Protest against farm laws rages on

Normal life affected in Punjab, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, TN, Bihar, Karnataka, Telangana

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

Thousands of protesting farmers spilled on the streets in several parts of the country hitting normal life and rail and road traffic in a big way as part of their "Bharat bandh" protest against the farm bills.

Massive protests were seen in parts of Punjab, Haryana, Bengaluru, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Telangana, etc.

After holding separate protests, farmers under the banners Bharti Kisan Union, Krantikari, Kirti Kisan Union, Bharatiya Kisan Union (Ekta Ugrahan), Kisan Mazdoor Sangharsh Committee and BKU (Lakhowal) with support of political parties, including the Congress, the RJD and the Trinamool Congress, as well as 10 central trade unions blocked highways, railway tracks, disrupted traffic and brought life to a standstill in several parts of the country.

According to reports, farmers blocked highways which include Chandigarh-Delhi, Amritsar Delhi, Delhi-Dehradun, Ayodhya Lucknow, B a g h p a t - B a d a y u n, Bommanahalli on Karnataka-Tamil Nadu highway. Meanwhile, farmers from Punjab have extended the rail roko agitation till September 29.

In Punjab, agitating farmers blocked roads, including highways. Road blockades caused hardships to commuters in both States and life to a standstill in Bathinda, Jalandhar, Patiala, Moga, Ferozepur, Fazilka, Barnala, Faridkot, Muktsar, Mansa, Bathinda and other districts of Malwa belt.

Farmers accompanied by their family members, including mothers, wives and daughters converged in large numbers at various places in Amritsar, Ferozepur, Barnala and staged sit-in and held demonstrations at all the entry points. Shops, commercial establishments and vegetable markets at many places remained shut. Shopkeepers have been appealed to keep their shops shut in support of farmers. Buses of the State-owned Pepsu Road Transport Corporation (PRTC) remained off-road. The supply of essential commodities was hit badly across Punjab. The supply of milk was also partially affected in many areas.

In Muktsar, SAD chief Sukhbir Singh Badal led a tractor march from his Badal village residence. While he drove the tractor, wife and former Union Minister Harsimrat Kaur Badal sat beside him. Sukhbir led a tractor march from his residence in Badal village to Lambi. Prominent Punjabi singers, including Harbhajan Mann and Ranjit Bawa, took part in a farmers' protest in Nabha. Farmers at several places in the State started gathering on roads to stop the movement of traffic. Women protesters under the banner of the Kisan Mazdoor Sangharsh Committee took out a protest march in Amritsar.

A 33-second video shot on the Amritsar-Pathankot highway shows some protesters making way for an ambulance. A group of protesters, holding placards, clear up the road as the ambulance followed by a car move ahead. Some of the farmers are seen sitting on a tractor, while some trucks are blocking the road. In Barnala, a tractor was set on fire by protesters against the farm Bills.

Punjab farmers blocked the Sangrur-Patiala, Chandigarh-Bathinda and Ambala-Rajpura-Ludhiana and Moga-Ferozepur roads. In Patiala, essential supplies, including milk and poultry supply, were hit as farmers held blockades on roads leading to the city. Hundreds of farmers held a protest and blocked the Sangrur-Patiala highway. In Moga, farmers blocked the rail and road traffic on the national highway at Dagru village on the border of Moga and Ferozepur districts.

Meanwhile, Haryana farmers blocked the Rohtak-Jhajjar road. Farmers held protests at several places, including Rewari and Yamunanagar.

Modi urges BJP cadre to create awareness on new laws for kisan, labourers

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

On day the farmers called for a Bharat bandh to protest the Modi Government's farm sector legislations, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday exhorted the BJP workers to create awareness about the Government's enactments of the new laws and "authentic efforts" made by it for the betterment of the lives of farmers and labourers.

The Prime Minister said the BJP has fulfilled its "major promises" including that on Article 370 and construction of "Ram temple" at Ayodhya.

Addressing BJP workers and leaders through video conference on the day of the birth anniversary of the party ideologue Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyaya, the Prime Minister listed progressive laws passed by the Government to improve the lives of farmers, labourers and those in the footpath market "Rehri-patri wale". They have been aligned with the banking system, "receiving loan, salary or pension", he said.

He drew the attention of the BJP workers and leaders to the New Education Policy (NEP) which has been brought out after 30 years and asked them to organise meets of five to seven days to analyse NEP and the benefits which could be drawn from it with educated people.

Remembering Upadhyaya, Modi said post-Independence when the country was trying to adopt foreign model of development, the late leader stressed on the indigenous way of economic, social, and cultural development.

Bihar polls in 3 phases from October 28

Counting on Nov 10

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Election Commission of India on Friday announced that elections for 243 Assembly seats in Bihar will take place in three phases — first on October 28, second on November 3 and the third on November 7 — while counting of all votes will take place on November 10.

The EC announced the poll schedule rejecting the demand for postponement of the polls by political parties due to coronavirus pandemic and flood in the State.

The Assembly polls in Bihar will be the biggest voting exercise in the world to be held in the time of coronavirus. There will be an extra voting hour, separate voting for Covid patients, suspects and those in quarantine, and no physical contact during the campaign.

With this announcement, the Model Code of Conduct comes into force in the State. Bihar's 243-member Assembly is set to expire on November 29, 2020.

However, the dates for by-polls to 64 Assembly constituencies and one parliamentary seat will be announced next week on Tuesday (September 29), after the EC reviews the objections of some States to the timing of the polls.

The Bihar Assembly elections are crucial for the BJP as it has suffered electoral setbacks after retaining power at the Centre with a bigger majority in 2019. It was unable to form the Government in Maharashtra despite emerging as the single largest party following disagreements with its oldest ally, Shiv Sena, over power-sharing.

Antibodies that lead to passive Covid-19 vaccine identified

PTI ■ BERLIN

Scientists have identified highly effective antibodies against the novel coronavirus, which they say can lead to the development of a passive vaccination for Covid-19.

Unlike in active vaccination, passive vaccination involves the administration of ready-made antibodies, which are degraded after some time.

However, the effect of a passive vaccination is almost immediate, whereas with an active vaccination it has to build up first, the researchers said. The research, published in the journal Cell, also shows that some SARS-CoV-2 antibodies bind to tissue samples from various organs, which could potentially trigger undesired side effects.

The scientists at the German Center for Neurodegenerative Diseases (DZNE) and Charité - Universitätsmedizin Berlin isolated almost 600 different antibodies from the blood of individuals who had overcome Covid-19, the disease triggered by SARS-CoV-2. By means of laboratory tests, they were able to narrow this number down to a few antibodies that were particularly effective at binding to the virus.

The researchers then produced these antibodies artificially using cell cultures.

The so-called neutralising antibodies bind to the virus, as crystallographic analysis reveals, and thus prevent the pathogen from entering cells and reproducing, they said.

In addition, virus recognition by antibodies helps immune cells to eliminate the pathogen. Studies in hamsters — which, like humans, are susceptible to infection by SARS-CoV-2 — confirmed the high efficacy of the selected antibodies.

Celebrated playback singer Balasubrahmanyam passes away after fighting Covid

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

SP Balasubrahmanyam, a legendary playback singer, music director, actor, dubbing artist, and film producer, is no more. The 74-year-old maestro breathed his last at a corporate hospital in Chennai at 1.04 pm on Friday.

SPB, as he was known among friends and fans, was admitted to the city's MGM Hospital on August 5 when he was diagnosed with Covid-19. He was later put on ventilator and ECMO. After days, SPB's condition became stable and he was looking forward to getting discharged from the hospital to watch the IPL matches.

But by Thursday evening his condition deteriorated and after a 12-hour fight with the pandemic, the singer, who rendered more than 40,000 songs in 16 languages, succumbed to the condition.

Balasubrahmanyam is survived by his wife, son, and daughter. "Humility personified" that was how the film world and music lovers described SPB who was a recipient of Padma Shri and Padma Bhushan awards.

NCB grills Rakul, Deepika's manager Deepika to be questioned today, her manager summoned once again

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

A day ahead of its much-discussed questioning of actress Deepika Padkone, the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) grilled actress Rakul Preet Singh and Deepika's manager Karishma Prakash in connection with the Sushant death-related drug case and expanded Bollywood-drug nexus case.

A day after she had sought time to appear before the NCB for questioning, Rakul recorded her statement under the Section 67 in the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985.

Karishma, whose deposition will have a bearing on the involvement or otherwise of Deepika in matters relating to procurement and usage of drugs, has been summoned once again by the NCB on Saturday for questioning.

"Today Rakul Preet and Karishma joined the investigation. Karishma has been called again tomorrow," NCB's Deputy Director (Operations)

KPS Malhotra said.

Given that the NCB has already confirmed that she will join the investigations, it is certain Deepika would be questioned by the investigating agency on Saturday.

Over the past couple of days, there has been a considerable build-up in the electronic media for Deepika's questioning scheduled for Saturday. On her part, the "Padmavat" actress has maintained stoic silence over the intense speculation in the media about her alleged link to the drugs.

However, notwithstanding the eagerness of a section of the electronic media to see them in the dock, it was not clear till the evening as to when two other actresses Sara Ali Khan and Shradha Kapoor would join the investigations on Saturday.

Vodafone wins retro tax fight against India at arbitration tribunal

Legal remedies, other options open, says Govt

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

British telecom giant Vodafone Group plc on Friday won an arbitration against the Indian Government over a demand for ₹22,100 crore in taxes using retrospective legislation.

An international arbitration tribunal ruled that India's demand in past taxes was in breach of fair treatment under a bilateral investment protection pact.

"Vodafone confirms that the investment treaty tribunal found in Vodafone's favour," the British firm said in a statement. "This was a unanimous decision, including India's appointed arbitrator Rodrigo Oreamuno. The tribunal held that any attempt by India to enforce the tax demand would be a violation of India's international law obligations."

Reacting to it, the Government on Friday said it will consider all options, including legal remedies, with regard to Vodafone arbitration case.

The Government of India's liability will be restricted to about ₹75 crore — ₹30 crore in cost and another ₹45 crore in tax refund, sources with direct knowledge of the matter said.

As per the award, the government has to reimburse Vodafone 60 per cent of its legal costs and half of the 6,000 Euros cost borne by Vodafone for appointing an arbitrator on the panel.

The arbitration tribunal said India's "conduct in respect of the imposition" of tax demand on Vodafone "notwithstanding the Supreme Court judgment is in breach of the guarantee of fair and equitable treatment" in the bilateral investment protection treaty.

The bus crossed the footpath towards left side and hit a truck and later hit an eggs cart, he said.

The bus driver managed to escape from the spot. After the incident, the locals gathered at the spot and vandalised the bus.

SHOPIAN CASE

DNA of 3 labourers killed in encounter matches with family members

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

The Jammu & Kashmir police on Friday confirmed that the three labourers killed in an encounter in Amshipora area of Shopian on July 18, 2020 were related to the three families from Rajouri after they received confirmatory reports of their DNA matching.

The said operation had come under the scanner after three Rajouri-based families lodged a missing report on August 10 at police post Peeru in Kotranka tehsil claiming they were not in touch with their children, who had gone to Shopian to earn their livelihood, since July 17, 2020.

Subsequently, a team of police officers from Srinagar were deputed to Rajouri to collect DNA samples of parents of missing youth in Rajouri on August 13 in order to establish the identity of those killed in an encounter in Amshipora. Addressing a press conference in Srinagar Inspector General of police, Kashmir range Vijay Kumar said, “DNA sample results of the three families of Rajouri have matched those killed in Amshipora of Shopian. We will now take further course of action and complete the remaining formalities”.

When asked whether those killed in the operation were involved in any terror related activities, IGP claimed, “now we have received DNA reports we will immediately start investigations in the case”. Earlier, on September 18, an independent probe ordered by the Indian army had also established that the Shopian operation contravened the dos and don’ts of the Chief of Army Staff approved by the Supreme Court and exceeded the powers vested under the Armed Forces

Special Powers Act (AFSPA). Meanwhile, a Special Investigation Team (SIT) has been constituted by the Jammu and Kashmir police to probe the killing of an advocate and TV panelist Babar Qadri, killed late Thursday evening in cold blood inside his home in Hawal area of Srinagar. Advocate Babar Qadri was not a protected person but he had raised serious security concerns on his social media pages.

“A special investigation team has been constituted to probe the incident. It will be headed by Superintendent of Police, Hazratbal”, IG Kashmir told reporters during the press briefing. Sharing details of the incident, Inspector General of Police said, “at around 6:20 p.m on Thursday two masked men entered into his Hawal, Srinagar residence as clients with files in their hands. They told Qadri that they had to discuss some accident-related case. He said the dup occupied the chairs and when Qadri came downstairs they fired from a close range with pistols. Qadri sustained four bullet wounds in his head and died on the way to hospital”, he said. The ‘unidentified’ gunmen also fired a few bullets in the air, he said.

“We have seen the CCTV footage of a video camera installed in the area.

He said, “I have directed the SIT team to immediately identify the terrorists responsible for his killing so that they can be arrested or neutralised soon”. IG also claimed, a close relative of Qadri had also told him to shift to a safer location but he refused to shift out from his residence. He said, if he had directly approached the police authorities he would have been shifted to a safer place.

ED attaches...

The CBI FIR disclosed that during April to June, 2018, Yes Bank Limited had invested Rs 3,700 crore in the short term debentures of DHFL. Simultaneously, Kapil Wadhawan of DHFL paid kick-back of Rs. 600 crore to Rana Kapoor and his family members in the garb of loan of Rs 600 crore (given by DHFL) to DOIT Urban Ventures (India) Pvt. Ltd (Rana Kapoor Group Company).

In addition, Yes Bank had also sanctioned a loan of Rs 750 crore to RKW Developers, a Group company of DHFL beneficially owned by Kapil Wadhawan, Dheeraj Wadhawan and their family members. The said loan of Rs 750 crore had been sanctioned to them for their Bandra Reclamation Project, Mumbai, but the whole amount was siphoned off by Kapil Wadhawan and Dheeraj Wadhawan through their shell companies.

Rana Kapoor, Kapil Wadhawan and Dheeraj Wadhawan were arrested by ED for their role in money laundering and are currently undergoing judicial custody.

Including the latest attachment of assets worth Rs 127 crore, the total seizures under PMLA in this case stands at Rs 2,011 crore. Among these attachments proceeds of crime amounting to Rs 600 crore belong to Rana Kapoor and the remaining attached assets worth Rs 1,411 crore are related to Wadhawan brothers. Prosecution complaints (charge-sheets) have been filed against Rana Kapoor, Kapil Wadhawan, Dheeraj Wadhawan and others. In another separate PMLA case, the ED has also attached an asset amounting to Rs 307 crore of Rana Kapoor. Investigation is on, the agency added.

Vodafone wins retro tax...

Vodafone had before the arbitration tribunal challenged India’s usage of a 2012 legislation that gave it powers to retrospectively tax deals like Vodafone’s USD 11 billion acquisition of 67 per cent stake in the mobile phone business owned by Hutchison Whampoa in 2007.

It challenged the demand of Rs 7,990 crore in capital gains taxes (Rs 22,100 crore after including interest and penalty) under the Netherlands-India Bilateral Investment Treaty (BIT). Sources said the tax demand was on the UK-listed company and Vodafone’s India venture faced no liability.

Vodafone merged its India operations with billionaire Kumar Mangalam Birla’s conglomerate but the combined entity Vodafone Idea Ltd is facing a USD 7.8 billion bill in past statutory dues.

Tax authorities had in September 2007 served notice to Vodafone International Holdings BV (VIHBV) for its alleged failure to deduct withholding tax from consideration paid to the Hutchison Telecommunications International Ltd.

Vodafone challenged this in the Supreme Court, which in January 2012 set it aside, saying the transaction was not taxable in India and so the company had no obligation to withhold tax.

In May that year, Parliament passed the Finance Act 2012 that amended various provisions of the Income Tax Act 1961 with retrospective effect to tax any gain on transfer of shares in a non-Indian company which derives substantial value from underlying Indian assets.

The company was in January 2013 served a tax notice of Rs 14,200 crore after including interest on the principal amount. A year later, Vodafone challenged the tax demand under the Dutch BIT.

