Congress leader Rahul Gandhi is being jostled by the Uttar Pradesh (UP) police when he was on his way to Hathras to meet the victim’s family. Rahul Gandhi is a close relative of the deceased.

However, Rahul Gandhi was not the only one jostled. His sister Priyanka Gandhi Vadra was also jostled by the police, though she did not fall like Rahul. Priyanka Gandhi was also on her way to Hathras to meet the victim’s family.

The Congress leaders met the victim’s family and talked to them about the case. They also talked to the police and asked them to stop jostling the leaders. The police did not stop and continued to jostle Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi.

Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi were jostled for several minutes. During this time, Rahul Gandhi fell to the ground and injured himself. Priyanka Gandhi was also injured.

The Congress leaders immediately rushed to help Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi. They asked the police to stop jostling them. The police did not stop and continued to jostle them.

Finally, the police took Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi to the hospital. The hospital staff examined them and found that they were injured. The police then released Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi.

The Congress leaders are angry with the police for jostling them. They have said that the police should stop jostling them and let them do their work.

The police have said that they were only doing their job and were trying to protect the leaders. They have said that they will continue to jostle the leaders if they try to jostle them.
Coronavirus death prevention in TN and AP with high-speed body heat detection

In contrast to general perceptions, says young TN and AP health officials, both Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh have prepared detailed view into contra-urban transport pathways and safety as high-speed incursions

The transmission of Covid-19 involves a chain of events. The virus replicates in the nasal passages and eventually enters the lungs. This process is facilitated by the small particles exhaled by an infected person. If an uninfected person inhales the exhaled air containing the virus, the virus can then enter their body and infect them.

To prevent the spread of the virus, efforts have been made to identify and isolate infected individuals. This is achieved through contact tracing, which involves identifying people who have been in close contact with someone who has tested positive for Covid-19. These individuals are then monitored for symptoms and, if necessary, tested themselves.

In addition to contact tracing, other preventive measures include the use of masks, hand sanitizers, and physical distancing. These measures help reduce the number of opportunities for the virus to spread from person to person.

Despite these efforts, the virus continues to spread in certain areas. This highlights the importance of ongoing surveillance and adherence to preventive measures to control the outbreak.

Telangana Pradesh Congress Committee (TPCC) president, and MP Harish Rao demanded Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao to convene a special session of the Legislative Assembly to table the arson attack cases and government failure against the three new ‘anti-Telangana’ bills introduced by the BJP government at the Centre. The TPCC president also demanded Chief Minister to pass new laws in the coming Winter session of the Legislative Assembly to overcome the crisis.

Addressing a press conference on Thursday, 2020, at 10 am, TRS government has dedicated its functionaries in the by-elections to Dubbaka, Toguta, Mirdoddi, Dommata Assembly constituencies to ensure that they will vote for TRS' candidate in the ensuing by-elections. However, it is very likely that the rural voters in the constituency are in favour of TRS, the TPCC president informed.

Addressing a press conference here on Thursday, Daggubaty Narayana Reddy informed that they would participate. On the other hand, the opposition parties, both in the TRS and NDA camps, are demanding withdrawal of the controversial Telangana bills in the state assembly.

India needs the implementation of the new National Education Policy of 2020, which has been passed, but is yet to be implemented widely. The new policy is a step towards creating a holistic educational system that focuses on the development of the whole child, including their mental and physical well-being. It aims to provide equal opportunities for all students, regardless of their background, and to ensure that they are equipped with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in the 21st century.

The policy also aims to promote innovation and creativity in education, which is essential for sustainable development. The new policy also seeks to address the issue of access to education, with a focus on alleviating poverty and inequality. It aims to provide free and compulsory education to all children aged between 6 and 14, and to ensure that every child has access to basic education.

The policy also recognizes the importance of teacher training and professional development, and provides for the establishment of a national council for teacher education. It aims to improve the quality of education by strengthening teacher training and professional development, and by ensuring that teachers are well-prepared and well-equipped to deliver quality education.

The policy also seeks to promote research and innovation in education, and to encourage collaboration between educational institutions and the private sector. It aims to create a knowledge-based society that is innovative, competitive, and capable of addressing the challenges of the 21st century.

The policy also recognizes the importance of technology in education, and provides for the use of technology to enhance learning and teaching. It aims to create a learning environment that is open, flexible, and responsive to the needs of learners, and that promotes the development of critical thinking, creativity, and innovation.

In conclusion, the new National Education Policy of 2020 is a comprehensive and ambitious plan that seeks to address the challenges of education in India. It recognizes the importance of education in promoting sustainable development, and aims to create a knowledge-based society that is innovative, competitive, and capable of addressing the challenges of the 21st century.
It can’t be business as usual if Earth is our spaceship

The UN’s Global Biodiversity Outlook 5 offers insights on what to do before we reach a point of no return

By CHIDAMBARAM

The Global Biodiversity Outlook 5, released in November, is clear: we are on course for a depopulation catastrophe. Earth is on a collision course with a mass extinction event. Our species faces a 66% chance of extinction over the next 100 years. The report states that 68% of biodiversity has been lost since 1700. We are in an emergency of unparalleled speed and scale. We risk losing the foundation of our economies, our health, food, water, and economies. The health of the planet is the base layer of all human existence.

This is not a theoretical concern. It is a matter of life and death for billions. The collapse of natural ecosystems leads to the failure of food supplies, clean water, and clean air. It also increases the risk of diseases like COVID-19. We need to act now to save our planet and ourselves.

The report highlights that we need to urgently and substantially reduce our impact on the planet. We need to protect and restore ecosystems, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and address the root causes of biodiversity loss. We need to listen to nature and act now.

It’s time to take action. Our health, prosperity, and survival depend on it.

Fashion isn’t the same now, there is an evolved version of it! We all have a good chuckle at the idea of fashion in the eighties, haven’t we? Anna Sui, one of America’s most recognised fashion designers once famously said, “To me, fashion is like a mirror. It’s a reflection of the times and if it doesn’t reflect the times, it’s not fashion because people aren’t gonna be wearing it.” Designers across India agree to the statement, as they speak to The Pioneer’s SHIKHA DUGGAL about fashion being a representation of society itself.
