passion towards their work," she says.

She has a request to make to the Government. "It'd be great if the Government recognise our work and could provide some support in helping

Manjula, a 30-year-old Mangalore-based waste picker, is happy that her life has changed for the better exception here. A 30 - year - old Mangalore-based ►Manjula too has to go through the same situation in life. But unlike Roopa, she has been into this profession for more than three years now. "It was when our family was going through financial crisis that I started collecting waste from the landfill. A few of my neighbours used to go there to earn a living and that's how I began as well, since I thought it'd be a good source of income," Manjula, who lives with her husband and a 14year-old daughter, tells you.

Since most of her community is involved in the same kind of work, Manjula haven't faced any real indifference in the society. "However, while I used to collect waste from the landfill many would show sympathy towards me and questioned why I hadn't tried out some other profession, since I was educated till PUC," she

Like Roopa, her life changed and for the better when Jayanthi, a member of Plastics For Change reached out to offered a job to her. "I am oopa is not an maam who gave me the opportunity to work as a Quality Engineer. The job not only solved my financial worries but also saved me from working long hours at the landfill," she tells you.

Getting a role as a Quality Engineer has definitely caused a major positive difference in "The tuition classes and the nutritional food that they provide to my daughter is another major help for my family. I'm also grateful to see the number of other social schemes that Plastics For Change and The Body Shop is bringing to my community," she adds.

Only if one could imagine the ordeal of these women waste pickers who spend more than half of their day at the landfill collecting all types of waste and then return home only to cook for their family.

"There is no chance that anyone could like this work. But it was not as if we have an option. It makes us feel like ouking. The smell sometimes become unbearable, especially during the monsoon. If I would go on to describe the scenario, one would be left disgusted," she explains and tells extremely grateful to Jayanthi you that she used to spend nothing less than five to six hours daily at the landfill while collecting waste. many a times, Manjula thought of quitting this work, but it was not easy. "Like I said, I have a family to take care of. There were times when I made up my mind that I would leave this work, but then I realised that I couldn't afford to. The rainy season is the most hazardous for us, not only because it is an uncomfortable time to work, but also because there are so many other risks involved. One can also meet with an accident. Even when I recall that time, a tear or two won't stop from falling down my eyes," Manjula, who earned ₹4000 a week, tells you.

She says that she was well aware about all the risks involved at the landfill and hence, she took all the necessary precautions while working. "I was aware of the risks that collecting waste involved, and so I would be very cautious and ensure I wore boots and gloves. I'd also take a bath and wash my clothes as soon as I returned from the landfill," she tells you.

To be able to live a dignified life, she says, is the everyone's right and women waste pickers should be no exception. "Everyone should be able to live a dignified life. I hope that those who are still working in landfills would be able to gain better livelihood for themselves and respect in the society," she says. While having a home to live, clean water to drink and electricity are nothing but our daily needs, for these waste pickers it is nothing less than a luxury that they have to ask from the Government. "I hope the Government can provide some support in helping me build a house for my family. And for my community it'd be great if the Government could set up public washrooms and toilets, since there aren't any, as well as a stable power supply," she tells you.

It shows how one of the most important part of our society are struggling hard to live a normal life, which is obviously not so normal

Season of empowerment

t the outset, I greet the valuable readers on the solemn occasion of Shardeya Navaratri, which ends today, following a nine days of intense prayer regime. The beauty of this particular festivity is that after spiritedly pursuing prayers, it ends in a celebratory mode on Vijaya Dashami — the day marked with Lord Shri Ram's victory over demonic Ravana and freeing Sita from his captivity. The question now is: Is it just remembrance of that singular auspicious event, or that it is supposed to offer something relevant in today's terms? If it has some lessons for us in immediate terms, then it is time to assess, what we have gained during the process.

Symbolically speaking, what does Sita being freed from captivity mean for us in contemporary terms? It needs to be remembered that potentially we are born with immense powers — in fact, divine. That however, doesn't involuntarily play out, and mostly remains hidden within. We need to explore, identify, acknowledge, hone and then bring them out of captivity of ignorance.

The process as such is not easy. The challenges are many. Remember, Mother Goddess Durga is visualised having 10 hands. In eight, she carries armouries made available by different Devtas, so as to combat evil forces coming from as many directions. Only two hands carry accessories marked with creative potential — Conch shell in one and Lotus flower in the other. Conch shell when blown gets tu ned to cosmic forces. Lotus flower marked with its beauty and splendour is symbolic of creativity. But what are those evil forces expectedly coming from eight different directions? Are they negative forces thrust by external factors, or are they within us? Of course, we shall have to combat challenges thrown by external factors. But they can be spotted and countered, if we pool in all resources in hand and efficiently use them.