Sources said the company in April 2014 served the notice of arbitration after out-of-court dispute resolution talks failed. The tax department in February 2016 served a demand notice of Rs 22,100 crore, including interest accruing since the date of the original demand.

Vodafone has always maintained that there is no liability and that it will “continue to defend vigorously any allegation that VIHBV or Vodafone India Ltd is liable to pay tax in connection with the transaction with Hutchison and will continue to exercise all rights to seek redress”.

Besides Vodafone, the Indian Government also used the retrospective tax legislation to seek Rs 10,247 crore from British oil explorer Cairn Energy Plc over a 2006 reorganisation of its Indian businesses.

Protest against farm...

But, the protesting farmers got a mixed response in cities as most of the shops in cities like Karnal, Kurukshetra, Panipat and Kaithal remained open even as the farmers took out protest marches and requested the shopkeepers to support their agitation.

Farmers from NCR area blocked the Delhi-Noida expressway for over three hours. About hundreds of farmers gathered on a key road in Noida prompting deployment of police in riot gear that kept them from proceeding towards Delhi. In parts of Uttar Pradesh, farmers blocked the Ayodhya-Lucknow highway for several hours.

Farmers also blocked the Delhi-Meerut highway in Modinagar near Ghaziabad. Farmers from the State’s Kheri district have also gathered in protest. BKU leaders have blocked the Baghatp’s Badayun road. Another clip from UP’s Hapur shows a large number of farmers helping an ambulance find its way through the crowd.

In the poll bound State Bihar, Tejashwi Yadav drove a tractor while his brother - Tej Pratap Yadav - sat atop it in Patna. The video is now doing the rounds on social media. The “tractor march” started from Tejashwi’s official residence located behind Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar’s residence on Anne Marg in Patna. In violation of coronavirus-related guidelines like social distancing, a huge number of protesters then proceeded towards the Governor’s House. They were stopped by the Bihar Police briefly for security reasons. However, permission was later granted to them to move towards Bailey Road.

The “tractor march” was scheduled to take a round of the Income Tax roundabout, Dak Bungalow Chowk and end at the RJD office on Veerchand Patel Road. In the wake of the march, normal traffic was badly hit in Patna, especially on Bailey Road. RJD workers Darbhanga took out protest while riding buffaloes.

In the south, members of the Karnataka State Farmers’ Association held a protest near Bommanahalli on the Karnataka-Tamil Nadu highway. Around 250 farmers have been taken into preventive custody at Mysore Bank Circle in Bengaluru. In Tamil Nadu, farmers from the National South Indian River Interlinking Farmers’ Association protested in Trichy with human skulls, chained hands and nooses tied around their necks.

In West Bengal, members of farmers’ bodies loyal to the Left parties staged protests in various parts of State. CPI (M) farmers wing, “Sara Bharat Krishak Sabha” and those of other Left partners such as CPI, Forward Bloc and RSP took out rallies in the districts and blocked roads for some time.

Celebrated...

It was the songs he rendered for Sankarabharanam which made him a household name in the country. In a career spanning five decades, SPB was honoured with six national awards for some of the best songs in Telugu, Hindi, Kannada and Tamil. SPB’s song ‘Tere Mere Beech Mein in Ek Duuje Ke Liye remained a chartbuster for years. In addition to being a singer ‘Baal’, was also a music director, actor and a dubbing artist.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed his grief over the demise of the singer. “With the unfortunate demise of Shri SP Balasubrahmanyam our cultural world is a lot poorer. A household name across India, his melodious voice and music enthralled audiences for decades. In this hour of grief, my thoughts are with his family and admirers. Om Shanti”, the Prime Minister said in his message.

Kolahala Srenivaas, author and journalist, remembered how M G Ramachandran who wanted SPB to sing for him in the movie Adimai Pen pushed the recording for 15 days as the singer was down with typhoid on the day the song was to be recorded.

“It was SPB’s first song in Tamil. When others suggested to MGR to change the singer, the then superstar was unwillingly citing that he was an aspiring youngster who would have informed his family and friends about the opportunity and would feel humiliated if his name doesn’t feature in the credits. He went on to recover and sang Aayiram Nilave Vaa, his very first song in Tamil, which become a massive hit” reminisced Srenivaas.

What stands out in the story of SPB is that he was from Nellore in Andhra Pradesh who spoke Telugu, but he made it big in Tamil too.

R Rangaraj, MD, Music Durbar, and president, Chennai 2000 Plus Trust, remembers SP Balasubramaniam as unique in many respects.

Rangraj told The Pioneer that initially M S Viswanathan asked him to improve his pronunciation in Tamil, which he did. After two years, MSV gave him his first song in Santhi Nilaiyam called Iyarkai Ennum.

But it was MGR who gave him the first break in Adimai Pen , Aayiram Nilave Vaa, composed by KV Mahadevan. He went on to sing over 40,000 songs in 16 languages, with his combination with maestro Ilayaraja taking Tamil, Telugu and Kannada film music to great heights.

Though initially, he had not formally learned Carnatic music, he did undergo intensive Carnatic lessons under Pugazhendhi, a Malayalee, assistant of KV Mahadevan. Though he hailed from AP, he made Chennai his home. He bought a house and built a studio in Chennai and brought up his family in Chennai.

“Popular in the south India as well as in the north and west, SPB was quick to grasp tunes, sing without wavering from shruthi, and could sing all types of songs, whether western, classical, or folk. His affable temperament ensured that all music directors and co-singers liked him. His songs will live on” says Rangraj.

Very few people know that are particularly promising for clinical development,” explained Harald Pruss, a research group leader at the DZNE and also a senior physician at Charite – Universitätsmedizin Berlin.

“Using these antibodies, we have started to develop a passive vaccination against SARS-CoV-2” Pruss said.

In addition to the treatment of patients, preventive protection of healthy individuals who have had contact with infected persons is also a potential application, the researchers said. How long the protection lasts will have to be investigated in clinical studies, they said.

“This is because, unlike in active vaccination, passive vaccination involves the administration of ready-made antibodies, which are degraded after some time,” Pruss said. In general, the protection provided by a passive vaccination is less persistent than that provided by an active vaccination, the researchers said.

SPB was keen chess lover and was first to sponsor former world chess champion V Anand. “Really sad to hear about the passing away of such a great yet simple person. He was my first sponsor! He sponsored our team Chennai Colts (then Madras Colts) in the national team championship in 1983. One of the nicest persons I have met. His music gave us such joy #RIPSPB” Anand said in a tweet expressing grief on the demise of the famed singer.

Lodge FIR on plaint against morphed video of Kejriwal: Delhi court to police

NEW DELHI: A court has directed Delhi Police to register an FIR on a complaint over a morphed video of Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal allegedly singing an obscene song, saying its tone and manner lowers his reputation and addresses the public in an abusive manner.

Metropolitan Magistrate Kishor Kumar directed the Station House Officer (SHO) of Paschim Vihar Police Station to lodge an FIR on the basis of the complaint filed by an advocate within one week.

It further directed the police to file a compliance report by December 2. The complaint filed by advocate Amit Sahni, claimed that after the result of Delhi Vidhan Sabha Election on February 12, 2020, a video was uploaded on Youtube in which Kejriwal has been shown singing an obscene song.

The court said in its order passed on September 24, "In the video in question, the tone and manner of the song was not only lowering the reputation of a constitutionally elected Chief Minister but it was also addressing public/voters in abusive manner who have exercised their constitutional/electoral rights while voting for Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) for the purpose of electing Arvind Kejriwal as the Chief Minister of Delhi."

"I find there is prima facie cognisable case having been disclosed by the complainant on the basis of the CD in question in which Arvind Kejriwal as the Chief Minister of Delhi is shown singing...Under section 294 (obscene acts and songs) of IPC (Indian Penal Code) read with 67 (lascivious content) of Information Technology Act," the judge said.

An Action Taken Report was filed by the police stating that the video in question does not attract any cognisable offence as there was nothing obscene.

According to the complaint, offences under section

294 IPC and under section 67 of Information Technology Act are made out.

Sahni said that the alleged abusive content was degrading constitutionally elected Chief Minister and such content was being circulated further to public at large which would create a negative impact on kids, who were unable to understand the manner in which it was morphed and shown that the Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal was using abusive content, while addressing public.

"The video was uploaded on February 12,2020, and the result of Delhi Vidhan Sabha Election was announced on January 11, 2020, with the sole object of degrading the constitutionally elected Chief Minister in a manner which is detrimental for the kids, who cannot understand that it is not the Chief Minister but the video is morphed ulterior motives," he claimed in his complaint.

Duty magistrate's presence must during raids under NDPS Act in Gurugram

STAFF REPORTER ■ GURUGRAM

To ensure maximum cradle in the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) cases in Gurugram, the presence of a gazetted officer/duty magistrate has been made mandatory in raids conducted in NDPS cases or arrests of criminals.

In this regard recently, a high level meeting with the officials of the concerned departments (duty magistrates) was held regarding the cradle of the NDPS Act and gave them necessary directions.

During the meeting, the names of 17 such gazetted officers/duty magistrates were listed in the district, which will cooperate with the police personnel in the raiding process.

A senior police official said that the officers should take the raids of the NDPS Act seriously and be available on time when required.

"In most of the cases under the NDPS Act, the culprits were acquitted by the court due to lack of evidence.

Now, the presence of a duty magistrate makes the process of raids transparent. With their presence the suspects will be searched or arrested related with the Act. Also, a list of selected officers has been given to the DCP (head-quarter), of Gurugram police," he added.

Religare Finvest case: 2 Bank officials held for diverting ₹729 crore

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The Economic Offences Wing (EOW) of Delhi Police has nabbed two former employees of a bank for misappropriation of fixed deposit receipts of 'Religare Finvest Limited' company by Malvinder and Shivinder Mohan Singh to the tune of Rs 729 crores.

The accused have been identified as Pradeep Kumar (57), a resident of Inderpuri and ex-regional head of RMG-Corporate Group of Lakshmi Vilas Bank and Anjani Kumar Verma (48), a resident of Noida and former Assistant Vice President of RMG-Corporate Credit.

According to Dr O P Mishra, the Joint Commissioner of Police, EOW, Manpreet Singh Suri of Religare Finvest Ltd (RFL) filed complaint at EOW against Malvinder Mohan Singh, Shivinder Mohan Singh and their companies RHC Holding Ltd, Ranchem private Ltd and Lakshmi Vilas Bank (LVB) and it's the then directors and employees.

"It was alleged that in November 2016, RFL placed an amount of Rs 400 crores in two fixed deposits (FDs) with LVB. These FDs were created by RFL for short term tenor with the intention to keep them free from all and any encumbrance. Thereafter, in January 2017, RFL placed an additional amount of about Rs. 350 crore in another couple of FDs with LVB. Like with the first two FDs, these two FDs were also created by RFL for short term tenor with the intention to keep them free from all and any encumbrance," said the Joint CP.

"However, on in July 2017, RFL was shocked to receive an email from LVB with the statement of accounts with respect to RFL's current account. RFL discovered that LVB had credited the proceeds of the FDs to RFL's current account and subsequently debited from RFL's current account cumulative amount of Rs. 7,23,71,50,920 without any prior intimation to RFL," said the Joint CP.

"A case under relevant sections of Indian Penal Code (IPC) was registered. The accused Malvinder and Shivinder were arrested and charge-sheets stand filed in the court. They are still in judicial custody. Further, investigation was proceeded with respect to role of officials of Lakshmi Vilas Bank Ltd," said the Joint CP.

"During investigation, grave irregularities and flouting of rules and regulations by officials of LVB in sanctioning of loans were noticed. It also emerged that bank officials in collusion with promoters Malvinder Mohan Singh and Shivinder Mohan Singh of REL deliberately and knowingly did not complete the formalities which are mandatory for the loan transaction to benefit the promoters or accused by extending loan to the entities which the promoters/accused persons used to square of their liabilities," said the Joint CP.

"There is no document as per requirement of the bank itself on record which established that these are the loans against the security/FDRs of RFL. It has emerged that the loan was required by promoters of REL as well as RHC Holding Pvt. Limited to square off the liabilities and borrowing of RHC Holdings Limited and Ranchem Private Limited," said the Joint CP.

"Pradeep Kumar and Anjani Kumar Verma were arrested for knowingly not completing the mandatory loan formalities just to benefit the accused by extending loan to the entities which the accused persons used to square off their liabilities," the Joint CP added.

BIHAR ELECTIONS

EC OK’s poll rallies with social distancing norms

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Political parties and candidates can hold rallies as part of their campaigning for the Bihar Assembly polls and the grounds where such meetings will be held will have white circles to ensure distancing norms. These are among the slew of measures the Election Commission is taking in view of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Addressing a Press conference to announce the schedule for Bihar assembly elections, Chief Election Commissioner Sunil Arora said he wants to dispel doubts that there will only be virtual campaigning in the State. The “propaganda” that only virtual meets will take place during campaigning is way off the mark, he said.

Arora said the district election officers have already identified places where gatherings can take place. The exercise of putting markers to ensure distancing norms is on. District election officers and district superintendents of police should ensure that the number of attendees does not exceed the limit prescribed by the State Disaster Management Authority for public gatherings, an EC statement later said. Political parties and candidates concerned should ensure that all COVID-related requirements such as face masks, sanitisers and thermal scanning are fulfilled during each of these election activities, the commission said.

Anyone violating the norms will face action under relevant sections of the Disaster Management Act and the Indian Penal Code, the EC warned. As part of restrictions put in place to check the spread of the virus, the EC has reduced the number of people who can undertake door-to-door campaigning. A group of five people, including candidates, but excluding security personnel, is allowed to campaign from door to door.

For road shows, the convoy of vehicles should be broken after every five vehicles instead of 10 vehicles. The interval between two sets of convoy of vehicles should be half an hour instead of a gap of 100 metres. The EC has revised the norms of the number of people accompanying the candidate and number of vehicles at the time of nomination.

It has also created an optional facility to fill the nomination form and the affidavit online and submission of the same, after taking a print, before the returning officer concerned.

For the first time, the candidates will have the option to deposit the security amount for contesting the elections online. For the first time, the EC has made special arrangements to protect its employees from contracting coronavirus during their election duty in Bihar.

It will provide a small kit containing N95 mask, sanitizer and gloves to protect the employees on poll duty in the state. The packet will also contain one safety keychain to avoid use of hands while pressing buttons.

According to Chief Election Commissioner Sunil Arora, EC has arranged about 46 lakh masks, 6 lakh PPE kits, 6.7 lakh units of faces-shields, 23 lakh (pairs of) hand gloves arranged. For voters specifically, 7.2 crore single-use hand gloves for Bihar polls. Besides, postal ballot facility will be provided wherever required and requested.

Social distancing norms will need to be followed at public gatherings during the poll campaign. He said the world has changed significantly since the last elections which were held for Delhi assembly and the COVID-19 pandemic has forced a new normal in every aspect of our life.

75% of new Covid-19 cases from 10 States/UTs

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

At least, 75 per cent of new cases of coronavirus in the country are concentrated in 10 States and Union Territories (UTs). But then, there is 74 per cent of new recoveries as well.

A senior health official said if there were 86,052 new cases in the past 24 hours in Maharashtra, Kerala, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh and a few others, then the number of recoveries stood at 81,177.

Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Odisha, Kerala, Delhi are some of the states that continue to be worst-hit from the pandemic.

On Friday, the country registered 86,052 fresh Covid-19 cases in the last 24 hours, as India moves towards the 60-lakh mark. The active cases have climbed to 9,70,116 whereas over 4.75 million have recovered so far, said a statement from the Union Health Ministry.

For the past six days, the numbers of recoveries logged per day in the country have been exceeding the number of fresh cases. But in the last 24 hours, the number of recoveries stood at 81,177, said the Ministry.

It also pointed out that a minimum of 14 States demonstrated better Covid-19 response on the basis of higher tests per million population and corresponding lower positivity rate than the national average.

A total of 68,928,440 samples have been tested for Covid-19 so far out of which nearly 1.5 million samples were tested on Thursday, as per data released by the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR).

Severe cases among healthy due to faulty genes, misguided antibodies, say scientists

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

More than 10 per cent of young and healthy people who develop severe Covid-19 have misguided antibodies that attack not the virus, but the immune system itself, according to a study published in journal ‘Science’. Another 3.5 per cent, at least, carry a specific kind of genetic mutation, causing early death of the Covid afflicted patients, as per the study.

