Opp begins Session boycott

Suspended MPs end sit-in; united Opp plans long-term protest against farm Bills

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Opposition parties led by the Congress on Tuesday began the boycott of the remaining part of the Monsoon Session to demand the revocation of the suspension of eight MPs and the introduction of a Bill to bar private players from buying farm produce below the minimum support price (MSP).

The battle-line drawn between the ruling BJP and the Opposition after the passing of two controversial farm Bills in the Rajya Sabha impacted the Lok Sabha, too, where Opposition members, including from the DMK, Congress, NCP and TMC, boycotted the proceedings demanding "withdrawal" of the Bills before they are sent to the President for his consent.

While the Opposition members staged a walkout in the Rajya Sabha and announced to boycott the entire ongoing session, the Opposition MPs in the Lok Sabha joined them to express solidarity with them.

The eight suspended members who were on a sit-in dharna overnight on Parliament premises called off their protest and joined the Lok Sabha MPs to strategise a broad-based boycott.

"Senior Opposition leaders, including Congress Leader of the Opposition Ghulam Nabi Azad, appealed to all of us sitting at the dharna to finish it and join them in boycotting the rest of the session. That is how we have ended this dharna," said Congress Rajya Sabha member Syed Nasir Hussain.

"We not only want our suspension to be revoked but also want the farm Bills to be taken back and discussed further. There should be proper voting on it," Hussain said.

Hussain is among the eight MPs who were suspended for the Session over "gross disorderly conduct" during the passage of the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020, and the Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020 on Sunday.

Trinamool Congress' Derek O'Brien and Dola Sen, Congress' Rajeev Satav, Ripun Bora, Aam Aadmi Party's Sanjay Singh, CPI(M)'s Elamaram Kareem and KK Ragesh are the other suspended MPs.

Soon after the Upper House resumed, the Opposition parties led by Congress staged a walkout after their demand for revocation of suspension of the eight MPs fell on deaf ears. In order to pacify the members at dharna, the Rajya Sabha Deputy Chairman Harivansh had offered them tea requesting them to call off their protest but in vain.

Congress Rajya Sabha member and Chief Whip Jairam Ramesh took to twitter to give seven reasons behind the decision to boycott the proceedings.

Several senior Opposition leaders, including Azad, Samajwadi Party's Ram Gopal Yadav, Janata Dal (Secular) leader and former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda and NCP Praful Patel, appealed to Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu to revoke the suspension of the eight leaders.

Harivansh observes fast to express anguish over MPs' unruly behaviour

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

In an unprecedented act in the history of Parliament, Rajya Sabha Deputy Chairman Harivansh Narayan Singh went on a one-day fast on Tuesday to express his anguish over the Opposition MPs' "unruly" behaviour during the vote on the farm Bills on Sunday.

He also wrote letter to President Ram Nath Kovind and Vice-President M Venkaiah Naidu narrating the incident which had led him to announce the token fast in front of the Mahatma Gandhi statue in Parliament.

Harivansh announced his fast shortly after he met eight Rajya Sabha members protesting on the lawns on the Parliament complex and offered them tea, a gesture that the MPs snubbed.

"After what happened on Sunday, I have been extremely anguished, distressed and in mental agony and have been unable to sleep for the past two days... "In the name of democracy, Opposition members behaved in a violent manner and there were attempts to intimidate the Chair," Harivansh wrote in his letter.

China's rapid military build-up alarms India

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

China continues to rapidly cramp up its military prowess all along the border stretching from Arunachal Pradesh in the east to Ladakh in the west as talks are on to defuse the volatile situation at the Line of Actual Control.

The Chinese have doubled up their airbases and other military installations in the last three years thereby threatening India's strategic interests.

China has already deployed more than 150 aircraft and helicopters close to the LAC in Ladakh where both the countries share a 1,700 km long border. Satellite images and a report by Stratfor, a global intelligence platform, about the massive build up has alarmed the Indian security establishment.

The rapid improvement in military infrastructure started right after the 73-day stand-off between India and China in Doklam, Sikkim in 2017. Intervention at the highest political and diplomatic levels then defused the situation.

Since then, China has more than doubled its total number of airbases, air defence positions and heliports near the Indian border. The Stratfor report gives details of China's military-infrastructure build-up through a detailed analysis of satellite images of military facilities.

"The timing of the Chinese build-up of military facilities along the border with India just prior to the ongoing Ladakh standoff suggests these border tensions are part of a much larger effort by China to assert control over its border regions,"

Beijing has doubled airbases, military installations along LAC in last 3 years

SINISTER DESIGN

- China has already deployed more than 150 aircraft and helicopters close to LAC in Ladakh, according to satellite images and a report by Stratfor, a global intelligence platform
- It has started constructing at least 13 entirely new military positions near its borders with India
- The timing of the Chinese build-up of military facilities along the border with India just prior to the ongoing Ladakh standoff suggests these border tensions are part of a much larger effort by China

says Sim Tack, a senior global analyst with Stratfor and the author of the report.

Significantly, China's upgrade of its military infrastructure is far from complete. "The expansion and construction of military infrastructure is in most cases still underway, so the Chinese military activity that we are seeing along the border with India today is only the beginning of a longer-term intent," the report says.

The consequences of this for India, which has been involved in a violent face-off with China in eastern Ladakh since early May, seem clear. "Once finished, this infrastructure will provide support for an even greater intensity of Chinese operations."

According to the report, China has "started constructing at least 13 entirely new military positions near its borders with India". This includes three airbases, five permanent air defence positions and five heliports. "Construction on four of those new heliports started after the onset of the current Ladakh crisis in May," it says.

China's military build-up along the Indian borders, the report says, is part of a bigger strategy similar to its goals in the South China Sea where Beijing has dredged land around tiny coral atolls to develop full-fledged air bases and naval facilities.

11 Bills passed in Opp MPs' absence

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Parliament on Tuesday passed as many as 11 Bills, three of them related to the crucial labour sector and the fourth one with regard to essential commodities without the participation of the Opposition.

One of those Bills will allow companies to hire and fire at will if the staff strength is less than 300. The other one will virtually decriminalise hoarding of what were defined essential commodities. While the Bill will decide the fate of tens of thousands of workers and millions of farmers, they met with no scrutiny from Opposition parties.

The Centre used the Opposition's decision to boycott both Houses of Parliament to rush through these Bills. The Rajya Sabha passed seven Bills, and the Lok Sabha passed four Bills, including three Bills on labour sector.

The three labour sector Bills passed in the Lok Sabha are: Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code 2020; the Industrial Relations Code 2020 and the Code on Social Security 2020.

Later the Lok Sabha also passed Jammu & Kashmir Official Language (Amendment) Bill which makes five languages as official languages in the State. Earlier only Urdu was considered as the only official language. As per the new Bill apart from Urdu, Kashmiri, Hindi, Dogri and Punjabi will be official language.

Rajya Sabha passed seven Bills, which include Banking Regulation (Amendment) Bill, 2020.

Sharad Pawar gets I-T notice on poll affidavits

Mumbai: NCP chief Sharad Pawar on Tuesday said the Income Tax department has served him a notice in connection with his poll affidavits submitted to the Election Commission.

Talking to reporters here, Pawar said the Income Tax department has sought his "clarification and explanation" on some poll affidavits furnished by him.

"I got the notice yesterday... We are happy that they (the Centre) love us from among all the members... The notice was served by Income Tax after the Election Commission asked (it) to... We will reply to the notice," he said.

He was responding to a query on reports that his daughter and Lok Sabha member Supriya Sule, Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray and Environment Minister Aaditya Thackeray had received similar notices from the I-T department.

LAC talks inconclusive but raises hopes

Both sides agree to stop sending more troops to frontline, to avoid misunderstandings

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The 14-hour military-diplomatic level talks between India and China on Monday to defuse tension at the Line of Actual Control (LAC) ended on a positive note.

The talks were held in a positive manner, and it is hoped that another two to three rounds of dialogues in the coming days may start the process of disengagement of troops.

India and China on Tuesday in a joint statement after the sixth round of Corps Commanders talks agreed to "stop sending more troops to the frontline" and "refrain from unilaterally changing the situation on the ground" while agreeing to hold more talks to resolve the standoff.

"They agreed to earnestly implement the important consensus reached by the leaders of the two countries, strengthen communication on the ground, avoid misunderstandings and misjudgements, stop sending more troops to the frontline, refrain from unilaterally changing the situation on the ground, and avoid taking any actions that may complicate the situation," the joint statement said on the senior military commander-level on Monday. The two sides had candid and in-depth exchanges of views on stabilising the situation along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in the India-China border areas, it stated.

Sources said while the disengagement is yet to be agreed upon, the recent talks will ensure there will not be any further build up along the LAC. The two sides also agreed to hold the seventh round of military commander level talks as soon as possible, "take practical measures to properly solve problems on the ground, and jointly safeguard peace and tranquillity in the border area," the statement added.

Also, the two delegations reaffirmed their commitment to abide by the five-point plan outlined by External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and his Chinese counterpart Wang Yi for disengagement.

DTC completes second trial of e-ticketing app

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The phase-2 trial of a contactless mobile ticketing app 'Chart' completed successfully in Delhi by the Delhi Transport Corporation (DTC) on Tuesday.

"The second phase trial from 7th to 21st September covered more than 60 routes from four depots of Delhi Integrated Multi-Modal Transit System (DIMTS) namely Dilshad Garden, Kair Depot, Kushak Nallah Depot, Sunehri Pullah Depot and one route from two depots of the DTC namely Hasanpur Depot and Gazipur Depot," the department said in a statement issued on Tuesday.

Out of the 51,644 total tickets purchased through this app in this 14 day period, 79.4 per cent were free pink tickets for female passengers. An average of 6 per cent ticketing was done through the app during the trial, whereas the AC buses observed 7 per cent tickets sold through the app, it said.

The trial was conducted by a special task force constituted for this purpose by the transport minister that consisted experts from Transport Department, Indraprastha Institute of Information Technology (IIIT-D), Delhi Integrated Multi-Modal Transit System Ltd. (DIMTS), Delhi Transport Corporation (DTC) and World Resources Institute (WRI).

The app has been developed with the technical support of IIIT-Delhi. The phase-1 trial of the 'Chart' App was conducted for three days on all cluster buses of route number 473. "The app is likely to be implemented in all Cluster and DTC buses by first week of November 2020. The App can be downloaded from Google Playstore which is now available as a full version. One can also WhatsApp "Hi" on 9910096264 to get the App URL," it said.

"The app has received good responses from the passengers. We have rectified all glitches that we've noticed in the previous trials. We are also in the process of incorporating daily and monthly passes, along with developing a system for non-Smartphone users to buy tickets," said Transport Minister Kailash Gahlot.

"We are looking forward to covering all the Cluster and DTC buses under this app by the first week of November," he added.

"The passengers can take an e-ticket through 'Chart' mobile App after boarding the bus. In case a user knows the ticket fare, he/she can also open the App and click on "by fare", scan the QR code of the bus, select buy new ticket and choose the payment option to get the ticket. In case a user knows the route, source and destination, he/she can click on "by destination", select the bus route and source stop, select destination stop, click on buy and scan Bus QR code and choose the payment option to pay and get the ticket," it added.

The statement further said that the App automatically suggests 'Pink Ticket' (free) for female passengers based on the gender entered by the user.

PM's false propaganda on farm Bill exposed: AAP

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

A national spokesperson Raghav Chadha on Tuesday said that the false "propaganda" of Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led Central Government has been exposed after an advertisement on the recently passed farmer Bills in Parliament was published in leading newspapers in English to make farmers understand terms 'Minimum Support Price' (MSP), 'Public Distribution System' (PDS) and public procurement.

Terming it a mockery of the oppressed and distressed state of the farmers, Chadha said, "Today, the Modi-led Central government has set a new record of brightening their faces with the hard-earned money of the common taxpayers.

They have further deepened the wounds of the deceived farmers by giving an advertisement in some of the leading newspapers of India and tried to explain the MSP and the MSP PDS system in the English language." "Which farmer in India would read this newspaper and ad with his morning cup of cappuccino, and understand the MSP? I want to question the Centre, out of 62 crore farmers and workers in the agricultural sector in India, who are the people who would read this ad in English and understand MSP, PDS, and public procurement," he asked?

Chadha said that the 2015-2016 agricultural survey says that around 80 per cent of farmers in India have less than two acres of land. He said, "Those farmers cannot even carry their produce from their villages to other villages for selling.

Will those farmers read and understand this ad with their morning cappuccinos? Is this not unwanted and unnecessary spending of the taxpayer's money? Is this not a way to make their own faces shine and mislead people through false propagandas," he said. AAP Rajya Sabha MP

ND Gupta, who was also present in the press briefing said that the country and the Parliament is run on dictatorship and not on democracy, and said that the BJP government is now a government of ordinance.

Gupta said, "The PM and his cabinet have said this several times, that they will double the income of the farmers by 2022.

They have also given a formula of doubling the income, which is Cost Price+50% of the CP. The bill that has been passed in the Rajya Sabha day before yesterday, says that the farmer can sell his/her produce anywhere without having any consideration and concern for Cost Price and MSP, and they are left to fend for themselves."

"This government is a government of ordinance. They bring in the ordinance before every bill despite there being many rules and procedures in the House and 24 committee", he said.

DELHI RIOTS

Police: Umar, Sharjeel used social media for indoctrination of youths for chakka jaam

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The Delhi Police in its chargesheet related to larger conspiracy in Delhi riots during February alleged that Umar Khalid and Sharjeel Imam had decided to use social media for large scale indoctrination and mobilisation of youths for Chakka Jaam as a protest against the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA).

The 17,000-page charge sheet filed on September 16 in a court here gave the sequence of events leading to largescale violence in which former JNU student Khalid and his junior in the university Imam were part of the alleged conspiracy along with their associates to incite communal feelings of a particular community and instigate students of a particular community against the CAA and the state.

The police in the chargesheet alleged that Khalid, Swaraj Abhiyan leader Yogender Yadav and Imam have decided to use social media for large scale indoctrination and mobilisation of youths for Chakka Jaam as a protest against CAA.

It further alleged that Imam was the mastermind of Shaheen Bagh blockade, the first protest site.

The Delhi Police report stated that on December 7, 2019, an agitation against the CAA was called at Jantar Mantar by United Against Hate, citizen's campaign, which was attended by Imam along with members o a WhatsApp group Muslim Students of JNU.

It said that at Jantar Mantar Imam was introduced to Yogender Yadav by Khalid, his senior and mentor from JNU.

"Sharjeel Imam was on an earlier occasion instructed by Umar Khalid to form a group of like minded groups of JNU, Jamia Millia, AMU and DU. Yogender Yadav and Umar Khalid also instructed him to mobilise the students of Jamia Millia, AMU and DU," as per chargesheet.

"The police have stated that as per the pre-planned conspiracy accused Sharjeel Imam along with other associates started distributing pamphlets which contained such contents meant to incite communal feelings of a particular community and instigate students of a particular community against the CAA and the state," the charge sheet alleged.

It also reflects during the course of investigation that the protests against CAA and the state were never peaceful since its inception and the ultimate object of these protests was large scale preplanned violence against the state. It also reveals their modus operandi of completely blocking the traffic that is 'Chakka jaam' which is already cursor to inciting large scale violence, the police alleged.

