India may have been the oldest functioning state in the world, even if the Chinese may contest this. From ancient times, India has been a land of various faiths, cultures and moulds.

However, today, China may be the ‘oldest functioning’ organisation in the world but India is an inclusive land of various faiths, cultures and moulds.

Since the time of Plato and Aristotle, India has been a land of various cultures. The ancient Indian philosophers like Yoga and Buddha have influenced the world, and India has been a melting pot of various cultures.

Today, India is a land of various religions, and it is an inclusive land where all religions are respected. The Constitution of India guarantees the right to freedom of religion, and it is a land where all religions are equal.

REMAIN IN POWER.

DELHI CAN DARE ITSELF.

THIS MAY BE THE REALITY IN GOVERNMENT IN DELHI.

Can we forget that?

The political situation in Delhi is a microcosm of the country. The Delhi government is headed by Arvind Kejriwal, who has been in power for more than a decade. The Delhi government has been accused of corruption and mismanagement, and it has been ruled by a party that has been in power for more than a decade.

Cost-revenue strategy of horizontal mergers

A merged entity has reached economies of scale if the scale of an activity increased after a certain merger.

In this fast-paced world people seek a personalized, comprehensive and rise of cross-border services. Horizontal mergers are the quick way of gaining economies of scale. A horizontal merger is a type of merger where the merging firms are found in the same industry and come together to create a larger company.

Many merger is said to add value to the acquirer if the equals value of the merged firms. One way of gaining cost reduction is through scale efficiency. When two firms merge, they can pool their resources and increase the scale of production, which can lead to lower unit costs. Another way is by increasing the scale of the firm’s sales and R&D administration and management. The second theory of strategy is that the point of view of resource augmentation increases the increased revenue.

The target firm is usually the one that generates revenues in the form of sale, income and profit. An increasing volume of revenues is the result of increased scale of the firm. Mergers and acquisitions often lead to increased economy of scale. It can be seen that a merged entity can achieve an increased economy of scale.

In addition to achieving economies of scale in manufacturing activities, such benefits can be obtained in other aspects of business operations by increasing the final costs. The merging of horizontal mergers can also mean the increased cash flow by sharing, which is in turn used for reinvestment.

Apart from economies of scale, mergers and acquisitions can also result in increased economies of scope. This is a result of increased scale of the firm’s sales and R&D administration.

Over the years, most of the horizontal mergers have been concluded in a form of structural changes and rationalization of economies of scale. Therefore, several studies have focused on the relevance of economies of scale to horizontal mergers. Cost reduction, cost sharing, and cost sharing of marketing activities and improving the market share are among the main benefits of horizontal mergers.

Economists of scale and scope can also play a major role in the success of a horizontal merger. It can be seen that a merged entity can achieve an increased economy of scale if the scale of the activity is increased.

Gone are the days when diamonds were a woman’s best friend. Rare gemstones have become the new sensation. Some of these stones have been passed down from generation to generation and hold sentimental value. Half a million dollars today, a sapphire studded engagement ring once decorated a Duchess of Cambridge, Kate Middleton wears the same ring for Empress Josephine. In the past, Napoleon bought an elegant sapphire ring for his family. The Indian Gems and Jewellery Export Promotion Council (GJEPC) has proposed reducing import duties on cut and polished diamonds and other gemstones to 2.5 from 7.5 per cent for gemstones and jewellery pieces to 5.5 per cent by 2025.

People have started buying gemstones as an investment. As gemstones are scarce, so they do not depreciate. The demand for gemstones has increased exponentially in the last few years. Wedding season or not, the gemstone market is growing at a rapid pace. The growing demand for gemstones has led to increased values of the stones, but also to increased production. Many companies have started investing in gemstones.

The Indian Gems and Jewellery sector constitutes 7 per cent of the country’s GDP. The growing global demand has attracted many companies to invest in the market. The resurgence of Amitabh Bachchan on sets has also helped many people feel more connected to their past and their family. Deepika Padukone was seen wearing a Coral and a Pearl ring. Her love for gemstones is also highly advisable to choose the authentic ones.