In both groups, the upshot is basically the same: The patients lack type I interferon, a set of 17 proteins crucial for protecting cells and the body from viruses. “Whether the proteins have been neutralized by so-called auto-antibodies, or were not produced in sufficient amounts in the first place due to a faulty gene, their missing-in-action appears to be a common theme among a subgroup of Covid19 sufferers whose disease has thus far been a mystery,” said the researchers.

The findings help explain why some people develop a disease much more severe than others in their age group—including, for example, individuals who required admission to the ICU despite being in their 20s and free of underlying conditions. They may also provide the first molecular explanation for why more men than women die from the disease.

“These findings provide compelling evidence that the disruption of type I interferon is often the cause of life-threatening Covid-19,” said Jean-Laurent Casanova, head of the St. Giles Laboratory of Human Genetics of Infectious Diseases at The Rockefeller University and a Howard Hughes Medical Institute investigator. “

The study participants included various nationalities from Asia, Europe, Latin America, and the Middle East. “Covid-19 may now be the best understood acute infectious disease in terms of having a molecular and genetic explanation for nearly 15% of critical cases across diverse ancestries,” Casanova said.

In one study, the researchers genetically analyzed blood samples from more than 650 patients who had been hospitalized for life-threatening pneumonia due to SARS-CoV-2, 14 percent of whom had died. They also included samples from another group of over 530 people with asymptomatic or benign infection. They initially searched for differences between the two groups across 13 genes known to be critical for the body’s defense against the influenza virus. These genes govern type I interferons.

It soon became obvious that a significant number of people with severe disease carried rare variants in these 13 genes, and more than 3 percent of them were in fact missing a functioning gene.

Ultras cashing in on Covid crisis: India at UNHRC meet

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Highlighting the scourge of terrorism, India on Friday said terrorists are trying to exploit financial and emotional distress caused by the ongoing corona pandemic and Covid-19 lockdowns. Moreover, the terrorists are trying to collect funds under the garb of charitable activities but it is feared this money will be used to finance terror activities, India said.

Making these assertions at the ongoing 45th UN Human Rights Council session in Geneva, First Secretary Pawan Badhe, Permanent Mission of India to UN in Geneva, said due to widespread COVID-19, terrorists are making malevolent attempts to exploit the financial and emotional distress caused by lockdowns to disturb the cohesiveness of societies.

In his statement, he said “Terror groups have also exhorted supporters to target security forces and health workers. Another disturbing trend has been the collection of funds by proscribed terrorist outfits ostensibly for undertaking charitable activities, but which, in reality, would be used to finance terror.”

Speaking on the topic

“Human rights situations that require the Council’s attention,” the Indian envoy said “The increased presence of people online and on social media has been targeted by terrorists to disseminate misinformation through hate speeches, fake news and doctored videos. The intent has been to entice and establish links with vulnerable individuals and recruit them in their cadres.”

He also said “We underscore the need to foster a society in which individuals and communities are able to counter the spread of terrorist ideologies and challenge those who espouse them.” Underlining the challenge posed by terrorism, India also urged the Council to play a major role in preventing radicalization of impressionable minds.

India stressed that the Council cannot remain immune to the devastating human rights impacts caused by terrorism. The Council has to spread awareness about the protection of the rights of the most vulnerable groups, particularly children and young persons, in order to prevent their indoctrination by terrorist ideologies.

SC rubbishes plea seeking postponement of upcoming Bihar Assembly elections

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday refused to entertain a plea seeking to postpone the upcoming Bihar Assembly elections in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic.

A three-judge bench of Justices Ashok Bhushan, R. Subhash Reddy and M R Shah also refused to grant liberty to the petitioner to give representation to the Election Commission in this regard.

“We can’t permit everybody to go to the Election Commission. We can only permit you to withdraw the petition,” the bench said.

The matter was then dismissed as withdrawn.

The EC announced the schedule for Bihar assembly elections later on Friday.

The top court was hearing the plea filed by one Ajay Kumar who contended that the general assembly elections cannot be held smoothly due to the pandemic.

The plea sought to hold the Bihar Assembly elections till the situation becomes normal.

SC to consider about Govt’s suggestion of making refund vouchers transferable

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday said it will consider the Centre’s suggestion of making transferable the refund vouchers to be given to the passengers in lieu of the tickets booked for the flights which were cancelled due to the Covid-19 lockdown.

The top court reserved its verdict on a batch of petitions including by NGOs and passengers associations seeking refund of ticket fare for the flights which were cancelled due to the Pandemic. A

A bench of Justices Ashok Bhushan, R Subhash Reddy and M R Shah was told by Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for Centre and Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), that transferable refund vouchers can be issued to the passengers, which can be used by the travel agents who had booked their tickets for the flights which were cancelled later.

FARMBILLSPROTEST

LF-CONG, TMC HOLD PROTESTS AT 100 PLACES IN BENGAL

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

The Left and Congress on Friday launched a joint campaign against Farm Bills organising road-blockades in at least a hundred places in the State.

Roads were blocked at Coochbehar, Jalpaiguri, Malda, Raiganj, Murshidabad, Nadia, Birbhum, Burdwan, Bankura, Hooghly, Kolkata and elsewhere with the leaders vowing to continue the movement indefinitely.

Earlier, the Left and Congress asked Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee to call a special Assembly session to pass a unanimous resolution against the farm Bills and other legislations including the amendment in essential commodity laws. The TMC had yet to respond to the proposal.

At the end of a jointly organised “central rally” from Shyambazar crossing in North Kolkata to Esplanade in central Kolkata CPI(M) politburo member Biman Bose said “the BJP Government has been introducing anti-people laws one by one with no regard for the opposition views. They have decided to ruin the farmers as they have done in Gujarat where the farmers are brutally suppressed. Now a time has come when a prolonged movement will have to start throughout the country to assert the rights of the farmers.

The Trinamool Congress had failed to provide a direction to the farmers’ cause he said adding “the onus now fell on the Left, secular and democratic parties to launch a pan-Indian movement in the country to secure the poor man’s rights.”

State Opposition Leader and senior Congress man Abdul Mannan walked alongside the CPI(M), Forward Bloc, RSP, CPI, RCPI and other Left parties in a long procession to register their solidarity.

Congress leader in Lok Sabha Adhir Chowdhury said “the BJP Government’s anti-farmer laws would save it Rs 1 lakh crore which is why it is bringing the anti-farmer laws which will finally destroy the public distribution system and make life more impossible for the Indian farmers.”

The ruling TMC’s Kisan

Khet Mazdoor Cell too organised processions in North and South 24 Parganas and elsewhere in the State.

Reacting to the Left-Congress’ proposal for a joint Assembly session State Minister Partho Chatterjee said “they are trying to steal the show without fighting on the streets. I ask them as to why they are not going all out against the farm bill and why they are trying play politics in Assembly.”

Farmers on road in Aligarh

PRADEEP SAXENA ■ ALIGARH

Farmer leaders here on Friday led a farmer curfew in protest against the Central Government’s Farm Bills. The demonstration was proposed in Tappal, Akarabad, Iglas, Atrauli, Pisawa. Farmers did chakka jam sitting on the streets. The district administration and police were completely on alert.

The anger against the Agriculture Bill is not ending. On one side, the farmers are raising objections, on the other hand the Opposition is protesting.

On Friday, farmers came on the road from all over the district.

In Iglas, the peasants marched on foot, which was stopped by the police. During this time, farmers also got angry with the police.

In Gabhana, activists of the Indian Farmers Organisation blocked the highway for about 15 minutes. Later the SDM opened the jam by handing the memorandum to the President.

SP protests, sends memorandum to UP Guv

Lucknow: The Samajwadi Party on Friday held a statewide protest against the farm sector and labour reform Bills and sent a memorandum to Governor Anandiben Patel, requesting her to ensure that these are not implemented in the State.

Various farmer outfits have been protesting against the contentious bills passed by the Parliament recently.

“On the directives of Samajwadi Party’s national president Akhilesh Yadav, party workers sent a memorandum to the Governor thorough the respective district magistrates demanding that the ‘anti-farmers’ and ‘anti-workers’ bills should not be implemented in the State,” SP chief spokesman Rajendra Chowdhury said.

Akhilesh Yadav, in a statement issued here, said the SP has always been in the forefront of raising issues of public interest and had stood against the ruling party for their “anti-people” stand.

He said under the present regime, the youth is unemployed and big capitalists have set their eyes on farmers’ land.

“Laws are being made only for multinational companies and a few industrialists. The BJP government has first introduced a bill of exploitation of farmers to benefit capitalists and now a bill of labour exploitation to benefit industrialists. They brought these bills without taking any suggestions,” the statement said. PTI

Farm Bills passed without consulting mandi traders, Opp: Rajasthan CM

Jaipur: Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Friday targeted the Centre over three farm bills, saying they were introduced in Parliament without consulting mandi traders and Opposition parties, and were passed in a shameful manner.

He claimed that all the provisions made in the bills are anti-farmer and the mandis will be destroyed.

“Why was the law made? Why was the minimum support price (MSP) not proposed? You can understand from it that the situation is very serious and the way these three bills were passed, it was also done in a shameful manner,” Gehlot told reporters.

Attacking the government, he claimed, “These are people of fascist thinking and they do not believe in democracy. All the work is being done so that public attention can be diverted.” He said the bills were introduced without consulting mandi traders and opposition parties. PTI

Will try not to implement farm sector laws in Maha: Cong, NCP

Pune: The Congress and Nationalist Congress Party (NCP), which are part of the ruling coalition in Maharashtra, on Friday said they would try to ensure that the farm sector reform bills are not implemented in the state.

Speaking in Pune, deputy Chief Minister and NCP leader Ajit Pawar said farmers as well as the NCP and other parties are opposed to the new bills. “Farmers think that the laws are not beneficial for them. There was no hurry (to pass them),” he said. Asked whether they would be implemented in Maharashtra, he said, “We will try to ensure that they are not implemented, but at the same time we will have to see what new issues crop up.

“We are studying what can happen if the matter goes to the court,” Pawar said, adding that the government has sought opinion of the legal department too. He had held a meeting on the issue where Water Resources Minister Jayant Patil, Cooperation Minister Balasaheb Patil, leaders of Mathadi workers (head-loaders who work in APMCs) and other stakeholders were present, he added.

Earlier in the day, state Congress chief and Revenue Minister Balasaheb Thorat said they will “work together and take a decision on non-implementation of the new farm bills.” PTI

Huge arms haul in erstwhile Maoist region

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

In a sensational breakthrough the Bengal Police on Friday unearthed arms from an erstwhile Maoist-hit region of Golkata in West Midnapore, district administration sources said.

About 30 muskets, electric wire and tin containers were found after the police acting on definite sources dug out a 40 feet area inside dense forests of Okhla in the Golkata region.

The guns rapped in rags and plastic could have been buried about ten years ago and had rusted and become dysfunctional, senior officials said adding the finds would be sent for forensic testing. The police had to use JCB machines to excavate the area after some “specific information,” sources said.

Political gunfire resumed soon after the arms were unearthed even as senior Trinamool Congress MP Saugato Roy alleged “gong by the age of the arms it seems that they could have been buried by the CPI(M) harms or maybe the Maoists ... but the most likelihood is that the CPI(M) cadres might have buried them after their government went out of power,” reminding how “skeletons were dug out from the village of then CPI(M) minister Sushanto Ghosh.

Reacting vehemently to his suggestions CPI(M) Legislature Party Leader Suján Chakrabarty said, it was high time the Trinamool Congress stopped spreading lies. “Talking about skeletons which had been planted by one of their leaders who is now in a BJP general secretary... and why could not they prove a single charge against the Left Government... so Sougato Roy being such a senior politician should stop peddling lies... The Left has suffered the maximum at the hands of the TMC-Maoist clique ... they murdered hundreds of our cadres in cold blood.”

The BJP on the other hand said the guns might belong to the Maoists given the history of ultra-Left movement in Bengal however he would not rule out Trinamool Congress hand in the incident. “All angles must be probed to get to the truth,” he said.

2 LeT terrorists killed in Anantnag

PNS ■ JAMMU

A foreign terrorist from Pakistan along with his local associate, belonging to the proscribed terror outfit Lashkar-e-Tayyeba (LeT) were neutralised by the joint teams of security forces in Sirhama area of Anantnag on Friday.

The operation in the area was launched late on Thursday evening after receiving inputs about the presence of these terrorists in the area.

According to a police spokesman, “Due to darkness the operation was suspended in the area while a tight cordon was maintained to plug the escape routes”. He said, “In the wee hours, the operation was resumed and in the ensuing encounter two terrorists were

The police spokesman said the killed terrorists have been identified as Adil Ahmad Bhat resident of Pulwama and Abu Rehan @Towheed a Pakistani national. Both the killed terrorists were commanders and affiliated with proscribed terror outfit LeT.

According to police records, Adil was involved in case FIR No. 117/2020 of PS

Nowgam pertaining to the killing of two JKP personnel and weapon snatching at Nowgam Srinagar on 14-08-2020. An Insas rifle snatched in Nowgam attack was also recovered from the encounter site.

According to a police spokesman, Pakistani terrorist Abu Rehan was an important motivator and influenced young minds for joining terror ranks in the areas of South Kashmir. He was involved in motivating local youth to carry out ‘fidayeen’ attacks on Police/SFs. He was also involved in providing logistic support to the newly infiltrated terrorists and strengthening the LeT outfit throughout the valley by distributing newly joined/infiltrated terrorists to various areas.

Sena slams move to hold Bihar polls amid Covid-19 crisis

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

Questioning the very decision to hold the Assembly elections in Bihar in the midst of Coronavirus crisis, Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut on Friday charged that the ruling JD(U) and BJP would make Sushant Singh Rajput as the main issue in the elections.

Talking to media persons here, Raut took serious exception to holding the Bihar Assembly elections at a time when the country was still to tide over the Coronavirus crisis.

“Such has been the gravity of the situation that the Assembly and Parliament sessions have had to be curtailed. So far a minister and three MPs have died so far. That being the case, why is the state Assembly poll being held in Bihar?,” Raut asked.

“I have no objection whatsoever for the conduct of elections. But, is this right to hold elections?,” Raut said.

Raut charged that the ruling JD(U)-BJP alliance would go whole hog to cash in on the death of actor Sushant Singh Rajput, who hails from Bihar. “I am told that JD(U) has printed posters of Sushant Singh Rajput in a big way for the elections. The JD(U) has made Sushant death probe an issue with a clear eye on the elections,” Raut said.

“It was a long-planned drama. The Bihar government does not have any developmental or governance issues to

Kerala edges past TN in number of Covid-19 new cases, total tally

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ KOCHI/CHENNAI

Kerala overtook Tamil Nadu by Friday evening in the number of new patients diagnosed with Covid-19. While Kerala diagnosed 6,477 new patients on Friday, Tamil Nadu’s tally for the day was 5,679.

According to the department of health, Government of Kerala, the State had 48,892 Covid-19 patients undergoing treatment in hospitals. But in Tamil Nadu, the number of active patients undergoing treatment for the pandemic stood at 46,386.

This is the first time Kerala has overtaken its neighbor in the number of patients diagnosed with the pandemic as well as the total number of Covid-19 patients.

Out of the 14 districts in Kerala, seven has more than 500 patients each. The State saw 22 persons succumbing to the pandemic while Tamil Nadu was ahead in the number of deaths. The State registered 72 deaths during the last 24 hours.

The Kerala Government release said 2.16 lakh persons were under observation in the State as on Friday evening. “Kerala’s population is less than half of Tamil Nadu which is almost four times the size of Kerala,” said Dr C V Krishnaswamy, eminent physician who is monitoring the situation in South Indian States. He said there was something seriously amiss in the way Kerala has been handling the issue.