It claimed that in pursuance and furtherance of the common conspiracy the first protest site that is Shaheen Bagh based on Chakka Jaam model was started on December 15. The WhatsApp chat between Imam and his brother Muzammil established that Imam was the mastermind of Shaheen Bagh blockade.

Police alleged that the creation of Jamia Coordination Committee (JCC) was the brain child of Umar Khalid and Nadeem Khan to rope in different student organisation of Jamia Millia. Asif Iqbal Tanha and Saiful Islam were the key persons behind the constitution of JCC.

The charge sheet further alleged that accused Shifa Ur Rehman (Jamia Coordination Committee member and President of Alumni Association of Jamia Millia Islamia) and others collected funds predominantly in cash and also in bank accounts and funded the sustenance of various sit-in protest sites by providing logistics and providing daily wages to lady protestors.

Alumni Association of Jamia Millia Islamia (AAJMI) also provided mike, poster, banners, ropes etc items at gate number 7 of Jamia Millia protest site. AAJMI also paid for the buses hired for the protests. The daily expenditure of AAJMI had ranged between Rs 5000- Rs 10,000 at protest site of Jamia gate number 7 alone, it alleged.

The police have established this with the statements of witnesses and WhatsApp chats, the charge sheet stated.

Meeting of the JCC was conducted regularly in the evening in the JCC office and active and prominent members regularly attended the meeting to formulate strategy, schemes and plans in furtherance of common conspiracy for the sustenance of the protest sites.

As per the statement of witnesses, after the general meeting a secret meeting was also used to be held at JCC office by Safoora Zargar, Meeran Haider, Saif-Ul Islam, Asif Iqbal Tanha and AAJMI office bearers.

In the JCC meetings, Tanha and Saiful Islam used to execute and implement the directions conveyed to them by Umar and Nadeem, the chargesheet alleged.

SAD's chakka jam decision clear bid to exploit farmers' sentiment

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Punjab Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Tuesday termed the Akalis' decision to hold a state-wide chakka jam on September 25, the day when Punjab's farmers had already announced a Bandh against the Farm Bills, as yet another brazen attempt by the BJP ally to exploit the sentiments of the farmers, and perhaps even to sabotage the farmers' fight at the behest of their allies in the Central Government.

"Why don't you go to Delhi and do a chakka jam outside the homes of BJP leaders and others who have shamelessly sold off the interests of Punjab's farmers to the big corporate houses for their own petty interests?" the Chief Minister said, daring the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) to quit the Central Government if it really cared for the farmers. Capt Amarinder lambasted SAD president Sukhbir Badal and his wife Harsimrat for continuing to indulge in their hypocritical pretense of standing with the farmers in the face of the blatant attack on their livelihood by the very Government of which the Akalis are a part.

"What are these double standards? Why did your Core Committee today not take a decision on quitting the BJP-led NDA coalition?" he asked Sukhbir. Questioning the SAD announcement of holding chakka jams across Punjab "in league with the farmers, khet mazdoors and arhtiyas," the Chief Minister said this clearly exposed the Akalis' malicious intentions, since the farmers' and other organisations had already declared a Bandh for September 25 several days ago, when the Akalis were still busy projecting the unconstitutional and dangerous Agriculture Bills as beneficial for the farming community. There is clearly some malafide intent behind the Akalis' decision to jump, at this juncture, into the farmers' pre-planned agitation, he said, adding that the farmers will not be fooled by these antics.

The games that the SAD, led by the Badals, has been playing with the farmers for the past several months, beginning with the introduction of the vicious Ordinances, have totally exposed their double standards on this issue of critical importance not just to the farmers of Punjab but to the entire state, said Captain Amarinder.

The Centre is clearly out to ruin Punjab, and the Akalis have been actively supporting this agenda with all their might, he said, adding that their purported U-turn or rethink on the issue also appears to be a conspiracy to undermine their agitation.

Govt to bring new local and employment policy: JMM

PNS ■ RANCHI

A day after Jharkhand High Court judgment striking down 100 percent quota in class III and class IV jobs in scheduled districts of Jharkhand; the ruling JMM said that the government will formulate 'local residence and employment policy for Jharkhand' afresh.

On Monday Jharkhand High Court scrapped recruitment process of high school teachers issued by the government in 2016 under which the government had prescribed 100 per cent reservation to local residents in 13 scheduled districts. The high court also declared all appointments made against the said advertisement to be null and void which is set to render as many 5,000 teachers jobless.

Advertisement for teachers' appointment was issued a few months after the then BJP-Ajso Party led government headed by Raghubar Das introduced local residence and employment policy for Jharkhand. 1985 was fixed as the cut off year to fix domicile status for residence and the government also formulated a rule for 100 percent appointment to local residents of scheduled districts in the government job.

Addressing a press conference at the party office on Tuesday afternoon; JMM general secretary Suprio Bhattacharya accused the BJP of creating a mess. "We had opposed it when the BJP government introduced this divisive policy. We had warned the government that 1985 as a cut off year will be detrimental to the interest of people of Jharkhand. We had a clear cut understanding that on the name of scheduled districts the BJP is dividing people.

Former cricketer Navjot Sidhu to bat for farmers

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Formally announcing his decision to join the team farmers to bat for them against the Centre's recently-enacted three farm bills, the former cricketer-turned-politician Navjot Singh Sidhu on Tuesday called for taking the movement to the masses.

Sharing a video on his YouTube channel 'Jitgea Punjab', the Congress leader Navjot Sidhu has asked all the political parties, farm unions, and every Punjab, right from old to the young ones, to be on the same page for opposing these "black laws" till the end.

Sidhu, who has decided to come out of his year-long political exile for the farmers' cause, on Tuesday announced that he would be holding protests against the controversial farm bills from his Amritsar East constituency on Wednesday. His announcement came a day after the party legislators in Punjab, in response to the Congress high command's call, held state wide protests against the Bills. Barring for formulating a common minimum programme to strategically fight against the Centre's move, Sidhu maintained that challenging the Bills in the Supreme Court appears to be the best way to counter the Central Government's decision. "The BJP has got the Bills passed in both the House, and there are negligible chances for the President to counter the Centre's move...I have also done the politics of solution and not just discussed the problem," he said.

Punjabi singers extend support to Sep 25 bandh call given by farmers' unions

PNS ■ CHANDIGARH

Many Punjabi singers have extended their support to the September 25 Punjab "bandh" call given by farmers' unions against the new farm bills. Around 30 farmers' outfits have given a call for the complete shutdown of Punjab on September 25 in protest against the bills.

Punjabi singer and actor Harbhajan Mann has appealed to people to support the bandh call. Mann, in a tweet, said he, along with several other artists, would be participating in the Punjab bandh protest.

Another famous singer Bablu Mann also came out in support of the "chakka jaam" on September 25.

In a video uploaded on his Instagram account, he urged people to unite for the farmers' cause. Farmers in Punjab have been protesting against the three bills. They have expressed apprehension that the three bills will pave a way for dismantling the minimum support price system, leaving them at the "mercy" of big corporates.

The Rajya Sabha passed the Essential Commodities (Amendment) Bill, 2020 during the day. It had cleared the Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020 and the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement of Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020 on Sunday.

Signboard of road named after Swami Vivekananda vandalised in JNU: ABVP

STAFF REPORTER ■ NEW DELHI

The Akhil Bharatiya Vidhyarthi Parishad (ABVP), Jawaharlal Nehru University, (JNU) unit has filed a police complaint alleging that the signboard of a road named after Swami Vivekananda in the campus has been vandalised.

Police said they have received a complaint and are looking into the matter.

The ABVP termed the vandalism a pre-planned attack on the ideologically diverse nature of the Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) campus. The ABVP claimed that a few student union leaders have given an open call for taking down the signboard.

According to the complaint filed by ABVP, the members of ABVP are witnessing continuous assaults on symbols of national significance inside the JNU campus. In yet another sequence of the recurring defacement of statues and sign boards named on the personalities significant to our national identity and pride, the perpetrators seem to be persevering, without any respect for law and order.

"It is a clear violation of the Defacement of Public Property Act, 2007... We appeal to the police administration to identify the perpetrators and take strict action against them, to ensure peace and decorum in the campus," the complaint further stated.

JNU Students' Union (JNUSU) vice-president Saket Moon said the ABVP was trying to divert attention from the real issues faced by the varsity.

"JNUSU has been demanding that the administration allow a phased return of students to campus and other issues like online registration for the upcoming semester. The ABVP is trying to divert attention from the real issues and are trying to shield the administration from being answerable on these issues," he said.

Objectionable messages, mostly directed towards right-wing outfits, were found written on the pedestal of a yet to be unveiled statue of Swami Vivekananda on the JNU campus last year in November following which the varsity administration had filed a police complaint.

They were in unsafe and unhygienic conditions, without wearing masks. The children were rescued by the teams, successfully and provided with masks and sanitizers along with refreshments.

A senior government official said statements of the rescued children have been recorded, followed by medical tests including COVID-19 test. "The children will be produced before a Child Welfare Committee on Wednesday through video-conferencing and meanwhile, they will stay at Child Care Institution at Lajpat Nagar."

impact on the income of families. The traffickers have been targeting poor families in Bihar, persuading them to send their children on the pretext of giving employment.

DCPCR has taken note of the dramatic increase in child labour during the pandemic and has been working on a fire-fighting mode to curb it through a multi-stakeholder approach, coordinating with all stakeholders including Agricultural Produce Market Committees (APMCs), Mandi Associations, Private Schools Associations etc. of Delhi.

The Commission is in process of evolving a comprehensive long-term strategy to make Delhi Child Labour Free

Anurag Kundu, Chairperson, DCPCR outlined the Commission's scheme for providing financial incentive for reporting of child labour. He urged citizens to pro-actively report instances of child labour and win cash award upto to Rs. 10,000.

He further elaborated that the Commission is building an early warning system to determine child adversity using children's school attendance as an indicator. It is in the process of laying down processes to activate a series of actions and interventions in the event of children remaining absent from the schools for more than 50 percent days.

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

With India recording the highest number of Covid-19 recoveries in the world, the Union Health Ministry on Tuesday said for the past four consecutive days the number of daily recovered cases surpassed the new infections reported per day.

ED attaches Iqbal Mirchi family's 15 properties

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Tuesday attached 15 properties in Dubai, including a Midwest Hotel apartment and 14 other residential and commercial assets, belonging to the family members of notorious drug baron and aide of global terrorist Dawood Ibrahim, Iqbal Mirchi.

Earlier, the ED had issued two attachment orders in December, 2019 attaching properties to the tune of ₹573 crore. Now the total attachment in this case has reached to ₹776 crore.

The ED had registered a money laundering case against Iqbal Memon, alias Mirchi, and others on September 26, 2019, under the provisions of Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

In this case, five accused including Kapil Wadhawan, Dheeraj Wadhawan & Humayun Merchant were arrested.

A prosecution complaint (chargesheet in police parlance) was filed on December 9 last year before the Special PMLA

Court that has taken cognisance of the chargesheet.

Open ended Non-Bailable Warrants have been issued by the designated court against Asif Memon, Junaid Memon (both sons of Iqbal Mirchi) and Hajra Memon (wife of Iqbal Memon).

Further investigation is in progress, the agency added.

Mirchi died on August 14, 2013, and was considered the right-hand man of Dawood Ibrahim. Mirchi was often called the drug baron for his thriving narcotics business across Asia, Africa and Europe, according to reports.

Memon's family originally owned shops selling chillies and spices that gave him the nickname 'Mirchi'.

Mirchi's fortunes soared after he began smuggling in banned meth tablets, heroin and Mandrax. He also owned a club The Fisherman's Wharf at Worli seafront in Mumbai which was a hotbed for narcotics.

Mirchi left India in late 80s, first to Dubai and later to London.

Lok Sabha members complain about assault on them during adjournment

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Lok Sabha was adjourned for an hour soon after it assembled on Tuesday following an allegation of police assault by Congress MP from Ludhiana Ravneet Singh Bittu and a DMK MP also complaining that some people "barged" in his room asking about his party's "Parliamentary agenda."

The Congress MP charged that around 100 Delhi policemen charged at them at 'Vijay Chowk' when they were "marching in solidarity" with the farmers. He said police assaulted them thinking they were farmers.

Speaking in the house, Bittu alleged that police "brutally assaulted" him and his three MP colleagues from Punjab Santokh Singh Choudhary, Jasbir Singh Gill and Gurjeet Singh Aujla, when they were all taking out a candle light march from Parliament House to Rashtrapati Bhawan on the issue of farm bills.

"We told them we are parliamentarians and sit with the Prime Minister but to no avail. Police didn't know we were MPs. They thought we were farmers and beat us up badly. I had a bad left knee fracture, which has gone worse after the assault and other MPs have also suffered injuries. This is horrifying," Bittu said in the LS.

The Congress MP also said he and other MPs sustained severe injuries in the process.

Speaker Om Birla assured the MP a full probe into the incident and protection both inside and outside Parliament.

Bittu and Santokh Choudhary submitted written representations to the Speaker providing the sequence of events starting 7 pm on Monday.

Prior to this a DMK member in the House also alleged that some people barged in his room in Tamil Nadu Bhawan (where he is staying), describing themselves as "IB sleuths" and asked him about his party's programme and "interrogated" him on his party's Parliamentary agenda.

The Speaker asked the MP to give details in writing and cautioned him that the information should be "authentic". DMK leader TR Balu also backed his party MP on the issue.

Farmers' bodies to organise Bharat Bandh on Sept 25

RAJESH KUMAR ■ NEW DELHI

After holding separate protests against agriculture Bills, now farmer organisations — Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU), All India Farmers Union (AIFU), All India Kisan Sangharsh Coordination Committee (AIKSCC), All India Kisan Mahasangh (AIKM) — have come on a common platform and announced a nationwide shut down on September 25.

Farmers' organisations from southern states - Karnataka and Tamil Nadu and Maharashtra have also called for bandh on September 25. Meanwhile, Ola Cab Drivers' association and lorry drivers' association members in Karnataka have decided to support the farmers and will not operate on Friday.

Besides, ten Central trade unions, including National Trades Union Congress, All India Trade Union Congress, Hind Mazdoor Sabha, Centre of Indian Trade Unions, All India United Trade Union Centre and Trade Union Coordination Centre, have extended their support for Bharat Bandh on September 25.

Not only farmers' organisations but also arhatiya (commission agent or a link between farmer and procurement agencies) of both Punjab and Haryana will join the protest.

The Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD), an NDA ally, on Tuesday announced to undertake "chakka jam" for three hours across Punjab on September 25 to protest against the farm bills passed by the Parliament.

Former Punjab Minister and Congress leader Navjot Singh Sidhu would hold protests in his constituency Amritsar (East).

Many Punjabi singers including Harbhajan Mann have extended their support to the September 25 Punjab "bandh".

According to BKU president Rakesh Tikait, over 100 farmers and arhtiya unions (small and big) will participate in the protests on September 25. "Farmers in Uttar Pradesh will jam their respective villages, towns and highways whereas in Haryana it is planned to be completely closed. "We are also trying to involve local shopkeepers in the protests. We will come out with the final strategy by September 23-24," he said.

