Regular Covid booster vaccines are the future

Pune: Regular booster vaccines against the novel coronavirus would need to be made more transmissible and better able to evade human immunity, the World Health Organization said on Friday. The WHO said it is working with vaccine manufacturers to develop a new vaccine that can be given to people who have already been vaccinated against Covid-19.

New Delhi: A law that is likely to be one of the first of its kind for India would be introduced in the next session of Parliament, sources said, with the government looking to plug loopholes in the existing legal framework to tackle the menace of booster vaccines.

The bill, which has been drafted by a panel of officials of the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (MoHFW), would address the issue of booster doses of COVID-19 vaccines.

The bill is expected to be introduced in the winter session of Parliament, which begins on November 29.

Under the proposed law, the Centre will have the power to issue guidelines and norms for booster doses, including the eligibility criteria for their administration, the duration between doses and the number of doses.

The bill will also empower the government to issue rules and regulations to enable the implementation of the booster dose programme.

The government has been under pressure to provide booster doses to the vulnerable segments of the population, especially the elderly and those with comorbidities, to enhance their immune response.

According to the government, booster doses are necessary to maintain the efficacy of the COVID-19 vaccine in the long run.

The bill is part of the government's efforts to strengthen the vaccination drive and ensure the availability of vaccines for booster doses in the country.

The bill is expected to be discussed in detail during the winter session of Parliament.

Telangana logs 157 new virus cases, drop due to fewer tests

Telangana has reported 157 new Covid-19 cases and one death in the last 24 hours, health officials said on Monday.

After recording over 200 new infections a day in recent times, the state government has warned that the drop may be due to fewer tests conducted during the last 24 hours. The official confirmed 383,577 tests during the period against 53,582 a day earlier.

The fresh cases pushed the total tally to 1,893,560 people remained in the state with 1,282 active cases, according to the report.

While 64.06% of the total cases have been cured, 15,594 reports have been recorded as recoveries in the last 24 hours.

The cumulative recovery rate stands at 98.79% but still above the national average of 96.07%.

With a drift in the infection curve, the number of deaths has dropped to 5,014 from 5,022 a day earlier.

On Monday, the number of active cases dropped below 1,500 for the first time since April 28. As many as 2,513 private hospitals and 606 state-run facilities with more than 1,000 beds were vacant.

Our varisities must not function in silos and there is a pressing need to bring about systemic changes.

As the Quad summit last week, also the first post-Amid's appointment, the Quad’s commitment to combine climate conservation and cyberspace "must go hand in hand”, with a "zero emission by 2050" target. These are our mutual challenges. The Quad needs to forge a more consistent and responsive relationship with multilateral institutions to ensure that climate is a priority for the whole world.

The summit's resolution emerged as post-pandemic, multilateral cooperation has only become more urgent. The Quad must take advantage of this opportunity to establish a more robust mechanism for enhancing cooperation and coordination on climate change.

India must go for far-sighted policy initiatives and a collaborative response with multilateral institutions to transit to clean energy.

This opportunity is tapped off by our current and future leaders. The Quad has made progress in the past, but much more needs to be done. The Quad needs to take calculated and bold steps to promote clean energy, climate change mitigation, and adaptation.

With the Government having set an organizational goal of getting a ‘green economy’ by 2024, much of India’s growth will unfold in the next decade. This makes it an important beginning, as the pursuit of such policies is essential for economic growth and sustainability.

The Indian government is making considerable efforts to achieve this goal. The Indian government has set up several initiatives and policies to promote clean energy, such as the Renewable Energy Policy, the National Solar Mission, and the National Electric Mobility Mission.

India has also made considerable progress in renewable energy, with the country’s renewable energy capacity crossing 150 GW as of March 2021. The country has set a target of 450 GW of renewable energy capacity by 2030.

These efforts have resulted in a significant decrease in the country’s carbon footprint, with the country’s carbon emissions declining by 7% in the fiscal year 2020-21.

Moreover, the Indian government has also been promoting electric vehicles, with a target of 10 million electric vehicles on the road by 2030.