“Tamil Nadu situation has stabilised as the mortality rate has come down and there are only few areas which are showing upward trend. But, as on today situation in Kerala warrants concern,” said Dr Krishnaswamy who also expressed his reservation on the race for vaccine. “You wait till the vaccines are out. Meanwhile there are physicians in Tamil Nadu and Kerala who are curing hundreds of Covid-19 patients with native medicines,” said the octogenarian diabetologist.

to leave Maharashtra and go to UP... People will all remain here. Mumbai’s film industry has been set up with blood, sweat and tears and it can never lose its importance... Merely by shifting the film city or a few government departments cannot impact the significance of Mumbai.”

Raut had a dig at the Centre for its failure to set up a film city in Jammu and Kashmir after the abrogation of Article 370.

Pandemic powerplay

Nitish Kumar’s stock is low without the BJP’s heft. Can Lalu’s RJD still make a difference as leader of the Opp bloc?

The Bihar Assembly elections, right in the middle of the pandemic, will be the greatest logistical and public health challenge and if successful, could become a template of how a mass participatory process could be initiated without risking the virus. So yes, the new election code has new rules, including virtual campaigning, spread out schedule, longer voting hours, more polling booths, quarantined centres so that even the COVID-positive can vote and an unprecedented stock of preventive gear. The biggest challenge will be to ensure that the electoral process doesn’t become a super-spreader event. For the Election Commission, it is a big test, considering more State elections are to follow in rapid succession under the shadow of the pandemic. For Chief Minister and Janata Dal (United) leader Nitish Kumar, it is time to convince his people that he is still good enough to deliver, his personal stock having taken a beating. For the Opposition and Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) supremo Lalu Prasad Yadav, it is a chance to prove that his sons have it in them to continue his political movement robustly and more importantly, that he is still a leader who matters in reshaping discourse. Let’s take Nitish, who is under attack for his patchy response to the pandemic, poor flood management and mishandling of returnee migrants, a new constituency that is being courted by all parties. He may coast to victory in alliance with the BJP but the latter, while acknowledging him as the chief ministerial candidate, is still as ambitious about becoming the voters’ first choice and having its own man in the future. It hasn’t helped that Nitish has lost out in ratings to his Uttar Pradesh counterpart Yogi Adityanath in crisis management, the appreciation damagingly coming from his own people. The labourers, students and teachers are most peeved with him. Besides, unlike his initial years, he has stagnated and has nothing to show as a deliverer. The row over farm Bills may not have that much of an economic resonance in Bihar as the Government procurement here is low. Besides, it was the first State in India to have scrapped the Agriculture Produce Market Committee Act in 2006 and pave the way for the private sector to get involved in procurement of agricultural produce. But he cannot ignore the political consequences simply because Bihar’s farmers haven’t benefitted after the APMC was dismantled. The markets suffered a loss of fee revenue, there was no major private investment in the State’s agricultural sector and the smaller farmers continue to depend on trader cartels for buys as there is no guaranteed price mechanism. If anything, Bihar shows how taking down a regulatory framework hastily without necessary checks and balances can hurt the small and marginal farmers even more. The Opposition could use this for its campaign pitch. Politically though, Nitish has already neutralised the Lok Janshakti Party (LJP), whose leader Chirag Paswan was attacking him almost every day, by inducting Hindustani Awam Morcha (HAM) founder and his protégé Jitan Ram Manjhi, into his fold. The Dalit vote is now consolidated under the NDA umbrella. According to the 2011 census, the Scheduled Castes are 15 per cent of Bihar’s population. The Mahadalits constitute nearly 16 per cent and though cultivated by Nitish, were beginning to swerve towards the RJD, which has the core traditional votes of the Muslims and Yadavs. Manjhi could return the Dalit swing in his favour. This would bring Nitish the numbers he needs to stay relevant.

Where does it leave Lalu then? The Akhilesh Yadav-led Samajwadi Party (SP) announced that it will not contest and support all RJD candidates instead. Lalu still has the drawing power but he is not on the ground to smoothen wrinkles in the grand alliance of like-minded parties. And that could work to the RJD’s detriment. The problem with the Opposition bloc members is that they would only end up dividing the non-NDA vote if they do not form a strategic partnership. At the same time, they become aggressive about bargaining for seats in return for staying together and that reduces the seat quota for the RJD. A reduced number of seats for the RJD only helps the BJP to manipulate numbers in its favour and keep the former in check. The Lok Sabha election results are proof of this under-cutting. The RJD could go it alone but that would be self-defeatist considering some of its allies are already questioning the leadership of Tejashwi Yadav in public. The youth are particularly not taken in by the dynastic entitlement of Lalu’s sons, who wage their own ego battles in the public sphere than inspire confidence. Tejashwi and Tej Pratap need to be on the same page. Or at least use their father’s wisdom. Tejashwi, so far, has appeared more interested in pursuing his individual ambition, grooming his yes men and running down senior leaders of the caste movement as deadwood. The arrogance cost the RJD its dependable associations with the Left and the Congress. Besides, with the BJP waiting to splinter unhappy parties, the Opposition bloc is caught in a cleft stick at the moment. The Left parties may look down and out but they are holding on to their traditional pockets. Perhaps if they had effectively used former Jawaharlal Nehru University Students’ Union (JNUSU) president Kanhaiya Kumar as the change-making candidate, they could have become a key fringe player. The Congress is gasping for breath and though it won’t harm the RJD, another poor performance could see it losing more members to the BJP. The tide of discontent is there against Nitish but without Lalu at the helm, can the Opposition ride it?

Environmental damage

Without plastics and polymers, we might not have been able to face COVID. But it is time to start worrying about the environment

As Chief Election Commissioner Sunil Arora announced the dates for the Bihar Assembly elections, he also detailed the precautions being taken to conduct them. The fact is that the entire electoral process is a crowded one, and in a densely populated State like Bihar, almost guaranteed to be so, no matter what rules and regulations are put in place. So the Election Commission is deploying millions of masks and gloves and thousands of litres of hand sanitiser across booths to protect voters, booth officials and security personnel. Given that thousands of voters will touch every voting machine, each will be provided with a single disposable glove. But while the health and safety of our voters is paramount, there is another concern. That is the mountains of trash that will be generated as a result of these precautions. Given that several State Governments had declared a war on single-use plastics over the past few years, it is especially ironic that single-use plastic gloves will be needed to keep democracy alive. In fact, it is one of the side effects of the pandemic that huge volumes of non-recyclable, non-biodegradable trash have been generated. There is little doubt that COVID warriors in intensive care wards need plastic personal protective equipment. Even surgical masks worn by millions are for the large part non-biodegradable. As more cities get back to work across the world and humanity learns to live with the virus and new protocols, both the Government and citizens must ponder over medical waste management and disposal. One immediate change that millions can adopt is to move to using washable cloth masks instead of polymer-based masks. While such polymer masks will be essential in hospital wards, in regular daily use cloth masks are quite effective at protecting others and more comfortable as well. Protocols for the reuse of protective kits and other plastic equipment should also be put in place, whether that involves washing or ultraviolet sanitisation. We must look at newer incineration technologies. We might be coming to terms with the pandemic, even if we have paid a terrible price in deaths and with the economy. However, we should not make the environmental costs so dramatic as well. We will be undoing all that we have attempted to reset so far.

SC PANDEY

It sounds pretty heartless to worry about the economy and livelihoods and appear less concerned with peoples’ lives. It is difficult to weigh in golden balance whether lives or livelihoods are more important. On December 31, 2019, China first told the World Health Organisation (WHO) that 41 patients in Wuhan had contracted a mysterious pneumonia not amenable to conventional treatment. Beginning January 23, first the city of Wuhan, then the entire Hubei province and then some other cities were locked down. The unprecedented quarantine was imposed on 50 million people across 15 cities. After a 6.8 per cent contraction in January-March 2020 quarter, China’s economy recorded 3.2 per cent growth in April-June 2020. China is the first major economy to return to growth after the pandemic. For us, the pandemic is an imported calamity. The main gateways to India have been worst affected. Major democracies, including India, have failed to emulate the ruthless measures taken by China (and could be taken by China alone) to contain the damage. Maybe there is more than what meets the eye here. With confirmed infections of over 50 lakh, albeit with a somewhat modest case fatality ratio of 1.64 per cent and a significantly high 78 per cent recovery rate, the first peak is not in sight at the national level although there is significant disruption of economic activity. Individual estimates vary widely with observers’ biases as expected because the pandemic has fooled all forecasting tools. A general sense is that we face stagnation if not outright contraction in economic growth in the current year. The GDP at current market prices was ₹45.51 lakh crore, ₹49.18 lakh crore and ₹38.08 lakh crore during April-June 2018, April-June 2019 and April-June 2020, respectively. The GDP at 2011-12 prices was ₹26.89 lakh crore during April-June 2020, compared to ₹35.35 lakh crore during April-June 2019. This is the direct effect of the lockdown that was in force for almost two out of three months in the first quarter. Experts are divided as to how the GDP is going to behave in the ensuing quarters due to the impact of the pandemic on jobs and incomes.

Another way to analyse the economic impact of the pandemic is to look at GST collections which indicate the quantum of documented sales of goods and services. Monthly GST collections during April-August have been ₹32,172 crore, ₹62,151 crore, ₹90,917 crore, ₹87,422 crore and ₹86,449 crore. In August 2019, GST collection was ₹98,202 crore, so, obviously we are far away from reaching pre-lockdown levels of spending and registering a decent growth on that level. The shortfall from August 2019 GST collection is 12 per cent in August 2020. Obviously, GST collections would not measure the impact of the pandemic on the informal economy where undocumented sales take place on kutchha bills.

The first quarter GDP contraction affected almost all sectors. The only sector that posted positive growth (3.4 per cent) was agriculture, with bumper Rabi crops. High-contact sectors like tourism and hospitality are very badly affected.

Past years’ trends show that the GDP is almost equally divided in the four quarters with some increase in the last quarter. In 2017-18, the contribution of the four quarters was 23.4, 24.4, 25.3 and 26.9 per cent for quarters one, two, three and four. In 2018-19, it was 24, 24.5, 25.4 and 26.1 per cent. In 2019-20, it was 24.2, 24.2, 25.4 and 26.2 per cent. This year’s quarterly GDP trends are going to be abnormal.

MAJOR ECONOMIES ARE SURVIVING ON PEOPLE BUYING THINGS THAT THEY DON’T REALLY NEED AND LIVING ON BORROWED FUNDS. IT IS A PARADOX THAT THE RICHEST COUNTRIES ARE ALSO THE MOST INDEBTED COUNTRIES. NEW ASPIRATIONAL NEEDS ARE FELT OR CREATED AND FINANCE IS ARRANGED BY BORROWING

China plays Nepal

Sir — The local authorities of Lapcha-Limi region in Humla have alleged that China has constructed nine buildings one kilometre inside the territory of Nepal. Lapcha-Limi is of great strategic importance to Nepal as Kailash Mansarovar can be clearly seen from this point. This sort of expansionist move isn’t the first by China. Earlier in June this year, the Nepal Government had complained that China was using road construction in Tibet to occupy its land. While Nepal is protesting against the encroachment, maybe it should also ponder on its move of releasing a new political map that claimed Kalapani, Limpiyadhura and Lipulekh of Uttarakhand as part of its sovereign territory, ostensibly at China’s behest.

Sir — The Minister of State for External Affairs, V Muraleedharan, provided details of the Prime Minister’s visits abroad since 2015, including their outcome. According to the details furnished, Prime Minister Narendra Modi has visited 58 countries since 2015 and a total expenditure of ₹517 crore was incurred on them. He visited US, Russia and China five times each and made multiple trips to other countries like Singapore, Germany, France, Sri Lanka and the United Arab Emirates.

To what extent did these visits help India with its bilateral, regional and global issues? Today, India is facing multiple terrorial challenges from three of its neighbouring countries — China, Nepal and Pakistan. The finding by the Comptroller and Auditor-General of India (CAG) that French aerospace major Dassault Aviation and European missile maker MBDA have defaulted on offset clauses of the Rafale deal puts a question mark on the Government’s negotiation capabilities. The same amount

Diverting public attention

The rising numbers of COVID-19 cases, a dented economy and tension around the borders do not seem to concern us as much as the alleged seamy side of life in Bollywood. The Narcotics Control Board’s (NCB) probe into the drug use in Bollywood has captured the imagination of the nation so much so that it appears to have become the be-all-and-end-all of our lives. The information gathered during its “grilling” of celebrities, leaked to select media, has now become the staple diet of television drama.

The idiot box is now a voyeur’s delight; it wallows on prying into the private lives of screen idols. Breathless reporters heighten the drama by their delivery of the story in a frenzy of excitement. The “arrivals” of actresses at the NCB office in the morning and their “departures” in the evening are marked by hustle and bustle as if they are earth-shattering events.

What started as a probe into actor Sushant Singh Rajput’s demise and the circumstances surrounding it has meandered its way into a fishing expedition in Bollywood to “name and shame” selective actresses who might have consumed drugs in little quantities. The way NCB is handling the case casts serious doubts on its independence and integrity. And never before has a death been so repugnantly used as a weapon to fight political battles.

Sir — According to the 2018 annual report of the National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB), 33,356 rape cases were reported across the country, or an average of 91 rapes a day. Save Bollywood from ‘gutterisation’

The entire process of turning actors into marketing agents for selling certain political ideologies must stop after Kangana Ranaut

ANURAG TIWARY

ABHINAV JHA

The Government’s recent decision to set up the country’s “most beautiful” and “biggest” film city in Noida, Uttar Pradesh, has to be read in its wider socio-political context. An attempt to decentralise Bollywood, negate Mumbai as the entertainment capital of this country and control the dissemination of art and creativity is under way. The timing couldn’t be any better. The debate over nepotism, drug use and the proliferation of the so-called “mafia” of film-makers in Mumbai, amid the controversy surrounding Sushant Singh Rajput’s (SSR’s) untimely death, has changed the way we, as an audience, look at Bollywood today. The Hindi film industry is allegedly ruled by a bunch of oligarchs and dynasts who are extremely arrogant, egotistical and self-absorbed in their attitude towards “outsiders.”

Globally, the entertainment industry runs on a nonpareil image that it builds for itself. The insider-outsider debate in Bollywood has tainted the larger than life image of actors and film-makers and has brought the good, bad, and ugly side of the industry out in the open. How much of it is true remains to be seen. However, interestingly, Kangana Ranaut has emerged as the unflinching face of the rebellion against power, albeit in a highly uncouth manner.

Resultantly, it has so happened that much of this controversy has led to a debate between the far-Right and the Left-of-Centre political ideologies. In their attempts at winning the hearts of the urban middle-class, political parties have paved the way for a radical overhauling of cinema, art, and artists. This will be done by creating parallel power structures within the entertainment industry that will be backed by the State. We see that happening almost ostentatiously in the SSR-Rhea-Kangana drama. We have also seen that as a gradual development since the NDA Government came to power.

The likes of Anupam Kher, Paresh Rawal and Madhur Bhandarkar, among many others, have been used to lend their voice to debates on nationalism and religion. However, the nexus between Bollywood and politicians isn’t a new phenomenon. Great politicians understand that politics alone will not get their messages to the masses. So, both the groups have, historically, looked after each other. Film personalities help politicians in their campaigns and similarly, politicians help failed actors become administrators in the name of “cultural diplomacy.” It is almost like a rule. However, what the Kangana saga has revealed is that there is an attempt to forge a parallel entertainment industry which will act as the mouthpiece of Right-wing political parties and the Government. This group will help in disseminating what is known as “fringe cultural nationalism.” The mechanism is simple, involving shifting of power structures and bringing the industry within the control of the State. For the services of such actors, the Government will either provide them with security sponsored from public money or citizenship in case you are Akshay Kumar.

What is ignored during this entire debate is that the democratisation of cinema originally meant the production and promotion of diverse ideas previously not permitted within the industry. It also meant that for an “outsider”, there would be “lower barriers to entry” without any particular pedigree. It meant experimentation with alternative modes of artistic expression and creativity. It meant due recognition for films and works of expression that display counter-culture. Diversified cinema and artistic creativity were the major goals behind the demands for democratising the industry.