More challenging, however, are the evil forces playing from within — our preconditioned mind marked by our unending cravings and temptations of life, negative thought trends, lack of alertness necessary for timely initiatives and responses, and habit tendencies. All the more because they stand in way of positives within coming out in full play. Caught up in the usual flow of life, we seldom care to identify, acknowledge and address them within time. That makes it incumbent upon us to first address the evil forces playing from within.

Nine days of prayer regime is stipulated with the above end in view. In the process, the primary focus is on Mother Goddess Durga, the epitome of Shakti. For, all aspects of our dynamic existence are primarily driven by nature driven energy-orchestra (Shakti). And energy remains a double edged weapon. When judiciously used for productive ends, it is rewarding and fulfilling. If, however, knowingly or unknowingly it gets misdirected — put to unbecoming acts — it can prove self-defeating. How we apply our energies in real terms, depends on our unique character - positively or negatively oriented. We need to be on full alert to consciously use our power towards well-meaning purposes. The irony, however, is that ordinarily, our flirtatious mind remains caught up in the tempting influences of the glare and glitters of the seeming world. We keep passionately chasing what lies at the surface level, randomly jumping from one desire trend to the other. In the process, we seldom remain alert enough to use our power base in a reasoned way, and with obvious consequences.

From the fourth day, we simultaneously pay attention to Mother Goddess Laxmi marked with our creative aspirations. This reminds us to remain focused to our need based requirements. Nothing, however, would come through, if we don't use our resources intelligently. So, during the last three days, Mother Goddess Saraswati, the epitome of knowledge and wisdom is pursued. All through the process, our indwelling negatives will keep playing from within, which we could identify and acknowledge. We are supposed to make offerings of such unseemly tendencies at the altar of Mother trinity, so as to purify our mind. Following which, we gain access to full landscape of mind to come out with our best. We then look at the issues in hand, the aspirational urges, and challenges coming our way in right perspective due. That paves the way to negotiate with the callings of life as an informed and wide awake person with ease and comfort, which may lead us to a better tomorrow.

Navaratri, thus, provides us with an occasion to get periodically geared up to take on life ahead in all strength.

blanket of haze has been shrouding the National Capital for some days now: the smog season is back. The AQI has crossed 300, pushing air quality to 'very poor' level, which was last witnessed in February. NASA images show clusters of fire in Punjab and Haryana, as the post-harvest paddy stubble burning has started in

Last year towards October end, the Delhi Government had to declare a 'public health emergency' for nine days, as Delhi experienced its longest period of hazardous air pollution. This year, as the world battles a pandemic, the smog situation can wreak a havoc on the public health. The health experts warn that smog can increase the time the virus can stay in the environment, increasing the infection rate. The increased number of Covid cases in Delhi and Mumbai are already being linked to the higher pollution level of these cities. Pollution also affects immunity and lungs, thus placing the Delhi residents at higher Corona susceptibility and fatality risk.

WHAT'S BEHIND THE DELHI SMOG?

The trough like topography of North India and meteorological conditions set by winter season makes the pollution linger over it, creating the condition for Delhi smog. With the onset of the winter season, weather condition becomes conducive to pollution, as cold settles air closer to the surface (inversion), wind speed drops and moisture goes up — so the pollution is not dispersed. Diwali firecrackers and stubble burning which also occur in the months of October-November, become contributory factors to the smog, as they add on to Delhi's pre-existing air pollution. As around this time the wind direction also changes to north-westerly, the stubble burning pollution is carried towards Delhi from its neighbouring

CONTRIBUTION OF STUBBLE BURNING TO DELHI SMOG

As the Government of Delhi, Punjab and at Centre, squabble over the contribution of stubble burning to Delhi's smog — while the Punjab CM cited the findings of IISER, to state that stubble burning is not responsible for most of the Delhi's pollution — a look at other studies on the matter is merited.

A recent study undertaken by IIT Kanpur and Delhi Pollution Control Board links contribution of PM 2.5 as 38% to road dust, 20% to vehicular emission, 11% to industries etc; with stubble burning merely adding on to the current load. Council of Energy, Environment and Water, a Delhi based think tank, which also arrives at similar figures, agrees that local sources and unfavourable meteorological conditions are the main factors behind Delhi's air pollution woes; with transportation and road dusts as the biggest culprits. Massive Earth Foundation, another think tank, also undertook a research to find the impact of stubble burning, thermal power plants, Diwali crackers and broken transportation of the air pollution; and found vehicular traffic as the biggest culprit, which has shifted base line of air pollution in India from a desirable 60 AQI to unhealthy smog during 2019, the contribution of stubble burning was variable, only peaking at 44% once.