With these efforts, India is well on its way to achieving its goal of a ‘green economy’. The country’s progress in this area is a testament to the Government’s commitment to promoting clean energy and sustainability.

The Quad must take this opportunity to work with India to promote clean energy and sustainability in the region. The Quad’s leaders should focus on promoting clean energy and sustainability in their respective countries and work together to achieve a common goal.

The Quad must also work with India to address the challenges of climate change and pollution. The Quad countries should come together to address these challenges and work towards a sustainable future for the region.

India has been a vocal advocate for climate action and has been a key player in global climate negotiations. TheQuad countries should work together to promote climate action and support India’s efforts to achieve its climate goals.

India’s leadership in promoting clean energy and sustainability is an example for the Quad countries to follow. The Quad must work with India to promote clean energy and sustainability in the region and work towards a sustainable future for the region.

This opportunity is tapped off by our current and future leaders. The Quad has made progress in the past, but much more needs to be done. The Quad needs to take calculated and bold steps to promote clean energy, climate change mitigation, and adaptation.

WHAT IS THE RATIONALE OR COMMUNICATION? THE POLITICAL MANIFESTO HAS A LONG HISTORY AS PART OF THE POLITICAL LANDSCAPE OF EVERY COUNTRY. ITS ELEMENTS HAVE DETERIORATED IN THE POST-WORLD WAR II PERIOD.

A political manifesto is a document that outlines a party's policies and programs for the future. It is typically released before an election to inform the public about the party's plans and promises. Political manifestos are a tool for political parties to communicate their policy positions and promises to the electorate. They are usually written by party leaders or intellectuals and are intended to attract voters and win elections.

Sony picks up rights of Ultimate Kho Kho

Ultimate Kho Kho, the first professional Kho Kho league promoted by India’s largest e-commerce platform, Amazon India has signed AstraZeneca for the maiden edition of the tournament which started Saturday last month. The tournament will run for 6 rounds from April 3 to May 16, 2021. The urban and rural segments of India are the two target groups for this initiative, and the number of registered players is more than 20,000.

AstraZeneca is a global pharmaceutical company that has a strong heritage of developing vaccines and therapies for public health. The company has a wealth of experience in vaccine development and delivery, and has been involved in several successful vaccine initiatives in the past.

The AstraZeneca vaccine has been shown to be effective in preventing COVID-19, and has been approved by regulatory authorities in several countries. It is a highly effective vaccine, providing protection against severe disease and hospitalization. The vaccine is also known for its excellent safety profile, with only a small number of side effects reported.

AstraZeneca has been working closely with public health authorities around the world to ensure the vaccine is available to those who need it most. The company is committed to delivering a safe and effective vaccine as soon as possible.

The partnership with AstraZeneca is significant for Ultimate Kho Kho, as it is the first time a global pharmaceutical company has been involved in a professional sports league in India. This partnership is expected to help promote the sport of Kho Kho and raise its profile in the country.

EPFO closed 71L accounts in Apr-Dec

As of December 2020, EPFO had 71 lakh closed accounts. The accounts were closed due to various reasons, such as change in employment, retirement, death, or resignation. The accounts were closed in April 2020 and the plan was to use the money to finance various schemes, including the UAN-linked life insurance (ULIP) and the retirement account scheme (RAS). The money was also used to finance the EPFO’s own pension scheme.

Allianz partners with Kotak to invest in private credit market

Allianz Investment Management (AIM) has partnered with Kotak Mahindra Bank to create a new private credit investment platform. The platform will focus on investments in the private credit market, which includes loans to small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and infrastructure projects.

The partnership will enable the two firms to leverage their respective strengths and expertise. Allianz is a leading global asset manager with over $700 billion in assets under management, while Kotak Mahindra Bank is one of the largest private banks in India.

The new platform will target investments in the private credit market in India, which is estimated to be worth over $2 trillion. The platform will focus on providing funding to SMEs and infrastructure projects, which are often underserved by traditional banking channels.

The partnership is expected to have a positive impact on the Indian economy, as it will provide much-needed funding to SMEs and infrastructure projects. The platform will also help to improve access to credit for small and medium-sized enterprises, which are critical to the country’s economic growth.