The present developments pose a threat to all stakeholders, including the audience, who are the primary and the majority stakeholders in artistic expression. The emergence of newbie politicians, who are regarded as pariah actors, will serve the purposes of disseminating Right-wing nationalism and will do no good to creativity and art. Actors, on the other hand, will lose creative autonomy and will be burdened with social responsibility. Films that challenge majoritarianism or films that are against an idea imposed by the State will not be permitted to go on the floors. Existing norms on censorship will change and become worse than what they already are. Discretion will be exercised almost freely. Turning artists into marketing agents for selling a certain political ideology must stop after motormouth Kangana Ranaut. Jaya Bachchan’s “save the industry” from “gutterisation” remark in Rajya Sabha last week should act as a clarion call and must force prospective cine-goers and film-makers to do some introspection.

Pacifier in the Indo-Pacific

Germany’s return to realpolitik augurs well for India as it emerges as a pivot of the aggressive counter-balancing act in the region together with the US, Japan and Australia

SANDEEP KUMAR DUBEY

Even as the world is grappling with the COVID-19 pandemic, geopolitics is undergoing a seismic shift. The Indo-Pacific region, which accounts for almost 40 per cent of the global Gross Domestic Product (GDP), has emerged as the epicentre of the “New Great Game,” especially between the US and China, for influence. The rule-based international order is being contested in the Indo-Pacific reportedly by none other than a UN Security Council (UNSC) member, the People’s Republic of China (PRC). Speaking at the Munich Security Conference on February 14, the German Federal President Frank-Walter Steinmeier said, “...(China) is selective in accepting international law only where it does not run counter to its own interests. Its actions in the South China Sea are unsettling the neighbours in the region.”

Beijing’s constant hammering on the existing global order has caused alarm in the US and among its allies. Compared to China, India has been endorsing the prevalence of a rule-based world order in the Indo-Pacific region. Delineating New Delhi’s vision for the region, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, in his speech at the Shangri-La Dialogue on June 1, 2018, said, “India stands for an open and stable international trade regime. We will also support a rule-based, open, balanced and stable trade environment in the Indo-Pacific Region...”

Re-ordering the world: After the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991, what emerged was a unipolar world order dominated by the US. It was believed that post-1991, the emergence of the US as the sole world power would expedite the restoration of global peace, security and stability and strengthen Pax Americana.

That is, the post-World War-II international order shaped and maintained by the US employing its overwhelming might. However, instead of growing in strength, Pax Americana has been fraying since the collapse of the Soviet Union. The strategic space ceded in the Indo-Pacific by the US, thanks to its “America First” policy, has been occupied by regional powers, thus turning it into a multi-polar region and the centre of a major geopolitical tussle for dominance. The fear among the world powers is that if the rules of the international order are disobeyed and disowned, the already fragile global form might collapse. What would happen next? A chaos resulting out of world disorder? Or a global re-order leading to resuscitation of peace and security?

Wary of the consequences that might ensue, India has been championing for a world based on a new global security architecture supported by multi-lateralism and mutual cooperation. During his recent visit to Russia, in a meeting of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation on September 4, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh declared New Delhi is committed to this as it will “be open, transparent, inclusive, rules-based and anchored in international laws.” Earlier in May, in his address to the Non-Aligned Movement (NAM) countries, Modi had appealed, “In the post-Corona world, we need a new template of globalisation, based on fairness, equality, and humanity. We need international institutions that are more representative of today’s world.”

GIVEN THE EXPANSIONIST AGENDA OF CHINA IN THE INDO-PACIFIC AND BEYOND, COUNTRIES IN THE REGION ARE FORMING A STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP TO CONTAIN IT. THE SUCCESS OF THE ALLIANCE, HOWEVER, DEPENDS ON HOW INDIA RESPONDS TO THE EMERGING GEOPOLITICS IN THE REGION. CAN NEW DELHI PLAY A PIVOTAL ROLE IN ARRESTING BEIJING’S GROWING INFLUENCE IN THE REGION? DOES ITS GEOGRAPHIC POSITION ALLOW FOR THAT?

Indo-US partnership: In recent years, India has come strategically closer to the US and its allies to contain China through diplomatic and military means. The Indian Navy’s participation in the Malabar naval exercise led by the US Navy is one such example of the growing partnership between the two nations.

But it has not come to terms with the “America First” policy. Unlike Washington DC, New Delhi has been a proponent of multi-lateralism to promote peace and security in the Indo-Pacific and beyond. And that is why it is treading a fine line in the region by not squarely aligning with the US in its balancing act, making no explicit reference to China and opposing Australia’s entry into the Malabar naval exercise.

However, amid the growing border tension with China, India may “aggressively” pursue the Indo-Pacific balancing act together with the US, Japan and Australia. Though so far New Delhi has opposed Australia’s entry into the Malabar exercise, it might consider inviting it to the next one. This would strengthen the Quad (the US, India, Australia and Japan strategic partnership) further and probably make it anti-China. In 2015, Japan had already been elevated as a permanent member of the Malabar exercise group.

China as a sea power: In his book Prisoners of Geography, Tim Marshall notes, “Until now China has never been a naval power...and it was rarely ideologically expansive...It was always a land power with a lot of land and a lot of people.” However, Beijing now harbours ambitions of becoming a global power and setting the international rules on its own terms. To fulfil its ambitions, it simply follows in the US’ footsteps to gain control over the seas.

It has already taken measures to dominate the South China Sea (SCS) and the Indian Ocean. Beijing is already making efforts to set up an Air Defence Identification Zone in the SCS and develop a Blue Water navy to defend its sea controls. Tim Marshall further adds, “China...intends to become a two ocean power (Pacific and Indian). To achieve this, China is investing in deep-water ports in Myanmar, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Sri Lanka...”

The great American naval strategist of the 19th century, Alfred Mahan, once said, “Whoever rules the waves, rules the world.” His naval strategy finds supreme place in China pursuing its strategic ends. Just like other global powers, Beijing, too is Mahanian, probably with Maoist tactics. China is expanding its sea controls in a piecemeal manner, mouthful by mouthful, a typical Maoist strategy to wipe out enemy forces one by one. Mao asserted, “In war, battles can only be fought one by one and the enemy forces can only be destroyed one by one.” Tacticisation of strategy is doomed to fail against China’s well-designed strategy of piecemeal expansion in the Indo-Pacific region. Only a coherent grand containment strategy can counter Beijing’s expansionism in the region.

India as the pivot State: Given the expansionist agenda of China in the Indo-Pacific and beyond, countries in the region are forming a strategic partnership to contain it. The success of the alliance, however, depends on how India responds to the emerging geopolitics in the region. Can New Delhi play a pivotal role in arresting Beijing’s growing influence? Does its geographic position allow for that?

Quoting naval strategist Alfred Mahan, Robert Kaplan writes in his book The Revenge of Geography, “Mahan thought that instead of the Heartland of Eurasia being the geographical pivot of empires, it was conversely the Indian and Pacific oceans that constituted the hinges of geopolitical destiny.” Mahan sees India’s location in the centre of the Indian Ocean littoral, with the Himalayas protecting its rear flanks, as critical for the seaward penetration of China, adds Kaplan. This explains precisely the strategic significance of India’s geography in regional geopolitics, making it a pivot of the Indo-Pacific. Kaplan has rightly predicted, “As the US and China become great power rivals, the direction in which India tilts could determine the course of geopolitics in Eurasia in the 21st century. India, in other words, looms as the ultimate pivot State.”

Germany’s return to realpolitik: On July 1, Germany took charge of the presidency of the Council of the European Union (EU). In September it articulated its strategy on the region through a document titled “Policy guidelines for the Indo-Pacific region.” In his statement, German Foreign Minister Heiko Maas declared: “We are sending a clear message today, the Indo-Pacific region is a priority of German foreign policy...We want to help shape that order, so that it is based on rules and international cooperation, not on the law of the strong. That is why we have intensified cooperation with those countries that share our democratic and liberal values.” In fact, this is indicative of Germany’s return to a realpolitik approach towards its foreign and security policies from its so-called “moral politics” and “political escapism.”

This augurs well for India, as both nations believe in a multi-lateralist approach to foreign policy and international politics. Just like Germany, multi-lateralism is key to transforming India into a global power. Their beliefs in democratic and liberal values make them natural allies and together they can play a vital role in ensuring peace and security in the Indo-Pacific region.

India needs another Vidyasagar now

Just two years ago, a tribal boy was killed in Karmatar because he wished to marry a widow. Has anything really changed in modern India?

GOVIND BHATTACHARJEE

On September 26, 200 years ago, an extraordinary personality was born in a village in south West Bengal. By the standards of his time, why, even by today’s standards, Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar was unique in every respect. As Rabindranath Tagore once said, “One wonders how God, in the process of producing 40 million Bengalis, produced a man.”

The 19th century Bengali society was in an advanced state of decay brought about by a lethal cocktail of superstition, depravity and exploitation, being trapped inside a complex hierarchy of castes and sub-castes embedded within each other. One half of the society — women — was excluded from education and economic activities, being confined to homes where they had no voice. They were treated as intellectually and morally inferior, and hence unworthy of education. Superstition proclaimed that a girl’s education would inevitably beget her widowhood. Her best contribution to society was to become one of the countless wives of Kulin Brahmins, whose main aim was collecting handsome dowries from multiple marriages — one had as many as 156 wives as per records. She would be lucky to enjoy her absentee husband’s company a few nights a year. She would attain salvation by burning on the same funeral pyre with her husband, who was 50-60 years older than her. Through the efforts of Raja Rammohan Roy (1772-1838), the horrendous practice of Sati was abolished in 1829, nine years after Vidyasagar’s birth.

Child marriage was the order of the day. Girls were married before attaining puberty in a custom called gouridan. Born into a Kulin Brahmin family, Vidyasagar himself was married at the age of 14 to a girl eight years old. Bankimchandra, who was born 18 years after Vidyasagar, was married at 11 to a girl only five years old. Female infanticide was also the order of the day. Female foetuses would be destroyed brutally through what was called “ghat murder.” These monstrosities still exist in many pockets in rural India despite all the laws we have in our books.

Women had no right to property or inheritance. Once they became widows, a lifetime of misery awaited them. They were forced to a single stringent vegetarian meal a day to rob them of their sexuality, youth and beauty. Sexual exploitation by relatives and termination of unwanted pregnancies leading to death were not only common but met with society’s tacit approval. Legal abolition of sati did not end women’s miseries. The daily privations, insults and misery of existence forced many to join the brothels that were there to sustain the perverted Babu culture of Bengal. In 1853, the population of sex workers in Kolkata was 12,419 and by 1867 it touched over 30,000. And 90 per cent of them, according to the Amritabazar Patrika, were widows. By a crude estimate, the sex worker population increased from about five to nearly 10 per cent of Kolkata’s population over this period.

This, then, was the society Vidyasagar was born into, and this was the society he had sought to reform. He did so with a gusto and a fearlessness we have not seen in any other personality ever since. To fight the orthodox society steeped in deep superstition and ruled by the semi-literate Brahmins, Vidyasagar knew he would have to beat his adversaries at their own game. So, in January and October 1855, he wrote his two famous treatises on the Marriage of Hindu Widows, drawing upon the Sutras (literary compositions) and the Sastras (scriptures) to establish his logical argument that there was no prohibition on remarriage of widows in the Sastras.

Rather the Parashara Samhita sanctioned widow remarriage: “Women are at liberty to marry again if their husbands are insane, dead, have renounced the family or are impotent or outcasts.” About 2,000 copies of the first book were sold in the first week itself, followed by 3,000 and then a third reprint of 10,000 copies got sold out too. But the sales figures did not indicate society’s response. He was heaped with criticism, insults, motives, ridicule and even threatened with death.

The Hindu Widows’ Remarriage Act was finally passed on July 26, 1856 and the reform did not remain limited to Bengal alone. In 1864, Jyotiba Phule succeeded in persuading a Saraswat Brahmin widow to remarry. In 1866, Vishnu Shastri Pandit translated Vidyasagar’s book on widow remarriage into Marathi. But passing of the statute was only the first of the many obstacles. Vidyasagar personally presided over the first remarriage of a widow, Kalimati, with Srishchandra Vidyaratna, and then many others at his own expense, in the process gathering significant personal debt.

He even got his only son, Narayanchandra, married to a widow, Bhavasundari. Not many have the courage to practise what they preach. As he wrote to his brother: “Remarriage of widows is the noblest deed of my life. I don’t think I shall be able to accomplish a greater one, ever. I have sacrificed everything for this cause and won’t mind even laying down my life for it.”

He was also propagating women’s education. In 1849, he set up the Calcutta Female School along with Drinkwater Bethune for educating the girl child. In 1856, appointed Special Inspector of Schools, he established 30 schools exclusively for girls. Between 1857 and 1858, when the Mutiny was ravaging the country, he was fighting a different kind of battle, opening 35 girls’ schools all over Bengal.

After widow remarriage, it was the turn of polygamy. In 1857, he orchestrated a petition to the Government with 25,000 signatures for the prohibition of polygamy among Kulin Brahmins. The Mutiny postponed any action on this petition but in 1866, he inspired another petition, this time with 21,000 signatures. The Government, reluctant to interfere in Indian customs, refused to take any legislative measure, instead allowing time and education to bring an end to the practice.

In 1871 and 1873, he wrote two brilliant critiques on polygamy, arguing that it was not sanctioned by the sacred texts, but was opposed by five eminent scholars, led by his friend Taranath Tarkavachaspati of Calcutta Sanskrit College. Outlawing polygamy among Hindus, however, had to wait till 1955, eight years after Independence, through the Hindu Marriage Act. As regards child marriage, the Indian Penal Code, 1860, had fixed the age of consent to 10 years for girls, which was raised successively to 12 (1891), 14 (1925), 16 (1940) and 18 (2013). The Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929, also known as the Sarda Act, fixed the age of marriage at 14 for girls and 18 for boys, that was later raised to 18 and 21 respectively in 1978. This has since been repealed and replaced by the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006.

In 1873, disgusted with the so-called bhadralok society, Vidyasagar went to live with the Santhals at Karmatar, a sleepy hamlet about 20 km from the district headquarters of Jamtara now in Jharkhand, where he would spend the last 18 years of his life till his death in 1891. There he set up a girls’ school and a night school for adults on the premises of his house, which he called Nandan Kanan. The house today lies in shambles.

The irony is that though in this village 24 tribal child widows were remarried by Vidyasagar, just two years ago, a tribal boy was killed in Karmatar because he wished to marry a widow. Has anything really changed in modern India?

Sati was abolished only in name. Countless satis continue to get burnt in 21st century India, though not on pyres. Countless brides get burnt to death in their nuptial homes for dowries, the faces and minds of countless more are scarred forever by acid attacks inflicted by spurned lovers and others. Scores of girls are murdered in “honour-killings” in rural India for marrying into another caste or community, by defying their families’ diktats.

Sati has actually metamorphosed into another form that is equally brutal and vicious. It is not about burning a woman. It is about denying her the choice to decide the course of her life. She is continued to be treated as morally and intellectually inferior to men, as she was 200 years ago. We need another Ram Mohan Roy and a Vidyasagar now, more than ever.

Trump will accept poll results: White House

Washington: President Donald Trump will accept the results of a “free and fair” election, his press secretary has said, allaying fears triggered after he yet again sowed doubts about the legitimacy of mail-in ballots and refused to commit to a peaceful transfer of power if he lost the November 3 presidential polls.

Asked whether he will leave the White House peacefully if he loses the election, Trump responded: “Well, we’re going to have to see what happens.”

“We are going to have to see what happens, you know that. I have been complaining very strongly about the ballots, and the ballots are a disaster...,” Trump told reporters at a White House news conference on Wednesday.

Trump’s remarks caused an uproar, with lawmakers from the Democratic Party as well as from the president’s own Republican Party rejecting his comments, insisting the winner of November’s election will be sworn in next January.

Responding to a question from a reporter on Trump’s refusal to commit to a peaceful transfer of power, White House Press Secretary Kayleigh McEnany said on Thursday: “The president will accept the results of a free and fair election. But I think that your question is more fitting to be asked of Democrats, who have already been on the record saying they will not accept the results of an election.

“I am referring to the president being asked if there would be a peaceful transfer of power and he did not say yes. So I am asking, will there be a peaceful transfer of power if he loses this election?” the reporter asked.

“I believe that question asked by the Playboy reporter - in fact, I think, have it right here - he (Trump) was asked win, lose or draw, whether he would accept the transfer of power. I am not entirely sure if he won, why would he accept a transfer of power. That is maybe the deranged wish of that reporter, but that is not how governing works,” McEnany said.