However, it will be pertinent to quote Supreme Court mandated agency, Environment Pollution (Prevention and Control) Authority (EPCA) on the issue, "even if it is not the only cause of pollution in the region, there is no doubt that the transportation of pollutants from burning fields is the tipping point that makes winte already unhealthy air quality into a public health structural fault in the Indian agriculture system,

CASE OF STUBBLE BURNING The whole issue of stubble burning is based in which promotes wheat and rice crops through assured MSP — even though India is the second largest producer of rice and wheat in the world, and a foodgrain surplus state. This is creating many ecological problems for Delhi's neighbours — the erstwhile Green Revolution states, Punjab, Haryana and Western UP — like alarming rate of ground water depletion due to excessive water intensive crop of paddy and stubble burning. The use of combined harvesters for paddy which is common in these states, leaves behind a nine-inch stubble in the farm. Moved by the Government assured economic returns, farmers in these states sow wheat after paddy harvesting — the time duration between the two is a month or less; not enough for the stubble to decompose naturally, thus stubble burning, the cheapest option, is resorted to. Not just is the stubble burning polluting, it is equally harmful for the soil itself, which loses most essential nutrients like organic carbon, nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, sulphur with the burning of the stubble. The heat destroys the beneficial microflora and fauna from the soil and hardens it; thus affecting physical, chemical and biological attributes of soil making it less fertile and vulnerable to weed and drought. The long term solution to the problem lies in crop diversification: a move towards less water intensive crops like soyabeans, pulses, corn which are harvested by hand or can be harvesting mechanically earlier on, providing sufficient window for the residue to decompose before the next sowing. For the time being, the in-situ and ex-situ sustainable management techniques for crop residue are an alternative.

SUPREME COURT IN ACTION

The Supreme Court (SC) has been quite proactive on the issue of air pollution in Delhi; closely monitoring the situation since last year, when it criticised Punjab, Haryana and UP Governments for failing to control stubble burning. In February, SC directed Central and Delhi Government to take strong measure for stopping stubble burning; and approved an action plan on the matter, based on the affidavit of Ministry of Agriculture — which included steps like setting up smog towers, smog guns in Delhi, and implementing other in-situ and ex-situ stubble management techniques which will be funded by Central Government and implemented by the State Governments of Punjab, Haryana, UP and Delhi. In September, the SC had rebuked the Delhi and Central Government for delay in setting up of the Smog Towers in Delhi. A few days back SC appointed former judge, Justice Lokur as one man committee to monitor stubble burning in Delhi, and its neighbourhood, and report to SC directly

ACTION BY EPCA, CENTRAL GOVERNMENT AND IEIGHBOURING STATES

EPCA is monitoring the implementation of the States. It also suggests other measures to the States like setting up control room, obtaining undertakings from big construction projects and red and orange category industries on pollution. Central Government is experimenting with PUSA decomposer in farms in Delhi, Punjab, Haryana and UP. It is also funding Smog Towers, in-situ stubble management machines, farmer awareness campaigns and has set off 50 teams of Central Pollution Control Board for monitoring the situation in Delhi and its neighbourhood.

The steps taken by Punjab, Haryana and UP as reported to EPCA, mentioned in its last month's report are: making in-situ stubble management machines available to farmers at highly subsidised rates through purchase by farmer directly, or on rental through village panchayats and Farmer Producer Organisations by setting up Custom Hire Centres. A mobile app is also being launched for creating awareness in the farmers about the scheme. Ex-Situ management steps are also being taken for converting stubble into bioenergy and power plants are being set up for the Despite of these steps by the Central Government and the States, farmers especially of Punjab and Haryana are complaining about not receiving any help from the Governments, thus being forced to burn the stubble. Hence, the implementation of these schemes seems to be rather thin on the ground, also its being reported that the action against stubble fires has not been as widespread this year, as before.

TOWARDS A SMOG FREE DELHI

Delhi needs 65% reduction in PM 2.5 to meet the desirable national standard. The strategy for that has to be comprehensive and multi-pronged. First, adopting crop diversification, proper implementation of in-situ and ex-situ residue management policies by States, creating a market for crop residue, setting up crop residue collection system based on municipal solid waste collection system — thus giving alternative options to farmers to opt out of stubble burning.

