Raghav on a mission to revive instrumental music

His latest offering, a single titled ‘Soniye’, has been released under his record label ‘The Pioneer’. The song has been praised for its instrumentation and unique composition.

Raghav, who is also an accomplished instrumentalist, talks about his journey in music, his love for playing the harmonica, and his plans to explore more in the instrumental genre.

About ‘Soniye’

Raghav says the song is a fusion of traditional Indian music with modern instrumentation. He says, “I wanted to create a bridge between the old and the new, and ‘Soniye’ is a perfect example of that.”

The composer explains that the track is inspired by the rhythm of the harmonica, a versatile instrument that he has been playing since he was a child.

Towards the end, Raghav adds, “I feel like music has the power to bring people together, regardless of their culture or background. ‘Soniye’ is my way of sharing that message through my music.”

The song has been well-received by listeners, with many praising the harmonica’s performance and the unique blend of traditional and contemporary elements.

For Raghav, this is just the beginning of a new chapter in his music career. He plans to release more instrumental songs in the future, exploring different sounds and incorporating them into his musical style.

He concludes, “I’m excited about this new direction and look forward to sharing more of my musical journey with you.”

CinemaApuram is a world that shall be as far as my eyes can see. Where I can shout, whistle, celebrate life in every frame of my director's vision. I can be anything, I can be anyone. I can be a global citizen, because I am a storyteller, and I am determined to tell stories that inspire each other to grow. Because it is a fictional story, I did not go by the conventionalities of terms of their clothes and the way they said, I don't observe my co-actors.