Trump has questioned the legitimacy of voting by mail-in ballot in the past, claimed that it is susceptible to massive fraud.

During an interview with Fox News earlier this year, Trump didn’t commit to accepting the election results either, saying “I have to see.”

Trump’s attacks on the balloting have led to concerns that he is undermining the trust in the election process and will contest the results if he loses.

McEnany referred to several comments made by the Democrats in the past, apparently questioning the validity of an election.

Aus think tank finds 380 detention camps in Xinjiang

AP ■ CANBERRA

China appears to be expanding its network of secret detention centres in Xinjiang, where predominantly Muslim minorities are targeted in a forced assimilation campaign, and more of the facilities resemble prisons, an Australian think tank has found.

The Australian Strategic Policy Institute used satellite images and official construction tender documents to map more than 380 suspected detention facilities in the far northwestern region, highlighting internment camps, detention centers and prisons that have been newly built or expanded since 2017.

The report builds on evidence that China has made a policy shift from detaining Uighurs and other largely Muslim minorities in makeshift public buildings to constructing permanent mass detention facilities.

This is despite Chinese state news agency Xinhua reporting late last year that “trainees” attending “vocational education and training centres” meant to deracialize them had “all graduated.”

Regional government chairman Shohrat Zakir was quoted as saying that foreign media reports of 1 million or 2 million people attending these centers were fabricated, though he would not provide any figures.

Chinese foreign ministry spokesperson Wang Wenbin on Friday dismissed the report as “pure disinformation and slander,” saying the Australian institute had “no academic credibility.”

China does not operate “so-called detention camps” in Xinjiang, Wang told reporters at a daily briefing.

Citing media reports and investigations by internet users, Wang said one of the sites in the report had been identified as an electronics manufacturing park and another as a five-star residential complex.

Kim apologises over shooting death of South Korean official

Seoul: North Korean leader Kim Jong Un apologized Friday over the killing of a South Korea official near the rivals’ disputed sea boundary, saying he’s “very sorry” about the incident he called unexpected and unfortunate, South Korean officials said.

It’s extremely unusual for a North Korean leader to apologize to South Korea on any issue. Kim’s move will likely de-escalate tensions between the Koreans as it’s expected to ease anti-North sentiments in South Korea over the man’s death as well as mounting criticism of its liberal President Moon Jae-in.

“Comrade Kim Jong Un, the State Affairs Commission chairman, feels very sorry to give big disappointment to President Moon Jae-in and South Korean citizens because an unexpected, unfortunate incident happened” at a time when South Korea grapples with the coronavirus pandemic, Moon adviser Suh Hoon cited the North Korean message as saying.

On Thursday, South Korea accused North Korea of fatally shooting one of its public servants who was likely trying to defect and burning his body after finding him on a floating object in North Korean waters on Tuesday. South Korean officials condemned North Korea for what they called an “atrocious act” and pressed it punish those responsible.

According to the North Korean message, North Korean troops first fired blanks after the man found in the North’s waters refused to answer other than saying he’s from South Korea a couple of times. Then, as he made moves to flee, the North Korean troops fired 10 rounds. When they came near the floating object, they only found lots of blood but no sign of him.

The troops determined he was dead and burned the floating object in line with anti-coronavirus rules, according to the North Korean message read by Suh.

Justice Dept seeks immediate ban on WeChat in US

New York: The Justice Department is seeking an immediate ban on downloads of WeChat in Apple and Google app stores, saying the Chinese-owned messaging service is a threat to the security of the United States.

Last week the U.S. Commerce Department moved to ban WeChat from U.S. App stores but on Saturday, Magistrate Judge Laurel Beeler in California agreed to delay U.S. Restrictions, saying they would affect users’ First Amendment rights.

In a filing Friday, the Justice Department asked Beeler to allow for an immediate ban while the case works its way through court.

WeChat is a messaging-focused app popular with many Chinese-speaking Americans that serves as a lifeline to friends, family, customers and business contacts in China. It’s owned by Chinese tech giant Tencent.

The Justice Department says WeChat allows the Chinese government to collect and use personal data on Americans to advance its own interests. The filing states WeChat has approximately 19 million active daily users in the U.S. In a range of formats, including text, images, video, and audio.

The Justice Department argues that the U.S. Will suffer irreparable harm, both substantive and procedural, if the court does not stay its decision.

The Trump administration has targeted WeChat and another Chinese-owned app, TikTok, for national security and data privacy concerns, in the latest flashpoint amid rising tensions between Washington and Beijing.

‘Hotel Rwanda’ hero admits backing rebels, denies violence

AP ■ KIGALI (RWANDA)

The man portrayed as a hero in the movie ‘Hotel Rwanda’ has admitted in court that he backed a rebel group, but denied that he supported any violence or killings.

Paul Rusesabagina, in a pink prison uniform for his bail hearing on Friday, told the court in Kigali, the capital, that he helped to form the National Liberation Front in order to help Rwandan refugees, but he never supported violence.

The judge has postponed ruling on his application for bail until October 2.

Rusesabagina, a Belgian citizen and U.S. Permanent resident who has been a critic of President Paul Kagame, is charged with 13 offenses that also include financing terrorism, complicity in murder, recruiting child soldiers, and forming a rebel group.

Migrants accuse Greece of pushing them back to sea

AP ■ DIKILI (TURKEY)

Shortly after reaching the Greek island of Lesbos, a group of Afghan migrants say, their hopes for a new life in Europe were cut short when Greek authorities rounded them up, mistreated them, shoved them into life rafts and abandoned them at sea.

Associated Press journalists on a Turkish government-organized coast guard ride-along were aboard the patrol boat that picked up the 37 migrants, including 18 children, from two orange life rafts in the Aegean Sea on September 12.

Two other media organizations on similar government-organized trips in the same week witnessed similar scenes.

“They took our phones and said a bus will come and take you to the camp,” Omid Hussain Nabizada said in Turkish. “But they took us and put us on a ship. They left us on the water in a very bad way on these boats.”

Turkey, which hosts about 4 million refugees, accuses Greece of large-scale push-backs — summary deportations without access to asylum procedures, in violation of international law.

It also accuses the European Union of turning a blind eye to what it says is a blatant abuse of human rights.

The Turkish coast guard says it rescued over 300 migrants “pushed back by Greek elements to Turkish waters” this month alone.

Citing what they say are credible reports, international rights groups have called repeatedly for investigations.

Greece, which lies on the EU’s southeastern border and has borne the brunt of migration flows from Turkey, denies the allegations and in turn accuses Ankara of weaponising migrants.

2 wounded in Paris knife attack outside Charlie Hebdo ex-offices

Paris: French terrorism authorities are investigating a knife attack that wounded at least two people on Friday near the former offices of the satirical newspaper Charlie Hebdo in Paris, authorities said. A suspect has been arrested.

The area in eastern Paris remained cordoned off by police two hours after the attack. Children were being sequestered in nine schools while police worked to determine no other suspects were on the run, according to education and police officials.

It is unclear what motivated the attack or whether it was linked to Charlie Hebdo, which moved after its offices were targeted in a 2015 Islamic extremist attack that left 12 people dead.

Police cordoned off the area, including the former Charlie Hebdo offices, after a suspect package was noticed nearby, but the package was found to be harmless and no explosives were found, according to a police official.

An investigation was opened into “attempted murder in relation with a terrorist enterprise,” according to an official at the prosecutor’s office.

Authorities did not release the identity of the suspect arrested in the area of the Bastille Plaza.

“I saw a guy that was in his 30s or 40s with an axe in his hand who was walking behind a victim covered in blood...I cant tell you how many victims there was, I just saw one,” witness Kader Alfa told The Associated Press at the scene.

Trump victory in Nov will be worse for Assange: Lawyer

London: A lawyer for Julian Assange said on Friday that the WikiLeaks founder’s situation will be worse if President Donald Trump is re-elected in November than if Democrat rival Joe Biden wins.

Edward Fitzgerald said at Assange’s extradition hearing in London that Assange will suffer if he is sent to the US to face spying charges regardless of who wins the November 3 election. “Much of what we say about the fate which awaits Mr Assange remains good because it’s about systemic faults in the prisons and his underlying conditions,” he said. But, he added, “it will be all the worse” if Trump is re-elected. US prosecutors have indicted Assange on 17 espionage charges and one charge of computer misuse over WikiLeaks’ publication of secret American military documents a decade ago. The charges carry a maximum sentence of 175 years in prison.

Assange’s defense team argues that he is a journalist and entitled to First Amendment protections for publishing leaked documents that exposed US military wrongdoing in Iraq and Afghanistan.

China aims to make 1 billion Covid-19 vaccine doses a yr

Beijing: A Chinese health official said on Friday that the country’s annual production capacity for coronavirus vaccines will top 1 billion doses next year, following an aggressive government support programme for construction of new factories.

Capacity is expected to reach 610 million doses by the end of this year, Zheng Zhongwei from the National Health Commission said. “Next year, our annual capacity will reach more than 1 billion doses,” he said at a news conference.

American pharmaceutical giants Pfizer and Moderna aim to produce a billion doses each in 2021 as well.

Zheng said distribution of the vaccines would prioritize groups such as medical workers, border personnel and the elderly before they are made available to the general public.

Belarus detains Opp leader's lawyer amid protests

Kyiv: Authorities in Belarus detained a lawyer representing a top opposition activist who was jailed this month amid mass protests against the country’s authoritarian president, who won a sixth term in a disputed election.

The lawyer, Lyudmila Kazak, went missing on Thursday, with police confirming later in the day that she had been detained.

According to Kazak’s lawyers, she faces administrative charges of participating in an unauthorized rally and resisting a police officer.

Kazak was defending Maria Kolesnikova, a key member of a council Belarus’ political opposition set up to push for a new presidential election.

Kolesnikova is facing charges of undermining state security that could bring a five-year prison term, if she is convicted.

Centre used GST compensation cess elsewhere, violated law: CAG

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The CAG has found that the Union Government in the very first two years of the GST implementation wrongly retained ₹47,272 crore of GST compensation cess that was meant to be used specifically to compensate states for loss of revenue.

In its audit report of Government accounts, the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) flagged that the amount was to be credited to the non-lapsable GST Compensation Cess collection fund for payment to states for loss of revenue due to implementation of GST since 2017, but the Government did not do so, and thus violated the GST law.

“The GST Compensation Cess Act, 2017 provides for levy of cess for the purpose of providing compensation to the states for loss of revenue arising due to implementation of GST for a period specified in the Act,” CAG said. As per the Act and the accounting procedure, the entire cess collected during the year is required to be credited to a non-lapsable Fund (the GST Compensation Cess Fund) which shall form part of the Public Account and shall be used for the purpose mentioned i.e., for providing compensation to states for loss of revenue.

CAG said out of the Rs 62,612 crore GST Compensation Cess collected in 2017-18, ₹56,146 crore was transferred to the non-lapsable fund. In the following year (2018-19), ₹54,275 crore out of ₹95,081 crore collected was transferred to the fund.

The short transfer in 2017-18 was ₹6,466 crore and in 2018-19 it was ₹40,806 crore, CAG said adding the Centre used this money for “other purposes” which “led to an overstatement of revenue receipts and understatement of fiscal deficit for the year.”

The short-crediting was a violation of the GST Compensation Cess Act, 2017.

The issue of compensation cess is driving a wedge between the Centre and states at the GST Council - the highest decision making body of the levy taxes on goods and services since last fiscal.

The Centre says a slowdown in the economy has meant that not enough money is being collected by way of cess that is levied on luxury and sin goods. The Centre has asked states to borrow for meeting the revenue shortfall. States ruled by Congress, Left, TMC and AAP have opposed the move completely arguing that the Centre should borrow and provide to states, since states have given majority of their taxation powers to the Centre under GST regime introduced in July 2017. The CAG findings run contrary to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman's submissions in Parliament last week that states could not be compensated for revenue shortfall from the Consolidated Fund of India (CFI) relying on an opinion from the Attorney General of India which stated that there was no such provision in the law. “Audit examination of information in Statements 8, 9 and 13 with regard to the collection of the cess and its transfer to the GST Compensation Cess Fund, shows that there was short crediting to the Fund of the GST Compensation Cess collections totalling to ₹47,272 crore during 2017-18 and 2018-19,” CAG said in the audit report.

The short-crediting, CAG said, was a violation of the GST Compensation Cess Act, 2017.

“The amount by which the cess was short credited was also retained in the CFI and became available for use for purposes other than what was provided in the Act,” it said. According to CAG, the Finance Ministry accepted the audit observation and stated in February 2020 that the proceeds of cess collected and not transferred to Public Account would be transferred in the subsequent year.

“Short crediting of cess collected during the year led to an overstatement of revenue receipts and understatement of fiscal deficit for the year,” CAG said.

Chinese goods worth ₹20K Cr lying at ports

IANs ■ NEW DELHI

Inflow of Chinese goods could see a rise in the October-December quarter as items worth about ₹20,000 crore - primarily comprising electronics and electrical items, gifts, toys, footwear, home and kitchen appliances - still lie at the Indian ports waiting for clearance.

The traders and importers who had placed their orders in November and December last year are yet to receive a chunk of their consignments. The unprecedented delay in delivery is due to the shutting down of Chinese borders in January and February, followed by the coronavirus pandemic and the subsequent lockdown in India which lasted for about two months beginning March 25.

Official data reveal India's imports from China during the April-August period of the current financial year stood at $21.58 billion-a drop of 27.63 per cent, compared to the corresponding period in the previous year.

“Chunks of orders placed by our traders in December last year are still to arrive. The goods have not yet reached as China was initially closed due to coronavirus and subsequently from March 25, India went into a stringent lockdown for about two months. So, a great deal of Chinese goods -- essentially electronics and electrical items, gifts, toys, footwear, home and kitchen appliances -- still lying at the ports. There should be a slight increase in the inflow of Chinese goods in the coming quarter,” Praveen Khandelwal, secretary general, Confederation of All India Traders (Cait) said. However, Khandelwal said that traders have not placed fresh orders with China for these items since March. India's moves to shun Chinese goods India's growing clamor to reduce imports from China - especially cheap electronic and electrical items including mobile phones, home appliances, gifts and toys -- will deal a big blow to the dragon.

Markets snap 6-day falling streak; IT, banks lead charge

PTI ■ MUMBAI

Equity benchmark Sensex rallied 835 points on Friday after six days of declines as investors returned to buying mode amid a modest recovery in global markets.

A strengthening rupee - which spurred 28 paise against the US dollar - added to the momentum, traders said.

The 30-share BSE Sensex opened higher following Thursday's selloff and stayed in the positive territory throughout the session.

It finally closed at 37,388.66, up 835.06 points or 2.28 per cent. Similarly, the NSE Nifty vaulted 244.70 points or 2.26 per cent to finish at 11,050.25.

All Sensex components ended in the green, with Bajaj Finserv, HCL Tech, Bharti Airtel, IndusInd Bank, L&T, TCS, ICICI Bank, ONGC, Infosys and Bajaj Finance gaining up to 6.64 per cent.

On a weekly basis, the Sensex lost 1,457.16 points or 3.83 per cent, while the Nifty tumbled 454.70 points or 4.04 per cent.

Global markets stabilised following an overnight pullback on Wall Street after reports said US lawmakers were working on a stimulus deal that could be voted on as early as next week.

Gold rises by ₹324, silver jumps ₹2,124

New Delhi: Gold prices rose by ₹324 to ₹50,824 per 10 gram in the national capital on Friday, halting its four-day decline on recovery in international price of the precious metal, according to HDFC Securities. The precious metal closed at ₹50,500 per 10 gram in the previous trade. Silver prices also bounced back and gained ₹2,124 to ₹60,536 per kilogram from previous close of ₹58,412 per kilogram. Spot gold prices for 24 carat in Delhi halted decline by rising Rs 324, in line with recovery in international prices, HDFC Securities Senior Analyst Tapan Patel said.

Govt operationalises ‘Faceless Income Tax Appeals’ system

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Government on Friday issued a notification operationalising ‘Faceless Income Tax Appeals’ system which seeks to honour honest taxpayers of the country and promote transparency in tax collection.