Second, to fix Delhi's broken public transport infrastructure. There has been four-fold increase in vehicles in Delhi between 2000-2018. The pandemic has further aggravated this trend, pushing up the purchase and plying of private vehicles on the road. Number of public buses in Delhi need to be ramped up, while creating smooth connectivity with the metro. Emission testing, which is only 25%, must be pushed up. More incentives on evehicles like waiver of road fee and low interest loans must be provided. Third, controlling the road dust by intensive roadside plantation of big crown trees, planting grass on the sideways and improved solid waste management.

Devotees carry fire in earthenware pots and bowls, as fire is considered holy in Hindu mythology and is used during the festival to signify purity and the new beginnings that it brings ignifying the triumph of good over evil, Dussehra is celebrated with much gusto and fanfare and in several forms and almost all parts of India.

The most interesting place to observe this epic festival is at Kulasekaranpatinam, near Madurai. A sleepy coastal village deep in the heart of South India-Kulasekaranpatinam, near Madurai, in Tamil Nadu, gives it its own twist. Devotees converge in Kulasekaranpatinam from all parts of Tamil Nadu as they take to the streets in the village dressed as Goddess Kali and various other mythological

The 12-day celebrations begin on the starting of the lunar cycle, and culminate on the day Dussehra is celebrated. The events take place in and around the 300-year-old MutharammanTemple in the village, which is an important part of the town's history. The beginnings of the festival was much more humble, but over the years the participation of many more villages and towns have given it a deeper significance and fervor. The vast stretch of seashore along the area plays a gentle host during the occasion and a general air of gaiety, excitement and festivity hangs in the air...

Excerpted with permission from Abhishek Hajela's India: East Meets West. A recipient of International Nikon Award, Hajela is a passionate travel photographer, who loves to capture people in their environment and likes to tell life stories through visual imagery

A number of villages and towns in Tamil Nadu field participants during the festival who divide themselves into groups of 6-10 people. These people dress up as mythological characters, saints and Goddess Kali. An accompanying orchestra team that loudly announces their arrival and presence further enhances this procession

Once a person wears the Kali outfit, they go into a state of trance and start dancing almost maniacally. It is said that the Goddess Kali possesses whoever wears the Kali outfit and those people become manifestations of her divine form

The trident represents the three supreme beings of Hindu Mythology, which are Brahma, Vishnu and Shiva. It is also said to represent the past, present and the future, the seven chakras and the three energy channels of Ida, Pingala and Sushmana

Mirzapur 2 as good or bad as 1

Amazon Prime Video *ing: Pankaj Tripathi, Divyenndu Sharmaa, Ali Fazal, Shweta Tripathi, Harshita Gaur, Rasika Dugal, Rajesh Tailang, Sheeba Chadha, Anjum Sharma, Vijay Varma and others Rated: 6/10

irst things first. Mirzapur has not reformed itself from being perhaps one of the most violent, sleazy, abusive and yet unashamedly luring. Season 2 is even more so, at least in the first three mentioned traits.

The disclaimer at the beginning attempts to assuage your alarm by saying totally fictitious and the like. However, the knowledge of this sort of a scenario being a reality in the cow belt of the nation, the unabated goondaism, the police criminal nexus, the impunity and violence with which criminals conduct their business keeps you on the hook all through the 10 episodes of Season 2, which, by the way, has set itself up for a third season.

Personally, I eschew and cringe at pronounced screen violence and in this one the bloodbaths are what Thrones with just a tad less history to it. The man who will be King of Mirzapur has to be powerful, with no chinks of vulnerability in his demeanour. He should be able to kill at will even if it is his favourite and loyal servant for decades or his own father! Corruption of the system matches up with the corruption of the mind, boy and soul of all its main characters who have, come to think of it, done a pretty good job if you hate them all in equal measure.

Will not be able to call Mirzapur riveting but yes it draws your blood to your temples, makes you curdle in fear and cringe in disgust with such pointed venom and force that it automatically qualifies for a binge

The end is predictable and similar to the first season, the characters have matured and the violence here prevails only to push the story into a state of no repair and the climax sets up the window for the next season with the polish of a veteran.

Mirzapur will be watched in the third season too. How watch-worthy is such content can be a topic for debate on another platform makes for the story. Meanwhile waiting avided Mirzapur is India's Game of sequel of The Family Man. Meanwhile waiting avidly for the

Short & sweet

Short film, 14 minutes

*ing: Sanjay Mishra, Raghav Juyal, Abhishek Chauhan Rated: 8/10

The thing about short films is that they are fully loaded second to second to tell a story. In this format the story has to be short but have the potential of leaving a long term impact. Stunning climax, an ending you may not have fathomed, and every frame meant to tell the story, or should one say race to finish the story because the director has just 14 minutes to leave a nark

Laghushanka is of that potent, telling and interesting category. It deals with the issue of bedwetting by an adult girl who has a marriage staring down her face, a hysterical family and the prospect of it coming out in the open in her

The film has been treated with a lot of acumen, tender loving care and slick production which keeps you hooked from the beginning to the end.

