It’s time the Opposition joins hands with Modi to fight Covid

By ETPoliticsTeam

The Opposition is doing a bad job of the good done by the government and its leaders in handling Covid, which is setting up a very difficult situation for the people when faced with a major problem. Unfortunately, the Opposition does not highlight the lapse of the centre and lacks focus on public issues, with the exception of a few isolated instances.

The situation on hand does not require a major policy statement from the Opposition. The Opposition does not even offer an alternative plan to the government’s policies. The Opposition does not even question the government’s policies. The Opposition does not even raise any concerns about the government’s policies.

PK Chavan said during the opening ceremony of the 124th session of the All India Kisan Mahasangh that it had prepared a comprehensive strategy to support farmers and ensure their rights.

"We have been fighting for our rights for a long time, but now the time has come to take strong action," he said.

The farmers' unions had earlier decided to launch a series of protests across the country to demand better prices for their produce. The strategy includes massive rallies, roadblocks, and other mass campaigns to highlight the issues faced by farmers.

"The government has been using various tactics to undermine our demands," Chavan said. "We will not be deterred and will continue to fight for our rights until our demands are met."

The farmers' unions are demanding a change in the way crops are marketed and sold, as well as better prices for their produce. They also want the government to provide them with better access to credit and input subsidies.