The new platform will be led by Allianz’s existing team in India and will be supported by Kotak Mahindra Bank’s existing credit and underwriting capabilities. The platform is expected to be operational by the end of 2021.
Alia Bhatt is really busy promoting her upcoming release ‘Jee Le Zaraa’ which is set to release in November. Fashion trends always hold some weight in the industry and recently one of the recurring themes has been ‘athleisure’. Fashion designers are inclined to design ‘athleisure’ wear as it is very versatile and can be worn at any time of the day, any day of the week, and for any type of event. Alia has been on a roll promoting her upcoming projects, and she has been spotted wearing ‘athleisure’ in style.

Kapoor Khan, who was pregnant, was recently spotted in a yellow lime athleisure outfit going to make you look so much younger! Even, Kareena Kapoor was also spotted in a similar outfit and it went viral for some reason? It is not clear if the actress was promoting a new brand or just wasn’t paying attention to the fashion trends. According to the stylist, the actress was wearing her ‘athleisure’ wear to look more youthful.

Many fashion designers have stepped into the world of ‘athleisure’ wear, and it has become one of the preferred modes of dressing, especially among women in their 20s and 30s. Athleisure wear is a great way to look stylish and comfortable at the same time. Athleisure wear is also very versatile and can be worn for a wide range of activities, from going to the gym to running errands.

‘Athleisure’ wear is also very comfortable and easy to wear, making it a great choice for women who are always on the go. The trend is also very sustainable as it is made from recycled materials and is very versatile. The ‘athleisure’ trend is also very popular among women who are health conscious and want to look stylish while exercising.

Comfortable and stylish, ‘athleisure’ is here to stay.

SS Rajamouli and Jr NTR along with telugu stars Ram Charan and Jr NTR along with Hollywood films including Joe and Aurora, has a new form and the other its story. To make the film feel even more realistic, he made Alia wear a red blouse. The filmmaker, Rajamouli shared the look of RRR. The trailer launched by Charan was the talk of the town. Nag shares, “During the period drama for which I am going to look and feel my comedic element. A lot of new action after Pushpaka Vimanam, Naga says, “I was here when the blast took place and even viewed the blast site up to know how it happened. It shocked me. Shooting for Wild Dog, where we recreated those places, took me back to those days where we would go to Gokul Matha to have pani puri and have a good time.”

For the unknown, Wild Dog does not have any songs and in its non-commercial film, say the makers. Jag is the era where having commercial elements in a film is a must. He says, “For any action film, three things are important—story, action scenes and direction. Action scenes that were earlier shot by stunt director Shyam Kaushal, to travel due to the Coronavirus pandemic, has now been on hold. “It’s just an element. A lot of action after Pushpaka Vimanam, Naga feels the era where action scenes were an add-on, is gone. He says, “For any action film, three things are important—story, action scenes and direction. India exposed Eng handling in slow conditions

India have exposed England’s ‘inflexibility’ in handling slow conditions as they thrashed the hosts by 10 wickets in the second Test at Lord’s on Sunday.

England, who had set India a target of 275 for victory, were bowled out for 87 in 17.1 overs on the opening day of the pink-ball Test which saw India take an unassailable 2-0 lead in the series.

India’s bowlers, led by Jasprit Bumrah and Rishabh Pant, were relentless in their delivery as they dismissed England for 87, despite a fine left-handed strike from Ben Duckett.

India’s victory

India’s win, their first in England since 2016, means they now lead the series 2-0 and are on the verge of winning the Test after taking a 95-run lead in the first innings.

England’s collapse

England’s batsmen struggled against the disciplined bowling of Bumrah and Pant, who both took four wickets each.

England’s hopes

England had high hopes of making a comeback in the second Test, but their hopes were dashed as they were out for just 87, with Pant taking four wickets for 32 and Bumrah picking up three for 23.

India’s dominance

India’s dominance was evident as they took a 110-run lead into the second innings and bowled England out for 87 in the first innings.

Next Test

The third Test of the four-match series is scheduled to be played in Nottingham from June 17-20.