Disease, infighting too take toll on Kaziranga rhinos

ARCHANA JYOTI ■ NEW DELHI

It's not only poaching and habitat destruction which are the most pressing threats to the survival of the Greater one-horned rhinoceros, but disease and presence of a large population in an isolated habitat, Kaziranga National Park in Assam also do not bode well for their existence, wildlife experts say.

India is home to two-thirds of the world's remaining one-horned rhinos, a vulnerable species on the IUCN red list.

After review of records from the rhino bearing Protected Areas (PAs) of Assam, a team of wildlife veterinarians said as compared to reported 217 deaths caused due to poaching, more than 600 natural deaths have been recorded during 2008-2018 (Unpublished data), meaning about 60 deaths every year which may be due to the disease and infighting.

In their study conducted in Assam's four rhino bearing Protected Areas viz. Rajiv Gandhi Orang National Park, Pobitora Wildlife Sanctuary, Manas National Park, and Kaziranga National Park, the researchers observed that the overall prevalence of endoparasites were found to be in 58.57 per cent of the total samples collected while mixed infection rate was found to be 6.47 per cent amongst all the four areas.

A total of 309 Rhino dung samples were collected from the four PAs in Assam for this study which were analysed at the Department of Parasitology, College of Veterinary Science, Assam Agricultural University, in Guwahati, Assam.

Though the study was conducted just last year, results still hold important as India celebrates World Rhinoceros Day on Tuesday. Early this year itself in February, five one-horned female rhinoceroses died in Jaldapara National Park which the activists blamed on anthrax, a communicable disease that attacks herbivores.

Of the total 2,979 rhinos in the country, around 2,652 i.e. 89.35 per cent are found in Assam, with Kaziranga National Park alone with a population of 2413 individuals.

The need to initiate studies on diseases and pathogens affecting the Indian rhino is urgent as considerable number of cases on rhino deaths goes unaddressed and due to

Fit India: PM to interact with Virat Kohli, Milind Soman and other fitness influencers

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will on Thursday interact with sportspersons, fitness enthusiasts and influencers to raise the importance of fitness and commemorate the Central Government's ambitious Fit India Movement.

Fit India Movement was launched on September 24 last year. In his Fit India Dialogue, Modi will also interact with personalities from other fields also through virtual conference. Indian cricketers including Virat Kohli, currently in Dubai in connection with IPL, will also join the conversation.

Apart from cricketers, the online interaction will see celebrities like Milind Soman and fitness influencers like Rujuta Diwekar, share anecdotes and tips of their own fitness journey while drawing out guidance from the Prime Minister on his thoughts about fitness and good health. "In times of Covid-19 pandemic, fitness has become an even more important aspect of life. The dialogue will see a timely and fruitful conversation on nutrition, wellness and various other aspects of fitness," said the Sports Ministry in a statement.

"Envisioned by Prime Minister Modi as a people's movement, the Fit India Dialogue is yet another endeavour to involve citizens of the country to draw out a plan to make India a fit nation, said the Ministry.

TMC hits streets against farm Bills

SAUGAR SENGUPTA ■ KOLKATA

Quick to milk a farmer centric issue that once catapulted it to power post Singur and Nandigram movements the Trinamool Congress on Tuesday lapped up the alleged forced passage of farm bill in Rajya Sabha even as the party launched pan-Bengal demonstrations demanding an immediate rollback of the "black law".

Cleverly mixing the farm bill with the amendment in essential commodities laws that has declassified a plethora of eatables including potato, onion --- which are already selling for a premium in the State --- edible oil and other items raising apprehensions of burning bigger holes in consumers' pockets, the TMC leadership said the party would reach door-to-door driving home the "side effects of the BJP Government's pro-rich reforms."

This even as Bengal Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar queered the pitch with a no-holds-barred attack on Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee wondering why she stopped pro-farmer Kisan Sanman Nidhi, a central scheme that benefits the tillers from entering Bengal.

He accused the TMC supremo of blocking the passage of Rs 8,400 crore under Kisan Sanman Nidhi and was "shedding crocodile tears" on farm bill.

Senior TMC leaders including minister Chandrima Bhattacharya and MPs Saugato Roy and Kalyan Banerjee attacked Prime Minister Narendra Modi for "hitting at the very base of the Indian economy."

Bhattacharya said "first he half-murdered the economy by imposing the demonetisation which was a tricky scheme to convert black money into white money but in actuality it ruined the middle and small sector industry and sucked out crores of jobs. Then there was another foolish scheme of GST which was hurriedly implemented and massacred the market... and finally these two bills. The farm bill will break the back bone of the Indian economy --- perhaps hitting the farmers more than the British East India Company did."

Pak handlers using drones to drop weapons in Valley

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Senior security officers say, its a new 'challenge' for them. "We are working towards exposing the network of Over ground workers across Jammu region who are acting as couriers and ready to ferry these arms and ammunition consignment to the Kashmir valley".

Meanwhile, on Tuesday another consignment of weapons airdropped from a drone was recovered by the joint team of Jammu police and special forces of the Indian army from the border area of Akhnoor. According to the official sources, the arms consignment was meant to be airdropped inside the Indian territory from where it was expected to be ferried to a hideout of terrorists with the help of a network of over ground workers in the region.

Senior Superintendent of Police, Jammu Shridhar Patil said, "after receiving intelligence inputs a joint search operation was launched by the Jammu police along with special forces of the Indian army in the border belt of Akhnoor on Tuesday".

He said, during the search operations in village Sohah of Akhnoor, two consignments were recovered by the security personnel.

Initially drones were used to airdrop weapons from across the International border but last week the Indian Army also recovered a consignment of weapons and narcotics airdropped by a drone along the line of control in the forward areas of Rajouri district.

Interestingly, three LeT cadre from the South Kashmir area had trekked all the way from Kashmir via Mughal road to receive the consignment of weapons but were arrested by the security personnel while searches were going on in the forest area of Gurdanbala, four kilometers from Rajouri.

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The Central Vista redevelopment project would generate large-scale direct and indirect employment which could become an "important fulcrum of economic revival".

In his written reply to a question by All India Trinamool Congress MP Mala Roy, Union minister Hardeep Singh Puri told Lok Sabha on Tuesday said, "In the current economic scenario, the project shall generate a large number of direct and indirect employment which could be an important fulcrum for economic revival." The redevelopment project of Central Vista -- the nation's power corridor -- envisages a new triangular parliament building, a common central secretariat and revamping of the 3-km-long Rajpath, from Rashtrapati Bhavan to India Gate.

Puri said that the estimated cost for construction of new Parliament building is Rs 971 crore. Estimated cost of other buildings and development and redevelopment of Central Vista Avenue will be worked out after finalisation of plans, Puri said.

Explaining the rationale behind the need of the project, the Union housing and urban affairs minister said that the existing Parliament House building was started in 1921 and commissioned in 1927 and hence, the building is already 93 years old, adding that its facilities and amenities are "highly inadequate".

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu is on its way to bring down the Covid-19 cases in the State to a reasonable level if the figures released by the Department of Health on Tuesday are any indication.

Pinarayi Vijayan, Kerala chief minister had claimed early May that his State was the benchmark as far as controlling of Covid-19 pandemic was concerned. Total fatalities in Tamil Nadu reached 8,947 by Tuesday

Never seen Bills passed in such hurry: Pawar

MUMBAI

As he went on a day-long fast to express his solidarity with the eight suspended Rajya Sabha members, NCP chief Sharad Pawar on Tuesday debunked the hurried manner in which the BJP-led government had agriculture reform bills passed in the upper house of Parliament without discussion and vote.

Talking to media persons here, Pawar said: "I have never seen bills being passed like this. They (the BJP-led NDA government) wanted to pass these bills soon. Members had questions regarding the bill and they wanted a discussion." Generally, the members are allowed to speak, deliberate and oppose the bills. PNS

Aligarh: Traders on indefinite strike to protest against mandi tax

PRADEEP SAXENA ■ ALIGARH

Mandi traders have started an indefinite strike to protest the tax exemption on the purchase of food grains outside the mandi premises and against the 2% mandi duty and 0.5% cess within the mandi. Dhanipur Mandi based agents have declared that their strike will continue till the government does not withdraw this rule law.

In this regard, they also submitted a memorandum to the Deputy Director mandi addressed to the Chief Minister. Due to this strike, the work was stalled in the grain mandis across the district and the business of about 80 lakh rupees was affected. Suresh Chandra Lodhi, chairman of Galla Traders Welfare Committee, said that on one hand, the government has given exemption of mandi duty and cess on the sale of grain outside the mandi premises but within the mandi, 2% mandi duty and 0.5% cess tax has been imposed. This is causing a loss of revenue for the government itself. Farmers are not coming inside the market which results in the crisis of livelihood of hundreds of Mandi workers.

Vijayan blames Opp, media for spike in Covid-19 cases

KOCHI: Even as the Department of Health in Kerala diagnosed 4,125 new patients with Covid-19 on Tuesday, Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan blamed the Opposition parties and the media in the State for the 'unprecedented hike' in the transmission of the disease.

"My Government has done the best to control and regulate the Covid-19 pandemic. But the Opposition parties in the State want to subvert and sabotage the good works of my government. The media is highlighting the unnecessary and unwanted agitations and demonstrations staged by the opposition parties," Vijayan charged while briefing the media on Tuesday evening.

He said though he was not against rightful agitations, the present demonstrations have been planned by the opposition parties with the sole aim of spreading the pandemic. PNS

Assembly brawl case: Court junks Kerala Govt's move to withdraw criminal case against accused

KUMAR CHELLAPPAN ■ KOCHI

Kerala government faced an embarrassment on Tuesday as R Jayakrishnan, Chief Judicial Magistrate, Thiruvananthapuram, rejected its request for withdrawing the criminal complaint registered against six members of the legislative Assembly by Crime Branch for the brawl and indecent behavior inside the House on March 13, 2015.

The Crime Branch case was that the MLAs who had tried to stop the then finance minister KM Mani from presenting the budget damaged public property worth more than Rs 2 lakh. This included computer terminals, mikes, chairs and other furniture.

Two ministers of the present government, E P Jayarajan and K T Jaleel figure among the six accused in the case. Government's decision to seek withdrawal of the case was to 'preserve the unity of the House', the deputy director of prosecution had told the court.

The CJM made it clear that the request to withdraw the complaint at this juncture was like insulting and humiliating the people of Kerala who were watching the live proceedings of the House.

The CPI(M) had unleashed an agitation against Mani, who allegedly took an amount of Rs 1 crore from bar owners for re-opening the bars which were shut down in the State as part of ushering in total prohibition.

Rhea's judicial custody extended till Oct 6

TN RAGHUNATHA ■ MUMBAI

A Special court here on Tuesday extended the judicial custody of actress Rhea Chakraborty in the Sushant Singh Rajput-related drug case till October 6, even as the Narcotic Control Bureau (NCB) widened its scope of investigations and summoned Deepika Padukone's manager Karishma Prakash and talent management agency's CEO Dhruv Chitgopekar for questioning in a WhatsApp chat involving "Padmavat" actress.

In a related development, the Bombay High Court will hear the bail pleas of Rhea -- who had been arrested on September 8 in connection with the Sushant Singh Rajput-related drug case -- and her brother Showik -- who had been arrested in the same case earlier, on Wednesday.

The special court -- dealing with cases registered under the the Narcotics Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, 1985 -- had earlier on September 11 rejected the bail pleas of Rhea, her brother Showik and four others in connection with a much-discussed drug case relating to Sushant Singh Rajput's death.

On Tuesday when the NCB questioned Sushant's talent manager Jaya Saha for the second consecutive day, the spotlight remained riveted on the summons issued to Deepika Padukone's manager Karishma Prakash and talent management agency's CEO Dhruv Chitgopekar on the basis of the "Padmavat" actress' WhatsApp charts with her manager Karishma retrieved by the NCB.

Lack of confidence

India's rising COVID-19 numbers and a second wave in the West mean that economic revival is a long way off

China has enjoyed showing its thumb to the world and in a brazen display of insensitivity, it recently allowed a mass beach party to take place in the city of Wuhan, the epicentre of the contagion that is ravaging the lungs of people across the world as well as the global economy. Stock markets worldwide are in a tumble once again as renewed curbs across Europe, following a resurgence of the pandemic, cast a shadow on economic activity that was picking up pace. The cascading impact hit D Street, too, as foreign portfolio investors and domestic institutions dumped shares, plunging graphs southwards. And although our market has recovered by about 50 per cent from the lows of March, it is still patchy and any decelerator sends it crashing too. Large countries like the UK as well as several cities and states across the US are being forced into another round of lockdown to prevent a devastating "second wave," which means shuttering businesses that had opened. In India, while numbers have stabilised, albeit with lower testing numbers as well as evidence that district and city level officials are restricting testing deliberately, the pandemic appears to have become a fact of life with most cities whirring back. In Kerala, the State Government is allowing asymptomatic workers to return to their jobs in a secluded work zone. Yet, full steam ahead is quite a way off. While the impending festive season and the action in the Indian Premier League (IPL) will bring a spending boost, the levels will be nowhere close to those of past years. The problem is while businesses aren't completely dysfunctional, allowed as they are to operate freely in non-restricted areas, they are inter-connected to supply and distribution chains across States. Stalling of operations in one hub in a badly-hit State is bound to affect others as the cascading effect slows down the sector a particular business is into, and thereby grunts the overall economy. With attendance and production capacity affected by restrictions, some sectors cannot even take off optimally. Bengaluru is a prime example. With most IT workers having left the city through a series of lockdowns, they returned in waves, thereby, slowing down the desired momentum for recovery. All such micro-blocks are threatening to disrupt the little gains made in reviving the economy. A slew of economic relief measures, too, has failed to inspire confidence among businesses as corporate finances remain squeezed, sales have not regained momentum and demand remains low. Even the amount allocated for bailing out MSMEs remains largely undistributed.

As some have described it, 2020 is a lost year, a year spent bleeding and that can only stop next year. Anyway the process of full recovery will not start before 2022. That said, others are still quite hopeful of a rebound economy and while expecting numbers to be lower than before, they feel they would be fairly decent. Many of these people are seen in the stock exchanges betting big. The rise in the price of many major stocks despite the lost first and insipid second quarters of the year was a sign that some would hold out long-term. As long as COVID-19 is around, there will be a continuing drop in demand and supply chain inconsistencies. Besides, there are sectoral spurts while the economy as a whole needs to stabilise. Given the Government's long-range structural reforms, stimulus and relief by RBI, many investors are still using the volatility to their advantage by focussing on long-term prospects and asset allocation and choosing to build a solid portfolio. While many Indians do not have a choice but to live with the virus, some nations might prioritise differently. That said, it appears that the virus will keep on coming back. If we are to learn anything from the 1919-1920 Spanish flu epidemic, it is that it just took time to eliminate it. Vaccines did not exist then. But a price of asking for time will be that the economic bleeding might last longer and many worry that a body without any blood is not worth saving. So, will 2021 also be a frightening year? It is a question worth asking now. Global ratings agency Fitch has already estimated that the Indian economy is expected to contract by 10.5 per cent in 2020-21. And while industry federations are hopeful that growth can be expedited through continued government support and hand-holding of businesses during this crisis, they are still cautiously optimistic about full capacity utilisation. This is going to be a long road to recovery.