It also delivers a powerful message on human weakness and ailments that are often treated with insensitivity and indifference.

This head turner film is neither insensitive nor indifferent to the issue it has at and must watch.

Worth a watch

A SUITABLE BOY Netflix

*ing: Tabu, Ishaan Khatter, Tanya Maniktala, Rasika Dugal, Ram Kapoor, Mikhail Sen, Namit Das Rated: 6/10

any of us over the last 27 years would have tried to reach out to a copy of A Suitable Boy only to baulk at the sheer size of the novel — 1349 pages. This alone was a good enough for a large number of people to stay away from one of the longest novels published in a single volume.

But thanks to Mira Nair, one can now find out why the book had created quite a stir when the book was out in 1993. The subject was enough to make it the talk of the town — a mother's quest to look for a suitable boy for her youngest

Even though there are a few misrepresentations of how women behaved back then and what they wore, one can give them a miss and instead concentrate on how Nair has brought the 1951s era alive once again on the screen. The six-episode limited series takes one on a journey on what it was like to live in a post-Independent India. A few clippings give us a sneak peek of what it was like when people voted for the very first time. But the miniseries and the book is not about post-Independent India but the lives of people in that time and how a mother goes about choosing a husband for her daughter and rejecting many because they are — of course — not suitable. A mother knows best the adage which

Despite the fact that Tanya

Maniktala's character keeps smiling even though there is an internal turmoil, she does a great job as the daughter who has to do the choosing.

Tabu, Ishaan Khatter and Ram Kapoor comes across loud and clear.

While many may not agree with the whole concept with a mother looking for a suitable boy given that we are living in the 21 st Century. But the truth remains that arranged marriages do a brilliant job in supporting roles. In fact, they are the backbone of this and a parent choosing husband/wife is not such an alien concept even today. Overall, the mini-series is entertaining and keeps you glued wanting to know what comes next and who is finally the suitable one.

Retelling a classical tale

any of us have either seen or read Rebecca by Daphne du Maurier. Hence, there are no surprises when it comes to the climax or what is to come next. What is different here than the 1940 psychological thriller directed by Alfred Hitchcock is of course the way the two films have dealt with the same story. Then there is the whole black and white as opposed to colour. The chilliness and the cold reserve that played out so brilliantly in the Hitchcock version is totally missing here. There is Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine as opposed to Lily James and Armie Hammer.

This Rebecca leaves you cold, unmoved and somewhat disconnected. Though it is never right nor fair to compare two movies with the same story as a viewer it is difficult to look at this film without doing the unforgivable. However, for those who have not seen the Hitchcock version, it will be a treat to watch the book come

While there is no way one can even compare Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine characters to Lily James and Armie Hammer's, the latter manage to hold their ground well. James, who has done movies like Mama Mia, Here We Go Again! and Cinderella, plays Mrs de Winter well. But instead of coming off as somebody who is naïve and innocent, she comes across as a person who is more curious and we know where that leads. Still one can't ignore her performance here which is delivered well. One however, finds it difficult to understand what her motive is especially when she realises that her husband did kill albeit an accident and covered it up is it because she realises that she is the only woman her husband loved or it is something entirely different? This Rebecca leaves the viewer to interpret the last look of the second Mrs de Winter.

Of magic and life lessons

Netflix *ing: Cathy Ang, John Cho, Ruthie Ann Miles, Sandra Oh, Phillipa Soo, Robert G Chiu Rated: 6.5/10

¬here is something so sweet and cute about watching animation especially if it is a fairy tale. There is a reason why even adults love watching them.

The whole idea of seeing a kid believe in fairy tales and living it, makes us relive the same and take us back to times when we were kids and believed in Santa Claus and the idea of an old lady who lives on the Moon and keeps herself busy by spinning. But as adults, we do know that the dark patches on this natural satellite are actually deep craters on its surface.

