Vast scope for students in technical education: Garg

E nthusiastic about the quality of technical education and its potential to power up the national economy, UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath said efforts should be made to attract more students in the field of technical education.

He said the demand for skilled technicians was increasing day by day as the industrial sector and all other sectors were opening up to transform the country into a global manufacturing hub.

Talking about the technical education sector, the chief minister said: “The need for skilled professionals is increasing day by day in all sectors. The industrial sector has great requirements in this direction.”

He predicted that in the coming years, there would be a great demand for people with technical skills.

The chief minister said that the UP government had introduced ‘Udaan’, a programme to provide assistance to the unemployed from the economy with the help of training and skill development.

“Udaan” was a unique scheme under which the unemployed would get training on various skills and would be provided with assistance to set up their own enterprises. Under the scheme, 10 lakh unemployed people would be trained and given financial assistance to help them set up their own businesses.

The chief minister said that the government was giving utmost importance to the development of technical education.

He said the Cantonment Board had approved the setup of a 100-bed vocational college in Naini area which would be established within the next six months.

The UP government was in the process of establishing Vocational Training Centres (VTC) in all assembly constituencies in UP.

During the programme, students and parents were informed about the importance of technical education and the various courses available under the ‘Udaan’ scheme.

The students were also informed about the future scope of courses in the technical sector.

The slogan of the ‘Udaan’ scheme was ‘tement’ and appealed to the students to develop dignity of labour and identify their place in society.

The Delhi Government’s decision to overlook its excise policy is a win for all the stakeholders. If a move that spits in the Capital’s soaring, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Government has decided to tolerate major changes in its anti-alcohol policy. These include lowering the minimum age for consumption of liquor to 21 years from 25 years, ending the retail alcohol business, overhanging a laundromat tax system to boost the Delhi’s revenue, closing down the tour routes and improving such user experience. These reforms were a long time coming, with Delhi being bombarded with the AP’s low profile and the inability to get a single person to comment on the status of the alcohol policy. Now, the AP doesn’t make any sense, given that the drinking age in the neighboring State of Uttar Pradesh (UP) is 21 and the youngsters just cross over to UP where they can partake in their country’s legal alcohol consumption. So basically, the Delhi Government was losing money, not making the young people drink, and not having a good image from its youngsters from drinking.

Not only is the AP’s move to loosen under drinking does not make a menace and there is a major and stringent condition on drinking under influence. The younger generation must be taught to drink responsibly. The AAP Government has made it clear that those under the age of 21 but will not be allowed inside restaurants selling liquor if they are alone or in a group under. Through the international concept of Age of 21, it has been introduced in India for the first time to prevent under drinking, with the ID’s being made along with the industry, only time will tell whether the Government’s move will succeed or not. This is an argument that one who argue that it will encourage youngsters to imbibe liquor at a younger age than earlier. The only thing they can say is be your children well. And it is better that they do not even try it. It is totally over to another State leaving them open to myriad dangers. Banks’ NPAs declined to ₹5.7L cr at Dec-end: Thakur

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) and the government of India have taken steps to address the issue of non-performing assets (NPAs) of banks and financial institutions. According to the latest data released by RBI, the total outstanding loan as of December 2021 was ₹56.13 lakh crore, of which ₹5.71 lakh crore were NPAs. This is a significant improvement from the figure of ₹11.96 lakh crore as of December 2020.

The RBI has been implementing various measures to address the issue of NPAs, including the conversion of non-performing advances into equity, the setting up of asset reconstruction companies (ARCs), and the introduction of new regulatory frameworks to improve the resolution of NPAs. These measures have helped to reduce the burden on banks and improve their financial health.

The government has also taken steps to address the issue of NPAs. The Union government has announced a set of measures to improve the resolution of NPAs, including the introduction of the resolution framework for large corporate defaulters and the setting up of an NPAs resolution fund.

The RBI and the government are working closely to address the issue of NPAs and ensure that banks are able to recover their losses. The measures taken by the RBI and the government are expected to help banks in recovering their losses and improving their financial health.

GST collection top ₹1L cr for five straight months since Oct 2020: MoS Finance

The government has been implementing various measures to improve the collection of GST (Goods and Services Tax). According to the latest data released by the Ministry of Finance, the GST collection has been consistently above ₹1 lakh crore for the past five months since October 2020.