Women in combat

Woman pilot to fly Rafale, two others to fly choppers from Navy warships. Finally, the glass ceiling has been broken

Women in India have something to be extremely proud of as Avani Chaturvedi, a young fighter pilot of the Indian Air Force (IAF), will soon be part of the crew flying the newly-inducted Rafale fleet. She is now undergoing training to fly India's latest acquisition and is part of a three-member women team commissioned as flying officers in July 2016, less than a year after the Government decided to open the fighter stream for women. The first Indian woman to fly a fighter aircraft solo, she has been flying MiG-21s for a while now. However, India has been a bit late in entrusting the nation's safety to its daughters. Because this small and elite league of extraordinary women is led by Turkish aviator Sabiha Gökçen, who in 1937 flew fighter airplanes into war zones and dropped bombs on rebel camps. This was a time when women weren't even allowed to become air force pilots, forget flying fighters. At the young age of 24, Gökçen became the world's first-ever woman to participate in a national military operation. That a woman from a predominantly Western Asian country, with a small part straddling south Europe, was the first to do so says much about the region's leadership at that time as even in the "free world", namely the US, women were not allowed to serve as jet pilots until about 50 years later in 1976. And it took a few more years for women in the US to do what Gökçen could as Jeannie Leavitt became the first woman fighter pilot in 1993. It's a sad statement on gender parity in the Indian security forces that it took over six decades for them to send a woman into combat. It was in 1999 during the Kargil War that India allowed Gunjan Saxena to fly into a war zone on a chopper. Too late and too little, the IAF has 10 women fighter pilots and 18 women navigators and the total strength of women officers serving in the IAF is 1,875 as the force continues to induct and deploy them as per strategic needs and operational requirements. Now, the Golden Arrows Squadron that was raised on October 1, 1951, will have its first woman fighter pilot. Two women will also fly Navy choppers in frontline positions on Navy warships. A rather slow start. This in a country that has had a woman Prime Minister, a woman President and many women Chief Ministers and Governors, leaving behind a so-called developed country like the US, which is yet to have its first woman President. So while the much-maligned world of politics has been more inclusive, the gallant security forces have not been as welcoming of the other half.

Thanks to the Supreme Court, women officers in the Army can now get command positions on par with male officers and break the glass ceiling in the forces. However, the sad part is that they had to fight for it legally rather than being naturalised in the just order of things, considering that they were inducted in the Army way back in 1992, a long 28 years ago. The court also underlined the need for a mindset change in the evolutionary flow of changing times, not just in the Army but everywhere. It had said, "Physiological features of women have no link to their rights. Women work shoulder to shoulder with men." Women officers in the forces, like their male counterparts, give up on all familial commitments to be part of the Army. They, too, undergo the same rigorous selection and training procedures as their male peers. If women have made it through all kinds of selection criteria, then they should at least be given a chance to prove their mettle. Not benched.

China sitting pretty

One scenario is PLA withdrawing to original positions from most friction points except Depsang with Indian forces vacating Chushul heights as quid pro quo

ASHOK K MEHTA

After a hiatus of seven weeks, the India-China disengagement and de-escalation process (DDP) resumed on Monday in a revised military-diplomatic format. To recap, in April-May, the People's Liberation Army (PLA) presented India with a fait accompli through multiple intrusions across LAC, annexing 1,000 sq km of territory following intelligence and operational lapses of Himalayan heights. China built up 40,000 troops with matching deployment by India and preliminary conversations on a DDP culminated in the Galwan clash, which led to further mobilisation of troops. The China-dictated DDP disadvantaged Indian forces, locking them in buffer zones and blocking their patrolling in Galwan, Hot Springs-Goghra, Depsang and Pangong Lake areas. An Indian riposte came south and north of Pangong Lake on Kailash ridge centred around Mukhpari through a preemptive operation by the Special Frontier Force, comprising exiled Tibetans, and local action in the Fingers area. This unnerved PLA, which created a friction point near Mukhpari prior to the anodyne five-point Moscow agreement between Chinese and Indian Foreign Ministers. Few days earlier, the two Defence Ministers had conversed at the same platform. Two thresholds — unarmed combat resulting in casualties and prophylactic firing — on the escalation ladder have been crossed for the first time in 45 years.

Speaking in both Houses of Parliament on the situation along the LAC, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh skipped specifying statistics of PLA ingress. In fact, he was less than economical with the truth by suggesting that coordinated intelligence and border troops' action thwarted aggression which he referred to as transgression when it was clearly a case of intrusion. In fact, the Ministry of Defence had put out the details of intrusions on its website but mysteriously removed them.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's epic statement on June 19 that no Chinese troops intruded or were on Indian soil was the original sin which became the Holy Grail for Beijing. Singh replied rhetorically to Indian troops in lockdown being prevented from patrolling by PLA. What was also missing from his statement was any reference to restoration of status quo ante (RSQA) and Depsang, the deepest and strategically most unbalancing of all intrusions. It was Singh who first spilled the beans on intrusions and later admitted he could not guarantee a favourable outcome from military commanders' talks. He was spot on as DDP had virtually collapsed by August 2, the last date of talks.

India's negotiating strategy has serious lacunae. Further, in the statements issued by each side, China has never mentioned RSQA but restoring peace and tranquility in border areas. The word LAC has also never been used. Curiously, the Indian side has also not used RSQA in formal statements but called for full and complete disengagement. Mention of Depsang has become taboo. China has violated all border protocols, especially the 1993 and 1996 agreements, and changed the concept of LAC since it is neither delimited nor delineated. It has made LAC irrelevant, turning it into the line it can occupy and control. Instead, it has promulgated the November 1959 claim line shifting LAC westwards. As the stronger power, it has exploited the undefined LAC for exercising coercive diplomacy. China's Global Times has repeatedly said that India must accept the 1959 claim line or else face war.

Before the Foreign Ministers' Moscow meeting, the PLA attempted to unhinge India's seizure of Chushul heights, including several nodal points on the 30-km Kailash ridge line dominating PLA Moldo garrison and Spanggur Gap. These dominating heights are on the Indian side of LAC and not a trespass as alleged by China. PLA manufactured a friction point on a plateau roughly 300 m away and 200 m lower, near Mukhpari, one of the highest points on the ridge. It is surprising why the Special Frontier Force (SFF) did not occupy this plateau. During the ongoing talks, Mukhpari has already become the new bone of contention in DDP.

Even with the dust not settling on the plateaus of east Ladakh for over five months now, it is possible to decipher more rationally the Chinese motivation for its well-planned military occupation of Indian territory. It is now flatly refusing to disengage and abandon military gains like it did after past intrusions — Sumdorong Chu (1986), Depsang (2013), Chumar (2014) and Doklam (2017). India is still relying on China eventually withdrawing and returning to barracks.

It seems China was incensed when Indian troops trespassed border at Doklam (disputed between China and Bhutan) and blocked PLA from building a road towards the disputed India-Bhutan-China trijunction in Chumbi Valley. China compared Indian belligerence to "if you go to steal chicken, you may lose the rice bowl" and took Indian audacity as daring China. The Chinese media had then noted that Beijing was looking for an opportunity to humiliate India.

Two other compulsions can be added to the Doklam-dare — Home Minister Amit Shah's parliamentary pledge to liberate Aksai Chin and President Xi Jinping's realisation of the China Dream.

India must frustrate Xi's dream of reviving the mythical India-China border of the Ming dynasty and strive for a fair and mutually acceptable border settlement. This appears to be problematic due to asymmetries in gross national power. China has already imposed costs by forcing the Indian Army to deploy three additional divisions ahead of its high altitude defences in Ladakh along LAC.

It seems prepared to press on its claims and deployments in a game of blink. It has mobilised four out of its five Theatre Commands to grapple with inimical fronts in East China Sea, South China Sea, Taiwan and the Xinjiang and Tibet borders facing India. It will be unwise to underestimate the staying power of PLA — either its capacity to fight in high mountains or the need for it to employ troops in the ratio of 6:1 to dislodge Indian soldiers occupying heights.

But China has no intention of starting a conflict. It is the satisfied power, having already made territorial gains. India has said it will respond to aggression in self-defence, despite Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) General Bipin Rawat's threat of the military option if diplomacy fails. One scenario from the DDP is PLA agreeing to withdraw to original positions from most friction points except Depsang with Indian forces vacating their commanding Chushul heights as quid pro quo. A full RSQA, still unlikely, could result only from a possible third Xi-Modi summit on the sidelines of the G20 at Riyadh in November. Otherwise, the standoff could go the long Sumdorong Chu way of eight winters unless Xi is persuaded to temper his Ladakh dream.

Ruckus in Parliament

Sir — The Government did not have a majority in the Rajya Sabha to get its farm Bills passed. Thus, to bend the House to its wishes, even as the Opposition protested and demanded further discussion on the same, the ruling dispensation intentionally had the Bills passed through a voice vote. The sheer display of arrogance by the Government will cost it dear as the farmers continue to protest against the "historic farm reforms".

Hollow promises?

Sir — With the Bihar Assembly elections round the corner, Prime Minister Narendra Modi has announced a special package of ₹1.25 lakh crore for the State. This is not the first time a Government has announced a special package just before elections, so, only time will tell how much of this package will actually help the people of Bihar. As of now, Bihar remains one of the most backward States in the country. And many promises

A call for people's vaccine

The decision to stop funding WHO and opt out of COVAX, the COVID-19 Global Access Facility, by the US were major setbacks in the fight against the virus. Also, orders by countries like US, UK and Australia for large supplies of potential COVID-19 vaccines will deplete the limited stock and deny or delay vaccination in the developing countries. Speaking at the United Nations' 75th anniversary commemoration, Secretary General Antonio Guterres called for global collaboration and cooperation to combat the COVID-19 pandemic. The UN should indeed facilitate an agreement for a fair and equitable distribution of vaccines when they become available.

While the race for the COVID-19 vaccines is understandable, the cut-throat competition for developing them is avoidable and unnecessary. However, this isn't the time to seek national glory or commercial benefit but to push the idea of "people's vaccine" forward. This will make the vaccines available to all at affordable prices and the pharmaceutical companies won't be able to manipulate the prices.

The UN will have served its purpose if it sends out the message that creating vaccinated pockets won't be beneficial for any country. The leaders need to come together and work towards a sustainable future for all mankind.

Gender equality

Disgraceful conduct

Sir — Rajya Sabha Deputy

Chairman Harivansh Narayan Singh's refusal to conduct a division of votes on two controversial farm Bills despite the Opposition's protest was unprecedented. The rule book says that even if a single member demands division of votes, it has to be carried out. The Government brazenly undermined the parliamentary procedures and triggered an uproar.

This presents a grim picture of the state of democracy in India under the present regime. However, the Opposition's reaction didn't help the case either as they went on a rampage disrupting the proceedings of the House and the farmers' interest was lost in the din.

Bank reforms

Sir — Former RBI Governor Raghuram Rajan suggested that the Government should privatise select public sector banks as reforms are necessary to ensure growth of banking activity without the periodic boom-bust cycles. However, before initiating such a step, the Government should complete the process of consolidating Government banks by merging the remaining five nationalised banks. Once this is done, there will be about seven or eight big public sector banks out of which a select three or four may be considered for privatisation.

Time to take stock of the UN

Overall the UN is a mixed bag and it is for the members to make it effective. At this juncture, it is crucial to improve the UN rather than destroy it

KALYANI SHANKAR

The United Nations (UN) will be 75 next month. It is a relatively young organisation but a significant birthday like this one means it is time for stock-taking. It came into being after its structure was finalised at an international conference in San Francisco in October 1945, in which 50 countries, including India participated. Since then it has grown and today the UN has 193 members. Moreover, the UN of today is hugely different from the UN of 75 years ago. The big question is whether the world body has played its role properly or has it become irrelevant? It was the late UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld who said famously that the UN was created "not to lead mankind to heaven but to save humanity from hell."

Interestingly, those who support the UN believe that the world body has served its purpose by and large. The very fact that it has survived, despite the ups and downs, shows success. They point out that most of all, there has been no nuclear war in the last 75 years. Others praise the peace-keeping missions of the UN. They also praise its sustainable development programmes. But the UN is also criticised for not being effective for various reasons. On the UN's watch, several authoritarian rulers have used conventional weapons against innocent citizens. The UN resolutions are non-binding. The world body was supposed to prevent conflicts and war and yet over 80 conflicts took place since its inception. In the last three decades, US Presidents, right from Bush to Trump, have all criticised the UN for its functioning. The UN is also facing a resource crunch because members, including the US, do not pay their contribution in time.

India's involvement with the UN is remarkable. As a founding member, New Delhi's contribution in implementing the goals of the UN Charter and programmes has been substantial. It has been involved in many UN bodies and India is the current chair of the World Health Organisation's (WHO) executive committee. India is right now a member of the UN's Commission on Status of Women (UNCSSW), for four years (from 2021 to 2025). India was elected as a non-permanent member of the powerful UN Security Council (UNSC) for two years in June and the country served eight two-year terms earlier. New Delhi has been lobbying for the expansion of the UNSC and also staked a claim for a place in it. For some years now, whenever any of our Prime Ministers went abroad or any heads of State visited India, one issue that was always raised was getting support for India's candidature to the expanded UNSC. However, the reforms are not taking off for various reasons. For instance, the five permanent members are not keen on losing their veto powers. The UN chief has praised India's contribution to the peace-keeping forces as it has been the driving force behind many issues like the end of colonialism and apartheid and of global disarmament and terrorism. India is an ardent advocate of UN reforms. New Delhi initially had no ambition of becoming a permanent member of the Council. However, when the General Assembly took up the UN reforms in 1992, Japan, Germany and Brazil sought membership in an expanded Security Council. India too joined them in the chorus. However, many European countries object to Germany's claim, Argentina opposes Brazil and Pakistan opposes India, and so on. Thereafter, the four countries formed the BRICS group to work together.

The one question that is being repeatedly asked in today's circumstances is what is the future of the UN? Some want the UN to play a greater role in world affairs, while others want its role to specifically focus on humanitarian work. Reforming the system and getting wide international support and funds are the most important things needed for the UN. Almost from the early nineties, the reforms are being talked about but there is no progress in this regard, which is indeed unfortunate. Second, the UN needs to be modernised. Many feel that the present structure is flawed and many programmes are often duplicated. Third, there is an increasing feeling that the UN should be strengthened. The world body should be vested with more powers to deal with errant members.

Fourth, UN funding should not be stopped for any reason as the world body must remain independent. The UN is dependent on the contribution of cash, goods and services from its member states to finance and help its activities. Fifth, there is a need to cut down the strength of the staff. As The Guardian newspaper pointed out some time ago, "85,000 bureaucrats, an annual spend of about $40 billion (£26 billion) — 2,000 times that of the organisation's budget during its first year in 1946. Spending has quadrupled in the past 20 years — and still, several agencies struggle to balance their books."

However, despite all complaints and criticism, the UN is currently the only international body where heads of states can gather to discuss important issues and countries come together to try to work out some of the world's problems. Overall the UN is a mixed bag and it is for the members to make it effective. At this juncture it is crucial to improve the UN rather than destroy it.

A boon or bane?