Over The Moon, is one such magical locations, fantastic sweet fairy tale even though it does borrow a lot from Disney castle, a princess, a side kick and neon colours that covers the entire canvas. But then Disney is the benchmark when it comes to animation and it is no wonder that the makers would want to be as close as they can get to perfection. This lunar adventure has animation, good music and sweet characters. The stark contrast when the protagonist lands on Moon, makes one feel a bit disconcerting but the vibrancy and positive life lesson — family is what matters the most — makes this a must watch especially if one

THE UNBREAKABLE JODI

Sony SAB's widely acclaimed historical fiction show, Tenali Rama, continues to win viewers' hearts by reviving the ancient tales and anecdotes of the legendary scholar and poet Tenali Rama and taking them right into the heart of Raia Krishnadevarava's Viiavanagar. The show continues to gain immense love and support for its engaging and values driven storyline that offers entertainment across all ages in a family.

Talking about the glorious success on television and sharing their experience so far, Krishna Bharadwaj — everyone's beloved Pandit Rama Krishna and Tarun Khanna —

the celebrated king Krishnadevaraya, get candid about their journey so far as artistes

Krishna Bharadwaj, better known as Pandit Rama Krishna since past three and a half years shared key highlights of the journey so far: "I have lived this character for so long that I do not even remember my life before Tenali Rama. Pandit Rama Krishna is a part of me, and I am so glad that I have had the opportunity to adopt all the noteworthy qualities of Rama. This show has given me immense love and support from the fans, and it is indeed a heartwarming feeling when a character succeeds in creating a positive change in someone's life. A lot of fans reach out to me talking about how the show made them smile or helped them cope with difficult times. As an actor, it is really fulfilling."

Tarun, while sharing his views on the reasons behind the success of this show, said: "Since my childhood till now, I have never come across a show that is a total family entertainer and at the same time high on values. Tenali Rama is a show that familiarizes the audience with our Indian culture. In my family my six-year-old son and my 75-year-old father-in-law watch this show together. There are hardly any shows that can bring such distinct age groups together. The characters have been so beautifully and cleverly designed that even a character like Amma who has no dialogues in the show has been loved. The characters are so well rounded and unique that makes him stand out in any situation. This is immense hard work and dedication that has determined the success of this show. Sharing about their experience of working with one another, Krishna said: "I feel Rama and Krishnadevaraya's character are like Lord Krishna and Sudama. Rama practically worships Krishnadevaraya and would do anything for him. So, the chemistry between these two characters are really important for the show. After Tarun's arrival on the show, we never lacked the chemistry. It was there since day one. Adding further, Tarun said, "I was thrilled to be a part of this show as it is fulfilled my childhood dream of being a part of the world of Tenali Rama. Before joining the show, I had not watched any of the episodes and I got the glimpse of Krishna's talent on my first day of the shoot. I have rarely seen artists who have such a stronghold on their language and Krishna is certainly one of

BEATING THE BLUES AWAY

Given the tough past six months that we have spent during the lockdown, the current festive season is giving a whole lot of positive energy to everyone! Last year during this time, we all were excited and in a festive mood spreading cheer all around. In the same way, Sayantani Ghosh who is currently seen as Rasiva in Colors' Barrister Babu & will also be seen in Colors Shandaar Puja. The actress says she feels nostalgic about being away from all the festivities in Kolkota. However, the popular show Barrister Babu and the upcoming two-hour long special segment Shandaar Ravivaar are helping the actress cope up! Sayantani will be seen celebrating Durga Pooja and doing the traditional dance in both the shows. Commenting about the same Sayantani

Ghosh said: "The ambience during Durga Puja in Kolkata is totally different. The festival fever is unmatched and everyone is gripped by the festive fervour. I miss the noise of the dhak (drums) and wearing new clothes. These were yearly rituals for me wherein there used to be one pandal in every single lane in Kolkata! This year, I am feeling a bit sad as I will not be able to go due to COVID-19. Although the flights are open now, I do not want to risk travelling especially because of the current situation as my parents are senior citizens and I do not want to risk their health. In our show the current track is around Durga puja and so is my performance in Shandaar Ravivaar and the atmosphere around is really making me feel more nostalgic. Hopefully next year, by the blessings of Maa Durga, I'll be able to go there!"

'Interesting to play traditional father'

RAJENDRA CHAWLA, who plays Pratap Ratan Bansal in Tera Yaar Hoon Main on Sony SAB, speaks with SHALINI SAKSENA about how tough it was to shoot under the new normal, how this role is different and upcoming projects

■ What is your role in the show?

The show represents three generations — grandfather, father and son. I play Pratap Ratan Bansal who is the eldest in the family. He lives his life according to what he thinks is right doesn't belong to the era where the father is not a friend but someone who needed to be heard when he spoke without being questioned. According to him each relationship is defined and need not be

■ What is the best thing about your character? It is his quirkiness that is interesting. It is not as if he is in a foul mood all the time. However, the other person may think otherwise. He is a fun person to be with. He has fun with this grandson. But he has a grudge. He wanted his grandson to be a cricketer but he could be one. So, Bansal keeps taunting him about this. But he loves his family.