Under faceless appeals, all Income Tax appeals will be finalised in a faceless manner under the faceless ecosystem with the exception of appeals relating to serious frauds, major tax evasion, sensitive and search matters, international tax and Black Money Act, the Finance Ministry said in a statement.

Necessary Gazette notification has also been issued in this regard, it added.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on August 13, while launching the faceless assessment and taxpayers' charter as part of “Transparent Taxation - Honouring the Honest” platform, had announced launching of faceless appeals on September 25 on the birth anniversary of Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay.

In recent years, the Income Tax Department has carried out several reforms in direct taxes for simplification of tax process and ease of compliance for taxpayers.

“Under the Faceless Appeals, from now on, in income tax appeals, everything from e-allocation of appeal, e-communication of notice/questionnaire, e-verification/enquiry to e-hearing and finally e-communication of the appellate order, the entire process of appeals will be online, dispensing with the need for any physical interface between the appellant and the Department,” the ministry said.

India's first RRTS train design unveiled

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs (MoHUA) unveiled the first look of the Delhi-Ghaziabad-Meerut regional rapid transit system (RRTS) on Friday. The 82 km-long RRTS corridor will be the first of its kind in India with a design speed of 180 kmph.

According to the ministry, with a stainless steel outer body, these aerodynamic RRTS trains will be lightweight and fully air-conditioned. Each car will have six automatic plug-in type wide doors, three on each side (Business Class will have four such doors, two on each side) for ease of access and exit. The RRTS trains will have transverse 2x2 seating with adequate legroom, optimized aisle width with grab handles, and grab poles for a comfortable journey for standing passengers, overhead luggage rack, mobile/laptop charging sockets and onboard Wi-Fi among other computer-centric features.

“New Delhi's iconic Lotus Temple is an epitome of sustainability as its design allows flow of natural sources of light and air circulation. On similar lines, RRTS rolling stock will have lighting and temperature control systems to enhance the passenger experience with less energy consumption.

Equipped with modern amenities, the RRTS rolling stock will be a unique amalgamation of new-age technology and India's rich heritage,” the ministry said. The prototype is scheduled to roll off the production line in 2022 and will be put into public use after extensive trials.

Unveiling the first look of India's first RRTS train today, MoHUA Secretary Durga Shankar Mishra said that the environment friendly, energy-efficient rapid transit trains will improve the quality of life in and around NCR by accelerating economic growth. The project will also create economic opportunities by reducing air pollution, carbon footprint, congestion, and accidents. Bombardier was awarded the contract by NCRTC earlier this year to design, build and deliver the regional commuter and intra-city transit trains with comprehensive maintenance services for the Delhi-Ghaziabad-Meerut semi-high-speed rail corridor under RRTS Phase 1.

Google Pay doesn't share customer transaction data with any 3rd party outside payments flow: Google

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Google Pay does not share customer transaction data with any third party outside the payments flow.

The clarification from Google came after reports cited the company's submission to the Delhi High Court saying it is allowed to share customers transaction data with third parties with the prior permission of NPCI and payment service providing (PSP) banks.

This is to clarify that press reports on the basis of the affidavit filed by Google before the Delhi High Court, do not represent the complete facts,” a Google spokesperson said on Friday. The spokesperson added that Google Pay is in full compliance with Unified Payment Interface (UPI) procedural guidelines, issued by the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) and the applicable laws.

“...And does not share customer transaction data with any third party outside the payments flow,” the spokesperson further said. The submission by Google was filed before a bench of Chief Justice D N Patel and Justice Prateek Jalan in response to a PIL seeking action against Google Pay for allegedly violating the RBI's guidelines related to data localisation, storage and sharing.

ANUSHKA SHARMA

Mr Gavaskar, your message is distasteful and I would love if you could explain why you thought of making such a sweeping statement on a wife accusing her for her husband's game? I'm sure over the years you have respected the private lives of every cricketer while commenting on the game. Don't you think you should have equal amount of respect for me and us?

JAVED AKHTAR

If Karan Johar (producer-director) had invited some farmers too for his party, life would have been easier for our TV channels. They would not have had to choose between farmers protest and Karan's party! It seems that Karan's is the second most favourite 'party' of our channels.

RAVEENA TANDON

Half-baked truths about the film industry catch TRP ratings. The crisis in the world is being forgotten by abusive judgements/vilification, people guilty before probe is plain right a public lynching. If proved wrong, will media ever able to restore their reputations, credibility?

TAMANNA BHATIA

I've always been an ardent fan of Tabu's work and it is such an honour to reprise a role played by her. The original film, Andhadhun, has this psychological influence on people and succeeded in inducing a sense of curiosity. What I loved about the film was the brilliance of the script and the screenplay. It had no hero or no villain.

TAAPSEE PANNU

Moments before I went on stage to do try my hand at stand-up comedy for the first time ever, bundles of nerves is an understatement of what I looked like. I'm glad the frequency of my humour matched the audience's expectations so we could create a moment of resonance that still gives me giggles to cherish.

SHORT CIRCUITS

FLASHBACK 60 MINUTES

Delhi's permanent rulers, Rhesus monkeys, recaptured North Avenue mocking the virus and the residents who covered inside their government flats

I still wake up on most dawns in sweat, shattered with the horror and sadness, and sheer aloneness of bodies that came, day in, day out, to the Nigambodh Electric Crematorium, the Muslim Burial Ground and the Christian Cemetery

A PICTURE SPEAKS A THOUSAND WORDS

Author and photographer PARUL SHARMA's book of black-and-white photographs, Dialects of Silence: Delhi Under Lockdown, presents a visual narrative of a locked-down capital, chronicling how lives were paused, lost and regained. By CHAHAK MITTAL

'Surely we belong to Allah, and to Him shall we return'

At an empty Rajpath, there was stillness, one that the city had never breathed. At the Anand Vihar Bus Station, there were crowds of migrant labourers, unprotected and unsanitised, betrayed by people's apathy and denial of their plight. At the Nigambodh Crematorium, Kashmir Gate, there were COVID dead bodies arriving in crowded ambulances. At the Muslim Burial Ground, Dilli Gate, a young widow read the fatiah for her dead husband. At the Christian Cemetery, an infant waited for an unknown gravedigger to perform his last rites as he was abandoned by his parents when they learned he was COVID-positive. Outside the Trauma Centre of AIIMS, there were doctors full of courage preparing to enter the Covid Care Unit, wearing PPE, just to witness another day of victory and loss at the same time.

Amid all these unusual sights, there was author-photographer Parul Sharma capturing this horror show by a deadly pathogen and the frozen reality of life that the world had left behind while hiding from the Coronavirus during the lockdown. The photographs, now published into a book, Dialects of Silence: Delhi Under Lockdown, present a visual narrative of a locked-down capital and a chronicle of lives paused, lives lost and lives regained.

When asked, "Were you afraid?" Parul said, "Of course, I was... Of missing that one shot that I would never find again!" For her, the rush was to cover the city before its stillness shattered and the struggles for being alive turned graver.

Excerpts:

What made you go for it? Was it pre-decided that you would publish these photographs into a book?

No, when I took to the streets, there was no thought of getting a book published in my mind. It was just my obsession with photography and my passion. It was very frightening because there was nobody on the streets. Everything was shut, and not a single soul was seen in miles. I began with capturing the architecture and the deserted roads but

Dialects of Silence (Cover)

Not all have home in a village to go back to — life goes on in makeshift homes under the Dwarka flyover then the narrative changed when the COVID death rate started rising. There was one thing — either I stopped there or I continue shooting. And so it happened. I continued capturing the migrants, doctors in the COVID wards and the burial grounds and crematoriums.

In June, we decided to turn this all into a book.

Why did you call it Dialects of Silence?

There is a conversation right from the beginning of the book, which is more architectural. I went out in pursuit of having a conversation with my city. I have been born and brought up here. My parents have grown up in this city. And I just went out there to capture the undisturbed view of the architecture of my city, the stillness which had crept in due to the lockdown, and above all, the beauty of Delhi. The city actually looked very beautiful during that time.

I just did not know that I'll be turning it into a book. I became a news photographer over night when the migrant story broke and when I started capturing the deaths.

It kind of highlights how even silence has its own language and speaks volumes...

Yes, that's how it actually came — the idea of having a conversation with silence. There was absence everywhere and when I interpret dialects of silence, it also means its different kinds — some conversations were joyous and some were completely opposite, some had sorrows, some had hope, some had anxiety, some were full of fear while some had courage.

When I was shooting the doctors, it was not that I was having some long-drawn conversations with them. I was documenting them doing their job. Even though there was silence in the wards, but there was courage in the air which was speaking to me. They did not have to tell me that now they are heading towards the COVID wing to check on the patients. They didn't tell me that they had courage, it was written on their faces, in their demeanour and in their body language. I'd say, even their PPE couldn't conceal it. And therefore, the 'dialects'.

What were the on-ground challenges?

There were many challenges, of course. But I didn't allow them to come my way. I kept trying to absorb them as they came. I don't like anything to come in between my determination. So I didn't focus much on that part.

Do you think witnessing such a phenomenon would have been possible without a lockdown ever?

I don't think so. It's Delhi we are talking about. Walking down those empty lanes, I saw police guards on duty; monkeys taking over the empty streets, having the whole road to themselves; crows and birds, in flight, unperturbed. Once some guards also asked me if I could feed the stray dogs as people have stopped stepping out and feeding them. Such gestures proved how nobody was there for each other and at the same time, everyone was. They were concerned for each other. It's both the ways and it began a dialogue between me and those dogs I fed, and the guards who were the only humans I came across. I have never seen or captured Delhi in such a frame.

You've captured the COVID burial grounds, and bodies being cremated in electric crematoriums. Witnessing such a saddening sight so closely, did it impact you personally?

Oh my god, yes! It had psychological implications. I think that's the first thing that gets hit in such scenarios — psychological health. There are people who may capture a great tragedy but at the same time, they won't be personally moved by it as that varies from person to person. But for someone like me, it affects psychologically. I could not sleep for those nights.

There are also other factors hitting you — how did the people contract the virus? What if you also contract it? And end up the same way? How active is the virus even now? Should you be near these bodies? What if it's more potent right now? How long before it dies completely? There's a constant conflict. And with this virus, you can never know. People are contracting the virus even while sitting inside their homes. You do feel scared.

Then come the sensory aspects — sight, sound, smell. Especially, when you visit a place like a crematorium, smell plays a huge role because the air is so putrid, nobody wants to be inside. Capturing such a place is not like shooting architecture or a beautiful landscape. You can leave it there and come back with a relaxed mind. You have enjoyed that moment and it lingers on with you. But after returning home from a place like this, it's difficult to switch off. You don't forget it as easily. Your coping mechanism has to be strong.

Reconciling something tragic is difficult...

Indeed, I don't know whether I would ever be able to forget those images in my head. Especially, those episodes where I saw a young widow reading the fatiah of her husband being buried and how the last rites of a COVID-dead child were being performed by a stranger. I remember I was inside an electric cremation centre and after a point of time, I was all alone and there were two COVID dead bodies lying three feet away from me. They were wrapped in plastic sheet. When I turned back, I saw another ambulance arriving, which had five more dead bodies. Similar to a war-like scenario, after one round of disposal, quickly, there were more of them coming and more...

It was tough to navigate things. At times you're also fearful that something might happen to you or your family. A lot of composure was required to also capture the dead bodies with an aesthetic and giving them the due respect. You can't make it look bizarre or dramatic.

In the book, there's a caption — "June was the cruelest month..."

There were many deaths in June. The migrant crisis had broke out, the Shramik Special started, a lot of migrants died in road accidents and on tracks, and the COVID death rate in India started rising and people were dying. And it's still continuing.

You have captured how the pandemic gave birth to a migrant labour crisis in India. How do you think photographs create a history of their own?

Photographs create history. I got one of the biggest compliments recently when I was told that my photographs remind them, especially the migrant mother-and-child series, of the famous American photographer Dorothea Lange, who had shot a lot of migrants in America during the Great Depression. Lange said that 'if you're taking a picture, take it as if you were to become blind tomorrow. Don't shoot for the sake of it'.

Not that I was governed by her aesthetics but I looked for hope and beauty. The migrants that I have shot were not in motion. I didn't shoot them during movement. I saw some sitting waiting at bus stands, railways junctions or under a flyover. It was very heartbreaking to see a family of six who had a disabled, malnourished child. They could not travel with her back to their village because it was difficult to carry the child. That image has now been picked by Getty images.

What's your take on the migrant crisis?

As a Delhiite, I feel, we should have done something for those people. Buses and food supplies were organised later but as a society, there is a collective apathy we have for situations like these. We love to play the blame game — the government doesn't do its job — and just present a drawing room view of the crisis. I think the migrants were not betrayed by the government, they were betrayed by their employers. The people just washed their hands off them when the lockdown began. And no government could be prepared for a crisis like this!

Was there a specific reason of keeping the photographs black and white?

It's raw. First section of the book — architecture — reminds me of Delhi of the '40s, devoid of people, cars, and pollution, which is why I tried to give them a retro touch. I didn't want to give colour to the deaths I've captured. The doctors, whose courage gave hope to millions, and the scenario they are in, it's devoid of colours.

There is also a special photograph, the last one, the only one which has been composed. It shows how the virus took a toll on even romance and love. I had to make a couple pose to make that frame I imagined come alive. It makes the book end on a hopeful and a positive note.

CONVERSATION 45 MINUTES

FEEL THE PULSE

Director MAQBOOL KHAN talks to SAKSHI SHARMA about the newness of the characters in his forthcoming film Khaali Peeli, commercial entertainers and the importance of youth-centric films in today’s time

Be it Dev Anand in Taxi Driver (1954), Amitabh Bachchan in Khuddaar (1982) or Aamir Khan in Raja Hindustani (1996), there have been various films impressing their generations with the portrayals of a taxi driver. Maqbool Khan-directorial Khaali Peeli seems to be the next in line. The entire film has been designed keeping this Gen Z in mind as the director feels that the generation after 90s haven’t watched many masala films like he did in the 80s and 90s.

It is a romantic comedy flick revolving around the lives of two childhood friends, who separate due to inevitable circumstances. Actor Ishaan Khatter plays the role of Blackie, a taxi driver and actor Ananya Panday (as Pooja Gujjar) is a girl who comes from a conservative family and wants to be on her own. Excerpts of our conversation with the filmmaker.

◆How did you conceptualise the film with the 90s vibe in a contemporary setup?

I shifted to Mumbai in early 90s and have been living here for 25 to 30 years. Based out of Rajasthan, earlier, I used to go to Mumbai during summer vacations. It has always been a fascinating city and has attracted me since it was known as Bombay. The Kali Peeli taxi is the city’s most iconic thing. So when we were toying up the idea of creating this entire story, we intentionally decided to create something around Mumbai and the taxi. That’s how it was incorporated in the story. The guy (Ishaan) who drives the taxi is the hero of the film. He’s a very street-smart kind of person. The story gradually becomes interesting when you see the colourful life of Mumbai as well as its dark sides through his point of view.

◆There have been many Bollywood characters based on drivers of a Kaali Peeli taxi in Mumbai in the past. How do you think Ishaan’s character is different? Has it been inspired from any real-life instances?

Yes. There have been instances and films where heroes have portrayed taxi wallas earlier but I haven’t seen a young actor in his mid-20s attempting something like this as far as recent films are concerned. This is the newness of this character. Also, Ishaan has a huge fan following among the youngsters which will help us establish a good connect with them.

The look, style and various dialogues are inspired from real instances. In Mumbai, out of 10 taxi drivers you will find at least two to three the way Ishaan’s character is portrayed in the film. You will find too many heroes in real life when you travel in a taxi or an auto rickshaw there. If you observe them closely, you realise that their personality, body language and the way they interact with passengers is not less than a hero because they see and worship Bollywood heroes every day. They are so quirky, colourful and the kind of one liner they use is outstanding. That’s how the whole idea of creating a character like this came about.

◆How does the film attempt to take us back to the retro times? What are some of the nuances?