The Govt needs to fix the lacunae in the farm Bills instead of trying to push them through without consulting those it affects most, namely our farmers

CHITTARVU RAGHU

Central legislation, the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 was enacted with the main objective of prohibiting hoarding and black marketing of essential commodities. The other objective was to provide them to the common man at fair prices. This is because their cost to the consumer is dependent on various uncontrolled factors like climatic conditions, region of origin, supply chain, marketing and so on. Restrictions were stipulated under the Act and control orders were issued by respective States in relation to stocking, pricing and distribution. Over the years, we have been witnessing fluctuations in prices of essential commodities as well as other agriculture produce. This has often resulted in huge losses to farmers and control orders have often been invoked by the States to minimise the financial damage to them.

Now, there is an uproar among the farmers in the country and in political circles, too, after the Parliament passed three agriculture-related Bills, namely, the Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill 2020, Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020 and Essential Commodities (Amendment) Bill.

A reading of the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020 shows that the same is being enacted to protect and empower the farmers. It is meant for them to engage with agri-business firms, processors, wholesalers, exporters, large retailers for farm services and sale of future farming produce within a mutually agreed remunerative price framework in a fair and transparent manner. A reading of the provisions shows that farming produce includes all the agriculture produce, foodstuffs, cereals, cattle fodder, cotton seeds and so on. And farm services under the Bill include even the provision for supply of seed, feed, fodder inputs for farming and so on by the wholesaler or retailer, who is termed as "sponsor" under an agreement.

This shows that the entire agriculture produce of a farmer would be under the control of the "sponsor", who could be a businessman or a corporate. The proposed Act specifically overrides the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 and all the State control orders and any other laws related to stock limit and so on under Section 7 of the Bill. The "sponsor", who would provide inputs for the farmer, would have overall control over the production, stocking and so on. Since the proposed Act overrides the Essential Commodities Act, 1955, there is no limit in relation to the number of agreements that may be entered into by the "sponsor" with various farmers. There is a possibility of a single "sponsor" monopolising the entire control of farming and the produce.

The next stage would be with regard to trade and marketing by the farmer. The Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020 has been introduced with the main objective of giving farmers and traders the freedom of choice relating to sale and purchase of the produce. The word "farmer" has been defined as an individual engaged in the production of agricultural produce and includes farmer-producer organisations (FPOs). The FPO is defined as an association or a group of growers. However, sections on the inter-State and intra-State trade have included only the word "trader". The trader has been defined as a person who buys farm produce and does not include a farmer. Therefore, the sum and substance of the proposed Act is that the inter-State trade or intra-State trade can be conducted by only the one who buys the farm produce.

 THOUGH IT APPEARS FROM THE READING OF BOTH THE FARM BILLS THAT THEY ARE BEING LEGISLATED FOR THE BENEFIT OF GROWERS IN RELATION TO AGRICULTURAL ACTIVITY, PRICE, MARKETING AND SO ON, IN REALITY THE BUSINESSMAN, CORPORATES, MIDDLEMEN MAY TAKE OVER THE ENTIRE CONTROL OF ESSENTIAL COMMODITIES. THERE CANNOT BE ANY REGULATION IN RELATION TO HOARDING AND BLACK MARKETING. THE ENTIRE AGRICULTURE PRODUCE OF A FARMER WOULD BE UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE 'SPONSOR', WHO COULD BE A BUSINESSMAN OR A CORPORATE. THERE IS A POSSIBILITY OF A SINGLE 'SPONSOR' MONOPOLISING THE ENTIRE CONTROL OF FARMING AND THE PRODUCE

The Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020 ends with the purchase of the stock by the "sponsor" who enters into a farming agreement with the farmer at the production level. The Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020 speaks with regard to the trade of the farm produce and spells out that the trader would be involved in the inter and intra-State trade.

Neither the word "trader" in the said Bill includes the "sponsor" under the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020, nor does the definition "sponsor" include the "trader" under the Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020. Both the Bills do not specify how the commodity will be dealt with after the produce is taken over by the "sponsor." Maybe the "sponsor" has to become a trader under the Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020 but the Bills are silent on this.

Though it appears from the reading of both the proposed legislations that they are being pushed for the benefit of growers in relation to agricultural activity, price, marketing and so on, in reality the businessman, corporates, middlemen may take over the entire control of essential commodities. There cannot be any regulation in relation to hoarding and black marketing. This lacuna has to be addressed by the Central Government and it must make suitable amendments to protect the interests of the farmers and the consumers.

Section 6 of the Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill stipulates that no marketing fee or cess levy under any State Agriculture Marketing Committee Act or any other State law shall be levied on farmers, traders, electronic trading and transaction platforms for conducting business in a "trade area."

The "trade area" has been defined as a place where the farmers produce can be collected. Obviously, the "sponsor" under the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020 would be in control of the farm produce and he may be acting as a "trader" who would utilise the trade area for the purpose of his business. In the process, the State Governments shall lose revenue, which otherwise would be available by way of market fee, levy and so on. Such a provision will adversely affect the revenue of the States.

Section 8 of the said Act of the Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, 2020 stipulates dispute resolution but speaks with regard to a dispute arising out of the transaction between the farmer and a trader under Section 4. The "farmer" may not have any scope to offer his produce for sale to a trader in cases wherein he enters into an agreement with the "sponsor" under the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020.

When both the Bills are independently understood, those farmers who would not enter into an agreement with any "sponsor" for the purpose of production, may benefit in the course of time. But in the light of the businessmen/sponsor entering into the domain of the agriculture production, whether the farmer would be benefitted or not is the question.

Certain amendments may be required to the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price

Assurance and Farm Services Bill, 2020 in respect to pricing of farming produce under Section 5, mechanism for dispute resolution under Section 14 and power of the State Governments to make rules under Section 23 of the Bill, in the interest of protecting the rights of growers.

Certain safeguards can be provided to them in relation to the payment of the Minimum Support Price (MSP), the consequences if the farming produce is refused by the "sponsor" on the ground of quality and payment of money to the grower by the "sponsor."

Section 5, which contemplates pricing of the produce, does not stipulate any minimum price. It only speaks with regard to the "guaranteed" price to be paid for the produce. The provision is silent with regard to the "authority" which would determine the said guaranteed price. Section 23, which empowers the State Government to make rules, is also silent regarding this aspect. It only enables the State Government to frame rules in relation to the mode and manner of payment but gives it no right to fix the guaranteed price. A reading of the Act shows that the guaranteed price would be determined inter-se between the "farmer" and the "sponsor." When the "sponsor" is providing various inputs for the crop, obviously he would be in a position to command a particular price which may be adverse to the interest of the farmer.

The "sponsor", while determining the price, would also take into account the other factors like the cost of the inputs which in the end would reduce the farmer into a farm labourer.

The Government needs to fix the lacunae in the farm Bills instead of trying to push them through without consulting those it affects the most, 60 per cent of the country's population.

Green buildings only hope in post-pandemic era

It is high time governments act by adopting mandatory energy-saving codes for new buildings and refurbishing existing ones

ARCHANA JYOTI

Sneha Singh shifted to an apartment in a highrise building with her husband and children in the national Capital two years ago. She has two air-conditioners, a TV, a refrigerator and other electrical appliances in her home. But she has stopped using air-conditioners now and has minimised the use of other electrical appliances because of the economic impact of the COVID-induced lockdown.

"With the mercury shooting up in April and May, it was extremely difficult for my kids to study or sleep. They were restless and unable to focus on their work," she says. But what she does not understand is that the problem lies with the design and construction of the flat, which was not built keeping the health of its occupants in mind. With the virulent virus forcing Sneha to spend most of the time indoors, she and many other families like hers are now realising the importance of the quality of the environment inside the house.

Experts are of the opinion that green building technologies can help the world prepare for a future in which pandemics will be more common. In fact, the Singapore Green Building Council (SGBC) president Dr Ho Nyok Yong made it loud and clear at a webinar in May this year when he said, "Think of green buildings as giant N95 face masks, protecting you from harmful toxins the moment you step inside."

Echoing his observation, a study in Singapore said that people who stay in "green" buildings are less likely to suffer from fatigue, headache and even skin irritation, showing that their benefits stretch beyond saving energy.

In contrast, the health impacts of living in energy-inefficient buildings have been studied extensively in some countries like the UK and New Zealand. They have shown that the list of consequences of non-energy efficient houses is long: Increased chances of respiratory infections, cardiovascular disease, gastro infections, asthma, allergy symptoms, poor mental health, arthritis, rheumatism and a higher number of falls — a major safety risk for the elderly. Closer home, in 2018, IIT Bombay and Doctors For You, an NGO, conducted a study in Mumbai's poorest ward, M-East, that established a co-relation between mortality due to tuberculosis (TB) and housing conditions. It found that eight to 10 per cent of the residents in the denser, less light-filled and more poorly ventilated complexes had TB, compared to one per cent of residents in a better ventilated project. Even within a building, the risk of TB declined on higher, well-ventilated floors.

Veteran architect Ashok B Lall explains, "Most of the time buyers are not aware that housing conditions have an influence on physical health. People must understand that houses are more than the physical structures providing shelter. For example, a warm and dry house can improve general health outcomes and specifically reduce respiratory issues. Children living in crowded homes are more likely to be stressed, anxious and depressed, have poorer physical health, and inattentiveness at school."

Lall is a supporter of green building design focussing on reductions in energy and water usage, creation of healthy indoor environment and minimisation of environmental disturbances.

Realising the significant co-benefits of improving housing conditions, in 2018, the World Health Organisation (WHO) came out with guidelines on health and buildings. "Improved housing conditions can save lives, reduce disease, increase the quality of life, reduce poverty and help mitigate climate change," said the WHO, also noting that these can contribute towards the attainment of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) related to health (Goal 3) and sustainable cities (Goal 11). As per the guidelines, installing efficient and safe thermal insulation can improve indoor temperatures that support health, while also lowering energy costs and reducing carbon emissions.

Thermal quality refers to whether the indoor temperature is comfortable and healthy. While most evidence relates to the impact of cold environment, overheating can also damage health through dehydration. In cold climates, better and improved energy efficiency can lower rates of excess winter mortality while in hot climates it helps reduce the risk of dehydration and negative health impacts, says Sameer Maithel, Director of research and advisory firm Greentech Knowledge Solutions and Head, Building Energy Efficiency Project (BEEP) Project Management and Technical Unit in India. BEEP is a bilateral cooperation project between the Union Power Ministry and the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs (FDFA) of the Swiss Confederation. Maithel says that the health quotients in energy-efficient buildings are: Thermal comforts, natural ventilation, daylight availability, which serves as a disinfectant as well as the source of Vitamin D, safe drinking water, sanitation and waste management.

Talking about the design principles of building green and sustainable homes in India, Lall says, "If we can devote 60 per cent of the terrace area of a four-storey building to install solar panels, it will meet the energy demand of all its residents." The height of the building has a direct co-relation with its carbon emissions and is inversely proportional to affordability, he adds.

Refining the ventilation system is another key to minimising disease transmissions while saving electricity. Unfortunately, in India most buildings are not equipped to establish and maintain healthy indoor air quality and need to be upgraded. The number of buildings conforming to green labels covers only about one per cent of the urban buildings in India. Isn't there a risk that raising standards will push up costs further? "But in the bargain you cut down medical bills as well as enhance productivity," argues SP Garnaik, executive director of Energy Efficiency Services Limited (EESL), a joint venture under the Power Ministry.

On its part, with an aim to make workplaces healthier and greener in the COVID-19 scenario, EESL and the US Agency for International Development's (USAID) MAITREE programme, launched the "Healthy and Energy-Efficient Buildings" initiative to ensure efficiency along with health components at workplaces.

"We hope that this pilot will spur urban planners, architects and property managers to rethink the design, operation and maintenance of the buildings so as to safeguard the health and well-being of the occupants at offices and homes as well," he says.

It is high time governments act by adopting mandatory energy-saving codes for new buildings and for the refurbishment of existing ones, assert experts. "This is all the more urgent in the light of soaring construction rates. Most buildings lack mandatory building energy codes. By strengthening these codes every three-five years, zero-emission and net zero energy codes could rapidly become the norm," says Maithel.

WHO: Highest weekly spike of 2mn cases

Geneva: The World Health Organisation (WHO) has reported a record number of confirmed cases of the coronavirus registered across the world over the past week — almost 2 million infections — which marks the highest number in a single week so far.

From 14 through 20 September, there were almost 2 million new cases of COVID-19, which represents a 6 per cent increase compared to the previous week, and the highest number of reported cases in a single week since the beginning of the epidemic. During the same period, there was a 10 per cent decrease in the number of deaths, with 36,764 deaths reported in the past seven days," the WHO said in a situation report late on Monday. In particular, an increase in the weekly case incidence rate was reported across all regions in the last seven days, except for Africa, with the two Americas remaining the worst-hit areas and accounting for over 38 per cent of all new cases reported over the past week.

Meanwhile, Europe showed the greatest increment in the number of fatalities in the past week, with a 27-per cent increase compared to the previous week. AP

Covid airborne, believe many scientists despite US body flip-flop

Washington: The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention on Monday removed language from its website that said the novel coronavirus spreads through airborne transmission, the latest example of the agency backtracking from its own guidance.

The agency said the guidance, which went up Friday largely without notice until late Sunday, should not have been posted because it was an early draft.

"Unfortunately an early draft of a revision went up without any technical review," said Jay Butler, the CDC's deputy director for infectious diseases. "We are returning to the earlier version and revisiting that process. It was a failure of process at CDC."

Evidence that the virus floats in the air has mounted for months, with an increasingly loud chorus of aerosol biologists pointing to super-spreading events in schools, buses, bars and other poorly ventilated spaces. They cheered when the CDC seemed to join them in agreeing that the coronavirus can be airborne.

Experts who reviewed the CDC's Friday post had said the language change had the power to shift policy and drive a major rethinking on the need to better ventilate indoor air.

Jose-Luis Jimenez, a chemistry professor at the University of Colorado at Boulder who studies how aerosols spread the virus, told The Washington Post before the CDC reversed its guidance that "this is a good thing, if we can reduce transmission because more people understand how it is spreading and know what to do to stop it."

Julian Assange says he hears voices in prison: Psychiatrist

AFP ■ LONDON

WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange complained of hearing imaginary voices and music while detained in a high-security British prison, a psychiatrist who has interviewed him told his extradition hearing on Tuesday.

Michael Kopelman, a psychiatrist who has interviewed Assange around 20 times, said the former hacker would be a "very high" suicide risk if he were extradited to the United States for leaking military secrets.

He cited as evidence Assange's "severe depression" and "psychotic symptoms", which included auditory hallucinations while in solitary confinement in his cell at the high-security Belmarsh Prison in southwest London.

Kopelman told the Old Bailey court in central London that Assange said he hallucinated music and voices saying "you are dust, you are dead, we are coming to get you".

Assange's suicidal impulses "arise out of clinical factors... but it is the imminence of extradition that will trigger the attempt," he added, warning "he will deteriorate substantially" if extradited.

Assange's partner Stella Morris has previously said she feared he would take his own life, leaving their two young sons without a father.

James Lewis, representing the US government, quizzed Kopelman over the veracity of some of Assange's claims, suggesting he may have made them up.

Assange faces 18 charges under the US Espionage Act relating to the 2010 release by WikiLeaks of 500,000 secret files detailing aspects of US military campaigns in Afghanistan and Iraq.

China responsible for unleashing plague of 'China virus' onto the world: Trump

United Nations: US President Donald Trump blasted China on Tuesday for "unleashing" the plague of the "China virus" onto the world, demanding that the United Nations must hold Beijing accountable for failing to contain the coronavirus that has killed nearly one million people across the world, including 200,000 Americans.