■ Was it tough to go back to shooting after the lockdown opened?

Yes, definitely. Before the show started its shoot, we had a virtual meeting with a doctor. He told us that while on the sets, we must always think that the person in front of us is asymptomatic. He told us that despite all the precautions the production house takes, we must not let our guard down. But doing this was so tough and scary. When we reached the set, the normal was to hug and greet each other. But on the first day, nobody exchanged more than two lines. Each one of us was scared that more conversation will mean a hand on the shoulder and we had to maintain distance. We avoided talking to each other. It will take time to get things back to

■ You have played the role of a father a few times, how is this different?

The first thing is that I have never played a father who is from the 40s and the 50s. Till now, I had played the role of a progressive father. Here I play a traditional father which is interesting. Also, the way I deliver the dialogues is different, language here is different. The character is Marwari. I don't know anything about the accent or how they behave.

■ You have been in the industry for over two decades now. How have things changed?

Back then there were fewer people in the industry but we managed to get things done. Now, there are a lot more people and jobs are defined. Earlier, a

Before the shoot started, we had a virtual meeting with a doctor. He told us that while on the sets, we must always think that the person in front of us is asymptomatic verbal agreement was enough. Now everything has to be done via emails — it has become a corporate set-up now. This could be because there is far more work involved.

■ Does this mean that competition has increased? Yes, there is competition. But it also means that there is much more work in the industry. Many youngsters now don't have to struggle for work. There is theatre, there is TV, there is web and films that offer all kinds of diverse work. There is no dearth of work today. This means one gets to do varied work. Even cinema has changed. This is because the younger generation has access to more information.

■ You have done TV shows and films. How are the two different when it comes to acting? There is no difference. For each platform, be it theatre, TV or films, I have always done my work honestly. The only difference is that in cinema, one gets more time to prepare for the character. The director has time to pay attention to how the character needs to go forward. In TV, this is not possible since the director has little time. So here, I have to be prepared 90 per cent before I reach

■ How did your acting career begin?

It began with Marathi theatre. I met Satish Kaushik and ended up doing more theatre. In time, I ended up with a Marathi serial. Since I didn't have any Godfather my previous work propelled me further. Wherever I am today, is due to the people I met in my work and I am grateful to them for it. ■ What are your future plans?

I am working on two shows. One, of course, Tera Yaar Hoon Main and the other is Mere Dad Ki Dulhan on Sony Entertainment Television. In between, if I get a film, I will do that as well. Also, I love to work with newage directors. Working on web series doesn't involve too much time since they are finite.

BREAKING THE GLASS

Best possible anchors

I was born to two very amazing people. My father, Anil Kamineni, is one of the calmest people that one can meet. Whenever I faced a crisis in my life, my father was the first person I would go to. I remember even when I was a kid; he would be my go-to person, whenever I faced any challenge. He listens carefully to the issue at hand and always gives very precise answers. cise answers.

My mother, on the other hand, is fiercely protective of me and my sister. She is always looking out for us, making sure that we are fine.

First-hand experience

I remember that I was still in school when the Apollo, Delhi, was being built. That meant that we had to move across the country quite a bit. I feel really blessed that it happened because I got to learn so much from this. I studied for a while in Jaipur, and though I couldn't keep in touch with my friends from there back then, the experience taught me immensely about dealing with people and understanding them.

Family kept me grounded

I come from an elite background, but my family always kept me grounded. When I was a child, I remember my grandfather teaching me and my sister how important it is to value money and understand how it impacts people's lives.

He taught me many things, but the one thing that he said that remains with me always is:"Upasana, you were born in this family for a reason. And that reason is not to enjoy the luxuries of life alone. You should work hard to be able to give back to society. Do something that will help people always". I made his words my mantra.

Money-wise

assume that since I was from a well-to-do family, I was given everything. But that is not the case. Yes, both of us - I and my sister - were pampered. But we were far from being spoilt. In fact, till I was in school I wasn't given any pocket money. My mother would pack lunch for me. My father owns Prime Time, a gaming parlour. So, when we wanted to, he would take us there. But, we never got any pocket money till the time we were in college.

And frankly, even when I went abroad to study, my father kept me on a strict monthly budget and there was no extra money if I wanted to buy something

My father once told me that money remains with people who value it. The impact of it is that even today, I think twice before splurging, because the wealth might be mine, but the resources are not.