From the trailer itself you can make out various nuances — the sounds, background score and dialect — is very retro yet contemporary, keeping today’s generation in mind. It will remind you of one of the finest music directors, RD Burman, who was way ahead of his time. The dialogues in the film are used in everyday language of Mumbai. When you go on the streets or in an auto Rickshaw, you will find them. The entire first teaser that we released has the cricket reference in it as it is worshiped like a religion here. It’s not a sport merely, it’s an emotion. We live for cricket. That was exciting for the young generation, probably the reason they connected with the trailer and song. This film has been made keeping the youngsters in mind. They are the pulse of it. I wondered if I had to cater a typical Bollywood masala film how do I do that? So, the entire film has been designed keeping this generation in mind as I feel they haven’t watched many masala films which I have in my 80s and 90s.

◆How easy or challenging was it to work with Ishaan and Ananya? How did you manage to get them into the skin of the character, especially in terms of the dialect?

Honestly, it was a very difficult task for me. They both are such a bundle of energy that I had to match the pace of my energy with them. As a filmmaker, I had to take control and channel their energy in the right direction. If we talk about the dialect, it was important for their characters to speak the colloquial language of Mumbai in order to be relatable. Hence, they were trained for two months to get it on point. They are young but still very sorted in their heads. They exactly know what they want from life. When I was their age, I didn’t know what I had to do in life. They both are very well read, sensible enough, aware and informed about what’s going around the world in terms of cinema. I have learned a lot from these kids.

◆Ananya’s character seems to be of a girl from a conservative background, who just wants to break free and be on her own. Women have been portrayed in that scenario before in many films. How is this one different?

It was intentional. We wanted to create a character of a girl, who is from a conservative and underprivileged background yet who’s progressive in her thoughts and aspires of living a life of her dreams. Today’s girls are very smart and independent. Ananya’s character is exactly similar to that. If she’s put in a situation where it’s difficult to sustain and survive, she will make sure she gets out of that smartly. She is basically Nehle Pe Dehla. It’s a pure commercial entertainer, full of action, romance, drama, humour and thriller. The film will take one back in the 90s when Mumbai was known as Bombay.

◆If we look at content these days, it has changed drastically, especially with OTT taking over...

How do you think such commercial entertainers will survive amid the flood of unconventional and innovative content? How do you see its future?

I believe there has always been a future to all kinds of cinema. There are some people who still crave for commercial masala films. For instance, Simmba is a commercial out and out film and it did quite well. I feel everything co-exist in our society. As humans, we adapt to the situation like we are adapting to the current chaotic and unprecedented times. I can recall the time when commercial cinema was dominating but at the same time, you also had films like Saaransh, Daddy, Sadak and Dharavi. Different kinds of films survived it all together that too very beautifully. So I feel there will always be a room and space for every kind of cinema and every kind of genre.

◆The song, initially titled Beyonce Sharma Jayegi, has now been changed to Duniya Sharma Jayegi. It has been perceived in a very racist manner and disapproved by the audience around the world, including Beyonce herself. Do you think such item numbers in Bollywood have long lost their popularity among the Indian audience given that how the lyrics sometimes turn out to be hurtful of people’s sentiments?

It was picked out of context. A certain section of audience brought this to our notice which none had thought including the music director and the lyrics writer. If at all we knew that it can taken into this direction, we would have never used such words. The word Goriya has been used so often in Indian songs to address a girl that it didn’t occur to any of us to interpret it in the literal manner. I can recall a few songs that has the word Goriya — Chura Ke Dil Mera Goriya Chali from the film Main Khiladi Tu Anari, Gori Tera Gaon Bada Pyara from Chitchor and Goriya Re Goriya from Aaina. The word has always been used to refer a girl. You don’t dance on lyrics, you dance on the beats of the song as music connects you to the soul.

(The film releases on October 2.)

TRIBUTE 15 MINUTES

A lost battle

Music connoisseurs along with singer Asha Bhosle mourn the loss of playback legend SP BALASUBRAHMANYAM. She recalls how he sang songs for RD Burman and helped her with Tamil pronunciation for her song with Ilayaraja Famed playback singer and Padma awardee SP Balasubrahmanyam, popular as SPB or Balu in the film world, passed away on Friday afternoon.

In a statement issued on Friday the hospital said, “In a further setback this morning, despite maximal life support measures and the best efforts of the clinical team, his condition deteriorated further and he suffered a cardio-respiratory arrest. With profound grief, we regret to inform that he has passed away on September 25 at 13.04 hours.”

Balasubrahmanyam was a great achiever. He recorded over 40,000 songs in 16 languages and bagged six National Awards over a period of five decades. He is a recipient of civilian awards such as Padma Shri (2001) and Padma Bhushan (2011) from the Government of India. He intended to be an engineer but had a fall-out due to a bout of typhoid. SPB made his playback debut in 1966 Telugu film Sri Sri Sri Maryada Ramanna.

Famed director Bharathiraja, after visiting the iconic singer at the hospital, told the media at this time of grief he was not able to speak anything. “Even now there is some ray of hope. There is one power above us all,” Bharathiraja said.

SPB and veteran actor Kamal Haasan have been a popular combination of the audience for long. Stating that Balasubrahmanyam is a national voice, Kamal Haasan noted how the departed icon was an artist who celebrated talent. Kamal said, “When the bond gets really close, you actually forget the first meeting. He had been part of my romance, first love, melancholy.” “He was a national voice. You can’t restrict him to just Tamil language. He was a huge fan of Mohammed Rafi and Kishore Kumar. I think it’s the duty of the younger generation to learn from the older generation and excel. SPB was able to do that,” added he.

Tamil superstar Rajinikanth also expressed his grief. He shared a video speaking in Tamil, where he said, “Today is a very sad day for everybody. SPB struggled till the last minute. I am in deep pain. Today, all music lovers, people who knew him and everyone, are in deep sorrow. His voice and songs are loved by people across the country. He always tried to help people seeking win hearts for more than 100 years. He was a great soul and a great singer. May his soul rest in peace. I offer my condolences to his family.” Lata Mangeshkar tweeted, “Pratibhashaali gayak, madhurbhashi, bahut nek insaan SP Balasubrahmanyam ji ke swargwas ki khabar sunke main bahut vyathit hun. Humme kai gaane saath gaaye, kai shows kiye. Sab baatein yaad aarahi hain. Ishwar unki aatma ko shanti de. Meri samvedanaayein unke pariwar ke saath hain (I am heartbroken to learn about the demise of gifted singer, soft-spoken person and a very good human being SP Balasubrahmanyam. We have recorded so many songs and performed several shows together. I am reminded of those beautiful memories of the olden days. May god rest his soul in peace. My condolences with his family.”

Asha Bhosle said, “This year has seen a lot of unfortunate events. And the news of SPB’s demise makes me even sadder. He was a versatile artist. His duet with Lata didi was very memorable. Balu sang a lot of songs for RD Burman and was his great friend. He had helped me a lot with my Tamil pronunciation in my song for Ilayaraja. The loss of such a great artist has left a huge void in the music world. I wish his soul to rest in peace in this musical journey to be one with the almighty. RIP Balu.”

It is just the second match and in the first match, we won because of the death bowling. So, it is too early. We bowled well but KL batted so well

Anil sir has always asked me to back strength in my bowling and skill. He asked me not to try too many things and try to be cool and calm in the middle

We have had a good game (against Sunrisers Hyderabad), we have had a bad game and now it is time to move on and learn from the mistakes we made

Once I am in the middle and during the toss is the only time I feel like a captain and otherwise I try to balance being a player and the captain

Prithvi shines as Delhi Capitals make it two wins in two

PTI ■ DUBAI

Mahendra Singh Dhoni's decision to come down the order yet again backfired as Delhi Capitals rode on Prithvi Shaw's fluent fifty and a disciplined bowling effort to inflict a 44-run defeat on Chennai Super Kings, their second straight loss in the ongoing IPL here on Friday.

Young Shaw struck a fluent half-century and shared a 94-run opening stand with Shikhar Dhawan to guide Delhi Capitals to 175 for three.

Shaw made 64 off 43 balls in the company of Dhawan (35 off 27 balls, 3 fours, 1 six) to provide a superb start to DC's innings after being put into bat.

While defending, Delhi Capitals made full use of CSK's lacklustre batting performance to register their second consecutive win of the tournament, which took them to the top of the points table.

CSK skipper Dhoni did not push himself up the order on Friday, given the expectations after his decision to hold himself back in the game against Rajasthan Royals backfired, which meant the veteran again did not have enough time and balls to take his side home.

Coming in at No 6 in the 16th over with 78 runs needed from 4.2 overs while chasing 176, Dhoni could only make 15 runs (12 balls, 2 fours) in what was a below par performance from the two-time champions.

South African Faf du Plessis was the top-scorer with 43 while his compatriots Kagiso Rabada (3 for 26) and Anrich Nortje (2 for 21) shone with the ball to fashion a memorable win for Delhi Capitals.

CSK's veteran opener Murali Vijay's struggles continued as he could make only 10 (off 15 balls) for a third straight failure.

Fellow opener Shane Watson fell while attempting to break the shackles, caught in the deep by Shimron Hetmyer off Axar Patel, unable to capitalise on a reprieve by Shaw.

With the asking rate climbing up, Du Plessis could not force the pace against a disciplined DC bowling attack with the spin duo of Amit Mishra (4-0-23-0) and Axar Patel (4-0-18-1) keeping the CSK batsmen on a tight leash.

Young Ruturaj Gaikwad (5) and Kedar Jadhav (26 from 21 balls) could not provide the much-needed thrust as CSK's woes continued.

Earlier, Shaw and Dhawan started slowly, scoring just 36 runs of the first six overs of powerplay before opening up to stitch 94 runs for the opening wicket in 10.4 overs.

Shaw, who began by hitting two consecutive boundaries off Deepak Chahar in the first over of the match, didn't appear to rush things and played some attractive shots.

Once the CSK skipper Dhoni introduced the spin duo of Piyush Chawla and Ravindra Jadeja in the seventh over, both Shaw and Dhawan went on the offensive.

Chawla, who was taken apart by Sanju Samson in their previous game against Rajasthan Royals, came in for some rough treatment as did Jadeja who went wicketless in his four overs (0/44).

Dhawan after playing second fiddle for a while, joined the party and hit a couple of attractive boundaries and slogged Jadeja's first ball for a six over mid-wicket.

The DC openers hammered 58 in the next 4.4 overs after the slow start.

Chawla broke the dangerous-looking partnership by removing both Dhawan and Shaw in consecutive overs.

Rishabh Pant (37 not out, 25 balls) and captain Shreyas Iyer (26, 22 balls) pushed the scoreboard along before the latter was caught by a diving Dhoni off Sam Curran as CSK managed to pull things back.

KKR, SRH hunt first win

PTI ■ ABU DHABI

Skipper Dinesh Karthik's tactical snous will once again be put to test when Kolkata Knight Riders take on a depleted Sunrisers Hyderabad in their second IPL fixture on Saturday.

Much was expected from a revamped Kolkata Knight Riders set-up but it seemed Karthik did not learn from his past mistakes and made some inexplicable decisions that led to their complete capitulation against Mumbai Indians.

Once again, the batting position of their biggest hitter Andre Russell became the talking point in their 49-run loss to Mumbai Indians.

The Jamaican, who was their highest run-getter last season with 510 runs from 249 deliveries and the tournament's highest strike rate of 204.81, was seen at No 6 but by then the task had become extremely difficult.

World Cup winning captain Eoin Morgan, who was roped in to bolster the wobbly middle order, also could not do much as the asking rate had shot past 13 by the time he came to bat at No 5.

In bowling too, there was a tactical blunder by holding back their ace spinner Sunil Narine till the last over of powerplay.

On a day, their biggest buy Pat

Cummins failed miserably, Narine was given a go only when his IPL 'bunny' Rohit Sharma was well set.

It really defied logic to see such a defensive strategy by a team now coached by Kiwi great Brendon McCullum who is known for his aggressive mindset.

Known to put up a balanced side on the park, Hyderabad lacked strength and experience in their middle-order, failing miserably against Royal Challengers Bangalore.

Needing just 43 runs from last five overs, SRH lost their last seven wickets for 32 runs to lose the game by 10 runs.

If that was not enough, injury to their all-rounder Mitchell Marsh has compounded their misery.

Skipper David Warner, after being run out in an unfortunate manner at the non-striker's end, will be keen to get into the act, while it remains to be seen whether Kane Williamson has recovered from his injury to bolster the batting department.

SRH bowling has always been impressive and it seems the think tank may bring in Mohammed Nabi to bowl alongside his fellow mate Rashid Khan while Bhuvneshwar Kumar will spearhead the pace attack.

All Bayern do is win trophies

Martínez delivers emotional extra-time Super Cup for Bavarians

Bayern Munich players celebrate with the UEFA Super Cup trophy

AP ■ BUDAPEST

Javi Martínez is Bayern Munich's Mr Super Cup.

Seven years after scoring an extra-time goal to help Bayern win its last UEFA Super Cup, Martínez netted the winner in the 104th minute on Thursday as the German club beat Sevilla 2-1 in the European curtain raiser in a stadium partially filled with fans.

Martínez rose above a crowd of players to head in the rebound when Sevilla goalkeeper Yassine Bounou parried David Alaba's speculative shot.

Bayern midfielder Thomas Müller hailed Martínez as "Mr Super Cup," recalling the 2013 goal which sent a game against Chelsea to a penalty shootout which Bayern won.

It could be one of Martínez's last games for Bayern after eight years and eight Bundesliga titles.

Chairman Karl-Heinz Rummenigge told German media last month that the versatile defensive player was seeking to leave.

"When I play in a Bayern shirt I want to give everything, 100%, and I showed that today," Martínez told Sky, leaving a question about his future open.

Playing extra time was far from ideal for either team in a season which has started later than normal and will have a more congested calendar amid the coronavirus pandemic. For both Bayern and Sevilla it was the start of a run of four games in 11 days and came barely a month after Bayern beat Paris Saint-Germain in the Champions League final.

Europa League champion Sevilla took an early lead when David Alaba fouled Ivan Rakitic and Lucas Ocampos converted the 13th-minute penalty.

Champions League winner Bayern leveled when Leon Goretzka hammered in a ball expertly cued up for him by Lewandowski in the 34th.

Bayern was largely in control of the second half but saw two goals ruled out — one for offside, one for a shove by Lewandowski — and needed Neuer to save Youssef En-Nesyri's shot on the counterattack in the 87th minute.

Lionel Messi posted a photo of himself with Luis Suárez on Instagram with a message expressing his sadness for his friend's departure and his anger at how the club transferred him to Atlético Madrid

Liverpool to play Arsenal twice next week

AP ■ LONDON

Liverpool teenager Curtis Jones scored twice in a 7-2 victory over Lincoln in the League Cup, and defending champion Manchester City edged past Bournemouth 2-1.

Liverpool advanced to a fourth-round meeting next Thursday with Arsenal, which also plays at Anfield in the Premier League on Monday.

Phil Foden's late goal secured City's progress to a match next week with Burnley.

The 19-year-old Jones scored Liverpool's third and fourth goals before halftime, cutting in from the left on both occasions to curl in right-footed shots, and was the visitors' main creative force in midfield.

Jones also won the free kick from which Xherdan Shaqiri whipped in the opener for his first goal in over nine months.

Takumi Minamino continued his promising start to the season with a first-time shot in the 18th minute.

All of Liverpool's four first-half goals were scored from at least 20 yards.

Eighteen seconds after the break Minamino added another, stabbing in Harvey Elliott's smothered effort.

Marko Grubic scored his first for the club almost five years after joining, and Divock Origi wrapped up the rout in the 89th with his ninth goal in 12 League Cup matches.

Tayo Edun and Lewis Montsma had made it 5-1 and 6-2 by scoring for third-tier side Lincoln.

SPURS AWARDED BYE

Tottenham have been awarded a bye into the fourth round of the League Cup after their tie with Leyton Orient was called off on Tuesday following a spate of coronavirus cases at the League Two club.

Fourth-tier Orient tried to rearrange the game but League Cup rules mean that they must forfeit the tie, allowing Spurs to go through to play Chelsea.

Spurs will now prepare for four games in eight days, starting with the visit of Newcastle on Sunday.

Jose Mourinho's men then host Chelsea on Tuesday, host Maccabi Haifa in Europa League qualifying on Thursday and travel to Manchester United a week on Sunday.