"The Chinese government, and the World Health Organization -- which is virtually controlled by China -- falsely declared that there was no evidence of human-to-human transmission," Trump said.

"Later, they falsely said people without symptoms would not spread the disease. The United Nations must hold China accountable for their actions," he said.

"75 years after the end of World War II and the founding of the United Nations, we are once again engaged in a great global struggle. We have waged a fierce battle against the invisible enemy - the China virus - which has claimed countless lives in 188 countries," Trump said in a video statement to the 75th session of the UN General Assembly.

Trump demanded that China, where the coronavirus emerged, be held accountable for failure to control the virus and for allowing it to spread across the world.

"As we pursue this bright future, we must hold accountable the nation which unleashed this plague onto the world: China," he said.

Doubling down on Beijing, Trump said that China condemned his travel ban on their country, even as they cancelled domestic flights and locked citizens in their homes.

"In the earliest days of the virus, China locked down travel domestically while allowing flights to leave China and infect the world," Trump said.

The COVID-19 pandemic has so far infected over 30 million people and more than 958,000 people have died. The US, with 6.7 million infections, crossed the grim milestone of 200,000 deaths.

Trump also slammed China for dumping millions and millions of tonnes of plastic and trash into the oceans every year, overflowing other countries' waters, destroying vast swaths of coral reef, and emitting "more toxic mercury into the atmosphere than any country anywhere in the world."

"China's carbon emissions are nearly twice what the US has, and it's rising fast," he said, adding that he withdrew from the "one-sided" Paris Climate Accord and last year America reduced its carbon emissions by more than any country in the agreement. PTI

Bolsonaro: Brazil is victim of environmental smear

Rio de Janeiro: Brazil's President Jair Bolsonaro defended his administration's record protecting the Amazon rainforest, telling the United Nations' virtual meeting of global leaders on Tuesday that his country has been wrongly portrayed as an environmental villain.

Speaking first in the General Debate of the UN's General Assembly, as is tradition for the Brazilian leader, Bolsonaro said the South American nation's agribusiness sector has succeeded in boosting agricultural exports to feed a growing global population, which has made it a target.

"We are victims of one of the most brutal disinformation campaigns about the Amazon and the Pantanal wetlands," Bolsonaro said.

"The Brazilian Amazon is well-known to be very rich. That explains why international institutions support such campaigns based on ulterior interests, joined by self-serving and unpatriotic Brazilian associations, with the objective of harming the government and Brazil itself."

Bolsonaro came to office in 2019 promising to open more of the Amazon to development, such as farming and mining. International concern, particularly after last year's fires, has led investors to try to distance themselves from rising deforestation and pressure Bolsonaro's government to take more action against it. Critic of Xi sentenced to 18 years in graft

Beijing: The former chairman of a Chinese state-owned real estate company who publicly criticized President Xi Jinping's handling of the coronavirus pandemic was sentenced to 18 years in prison on Tuesday in a corruption case, the government announced.

Ren Zhiqiang, who had become known for speaking up about censorship and other sensitive topics, disappeared from public view in March after publishing an essay online that accused Xi of mishandling the outbreak that began in December in the central city of Wuhan. Ren, was convicted of corruption, bribery, embezzlement and abuse of power, a court in Beijing announced. The former chairman and deputy party secretary of Huayuan Group was expelled from the ruling party in July. AP

Turkey accuses EU of rewarding aggressor in Libya

Ankara: Turkey on Tuesday accused the European Union of "rewarding the aggressor" after the 27-nation bloc slapped sanctions on three transport companies for violating the UN arms embargo on Libya, including the Turkish shipping firm which operates a vessel that was at the center of a naval standoff in the Mediterranean Sea between Turkey and France.

A Turkish Foreign Ministry statement dismissed the decision as "of no value." It insisted the ship was providing aid to Libya's U.N.-recognised government based in the capital, Tripoli, and accused the EU of ignoring countries and companies sending arms to the rival Libyan National Army, led by Gen. Khalifa Hifter, which controls the east.

"With this attitude, the EU insists on maintaining a double-standard attitude ... Which rewards the aggressor, instead of taking an attitude in favour of international legitimacy," the ministry said.

The statement also said it is "extremely unfortunate" that the decision came as efforts are underway to reduce tensions between Greece and Turkey over energy exploration rights in the eastern Mediterranean.

At talks in Brussels on Monday, EU foreign ministers imposed sanctions on the Avrasya Shipping company, which is headquartered in Turkey, saying it was "found to have violated the arms embargo in Libya." AP

Australian rescuers save 25 of 270 stranded whales so far

Hobart (Australia): Around one third of an estimated 270 pilot whales that became stranded on Australia's island state of Tasmania have died, with rescuers managing to return 25 to the sea in an ongoing operation, officials said Tuesday.

The whales were discovered Monday on a beach and two sand bars near the west coast town of Strahan. Sixty people have joined the rescue effort.

"We've rescued about 25 at the present time and escorted them out the channel and out to sea and crews are continuing to work, so that number will increase before we get to the end of the day," Tasmania Parks and Wildlife Service Manager Nic Deka told reporters late Tuesday afternoon. AP

Poll indicates Arden poised to win reelection

Wellington: A new opinion poll indicates that New Zealand Prime Minister Jacinda Arden is poised to win a second term in office when the nation goes to the polls next month.

But Arden said Tuesday that she's taking nothing for granted.

The 1 News Colmar Brunton Poll put support for Arden's liberal Labour Party at 48 per cent while support for the conservative National Party, led by opposition leader Judith Collins, was at 31 per cent.

Support for Arden as preferred prime minister was at 54 per cent compared to 18 per cent for Collins.

Under New Zealand's proportional voting system, larger parties typically form coalitions with smaller parties to govern.

Arden's popularity has surged since the coronavirus became the defining issue for her government six months ago. Her approach of trying to eliminate the virus has been widely viewed as successful. AP

Sensex down 300 points on lockdown fears across Europe

PII ■ MUMBAI

The Indian stock market continued its dip on Tuesday, in line with the global markets as resurgence in coronavirus cases have increased possibilities of fresh lockdown restrictions across Europe, including the UK.

The across-the-board sell off in the Indian market was led by oil and gas, energy, auto, banking and finance stocks.

"Sensex and Nifty continued to be in correction mode by closing down by 300 points and 97 points, respectively, due to a spike in covid cases in Europe," Keshav Lahoti, Associate Equity Analyst, Angel Broking Ltd, said.

BSE Sensex closed at 37,734.08, lower by 300.06 points, or 0.79 per cent, from the previous close of 38,034.14. It had opened at 38,200.71 and touched an intra-day high of 38,209.97 and a low of 37,531.14 points.

The Nifty50 on the National Stock Exchange was trading at 11,153.65, lower by 96.90 points, or 0.86 per cent, from its previous close.

Manish Hathiramani, technical analyst with Deen Dayal Investments, said: "The markets are weak and we should see more downside in the coming days. Nifty could go down to 10,950-11,000 and if we don't halt there, we could fall further to test 10,800.

The resistance on the upside is 10,600-10,650 and till we do not cross that, a sell on every rise would be the appropriate strategy to adopt."

The small and midcap indices also witnessed a selloff on Tuesday.

The BSE MidCap index closed 1.70 per cent lower and the BSE SmallCap was down 1.61 per cent.

₹ drops 20 paise amid renewed growth concerns

Mumbai: The rupee depreciated by 20 paise to settle at 73.58 against the US dollar on Tuesday due to forex outflows and a stronger greenback in the global markets.

At the interbank forex market, the rupee opened on a weak note at 73.50 and fell further to a low of 73.64 as stock markets continued to fall for the fourth straight day.

Renewed growth concerns following resurgence of coronavirus cases in Europe and subsequent restrictions weighed on investor sentiment, dealers said.

'Labour reforms intend to put India among top 10 nations in ease of doing business'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Government aims to catapult India to among the top 10 countries in World Bank's ease of doing business rankings with the comprehensive labour reforms which are likely to be completed after Parliament approves three draft codes in the ongoing session, a senior official said on Tuesday.

Under the labour reforms, the Centre plans to subsume 44 central laws into four broad codes on wages; industrial relations; occupational safety, health and working conditions (OSH) and social security.

The Wage Code Bill 2019 was passed by Parliament last year, while the other three codes were introduced in the Lok Sabha on Saturday. These bills are listed for consideration and passage in the Lower House on Tuesday.

"The ultimate goal of the government is to see India figure in top 10 nations in ease of doing business index of World Bank with completion of long-pending labour reforms," a senior labour ministry official told PTI.

As per the 'Doing Business' 2020 report, India had jumped 14 places to the 63rd position in the ease of doing business rankings. India has improved its rank by 79 positions in five years (2014-19).

"Labour laws would act as catalyst after the reform process is completed with passage of remaining three codes in Parliament during the ongoing session.

They would help in attracting investments and generate employment in the country," the official added.

"At present, it is cumbersome to be an entrepreneur due to this vicious web of labour laws which make compliance practically difficult. It is easy to seek employment rather doing own business and becoming a job creator," the official noted.

Govt is also contemplating to digitise the entire process of labour law compliance

The codes provide for 'one labour return, one licence and one registration' to smoothen compliance.

At present, an entrepreneur has to maintain eight registrations and four licences to run a business under the existing labour laws.

Besides, they have to file eight labour returns, including to the EPFO, ESIC and Chief Labour Commissioner.

The government is also contemplating to digitise the entire process of labour law compliance, which will ease the process for entrepreneurs.

Under these codes, the maximum punishment for offences has been reduced to three years from seven years earlier. Besides, the workers would benefit by getting 50 per cent of penalty imposed by courts on employers. That would be in addition to the compensation awarded by the court to them.

Liquor makers urge Bengal CM not to alter tax structure

PTI ■ KOLKATA

Manufacturers of alcoholic Beverages have urged West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee not to alter the existing structure of tax on liquor before the festive seasons as it will hit the market.

In a joint representation to the chief minister, two major liquor makers' associations -- Confederation of Indian Alcoholic Beverage Companies (CIABC) and International Spirits and Wines Association of India (ISWAI) -- have said if the current tax structure is changed before pujas, it would prove "counterproductive" for both the government and the industry. The state Government had imposed a 30 per cent sales tax on liquor causing "a deep slide in sales and thus hurting the government exchequer", they said.

Covid bonanza for health insurers, 25% growth recorded

PII ■ NEW DELHI

The Covid-19 pandemic has increased the propensity of consumers to opt for a comprehensive health insurance product that gives proper financial protection for meeting any medical emergencies.

Accordingly, overall growth in the health business of general insurers was strong at 25 per cent yoy in August (13 per cent yoy in 5MFY21) with strong performance reported in retail health and government business at 40 per cent yoy each, according to analysis report by Kotak Institutional Equities.

Group health insurance, however, was muted at 12 per cent.

"Increasing risk aversion among consumers, strong uptick in demand for new Covid-related policies ('Corona Kavacha' and 'Corona Rakshak') and penetration among mass segments through the newly launched 'Arogya Sanjeevani' plans were likely drivers," the report said.

In the health insurance category, people preferred taking policies from entities having expertise in this line of operation.

Accordingly, standalone health insurers reported 39 per cent yoy increase in health premiums led by 51 per cent yoy increase in the retail health business. Private players were up 16 per cent yoy in the health business (up 40 per cent in retail health) while PSUs were up 21 per cent yoy.

Investment by health insurers in digital renewal of policies has likely paid off.

Private players witnessed 40 per cent yoy increase in retail health insurance premiums on the back of 1.1X yoy growth for Reliance General, 66 per cent yoy growth for Tata AIG and 65 per cent yoy growth for Ifco Tokio. Chola MS, ICICI Lombard and Bajaj General reported 62 per cent yoy, 28 per cent yoy and 35 per cent yoy growth, respectively, the brokerage report said.

On an overall basis, General insurers reported 10 per cent yoy growth in premiums (excluding crop) in August 2020 (7-8 per cent in past two months) led by 29 per cent yoy growth in fire and robust 40 per cent yoy growth in retail health. Motor continues to drag growth (down 2 per cent yoy).

Among key players, SBI reported stellar growth across most segments (up 25 per cent ex-crop) while ICICI and Tata AIG were up 12 per cent and 11 per cent yoy (ex-crop). Bajaj's ex-crop business remained weak, down 8 per cent yoy. Chola MS was muted at 1 per cent yoy (ex-crop).

60% Indian retailers expect 25% festive season sales cut: Survey

PII ■ NEW DELHI

Amid a surge in online shopping due to Covid-19, about 60 per cent retail organisations in India have seen their forecasts for the festive season go down 25 per cent or more compared to last year, says a new survey on Tuesday.

Given that festival season sales account for a significant portion of sales book each year, a downturn in the festive season sales would mean a longer road to recovery, said the report by BluePi Consulting.

While negative festive forecasts are pronounced in the apparel retail forecasts, 57 per cent of non-apparel retailers are interestingly optimistic about no or little change in the festive season sales.

Due to the reduction in the festive season forecasts, around 71 per cent of the respondents are considering cancelling or deferring orders, showed the findings, adding that this reduction in forecast puts back the pressure on the entire supply chain, including the suppliers, vendors, manufacturers and other ancillaries.

"There is no shortage of challenges as underlined in the report, and a collaborative public-private model is the need of the hour," Pronam Chatterjee, CEO at BluePi, said in a statement. Nearly 60 per cent of the retail sector companies are actively looking for capital infusion, according to the "Retail Thought Leadership Survey Report 2020."

Govt should extend MEIS till Dec 31 in its present form: CII

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

Industry body CII on Tuesday urged the Govt to extend the export incentive scheme MEIS till December 31 in its present form to help exporters. CII also suggested that the ambit of coverage under the Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme (ECLGS) should be extended to the extent of any unutilised amount for revival of stressed sectors, including civil aviation, hospitality and tourism. These suggestions, among others, were made by the chamber during a meeting with Niti Aayog. "The Govt should extend the MEIS benefits up to 31st Dec, in its present form with a rider that the balanced funds (60 percent shortfall) would be disbursed later (with in a fixed agreeable time-period) as and when government's finances improve," CII said in a statement.

It said the extension will help address the accounting problem of exporters as they can book the receivables under the Merchandise Exports from India Scheme in the current financial year. The Govt has capped export incentives under MEIS at ₹2 crore per exporter on outbound shipments made during the period from September 1 to December 31, 2020. The move comes after the Department of Revenue asked the commerce ministry to review the coverage of MEIS so that the fiscal benefits under the programme can be brought down to ₹9,000 crore in the current financial year.

Amazon customers can select their preferred language in a few simple steps across Android and iOS apps, mobile and desktop sites.

The launch of Kannada, Malayalam, Tamil and Telugu, Tamil shopping experience on Amazon.in follows the widely adopted Hindi shopping experience that was launched in 2018.

"This is in addition to various solutions that we introduced to reach a larger base of customers through video and voice based experiences that make consumption of information easier and interaction a lot more natural," Thota added.

In March this year, Alexa was introduced on the Amazon shopping app for Android devices to help users shop using voice commands.