Always been very ambitious

To be honest, I wasn't very good at studies. In fact, I could never understand why we were asked to mug up the answers. I would only write what I believed in. In school, when teachers would ask me questions, my answers wouldn't be bookish as I would say what I saw and understand from what's happening around us. Many didn't like that. But I guess I was always a person of my own mind and learnt quickly from what's happening around me, rather than from books.

However, I was very ambitious. In fact, I started working even before I finished my education. But my dad wanted me to give importance to my education

I remember, when I was studying abroad, I just wanted to finish my courses as soon as possible so that I could come back home and start working here.

Special connection with London

After I finished my schooling from Hyderabad Public School and Mayo College Girls' School, Jaipur I came back to Hyderabad and completed my Intermediate at the Villa Marie College.

I then moved to the USA, where I pursued my Bachelor of Arts from the University of Pennsylvania. But that was a tough phase for me. I had grown up in a city and to be in a town was something of a challenge. I didn't like being there at all.

So, I pursued my Master's in Global Marketing and Management from Regent's University, London. I just fell in love with London. It is one of the most beautiful places in the world, and to my good fortune, I even stayed at this amazing place in Central London.

But, what truly makes London special for me is that it was the starting point of my transformative journey. I started being more fitness conscious and living a healthier life. When I started exercising and outdoor activities, I could have hired any top fitness trainer as I came from a well-to-do family. But, like I mentioned, since childhood I was kept on a strict monthly bud-

Even when I was in London, I had a set amount of money each month that I could spend the way I wanted to live. So, making sure that I never overspent, I didn't hire an expensive trainer. That was a learning experience, to live a good life on and touch a budget. And London helped me under- amazing.

stand how in practicality I can make the best out of the resources available to me.

Social media impact

My work and life are really fun, so I don't as such have any hobbies. But of late, I think as such have any hobbies. But of late, I think I have made social media my hobby. It's all about following the right people. I have been following some really interesting people and that helps me improve the kind of lifestyle that I have and stay positive.

For example, some time back, while I was on Instagram, I got inspired how to dispose of the trash I generate in a correct way so it doesn't harm the environment. There are many who are talking about eating healthy, so that's another thing that I have started following.

In fact, some time back I was editing an article for Samantha and that inspired me to reduce my meat intake. That had a huge impact on my food budget for the month, and also my health.

Charming Charan

I and Charan have been friends for a long time. When I came back to Hyderabad after studying at so many places across the globe, it was refreshing to meet someone who was so forward thinking. He was very respectful and dignified, and I liked that the most.

I am a very private person, and don't reveal much about my personal life. But I would like to share that what I really adore about Charan is the fact that he pays attention to the smaller details and leaves a big impact. He is very sensitive about every-

A big foodie

I am in a beautiful relation with food now, not just a foodie. My weight fluctuation shows how much I love food. In fact, I was earlier in an abusive relation with food, where I would eat whenever I was upset. But I have made peace with it So I eat in moderation. I am not so much into heavy dishes like biryani any more, since I am very keen on my fitness. However I love to eat healthy.

For me cooking is a stress buster; I cook every day. I keep trying newer, healthier recipes. Like I make burgers at home, but instead of breads, I use lettuce leaves.

Charan has a very different relationship with food. He loves to eat predominantly Indian food; it's only when he is shooting that he eats a local grown salad or something. He cooks as well, but his focus is all about how the food is presented. He eats with all his senses him the food has to taste.

Upasana Kamineni Konidela is not someone who would rest on her laurels, nor on the fact that she was born with the proverbial silver spoon. Being the daughter of wellknown businessman Anil Kamineni and wife of superstar Ram Charan is only one facet of Upasana's life; she is one of the most successful businesswomen of India today. Having had the opportunity to look at life from a perspective different from that of the average Indian, by virtue of studying at different places, Upasana believes that if one is born in a privileged family, it is important that one gives back to society. In a candid chat with The Pioneer, Upasana talks to Namrata Srivastava

Ram Charan and Upasana

Favourite colour: Presently Comfort food: I love nachos

Favourite actor: Mindy Kylie. I really love her, she is absolutely amazing. I actually enjoy watching Trump on TV too. I can't vote or do anything, but I enjoy his talks. Favourite movie: I like a lot of movies. But since the pandemic, I have started watching a lot of these web series. Currently I am

RAPID FIRE hooked to Ramanand Sagar's Ramayan, which brings back a lot of childhood memories. Favourite holiday destination: Of course I love England, so vacation there anytime is fun. But one place that I haven't visited and would want to go is Araku Valley. One mantra for a successful business: If you are sure about your ideas, go ahead. Be confident and prepared for any eventuality.