The GST collection has been increasing steadily since the introduction of the tax in July 2017. The GST collection reached ₹1.18 lakh crore in October 2017, ₹1.54 lakh crore in November 2017, and ₹1.67 lakh crore in December 2017. The GST collection has been above ₹1 lakh crore for all months since July 2018.

The GST collection has been increasing due to various factors, including the introduction of new goods and services, the simplification of tax rates, and the implementation of tax incentives. The GST collection is an important indicator of the government’s ability to generate revenue and fund its expenditure.

Telecom sector headed for second round of consolidation: Report

The telecom sector is headed for a second round of consolidation, according to a report. The report states that the telecom sector is facing significant challenges, including intense competition, low margins, and high debt levels. The report recommends that the telecom companies merge or merge with other companies to improve their financial health.

The report notes that several telecom companies have already announced plans to merge or merge with other companies. The report states that the second round of consolidation is likely to be more significant than the first round, as the telecom companies are expected to merge with larger companies to improve their financial health.

The report recommends that the government should take steps to promote the second round of consolidation. The report states that the government should provide incentives to telecom companies that merge or merge with other companies, and should discourage the formation of new telecom companies.

The report notes that the second round of consolidation is likely to lead to a more competitive and efficient telecom sector. The report states that the second round of consolidation is likely to lead to lower prices for consumers, and to improved service quality.

China summons foreign diplomats in protest over sanctions

Beijing: on Tuesday, it summoned foreign diplomats in protest over sanctions the US imposed on over 300 Chinese individuals and entities. The US action is considered a “serious infringement” on Chinese sovereignty, the Chinese foreign ministry said.

The ministry said in a statement that the US moved against “the Chinese people” in an attempt to maintain its own “unilateral economic strength” and disrupt China’s economic development.

The US move came after the US Treasury Department last week added a number of Chinese officials and institutions to its sanctions list, citing their role in implementing the phishing over China’s Xinjiang region.

The ministry said China has the “genocide” of people of ethnic minorities. “The constant practice of so-called human rights organizations and some media outlets is a deliberate smear campaign against China,” it said. “These organizations and some media outlets are doing this with ulterior motives.”

The ministry also accused the US of attempting to “coerce China” into accepting its “unilateral standards” in a number of international issues.

It said China and the US had different views on the “nature and extent” of the US violations and that this was a “serious obstacle” to the development of their relationship.

The ministry also said the US had no right to make “unjustified” accusations against China and that it was “a serious infringement” on China’s sovereignty.

The ministry said it had strongly condemned the US sanctions and reiterated China’s commitment to the global commons and the rule of law.

The ministry said it had entered into a period of “friction” with the US and that it was willing to maintain high-level contacts and dialogue to resolve differences.

The ministry also said it was willing to cooperate with the US in lifting sanctions and that it was ready to conduct a “positive dialogue” with the US to resolve differences.

Collaborative learning is key

Edtech is going to play a pivotal role in solving several challenges for higher education institutes, says DR RL RAINA

The 2020 was one of the greatest years for the digital transformation and our learning ecosystem. The current COVID-19 pandemic has impacted the education sector worldwide. 2020 was the year of lockdowns, virtual education, and at times blended education (physical and online room). In an attempt to have an uninterrupted learning ecosystem, technology has played a crucial role. The main challenge is to provide an education ecosystem for students who wanted to continue their studies and not miss any teaching and learning content. As a result, we are seeing a lot of e-learning platforms and applications for students. Technology has impacted the education sector significantly. DREAM DEBUTS

Krunal scores fastest fifty by debutant while Prasidh takes four in maiden game to script India's 66 run win in 1st ODI

Earlier, Dhawan and Vani Karthik (4,50) shared 43 runs for the second wicket before Krishna (4/39) and Shannon Taylor (3/17) shared seven wickets between them to script a win.

The 20-year-old Krishna's figures were the best by an Indian debutante as England's innings ended at 231 in 46 overs.

It didn't start off well, and they came hard at us because we had bowled properly both in the morning, who had been following the track for a long time before making the squad. Considering the context of the situation, it was a com-memorable effort from the young guns.

The 17-year-old, who had opened the scoring for the Proteas in the opening T20I against India at JSCA on Sunday, had played the knock of the year by having her caught by Smriti Mandhana (48 not out) at long-off (35) and only the bowler could tell what was in store for them.

Shafali broke down before losing his wicket in the 25th over.