The conventional model and approach in the Education Sector seem to be taking a backseat and the unprecedented times are calling for a newer approach to disseminate education without impacting its quality, says DR DNS KUMAR

For a better tomorrow

India has always held a significant place in the world of education. It has not only been known for its quality education but also the devotion of institutes that focus specifically on making the students learn and prosper in their respective fields. Even though our country has one of the largest networks of higher education institutions across the globe, there still are a lot of areas of improvement that can work on. The country still hasn't explored its highest potential in the field of education.
As per a report by Indian Brand Equity Foundation (IBEF), India was aiming to raise its current gross enrolment ratio to 30% by the end of 2020, which would also have boosted the growth of distance education in India. However, the plans had to take a backseat due to the outbreak of COVID-19, disrupting the entire education sector. There is no doubt about the industry witnessing a crisis due to the ongoing pandemic and the education of the students being impacted severely by the same. The disruptive period has steered the institutions and universities to focus on their higher education model and re-contemplate its working to resonate with the current scenario.

The conventional model and approach in the sector seem to be taking a back seat ever since the pandemic hit the country and the unprecedented time is calling for a newer approach to disseminate education without impacting the quality of it. The need of the hour requires the institutions to adapt to new innovative technologies and different techniques, which will further help them sync with the present generation.
Holding lectures and regular classes for the students is turning out to be a task because of the physical disruption caused by coronavirus. However, the universities from all over the world are putting their best foot forward to combat the issue by adopting a tech-enabled approach and conducting classes on virtual platforms. A lot of universities are going an extra mile to stand in unison with the global institutes and form international alliances to offer the best to their students. They are offering a diversity of experiences as they provide international exposure to their students via online platforms and classrooms.

A number of massive online open courses (MOOCs) are being available to the students these days, preventing any lag on their educational front along with the professors and lecturers upgrading their skill sets to match the new way of teaching.
The way to rise above this disruption is to embrace innovative ways and break outdated boundaries. Technological advancement comes with its own set of pros and cons, with some of the flaws adverse effects including the increase in cybercrimes or offences, but these times require us to focus on the silver lining in the cloud and create opportunities out of this crisis instead. Eliminating conventional ways and outdated approaches will create a wave which will pave a new path to success and will further make education accessible to the masses with the help of technology.

Education in the age of disruption has eventually led us to a path where the institutions are not only making online learning cost-effective and affordable for more people to enrol, but also encouraging students to focus on acquisition of skills rather than theoretical teaching. This will further bolster their confidence and make them competent to deal with any uncalled crisis in the near future. The collaborative learning coupled with a new way of teaching is revolutionising the educational sector along with offering additional perks to the students, such as online open houses, webinars, internships, smart-learning and others.
Fuelling the spirit of education and promoting remote learning, the universities are trying to fleet out of their comfort zones to create a new today and a better tomorrow. Endeavouring to make education soar high in an age of disruption, they are hosting online workshops, digitalised lectures, interactive sessions and discussions and on-screen examinations for the students. Remote learning, along with other tech-savvy approaches, is catching up with the country and is anticipated to contribute to the individual success of students, eventually leading India towards collective growth.

The education sector's receptivity towards innovative approaches is also providing the country with a window to improvise the Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER) and build technology-oriented skills and competency amongst students. Building technology-oriented skills and making students competent to take the world head-on, edu-tech and virtual learning are seen serving as the tools for collective success.
The education in the age of disruption is creating ripples of change and empowering the youth to pursue their passion and eventually become skilled professionals contributing to the economic growth of the country. The writer is Vice-Chancellor, Ansal University

UG programme

PNS ■ NEW DELHI
The University of Strathclyde, Glasgow is inviting applications for BEng Hons Manufacturing Engineering with Management course (four years) starting in September 2021.
Students will learn to combine virtual and physical design and prototyping in the university's digital design suite. Every physical product you come into contact with has been manufactured and the industry's demand for those skilled in this area continues to increase.
Students will benefit from guaranteed industrial experience to develop and apply their skills as a product design engineer within the real world and add to their CV, through the Industrial Group Project modules.
Manufacturing Engineering with Management blends a more technical engineering focus (such as mechanics, manufacturing, electronics, maths, programming, engineering calculations of a product's design) with production and management principles, and technology such as operational improvement and quality management.
Eligibility: 70-75 per cent in all subjects taken at level XII and the same at level X. Marks should be particularly strong in the proposed area of study. IELTS requirement is 6.5 (no individual element below 5.5).
How to apply: Contact eng-admissions@strath.ac.uk.

While education remains a vital part of any individual's life span, that not only assists in providing a threshold to a flourishing career but also broadens the horizon to give a positive outlook to their personality. Analysing the estimated students for undergraduate programmes, around 9 crore in senior secondary level and nearly 3.5 crore in higher education. But devoid of availability of quality higher education institutions in India, the number of students opting for the best higher education remains incongruity, leading to a steady outflow of the Indian Students for International Education.

Proper guidance is must

A student aiming to go abroad for education should consider several factors, including the budget. Many students due to incomplete research end up getting an admission in a university of less credibility, says ANKIT KAPOOR

Interest towards the course: Prove it to the university that you are keenly interested in the subject that you are applying to. Only exceptional academic scores in the subject might not be enough in this regard, rather your participation in subject based Olympiads, quizzes or taking higher level courses may be worthwhile.
Leadership and Risk-Taking capacities: Very common skill in sophomores of top-notch universities across the world. If you have the capacity of taking the initiative and leading others towards a positive movement, it means a lot to the universities as they can see a change maker in you.
Proper guidance helps in aspiring to bring out the best in its students by ethically guiding them and helping them build up their profiles to crack the world's top universities with scholarships. Motivating the students to choose the best courses as per their potential and evaluate their profile to provide the information based on a wide range of courses and options available across the world. In a first, SCMS is hosting its induction session virtually due to the current coronavirus crisis. With much grandeur, the institute is going to welcome the students following the virtual protocol in the new normal. The induction is designed in a way transcend all boundaries and barriers associated with dance as a genre.

Taking this opportunity ahead, this session is curated to address out of the box ideas for performers to think beyond a structured framework and push boundaries of dance & choreography.

choice of universities, profile building, deadlines, university application, visa processing, and even financial planning to study and get into the world's best universities.
It is important for a student to understand the importance of building a profile. If one studies the student profiles accepted in top universities across the world there are a few common traits within the students:
Concern for community: if you do not bother for people or conditions around you and do not have an urge to improve situations, probably an expensive education in a top university is of no good to you.

Be a true leader

Creating leadership talent is not easy, given just how vast a capable leader's toolkit is. A leader is the cusp of people skills, strategy, technical competence, vision, commercial sense and selling ability, says DR JITENDRA K DAS

A key concern across industries and geographies is the lack of leadership talent. While the ranks of executors and managers are adequately staffed with superior talent, the top of the corporate pyramid lacks enough visionaries. Where is the next Jack Welch? The next Bill Gates? The next Steve Jobs? The next Lee Iacocca? Or closer home, the next JRD Tata? The next Aditya Birla?
Creating leadership talent is not easy, given just how vast a capable leader's toolkit is. A leader is a cusp of people skills, strategy, technical competence, vision, commercial sense, and selling ability. Little wonder that the business world is suffering from a dearth of leaders just when they are needed the most in volatile times.
The majority of millennials (the leaders of tomorrow) agree that their leadership skills are underdeveloped. Organisations thus have to invest heavily in leadership development of their workforce which has huge cost implications. To develop tomorrow's leaders, enter B-schools as a training ground. Think of it this way — from the industry's perspective, if they could hire competent business managers from B-schools who have the right seeds of leadership already planted then it would reduce time, cost, and effort down the road when it is time to select CXOs.
This clarion call from industry has led to B-schools sharpening their curriculum and pedagogy to include specific and proven techniques for identifying and nurturing leadership talent on the one hand and helping others who are lacking in leadership potential to develop it. The emphasis is based on the belief that leadership is better learned when experienced than when explained. Here are some of the initiatives seen in select B-schools:

Structured courses on leadership: Many B-schools offer personalised and intensive structured programmes on leadership for students. These courses help students assess their strengths and weaknesses as a leader, learn different leadership styles, provide them with opportunities and challenges to develop their leadership capabilities. This is aided by lessons from history and real-life case studies.
Emphasis on experiential learning: B-schools are making continuous efforts to re-design their curriculum in a way that enables students to apply academic knowledge into practice through internships, case studies, industry projects, teams, and mock situations to give them a reflection of real-life situations. Practical exposure involves challenging situations, which helps students to think critically and find creative solutions thus strengthening their decision-making skills. The objective is to push students out of their comfort zones — after all, leaders have vast comfort zones.
Integrating Entrepreneurship skills into the curriculum: Not every management student wants to pursue a corporate career. Many of them choose a management programme to polish their entrepreneurial capabilities, which also emphasises the significance of leadership qualities. Of course, the first gateway to successful entrepreneurship is effective leadership and team building. Realising this, many business schools have come forward with incubators, innovation labs, accelerators, and also organise 'start-up pitch' competitions which help students explore and refine their entrepreneurial skills.
Emphasis on technology and digital skills: Digital technology is reshaping the industry and hence, the leadership style. Business leaders are now required to possess digital and technical competence to grow the business and take decisions that are aligned with the evolving trends. Business schools are taking measures to bridge the technological leadership gap to make students ready for an ever-evolving business landscape disrupted by technological trends.
The gap in leadership talent is not something that can be plugged in the short term. However, a beginning has been made in nurturing talent at an early stage in the cradle of business education.

'Create interactive & immersive teaching'

With the integration of technological tools, students can now engage in self-learning and assessments can be conducted via open-book and take-home exams, says DR PAWAN KUMAR SINGH

Due to the coronavirus induced lockdown across India, all educational institutions were closed. As a learning institution, we believed no crisis should change the trajectory of teaching and learning. We have responded to the ongoing pandemic and made technological advancements to make sure learning continues. The institute seamlessly shifted from offline to online pedagogy using technological devices to train faculty as well as non-faculty members and conduct online classes for students.

Changes B-schools will witness

In the future, B-schools must focus on creating interactive and immersive teaching-learning ecosystems, which are flexible as well as accessible. These approaches can be made robust with greater implementation of technology. With the integration of technological tools, students will engage in self-learning.

Assessments can be conducted via open-book, take-home exams designed to assess higher-order thinking skills that will help inculcate entrepreneurial skills. Cloud-based admissions and enrollment of students may take place in the future. With the entire pedagogy moving online, it will open avenues for business schools to collaborate deeply and conduct joint programs with other educational institutes via online methods.

Inculcating entrepreneurial skills

Management education acts as a fertile ground to develop entrepreneurial skills in budding managers. In addition to that, independent thinking, ability to spot the opportunities, and risk-taking ability, etc. are all important skill development practice that takes place in a B-school. For students driven to be entrepreneurs, a good blend of theoretical grounding and practical exposure and interaction with entrepreneurs is a boon.

At MDI, the entrepreneurial cell is also quite active and indulges in a lot of activities to ignite the fertile brains to follow their latent entrepreneurial skills by exposing them to not only skill and tactics but also making them listen to great entrepreneurs from different sectors, instilling confidence in their ideas. At MDI, classroom education and attitudinal training in entrepreneurship goes hand-in-hand.

The future

We have envisioned scalability by its research-driven activities of a consistently higher international standard. Our goal is to provide a world-class education to students who emerge as future leaders of the country. We are integrating our curriculum with new-age skills such as Artificial Intelligence and Intellectual Capital to train our students on the same. We are also looking ahead to bring infrastructural developments to establish state-of-the-art labs in collaboration with industries. As per NIRF India Rankings 2020 announced by MHRD (GoI), MDI Gurgaon is currently on 10th position amongst the top private B-schools in India. In years to come, we hope to achieve newer heights by adapting to the technological shift and excelling in new age learning.

Research is an important constituent and we encourage research activities and expects its academic community to be research-active to carry out research work of a consistently higher international standard.

The National Education Policy move to introduce teaching and learning in the mother tongue is a particularly strong bold move. The prelude of the mother tongue will encourage a child to go to school with enthusiasm. The mother tongue is not just a language but a sense of belonging and valuing it can aid in fostering respect for one's heritage. The NEP's move will definitely help to bring back the emphasis and importance of our Indian languages and perhaps, also help to de-emphasize the importance of English. Being bilingual will also open up social and cultural opportunities for students and help one develop new perspectives.

The NEP 2020 is exactly on the lines of Basic Education by Mahatma Gandhi. Language holds the key to understanding and without it any concept taught is meaningless. One can master a concept only if one has a strong hold on the language it is presented in and there is no language more conductive than one's mother tongue for learning. It has been proven time and again through research that students who study in their mother tongue find it easier to learn the information presented, retain it for longer periods and find it easier to understand the concepts and relate them to real life.

Quantitatively, studies also show that children who receive schooling in their mother-tongue language in early grades have better learning outcomes overall and have significantly better literacy levels. Apart from academic benefits, learning in mother tongue has proven to improve speaking skills and social skills which are key factors in creating well rounded citizens.

The proposed system provides a very promising prospect for our future education system and can revolutionise the teaching-learning process. However, there are few creases in the proposed plan which can be ironed out by making certain changes in the system. If with careful planning this system is implemented successfully, I am certain it can make a positive impact in our current education system.

Home is the first school for any kid and children should be taught in their mother tongue. Beginning with mother tongue at home and learning in foreign language in school slows down the learning process. Any foreign language can be easily learnt by a child even after grade 5 because of brain plasticity. When the language of instruction is in the mother tongue, children can understand concepts faster and retain them for longer.

The use of mother tongue as a medium of instruction in the classroom helps students to understand easily and connect with the classroom conversation. Learning in foreign language may lead to distraction among students. Due to the use of English language, many parents are not able to participate in their child's schooling. This will increase the rate of parental participation in child's schooling and will lead to strong home-school partnerships.

Being bilingual enhances analytical skills, they have higher synaptic activity in the brain due to multiple languages which shows higher mental flexibility and processing power. Learning in local language will boost self-confidence and will be able to express themselves in better ways.

India has different and beautiful languages which are unique. The loss of our languages and dialects will be cultural loss not just to India but also to the world. Learning through mother language or local language helps children to connect with their ancestors in a way which others can't. Developed countries offer education in their native language which helps in preserving and maintaining cultural heritage.

There are a few shortcomings to this approach. First, it is hard to implement in metro. Second, it does not take children who transfer from one city to another in mind.

STUDY ABROAD

'Go for a life-changing experience'

Studying in a foreign university can provide an array of opportunities and broaden horizon, says SADIQ BASHA

Some experiences in life provide an array of learning opportunities. Studying abroad that best matches your criteria and supports your strengths is one such life-changing experience. It will help you broaden your perspective and give you an edge when you step into the job market. Studying abroad is a great way to savour first-hand foreign culture. It also enhances your interpersonal as well as intrapersonal skills that goes a long way in your holistic development.

If you aspire to go overseas for your higher education, here are a few tips to get you going with your study abroad plans.

How to apply?

Even if you are keen about your choice of university, it is advisable that you apply to at least three universities as an option. There have been incidents when students have decided to go ahead with their second choice, and found that it was a wonderful stroke of luck.

When it comes to applying to a university abroad, students primarily do it through the university website. However, it is time consuming. With the advent of AI driven study abroad platforms like Edvoy, the application process has been simplified. Such platforms allow students to apply for five universities with one click. They just need to upload their documents, and they can track their application status. All this is done with complete transparency.

Leaving paperwork to the last minute equals major headaches. There is a list of important documents that are required while applying for a university. This list may vary, depending from university to university and country to country. However, in general, universities will require documents such as mark sheets of 10th to graduation, an updated resume, at least three letters of recommendation, Statement of Purpose, and experience letters if interned or worked. You must also have completed English proficiency tests like IELTS, TOEFL etc. and aptitude tests like GMAT, GRE, depending on university's preference.

IN BRIEF

VIRTUAL HIRING PROCESS SURVEY

The JobsForHer conducted a survey around women professionals and job seekers. The survey that gathered the opinions of 1,000 women professionals, revealed that over 40% respondents consider 'flexible options that allow a certain amount of work from home' in the post-COVID world as the deciding factor. The option of working from home and/or visiting the office only when required is the best one according to them as they adapt to the changing corporate world and family needs.

Neha Bagaria, founder-CEO, JobsForHer, said: "This in tandem with the 62% increase in job applications that JobsForHer saw on its platform between April and July and a 55% average increase in the number of work-from-home jobs posted by companies. We hope to see more companies hire capable women professionals to fill their roles in the coming months."

Another survey conducted on the platform showed that out of 1000+ respondents, 90% women were comfortable with the virtual hiring process as it saves time and is convenient because it opens up plenty other opportunities to attend interviews at otherwise far-away locations thereby cutting down on the commute.

Realising the need for online recruitment, the platform organised its biggest virtual career event — HerRising 2020 for women professionals across the country on September 19, 2020 aimed at bridging the gender gap at work, the overarching goal of the event is to provide jobs to women professionals who are ready to start, restart and rise in their careers.

Padikkal is a brilliant young player, he has shown it over the last couple of years, how talented he is and how destructive he could be at the top of the order

Shubman is a quality player. There is a lot of expectation from him around the world, I'm sure he will exceed all expectations and I'm really confident about that

Bumrah is a world class bowler, he is trying very hard over the last couple of days to find rhythm. I am 100 per cent sure he will be on the mark in the coming games

KKR face MI in battle of equals

PTI ■ ABU DHABI
Race and strength will be on one side while poise and killer instinct on the other when a revamped Kolkata Knight Riders take on Mumbai Indians, who have once again faltered in the beginning of the IPL, on Wednesday.

Since 2013, MI have never won an opening game and the script didn't change against Chennai Super Kings also. They will be keen to bounce back while KKR would look for a perfect beginning as it will be a battle between big hitters on both sides on a sluggish Abu Dhabi track.

It will be Shubman Gill's third IPL, the one where he would like to own the stage with his languid grace and effortless hitting, which he is so capable of. He can hit sixes over extra cover with grace and caress the ball through covers too.

These are exactly the traits that made Rohit Sharma, the great white ball exponent that he is. Seasoned Rohit versus young Shubman is one for the keeps and makes this battle enticing. But it's not just grace which makes T20 so appealing. The brute masculinity of power that sends the ball soaring into the orbit is what makes it so special.

Hardik Pandya, who is back with a chiselled body. There is no doubt that he can unleash his firepower against Sunil Narine and Kuldeep Yadav as well as KKR's highest paid multi million dollar recruit Pat Cummins. But Hardik will find his match in Andre Russell, easily the most destructive hitter in current T20 cricket.

Russell had openly criticised the team management last year for sending him down the order. But this time, he has been promised a promotion to number three slot and this could spell doom for any opposition.

KKR has Eoin Morgan, easily the best white ball captain in international cricket at the moment, who could advise Dinesh Karthik on how to tackle tense moments.

Whether he would fit in among the four overseas players is the question as Knights have Narine, Tom Banton, Russell and Cummins, who walk into any T20 playing XI.

For Mumbai, it is important that Nathan Coulter-Nile, with more all-round T20 utility compared to Trent Boult, gets fit to add more balance. They could think about using Ishan Kishan's explosive firepower rather than bulky Saurabh Tiwary, who can't rotate the strike with ease.

Apart from pacers and spinners Krunal Pandya and Rahul Chahar, they need one more option in the bowling and that can be in form of Pandya and Kieron Pollard.

Both Hardik and Pollard, who did not bowl against CSK can jointly share the responsibility of another bowler.

Sanju Samson and skipper Steve Smith smashed quickfire half-centuries to guide Rajasthan Royals to a formidable 216 for seven against Chennai Super Kings in an IPL match here on Tuesday.

Sent into bat, Rajasthan lost young opener Yashasvi Jaiswal (6) in the third over but then Samson joined hands with Smith as the duo played sensibly initially before the Kerala wicket-keeper batsman went hammer and tongs at opposition spinners.

Samson (74 off 32) looked in great nick, while Smith, returning to competitive cricket after recovering from concussion suffered before consecutive sixes by Samson before Chawla went for four sixes in his first over — three by Samson and one by Smith.

Samson, thus, brought up his quickest IPL fifty in just 19 balls with the help of one boundary and six hits over the fence. If that was not enough for Chawla, the leg-spinner again leaked in his next over as both Samson and Smith took him to cleaners.

CSK made a much-needed comeback in the match in the 12th over with twin blows in the form of in-form Samson and unlucky David Miller. While after some great hitting display, Samson fell in search one too many, caught by Deepak Chahar off Lungi Ngidi, Miller departed two balls later in search on a non-existent double.

CSK made another comeback into the match in the 17th over when Sam Curran dismissed Rahul Tewatia and Riyan Parag before Smith departed in the 119th over in search of big hits. In the last over, Jofra Archer used his long handle to great effect and smashed Ngidi to all parts of the ground and above it to pick up 30 runs.

MARSH MAY MISS ENTIRE IPL
Australian all-rounder Mitchell Marsh is likely to be ruled out of the remainder of the IPL as the ankle injury he suffered during the game against RCB has turned out to be "serious." "It seems a serious injury. I am not sure if he be able to compete in any of the matches," a team source told PTI on Tuesday. The team has not yet officially commented on the extent of his injury. It will be a huge loss for SRH, who may now consider bringing in 37-year-old Dan Christian, who has the experience of playing 40 IPL games as a middle order batsman and a right arm seamer. World No 1 T20 all-rounder Mohd Nabi could get a look in into the playing XI.

20 CR WATCHED IPL 13 OPENER
The opening match of the 13th edition of the IPL was watched by 20 crore people, said BCCI Secretary Jay Shah on Tuesday. As per Shah, this was the highest-ever opening day viewership for any sporting league in any country as defending champions Mumbai Indians faced CSK on September 19 at the Sheikh Zayed Stadium in Abu Dhabi. "Opening match of #Dream11IPL sets a new record! As per BARC, an unprecedented 20 crore people tuned in to watch the match. Highest ever opening day viewership for any sporting league in any country — no league has ever opened as big as this," said the BCCI Secretary in a tweet while tagging BCCI President Sourav Ganguly, Uday Shankar — President of The Walt Disney Company, APAC, and Chairman of Star and Disney India — and Disney+Hotstar.

I WAS VERY NERVOUS: PADIKKAL
Considered a future India star, Devdutt Padikkal made an impressive IPL debut with a scintillating fifty but the young Kerala batsman says he was nervous when his place in the playing XI was confirmed to him. "I was very nervous upon hearing the news of making my debut. But when I came to bat I settled down after playing a few balls," Padikkal told Chahar during an interaction after the match. Padikkal said he has learnt a lot from RCB and India skipper Virat Kohli. "The last one month that we practiced, I learnt a lot from Virat bhैया. I kept asking him questions whenever I was around him. Even today, when I was playing with Finch, he showed a lot of confidence in me," he said.

ENSURE BETTER UMPIRING: NESS TO BCCI
Kings XI Punjab co-owner Ness Wadia wants the BCCI to ensure better umpiring standards and optimum use of technology in the IPL, following an umpiring howler which cost his team a match against Delhi Capitals. "It is exceedingly unfortunate that today with tremendous use of technology, we still do not use technology to ensure the total fairness and transparency in cricket game like several other leagues across the world including EPL, NBA, etc.," Wadia said in a statement to PTI. "I would request BCCI to ensure better umpiring and to ensure henceforth that technology is used to the maximum so as to ensure fairness and transparency in a game which is used across the best leagues in the world."

KOHLI PRAISE GAME CHANGER YUZI
Crediting Yuzvendra Chahal's three-wicket burst for his side's 10-run win over Sunrisers Hyderabad in their IPL-opener, RCB captain Virat Kohli said the wrist spinner proved that he can get purchase on any wicket. "It's amazing to be honest. Last year, we were on the other side of the result, 6-nil to start. It is nice to be 1-nil. We kept our composure tonight," Kohli said at the post-match presentation. "Yuzi (Chahal) comes in and completely changed the game for us. Not many spinners get much out of the pitch, but tonight he showed that you can turn it if you have it in your wrists. He showed he can get purchase on any wicket. The way he came in and bowled attacking lines, he changed the game."

Good to play strong Mumbai early: DK

Abu Dhabi: Mumbai Indians consist of world-class players and that is why it is good for us to play the four-time champions early in the IPL, Kolkata Knight Riders skipper Dinesh Karthik said on Tuesday. The two teams have faced each other 25 times and the Kolkata-based franchise has won only six matches. "They (Mumbai Indians) have a team of world-class players; they are a strong lineup and the number of IPL titles they have won shows that. It's good that we are playing Mumbai early in the tournament. Every year is a different year. I am sure it will be a great game tomorrow," said Karthik during a virtual press conference on Tuesday.

Karthik also hinted that Shubman Gill and Sunil Narine will be opening the batting for KKR. "Shubman is a quality player. I am sure he will exceed all expectations and it's good to have him. Gill and Narine make a good opening combination," he said. Karthik admitted that he has the 'problem of plenty' to pick the XI from a revamped Kolkata Knight Riders squad. "One of the tough points for KKR at this point of time is picking the right XI. A lot of guys have put their hands up and are ready for selection. It's going to be an interesting one and a tough one but that's a good sign." "We are in a good space. One of our strengths is the variety we have in our pace department. All four Indian pacers are shaping up really well. It's going to be a hard decision to make who's going to start the tournament," Karthik said.

Morgan aims to complement Russell

BIG HIT

Eoin Morgan could well be the 'ice' to Andre Russell's 'fire' as England's World Cup winning captain gets ready to complement the pyrotechnics of the big-hitting Jamaican when Kolkata Knight Riders take the field in this edition of Indian Premier League.

after they looked heavily reliant on Andre Russell to finish close games as they missed the qualifiers by a whisker in 2019. "I know (Andre) Russell has done that role significantly well for a number of years for Kolkata. He's done exceptionally well. If I get a go, hopefully I will be able to aid that," Morgan said during a virtual media interaction. "The KKR vice-captain further said he's more experienced now and his batting is coming off really well. "I think it's been quite a few years since I played (at KKR). Just looking at batting, my game has really come on quite a lot in the last three to four years. I would like to think I've come on quite well," Morgan, who will be back at the franchise after his stint from 2011-2013, said. Besides Morgan, KKR have also bolstered their batting with his compatriot Tom Banton who became a sensation in the Big Bash League, while the bowling tool looks fiery with the addition of Aussie world number one Pat Cummins. "I think with the squad that we have, it gives us better options, particularly in batting and bowling. I think within the squad we have a number of very versatile cricketers who can specifically control the batting department," Morgan said.

Warner backs young Indian batsmen

DUBAI: Sunrisers Hyderabad skipper David Warner has backed young Indian batsmen Priyam Garg and Abhishek Sharma to "keep playing their natural game" after their disappointing outing against the Royal Challengers Bangalore. The 19-year-old Garg (12) and 20-year-old Sharma (7) couldn't grab the opportunity as the former was bowled while trying to scoop the ball past the keeper and the latter fell prey to a terrible mix-up with Rashid Khan. Vijay Shankar could not even open his account. Warner though said he has faith in young Indian batsmen. "We wouldn't have put them (young Indian pair) in the middle over if we didn't think they are not good enough," Warner said in the post-match press conference.

"Anyone who wants to criticise the middle order batting, ... It is something I haven't seen before — three bizzare dismissals. I encourage them to keep playing their way and not think too much about the scenario or situation out there." "We rely on our senior players to guide these guys out there in the middle, my message to the youngsters was to play their natural game, that's the only way one can learn. It can be difficult at times, it is pressure environment, it's got to keep it calm and simple for them." PTI

Zlatan Ibrahimovic scored twice as AC Milan got their Serie A campaign up and running with a 2-0 win over Bologna on Monday. Ibrahimovic, who turns 39 next month, showed he has lost none of his goalscoring skills having also netted last week against Irish side Shamrock Rovers in the Europa League. "If I had been 20 years old I would have scored two more goals," said the Swede of his display. "I'm like Benjamin Button, born old, but I'll die young. Vidal joins Inter

Milan: Inter Milan have completed a deal to sign Arturo Vidal from Barcelona for 1 million euros, the clubs announced on Tuesday.

"Barcelona and Inter Milan have reached an agreement for the transfer of the player Arturo Vidal," Barca said in a statement. "The Italian team will pay FC Barcelona 1 million euros in variables." After joining in 2018, Vidal played 96 games for the Catalans and scored 11 goals, helping them win La Liga in his first year in Spain. Inter described the Chilean midfielder as a "warrior." "From today, Vidal will be on the front line for the Nerazzurri, with the same objectives as ever: fighting, giving it his all, and winning," the Italian club added. AFP work for the away side. Bologna finished a man down with Mitchell Dijks send off with two minutes to go but it made no difference to the match. "They had Ibrahimovic, we didn't," said Bologna coach Sinisa Mihajlovic. "Ibra made the difference, everything Milan created came through him. But it was a balanced game. "Maybe we didn't believe in ourselves enough, but the lads were in it to the end, we created two big scoring opportunities."

City start season with nervy win

AFP ■ WOLVERHAMPTON

Pep Guardiola labelled Phil Foden as "incredible" after Manchester City survived a scare to start their Premier League title challenge with a 3-1 win against Wolves on Monday. City's delayed start to the campaign — due to their involvement in last season's Champions League — had allowed Liverpool to build a six-point lead over them before they had even kicked a ball. Guardiola's side could not afford to slip up at Molineux if they wanted to keep pace with the champions and they raced into a two-goal lead before half-time thanks to Kevin De Bruyne's penalty and Foden's cool finish. City's swaggering first half gave way to an anxious spell as Wolves dominated after the interval and they had to cling on after Raul Jimenez got one back before Gabriel Jesus sealed the points in stoppage time. Foden's goal was a welcome morale boost in his first match since the midfielder was sent home in disgrace, along with Manchester United's Mason Greenwood, after the pair invited local women into the England team's hotel. "For the goal and in the second half Foden played incredibly well, he helped us keep the ball," Guardiola said. While City equalled Aston Villa's record of winning 10 consecutive opening fixtures to a top-flight season, there is little doubt Liverpool remain the Premier League's preeminent force for now. But Guardiola was delighted to open with a victory given the shorter than usual pre-season. "We could not run much because we are tired in our legs but in general we did a good game," he said. "The period that we are in, the situation that we had this last two weeks, I expected some moments where we suffer but in general we controlled it well. "It was a good performance. We know how difficult it is in this stadium. "Sometimes we need more time to get to our best condition but it was a good start to come here and win."
